Apartment House At
Beggs & Cobb Site?
Decision Is TonightSpecial Town Meeting Will Decide Land's Future Use, Only Option Is Changing Industrial To Business Zone

A Special Town Meeting called for tonight at 7:45 in the Memorial Auditorium of the High School by the Board of Selectmen will decide whether or not an apartment house development may be constructed at the former site of the Beggs & Cobb Tannery.

The two-article Warrant has, by action of the Monday night session of the regular Town Meeting which defeated the article calling for establishment of an Apartment House District, now been reduced to a single article proposition on whether or not the Town will change the site currently zoned as a Light Industrial District to a Business District—which would then allow the construction of apartment houses.

Article Two of the Warrant provided for the failure of the Town Meeting to create an Apartment House District by asking the Town to change the 11.28 acre Beggs & Cobb site to a Business District zone. Article One, which would have asked the Town to switch the area from Light Industry to a newly created Apartment House District if one had been established, now is a defunct article for consideration.

The land which will be the subject of debate tonight was formerly occupied by the Beggs & Cobb tannery. When the abandoned building was demolished in a holocaust in 1957, the land was purchased and the site left idle—it is still essentially as it was after the large fire consumed it, and is generally considered by most townspeople to be an unsightly blot in an otherwise attractive town.

The rights to purchase the Beggs land were acquired in the third week of February by John A. Wilson of 45 Hutchinson Road and owner of Wilson of Winchester Upholstering Company at 10 Park Street. In announcing his purchase of the property, Mr. Wilson said he desired to erect a top-grade, modern high - rise apartment with a minimum of five floors, red brick construction, and with beautiful gardens and landscaping of the whole area.

Federal Tax Bite Is
$9,651,000 Locally

Taxes are again in the spotlight in Winchester, with April 15th just around the corner.

Uncle Sam will have his hand out on that deadline day to receive income taxes based on 1963 earnings.

The tax cut that was voted recently will not come into play at this time. It will show up in the tax reports to be filed in 1965, and will reflect 1964 earnings.

Just how much will the local contribution add up to this year? The Government hopes that it will be more than it was last April, when personal and withholding taxes came to approximately $9,490,000.

That is the amount, in round numbers, that was turned in by local residents, as determined by the Treasury Department, and by local income reports.

They show that the amount collected in personal income taxes throughout the State of Massachusetts totaled $1,506,342,000 last year.

Some 0.63 per cent of it was paid by residents of Winchester. Since incomes were higher in 1963, in most parts of the nation, than they were in 1962, the expectation is that the tax collections will be greater this year than last, when they totaled $47.6 billion.

On the basis of preliminary reports giving personal income figures for Winchester in 1963, this year's individual tax payments locally will be close to $9,651,000, a rise of $161,000.

The national economy continues to move forward at a brisk pace. It is expected by the Administration to rise at an even faster clip during the rest of 1964. The extra push is to come from the cut in tax rates.

Despite the fact that the tax rates will be lower, the Government predicts that personal tax payments next year will be $1 billion higher. The reasoning—more people will be working and earnings will be greater.

According to the budget, personal income this year will total $492 billion, compared with $462 billion in 1963.

If incomes in Winchester move up in unison with this national expectation, they will have to rise 6.3 per cent over last year's.

$400,000 Borrowed
By Town on Short Term to Operate

The Town of Winchester borrowed $400,000 in short term notes in anticipation of revenue to maintain local government operating costs last week, according to Marguerite Troop, Town treasurer - collector.

Bids were opened at 10 a.m. on Monday, March 23, in the Treasurer's Office, and were awarded to the Winchester Trust Company ($200,000 at 1.708 per cent interest) and the National Shawmut Bank of Boston ($200,000 at 1.77 per cent interest). The notes are dated March 27, and will mature on November 2. The total interest charge will amount to $4,250.88.

There were a total of seven bids for the loan. Other bidders included the Winchester National Bank (1.78 per cent), First National Bank of Boston (1.81 per cent), State Street Bank & Trust Company (1.785), New England Merchants Bank (1.78) and the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company (1.78).

Get the Rummage
Out for Annual Rotary Auction

The date for one of the folkisest and most worthy events of the year in Winchester has been set for Saturday, April 25, according to Aram Mouradian, president of Winchester's Rotary service group.

The annual Rotary Auction, held in the Town Hall from 10 in the morning to 8 in the evening, is a day of fun, fellowship and real bargains for everyone who attends.

From now until then no trip to the basement or attic, or no critical look around the garage should be made without keeping Rotary in mind. Busy Rotarians have been collecting donations all during the year for the auction, but now the final push is on to obtain more auctionable items. They like it small, they like it big, they like it old, they like it new; but mostly they like it well worth someone else paying for it. (The only thing they do not want is old clothes). So give Rotary a call if you have what it takes (PA9-4108, anytime from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.), 'cause they'll take it, by truck or car at the giver's convenience.

What do they do with the money returns? Ask among other local recipients the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Winning Farm for children, the Winchester Hospital, the Scholarship Foundation, the Little League, the P.A.L., and the Babe Ruth League. And take a look at the re-beautified Winchester Common.

In the last three years over $8,000 has been handed out to these and other civic groups to help Winchester to be a better place to live.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Unitarian
Church April 3

Blood donors between the ages of 18 and 59 are asked to make every effort to donate at the second 1964 visit of the Bloodmobile in Winchester at the Unitarian Church from 1 to 7 p.m. on Friday, April 3.

The benefits of giving blood through the Winchester Chapter Bloodmobile visits are that the donor establishes his or her right to call upon the local chapter to furnish blood for himself and his immediate family at anytime without cost for a period of one year from the date of the donation.

Local Families
Survive Alaska's
Big Earthquake

Several Winchester families and individuals who were known to be in Alaska when the large earthquake at Anchorage occurred on Friday, March 27, at 5:37 p.m. (10:37 p.m. m., Winchester Time), caused a great deal of concern and worry for local friends and families hearing of the news of the spectacular yet fearful phenomenon which cost the lives of so many caught in the devastation.

As reports gradually trickled out from the quake area, local families and friends one by one were reassured of the safety of those they knew.

Police Sergeant and Mrs. William Callahan of 20 Kendall Street learned on Saturday afternoon that their son Robert and his wife Ann Marie and their six - month - old son Robert had escaped the effects of the upheaval without any injuries. Lt. Callahan was just entering his apartment at Richardson Army Base when the earth tremors began. All the fixtures and furniture in the apartment were tossed about, but the Callahans were able to get out safely. Lt. Callahan was then recalled to duty to assist during the aftermath of the quake. Lt. Callahan and his family have been stationed at Anchorage since last spring.

Ralph Hatch of the Winchester Savings Bank informed the press that his son, Staff Sergeant Donald K. Hatch, was stationed at Fire Island as officer in charge of a power house. The island, which is located three miles out in Anchorage Bay, reported some damage to facilities there but no official reports of casualties. Although neither the Hatches nor their daughter-in-law, Dolores, and their four children, who are living in North Hampton, New Hampshire, have received any official news, they are eagerly awaiting a report on the safety of personnel there or word from Donald. Staff Sergeant Hatch was assigned to Fire Island duty by the Air Force last September.

Mrs. A. W. Cross of 9 Winthrop Street reported to the Star on Tuesday that she had just received an air mail letter from her son, Robert W. Cross, who told her that

Town Meeting Defeats
Apartment House Zone;
Lack Of Safeguards Hit

In the fifth session of the annual Town Meeting for 1964 the Town (1) Voted to accept the report of the Insurance Committee and approved its recommendation to raise the amount of deductible on fire insurance coverage for Town-owned buildings from $100 to $1,000; (2) Voted to amend the Town's Building Laws to conform with modern construction practices; (3) Voted to defeat the article which would have amended the zoning by-laws to include the establishment of an Apartment House District; (4) Voted not to amend the composition of the Permanent Building Committee by increasing its size from five permanent members to fifteen; (5) Voted to reject an article designed to prevent the appointment of any elected Town official to any committee unless prior approval had been given by that official; (6) Voted to accept an article to petition the Legislature to provide that any elected officials, board, committee or commission members shall not retire until the dissolution of the annual Town Meeting; and (7) Reopened the Snow and Ice Budget to discuss the salt and sand program currently administered by the Highway Department, and voted to approve the full $128,000 requested in the original appropriation request.

Generally speaking, the Town Meeting voted on new expenditures at its fifth session. The appropriation for the Snow and Ice Budget was as originally requested in the first Town Meeting session, and was figured into the Finance Committee's tax rate estimates.

The Town Meeting saved money for the Town by approving the increase in deductible insurance to $1,000. If that deductible figure had been in force during 1963, the Town would have saved $2,560.

Executive Order
Calls Dept. Heads
To Town Meetings

In an unusual memo dated Monday, March 16, the Board of Selectmen... as the executive ruling body of the Town... issued an executive order requiring all department heads under its jurisdiction to be present at all Town Meetings to "advise and assist" in answering questions raised at the sessions.

The memo read: "It is the feeling of the Board of Selectmen and we have so ordered that all department heads under this board be present at all Town Meetings to advise and assist the Board of Selectmen in answering questions propounded by Town Meeting Members. In this way the business of the Town Meeting might be expedited."

The letter, signed by Shailer Avery, chairman of the board, came hard on the heels of the Monday night session (March 16) in which a dispute between the Selectmen and the Finance Committee over a $22,000 appropriation for a bulldozer in the Highway Department Budget nearly caused the Town Meeting session to come to a standstill on questions raised by Town Meeting Members. At that time Vincent Erhard demanded to know why the department heads were not in attendance at the meeting to answer questions which the Selectmen could not answer fully.

At the next session of the Town Meeting on Thursday, March 19, all the heads of departments were in attendance.

Woman Surprises
3 Housebreakers
Ransacking House

A Winchester woman surprised three housebreakers who were ransacking her mother's home while she was away last Friday when she drove into the driveway at 71 Swan Road and started to enter the home. Two of the housebreakers jumped out of a second story window and ran right by the startled woman, and a third, making noises inside the dwelling, caused the woman to flee to a neighbor's house to call police for help.

Miss Marylyn Goldthwait drove into her driveway at approximately 3:45 p.m. on Friday, March 27, and parked her car. She walked around to the rear of the house and started to unlock the back door. She later recounted the following chain of events to police:

"While attempting to open the door I heard two loud thumps to my right. I turned to see two young men or boys running towards me. They did not stop but just ran by me. I then started to open the door to call for police when I heard a noise in the house as if some other person was in the house. I then ran across the street to the home of a neighbor to call for help, but there was no one at home. I then went back to the house and listened for a sound, but hearing none I went inside and called police."

Officers Richard W. Beaton and Donald E. Pigott responded to the call in Patrol 51. Mrs. Thomas

March 30: Fifth Session
Effort To Cut Salt Fails, Snow & Ice Budget Passed

The fifth session of the annual Town Meeting was opened by Moderator Harrison Chadwick and a prayer was offered by Rev. Francis MacFarlane, chaplain of Marycliff Academy.

Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the Finance Committee announced that the new tax rate based on the current valuation of $55,800,000 was $80.30 (as opposed to the original estimate before the Town Meeting commenced of $79.80), and that figured on the new assessments set for 1964, the tax rate would be $53.45 on $83,700,000 valuation.

TOWN INSURANCE
Article Thirty-Two called for the Town to accept the report of the Insurance Committee and consider its recommendations. Selectman John Lyman told the Town Meeting that the town could realize considerable savings in its insurance premiums by raising the amount of deductible from $100 to $1,000. He noted that if the Town had had a $1,000 deductible in force during the years 1959 to 1963, the net savings to the Town would have been $12,810, or $2,560 each year.

Mr. Armstrong said the Finance Committee not only agreed with the recommendation of the committee, but urged continued study and possible later recommendations for increasing the deductible even further by making it $5,000.

The Town Meeting unanimously voted approval of the recommendation.

BUILDING LAWS
Article Thirty-Six called for the Town to amend the Building Laws substantially in technical and procedural ways. James B. L. Lane, of the Building Laws Committee, explained the changes in the code recommended. One Town Meeting Member asked why the article couldn't be worded so as to include any further changes in building practices approved by construction associations, but Vincent Clarke, town counsel, said such a wording would not carry legal authority to do that, that it would require Town Meeting action for each change.

The Town Meeting unanimously accepted the amendment.

APARTMENT HOUSE DISTRICT
Article Thirty-Seven called for the Town to amend the zoning by-laws so as to add a new zone to be called an Apartment House District.

Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, which sponsored the article, described a public hearing held on the article by the Planning Board on February 27, in which only 14 persons attended to make their views heard. He said that at that time several speakers requested that the Planning Board amend the article to restrict such an Apartment House District to only those areas that are now zoned for Light Industry, Industry, or Business.

Mr. Gray said the Planning Board felt there was a need for a limited number of apartment houses in Winchester. "We do have a need for about 400 units, both for young married couples and elder citizens," he said. He supported the amendment the board offered to limit such districts to what are now business or industrial zones. He noted that he was sorry to see that the article proposed by the Planning Board would inevitably become wedded to the Beggs and Cobb site, because he felt the article should be considered solely on its own merits. But, he added, the board put the amendment to the meeting because it felt the Beggs site plan could satisfy the needs of

TWO INJURED IN CAR CRASH. Two elderly residents were seriously injured last Friday afternoon when their 1964 Oldsmobile surged over a lawn and smashed into an ell section of a house at 113 Mount Vernon Street. Here Police Officer Robert Baird and Firefighter Robert Swyer are shown checking the car after the accident. No one in the home was injured, although the house was knocked loose on its foundation and a beam in the cellar was shattered.

For Sale: One School

Checks with the Planning Board, the Assessors and the real estate offices failed to substantiate the facts behind the price being quoted and the planned date of closing of St. Mary's School on Washington Street.

However, at 8:05 yesterday morning, two very young female businesswomen were observed affixing a large sign as big as or bigger than they, reading "For Sale" at the school.

In case you've forgotten, yesterday was April Fool's Day.

Much Ado About Suits from Shel

Inasmuch as we are not known as a store of continuous promotions and are known for running only two clearance sales a year, we must at this time break a precedent. Always searching for the best values at the fairest price has always been our goal. This season we were able to find what we believe is the outstanding companion suit line for our Hart Schaffner and Marx clothing. Impeccably tailored and magnificently styled, these new garments are priced at $75.00. However, to help you share our enthusiasm, we are offering for three days only, April 2, 3, 4, their tropical suits at $62.50, as an introduction. At the end of these three days, they will be returned to their original price. We feel this is a most wonderful offer at a time when tropical suitings are reaching their peak selling season. So men, take advantage of something that you need at a price that you must like and charge if you wish. There will be no extra charge for alterations, but a limit of about four to a customer. (That's probably all we have in your size.)

Unitarian Organ Survives Fire For Easter Services

It was a close race between organ repairmen and time to put the organ at the Winchester Unitarian Church back into working order after a fire came close to destroying it last Wednesday night.

At 10:30 that evening E. I. Gilman, of Brookline, organ builder and maintenance man, was checking over the console when, needing extra light, he pulled a goose-neck lamp close and it happened to touch the top bank of stops. The 1928 plastic material flamed immediately and travelled across and destroyed the whole bank.

Mr. Gilman and Willard Chandler, of Webster Street, who was there with him were both unfamiliar with the location of fire extinguishers in the church; they put out the fire with two buckets of water.

The following day the Austin Organ Company of Hartford, Connecticut, obtained the necessary new parts and sent a man up to Winchester to start repairs. By working through Friday and into Saturday the organ was able to be used for the extra rehearsals and double services under organist and choir director Mary Ranton Witham on Sunday.

Due to the fact that water entered the console, it appears that it may be necessary for the church to replace it in the near future.

WHS European Tour to Be Led By Mrs. Nichols

The Kirsten Travel Agency reports that the initial reservations for the European tour for the Winchester High School girls have been very promising and that further inquiries are continuing to come in daily. In an endeavor to present a most comprehensive and balanced picture of Europe — its peoples, geography, history, art and culture — the tour will visit a wide variety of places. The first country on its route is Holland, a surprisingly diversified little country, rich in history and tradition, a legendary land of windmills and wooden shoes. Traveling through its lovely countryside, one is constantly reminded of the centuries-old struggle its people have engaged in to keep the country from being swallowed back by the sea. The solution is an intricate net of scenic canals crisscrossing the countryside to check the tides and, though isolating one village from another, saving all from possible destruction.

MRS. STEPHEN NICHOLS

We then enter Germany and proceed by steamer up the Rhine, which flows between old castles and vineyards and past the famous rock where Lorelei, according to legend, lured sailors to their death. By nightfall we reach Heidelberg, the oldest University town in Germany and locale also remembered as the setting for the opera, "The Student Prince." The tour then leaves via the "Romantic Road" for Bavaria, across a wild landscape and a series of medieval villages. We visit Rothenburg, a walled town with its ancient towers and ramparts intact, and reach Munich, the capital of Bavaria and the center of Germany's artistic and intellectual life.

Our route then leads into Switzerland, but more about that in our next installment.

Town Meeting

noting that there probably should be 10 feet of setback for every 10 feet in elevation. He said there were no lot area safeguards, noting that the present formula used encourages going higher because smaller buildings must have greater lot area in proportion to elevation. He listed several surrounding towns and their zoning requirements for apartment zone safeguards, and compared them with the few and in some instances, lack of any safeguards in Winchester.

Mr. McGovern said he had checked Winchester against 15 other towns and found none of them to have apartment by-laws as loosely geared as in Winchester.

He pointed to paragraph D5 in the article's description which allows builders on lots abutting more than one street to include one-half of the street's area on frontage as part of the total lot area figure. "Mr. Millyan never would have made it without this paragraph," he said in referring to an appeal made in 1963 by Frank J. Millyan, Jr., to construct

He elaborated further on the lack of safeguards in the article by saying there was nothing in it about the per cent of ground to be allowed for building, noting that it is now fixed at 50 per cent.

Winchester has a 50-foot frontage requirement for apartments, he added, whereas Stoneham has 150-foot requirement and Needham has a flexible 25 to 200-foot scale.

Mr. McGovern concluded by saying he would like to see an apartment house district passed, but strongly urged defeat of the article as presented to the Town Meeting. He suggested its being rewritten to have "provisions with teeth in it."

Mr. Gray then told the Town Meeting that "practically all he says is true, but they are criticisms of the total town by-laws structure." He said it would take almost a whole year to redo the entire by-laws, and that they should be done over.

Visibly perturbed, but still speaking in his direct way, Mr. Gray again referred to the previous speaker, saying pointedly, "He has made a number of very interesting points never mentioned before, either at the public hearing or before or after."

Speaking with deliberation, Mr. Gray concluded with the statement: "I do think that in Winchester the various town departments and boards should be on speaking terms."

Arthur Hewis took the floor and said he did not see how aged residents of Winchester could afford to pay $250 a month for modern apartments, which he felt would have to be the rental fee to make them pay. And, he questioned, how many young people would be able to spend $2500 a year for an apartment at that rate.

"They're going to broaden the tax structure with these apartments," he charged.

"If this article is accepted," he said, "Precinct One will be the target of real estate developers." He then listed off several previous attempts by various individuals and groups to get certain areas rezoned for apartments to remind the Town Meeting Members of past bitter squabbles.

"I don't want to see high rise apartment houses in Winchester," he concluded.

Mr. Armstrong said the Finance Committee was sort of split over the article, but generally favored it. He observed that the plan for the Beggs land would remove a blight now scarring the town, and said the article would allow the Town Meeting to pick and choose where any such Apartment House District would be located.

Mr. Stockwell suggested tabling the article until prior to the Special Town Meeting on Thursday, in which time he thought the Planning Board and Board of Appeal might be able to work out safeguard provisions acceptable to the Town Meeting.

Mr. Gray said it was not possible to work out difficult and complex technical ingredients in such a short time. He also doubted whether the article as presented could be enlarged upon without another special public hearing and Warrant mailing to inform the citizenry of the changes. Mr. Clarke said as town counsel that Mr. Gray was correct on this, that the article could be cut down but not increased in scope without another Town Meeting on it.

On the vote to table the article for a later time, the motion was defeated.

On the vote for the article as presented to establish Apartment House Districts in Winchester, the article was defeated by a 136 majority against, with 47 voting for it. A two-thirds majority affirmative vote would have been required for the rezoning article to be passed.

ARTICLE THIRTY-EIGHT
Article Thirty-Eight called for the Town to amend the composition of the Permanent Building Committee by eliminating the requirement that the Town Engineer should serve as secretary of the committee. The Town Meeting voted favorable action on the article.

BUILDING COMMITTEE
Article Thirty-Nine called for the Town to amend the composition of the Permanent Building Committee by increasing its permanent membership from five to fifteen.

Arthur Schmidt, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, described the structure of the committee's permanent and temporary memberships. He explained why the committee requested an increase in its size, saying that with the multiplicity of building projects in the next few years, the committee would need more permanent members with experience to handle them with five temporary members appointed for each individual project.

Austin Broadhurst raised a point of order whether or not the article was in order, but Mr. Chadwick said the point of order was not well taken.

Earle F. Littleton said that as originator of the idea to increase the committee's permanent membership, the proposal as read with a complex formula for maintaining political voting power with the permanent members over the temporary members was entirely foreign to him and was not even what he considered essential to the important aspects of his idea.

Mr. Littleton said he had conceived of a fifteen member committee composed entirely of professionals—such as with a contractor, an electrical engineer, a mechanical engineer, a structural engineer, etc.—"in other words, a committee of specialists to go over all plans with a fine-tooth comb," he said.

To document the validity and soundness of his idea, Mr. Littleton noted that in the construction of several public buildings the Town has suffered from the lack of having such a technically equipped committee, as in the Washington School with its piping problems, the Parkhurst School, the Vinson-Owen School with its heating problems just recently resolved, and the High School with its minor fire flareups.

"As the motion is worded," he said, "it is political for vote structure, when this should be a committee of experts." He finished saying he believed the Town should start getting "a dollar's worth of structure for a dollar spent."

Mr. Broadhurst said that he saw "seeds of benefit in this motion, but also the seeds of disadvantage."

Mr. Bigelow noted in an analogy that he had served on a building committee that went from five to seven to nine members, and that he was of the opinion that his committee functioned with more enthusiasm and efficiency with five members than with nine. He added that whereas he had come to the meeting prepared to vote in favor of the article, he had changed his mind during the discussion and was going to vote against it.

The Town Meeting voted to defeat the article to increase the Permanent Building Committee from five to fifteen members.

ARTICLE FORTY
Article Forty called for the Town to prevent the appointment of any elected Town official to any town committee unless prior approval had been given by the official.

Mr. Gray pointed out that during the last year representatives from the Planning Board had been asked to sit on about ten different study committees and groups. "This amounts to an overload of work on men who are already devoting a lot of time to public service," he said.

Mr. Broadhurst asked if this article didn't "bind future Town Meetings," and therefore be an illegal by-law.

Mr. Murphy asked if the term "elected officials" included Town Meeting Members who are elected to office, and if that were so, would they require Town Meeting approval.

Arthur Hewis said he thought the motion ought to be thrown out. He added it was his opinion that the Town administration controls committees be these people that are put on them anyway.

The Town Meeting voted to defeat the article.

ARTICLE FORTY-ONE
Article Forty-One called for the Town to request the Legislature provide that any elected officer, board, committee or commission member should not commence his tenure, and retiring members should not retire until the dissolution of the annual Town Meeting.

Mr. Avery said the article was similar to one passed a few years back to provide for the changing of the guard of the Finance Committee and the Board of Selectmen without doing it in the middle of a Town Meeting.

SNOW AND ICE BUDGET

Walter J. Farrell, Jr., and Richard W. Freeman, Jr., moved that the Snow & Ice Budget be removed from the table and opened for discussion and voting. It was the only remaining budget appropriation bill under Article Nine left unresolved.

Mr. Farrell made a motion that "no chemicals are to be used on our highways for snow and ice removal."

Mr. Avery questioned the propriety of the motion, saying that the Town Meeting's consideration of item 5100 is a matter of money and not administration of the budget—which is up to the department head. He also wondered how the Town Meeting could vote on both the motion and the amendment with 80 per cent of the Snow and Ice Budget already spent on recent snowstorms.

Mr. Armstrong reviewed the cost factors involved in switching from salt spreading to only sand spreading, saying it would cost $28,000 to modify the spreaders, take twice as long to do the job, take $10,000 in rental equipment to cover the Town, would require another $8,500, and other machinery at $8,500, and other machinery at $6,500. "Not to mention highway safety," he said, "which wouldn't be as great." He figured the present budget would have to be amended to include another $28,000, with another $25,000 for several years.

Mr. McGrath said "I believe when we discussed this before we regretted the lack of the Town Engineer's presence on this. May we hear from him?"

James A. Wakefield, Jr., town engineer, said uses and problems of salt were not new to him, either in the capacity as Town Engineer or Tree Warden. "But to date," he stated, "neither federal, state or university agricultural officials are convinced that (banning) salt is the solution to the dying maple trees." He further pointed out from his experience that "having sanded streets for a number of years without salt, I know how important salt is to highway safety."

Mr. Freeman said he didn't say salt was necessarily the killer (of the maples) but that it was his opinion that salt was a contributing factor. He used as sources of information the Ford Motor Company, the AAA, the University of Illinois and the Calcium Institute.

He questioned how many other communities spread pure salt as he claimed Winchester does. "It is a question of excess salting," he said.

Mr. Freeman said he thought the cost of purchasing a new spreader and modifying the spreaders might be incidental to the cost of fixing damaged roads and cars rutted out by the action of salt.

A man who identified himself as an employee of the International Salt Company told the Town Meeting some facts about salting programs. He noted a newspaper article clipped from the Haverhill Gazette which claimed it wasn't the salt, but a series of three serious droughts in six years that may have altered the water table in certain areas that was killing the maples.

He said that salting programs were first started in the 1930's, and that as time goes on, more and more cities and towns are using it extensively. He stated the following fact as a statistic: "No town, city, county, or state in the snow belt has stopped using salt once it has started."

He carried his point of view a little further: "Consider the consequences of stopping salting: the spring clean-up wouldn't be able to start until later in the spring, the Fire and Police Departments would have greater difficulty in going places on emergencies, school children would be less safe in going to and from school, the passages to the Winchester Hospital that are now kept open and safe might become obstructed or impassable, and housewives would have more trouble shopping—and with less safety." He also noted that for some areas, the only method of clearing them is with chemical treatment.

Mr. Freeman, in rebuttal to the previous speaker's comments, said he wouldn't quote from newspapers because of the "question of their credibility." A minute later he sought to background and validate a statement he was making about salt, and said "I quote from the Boston Herald, dated 1/21/64. When the laughter died down the Town Meeting turned to voting on the issue."

On the motion to amend, the Town Meeting rejected the proposal to eliminate chemical treatment from the Snow and Ice Budget.

On the budget itself, the Town Meeting approved the appropriation request as submitted.

ADJOURNMENT
The Town Meeting adjourned until Thursday night, immediately following the Special Town Meeting to take up the remaining ten articles on the Warrant.

En Ka Notes

Again this year some 65 lovely Easter plants were delivered by En Ka Civic Committee members to the ladies of the Home for the Aged, patients visited by the Visiting Nursing Association during the Easter season and to Winchester welfare recipients in nursing homes.

This was announced at the regular executive board meeting of En Ka Society last week led by the president, Mrs. Philip Wadsworth. The finance committee reported that En Ka donated the sum of $2,000 to the Scholarship Foundation; $150 to the Red Cross Award Banquet, and $150 to the C.A.P. League.

Plans for the 1964 En Ka Country Fair on May 22 and 23 are well underway, which is under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Kimball. A large tent will be used this year, colorfully fixed up as a typical country store.

Coming En Ka dates are the March 31st meeting, April 9th Provisional Tea and June 16th Annual Meeting.

Community School Votes Gift to The Scholarship Fund

The Community School Association was able last week to vote a very substantial gift to the Winchester Scholarship Association due to the overwhelming success of its one annual benefit, this year the presentation of "Alice in Wonderland." Report of the success of the benefit and vote of the gift took place at an executive board meeting at the home of Mrs. Roland Hanson, 27 Prince Avenue, on Monday morning, March 30.

Plans were also made at the meeting for the annual meeting of the Community School Association to be held on Tuesday evening, May 12 at 7:45 p.m. at the Lincoln School.

Alaska Earthquake Offering at The Methodist Church

The pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, has announced that a special offering will be received next Sunday, April 5, for the victims of the Alaska earthquake and the resultant tidal waves.

The Methodist Church work in Alaska is extensive with many churches of that denomination as well as the Alaska Methodist University.

The money received will be administered through the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, a permanent organization that carries on relief work in all parts of the world where there is need. The entire fund raised will go to work of relief and will be administered by an experienced organization without undue overhead.

A mailing has gone to the entire parish with envelopes enclosed so that contributions may be sent in. Any who wish may donate. All contributions should be sent to the pastor with designation clearly marked for "Alaska Earthquake Fund."

2 Boys Damaging Noonan to Appear In Woburn Court

Two fifteen-year-old youths who broke into and damaged the Noonan School on Monday, March 23, at about 5:30 p.m., breaking glass in the skylight and about eight other windows in the school, are scheduled to appear in Woburn District Court, Juvenile Sessions, according to Winchester Juvenile Officer William Nash. Officer Nash stated the court action is in line with the policy established by Chief Joseph Derr, who said last spring any juvenile delinquents apprehended for malicious destruction of public property would appear in court.

Harassed Hostess Gets Helping Hand

The harassed host, or hostess, is the target of a new product currently being stocked by liquor stores in the metropolitan area. It's the old Mr. Boston Cocktail Mix, in nine different versions, and it's geared to please those who love to entertain but could live without the cocktail preparing it calls for. The mixes guarantee no squeez-lemons or limes, no hitters, no tricky measuring, no mess and, most important, no mistakes. Each insures a taste-tested drink; you merely add the liquor, and there's even a one-ounce gold foil measuring cap on each Cocktail Mix bottle to insure exact proportions.

The Old Mr. Boston mixes are available for martinis, gimlets, old-fashioneds, manhattans, side cars, tom collinses, whiskey sours, daiquiris and quinine mix. Each bottle is a full pint and is available only in liquor stores.

Apartment House District: Town-wide Lack Of Cooperative Thinking

The Planning Board's article in the Warrant calling for the establishment of an Apartment House District to go along with other zoning categories in the Town (General Residence District, Single Residence District, Light Industry District, Industrial District, Business District, and Limited Business District—for which no area has been zoned so far) would have enlarged the scope of the Town's capacity to grow by providing the means leading to the development of accommodations for elder and young married citizens.

The article was, unfortunately, defeated. However, it is important to note that it appeared that the Town Meeting was very reluctant to vote negatively on the article, and would have favored it if it had not been shown that technical provisions for spelled out safeguards beyond present zoning-building-by-laws were not included in the written composition of the article. And, the general reaction around town indicated that the people of Winchester were very surprised and disappointed that the Apartment House District was not accepted—for they knew that several good apartment developments would provide needed housing for good citizens who might otherwise move out of town as well as bring in some new residents, would help alleviate the tax burden, and would turn to good use some lands now lying idle—such as the grossly poor looking Beggs & Cobb area.

At first, it might appear that the small but vociferous group of die-hard apartment haters who are unable to see beyond twenty-five-year-old arguments against apartments in residential communities (and which have since become out of date) and old bitter battles over apartments for certain sites that didn't meet with their approval may have turned the majority against its own will. But, fortunately, that was not really the case, and any victory they count for winning at the Town Meeting would be fallaciously founded reasoning.

The Town Meeting vote was as it should have been under the circumstances. Most Town Meeting Members were prepared to adopt an Apartment House District as something that the Planning Board felt, and wisely so, was needed at this time. Since it wasn't wedded directly to any particular map change, this helped delete any emotionalism over the adequacy of any site or area for apartments. However, during the meeting, the chairman of the Board of Appeal pointed out where the article lacked adequate and appropriate safeguards for the community. For this reason, and this reason only, the Town Meeting Members felt obligated and responsible for voting against a measure they would have liked to have seen passed.

Beggs & Cobb Site: An Important Decision For Winchester

Tonight the Special Town Meeting will decide whether the old Beggs & Cobb property can be turned into a usable site for an apartment house development by changing it from a Light Industry District to a permissive Business District zone, or whether it shall sit there for "X" more years as it has for the past five as the ugliest spot in town waiting for some industry to come in and buy it.

The needs for such an apartment house development for Winchester have been thoroughly argued so that most are both familiar and in agreement on that score. But let's turn the coin a bit and look at another aspect. The asking price for the 11.28 acres was $360,000. Several industrial representatives were out a few years back to see it, but all declined to buy. Why didn't they buy it? They are probably many reasons, but one would be that the price was too high.

The price was too high for industrial development because most industries today build more horizontally than vertically, they like a lot of land at a cheap price so they can spread out and have plenty of room in a single or two-story structure. The old Beggs & Cobb building was put up at a time when industrialists preferred to build vertically. These days an industry would have to be willing to put up a much higher structure than the old tannery was to even begin to

The question now arises on why and how the article was shot down as it was. One man alone destroyed the article, but in doing so he probably performed a great service to the town in making sure it wasn't passed without necessary protective provisions. Further, the chairman of the Board of Appeal very likely led the way by defeating this article for a complete overhauling of the Town's zoning by-law with his criticisms of the inadequacy of setback, lot area, height and other formulas now on the books.

How the article was shot down was what angered and mystified the Planning Board. Why the specific timing of gunning it at the Town Meeting when the board held a public hearing on the article on February 27 to obtain just such criticisms if any were to be offered so it would have time to correct any flaws or inadequacies before the Town Meeting? As the chairman of the Planning Board said: "A number of very interesting points were made which have never been mentioned before, either at the hearing or before or after."

The Planning Board chairman noted that the criticisms by the Board of Appeal were more a general criticism of the total Town by-law structure (which would include the Apartment House District article if it were passed) than an argument against this particular article. The Board of Appeal chairman had begun his indictment by saying that he favored the creation of an Apartment House District, but no safeguard provisions were included.

And then the Planning Board chairman levelled a very meaningful indictment: saying "I do believe that in Winchester the various town departments and boards should be on speaking terms." Actually, his comment carried much further than the immediacy of the particular argument. He was speaking with some knowledge about town affairs, and the Star corroborates his statement, for this is all too true.

Town departments and boards may have their out with one another, and that is as much a part of government as it is with family living, but when it is injurious and deleterious to the smooth operating efficiency of the government's machinery, and when it has adverse effects on the community as a whole, it should have no place in Winchester. Why should individual or departmental or board sentiments get in the way of making Winchester more and more a better place to live?

We would hope that the Planning Board and the Board of Appeal could get together during this next year and revise the by-laws where they need attention, and next year return with a joint article that will fit the bill for the creation of the Apartment House District that Winchester needs so badly.

The debate tonight over the rezoning of the Beggs site will be purely and simply an argument between obstructionists and progressives. The obstructionists will fight on old worn out and since disproven arguments and will raise emotional sidetracks such as "the rest of the town wants to pick on Precinct Six by putting an apartment up there out of the way of the rest of the town." The progressive thinkers will fight on the grounds that an apartment house development at the Beggs site will improve that unsightly property and generally serve to raise the appearance and value of surrounding properties as well as be a boon to the entire town by providing additional accommodations for elderly and young married couples and help the tax situation.

It has taken many years for the town to come around to this generally favorable attitude toward apartment houses as a benefit to the community; and it would seem likely, from what was said at the last session of the Town Meeting and from comments heard around town, that this is the year the breakthrough will come by approval of an apartment development for the Beggs land. It would certainly be a desirable asset to the community.

Town Meeting Commentary

The Town Meeting Members are now satisfied that important questions on town budgets and administration can be answered fully when raised. Almost without exception all department heads are now in attendance to elaborate on technical questions posed at the meetings which are beyond the at-hand knowledge of either the Board of Selectmen or Finance Committee. On Monday night, for instance, when several Town Meeting Members wanted to slice many thousands of dollars from the Snow and Ice Budget to prevent chemical salt treatment to "protect" trees, the Town Engineer was there to discount the evidence amassed by the objectors by saying there was no conclusive proof yet that salt was injuring maples. By being there and speaking for his budget, the Town Engineer was able to keep the money for salting in his budget, and prevented there being any need for a Special Town Meeting later next winter—as in the fiasco last spring over the Incinerator Budget.

Tonight the Town Meeting may decide whether or not to construct a west side branch fire station at a tremendous capital outlay and continuing operating costs. The battle will be between hard hit taxpayers fed up with the prospect of very high tax rates this year and for several more, and a small but well-organized group from the single precinct that would in any way benefit from it.

Two interesting questions arise: (1) Has it yet been determined that the Arlington firefighters who come into Winchester right near where the new Fire House would be proposed on alarms under the mutual aid plan could not perform the same service of protection at no cost to the Town? (2) The running time in bad weather has been used as an important argument by the plaintiffs, so has it been determined whether fire engines in a dash could safely barrel down High Street or Swan Road or other steep streets to get to homes any faster than engines can with greater control fly up High Street (etc.) with the streets kept clear by the Highway Department's salting program?

APARTMENT HOUSE DISTRICT FAILS TO PASS. Article Thirty-Seven called for an amendment to the zoning by-laws to establish a new Apartment House District zone. The Planning Board, which sponsored the article, moved to amend that by restricting it to areas currently zoned for business, industrial or light industrial uses in an effort to allay general residence district fears that high-rise apartments might be put in residential zones. Some argument prevailed between die-hard apartment haters and progressive supporters, with the representatives seesawing over the side issue of an obvious wish to create such a district for the Beggs and Cobb site. Final defeat for the article came when the Board of Appeal informed the Town Meeting that the article as written provided no adequate safeguards for such usual by-law ingredients as setback, lot area relative to the number of stories, parking area, and others. The meeting voted 136 to 47 against the articles for these reasons—somewhat reluctantly.

Like Driving A Four-Wheel Porpoise

(Special to the Star)

by Philip C. Wallwork
Automobile Legal Association

Crossing Chesapeake Bay on the new, $200 million bridge and tunnel complex is like riding a four-wheel porpoise. It starts off like any self-respecting bridge but soon sinks below the waves through a mile-long tunnel, rises again for another bridge; then back again for another mile or so before the final huge bridge and trestle.

This, in capsule, is the up-and-down roadway of the world's longest over-water highway crossing at 17.6 miles; only three miles shorter than the proposed tunnel crossing of the English Channel.

Tourists to Florida are well acquainted with this section of Chesapeake Bay as the current ferry crossing stood like a barrier to an otherwise pleasant drive along the Ocean Highway to the Sunshine State. As a result, motorists usually avoided this route which frequently saw long delays at the ferry slips during rush seasons. The opening of the bridge and tunnel complex, scheduled for April 15th, will not only herald a new era of tourist business along the whole east coast but is expected to witness a large growth in industrial effort along the Atlantic from Delaware to Florida.

As you head south on the first long trestle you'll probably be shocked to be driving on a collision course with the aircraft carrier Enterprise or some other vessel of the U. S. fleet. When you head down into the tunnel beneath the ship channel a series of sun baffles above will cut the glare for the darker tunnel. Eye adjustments aren't radical as the lights in the tunnel are automatically regulated by the brightness outside which is a vast improvement over other such structures around the country.

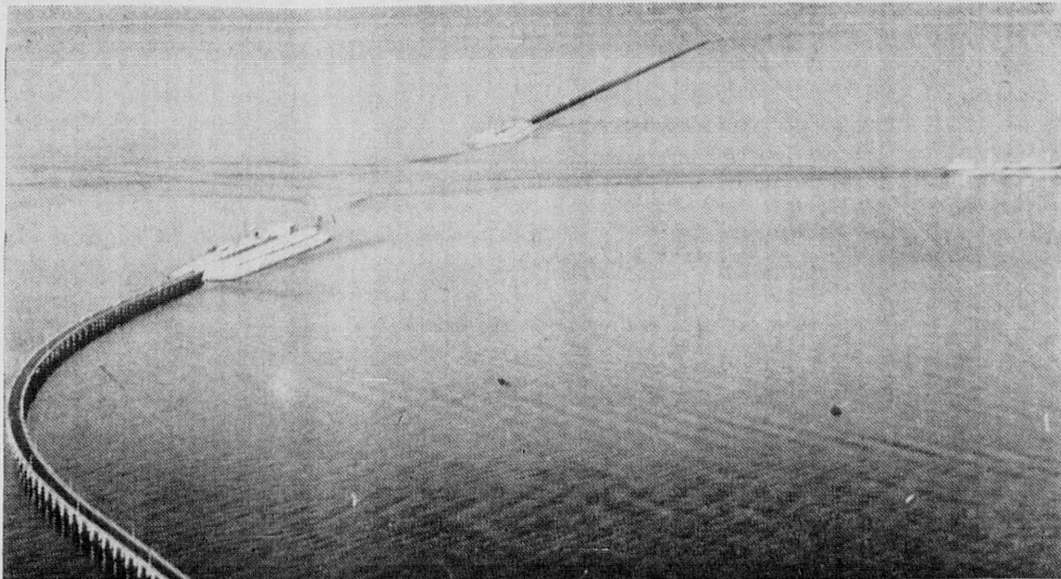

The Chesapeake Bay Ferry Commission was authorized, in March, 1956, by the General Assembly of Virginia to construct and operate a bridge-tunnel across the Bay to replace the existing ferry service. It was financed by a $200,000,000 bond issue to be payable solely from tolls. One long tunnel was first proposed but was too expensive. The U. S. Navy objected to one long bridge as it would block its naval base in case of attack. The compromise of three bridges and two tunnels under shipping channels was made and construction was completed in a little over three years.

For the tunnels, four islands were made in the middle of the Bay as terminal points. Trenches were dredged between them and the precast tunnel sections sunk. Divers then joined the sections. Monitor and the Merrimac fought the first iron-clad duel during the Civil War just off Hampton Roads and the ill-fated Jamestown fleet anchored off Old Point Comfort in 1607. Virginia Beach, one of the best along the entire Atlantic coast, is only a few miles east of the new bridge's southern end.

What results the bridge-tunnel will have on the general economy of the lower Chesapeake Bay area and the entire Atlantic coast is guesswork right now although the guesses are all optimistic. One thing it will do is bring millions of tourists to the area to gaze at what certainly is one of the seven wonders of the highway world.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW of a section of the new 17.6-mile Chesapeake Bay bridge and tunnel complex linking the Delmarva peninsula and Virginia eastern shore. The $200 million complex, scheduled to open April 15, will replace a ferry system. The roadway is only three miles shorter than the proposed English Channel tunnel. First travel official through the Chesapeake Bay bridge and tunnel complex was ALA's Philip C. Wallwork (at right in top photo) of 7 Jefferson Road, who inspected the facility with the Tunnel Authority's Ed Joyner prior to its opening. The huge project will change travel patterns between north and south Atlantic seaboard states.

I, JOHN MORDAUNT

by Virgil Scott

ROGUE'S HARBOR

by Inglis Fletcher

For historical fiction fans two novels have recently been published which are worthy of note. Though their action transpires at roughly the same time, the second half of the 17th century, their settings are on different sides of the Atlantic.

"I, John Mordaunt," by Virgil Scott, presents a portion of the life of an actual historical personage of the same name who was an active Royalist conspirator during the Commonwealth. We trace his early involvement in plots to restore Charles, his tangles with Cromwell, life in Newgate, transportation abroad, and eventual return to England to become one of Charles's right-hand men. Mr. Scott has spent five years in historical research, examining journals of the time and transcripts of Mordaunt's trial, and has with but few exceptions, which are noted, closely followed the outline of Mordaunt's life. The result is a first-rate historical novel. It reminds one of the work of Kenneth Roberts both in its historical accuracy and vitality. I hope we will not have to wait another five years for Scott's next novel.

The second work is by the veteran historical novelist, Inglis Fletcher. "Rogue's Harbor" is the 12th novel in Mrs. Fletcher's "Carolina Series." She centers her action around the early Carolina colonists' bloodless rebellion in 1677 against the Lords Proprietors and against their agent in the New World, Deputy Governor Thomas Miller. Mrs. Fletcher gives equal, if not actually more, attention, however, to the personal lives of the members of one particular family involved in the rebellion, the Willoughbys. Indeed, the romance between Judith Willoughby and Patrick Buchanan threatens to become more important than the rebellion itself. All the elements of a good swashbuckling adventure story, including a kidnapping by pirates and an elopement, are here. But I feel that the reliance upon stock characters and situations and frequently forced conversations conspire to keep this from being one of her better productions.

Letters To The Editor

Citizen Critical On Observing Tax, Personnel Study

Editor of the Star:

Recently, I gathered from the "Star" that there was considerable town-wide unhappiness over the anticipated increase in the tax rate of at least 13 per cent. Apparently, this discontent did not carry over into Town Meeting as we seem to be zipping towards an ever greater percentage of tax increase.

The donnybrook introduced by the Personnel Board intrigued me as it always does. The arguments on the floor swirled around the magic list of 15 towns with which we compare salary structures. At one time I tried to cast doubt on the soundness of this base, and asked the Board for a reasoned explanation for selecting this inflexible and curiously dissimilar group for comparison. I was told that somewhere in the past the Board asked the then current Finance Committee if it thought the selection was a good one and the Committee said yes. I am still looking for a reasoned explanation.

The Personnel Board roster keeps changing, as most unfortunately does that of the other principal important boards. It is only natural that those responsible should be a bit unsure and it is all too easy to cling to the established procedure. In the past, I know that doubts assailed some members of the Board, but not until this year did the majority take the bull by the horns, and decide to make a move. I applaud the effort.

What is the new standard to be? I may be naive, but I prefer to make comparisons with job opportunities in the business world of Metropolitan Boston. Towns, too, are just business operations, but they often go to extremes to disprove it. I think it possible to equate all of the jobs, including those of the School Administrative staff, which, unlike many towns, is not allowed to be analyzed with the others.

I regret that the Board is not willing to continue thinking constructively on its own. I was quite as critical as the others that selective increases were offered at this time. If we need a $5000 study—the standard palliative in Winchester—then we should have waited to make sure that these corrections do not themselves need correcting.

Knowing how we operate in Winchester, I am sure my guess is not too far astray that the expert had already been chosen, that advice had already been given on a contingent basis, and the special raises are all going to be found in perfect order. Had these certain preferential raises not been championed, it is quite possible that a general increase would not have been voted—other than for the protective forces. As I recall, every year our employees have been granted increases far exceeding the changes in the cost of living index. This year we will have a built-in increase due to the tax cut—that painless primrose path to prosperity. In addition, the cost of living index has again jumped the items in its formula so that the rise in its index will henceforth be more speedy than the old one.

What will the $5000 expert do? Since our magic formula of a 15 town comparison is no longer valid, it makes suspect all towns having Personnel Boards for they are all imbued with the same rigid thinking. I am resigned to the fact that a municipal expert will draft his new standards based on Town salary scales rather than those of business which is our true competition.

It is ironic that our expert must turn to a study of the majority of the towns—those that are so badly handicapped and not progressive enough to have a Personnel Board. He would find that this responsibility rests with the administration where it belongs—with the Selectmen. He would also find that—unlike Winchester—practically all of the selectmen will have been in office more than one term—that they were thereby experienced on the job—and that they would already have adjusted salaries into realistic alignment and without a lot of uproar. They take in stride what is in Winchester a monumental study—and it is done effectively.

The larger towns at least are likely already to be equated to industry standards. I surmise therefore that when we get through we will, if logical, end up by doing the same thing which is the principle I have always advocated.

What area do we explore? In previous years, I have for my own benefit sent questionnaires to the approximately 50 towns in Massachusetts of over 15,000 population. I wished to secure statistics that could help me to discover what could be done to strengthen the weaknesses in Winchester operations that were the basic causes of so many referenda. I know the answers but not too many people in Winchester care. I think this group of towns would be adequate for the survey.

At the cost of $5.00 postage, plus stationery and some clerical help, a carefully prepared questionnaire sent out under a town official's signature would gather most of the basic material needed. A great deal of pertinent information for years prior to 1963 is also available through the Selectmen's Association and that of Finance Committees. Since reliance on statistics interpreted by the Association of Personnel Boards has proven too rigid and gotten us into trouble, I do not have too much faith in it for this study. There would still be about $4900 left for telephone calls, some trips to specific towns for additional data and expertise interpretation of the results. I guess it's the usual bargain. If the analysis is so technical, how can we hope to avoid continued use of the experts?

When is the report to be unveiled? It is to be sent only to Town Meeting members? Apparently the rest of us don't need to know or value a $5000 expenditure, and therefore it is not necessary to provide the time and a way for us to make our opinions known to our representatives.

I sincerely hope that the example of the By-Law Committee will not be repeated. More than one of us will be unhappy if the result of this study shows up first in the form of specific recommendations in the annual warrant, without previous discussion or debate in the "Star" nor even a public hearing. May we hope that the results will be released even to us commoners by January 1, 1965?

I believe that if our most realistic data comes from towns without Personnel Boards, the study should consider the advisability of abolishing ours. Is it necessary or desirable? I do not know, but it should be part of the study. (Does anyone think it will?) I regret that I was not in town to present my viewpoints when this article was on the floor for discussion. My kind of thinking seldom influences votes, but I sometimes have a little different perspective that is occasionally food for thought.

A Boy & His Dog; An Accident, And No Promised Aid

Editor of the Star:

On Tuesday afternoon, March 17, my son, who is in the fifth grade at the George Washington School, was on his way back to school after lunch. It was a stormy day with very poor visibility. His dog, Jeff, was following the children and dashed out between two parked cars on the right hand side of the road.

A car driven by a responsible adult, not a teenager, hit the dog, Jeff limped to the sidewalk and fell down. The man stopped his car and came up to the boy and dog, examined the dog and then told Doug that he was going up to the hospital and would be right back with a maintenance car to pick up the dog and take care of him.

Doug waited for one hour in the snow with his injured dog. No man, finally, crying like his heart would break, came home and told his mother his sad story. I then went out with a warm jacket to wrap around the dog, and waited fifteen more minutes for this so-called MAN. We decided we had better get him home so we put him in a cart, dragged him home and a good neighbor took him into the Angell Memorial Hospital.

The dog has been a wonderful pet to our family for the past ten years so his age was against his recovering. The next morning the hospital called and told us Jeff had died in the night.

I do not blame this man for hitting the dog, but I do hold it against him for lying to my son. Doug told this man his name and address—which by the way was near the scene of the accident. Up to the present time this person has not in any way tried to contact us.

If we as adults don't live up to our word with children what can we expect of our children when they reach maturity?

I hope this man reads this and realizes how he has disillusioned a small boy.

Remember—"As we sow so shall we reap."

Sincerely,

Elizabeth P. Gardner

Appreciation Of Hockey Support And Coverage

Editor of the Star:

I wish to thank WHIL of Medford for bringing us the play by play account of the Winchester high hockey games from Lynn this past season. Sports announcer Al Festa did an outstanding job of reporting these games. I am also most grateful for the beautiful trophy they awarded my son.

Thanks go also to the local sponsors who made these broadcasts possible and for their interest in our boys.

I would also like to thank Dr. and Mrs. William Barone for their personal recognition of the Middlesex League Championship team in which they tendered the boys a banquet.

Many thanks to Frank Procopio for the best hockey coverage we ever had.

No game at Lynn would have been complete without the inspirational encouragement of Buddy Rotondi and his friends urging the boys on.

Yours truly,

Mrs. George Murphy

Election Process Stirs Thought On Filling Vacancies

Editor of the Star:

At the annual town election each precinct elects eleven town meeting members who serve three year terms. Vacancies resulting from unexpired terms are filled by the electorate at the first annual election following the vacancy.

Now, this causes me to ask the following question: "How, then, are vacancies filled which occur right after an election, during the annual town meeting when it is imperative that all seats be filled?"

Is there a rule governing this, and if so, do all precincts adhere strictly to procedure, or does the rule vary in each precinct?

I personally have discussed this with many town meeting members who have disclosed that vacancies of this nature are filled through a special election held by the members themselves.

Within two weeks of the March 2 election, a vacancy did occur. The town meeting members, in the precinct, met and elected a new member to fill this vacancy. The person they elected had not even run on the ballot.

Is it not common sense that the person having the next highest vote in the town election be the most logical person to fill this vacancy, or is it the practice in other towns to appoint someone who never even indicated to the voters any interest whatsoever in taking part in the town government?

If the latter is practiced, it is evident that the voters must call for one rule to apply in every case of this nature, for the protection and preservation of their rights as voters.

Very sincerely yours,
Theresa A. Sullivan

Sawmill Brook Rd. Vote, Problem Is Discussed Anew

Editor of the Star:

Article thirteen has been defeated. The circumstances relative to this article and the atmosphere created by the donor and several Town Meeting Members precluded an affirmative vote. The writer feels the Town Meeting used good judgment in their vote. However, the Sawmill Brook Road problem has not been resolved.

Who was hurt in the defeat of this article? Mr. Millyan, the donor of the land in question? The Town of Winchester who refused the gift, placing principle before profit? The late President, who I sincerely hope will be honored by Winchester in a more significant way? Or the many school and preschool (about 50) children of the immediate neighborhood? The children are the innocent victims! Four times a day they will have a long round-about way to and from the George Washington School.

The three abutters originally opposed betterments to discourage traffic light dodgers who would create a safety hazard to the children. Ironically, the defeat of Article thirteen has increased this hazard by exposing all these school children to the long and dangerous crossing at Forest and Washington Streets.

The potential safety hazard can and must be corrected by a safe and equitable resolution of the Sawmill Brook Road problem.

Yours truly,

Vito A. Giarrizzo

Heart Sunday's Many Volunteers Are Appreciated

Editor of the Star:

Our sincere thanks to each and every one of the selfless Heart Sunday Volunteers who gave so freely of their time to a great cause—Heart Research—through the collection of funds from their neighbors.

Democratic Town Committee

The next meeting of the Democratic Town Committee will take place on Wednesday evening, April 8, at 8 p.m., in the East Room, Town Hall.

April is a very important month in this presidential year as it ushers in the pre-primary election on April 28. Consequently, it will be a four-week span of political activity as we choose our candidates for State and town committees and our delegates to the national convention.

The election on April 28 is just one of the three categories of our members, Professor Robert E. Keaton of the Harvard Law School, who will bring us a message from the Winchester Fair Housing Committee. This is in line with the contacts this group is setting up with all the Winchester organizations.

Mrs. Bee Wilson will read a report of her splendid party on March 15, and we will hear some remarks from Mrs. Sue Winn on the work of her registration group. Refreshments will be served.

On Saturday, April 18, the Democratic State Committee will present Operation Know-How at the Sheraton Plaza, Boston. The program:

9:30—Registration, Sheraton Plaza lobby

10:30—Opening remarks, Gerard F. Doherty

11:00—Conferences—a, registration, precinct training course; b, publicity and public relations

12:30—Luncheon, ballroom

2:30—Conferences—a, fund raising and finance problems; b, leadership training film

4:30—Reception (cocktails) to honor Congressional officers and wives, Constitutional officers and wives

Speakers at luncheon will include Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Governor Edmund Peabody, and Democratic National Committee Chairman John M. Bailey.

In the past year, over 264,000 Greater Boston young people were enrolled in recreational agencies supported by the United Fund. These included the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, YMCA's and community centers.

Gonzalez of 57 Swan Road told of seeing three youths running up Swan Road and getting into a black late model convertible and driving off toward Cambridge Street, and from which she had taken down the registration number.

The officers radioed the number ahead to other patrol cars in town, and a check was made with the registry for the owner, Boston Police were later informed of the owner's name and address, and asked to pick the suspect up.

Officer Alfred Poole went to the Goldthwait house and took fingerprints and photographed the imprint left in the soil by the two that had jumped from the window.

Officers Pigott and William Nash later went to Division One of the Boston Police Department, to question Anthony A. Laurentino, 21, of 33 Sheafe Street, Boston, who was taken into custody while operating the car alleged to have been in Winchester during the time of the housebreak.

A man's wrist watch had been found on the front seat of the car, which Miss Goldthwait said may have belonged to her late father, but that would require Mrs. Goldthwait's return from Florida for positive identification.

The man was booked on suspicion, turned over to the custody of the Winchester officers, who brought the suspect to Winchester for questioning. He was later booked by Lt. John McHugh for breaking and entering in the daytime with intent to commit a felony.

The suspect appeared in Woburn District Court on Saturday, and the case was continued for three weeks.

he and his wife and family of three children were safe. They were watching a movie when the earthquake surged through Anchorage, but they escaped from the crumbling theatre safely. When they reached their home in Spennard just outside Anchorage they found their house still standing, but much of the interior was damaged. The Crosses have been living in Alaska since 1947.

The Reverend Roger Makepeace, former pastor of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church and a Lieutenant Colonel and Chaplain in the Air Force, was known to be assigned to the Elmendorf Air Base near Fire Island outside Anchorage. No word has been received as yet on his safety.

Apt. House

The Selectmen conferred with the Planning Board and the Industrial and Development Commission on the matter after the owner requested speedy action on consideration of a zoning change so as not to lose money needlessly while waiting, and so that if permitted, he could receive bids on the plans and begin building. The Selectmen then called the Special Town Meeting on Monday, March 12, for tonight, to see if the town is willing to rezone the Beggs land so that it can be improved and be turned into usable and worthwhile land.

The vote at the Town Meeting tonight must be a two-thirds majority in favor of a zoning change for the present Light Industrial District to be changed to a Business District.

Persons who have had jaundice or malaria may give blood provided they have not had an attack of either disease within two years. If you wish to have an appointment call the Red Cross Office (729-2300) or just walk in between 1 and 7 p.m., Friday, April 3, at the Unitarian Church.

scene of the accident, the car was lodged against the east side ell section of the home, and Mrs. Elliott was pinned inside the car.

The police ambulance arrived with Special Officer George Foley and Peter Morgan and had the two injured persons removed to the hospital. Engine Four of the Fire Department was also at the scene with Capt. Peter Galuffo and Firefighters Robert Symmer, Robert Queen and Joseph McDonough, and William O'Leary and Charles Moran with the Rescue Truck.

Fire Chief Frank Amico was also on hand to advise contacting William B. MacDonald, building inspector, to check the building before the car was towed away to make sure the ell section wouldn't collapse, as a collar beam had collapsed with impact of the crash.

Nation-wide, Minnesota ranked first with eighteen selections, Massachusetts was second with fourteen, Connecticut and Michigan had three, New York and Rhode Island two, Colorado, Maine and North Dakota one each. In Minnesota, it should be pointed out, more high schools have hockey teams than in any other part of the country.

"Hockey" magazine employed four basic steps to compile their all-star listing: a general consensus from leading coaches and officials, from coaches and officials in the toughest leagues, personal observation, and, finally, back to the coaches and officials who were asked to hold down a specific list.

The results, the magazine made clear, were not all encompassing. They apologized for not being able to consider communities that had no high school hockey.

American Legion Spring Hop April 18th

The next dance to be held at the American Legion Hall is April 18, so round up your friends and bring your partners and join in the fun. Jim Phillips is in charge of the dance, and has arranged a real swinging, good time. Music will be supplied by the "Wing - Ding - 6". A few of our local boys make up this interesting group. They are, Jim Russo, Joe Donnell, Jim Shattuck and Izzie Battino.

Remember the date, it is April 18, tickets will be limited so as not to overcrowd the hall. We're sure now that the Lenten season is over everyone will be ready to get into the swing of things again, and no better place than at the "Spring Hop" at the American Legion Hall.

Refreshments will be served after the dance.

Tickets will be available at the Dug-out, or by calling Jim Phillips, PA9-4491.

Auto Accident

A Woburn man was injured in an auto crash on Main Street near Russell Road Saturday night, March 28, at about 11:45 p.m., when his car struck a utility pole.

Injured was Charles J. Feinberg of 95 Eastern Avenue, Woburn. He was taken to the Winchester Hospital in the ambulance and treated for a laceration under his right eye and nose. The front right end of the car was damaged, and the utility pole was moved about six inches at the base and split four feet from the ground.

Attorney Henchey Describes Court Life to Rotary

"The court is there to deal mercifully and with compassion on cases brought before it when warranted," James H. Henchey, assistant clerk of the Woburn District Court, told the Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting last Thursday, "but it is also there to mete out punishment when that, too, is warranted."

Atty. Henchey described the functions and attitudes of the court which serves Winchester among five other cities and towns, and showed through examples and stories just how the court has succeeded in some cases and not in others, but that on the whole how it has helped to improve the protection of the people living in this area and served as a community leader in some ways.

Atty. Henchey's father is presiding judge at the court which, he said, gave him an interestingly different perspective sometimes on the operations of that court and others in the Commonwealth. He also discussed the "wars" campaign frequently waged by another judge, Alfred Sartorelli, whose most recent war on teenage drinking was described in a Star article several weeks ago.

"You may either agree or disagree with the 'harshness' of the war campaign techniques," he said, "until it is your daughter that is struck by one of these 90-mile-an-hour speedsters in towns, or your son that comes home with the smell of liquor on his breath." He noted how it is always different somehow when the facts of a case strike close to home. "That is why I firmly believe the judge and the court are dealing in the most proper way when it goes all out in these 'wars' to correct situations that are dangerous within our communities," he concluded.

Pupil Achievement Discussion April 8

All parents in town and friends of the Washington School are cordially invited to attend a panel discussion next Wednesday evening, April 8, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

This program is being co-sponsored by the Dads' Club and Mothers' Association, and the theme of the discussion will deal with factors affecting the achievement of pupils. Much planning and preparation has gone into this program, and it promises to be of great interest to parents of elementary school children.

Participating on the panel will be Miss Leonor M. Rich, principal of the Washington School, who will moderate; Mrs. Gloria Keville, elementary school adjustment counselor; Mrs. Sally Fishman, speech therapist; Mrs. Evelyn Mason, school nurse; and Arthur L. Johns, member of the school committee.

Following the panel discussion will be a question and answer period in which all those present will be urged to participate. A social period will end the evening and refreshments will be served.

Disagreement on Statistics

Editor of the Star:

I find it difficult to agree with Mr. Case's statistical procedure with which he purports to prove the inadequacies of the Winchester educational system. Mr. Case's statistical sample is far too small to be meaningful. This can be shown very simply by adding another column to his table as follows:

Malden	13	2.53	9	69%
Newton	38	2.43	17	46%
Belmont	15	2.38	7	46%
Boston Latin	39	2.38	13	33%
Arlington	40	2.36	13	33%
Medford	33	2.25	12	36%
Watertown	12	2.20	2	17%
Brookline	28	2.18	10	36%
Lexington	21	2.16	6	29%
Melrose	19	2.12	3	16%
Winchester	16	2.12	2	13%
Cambridge	18	1.99	3	17%

The last column should decrease in somewhat the same proportion as the average grades. It does not decrease in this fashion and as a matter of fact is quite erratic in its behavior.

A more valid test would have been to compare the average grades received by Winchester students in national examinations to those in the schools listed above. One would find that the Winchester school system is in a much better state than Mr. Case feels.

There is a danger in using statistics incorrectly and an even greater danger in using bad statistics; or has Mr. Case not heard of the statistician who drowned in water whose average depth was three feet.

Sincerely,

J. S. DeNatale

Eighth Year Here In Town

Bettie Donald Enlarges Corset & Maternity Shop

The Bettie Donald Corset and Maternity Shop at 5 Winchester Terrace, is observing its eighth anniversary during the first two weeks in April.

Ideally located in the terrace off Thompson Street, it has recently enlarged for the convenience of its customers.

The proprietor, Mrs. Donald, got her early training in the women's wear field at Jay's Inc., Boston. She became buyer of lingerie there and continued in this capacity for several years before being made buyer of corsetry and foundations.

She opened her own corset shop in the old Waterfield building, and is now located at 5 Winchester Terrace. Bettie's firm conviction is that "Fit" is all important and she has bent all her energies to this end. Incidentally, no charge is made for regular alterations on new garments.

Mrs. Donald has been gratified to have so many customers now living far from Winchester, in various states, on the west coast, and even distant lands, write to her to re-order their favorite garments.

A graduate of the Camp School of Surgical Garments and an authorized fitter, Bettie added this line to her stock. Backed by recommendations of local physicians, this much needed service for those with back and maternity problems, is available right here in Winchester, obviating the tiring trip to the city.

The new addition boasts of a complete line of maternity wear of carefully selected bras, girdles, underwear, and all types of outer apparel, even bathing suits.

State Math Fair At Salem Honors 4 Students Here

All five of the Winchester contestants who represented Middlesex County at the State Mathematics Fair Finals at Salem Teachers' College last week placed for honors. Their projects and knowledge had won for them the privilege of attending the finals at the county meet held at WHS the prior week. The fair was co-sponsored by the Boston Globe.

A third place among all State entries was won in his grade by Bill Elliot, Lynch School 9th grader, and also by Karen Bryce, Karen Harper and Mary Wadsworth, Lynch School 8th graders.

An honorable mention was won in grade 11 by Donna Romei of Marycliff Academy.

To be so honored their projects excelled over those of students in grades 7 to 12 all over the State.

Bill's project was "Analogies Between Mathematics and Matter"; it had won a first prize in Winchester. "Topology" was the title of the entry by the Lynch 8th graders; this had qualified at the local fair as had "Relationships Between the Binary System, Boolean Algebra and Logic", submitted by Miss Romei which went on to win honorable mention at Salem.

Each contestant was called upon by the many judges to discourse on the background and supportive mathematical information of his or her exhibit and to answer many penetrating questions. The top prize winners all came away with ribbons and fine plaques designating their special honour in the 1964 State finals.

Steve Powers Caps 3rd Season, Considers Dartmouth Game Best Performance

Winchester's Steve Powers has been playing a pretty steady defense for the Northeastern University hockey team the past three seasons, and Steve was no stranger to hockey when he enrolled at Northeastern.

He played defense for Winchester High School for three years when the team was in the North Shore League, and he readily recalls an experience he had while in his senior year when he captained the squad.

"We were playing Swampscott," says Steve, "and at the time they were undefeated. We had a 4-3 lead in the third period, but they were pressing us pretty hard. Then I had a breakaway, a rarity for a defenseman, and was tripped from behind while skating in on their goalie. The infraction was spotted, and I was awarded a penalty shot, the only one I ever had, and I scored. We beat them 5-3."

Steve is quick to express his disappointment about the Northeastern team not getting an ECAC post-season tournament bid this past season. "The team was really playing at peak performance at the close of the season, and those of us who were seniors would have loved to have finished our collegiate careers in such a tourney."

Steve considers the Huskies' upset 8-3 win over Dartmouth College after the Indians had won eight straight games his best personal performance of the past season. He played a major role in the upset, getting three assists for his night's work.

A member of the Class 1965, Steve is a management major in the College of Business Administration. Steve chose Northeastern because of the Co-operative Plan of Education and because the University was near his home in Winchester.

Under the "co-op" plan, Steve alternates in-school classes and on-the-job training in his chosen field as an assistant to the Head of Office Services for Cabot Corporation at the company's main office in Boston.

During the hockey season, he also plays for the Ideal Olds sextet in the Mayflower League, a team which won the League's championship last season. In the off-season, he plays third base for the Winchester town team in the Carling Inter-city League.

Cheerleaders Give Poetic Tribute To Hockey Squad

Sachem cheerleaders made an impromptu appearance at the Country Club dinner to the Winchester High hockey team and delivered this verse which captivated the audience:

We have a tremendous team this year,
Bet you're surprised to see us here.

Seniors, your last game is passed,
But your fame and glory will forever last.

Coach Finigan said he never swore,
But we heard different through the lockerroom door.

Seriously coach you're really great,
You're "bloody" good team really can skate.

Our captain this year, his name is Mole,
He really fulfilled his hockey role.

Bashful Bevin who's shy in school,
Get's on the ice and is really cool.

Brian's the boy with the devoted soul,
We'll never forget his famous goal.

Chief Ronnie Scherban's face is red,
Especially with a bandage on his head.

Richie Murray with his flaming hair,
Gave his opponents quite a scare.

Saber-tooth Johnson, our hard-shooting wing,
Can skate and score and even sing.

Bobby Murray's our toothless twin,
He did his part to help us win.

Cheetah's the boy with ability plus,
But his pre-game bananas can cause quite a fuss.

Center on our dynamite line,
Murphy's goals made our team shine.

Gerry Hills worked awfully hard,
At dawn and twilight he was always on guard.

This is our team of which we are so proud,
These are the boys for whom we yelled so loud.

This completes the fearsome ten,
Hope next year's team can do it again.

We hate to see this great team split,
As for this poem—that's it!

More than 500,000 people will be helped this year by agencies sharing in the United Fund of Greater Boston.

Leads Bowdoin On Ice

At a recent meeting of the Bowdoin hockey team a former Winchester boy, "Billy" Matthews of Kennebunk Port, Maine, was elected captain of the team for next year.

"Billy" is a junior at Bowdoin and made his letter in football as a halfback. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School in New Hampshire. His father, "Bill" Matthews, was an outstanding track man at high school, with his brother, Lyman, and a member of the relay team that held the school record for many years.

Local Badminton League Standings

By capturing five out of six matches against the Shuttles, the Racqueters vaulted into a first place tie with the Feathers at the midway point of the local badminton league schedule last week.

Standings are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Feathers	11	7	.611
Racqueters	11	7	.611
Woodshots	9	9	.500
Shuttles	5	13	.278

Winning combinations for the Racqueters in their match against the Shuttles were Lloyd Butterfield-Peter Gove, Brad Hersey-Lloyd Butterfield, and Brad Hersey-Walt Raleigh in the men's doubles; and Peter Gove-Paula Di-Donato and Walt Raleigh-Aggie Bixler in the mixed doubles.

Sadie Sanborn and Lois Hersey won their ladies' doubles match for the Shuttles.

For the third consecutive time, the Woodshots split even in their match. Playing against the Feathers, the winning pairings for the Woodshots were Bill Maeneill-Ray Jenkins and Paul Vinci-Ray Jenkins in the men's doubles, and Ray Jenkins-Gloria Gottesfeld in the mixed.

For the Feathers, wins were recorded by Truman Dayton-Bob Gallant in the men's doubles, Ed Williams-Stella Gallant in the mixed, and Stella Gallant-Faith Heneghan in the ladies doubles.

Games are played Monday through Thursday evenings with championship playoffs in early August.

The teams and their managers a year ago were the defending champions S. O. I. with Rokie Procopio as manager, the runners up Elks with manager Mitzie Mawn, Mike Callahan of the Shamrocks, Roger DeMinico of the Sachems, Non Cogan of the V. F. W., Bill La Marche of the Knicks, Paul Hector of Calidyne and Paul Ganchi of the Nomads.

There will be other columns on this information but time is getting short so start giving it some thought if you desire being a part of the league. Give Director Frank Procopio, P.A. 9-3333, a call at supper time and learn all about it. Don't wait until the last minute! Would appreciate hearing from you umpires!

Dean Gallant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gallant, of 19 Laurel Hill Road, and an eighth grade student at the McCall School was a recent TV competitor representing Middlesex County in "Science Countdown," an annual program sponsored by WBZ TV.

Dean scored well in the quiz but was bested by another student in the county who will participate in the state finals scheduled for May.

To win the honor of representing his school in the county quiz Dean first won a classroom countdown, then beat out his classmates in an inter-school countdown. Subsequently he took a written test and wrote an essay on an area of general science of most interest to him: nuclear physics. For the upcoming McCall science fair, to be April 10, Dean will do a project on nylon.

Town Softball League

It won't be too long before the 34th year of the Town Softball League gets its cry to "Play Ball!"

The purpose of this column at this early date is to familiarize some young men in the town with the requirements for entering a new team or joining teams already entered.

The league has been set aside for those young men out of high school and beyond to enjoy a wholesome form of recreation sponsored by the town's Park Department. Each year interest seems to increase and this year's indication seems to be no exception. Director Frank Procopio has been receiving various calls inquiring about the league and the first managerial meeting, which will be called in the near future promises to be an exciting one.

To be eligible for play one must be a resident of the town and out of high school. It gives the opportunity to those "old men" the good chance to keep active by playing a game they enjoy while being too far gone for regular baseball. It has been revealed that some participants still running the bases in the league have reached the half century mark in years and do extremely well.

Games are played Monday through Thursday evenings with championship playoffs in early August.

The teams and their managers a year ago were the defending champions S. O. I. with Rokie Procopio as manager, the runners up Elks with manager Mitzie Mawn, Mike Callahan of the Shamrocks, Roger DeMinico of the Sachems, Non Cogan of the V. F. Indian Tracks

BY FRANK PROCOPIO

Joe Bellino, a young man with an inventive mind for physical fitness, has just completed a season of service basketball in Japan. Joe, who averaged twenty-one points a game, once again played with a unit that finished first in its field. Only drawback was a five-stitch cut over the eye, suffered when he got in the way of a stray elbow . . . A polling of American League ballplayers finds the Yankees, Twins, White Sox, Tigers, Orioles and Indians finishing, in that order, ahead of the Red Sox. The Bronx Bombers received 160 first place votes out of a possible 190 . . . The poll also showed Mickey Mantle the choice for MVP, Al Kaline for the batting title, Harmon Killebrew for most home runs, and Camilo Pascual to be the leading pitcher . . . From Brunswick, Maine, comes news that a hustling little sophomore named Paul Mulloy is taking on hot corner duties on the Bowdoin College nine. Mulloy may be remembered by Carling League fans, as he has played for both the Winchester and Woburn entries . . . Captain Vandy French and his Tufts squad swing south on April 4, 5, 6 and 8, where they play George Washington, Georgetown, American University, and Catholic University respectively. They open at home on April 10 when they face Harvard at Medford . . . The Crimson, by the way, are already on their southern jaunt. Traveling with them is Winchesterite and trainer Pete Procopio. Paul DelRossi hurled the opener against American on Monday, and George Neville is making a strong bid for one of the outfield positions. Games are scheduled at Lynchburg, Hampden Sydney, Richmond, and Johns Hopkins before the squad returns next Saturday . . . Sachem baseball coach Bill Colella has an exhibition game scheduled for April 6, but by the condition of Manchester Field it doesn't look like it will be played . . . Those helmeted warriors working out on Leonard Field are coach Gene Bouley's lacrosse players.

Special recognition was paid to several Sachems last Monday morning at the first sports awards assembly in five years at Winchester High. Gymnast Mike Hammel, swimmer Barry Littleton, wrestling champ John McKenna, and runner Jon Buckley were all singled out for their individual accomplishments . . . Buckley's persistence perked up a few ears when it was revealed that young Jon once took a spill during a two-mile run, fell behind a field of sixty, yet still managed to finish fourth . . . State Director of Physical Education, Ralph Colson, who recently toured with the U. S. track team in Russia, was guest speaker . . . The Middlesex principals have signed a one-year contract with Lynn Arena. It had been rumored that Boston Arena was under consideration for next season's ice action, especially since Belmont and Watertown must trek so far to the North Shore, but the vote was finally unanimous to give Lynn an extension. Now, there is further talk of a new rink to be erected in Arlington. Since the Middlesexers are only distant cousins in the eyes of North Shore Sports Center officials, such a centrally located site would seem to be ideal for all concerned. Then, too, there would be the GRI to compete with, so the only real solution lies in the circuit building their own battle ground.

Coach Isidore Battino has 75 boys out for track and field this season. "We look good in field events," says Battino, "and in long distance running. Our sprinters, however, will have to prove themselves. The team lost five boys who ran the 220 in under twenty-five seconds. But, as a whole, things look promising." Three Middlesex champs are still competing: Captain Pete Fahey with the discus, pole vaulter Richard Halverson, and high hurdles champ Tibor Sadtler, who lost only once last year on the low hurdles.

"Quality Is Our Most Precious Asset"

Little League Tag Day "All-Out" Effort

Next Sunday, April 5, will mark the Winchester Little League Tag Day, as more than 450 friends of the program take over a house-to-house march for the "Bucks for Boys" campaign. This year the League has devised a plan for covering every home in town with a minimum of effort on the part of the collectors.

Each worker will be assigned only ten houses in a given area and it is hoped that the 1964 Tag Day will be the most successful drive that has ever been held in Winchester. Officials of the Little League are anticipating a banner year in view of the many volunteers who have offered their services in this one day drive.

"Anybody who attends a Little League game must certainly agree that his contribution to this effort has been well spent," was the president Ed Williams stated the case for the "Bucks for Boys" appeal. "This program is designed to help the boys both physically and mentally and the donations of the people of Winchester make it all worthwhile and worthwhile."

The popularity of Little League is attested to by the fact that the number of teams has increased during the past years to the present count of 26 clubs in all. This year it is hoped that the Cap League will be able to field at least six additional teams which ought to cover about every boy who wants to participate.

Making such a large scale project work smoothly is no small effort and the men who assist president Williams in running Little League devote much time and energy to the cause. Like any other such program, Little League takes money to operate and this once a year request is the financial backbone of the organization.

As in past years, the sponsors of Little League are happy to do their bit toward keeping this baseball program swinging in high gear. Each season these local businessmen and merchants contribute a Sponsor's Check to help support one of the teams because they believe in the ideals and aims of the project.

Listed below are the Little League sponsors and the teams that are backing for the 1964 season:

Membership Drive For Community Concerts Coming

Clinton Jonas of 64 North Border Road, a director of Stoneham Community Concert Association announces that the week of April 6 through April 11 will be the Community Concert membership drive. Campaign headquarters will be at Norman Houghton's 422 Main Street, Stoneham, for those interested in subscribing for the 1964-1965 concert season. Mr. Jonas, your local representative of the Concert Association, will be pleased to take your subscription at PA 9-0785.

Even though the Association has been successfully functioning for nineteen years, this is a good time to remind residents that its purpose is to present in Stoneham a regular series of concerts every year by top ranking solo artists, instrumental and vocal ensembles and dance groups.

The Association is affiliated with Community Concerts, Inc. of New York, which represents the organized audience plan by which over a thousand communities in the United States and Canada present series of concerts on a non-profit and no-loss basis. Due to capacity memberships we have always had at least four top concerts a year in Stoneham.

Based on the success of our nineteenth season the Association has already reserved as one of our four concerts for the nineteenth season the "De Paor Chorus," an all male chorus of 25 voices. This top professional group has an unequalled record of over 1000 successful concerts.

There is a seat available for you, if you purchase your season ticket during the week of the campaign, April 6 through April 11.

Tickets are available for adults and at a smaller price for students. Since admission is by season ticket only, don't fail to get yours during campaign week. Join your neighbors in "Listening and Watching with Pleasure" live performances by the world's outstanding artists.

In the first championship games Notre Dame, Navy and Bates finished in that order in the first half and their opponents were B. C., Alabama and Yale who won places for playoffs in the second half.

The playoff teams are closely matched as shown with Notre Dame having a team average of 96.8, B.C. 96.9, Navy 97.2, Alabama 96.6, and Bates 96.2, Yale 96.9.

In the last matches of regular season play, leading B.C. took twelfth place Harvard 6-2. The big guns for the winners were Max LaCarubba 90-123-90, Capt. With two weeks left of bowling at Strike Lanes, the two top teams are trying their best to hold their position. With the Luckies, Kay Lentine's team, they lost all eight points last week which gave the Kents, Louise Vigorita's team, an eight-point lead on them.

The Sprines, Laura Caria's team, who is in third place is giving the Luckies no rest for they are three points behind. Good luck to these three teams.

If the Luckies hold second place they will be bowling the Newports the last night of bowling. The Newports came in second place in the first half which means the Luckies and Newports will be bowling three weeks in a row. There are two weeks in the rolloff, have fun girls.

It seems that alleys one and two are hot alleys for the Victors, Cusi Fiore's team. As you know Cusi has bowled a 345 on these alleys. Last week our chair-lady, Florence Paonessa, bowled high single of 113 and high triple of 291. Nice bowling Florence.

The Winstons are the only team this year with a four-girl team. Ginger Maggio is a great captain for this team. How did you get that crazy pinfall? You should be in sixth place.

Mr. Riesenberg In One-Man Show At Rockport

MR. SIDNEY RIESENBERG

Opening this Sunday, April 5, at the Rockport Art Association, Rockport, is a show of oils by Sidney Riesenberg, whose home and winter studio is at 11 Everett Avenue and who paints in the summer at Rockport.

Mr. Riesenberg moved here from Hastings-on-Hudson two years ago with his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Wendell. He paints mainly in oils and the show, which will be open Sunday, with refreshments served from 3 to 5, is of recent paintings.

Mr. Riesenberg was born in Chicago, Illinois in 1885. On graduating from the Art Institute of Chicago he won the Frederick Brand Magnus Memorial Prize for Composition. He then joined that small company of artists who were able to make their living with a brush illustrated magazines and books for forty years.

He has been a member of the Allied Artists of America, The Salamagundy Club and president of The Yonkers Art Association. His work has been exhibited at the National Academy, the Allied Artists of America, the New York Watercolor Show, the Montclair Museum, The Currier Gallery of Art and in New Rochelle. His paintings hang in the Vanderpool Collection, the Hudson River Museum and at King's Point Academy. He won the Westchester Guild Award 1940-41, the Yonkers Purchase Prize and honorable mention in New Rochelle.

In his own words, "I am now back to where I started, making pictures with the composition the important thing. I try to put down the rhythm and movement that always exists in nature and which is so hard to see."

Retarded Children's Meeting

Members and guests of the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children (EMARC) experienced one of the rare moments in life, understanding the guest speaker, at their meeting Wednesday, March 25, at 8 p.m. at the Reading Community Center, 52 Sanborn Street, Reading.

Dr. Hugo Moser, the speaker for the evening is one of the most interesting speakers EMARC has ever had. He possesses the rare quality of being able to express himself in words the ordinary person may understand.

He is Assistant Neurologist at the Massachusetts General Hospital and director of research at the Walter Fernald State School in Waltham.

There are now four types of retardation known that can be treated by changes in the diet, they are P.K.U., Cretin, Galactosemia and Maple Sugar Urine Disease.

Dr. Moser is working with Dr. McCready on a program that they hope will be used on all newborn babies. This involves testing infants for Maple Sugar Urine Disease. To establish if an infant has this disease a blood sample is taken from an infant who is five days old. If the sample shows this disease in the infant it may be treated immediately with a special diet and therefore prevent mental retardation. They hope to start a pilot program in the fall and test 30 to 40 thousand blood samples. If successful they hope to launch into a full scale program similar to testing infants for P.K.U.

Interesting slides were shown to help the audience understand fully Maple Sugar Urine Disease. He discussed one baby in particular, pointing out the necessity of early diagnosis so that the proper diet may be applied.

Dr. Moser also discussed Monogamism, explaining and showing slides of the chromosomes. The mongoloid has 1 extra chromosome, the normal amount is 46. Approximately 25 to 30 per cent of the people in state schools are mongoloids," he said.

A variety of questions from the membership were answered by the doctor.

At the business meeting the nominating committee named the people they had selected to serve as officers next year. They include Mr. Robert Belbin of Reading as president, Ralph Hudson of North Reading as 1st vice president, Richard Gilson of Woburn as 2nd vice president, Arthur Wright of Stoneham as treasurer, Mrs. Jane Linn of Woburn as recording secretary, Mrs. Anthony Rausseo of Lynnfield as corresponding secretary, Mrs. Samuel Knowlton of Wakefield as financial secretary and Mrs. Thomas Burke of Wakefield as trustee for 2 years. At the April meeting nominations may be made from the floor and the membership will vote for the new officers.

The invocation was given by Joseph Zaitchek of Temple Judea, Stoneham.

Hostesses of the coffee hour were the ladies of Winchester who also provided the delicious pastries.

League Discusses Mechanics of The Mass. Government

How does a bill become a law in Massachusetts? How are the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate chosen in the Commonwealth? Who appoints legislative committees? The League of Women Voters of Winchester invites not only its members but also any interested citizen to attend discussion meetings this month to discover and to explore many facets of the legislative structure of our State Government. An understanding of the mechanics of legislative procedure is important to voters at this time because of the number of bills which are being reported out of Committee.

Of special interest to League members is Bill H3000 which would limit the powers of the Executive Council. Members of the League of Women Voters, in cooperation with the Junior Chamber of Commerce and a Taxpayers Group, collected over 125,000 signatures to initiate the bill. Unless it is reported on favorably by the Legislative Committee appointed to study its provisions, 11,000 more signatures will be required before it can appear on the ballot in referendum.

Unit discussion groups give every member an opportunity to study, discuss and express opinions on issues included in League Program. Members and friends are welcome at any of the following meetings:

Tuesday, April 7, 7:45 p.m.: Mrs. Lewis L. Wadsworth, 54 Wedmore Avenue, hostess; Mrs. Sears Walker, PA 9-3564, chairman.

*Wednesday, April 8, 1:00 p.m.: Mrs. Wilbert E. Underwood, 9 Ravenscroft Road, hostess; Mrs. James E. Kimball II, PA 9-2347, chairman.

Donuts to Ducks

Just about everybody likes a doughnut now and then, one of its chief attractions being the hole in the middle which is supposedly filled with air. At some doughnut shops this proverbial hole is filled with kindness and that seems to be the case at Ann's on Main Street.

During this long snowy winter (check with any Winchesterite) Ann's saved their dry left-over doughnuts for warm-hearted Arthur Driscoll who, kind in his turn, broke them up into bite-size pieces and doled them out to the hungry ducks which congregate on the shores behind his Wedge Pond Road home.

Word quickly spread through the duck-lines and Mr. Driscoll with the help of Ann's was soon entertaining a goodly group... before long, "fattest ducks around," to quote Mr. Driscoll. Such thoughtfulness and kindness to creatures who cannot return the favor seems very refreshing in these times of looting during earth quakes and graft in politically high places!

Winchester Lodge of Elks Activity; Horn Installs Billerica Officers Sunday

The Winchester Lodge of Elks put on its by-weekly Saturday spaghetti dinner for members and guests at the home on Elmwood Avenue for a hungry group last Saturday noon.

There was plenty of help, with Jimmy Violante as chef and Bennett Wightman as assistant chef. Kitchen helpers were Mickey Curtin and Bud Twombly. Serving was handled by Creighton Horn and Frank Hadley. On the clean-up detail were Larry Penta, Zaky O'Connor, Jack Murphy and Jack Hogan.

Tomorrow night, Friday, is lobster night. Lobsters have never been better than this season's, and as prepared by the Elks chefs they have brought in goodly numbers of seafood lovers. In addition to lobsters, steamed and stuffed quahogs are also on the menu. Serving is from seven to nine or until sold out. Drop in, give yourself a treat. Member and guests are invited to attend.

Don't forget to contribute your used playing cards to the Elks Used Playing Cards for the Handicapped drive. The Winchester lodge is the only lodge in the area taking part in this year's drive; so veterans hospitals, institutions for the elderly, rehabilitation centers and other such institutions in the vicinity of Winchester are dependent upon the local lodge for their needs.

Winchester people are urged to clean out their desks and dens of used playing cards and drop them off at the collection stations in the center. Collection boxes are located at the Winchester News, the Sport Shop, McCormack's Apothecary, Winchester Star, and Converse Market.

To date about three hundred decks have been collected for this worthwhile cause.

Sunday at Billerica Lodge of Elks Creighton Horn, past exalted ruler of Winchester lodge, will be the grand exalted ruler and will install the officers of Billerica lodge. Creighton will bring along his suite of officers consisting of past and present officers of Winchester lodge.

The installation will take place at about four o'clock, after a social hour. Later there will be an evening of dancing and sociability.

Members of Winchester lodge are urged to attend so that our lodge may make a good showing at the installation. Billerica Lodge is noted for its hospitality. Its quarters are beautiful and well capable of handling a social event of this nature. Bring your wives along so that they may enjoy an evening out.

Christ's Church HAS TO BE Infallible!

Many people challenge the claim of the Catholic Church that it is infallible in matters of religion.

"No human being is perfect," they will say. "No institution run by human beings can be infallible."

Many believe the Bible fills this need. However, since numberless fallible people interpret the Bible... and often in direct conflict with each other, the Bible cannot supply the need of an unquestioned source for Christ's teachings. For Catholics, the infallible source is the Catholic Church, established for that purpose by Christ himself.

The Church is the infallible source of religious truth because it was established by the Son of God for that purpose. We know from the New Testament that Christ instructed Peter and the other disciples to "teach all nations"... that He gave them the power to forgive sins in His name... that He appointed Peter the first head of His Church... that He promised to send the Holy Spirit to guide and protect the Church against human errors and the assaults of evil forces.

Peter was divinely appointed to be the shepherd of the flock of Christ. In his lifetime, he was so recognized by the disciples and by the early Christians. He was also, according to Holy Scripture, instructed by Jesus to appoint others to spread Christ's teachings to succeeding generations. This continuation and succession of authority was obviously necessary if Christ's Church was to fulfill His promise to endure for all time and against all enemies.

We know that Peter was the first Pope of the Catholic Church... that all of the Popes down through the centuries are his successors... that the Church which existed as Christ's Church for the first Christians in the Catholic Church as it exists today.

Everyone, of course, has the obligation to follow his own conscience in seeking the truths taught by Jesus Christ. This, we sincerely suggest, should include an investigation of the claims of the Catholic Church, which, significantly, is the only Church on earth making the claim to be Christ's true church—one, holy and infallible in its promulgation of the message of the Son of God. You may ultimately, and sincerely, disagree with us, but nothing is more important than finding an infallible source of Christ's truth. We hope you will investigate.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

On Wednesday, March 25, both winners of the mixed pairs championship game were present, and Jack Collins of Hevey's presented the Hevey's Challenge Bowl to Gerry Lawrence and Nelson Bell. Their names will be added to those of former winners already engraved on the bowl—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mainberger, Kay McConnell and Bill Duryea, Carl and Irene Sitfinger, and Blair and Greta Hawley.

Section A was run as an eleven-table Mitchell with familiar names heading the list in both fields. Above-average players follow:

North-South

Alta Stewart and Donna Redpath 124
Fred Gove and Henry Morgan 122½
Paul Loris and Larry Yannuzzi 120
Rae Grove and Freda Perkins 119
Bob and Evelyn Blackler 118½
Colonel and Mrs. Ryan 112½

East-West

Dave Littleton and Steve Root 126½
Joel Olmstead and Clarence Woodward 124½
Chet and Marian Davis 124½
Kay McConnell and Ellen Schofield 120½
Barbara Sawyer and Bill Duryea 117
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward 114½

In Section B, a ten-table Mitchell with a 63 average, the Mingoellis were first North-South. According to our out-of-town reporters, Guy and Adeline have been coming in winners lately in games outside their home territory as well.

Above-average scorers in Section B were:

North-South
Guy and Adeline Mingoelli 82½
Don Rosetti and John Reardon 75½
Carlene Lauton and John Nikula 67½
George and Alice Kimball 65½
Al and Ruth Johnson 63
D. Marshall and D. Bauld 63

The bidding started with South and continued as follows:

South West North East
1 D 1 NT Pass 2 S
Pass 3 NT All Pass

The opening lead was the queen of diamonds.

The above bidding sequence up to the last bid was a natural one with a no-trump overall preferred to a takeout double on West's hand.

The three no-trump bid after partner takes out in spades is risky, since partner is announcing he has a distributional hand. A three-spade bid is more descriptive, safer, and allows partner the choice of the proper place to play the hand.

With a timid partner West may even jump directly to four spades as a fairly safe gamble for game.

At four spades East as declarer can make five for a top board as long as the opponents do not open a diamond. He takes whatever is led, probably a trump, draws in three rounds, and leads a heart toward the king. If the ace comes up immediately, he can enter the dummy and discard the losing diamond on the king of hearts. In the end he loses only a heart or a diamond and a club.

A less desirable but more interesting and difficult place to play the hand is at three no trump. The declarer in this instance ducked the opening lead of the diamond queen and took the diamond jack with the ace. He then ran five spade tricks. At the fourth and fifth spades he found discarding difficult, and to keep his diamond stopper he let go of the heart ten and club four. South discarded two hearts and a diamond. Declarer then finessed the club queen leaving the following end position:

East
♦-10 9 5 3

Now declarer can make his contract only by clairvoyance or a defensive error. He must lead the club ace and surrender the lead to South with a diamond. South may cash the last diamond and the heart ace but must yield the last trick to West's king of hearts.

A better play for three no trump is to take the opening diamond lead, enter the dummy with the spade queen and take the club finess immediately. Now the declarer has an entry to the clubs if they set up, and in any case the contract is assured if South has one club honor. If the opponents make a mistake, declarer can make four, which is still only next to top.

In the actual play of the board East played four spades three times, making five twice and going down one trick once. West played East bid two spades twice, making four each time. And one brave North played a doubled three-heart contract, down two, for a middle board.

The current bowling league comes to an end next week when finals for the club's championship will be rolled. Statistician and commissioner Paul Lentine is ready to offer any figure of importance and we'll certainly be hearing from him.

Here's wishing a quick and complete recovery to Jim Derro who has been hospitalized recently.

S. O. I. News

Our kindest words of sympathy are expressed to the family of Anthony Graziano who passed away recently.

We are sorry to hear of the illnesses of Joe Jacobellis and Sam Puma but are happy to hear that things look encouraging. Hurry and get well!

Also are sorry to learn that Mrs. Bellino has been hospitalized but glad to know that she is now home and on the road to recovery.

Rose Fiore was knocked flat on her back with a virus and we are certainly cheered by the news that she is now back on her feet.

Star softball pitcher and most valuable player on last year's team, Harry Ellis, has received a broken finger on his pitching hand and will be out of action in the early part of the season for the defending champion S.O.I. nine.

Congratulations to Frank Provizano for putting on a most successful physical education exhibition at the Lynch Junior High School where he is the instructor. He informs us that he had 229 boys participating and that he was most proud of them as well as the girls who performed on the same program.

The "bumper pool" tournament is going strong and still in contention for the club's championship are Richie Bauer, Dick Tofuri, Jake Garcia, Bob McNamara, Richie Penta, Sam Tibaud, Pete Gilberti, Art Dunbar, Joe Paonessa, Vin McCabe and Dom Gallelo. This column urges all contestants to check the posted schedule in order that a champion be crowned by the end of the month.

Business Director Boss Dattilo of the S.O.I.'s Degree Team has had the unit at rehearsals because of a busy schedule ahead. The team has been invited to assist in the initiations and installations within the next two months by organizations within the state as well as faraway places. The team goes to Revere on April 18 and the next day performs for our own lodges to start the long list of engagements.

Chairman Dick Tofuri and the Sports Committee are all set for the howling banquet which is to be held at the club hall on May 2.

Chairman Art Dunbar of the Golf League is already functioning to get participants for this year's league which promises a most interesting and exciting league. From all indications there could be at least 50 taking part this year. So get those putters going on your living room rug, men!

The current bowling league comes to an end next week when finals for the club's championship will be rolled. Statistician and commissioner Paul Lentine is ready to offer any figure of importance and we'll certainly be hearing from him.

Here's wishing a quick and complete recovery to Jim Derro who has been hospitalized recently.

Winchester Historical Society

The annual meeting of the Historical Society will be held this Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the Rich Room at the Library. The speaker will be Wynan S. Randall, whose subject will be "Our Heritage of Early American Homes," illustrated with many colored slides. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Unique Medical Program Starts
Over Channel 2

A unique cooperative project in postgraduate medical education is bringing recent medical information to doctors and listening public alike.

The pilot project consists of Channel 2 television presentations by outstanding physicians and surgeons, followed by telephone conference calls from outlying hospitals. In these calls, many doctors from a wide area question the specialists on the representations, and all the doctors hear both questions and answers.

The programs are televised by WGBH - TV, Boston's educational station, with telephone lines linking many hospitals on a simultaneous "speaker phone" circuit are provided by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. The initial programs are being produced at the Tufts - New England Medical Center and at the New England Deaconess Hospital.

Costs of these early programs are being provided by the Bingham Associates Fund, co-sponsor of them with the Massachusetts Postgraduate Medical Institute. Dr.
George Robertson, medical director of the Fund, who was present at the meeting, said he hopes techniques being developed here will permit the spread of this special medical communications idea throughout New England and beyond. But, he added, new sources of funds would have to be found before this could happen.

First use of television and telephone in such a program took place Monday, March 23, when the faculty for the presentation were Dr.
Franz Ingelfinger, professor of medicine, Boston University School of Medicine, and Dr. William Mc-Dermott, professor of Surgery, Harvard Medical School. Instructors in other pilot programs will include faculty members of the three Boston medical schools as well as other outstanding teacher - practitioners.

In the conference call period, doctors from nine Massachusetts hospitals participated. Drs. Ingelfinger and McDermott took the calls in Dr. Ingelfinger's office and their replies were heard throughout the city.

"All participants were impressed with the ease of the technique," Dr. Stearns said. "The television portion provided the necessary visual material and gave the viewers a vivid picture of the professors.
With this background, the question and answer period by telephone became more meaningful for all concerned. This technique for continuing education of practicing physicians seems, on the basis of this initial, limited experience, to be remarkably simple for both the presenters and the audience."

Tufts Assembly On State Judiciary

Three Winchester residents are among the 90 prominent Bay State citizens who have accepted invitations to participate in the Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government, April 7 and 8, on the Medford campus.

They are Mrs. Richard R. Thu-ma, Jr., of 2 Allen Road; Attorney Sumner R. Andrews of 25 Ridgfield Road, of Robbins, Noyes & Jensen; and Rep. Harrison Chadwick of the Mass. General Court, 24 Everett Avenue. In addition Alan M. MacDougall, a Tufts junior of 11 Ransley Ridge, will participate in the program as a student representative.

"Each of the participants," stated
Assembly chairman Albert W.
Vanderhoof, "holds an important position in industrial, political, public affairs, or professional areas. We are delighted that by their participation they reveal a desire to join in examining the issues confronting our Commonwealth's judicial system. I am sure they will come up with solid suggestions for improving certain phases of our courts, penal institutions, probation, and rehabilitative programs."

The theme of the 1964 Assembly
—one of two continuing undertakings of its type in the nation—is "Modernization of the Administration of Justice in Massachusetts."
Participants have been studying a series of hard-hitting background papers authored by experts in every phase of the judiciary. These citizens will be anxious to register their views on a variety of vital problems dealt with in the background material.

Decorating Expert On "Interiors Of Today," April 9

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will present Melvin J. Linton, decorating consultant for Paine Furniture Company on April 9 at 2 p.m.

Any interested person is invited to join the group for Mr. Linton's talk on "Interiors of Today," discussing apartment living in Boston and the suburban home living, with the types of interior furnishings used in each. Colored slides will be shown including those of three different rooms: a penthouse dining room at the Charles River Park Apartments, a bachelor's apartment in Polynesian style of decorating, and a Louis XVI formal music room in a Boston town house and the fabrics used in each interior will be shown.

Mr. Linton majored in Interior Design at Boston University and studied architecture for two years at Boston Architectural Center. He has been an associate of Paine Furniture Company since

Dr. Gilson Talks To Mystic School Mothers' Assoc.

The serious and timely problem of school building needs was the topic presented by Dr. Harry V. Gilson at the spring meeting of the Mystic Mothers' Association on Tuesday, March 24.

Dr. Gilson gave a thumbnail sketch of the facilities of the schools and the growing need for more space. He stated that five of the seven elementary schools have already exceeded their capacities and that the senior high school presents a real urgent problem.

The underlying causes of this overcrowding were outlined by Dr. Gilson as follows: (1) the growth of town population; (2) the unusual growth of school population in proportion to the general population; and (3) the structurally old school buildings that have become obsolete educationally.

Dr. John Marshall, school building consultant, has been employed to make a survey of our building needs, and his final report will soon be released. Dr. Gilson pointed out what we might expect in the way of recommendations as possible solutions to the building need problem.

In conclusion Dr. Gilson emphasized that education is "on the move" and that there will be many changes. As an example, programming has already seen drastic changes in the form of modern math, science as a major at elementary level, and accelerated instruction. Teaching techniques are also undergoing changes.

The interest Dr. Gilson evoked was evidenced in the question and answer period which followed his discussions. Many parents left this meeting more aware of and better equipped to understand the need for building and highly interested in the solutions for this problem.

Jenks, Jr. Foundation, by the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries for his "outstanding aid to the handicapped in providing 'not charity but a chance' for jobs and job training at Morgan Memorial." The presentation was made by Henry E. Helms, executive secretary, with assistance of Christine Russo, one of the children from the Goodwill Day Nursery, which cares for youngsters under 6 years of age of working mothers or mothers who are ill.

James L. Jenks, Jr., of Myopia Road, widely known industrialist, business leader and medical researcher, has been elected to the board of directors of Morgan Memorial in Boston.

Mr. Jenks has long been interested in work among the handicapped and has been a member of the board of corporation of Morgan Memorial for over 10 years.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is the largest private, non-profit, non-sectarian agency serving the handicapped in New England. Its eight other agencies are active in serving all ages, needs and creeds.

Fortnightly Hears Books Reviewed

On Monday, March 23, The Fortnightly held its regular meeting at 2 p.m., preceded by a coffee hour and a food sale for the benefit of the Philanthropy Fund.

After the business meeting the chairman of the Literature Committee, Mrs. Ralph H. Meigs, introduced Mrs. Marion T. Rudkin who gave short reviews of current books. Her appearance in this program is pleasantly anticipated every year and in her usual, thoroughly delightful way, she told, sometimes directly from the text, enough about each book to arouse interest. Her list was as follows:

"The Venetian Affair," Helen MacInnes; "Black Amber," Phyllis Whitney; "The Rising of the Lark," Ann Moray; "Naked Came I," David Weiss; "Run Me a River," Janice Giles; "Convention," Knebel and Bailey; "Nefertiti," Evelyn Wells; "Samuel Seewall," Ola Winslow; "Mountain Doctor," LeGette Blythe and "Our Looms are Always Laughing," Newton Tolman.

Two humorous, small books were also recommended, "I Try to Behave Myself" and "The Absolute Truth about Marriage." Again The Fortnightly is indebted to Mrs. Rudkin for these wholesome suggestions for summer reading.

Police In 80-M.P.H. Stolen Auto Chase; 2 Youths Arrested

Local police joined in on a high speed chase of a stolen automobile through Winchester early Saturday night when a Stoneham cruiser radioed ahead that it was tracking an 80-mile-an-hour fleeing vehicle into Winchester along South Border Road.

The chase, which resulted in the arrest of two Jamaica Plain youths after the vehicle came to an abrupt stop on Salem Street off Main Street in Woburn, began in Stoneham when officers in a cruiser there spotted two cars reported stolen from the Redstone Shopping Center passing in front of that town's police station.

The Stoneham police chased a 1960 white Oldsmobile convertible and another car to Roosevelt Circle in Medford, where the two cars split, one going south and the other heading over South Border Road toward Winchester.

The Stoneham Police radioed their position and direction of chase ahead to the Winchester Police. Lt. John McHugh at Headquarters dispatched Officers James Cogan and John Frongillo in Patrol 51 to South Border Road. They saw the Oldsmobile travelling at about 80 into Winchester and immediately joined in on the pursuit which went onto Main Street and into Woburn.

Woburn Police were notified and four more cruisers were alerted on the chase. The speeding car passed through a red light at Main Street and Montvale Avenue in Woburn Center and swung left on Salem Street, coming to an abrupt stop.

The two occupants jumped out of the car and started fleeing in different directions. The Winchester and Stoneham cruisers, both close in the chase, stopped and the officers started running after the youths. Officers Cogan and Frongillo both fired several warning shots into the air to make one of the thieves stop. They finally caught up with and arrested a 16-year-old Jamaica Plain youth, the Stoneham Police caught the other youth, a 13-year-old, also from Jamaica Plain.

Both youths appeared in Woburn District Court, Juvenile Sessions, on Monday morning before Judge Alfred Sartorelli. The 16-year-old was charged with operating so as to endanger, larceny of a motor vehicle, operating without a license, having a switchblade in his possession, failure to stop on the signal of a police officer, and using a motor vehicle without authority. The 13-year-old was charged with using a motor vehicle without authority.

The case was continued until April 16, and each was held in $3,000 bail and were remanded to the Youth Service Board.

Medical Offices Building to Open House Next Week

Located at 1017 Main Street, a new medical building will open its doors next week with open house on both April 15 and 18.

The building, located at what has come to be known as the Ingersoll site because the Ingersoll chicken plant operated from there for many years, the new offices are on the east side of North Main Street, very close to the Woburn line.

Ready for the open house which will be on Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 6 and on Saturday, are two completed model offices. The lobby is partly done. According to the Wilmington Company, Inc., which has planned and reconstructed the building, the whole thing should be ready for occupancy by the end of the spring.

Petitions Started For Referendums On Two Articles

Two local citizens took out papers this past week for petitions for a special referendum election on two articles that were discussed and voted on at the annual Town Meeting to bring the questions before the entire electorate to try and reverse the decisions made at the Town Meeting.

Petition papers were taken out at the Town Clerk's office on Friday, April 3, at about 4 p.m., by Peter Lonigro of 10 Loring Avenue to have a special referendum called to have the town vote on the zoning change approved by the Town Meeting at Beggs and Cobb from a Light Industrial to a Business District.

Again on Tuesday, April 7, at about 9:30 a.m., Salvatore Datillo of 11 Trinity Road took out petition papers from the Selectmen's office to have a special referendum called for the town to reconsider the Town Meeting's vote to reject the appropriating of funds for plans to be drawn up by the Permanent Building Committee for the construction of a west side branch fire station.

The annual Town Meeting adjourned its final session on Thursday at 11:50 p.m. According to law, any petitions for a referendum on Town Meeting decisions must be filed within five days, excluding Saturday and Sunday, after the adjournment of the last session, and must be signed by three per cent of the registered

Town Meeting OK's Apartment House Project At Beggs Site; Rejects West Side Fire House

In a Special Town Meeting session on Thursday, April 2, the Town voted to change the 11.38 acre Beggs and Cobb site from a Light Industrial District to a Business District, which would enable local resident and businessman John Wilson to go ahead with plans to construct a large apartment house project there. The other article on the small warrant would have asked to change the area to an Apartment House District, but was moved to indefinite postponement due to earlier Town Meeting action which failed to establish such a district.

In the sixth and final session of the annual Town Meeting for 1964 the Town (1) Voted to accept the Fire Study Committee's report, but defeated its recommendation for appropriating money to have plans drawn up for the construction of a west side branch fire station, and accepted its recommendation to appropriate funds for an addition onto the west side of the Center Fire Station and a new alarm system; (2) Voted to appropriate money for the indemnification of firefighters and police officers injured in the line of duty as authorized under the General Laws; (3) Voted to authorize the purchase of the Wedgemere Railroad Station for the town's uses, with most of the appropriation going toward paying the town's own back taxes due on it; (4) Voted to direct the Highway Department to provide for the prompt removal of stray cats and dogs and other animals from the premises of property owners upon the request of residents; and (5) Voted to appropriate money for the rental or purchase of automatic voting machines, which would be rented this year and purchased next year if the Town Meeting so votes then.

The passage of the Special Town Meeting article approving the Beggs site zoning change involved no cost to the town, but will result in many thousands of dollars of revenue to the town in real estate taxes when the area is developed. The cost of building an addition to the Fire Station and obtaining a new alarm system was set at $62,000. Approximately $1,500 was appropriated for the indemnification of injured firefighters and police officers. The appropriation for purchasing Wedgemere Station was $1,500, of which about $900 will be the town's repayment of its own due taxes as an accounting procedure. And $5,010 was appropriated to rent automatic voting machines for the upcoming 1964 national, state and local elections, with that amount toward the later purchase of the machines if found acceptable to the townspeople.

Special Town Meeting 143-33 Beggs Apartment Vote Overrides Planners

The Special Town Meeting session was opened by Moderator Harrison Chadwick and a prayer offered by Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Article One in the Warrant for the Special Town Meeting would have called for the Town to change the Beggs and Cobb Light Industrial District to an Apartment House District if one had been established under Article Thirty-Seven of the regular annual Town Meeting Warrant. However, a negative vote on that article precluded there being any parliamentary consideration of Article One, and so it was moved to indefinite postponement and so voted.

Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, started the discussion on Article Two, which called for the Town to change the Beggs and Cobb Light Industrial District to a Business District zone as an alternative which would also permit the construction of an apartment house on the site, by explaining the board's position.

Mr. Gray told of a public hearing the board held on March 31 in which nine persons attended to observe preliminary plans for the site. He said the plans showed 44 apartments to a floor with about five to six stories laid out and 15 per cent of the land occupied. He added there were some objections to having the structure approach 80 feet in height.

Mr. Gray said that the board thought the plans presented were the kind of thing it wanted on the Beggs land, but that it thought too many changes were being taken by such a zoning change. He noted that dangers of having it put in a Business district, and said the board therefore recommended unfavorable action on the article.

"We are not suggesting throwing it out," Mr. Gray said, but he hinted that if anything were to happen to the present developer, someone else might get control of the property when the option date passes and develop it for some other purpose.

Mr. Gray said the board had already inaugurated steps to begin revision of the zoning codes, and noted that Lane McGovern, chairman of the Board of Appeals, had already accepted an invitation to sit with the Planning Board soon to go over the by-laws with the Town's professional consultant.

"If the Board of Selectmen were to convene a special Town Meeting in eight to ten weeks," he added, "we would be able to appropriately word an article to provide for apartment houses."

Shailer Avery, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the Selectmen had just been apprised of the Planning Board's new position when he entered the auditorium a few minutes earlier. He said the Selectmen left the lack of use and land waste at Beggs for five years was too bad. "The Industrial and Development Commission has not been able to sell the land to industry," he said, "and your Board of Selectmen feels the way the tax rate is going this property should be put to a returnable use."

"If the Planning Board feels the present plans are OK, it should be started," he continued, "because I don't think the Town at this point can afford to lose a buyer."

ATTY. WADSWORTH

Philip P. Wadsworth, former 25-year Town Meeting Member, Selectman and Moderator, said he was representing John Wilson, local resident and businessman, in speaking for the passage of the article which would permit the development of the Beggs site for an apartment house.

"I realize these town meetings do peculiar things at times—emotions run rampant—but I hope this proposal will be discussed on its own merits," he said.

"Unfortunately," he noted, "because of the nature of this thing, there are always rumors, etc.; but I say he has no commitments to anyone else other than the present owner of the property."

"I wouldn't say this is all a venture for the town, it's also business," he added. "This is a big business venture," he continued, "it's a multi-million-dollar development and because of that financial considerations are important."

Atty. Wadsworth recounted some background information: Mr. Wilson had in February approached the millionaire owner of the Beggs land, a Mr. Remis, with an offer to buy the site for $240,000 provided that the area was rezoned to permit the construction of an apartment house before May 15.

He had hoped that an Apartment House District would be created at the regular Town Meeting so this could be zoned for it," Mr. Wadsworth noted, but since it couldn't be urged rezoning the area to a Business District.

"It's expensive property," he maintained, "and therefore the developer couldn't settle for two or three stories of the garden type, it would have to be a substantial type—which would also return a fair amount in tax revenues to the town." He noted that plans call for a 100-foot setback, which would more than satisfy any present or future setback regulation.

"Does Winchester want apartments?" Mr. Wadsworth asked. "If it doesn't, the Town Meeting should vote no and not encourage the developer to go to any further expense, but I think there is a need for apartments," he said.

"Is Beggs the right place?" he asked. "There is a need for improvement at that particular site," he said, "so I can't think of a better place."

There are two problems then, he noted, and those were the Planning Board hearing and the Planning Board recommendation. "The Planning Board is complimentary to the town's position," he said, "but its recommendation is unfamiliar. I don't think that recommendation is all-important or all-necessary," he said, "for the Planning Board has consistently recommended no apartment buildings in Business Districts and couldn't go against its earlier positions now."

In assorted comments about the apartment project planned, Atty. Wadsworth said: "80 feet isn't that high—it's high when standing close, but not so high when stepping further back or when seen from the road. The tannery itself was higher than 80 feet, and Sted-

April 2: Sixth Session 19 Votes Down Fire House, Wedgemere Taking Passes

The sixth and final session of the 1964 annual Town Meeting was begun immediately upon the conclusion of the Special Town Meeting at 8:40 p.m. and the remaining eleven articles attended too.

TAX STUDY

Under Article Forty-Two Emersons Ellis addressed the Town Meeting and asked that one of its members sponsor a motion he had written asking for the creation of a committee to study the relation of full and fair cash value as a method of real estate taxation to a proportional value system.

"The shock of raising the assessments by 50 per cent were over when it was explained that generally it represented no or little changes in the tax bill," Mr. Ellis said, "but it isn't the per cent but the execution of those taxes that make a difference."

He reminded Town Meeting Members that the town no longer prints and distributes lists of assessments to residents.

"I feel a proportional assessment tends to minimize inequities," he said, "and the state law is very specific in its requirements in this area of assessments; they must be proportional and equal."

Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the Finance Committee, said the town is very fortunate to have the capable assessors it does. "The state has been pushing for 100 per cent assessment in towns, however," he said, "and perhaps this study committee is a good idea."

Theodore Burleigh said the chairman of the Board of Assessors is an authority on assessing and real estate law, and the matter should be left in the hands of the assessors.

In a division of the meeting, the representatives voted 97-81 against the proposal to create a special study committee on method of taxation.

SNOW, ICE AND SALT

Walter Farrell, Jr., and Richard W. Freeman, Jr., moved for the creation of a seven-man committee to study the salting chemicals used to remove snow and ice.

Mr. Armstrong recommended unfavorable action on the basis that the state is already conducting a study on salt removal operations at the suggestion of Rep. Harrison Chadwick. Moderator Chadwick informed the meeting that the Legislative Research Committee would conduct the study if the bill is approved by both the Senate and the House.

In a division of the meeting, the vote was 110 to 69 against.

TRANSPORTATION

Sherman Saltmarsh, Jr., chairman of the Transportation Study Committee created at the last annual Town Meeting, gave the committee's report on transportation facilities affecting Winchester. He noted that almost every form of transportation, railroad, bus, and MTA were losing money at a fast clip on commuter services. He said the MTA had no future plans of using present Boston and Maine Railroad lines if it stops passenger service, and he added, Winchester should not become involved with the MTA unless its management is drastically reorganized. Other than the Governor's upcoming appeal to the Legislature for a Metropolitan Boston Transit Program, no concrete action by the state is in the works for public transportation facilities.

As for the financing of a West Side fire station, Mr. Littleton proposed that a $130,000 loan be staggered over 20 years, making the first year's down payment $13,000, or 25 cents on the tax rate, with diminishing rates of payment over the 20 years to a final payment of $5,150 in 1984.

Shailer Avery, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, reviewed the history of the formation of the study committee, and said that since the committee had come back unanimously recommending the construction of a West Side fire station, and since the Selectmen were charged with the protection of life and property, the board felt obliged to go along with the recommendations. He said he took exception only to the number of personnel required; the committee had said seven more officers and men son Hall is over 60 feet high and it sits right against the sidewalk with almost no setback.

"I hope you'll take favorable action at this time," Mr. Wadsworth concluded, "while my client still has rights on the option to build."

INDUSTRIAL & DEVELOPMENT

William C. Cusack, chairman of the Industrial and Development Commission, described the commission's attempts over the past five years to sell the Beggs & Cobbs land as an industrial site to over 200 prospects, but none had materialized.

Twelve prospective buyers might have bought the land if apartments had been allowed there, he noted, saying four actually made financial commitments, but only one has actually put the money on the line—John Wilson—"and we come here tonight with a buyer in the audience."

"My conclusion for this motion is this," Mr. Cusack affirmed, "this is the first time in the 1964 Town Meeting to date that constructive steps are being taken to reduce the tax rate. Don't go back and tell your constituents that you had a $1 million prospect sitting in the audience with a potential of almost $200,000 tax relief in hand, and you decided to wait and re-write the by-laws, call a special town meeting and chance a two-thirds vote."

Mr. Cusack, growing more engrossed and impassioned over what the project might mean to the town and its residents, spoke tellingly with a vivid example: "If there were 400 units built at the Beggs site and each family spends about $50 a week for things such as food, clothes, laundry, cars and services, etc., the total expenditure locally from this apartment house would be over $20,000 a week, or $1 million a year!

"It also follows," he argued, "that if something is done constructively on the Beggs land, it follows automatically that the entire area around it will be upgraded; and if it is left to deteriorate, the rest of the area will deteriorate too."

"The Planning Board chairman said the area could be commercialized if changed to a Business District," Mr. Cusack said, "but do you know what could go in there tonight as a Light Industrial District? Page 171, paragraph 6A reads . . . a machine shop, a trucking terminal, assembly plants, a bottling works, among others. Picture instead," he said, "a lovely apartment house with plants and shrubbery."

"How can the Town Meeting in good conscience turn down an apartment house for a bottling plant—and especially with a $1 million prospect in the audience and another prospect ready, willing, and able to spend $3 million on this apartment?"

FINANCE COMMITTEE
Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the Finance Committee, said the committee was strongly in favor of the article. "The Beggs and Cobb property is a blight on the community," Mr. Armstrong said.

THE VOTE
A large affirmative voice vote was recorded, but a division of the meeting was called by the Moderator because a two-thirds majority for a zoning change had to be put in the official records. The count was 143 in favor, with 33 dissenting votes.

The Special Town Meeting adjourned at 8:40 p.m., and the regular Town Meeting was reconvened.

IN ABSENTIA

would be needed to staff the new station, but Mr. Avery believed the final number would be more.

George Pettersen said he spoke for several Town Meeting Members of Precinct Four when he said they supported the proposal for a new station on the hill.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Mr. Armstrong asked the Town Meeting Members to review the costs and continued maintenance involved in the proposal.

The capital cost of construction at $130,000 was not as important as the continued maintenance, he noted.

"The study committee says 14 men, seven new and seven currently employed by the town, with four on a shift, could man the new station," Mr. Armstrong pointed out, "but we seriously question if seven men can be spared from the Central Station and still keep its complement up to at least 12 men on duty with vacations, sick leaves, and other such problems."

"How does the Fire Department plan to get along?" he queried. "If a fire rings in on the east side only one man would be left in the Central Station, and if another comes in the west side station is supposed to come down into town, but then the west side is again left 'uncovered,'" he analyzed.

Not including sick leaves, vacations, pensions and health, etc., Mr. Armstrong said, the 14 men, four lieutenants and 10 firefighters, would cost the town $87,802 annually on this year's rates, and with other expenses would approximate $96,500, or almost $100,000 a year to maintain.

Mr. Armstrong then quoted statistics to show the small number of fire runs to the west side in comparison to the total number throughout the town each year during the past five years: In 1959 there were 61 runs to west side brush (30), dwelling (16) and other fires (15) out of a total of 608 town runs; in 1960 there were 86 runs to the west side out of 666 runs in the town; in 1961 there were 92 runs to the west; in 1962 there were 96 runs to the west; and last year there were 142 runs there.

Mr. Armstrong pointed out one never knows when there might be a threat to life in any quarter of town, but that the cost of building and maintaining a west side fire station was prohibitive in relation to past experience with no loss of life on the west side and small property damage.

He challenged the "time of run" theory proponents of the west side fire station emphasized. He said the Fire Department clocked a run from the Central Station to Nassau Drive at nine minutes. He said he clocked with his own car a run from the proposed site for the new fire station to Nassau Drive at 5.29 minutes, or a saving of only three minutes.

He noted that fire underwriters wouldn't change the premium rates for fire insurance in that area because residents are already paying very low rates. "Is it sensible to spend about $100,000 a year to save just a few thousand dollars of fire loss on an average in that area over the past five years?" he questioned, noting that the average was high due to one loss last year on Dunster Lane, "which it was doubtful could have been saved even with a new fire station up there once the old house got started."

"It would be cheaper to build another central fire station in the Wyman School area for $300,000 that can be paid for in four years," he said, "than it would be to build one on the west side and pay continued maintenance for that in addition to the present one."

Mr. Littleton said the committee agreed that most of the homes on the west side are newer than those in other parts of town, but they still contain flammable materials he said.

Robert Bircelow said Mr. Armstrong had mentioned the increasing number of mutual aid calls, and asked Fire Chief Frank Amico to tell the meeting how close the Arlington and Woburn stations were to the western part of Winchester.

Chief Amico said the Arlington station was on Massachusetts Avenue about a mile and a half from Winchester, and the East Woburn station a little over a mile from the line. He said there was no mutual aid agreement between Lexington and Winchester.

On a voice vote on the motion for $5,000 to be appropriated to the Permanent Building Committee to have plans drawn up for a West Side fire station, it appeared that the nays were in predominance, but Moderator Chadwick requested a division of the meeting vote, which resulted in a close 97 to 78 defeat for the motion.

FIRE HOUSE ADDITION
Mr. Littleton said that since the previous motion was lost, the Fire Study Committee recommended that $2,000 be appropriated for the Permanent Building Committee to have plans drawn up for an addition on the west side of the present fire station, going toward the Winchester Savings Bank.

The committee recommended a $40,000 addition and $22,000 to replace the old outmoded alarm system.

Mr. Armstrong said the Finance Committee was undecided on this motion because it had not had time to study it, receiving the committee's report only a week and a half earlier. "We think it's a good thing," he said, "but there is not a crying need now, and we'd like to see more time and study put into it."

Clarence Borggaard recommended indefinite postponement, but Mr. Avery recommended the defeat of the amendment and urged acceptance of the original motion.

Chief Amico told the Town Meeting: "I have had difficulties with the fire alarm system and have already had to spend $1,100 for emergency repairs. This equipment is obsolete, and we've had to go several days with some circuits out. As your chief I feel responsible and would be remiss in not telling you of this situation."

Mr. Richardson asked why the Town Meeting couldn't just appropriate the money for an alarm system and not build an addition.

Mr. Littleton said that wasn't a good idea because they had no place to put it. "The committee has worked hard," he said, "either kill it or accept it; walk down through the station sometime and see the lack of room."

On the vote for an addition and a new alarm system, the Town Meeting approved the motion.

ARTICLE FORTY-FOUR

Article Forty-Four called for the town to appropriate between $1,500 and $2,000 for indemnification of firefighters and police officers injured in the line of duty, as outlined in the General Laws. Mr. Avery said $18,000 had been spent in the past five years on this, or about $3,600 each year, but the average should be about $1,900 a year and is a revolving account that should be approved. The Town Meeting voted to approve the motion.

ARTICLE FORTY-FIVE

Article Forty-Five called for the town to appropriate money to take care of any necessary military service credit of a teacher while in military service. The article was passed when Otto Schaefer rose on a point of order, and the Town Meeting had to vote to reconsider its earlier vote. He noted the provision for compensation to teachers doing military service, but questioned why no such provision for similar compensation was made for other town employees. The question remained unanswered, and the meeting voted approval of the article.

ARTICLE FORTY-SIX

Article Forty-Six called for the town to accept sums of money under the will of Forrest G. Brackett held in trust to help pay college tuition of Winchester High School graduates. The article was also passed when James Cullen said he wanted to know more about the late Mr. Brackett, a benefactor of the town, and recommended that the Town Moderator be in charge of seeing that Mr. Brackett received appropriate public notice of his gift of $21,942.16 to the town. The article was then passed.

TOWN SELLS LAND

Article Forty-Seven called for the Board of Selectmen to sell town land at the northerly end of Horn Pond Brook Road and consisting of about 6,804 square feet to Henry S. Pacino so that he might have the necessary minimum building lot requirements.

Robert Winsa said the land involved would permit his daughter and son-in-law to build a house there, and he hoped that when it came time to vote on the measure as Louis Armstrong would say: "I hope all you cats are swinging with me!"

Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, said the board recommended unfavorable action as it would block off part of the road which might be developed more later.

Joseph Tansey said he could appreciate the Planning Board's conservative view on this, but that here was a couple that wanted to build a home there, and there was no reason why they shouldn't be allowed to.

Elizabeth McDonald said she had attended the Planning Board's hearing on the article, and received a letter from the board saying the School Committee may have future use for the land, and the board had thought for it as a connecting link from Cambridge to Washington Streets as an east-west highway. "Now that road is not a possibility," she said, "and the School Committee has plenty of land for growth."

Mr. Avery said the article appeared before the Town Meeting of 1963, and that since then a compromise had been worked out between the town and the people involved, and he recommended favorable action.

The Town Meeting voted to approve the article.

ARTICLE FORTY-EIGHT

Article Forty-Eight called for the town to discontinue a portion of the building line of the westerly side of Highland Avenue between Highland Terrace and Forest Street so a homeowner could build a fence for privacy from passing traffic. The Town Meeting voted acceptance of the article.

CATS AND DOGS

Vincent Erhard sent the Town Meeting Members into gales of laughter with his argument supporting the passage of Article Forty-Nine, which called for the town to remove dead cats and dogs and other small animals from the premises of property owners, a function which the Highway Department already performs on the town's streets.

Mr. Erhard described how he had called the Police, Highway, and Board of Health Department and gotten the run around. "Now that sounds like an old Army game," he said amid storms of laughter.

Dr. Warren Taylor said he had to speak for the chairman of the Board of Health, Richard Norris, "who couldn't speak on the matter because of a conflict of interest," but said the board recommended adoption of the article.

The Town Meeting voted to accept the article.

WEDGEHOLE DEPOT

Mr. Avery moved that Article Nineteen, calling for the town to authorize the acquisition, eminent domain or otherwise of the Wedgemere Railroad Station and parking lot, be removed from the table where it was delayed and further moved that it be indefinitely postponed because the station was in the process of being sold.

William Speers proposed $1,000 be appropriated to buy the station, or else that it be taken for back payment of taxes. He objected to the idea of eminent domain as being too expensive. Further, he noted, the sale of the property probably wouldn't go through once the title is searched and the prospective buyer sees that it is land-locked by M.D.C. property.

Ralph Atkinson said the Selectmen should force the owner to live up to the maintenance covenant instead.

Selectmen John Sexton told the meeting the only agency with powers that could force such maintenance was the Board of Health, and that agency had tried with only limited success.

Mr. Armstrong said the Finance Committee was against postponement and the Town Meeting voted no on the amendment to postpone.

Mr. Richardson said the truth of his forecast when the station was sold to the present owner has been seen in the past several years. He moved for either purchasing or taking the property. "I feel the town should control it," he said.

Mr. Smith asked how much was due in back taxes on it to the town. Mr. Avery said $859.51 was owed the town as of March 19th.

Vincent Clarke, town counsel, said: "Let's realize what we're getting into; the property is assessed at $12,000, and to take by eminent domain is a lot of unnecessary cost."

Austin Broadhurst asked whether the town would be obliged to pay its own back taxes, and when told yes by the Town Counsel, he recommended appropriating $1,500 for all expenses to obtain the property.

The Town Meeting voted 117 to 47 to purchase the property, and appropriated $1,500 for all necessary expenses.

VOTING MACHINES

Article Fifty-One called for the town to appropriate $5,010 for the rental of automatic voting machines for use in the upcoming national, state and local elections, with the rental price going toward purchase of same if next year's Town Meeting decided to buy them.

Mr. Avery described the machines the Selectmen had seen, and reminded the members that the one that had been demonstrated in the lobby during earlier sessions could save the town a lot of money and time in elections. He said 34 machines would be needed eventually, one for every 400 voters as required by state law. The $5,010 would rent 28 machines, with six donated by the company to try for a year.

Mr. Armstrong recommended favorable action because of the many advantages of the machines, and the idea of trying them before buying them was a good approach for the town government in this instance. He noted the possible savings on custodial, police and teller payrolls in future elections. Also, he added, statistics show greater voter participation in elections with voting machines.

The Town Meeting voted to appropriate the money for renting the machines.

ARTICLE FIFTY

Article Fifty was a procedural article authorizing the assessors to take money from available funds to reduce the tax levy. Mr. Armstrong recommended that $92,000 be taken from the Excess and Deficiency Fund's surplus of $481,588, leaving $389,588 in the account. The Town Meeting voted its approval.

THE TAX RATE

Mr. Armstrong announced that preliminary estimates by the Finance Committee indicated that the tax rate for 1964 would be about $80.35 on the old assessment base, or approximately $53.45 on the new and now in force assessment ratio based on $84 million total valuation.

Centennial Of William Parkman Lodge Booklet

"One Hundred Years of William Parkman Lodge" is the title of a commemorative booklet mailed this week to all members of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of 1 Mt. Vernon Street, Winchester, which will celebrate its Centennial in early May. Richard L. Greaves, presiding master of the Lodge and ex-officio chairman of the Anniversary Committee, is being assisted by Kingman P. Cass and Walter Y. Josephson, both past masters of the Lodge.

The Lodge when first organized in May 1864 met in the Lyceum Building, then moved across the street to its present location, where it occupies the third floor for meeting rooms and lounge, and a considerable portion of the second floor for dining and kitchen space. Other Masonic organizations, Rotary, Kiwanis and Mystic Glee Club also enjoy the Lodge facilities. On the walls of the lounge are found many portraits of early Winchester residents who helped to found the Lodge. Albin K. P. Joy was the first master, assisted by Josiah Stone and Abijah Thompson, II, as wardens. Other well-known names among the Charter Members were David Skillings, Samuel Symmes, Cephas Church, Edwin Wadleigh, William Ingalls, Frederick Winsor, and Frederick Prince, later mayor of Boston. In more recent years, Governor Samuel McCall was an active member and present at the 50th Anniversary.

The Lodge takes its name from William Parkman, Esq., a Bostonian who in 1864 was Grand Master of Masons in Massachusetts, and the officers ornamental shoulder regalia in use today was originally presented to the Lodge by William Parkman. Over two hundred and fifty members reside in Winchester, and approximately one hundred more in fifty-two cities and towns in Massachusetts. The out of state members who have retained their Winchester association live in twenty-eight states and two foreign countries. Donald Houston Rice, a native of Winchester, now living in Seal Beach, California, has presented a large certificate bearing his grandfather's name as member, and with signatures of William Parkman and the first officers of the Lodge. This is framed in hand-carved black walnut, and will be installed in the lounge, in honor of three generations of the same family who all became members, all of whom were born in Winchester.

On Sunday, May 3, William Parkman Lodge and Mystic Valley Lodge will attend church service together at Crawford Memorial Church, and on Tuesday, May 12, A. Neill Osgood of Wellesley, Grand Master of Masons in Massachusetts, will make a formal visit to the Lodge, with a group of prominent Grand Lodge officials. (Attendance on this occasion is restricted to members of William Parkman Lodge.) On Tuesday, May 19, members and their ladies and guests will gather at Hotel Continental near Harvard Square, Cambridge, where an elaborate banquet will be provided by the hotel staff. After dinner there will be dancing to the well-known Marshard's music in the Crystal Ballroom, with Tommy Gerard as master of ceremonies. This will be the closing event of the Centennial, and May 8 will be the final date for reservations.

cess of $211,000 at Hanscom Air Base, we ask that Hanscom Air Base facilities be retained at its present location in the interest of Massachusetts and the economy of the nation. Copies were also sent to Senators Saltonstall and Kennedy, Congressman Morse, and Governor Peabody.

Although the Air Force had given no real indication that it plans to move the airbase's facilities to New York at the request of the New York representatives, the Winchester Development and Industrial Commission decided to join in on the effort to insure its continuance at Bedford. About 25 local persons would be affected if the base were moved, and an indeterminate number of possible future residents associated with the air base.

A Stalwart Of Our Times

Soldiers, history verifies, especially old soldiers, are the most lonely of men. They fight in lonely places, make lonely decisions, and, when they die on the field, few care or take notice. But, when they linger on the brink of death in a hospital bed, as did Douglas MacArthur last week, all of civilization seems to linger with them.

Some saw in those last days something ignominious and barren and hopeless, and they opined that the suffering should not be prolonged; others saw a noble soldier, who despised the word "defeat" and all its connotations, making his last battle a stubborn one, lingering not so much that people might say he died without appropriate dignity but rather that man's greatest dignity lies in his tenacity.

There is recorded the incident that while MacArthur and his troops were battling fiercely for their existence in the Philippines a short-wave broadcast told of San Diego, California, having been shelled by a Japanese submarine. "Wire them that if they can hold out for thirty days," the General said, "we'll send help."

Three times recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor, MacArthur's courage was never questioned. In France he was twice gassed, and twice wounded; once took a heavily fortified German machine gun nest by racing ahead of his men, emptying his pistol, and rallying them forward. In the Philippines he was standing with fellow officers when Japanese bombs began to rock the earth. When the bombardment finally ceased, MacArthur was still calmly standing where he had been. At times he seemed absolutely detached and utterly disdainful of enemy fire.

When Japan surrendered and MacArthur moved in with occupation troops, he was warned that there were still Japanese fanatics roaming about, anxious for the opportunity to die while killing a great American general. Nevertheless, MacArthur considered the Japanese admiration and respect for bravery and paraded through the streets along with two officers and a corporal in a single jeep.

In Korea, MacArthur was an old and well-worn soldier who kept thinking of ways to win the war. "War's very object is victory," he maintained, "not prolonged indecision . . . In war there can be no substitute for victory." But there were those who disagreed with him, and he was relieved of his command. They told him that war could never again be fought in the old manner, with the old tools, and with the old men who knew only that, in war, one fought to win.

"Never," he said in a voice wavering with emotion, "never be ashamed to be called patriot, or nationalist, or whatever else is used if it means that you love your country."

And so he passed from the scene of things, a withered old man whose spirit was eternally young, loving his country as only one who has risked his life for her can love her; and believing that destiny had chosen him from among others to accommodate its peculiar but necessary whim. "When great causes," Winston Churchill declared in 1941, "are on the move in the world . . . we learn that we are spirits, not animals, and that something is going on in space and time and beyond space and time, which whether we like it or not, spells duty." Town Meeting Determinations: Something To Be Blithely Bypassed?

The 1964 annual Town Meeting adjourned at 11:50 p.m. on Thursday, April 2, after six long sessions of legislative determinations by representatives elected of, by, and for the people of the town. But within a matter of a few days two citizens had taken out petition papers to have a special referendum election called to reverse two of the Town Meeting's enactments.

Several pertinent questions are appropriate here: Where were these two petitioners when the matters they were so interested in were being fully debated and thrashed over during the Town Meetings, and where they had every right to get up and speak their minds on the measures that interested them? Did the questions which they are petitioning for not have their full "day in court," so to speak; and by what reasons do they feel that they should put the town and its people to a great deal of further expense and inconvenience by having a special election in the slight chance that by by-passing the Town Meeting forum they can hope to turn the issue back to the way their sympathies run?

We are told that the past history of referendum shows that a large number of them win their case on the ballot when they previously had lost at the Town Meeting. What kind of criteria is this thinking supposed to show?

Winchester used to have open and direct Town Meetings, where anyone who attended not only spoke on the issues but also carried a vote. Those sessions were long and grueling, and often issues were decided purely on the number of heads one could cram into the Town Hall that would be willing to go along with one's proposal for whatever reason. The stark inefficiency of that system of local government by all the people was abandoned by necessity when the town's voting population exceeded the number of bodies that could be fitted into the Town Hall, and it was replaced with the present elected representative form of local government—still by all the people who vote for their representatives to represent their views at the limited Town Meeting.

What does a petition for a special referendum election on Town Meeting issues do? It turns the whole issue back to the town, and asks the people to decide over again what their representatives have already voted on. By by-passing the Town Meeting, it not only weakens the structure of the town's legislative government, but it also weakens the confidence of the townspeople in its government when they are forced to attempt to do its job themselves.

This is not to say that at times the Town Meetings might not make errors; and this is not to say that for those times popular election referendums aren't the best solution to an error. But it can be said that the 1964 Town Meeting did a very creditable job in dispensing with the issues brought before it equitably and justly.

Further, is it not more likely that this group of 238 representatives which listens to all the arguments offered on the issues—both pro and con—and which listens to the qualified opinions of experts on the matters, will vote appropriately on each measure according to two premises: (1) as elected representatives, theoretically, and in most cases practically speaking as well, their votes are precisely what the proportionate number of their constituents would also vote, and (2) as elected representatives listening to well presented facts, statistics, and opinion arguments in a well organized and orderly debate fashion, their votes should be more reasonably grounded than would the same issues be voted upon by the general populace which has not had the opportunity to listen to all the facts and figures by the experts and good debaters, and are not as subject to voting on issues according to the emotional elements involved. This is also why the national government operates through representatives and not by popular vote on every issue.

If those who lose their special political interests at the Town Meetings are going to resort every year (or every other year even) to by-passing the Town Meeting and going to the entire electorate in an attempt to get different decisions, then we might as well just plain forget about having Town Meetings, save ourselves a lot of extra expense and inconvenience to many, and have a general election over the whole Town Meeting Warrant to decide each and every article.

It appears that one of the petitioners, who had thought to have the Beggs and Cobb land reverted back to its original Light Industrial District zone after the Town Meeting had changed it to a Business District to permit the development of an apartment house there, reconsidered his move and has subsequently dropped his plans and will not file his petition today. Apparently he discovered that it was a long haul to get enough signatures on the petition, especially whereas most of the townspeople were quite happy with that Town Meeting decision.

The other petitioner, who plans to get the required number of signatures to have the question on a referendum for appropriating funds for having plans drawn up by the Permanent Building Committee for a new west side fire station, may have some success in getting the 333 signatures needed because there are a number of persons on the west side interested in having a new fire station.

This, if turned over to the entire electorate, would become an issue to be decided mostly on the merits of its emotional appeal or lack of appeal, rather than strictly on the facts, statistics, and figures as rationally and reasonably assessed by the Town Meeting Members who had all the information—as well as the emotional appeals—right at hand when they voted on it just last Thursday night.

We do not say it is wrong for a citizen to initiate a petition for a referendum election on an important issue if it can be shown that either new information not presented at the Town Meeting has an important bearing or if for some reason the Town Meeting can be shown to have been negligible or unimpaired of something; but neither being the case on this issue, and bearing in mind the fact that the petitioner did not even speak up on the matter at the Town Meeting (if he even went), the appropriateness of this petition is questioned.

Town Meeting Progress Report

APARTMENT HOUSE DEVELOPMENT FOR BEGGS SITE. At a Special Town Meeting session on Thursday night the representatives voted to change the Beggs and Cobb tannery site from a Light Industrial to a Business District—thereby permitting local resident and businessman John Wilson to proceed with plans to construct a large apartment house project. Although the Planning Board switched from its earlier position of supporting an apartment house at that site (contemplating putting it into an Apartment House District—which was defeated earlier), it opposed the changing to a Business District on the grounds commercial establishments could be built. The rest of the Town Meeting supported it, including Bill Cusack of the Industrial and Development Commission which had tried to sell the property to industry for five years, and the final vote was 143-33 in favor.

WEST SIDE FIRE STATION IS DEFEATED. The controversial West Side branch fire station was recommended for construction by the Fire Study Committee created at the last Town Meeting to review the adequacy of the town's fire protection. The committee wanted to have $5,000 appropriated for the Permanent Building Committee to obtain plans for the Ridge Street-Lockeland Road site, seen here being levelled by the Highway Department's old bulldozer which is due to be replaced after much wrangling over reconditioning or replacing at an earlier session. The Selectmen went along on a new fire house, as did the Planning Board, but the Finance Committee took sharp difference with the idea as being too excessive in continued costs, figured at $100,000 annually (as opposed to original capital cost, which at about $130,000, was not considered too high). The final vote was close, 97 to 73 against the project. In another motion the Town Meeting voted to appropriate $62,000 for an addition to the west side of the Central Fire Station and to have a new alarm system put in.

WEDGEMERE DEPOT TO BE TAKEN BY THE TOWN. The Wedgemere Railroad station and parking area, center of much vandalism and petty thievery by juveniles and young adults over the past several years, was the object of some discussion at the Town Meeting as to whether it ought to be purchased for a nominal sum (about $1 offered by the owner, a Winchester resident who has refused to follow the maintenance code as set forth in the purchasing contract after selling the Winchester station as the other half of a package deal), whether it ought to be taken for non-payment of taxes, or whether it should be taken by eminent domain. The Town Meeting voted to appropriate $1,500 for its purchase, with almost all of that amount going toward repayment of the town's back taxes due. As town property, it would be fixed up and maintained, maybe used as a town garage or office, and police protection would be heavier.

VOTING MACHINES IN FUTURE ELECTIONS. The Town Meeting voted to appropriate $5,010 for renting automatic voting machines for one year, with the option of turning the rental fee toward the purchase of the machines if the Town decides to buy them. Miss Sue Huhn, right, of the Automatic Voting Machine Company of New York, demonstrates one of the machines to Mrs. Stephen Nichols of 16 Mayflower Road during one of the Town Meeting sessions. The law requires one machine for every 400 voters. Each machine costs about $1,324, and the machines have a performance record of long, maintenance-free use, and speedy election results.

BOOK REVIEW

by Elva L. Nelson
Winchester Public Library

THE DEPUTY

by Rolf Hochhuth

This drama, in which the author, a 33 year-old German, daringly opens up the hideous past of his own country, the Nazi extermination of 6 million Jews in World War II (equivalent to about the present population of Maine and Mass.), and the refusal of Pope Pius XII to condemn openly this mass murder, is considered to be in Europe "The outstanding burning, controversial drama of conscience of the retrospective postwar years."

Wherever it has played there, and never in its entirety of 7 - 8 hours, but in a shortened version of 3 - 3½ hours, it has provoked violence. In Paris, a group of antagonists threw stink bombs, leapt on the stage to threaten the actors, and fought with police. In Stockholm it stirred up dissension, and in Swiss towns there was picketing and destruction of property.

The hero of Hochhuth's play is a young Jesuit, Father Riccardo Fontana, a fictional character modeled on two martyred Catholic priests to whom the author has dedicated his book, Father Maximilian Kolbe and Provost Bernhard Lichtenberg. Fontana has Vatican connections, and at 27 years old is assigned to the papal nuncio in Berlin.

The author has this fictional character overhear an actual incident in 1943, in which an anti-Nazi storm trooper, Rudolf Gerstein, tells the nuncio that the Jews are being murdered en masse: "The nuncio cannot take any action because of the Concordat between the Vatican and Germany."

The astounded Riccardo claims that Pius will speak out when he hears of the atrocities and he set out on a personal mission to Rome.

In this five-act play, it is the picture of Pius XII in the fourth act which has become such a point of controversy. It is here that Fontana has his showdown with the Pope.

"I used Pius XII as a symbol for that part of humanity which did nothing to oppose Hitler's brutal policies," Hochhuth has said. "One shouldn't stick to the idea that the play is fundamentally about Pius."

However, the picture of Pius XII has been called a caricature. The presentation of his personality as cold and calculating does not have a realistic compatibility with the personality of someone who would have a vision of Christ. The scene itself, Hochhuth admits, would never have been permitted in His Holiness's presence.

As for the official policy of the Vatican, that of silence, there seem to be documents in the State Department which bear this out. Newsweek magazine quotes: "The Holy See did not want to jeopardize its neutrality by condemning German atrocities . . ."

It is a powerful play compounded of fact and fiction, full of dramatic characters and typified in the Doctor, who also was modeled on an actual person. Hochhuth places the blame for the criminal acts of the Nazis against humanity also at the feet of the German industrialists, the Frankensteinian scientists, the bureaucrats, Helga, a Nazi young woman, symbolizes weakness and moral torpidity.

Needless to say, Catholics, Protestants, Jews and neutral have both approved and contested the picture of the Pope and his silence towards the extermination of the Jews. At the end of his play, Hochhuth attaches a 65-page historical appendix which anyone reading the play would find highly useful.

How does the play end. After a dramatic fourth act, there is a dramatic fifth. The scene as Auschwitz, and the Doctor, the modern Mephistopheles, torments Father Fontana. In the end he dies. But it is one of life's little ironies that Joseph Mengele, who was the basis for the character of the Doctor, and who made the final selection of victims, is still at large.

Letters To The Editor

Bill 300 Would Reduce Powers Of Executive Council

Editor of the Star:

When costly political scandals occur with such frequency in this state, one may wonder if the poor taxpayers will ever band together to do something to improve state government. Well, they did. Last fall 125,000 citizens signed an initiative petition to place Bill H3000 before the state legislature. This bill would repeal the statutory powers (those granted by the legislature) of the Governor's Council. Its purpose is to restore the Council to its functions as set forth in our state Constitution: to approve appointments to the judiciary, to approve pardons granted, and to approve appointments of medical examiners. By thus limiting the powers of the Council, the Governor would be made more directly responsible for his administration and would be given the authority equal to his responsibility.

At the hearing on this bill before the members of the Joint Committee on State Administration, loud cries of indignation and wounded righteousness were heard from those opposed to the bill. Yet, I heard no clear case presented which would justify retaining the Governor's Council as it is. This reaction is well supported by the fact that both the Democratic and Republican state platforms adopted in 1962 contained planks supporting total abolition of the Council.

If Bill H3000 is defeated, it will be another victory for those who have a vested interest in a weak executive and clouded lines of responsibility in state government. Individuals who cannot stomach this further insult to the taxpayers and voters should contact their legislators soon. The bill will be brought before the legislature for a vote before May 4.

Sincerely,
Hazel von Rosenberg
(Mrs. Theodore III)

Note of Tribute To Al Elliott From His Sister

Editor of the Star:

Thank you very much for your memorial to my brother, Alfred Dykes Elliott. It covered all the high points of his untiring devotion to the place of our birth, and it would seem that there was nothing to add. But there is my own personal tribute which I would like to make and which I hope you will deem worthy of publication in your next edition of the Star.

It is not possible for me to say all that is in my heart, yet, these thoughts have come to me: my "thank-you" to him whose loyalty never failed; to whom I owe so much for his ever-ready counsel and advice; his undeviating devotion to our mother; the quick hand of help to any and everyone of his family in their times of sorrow and adversity, and his ready participation in their joys; for the close-knit bonds of family ties that always had his active interest no matter how busy he might be with his own broad activities of business, or participation in the affairs of the town; his undeviating devotion to his wife and children; for the privilege granted me to be not only a sister, but a confidant as well; whose constructive advice made possible my successful establishment and operation of the Sophie Bowman Real Estate office next door to his own place of business.

To have been unable to be with him at this time is a great sorrow, yet I am sure that he understands. To all our friends who paid tribute to him and bade him God-speed, my humble and deep gratitude.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Sophie Elliott Coulter

Writer Dislikes Town Meeting No On Traffic Light

Editor of the Star:

I have just completed my reading of the minutes of the Town Meetings. And I find in reading that the Traffic Light asked for at intersection of Swanton, Washington, and Park Avenue, has been turned down. Now isn't that a credit to the children and etc. who have to cross this busy place daily.

And if this situation was located in either the West Side or the Symmes Corner Section of Town, it would pass without comment.

The Solid South, together with an assist from a few in North End of Town sure run the show, but they do not have any regard for public safety in the Town.

Two out of ten cars stop at the stop sign located on Swanton

Street and Park Avenue. I have just returned from that dangerous corner, and while there in the company of a member of the Star, we observed a truck, and a couple of cars that did not stop. I presume that a greater part of the Town Meeting Members, do not know where this corner is located, for if they did they would assure themselves of a few minutes and observe the conditions.

As long as they are on a spending spree with the taxpayers' money, they would change their vote. I feel, and don't let it be said that the officials of the Town were not notified of it. I suppose they will after some innocent child or elderly person is killed at this spot. Don't forget, an ounce of precaution is worth a pound of cure.

The Police should be made to enforce the violation at this corner, for Public Safety, and if not get the State Police to take over, and make it safe for all concerned.

Sincerely,
James E. Farrell

Note of Thanks To Helpers Of Sale for Blind

Editor of the Star:

Many thanks to the various kind hearted organizations around town which turned out so loyally to support last week's Sale for the Blind. Sincere thanks to the workers who efficiently took care of the mechanics of selling the articles made by the blind. Last but not least, grateful thanks to all of you who came and bought and made the sale the financial success which it was.

And, yes! a special commendation is extended to the hard-working ladies of the Snack Bar (Parkhurst Mothers Association) who did a truly bang-up job.

As an afterthought, may I say that if any willing worker (individual or group) was surprised at not being contacted, it was NOT that you were not wanted, it is simply that with Mrs. Maynard of the Massachusetts Division of the Blind handling the lists out of Taunton, some omissions did crop up. Each year the committee would be delighted to hear from anyone who would care to work.

Sincerely,

Kay Roberts, chairman

Town Dog Officer Warns Owners Of Responsibilities

Editor of the Star:

There have been many complaints received concerning disturbances by dogs in the Lincoln School yard and vicinity. Dog packs as large as 20 in number have caused a serious problem in this area. Children have been bitten, jumped on, chased, and otherwise tormented by these dogs. Other complaints range from chasing cars to killing cats and chickens, chasing adults and tearing up gardens and lawns.

Dog owners should be aware of their responsibilities. An owner or keeper of a dog is liable for any action or damage done by his dog. In addition to State Laws, (Chapter 140, Sec. 136A to 175) there are Town By-Laws which forbid anyone from keeping a dog that by barking, howling, or in any other manner disturbs the peace and quiet of any neighborhood or the safety of any person (Article III Sec. 10).

The following rules will be enforced: (1.) All dogs must be licensed and display their tags; (2.) Dogs should be kept indoors or otherwise confined during the nighttime; and, most important, (3.) No dogs will be allowed in the school yards and or to follow children to school. Dogs should be confined until children are in their classrooms. This applies in the morning and afternoon.

Failure to comply with the above conditions will result in fines, restraining and confinement orders, orders to remove dogs from Town, and in extreme cases, dogs will be destroyed.

Very truly yours,
William T. Ryerson
Winchester Dog Officer

Argument Raised Anew for a West Side Fire House

Editor of the Star:

We regret that the regular Town Meeting on Thursday, April 2 defeated the motion to appropriate $5000 for the purpose of obtaining plans and specifications for the West Side Fire Station. The vote was 97 to 78.

The Fire Department Study Committee made a very careful study of the entire fire department including existing facilities, the problem of adequate manpower and the estimated future requirements. They utilized information from the National Fire Protection Association and the Municipal Protection Department of the New England Fire Insurance Rating Association. The conclusions were eloquently presented by the committee chairman, Earl Littleton. They were essentially as follows:

A. The need for immediate steps toward the construction of a two bay fire station on the West Side.

B. The need for improvement in the present alarm system and for modifications to the present fire station for desk area and storage space. (Preliminary funds were voted for this item.)

C. The need for long range modifications to the present fire station. (Preliminary funds were voted for this item.)

D. The need for a long range personnel training program including consideration of a drill tower and practice building.

It is interesting to note that the members of the Fire Department Study Committee were unanimous in their recommendation for a West Side Fire Station and initiated the aforementioned motion. The Board of Selectmen were unanimous in supporting that motion.

We believe there are two basic reasons for the ultimate establishment of the West Side Fire Station:

1. The present protection afforded the extremities of the West Side is inadequate based on carefully established running times to that area. Of twenty six actual runs, the longest elapsed time to an area other than the West Side was to the Stoneham Line via Washington and Forest Street of 4 minutes and 22 seconds. This compared with 7 minutes to the Dunster Lane, Henry and James Street area and 9 minutes to Nassau Drive. The runs were all conducted under optimum traffic and weather conditions.

2. The efficiency of the total fire protection for Winchester would be improved. Equipment answering a call on the West Side extremity is necessarily 11 to 13 minutes minimum distance from the Stoneham Line should a major call from that area occur at that time. A West Side pumper could respond alone to a house call leaving undisturbed the main body of equipment in the Center thus improving the protection of the East Side and the areas immediately adjacent to the center.

There are many criteria that must be used when decisions are made to spend the taxpayers money. Certain desires are met when school and library standards are to be supported - as they properly were during the past Town Meeting. Other values are involved when the protection of life and property are the object.

We remain optimistic that the Town Meeting Members will be convinced that all Winchester Citizens will be better served by the ultimate addition of the West Side Fire Station at a future date. Certainly, the voting of the plans and specifications will be a modest but important first step which we hope will be accomplished at the next annual Town Meeting.

Town Meeting's Many Surprises Interest Reader

Editor of the Star:

Town Meetings are surely full of surprises, and it is nice when an encouraging one comes along. It seems that a member of the Board of Appeal failed to attend and speak out at a public hearing of the Planning Board, but did so at Town Meeting as a precinct member. He was chided for not having done so earlier. It is indeed encouraging that the Planning Board prefers to have opinions of other Boards, even if it means breaking the unwritten law that under no circumstances may one board encroach on the bailiwick of another.

Another encouraging sign was the fact that the gentleman in question, as a private citizen - since our administration officially frowns on such actions - made a study of 15 other towns to see what their rules contain that could be useful in studying possible improvements in our By-Laws - this time in the field of apartment zoning. It is surprising how much good can come from such studies. I, too, made some private surveys, and have learned several things that could give us greater harmony and efficiency. Too bad that our Town Fathers are so dead set against initiating such constructive analysis and change.

I was shocked by the chairman of the Planning Board's idea that remarks made in the discussion were "criticisms of the total by-law structure." Surely he recalls that in 1959 our Moderator selected four good men and true to completely analyze the by-laws and Chapter 167.

After two solid years of hard work in consultation with all Boards (but not the public) the Committee reported in 1961 that it could find absolutely nothing that needed change except to take away from the people some of their rights including the protective check of the referendum. Town Meeting after its usual so-called careful study agreed with the Committee.

I had the temerity to think that the Committee's work was less than perfect and asked the Board of Selectmen to implement a further study. The reply I received from the chairman is framed over my desk, as a constant reminder not to doubt my peers. I was again told quite pleasantly that the previous study had been thoroughly comprehensive to the nth degree. It inferred that I was hectoring busy people who wanted to devote their time to more useful Town matters.

Each board unto itself is not an empty theory. It can result in wasteful expenditures - a fertile breeding ground for referenda. We all remember the time when it was agreed to build a school on the Wellfield site. The logical place to build was centrally in the flat area. However, the Water Board had some wells which it wished to keep. The Board cheerfully admitted that it had spent $100,000 for a new trunk line from Spot Pond so that it had no foreseeable need for this area, especially since the wells had quickly run dry the last time they had been pressed into service.

The School Board and Building Committee did not dream of challenging the decision of this Board, or even try to tell the voters about such an outlandish situation. Therefore, they ruefully drew plans to dig into the only bill on the property, and set into it a school that was unnecessarily expensive and less than perfect for teaching purposes.

The "hands off" policy which cost the Town $80,000 in this instance caused hardly a ripple of audible protest. But a growing number of our influential people are beginning to recognize the need to do something about such situations. Realization is dawning as to why we have such a bad referendum record.

I see further hopes for better days in the discussion on Article 39. Here we have a new committee that indulges in self-analysis, and brought up points which it was willing to have discussed. One person even went so far as to say that we "should start getting a dollar's worth of structure for a dollar spent."

Will our administrators let it remain a dead issue? I hope not for we will be in an extensive building program reasonably soon. It would be a shame if we do not develop a modus operandi that will permit us to have qualified experts make a cold analysis of architects proposals (perhaps even have a hand in selecting one) and check building contracts in conjunction with Town Council for a legal review thereof.

Of greater importance is for the taxpayer to have a voice in the plans. You all remember the original Junior High building plans. They were rammed through despite some obvious drawbacks. The Committee would listen to no change. It took another of those pesky referenda to force a redesign which saved the Town $250,000.

Yes, I think Committees and Town Meetings are coming of age, which will necessitate a more thoughtful and constructive approach to our problems on the part of our administration.

Very truly yours,

Wilson Thankful For Town Support At Beggs & Cobb

Editor of the Star:

May I express to you, and through your paper, to the people of Winchester, my appreciation for the support given to my request to rezoned the Beggs and Cobb property to allow the building of an apartment house. Homeowner Is Disquieted On Unmannered Dogs

Editor of the Star:

Would you think of going to a stranger's or even a good neighbor's lawn and start digging holes in it or digging up bulbs, flowers or shrubs? I dare say you wouldn't. No man in his right senses would. And yet, there are hundreds of people in Winchester who think nothing of allowing and even encouraging their dogs to do these very things.

Can you think of any reason why dogs should enjoy greater legal license than a human being? Would not a human being behaving in this fashion be looked up or at least restrained in some fashion? Why, then, is there no law to protect human beings and property owners against these marauding creatures?

Red Cross Helps Disaster Areas In Time of Need

Mrs. Barbara Moulding, executive director of the Winchester Red Cross left the Hub area on March 15 with other trained disaster case-workers for the flood area in Cincinnati, Ohio. She was accompanied by Miss Lee Grace, Blood Program director of the Cambridge Chapter; Daniel W. Wormwood, Jr., director of Disaster Service, Boston Metropolitan Chapter; Robert Waldron, Massachusetts Regional Blood Program director.

Mrs. Moulding has spent part of her time serving in Wheeling, West Virginia, and the remainder in Dayton, Kentucky.

In the disaster areas, flooded highways and back-country roads made access to many communities difficult and to some impossible, but with the cooperation of civic, state, and municipal organizations and agencies as well as the military, Red Cross was able to extend a helping hand to families affected by this catastrophe.

In community after community, students from nearby schools and colleges assisted Red Cross as volunteers and Public Health Nurses assisted student nurses assisted in the shelters with medical care for flood refugees.

Alaska News

The role of the Red Cross in providing relief to Alaskan families affected by the recent earthquake was outlined today by C. Leo Wilhelm, regional manager of the Red Cross in Boston.

Mr. Wilhelm stated that Governor William A. Egan of Alaska has designated the American Red Cross as the official agency for providing personal assistance to individuals and families affected, so they can return to a normal way of life.

Government funds will be aimed at restoring public buildings, schools, streets, highways, bridges and public utilities.

Governor Egan stated that any donations received from the public through the Red Cross for disaster sufferers will be used solely to "deal with the problems of individuals and families affected by the earthquake."

The Governor urged all persons and groups wishing to help, to send their contributions directly to local Red Cross chapters.

Contributions from Massachusetts residents may be sent to local chapters or to "American Red Cross - Alaskan Disaster" 17 Gloucester Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02115.

The Red Cross in Boston reported that even though it handled more than 1000 telephone calls during the past week, it knows of less than 30 families who have not received definite information about the welfare of friends and relatives.

Meanwhile, in Alaska, the Red Cross is carrying out its traditional role of providing food, shelter, clothing and medical care and is planning for long range rehabilitation of all families affected.

Robert F. Shea, Red Cross vice president for disaster services, who has just returned from Anchorage estimated that at least 1000 families will need major Red Cross assistance in rebuilding, repairing or refurbishing their homes.

Sixty experienced Red Cross disaster staff members are on the scene providing relief and expediting confirmations on the more than 50,000 welfare inquiries that have poured in from all over the world.

The Red Cross is currently operating six emergency shelters in Anchorage and nine at Glen Allen. At Seward, they are feeding approximately 800 persons a day and 300 more at Kodiak. Special disaster teams have been sent to other locations to speed recovery programs.

17 Here Honored By Heart Gifts

Seventeen late residents of Winchester have been honored with memorial gifts to the Greater Boston Chapter of the Massachusetts Heart Association during the past three months, it was disclosed today.

"These gifts, which pay tribute to the dear departed friends and relatives of the donors, provide hope for the living through their contribution to the battle against heart disease," Chapter President Dr. David Littmann declared.

Dr. Littmann said that although memorial contributions have steadily increased during recent years, the most substantial gain to-date has been during 1963-64.

The Heart Fund has received gifts in memory of the following local residents: Mrs. Jerome Bailey Foster; Mrs. Edna M. Crocker; Elizabeth J. Gahan; Mrs. Jennie C. Hastings; Robert Hinds; Walter K. Hutchinson; Joseph LePore; Mrs. Elizabeth Macwha; Murray Mercer; Clyde Y. Mullen; Carl S. Nelson; Lucy B. Pywell; Emma G. Rice; Arthur T. Rogde; Mrs. John Salt; Mrs. Gerda O. Swanson.

When you give the United Fund way, more of your money reaches those in need. By combining nearly 200 agencies in a single appeal, 93 cents of every dollar goes into direct agency services. Fund raising costs in separate drives sometimes run as high as 75 cents of each dollar collected. Give generously to the "People Helping People" campaign.

voters. Thus, for the petitions to be valid, they would have to be filed at the Town Clerk's office by 4:30 p.m. today, and would have to have 333 approved signatures. Then the Board of Selectmen has ten days in which to order a special referendum election, and the election would have to come within 14 days. The cost of having a special referendum balloting according to Elsie Nelson, town clerk, would be in the vicinity of $1,000.

As of Wednesday morning, Mr. Longiro said he had dropped his plans to carry through with getting 333 signatures because he didn't have the time to canvass for them, had few or no helpers, and didn't think the town would vote against the determination of the Town Meeting on the zoning change at the Town Meeting.

"I am all out for having an apartment there," he said, "but being a neighbor to it I don't want it to go as high as 80 feet." He added that a lot of his neighbors also don't want it to go up to an 80 feet height, even though they generally approved of having an apartment there.

As of Tuesday night, Mr. Dattilo said he was planning on carrying through to get the 333 signatures he needed for a special referendum to have the plans started for a west side fire station. At that point he said he already had over 100 signatures, and several interested helpers taking papers around. "I believe there should be a fire station on the west side before they enlarge the one in the Center," he said in explaining why he had taken out the petition papers, "because it doesn't do us any good up here and it will still take just as long to get here."

Lt. Col. Conlon Presented Trophy

A mother who will never forget the meaning of aviation safety, witnessed the presentation of a memorial trophy dedicated to her son to "New England's Own" Marine Attack Squadron 322, during ceremonies held Saturday morning at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

Mrs. Joseph F. Ross, Sr., witnessed the ceremonies as Brigadier General Hugh M. Elwood, the Commanding General of Marine Air Reserve Training presented the trophy to Marine Reserve Lieutenant Colonel Thomas W. Conlon of 57 Lake Street and superintendent of the Water and Sewer Department, the squadron commanding officer.

The trophy was presented to the Marine Air Reserve Training Command in 1950 by Mr. and Mrs. Ross to encourage "Safety Perfection" following the death of their son Marine First Lieutenant Joseph F. "Pete" Ross, Jr., in a training accident.

Valued at $5,000 the trophy is the second highest award that can be won by a Marine Air Reserve fighter or attack squadron. It is topped only by the Chief of Naval Operations Aviation Safety Award.

Pilots from VMA-322 flew 2,605.5 accident-free hours to win the trophy which is awarded annually on a calendar year basis to the jet squadron within the Marine Air Reserve Training Command which compiles the best aviation safety record, based on the types of missions flown and the total number of accident free flight hours.

WGBH-League In Radio Show On Int'n'l Problems

A replay of the 1964 School of International Relations, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts on January 29, will be broadcast by radio station WGBH in a series of programs which began April 8. The topic is "Khrushchev's Russia: Domestic Developments and Intra-Bloc Relations since 1953." In an effort to evaluate the period of lessening of tension between the Soviet Union and the U.S. brought about by the test ban treaty, or what W. W. Rostow refers to as "the third round in the effort to establish whether or not it is possible for the Soviet Union and the West to live together on this planet under conditions of tolerable stability and low tension," the League chose this subject.

In the broadcast on April 8, Zbigniew Brzezinski, director of the Research Institute on Communist Affairs at Columbia University, analyzed political changes within the Soviet Union and suggested that a "major Soviet reassessment of the world situation and an implicit acknowledgement that Soviet policies of the last few years have failed" is reflected in Khrushchev's acceptance of an "atmosphere-only" test ban.

Recordings of other presentations will be offered by WGBH at 4 p.m. and repeated at 11 p.m. on the following days:

April 15: The Intellectual and the Soviet Regime: Priscilla Johnson, free-lance writer on Soviet Affairs and The New Look in Soviet Economics: Joseph S. Berliner, Professor of Economics, Brandeis University.

April 22: Soviet Foreign Policy and Intra-Bloc Relations: Phillip Mosely, director of the European Institute, Columbia University.

April 29: Panel Discussion: Barbara Stuhler, member of the National Board of the League of Women Voters, Moderator; Miss Priscilla Johnson and Messrs. Mosely, Berliner, Brzezinski and Berliner. Mrs. Edward S. Rendall, of Winchester, was a member of the League Committee that arranged the program.

Sons Of Italy News

We were happy to see good old Jake Jacobellis at the club again after being hospitalized.

The Winchester Men's and Ladies' Lodges have made final arrangements for a joint installation of officers and initiation of new members at the club hall on Sunday, April 19, starting with a social hour at 5:30 p.m. All new members who were merely initiated through the short ceremony are urged to be present at this affair to be duly initiated by the excellent performance of the men's degree team. This is really something!

Speaking of the degree team, business agent Boss Dattilo announced a long list of engagements with the first being held at Revere on April 18, followed by our own on the next day and others at Brighton, Waltham and Bridgeport, Conn.

Ven. Bob Fiore announces that the Friday night special of clams and lobsters are going at full speed ahead. Servings supposedly made between 6:00 - 9:00 p.m., so long before that, so put in your orders early for the tasty plate.

At the regular meeting held on Monday night Gus Baldacci showed movies of the clam bake and outing held last summer at Camp Fellsland. The film made a big hit and the boys want Gus to know that the pictures were most appreciated.

Going to participate in the club's golf league? Be sure to sign up with chairman Art Dunbar! Do it soon!

Pete Provinzano, athletic trainer at Harvard, spent last week on a southern trip with the baseball team and reports that Winchester's Paul DeRossi looked good on the mound winning two of the four wins and a tie on the trip. Pete also mentions that sophomore George Neville did a good job in the outfield. Both of these boys were formerly coached by Pete's brother, Frank, who is now at the Lynch Junior High School.

The charity committee with Gus Baldacci and Louis Perocco at the reins wish that all members support the committee's undertakings.

Manager Hokie Procopio of the softball championship team has stated that his unit is anxious to get going and claims that the championship trophy will remain on the display counter for another year.

Frank Provinzano is a representative for the World Book Encyclopedia, so if you have troubles helping your youngsters with home work assignments, Frank will be extremely happy to show you the best way for finding solutions.

Hazel O'Donnell "Elijah" Soloist

Hazel F. O'Donnell, (Mrs. Joseph E.) will be heard this coming Friday evening, April 10, in the role of the Widow in Mendelssohn's "Elijah." The performance of this marvelous work is being presented by the Arlington Philharmonic Society under the direction of Paul L. Bauguss at Arlington High School at 8:15 p.m. and is open to the public.

Mrs. O'Donnell has had a broad and varied musical background. A graduate of Boston University with a master's degree in piano, she is now studying voice with Professor David Blair McCloskey. She is in great demand as an Oratorio soloist, women's club entertainer and accompanist. She is presently doing some work in voice therapy at the Boston Eye and Ear Throat Clinic.

Locally, Mrs. O'Donnell is the soprano soloist at the First Baptist Church where her husband is the pastor. She also teaches piano and voice at her residence at 10 Lawrence Street. The O'Donnells have three children currently in Wyman School.

Holy Name Italian Night Saturday

If you have not and do not purchase your tickets for the Holy Name Italian night and supper you definitely will be a sorry lot. The time for this affair is from 8:00 p.m. to midnight on Saturday of this week, April 11, and the place is the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street.

Rev. Fr. Martin Dolphin is the spiritual director and he and co-chairmen Gregory Sacca and Vito Giarizzo have arranged a most exciting night of feasting, entertainment and dancing.

The menu consists of spaghetti and meat balls with meat sauce, grated cheese, tossed salad, rolls and butter, coffee and dessert catered by the Polcari Bros.

Entertainment during dinner will be provided by the "Two Scotchies and a Rye" trio which will serenade each table and following the Italian supper, all will remain for an evening of dancing until closing time.

You should be reminded that the proceeds of the affair will be used toward the most worthwhile project of the Scholarship Fund and other welfare undertakings.

It is not essential that you be a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church, so get on that phone now and make your reservations if any are still available. We hope so for your sake!

You may contact any of the following for tickets: co-chairmen Gregory Sacca and Vito Giarizzo, Fred Fiumara, Frank Antonuccio, John McDonald, Frank Provinzano, Richard Hines, James Henry, John Looney, John Waite, Jr., Frank Grabiec, Arthur Duffy, Ed Sandford, Leo Roche, George Ross, John Doherty, Dave Porcaro, Ernest Cantella, Hugh Fay, Robert Costello, Gene Rotondi, John Fitzgerald, Bernard Delorey, Arthur Sampson, and William McGaragle. Greater Boston Youth Symphony Concert Program

A free Jordan Hall concert on Sunday, April 26, at 3 p.m. will highlight the remainder of the season for the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestras.

Also on the spring semester schedule for the two teen symphonies representing junior and senior high schools in some 50 communities:

The original G.B.Y.S.O. will give a pair of benefit concerts in Concord, New Hampshire, on April 18 and 19, under Conductor Marvin Rabin of the Boston University music faculty. It will complete its sixth season with a free Concerto Concert at 3 p.m. on May 24 at Boston University Concert Hall, 855 Commonwealth Avenue. Soloists from the orchestra's own membership will be featured.

The younger Junior Youth Symphony rounds out its first performing year with two benefits: one given Sunday, April 5, at Hamilton-Wenham Regional High School; and one on Sunday, May 3, at 3 p.m. at Canton High School, marking National Music Week's opening.

Members of the original G.B.Y.S.O. who live in Winchester include Brenda Baker, Lance R. Grenzeback, Bob Jones and Robert Wilson. Members of the Junior Youth Symphony from Winchester are Gayle Clark, Frank L. Politano and Heidi Rendall.

Both orchestras will continue to be heard on WXHR (96.6 FM) through June 2, in a series sponsored by the Gas Utilities industry. Programs hosted by John Thornton are scheduled on alternate Tuesdays (April 7 and 21, May 5 and 19, June 2) from 9 to 10 p.m.

Ticket information for the Hamilton-Wenham, Concord and Canton benefit concerts is available at COT-2100, ext. 8220. Although the Jordan Hall concert is free, reservations must be made at that number as early as possible, since more than three-fourths of the 1100 seat hall has been committed, primarily to school-age youngsters.

The youth symphonies are non-profit organizations co-sponsored by the Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts, the music directors of public, private and parochial schools, and a community board of directors.

David Ewing's 'Managerial Mind' Published Monday

If an executive wants to rise to the managerial level, he'd better have a mind of his own. Top administrators like associates with independent viewpoints and often prefer to work with men whose outlooks are the opposite of their own, declares David W. Ewing, of 195 Cambridge Street, author of The Managerial Mind, published Monday by The Free Press of Glencoe.

Mr. Ewing, associate editor of the Harvard Business Review, draws profiles of top management executives from big business and other organizations, as they are seen by themselves, colleagues and business educators. Non-conformity could be the best policy, if these words of a leading manager are an indication:

"I can't think of anything which annoys me more than a man who says: here's the way we handled it last year—and the year before—and we better handle it the same way this year. Every time originality is snuffed out, we are choking off the very tap-roots of our organization's creativity."

Intellectual characteristics which distinguish the manager and his special approach to problems are pointed up. Setting the managerial mind apart from that of the lawyer, accountant, scientist or entrepreneur is its overriding concern with the company's survival, continuity and expansion.

"To think and come up with ideas" that will make men "work like hell" is the way one top manager sees his job. To help accomplish this, he has surrounded himself with men whom, he acknowledges, are smarter than he is in their respective fields.

Non-conformity is also a way of life among managers willing to accept tensions as means of creating arguments which benefit the firm. Moreover, and contrary to widespread opinion, managers are reluctant to manipulate the personalities of others, relates the author, although there are times when employees must be told how to act.

A member of the faculty of the Harvard Business School, David W. Ewing is the author of numerous articles in the Harvard Business Review and editor of "Long-Range Planning for Management" (1958); "Effective Marketing Action" (1958); and (with D. H. Fenn, Jr.) "Incentives for Executives" (1961). He has been a consultant to industry for ten years.

Mr. Ewing lives here with his wife, Elizabeth and their four children.

WINCHESTER SAVINGS BANK ADVERTISEMENT

The Winchester Savings Bank, Winchester, Massachusetts, will receive sealed proposals for renovation of existing building at Winchester, Massachusetts.

Proposals shall be based on the work to be completed in strict accordance with drawings, specifications and other documents prepared by William F. Cann, Architect, Suite 1133, 342 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

The proposals, in duplicate, together with the drawings, specifications and other documents needed for estimating purposes shall be delivered to the office of the Treasurer of the Bank not later than eleven o'clock A.M. on the morning of Friday, May 1, 1964, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

Plans, specifications and other documents may be obtained at the Bank, upon due notice of the intent to prepare a proposal, and the deposit of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) in cash or a certified check, in that amount, payable to the Winchester Savings Bank, which deposit will be refunded within three days after delivery of the proposal and the return of the documents in satisfactory condition.

Bidders taking the documents and not submitting a proposal will have the deposit refunded less the cost of reproducing the documents. Bidders wishing additional sets may obtain the same at the cost of reproduction and upon agreement to return them to the Architect in good condition before the time set for the receipt of the general contract proposals.

Proposals shall be fully completed upon the forms provided and in accordance with the "Instructions to Bidders." The proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond by an approved surety company payable to the Winchester Savings Bank in the amount of at least five per cent (5%) of the proposal. All such deposits, except those of the three lowest responsible and eligible bidders, will be returned within three days after the time set for the receipt of the proposals. Remaining deposits shall be returned upon the execution and delivery of the contract agreement and bond, or if no award is made, then at the expiration of thirty days after the time set for the receipt of those proposals, unless forfeited by failure to sign the contract as herein provided.

A surety bond, by a company approved by the Bank and in an amount equal to the Contract Sum will be required to guarantee the faithful performance of the Contract and the payment of all obligations for labor and materials required thereunder. The cost of this bond shall be included in the proposed sum.

The contract shall be signed and the bond furnished within seven days after notification of the award of the contract. In case of failure of the bidder, after such notification, to sign the contract and furnish the bond, the Owner at its option may determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract. Thereupon the proposal and acceptance shall be null and void, and the Owner shall be at liberty to make other contracts with other parties for the work as the Owner sees fit. The deposit accompanying the abandoned proposal shall become the property of the Owner and shall be retained as liquidated damages and full compensation for all loss, damage and delay caused the Owner by the failure of the bidder to sign the contract and execute the bond within the time aforesaid.

All principal and such minor sub-contractors as listed in the Contractor's proposal form shall deliver to the Architect, copies of all bids sent to the General Contractors. The bids shall be in sealed opaque envelopes plainly marked on the outside with the name of the project and the bidder as well as the names of those General Contractors to whom the bid is delivered.

All such bids shall be in the possession of the Architect and the General Contractors on or before eleven o'clock on the morning of Monday, April 27, 1964. (Note: This date shall be at least four days before the opening of the prime bids.)

The names of these sub-bidders who have filed their bids will be sent to the General Contractors bidding on the project. No bids of sub-contractors other than those included in the Architect's list shall be used by the General Contractor in his proposal.

It is the intention of the Owner to award the contract to the lowest qualified and responsible bidder, but the Bank reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to award the contract to the bidder deemed best for the interest of the Bank. No bids shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty days subsequent to the time set for their receipt without the consent of the Bank.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the Architect's office, the Bank and Dodge Reports.

Sale For The Blind A Great Success

The sale of articles made by the blind held at the Methodist Church in Winchester on April 2, was most successful. Proceeds handed to Mrs. Edith N. Maynard, director of sales for the Massachusetts Division of the Blind, from sales of articles and sale of food at the snack bar were $710.

One hundred and forty women from thirty Winchester organizations gave their time and efforts during the day to displaying and selling the many handicrafts made in the workshop in Cambridge.

The Parkhurst School mothers, headed by Mrs. Frederick Lindberg, president, ran the popular snack bar throughout the sale, contributing much in the way of fine home-cooked food and tasty snacks.

Mrs. Herbert M. Gibbs, one of the workers from the Vincent-Owens School Parents' Association, was the lucky winner of the beautiful doll with the attractive hand crocheted dress made by a blind person.

Winchester Elks Suite Travels To Billerica to Install Officers for Year; Winchester Installation Next Sunday

Last Sunday, April 5, Creighton L. Horn, past exalted ruler of Winchester Lodge of Elks No. 1445, led a suite of Winchester Elks officers to Billerica to install the officers of that lodge for the coming lodge year.

Observers well versed in Elks ritual conceded that Creighton did a masterful job as grand exalted ruler, handling his part flawlessly and impressively. No less impressive was the work of his grand esquire, Nicholas DiZio, another past exalted ruler of Winchester lodge. The other officers of the suite handled their jobs capably to earn the respect and approval of those in attendance.

Other members of Creighton's suite of installing officers consisted of John Murphy, present exalted ruler of Winchester lodge, Roland Twombly, exalted ruler-elect, Frank Hadley, Edward Sterling, William O'Connor, Francis Curtin, Joseph Peel, P.E.R., H.L.M., Francis Allen, P.E.R., Bennett Wightman, and George O'Leary.

It was an open installation, with many wives, mothers and daughter of Billerica Elks in attendance. Wives of Winchester Elks were also present in good number.

A social hour preceded the installation. A fine, catered roast, beef dinner followed the ceremony, after which there was dancing to a good combo.

Next Sunday, April 12, the Billerica lodge will in turn install the officers of Winchester lodge. The installation will take place at the Legion Home on Vine Street.

The usual meeting the first Tuesday of the month will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, followed by a social hour at the Elks Home, after which everyone will return to the Legion Home for the installation.

A fine collation will follow the installation at the Elks Home.

The following officers will be installed:

Exalted Ruler — Roland C. Twombly
Esteemed Leading Knight — Frank R. Hadley
Esteemed Loyal Knight—John F. Hogan
Esteemed Lecturing Knight — Edward H. Sterling

Trustee (5 years)—William E. Dailey

Tiler—William O'Connor
Inner Guard—Joseph B. Peel
Chaplain—James L. Milnes

Tandem Club Lobster Picnic

A gourmet's delight is in store for members and guests of the Tandem Club on Wednesday evening, April 15.

The aroma of boiled lobster will permeate the air in Hadley Hall as they arrive at 7 p.m. for a juice appetizer prior to sitting down to the lobster picnic at 7:30.

Picnic apparel is the order of dress for the occasion so that every last morsel can be consumed. Those attending are requested to bring their own lobster picks and crackers for that purpose.

The lobsters are being specially ordered for this affair, therefore reservations must be made by Friday, April 10. Call Lex and Kathy Theilens, PA 9-6614 or Bob and Barbara Durland, PA 9-7367. Anyone allergic to lobster may request an alternate dinner at the time of reservation.

This is also the annual meeting of the Tandem Club where chairmen will report their activities for the past year and a slate of new officers for next year will be presented and voted upon. It is hoped all members will turn out to vote.

Our program chairmen, Stan and Barbara Buchanan, are planning an entertaining finale to the evening's festivities.

To Speak at Home And Garden Club

Herbert Howarth Coe, distinguished architect - decorator, will be the speaker at the April 15th meeting of the Winchester Home and Garden Club at the Methodist Church Hall.

As a speaker, he is very popular since he combines his spontaneous humor with a very instructive talk. Mr. Coe presents color schemes, showing fabrics, wall and floor coverings and color slides of interiors.

En Ka Members Plan Street Fair

One hundred En Ka members gathered last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Paul C. Dunn for the spring luncheon meeting.

Exciting plans for the Street Fair were revealed by the fair chairman, Bernice Kimball. The theme will be "Old Fashioned Country Fair" and many clever touches will be used to lend an air of rural living. The farm atmosphere will be carried out by the presence of real livestock including baby calves, chickens and ducks! A realistic country store will also be part of the Fair scenery.

Mary Knox announced that the "donations" this year will be for a Nassau trip. A five hundred dollar trip credit or cash may be substituted which should make the "donations" of interest to everyone. Mrs. Kimball also mentioned that this year an added attraction on the Fair grounds will be a roller coaster!

At the conclusion of the meeting, mention was made of the recent death of En Ka's friend, Alfred Elliott. A resolution was made and will be spread upon the records that the Chairman of the En Ka Exchange should express to Mrs. Elliott the thanks and appreciation of the Society for the generosity and the many kindnesses always shown to En Ka by Mr. Elliott. His friendly personality and even his yearly gift of unusual pussy-willows will be long remembered.

The next En Ka affair will be the traditional Provisional Tea which will fall on Thursday, April 10.

WHS European Kirsten Tour This Summer

Reporting on the continuing portion of the European trip, KIRSTEN TRAVEL ADVISORS write—

Leaving Germany the group proceeds along the shore of Lake Constance to Bregenz in Austria, before entering Switzerland. We have a short sight-seeing tour in old and new Zurich and continue by road to Lucerne, one of the most beautiful cities in Switzerland. Situated on the shore of Lake Lucerne on the River Reuss, Lucerne retains its old-world charm with its medieval walls, towers, ancient churches and quaint covered wooden bridges. On our exploration trip of the environs, we reach Mount Pilatus by cogwheel mountain railroad for a breathtaking panorama of the Alps; we drive to Berne, the capital of Switzerland, and on to Interlaken, famous resort at the foot of the majestic Jungfrau mountain peak. We return to Lucerne by way of the Grimsel and Furka Passes.

Our road south takes us through the St. Gotthard Pass. In exactly 12 minutes of tunnel travel, we have moved from fir trees to a landscape of cypresses, from an Alpine sky to the softness and light of the Mediterranean without ever leaving Switzerland. We pass Bellinzona and Lugano, both already distinctly Italian in character, and arrive in Como on Lake Como. Here, we leisurely visit Cernobbio Park along the banks of the lake, stroll around the Cathedral and Broletto Palace, board one of the small white steamers for a cruise around the lake and wonder at the flowered terraces of the Riviera Trezzina, Bellagio, Varenna and Cernobbio.

We now proceed to Milan for an orientation tour of the city, before continuing to Venice. We visit the Duomo Cathedral, one of the finest Gothic edifices in Italy. The building was begun in 1386 and work on it continued for more than five hundred years. Time permitting, we may also be able to see Leonardo da Vinci's famous fresco, "The Last Supper," at the Church of Santa Maria Della Grazie. We drive via Brescia, Verona (city immortalized by Romeo and Juliet) and Padua to Venice.

Town Softball League

In this column a week ago, the qualifications for participating in the Town League were mentioned and since that time director Frank Provinzano has received numerous calls asking for the possibility of joining a team for the season.

Because time is getting short, director Provinzano has called for his first meeting with the team managers. The managers will meet at the Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street on Monday evening, April 13 at 8 p.m.

All teams with the intentions of being a part of the league are urged to be present at this organizational get-together. No new teams will be permitted to join after this date of April 13, so be sure you are represented. At this meeting a tentative schedule will be announced, team entries will be considered, qualifications shall be announced and rules and regulations shall be discussed.

Director Provinzano urges all interested participants to be present at this meeting as mentioned above or at least be represented because an absence will be considered as a negative interest and you will not be considered in the plans.

Umpires are most welcome to attend!

Badminton Club Wins Two State Championships

Crowning a very successful season of competition in the Massachusetts Badminton Association's "D" League, representatives of the Winchester Badminton Club last week captured state championships in two events, and very nearly made it a clean sweep by taking a third event as well.

Since Winchester and Westwood finished in a dead heat for the North Division of Men's Doubles title, a play-off match was held at the Mungus Club in Wellesley. By winning three of the four hotly-contested doubles competitions, Westwood earned the right to meet Marshfield, the South Division champions and proved their superiority by winning three of the five matches for the league championship.

Winchester, however, more than made up for the loss in the men's doubles by sweeping all four of their mixed doubles matches against Marshfield and by taking both of the ladies' doubles matches against Canton, the Southern Division representative in that event.

The complete scoring summary is as follows:
Men's doubles: R. Pipes and C. Buck (Westwood) defeated Bill Macneill and Jay Gottesfeld (Winchester) 12-15, 15-4, 15-9; R. Pipes and R. Wallace (Westwood) defeated Bill Macneill and Tony Smith (Winchester) 15-11, 15-7; Peter Cove and Bob Gallant (Winchester) defeated L. Dionne and R. Wallace (Westwood) 15-9, 14-15, 15-11; J. Kropper and R. Spalding (Westwood) defeated Jay Gottesfeld and Paul Vincel (Winchester) 2-15, 15-12, 15-10.

Mixed doubles: Bill Macneill and Maxine Kajander (Winchester) defeated D. Winchester and H. Winchester (Marshfield) 15-10, 15-10; Jay Gottesfeld and Gloria Gottesfeld (Winchester) defeated J. Hubbard and A. Sherman (Marshfield) 15-12, 15-7; Bob Gallant and Stella Gallant (Winchester) defeated D. Nectow and F. Hubbard (Marshfield) 15-13, 15-11; Lloyd Butterfield and Lois Hersey (Winchester) defeated L. Parsons and G. Parsons (Marshfield) 11-15, 15-6, 15-9.

Ladies' doubles: Maxine Kajander and Stella Gallant (Winchester) defeated A. Keyes and T. Chase (Canton) 15-8, 18-17; Faith Heneghan and Gloria Gottesfeld (Winchester) defeated P. Healey and M. Murphy (Canton) 18-16, 15-8.

Local Badminton League Standings

Scoring their second consecutive one-sided victory, the Racqueteurs took over sole possession of first place following the fourth round of matches in the Winchester Badminton Club's Intramural League. But, by winning four out of six matches themselves, the Woodshots are in hot pursuit of the league leaders.

Standings with two rounds of matches to go are as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Racqueteurs	15	8	.652
Woodshots	13	11	.542
Feathers	12	11	.522
Shuttles	7	17	.292

Winning pairings for the Racqueteurs in their match against the Feathers were Peter Gove-Whit Gray, Peter Gove-Brad Hersey, and Whit Gray-Brad Hersey in the men's doubles; and Whit Gray-Terry Ward in the mixed doubles.

Ed Williams-Stella Gallant accounted for the lone Feathers victory. There was no ladies' doubles match held.

In their 4-2 win over the Shuttles, the Woodshots took two of the men's doubles matches when Bill Macneill-Paul Vincel and Ray Jenkins-Paul Vincel won; and they then swept the mixed doubles with wins by Bill Macneill-Alison Hersey and Ray Jenkins-Gloria Gottesfeld.

The Shuttles added two victories of their own, thanks to Jay Gottesfeld-Lloyd Butterfield in the men's doubles, and Susie Sanborn-Lois Hersey in the ladies' doubles.

The all day science fair included 80 competing high schools, of which 20 placed as winners with Winchester seniors coping two of these 20 awards. Both students will represent Winchester High School at the upcoming state science fair to be held at Massachusetts Institute of Technology on May 1, 2 and 3.

Butch Songin Named Sweepers Coach

Edward (Butch) Songin, former Boston College ace quarterback and one of the country's most widely known football personalities, has been signed as head coach of the Boston Sweepers, members of the Atlantic Coast Professional Football League.

Songin is being brought into the Sweeper fold by president and owner Ted Barron who declared the move as his first step towards bringing the ACFL championship to the Hub.

"Butch has conquered all possible goals as a player and we feel he can accomplish similar successes as a head coach in the professional ranks," Barron said during the contract signing ceremony.

Songin's football career has covered all stops from all-scholastic honors in high school to nationwide notoriety as a pro grinder. And, everything came on the wings of one of the most accurate passing arms ever seen in this area.

Following a brilliant career at Walpole High School, Songin moved into the collegiate ranks and his first fling at national prominence as Boston College's aerial quarterback.

During his senior year (1949) at the Heights, Butch turned down a $50,000 pro grid offer from the now defunct New York Yanks in order to retain his amateur status and help the B. C. hockey team in its bid for Eastern supremacy during the 1949-50 season.

After the 1949 collegiate campaign he played in the North-South All-Star game in which he suffered a severe leg injury. This not only put him on the sidelines but wiped out his hockey participation and sent the $50,000 down the drain.

In January of 1950, Songin was publicly rewarded for his team spirit and devotion to Boston College by being awarded the Varsity Club Trophy for "Scholarship, Athletic Ability and Sportsmanship."

Defeated by Cleveland Browns of the NFL, Butch didn't have much opportunity to show his wares since he was second fiddle to the great Otto Graham, the present head football coach and athletic director at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy in Connecticut.

In 1953, Songin threw the Hamilton Tigers to their first Canadian League professional championship in 17 years and after one more year north of the border he returned to this area to serve as player-coach of the Canton Town Team, played hockey with the Wetzell Club and accepted an appointment as probation officer at the Wrentham Court.

Nearly four years ago he played the key role in getting the Patriots off the AFL ground and he served as the Hub team's top attraction and quarterback for two seasons.

Songin has had a long and distinguished career on the gridiron. He is heading for more of the ranks of the Atlantic Coast League to match wits with such established men as Steve Van Buren

L. L. Aux Reports 1964 Schedule

The Little League Tryouts are not yet completed, and the boys will have to hustle to keep up with their mothers. For already the mothers' Little League Auxiliary has met and planned the seasons activities.

Tuesday afternoon, March 24, Mrs. David Boyd of Westland Avenue, entertained the incoming board at her home, and introduced the following officers: Mrs. Robert Haffner, vice president, National League; Mrs. Joseph Julian, Jr., American League; Mrs. James Beck, secretary; Mrs. Byron Stites, treasurer. Committee chairmen are: Mrs. Seymour Niles, dance; Mrs. Herbert Arnold, ways and means; Mrs. A. V. Staniewicz, stand, West Side; Mrs. George Baratta, stand, Ginn Field; Mrs. Clarence Gay, publicity; nominating and En Ka parade float are to be filled.

As president and hostess, Mrs. Boyd needed no introduction, having been active last year as the wife of the manager of the Bears Farm Team, and as mother of Stephen, player for the Beavers.

The dates of most events were decided upon, and mothers of boys who are hopeful of making a team, and of those who are happily members of teams from last year, will probably want to circle these dates so they won't miss the fun. April 11 and 12, tryouts; April, one night during last week, kickoff; May 2, first game, May 13, coffee for managers' wives, 9:30 a.m.; May 23, En Ka parade float, and teams march; May 29, annual meeting of Auxiliary, 8 p.m.; June 7, Mothers' Baseball Game, 2 p.m.; June 12, dance, 9-11, to music of Multitones.

The Auxiliary's main purpose is to raise money for jackets for each graduating Little League player, and they do this by selling popcorn, potato chips and tonics at the refreshment stand at each field during all games. Their secondary aim is to keep the boys happy, healthy, well fed, and get them to the field on time!

Indian Tracks

BY FRANK PROCOPIO

His name is Ted Marks. You haven't heard very much about him—but don't ask me why, sometimes fame is as fickle as the proverbial female—although he must be one helluva goaltender. I found out about him just a couple of weeks ago, and now I feel embarrassed about bringing the subject up at this late date. But something should be said about this obviously unique young man who hails from Winchester.

Over at Hamilton College, in Clinton, New York, they've bestowed the laurels of greatness upon Ted in no uncertain terms. "Has anyone ever stopped to think," columnist Jon Kinne inquired in the March 13th issue of the Hamilton College SPECTATOR, "how much work Teddy has had to do in repelling foes' attacks during the last four years? When one considers that a puck weighs about four ounces and that the average shot travels over 75 miles per hour, it turns out that Ted has expended about 80 horsepower in stopping the motion of the over 2,000 pucks he has saved in his collegiate career. And while stopping this phenomenal number of shots, our sandy-haired, broad-shouldered netminder has handled over a quarter of a ton of pucks . . . Ted's success in the twines is no doubt a result of his amazingly fast reflexes, so fast, in fact, that they have prevented him from receiving a single stitch during four years of puck prestidigitating. Ignoring the harm a speeding puck could do to his face, Ted shamed the face-mask made for him by Trainer Gene Long and chose instead a shield of agility and courage which, to those who have seen him, seems much more durable than the fiberglass model."

Not long ago, I asked Winchester High hockey coach Frank Finigan about Ted. "Yes, I know of him," Frank said respectfully, "and how I wish he had been in the nets for me somewhere along the line." All the other hockey buffs I questioned answered similarly.

Ted, the son of Dr. George A. Marks, who graduated with Hamilton's Class of '24, was picked first-string goalie on the All-East Small College Team last year "after amassing over 600 saves and a save percentage of over .900." All this in spite of playing with a unit that won just two games. But this season Hamilton won six games and "Teddy's percentage of saves was once again over .900 as he turned aside over 650 opponent's shots."

Perhaps his finest hour occurred in his sophomore year when young Ted made no less than 67 stops against a sharpshooting Bowdoin six, including a save on All-East center Ron Famiglietti who skated in alone after being awarded a penalty shot. In recognition of a singular performance the partisan Bowdoin crowd gave Ted a five-minute standing ovation at the conclusion of the game, although Hamilton had been beaten 4-2.

Last year he held All-American and U. S. Olympic Team member Dates Fryberger to one goal, while making a total of 60 saves, in downing Middlebury 2-1.

For Captain Ted Marks, a college hockey career has ended. But I have a notion we have not heard the end of this remarkable goaltender's story.

Winchester High's Barry Littleton set a new meet record in the 100 yard butterfly at the New England Regional Championship of the Boys' Club of America, senior level, at Harvard. His time was :56.7. Barry swims for the Bunker Hill swimming team.

The tenth annual Wakefield Item Schoolboy Road Race will be held on Saturday, April 18th. High school boys not over 19 years of age on or before the 18th are eligible to compete. Applications may be obtained by writing to Mr. Dolbeare, Wakefield Item, 26 Albion Street, Wakefield, Mass. Deadline for all entries is April 15th. Honorary starter for the race will be William "Bill" Tighe, head football coach at Wakefield for seven years who will be moving to Malden next season.

Dr. David Ashton Writes On "Sacred Laws And U. S. Responsibilities" For B. U.

Governmental concern over the current unfavorable United States balance of trade should not deter this country from meeting its world-wide economic and strategic responsibilities, a Boston University professor of international business contends.

Writing in the current issue of the Boston University Business Review, published by the University's College of Business Administration, Dr. David J. Ashton of 22 Myrtle Street, said the U. S. world-wide commitments are "essentially dependent upon our productive potential and our political will, and not upon whether (or how) foreigners choose to spend or save their dollars."

Dr. Ashton pointed out that the U. S. economy is the most productive in the world. "It not only turns out more goods and more butter than any other, but at the present time it has some $30-40 billion a year of idle excess capacity which could be applied to improving military security or material well-being either at home or abroad."

"The balance of payments is simply not relevant," he asserted. It is particularly irrelevant "in a book-keeping sense," said the economist, "if only because all of these operations can be performed without giving rise to international transactions which are recorded in the balance of payments."

"Therefore, those who, for example, support reductions in European ground forces or Vietnamese military missions as measures forced upon the U. S. by the gold outflow and the balance of payment deficits cannot factually support such positions," he declared.

Dr. Ashton said that "although the continued European presence of forces is both politically and strategically desirable, one gets the impression that we are considering bringing a substantial number of them home for budgetary reasons. The crux of all the foregoing arguments is that such a move cannot be justified either in terms of our domestic budget or by balance of payments. Those who attempt to do so either do not understand or are using these arguments to conceal other motives."

Emphasizing that he is not contending the balance of payment is an inconsequential matter or that persistent deficits can be ignored by the nation's policy-makers, the economist said he does argue "that our policies have suffered from misplaced priorities and that, in addition, most of the policy expedients undertaken in the name of improving the balance of payments can be shown to have long-term effects contrary to the stated intentions of their proponents."

In his article, entitled, "Sacred Laws and U. S. Responsibilities," Dr. Ashton said two other areas of current economic concern, the increasing national debt and a declining gold supply, should also not, "in their present or prospective states," cause the U. S. to shy away from its obligations at home or abroad.

"It would be tragic if we permitted ourselves to be paralyzed by doctrines that defy fact and that could keep us from the great opportunities ahead," Dr. Ashton stated. "U. S. foreign policy is being irrationally and unnecessarily misdirected during this critical time because our nation's policy-makers apparently feel they must eschew certain desirable courses of action and pursue other short-sighted expedients, lest they run afoul of certain cherished but misconceived popular economic truisms."

Dr. Ashton said that we are less than effective in the discharge of some of our responsibilities because of misguided veneration of incorrect popular dogmas relating to three areas of economic policy.

These are "the size and rate of growth of the national debt; the relation between balance of payments deficits and our ability to fulfill international economic and strategic commitments, and the relationship between U. S. gold supplies and the national and international value of the dollar."

"From these misconceptions we seem to have come to the following misconclusions: (1) We cannot have full employment at home because the American people cannot bear the burden of the increases in the national debt which would be necessary to achieve it. (2) We cannot meet our strategic and assistance responsibilities abroad because of gold outflow and balance of payment deficits.

"Almost every layman, when confronted with the issue of budget deficits and the size and growth of the national debt, jumps to the time-worn position that 'No family or business organization can incur endless deficits and increasing debt. The federal government is no different. Therefore, our present federal debt growth, unless arrested, will lead us to national bankruptcy.'"

Examining what he considers the economic folklore for each of these areas, Dr. Ashton said, "Those aspects of the national debt which usually arouse the most public concern constitute no real burden whatsoever."

"Consider the 'burden' of the annual interest charges, now about $10 billion, from the taxpaying public. In effect, these monies are channeled in a continuous and circular path via the Bureau of the Public Debt and, hence, to the interest-receiving public. It may be a matter of dispute as to whether this is a regressive or progressive transfer, but it cannot reasonably be argued that this transfer from one pocket to the other is a net national burden in the sense that our income or wealth has been dissipated thereby. The same reasoning would apply to any program of taxation instituted to pay off the national debt, in whole or in part."

Dr. Ashton said that "rational policy-making must make it clear that neither the present size of the debt nor the size of its associated interest payments puts any real present or prospective burden on the economy."

Commenting on the effectiveness of the tax cut, Dr. Ashton said, "When this tax cut becomes effective, government expenditures will be unchanged, government receipts will decline and private consumer and investment spending will rise. This, by definition, cause debt-creating deficits at the outset, regardless of any pledges to 'hold the line'. But such a debt increase is not, as we have just seen, relevant to any arguments about burdens. The proposed tax cut may or may not be in the public interest (I believe that it is), but the national decision to cut or not to cut cannot logically be related to whether a non-existent 'burden' is growing heavier or lighter."

"If the national debt is not a present or prospective burden, does this mean that it can be expanded ad libitum and indefinitely without adverse consequences? Not at all, but not because of the burden of such debt and interest charge. It is the relationship of rapid debt expansion to the supply and value of money which counsels caution and moderation, and brings us to the second of our basic misconceptions; i.e., the source of monetary value, or why our money is worth anything," he stated.

"The U. S. dollar, like any national monetary unit, is valuable and useful because it satisfies the requirements for being scarce, legal and being responsibly administered. 'The integrity of the dollar; i.e., its purchasing power would not be jeopardized if some act of alchemy or thievery suddenly eliminated the national gold stock. It is administrative integrity, not gold bars, which maintains the value of the dollar. . . It is possible to develop administrative restraints which are not based upon gold, but on the financial needs of our growing economy, and thus diminish the irrelevant fixation on this one metal to the detriment of more fundamental economic issues."

"In this same context, we should not forget that purchasing power depends on there being something to purchase, so that the integrity of the dollar is protected as much by high industrial productivity as it is by careful monetary administration. We can say with certainty the present and prospective views of the national debt are neither an economic burden nor a serious threat to the value of the dollar, a value which is based not upon gold bullion supplies but upon the productive potential of our economy and the administrative integrity of our government."

Trefrey swept 8 points from Cradock behind the solid bowling of Jim Stewart. Billy Ring was high man for the losers, but the rest of the team seemed to be in mind only with Tom Kennedy, who was out playing military whist.

Peterson Chair, with its winning ways, took all 8 from Woburn Carpet. All Peterson bowlers with the exception of a lad with the initials Dave Cullen hit the 300's. Frankie Mawn finally came to life and passed over Alan Motors with a 349 triple.

Win. Esso, behind the sharpshooting of Bob Gillette, humbled mighty Alcox to the tune of 8 bir points.

Jimmy Fantozzi has finally got Suburban Const. moving as he led them to an 8 point win over San-O Cleaners. Don't forget the TV roll-off Saturday at 1 p.m.

The men's TV rolloff at Winchester Bowldrome Saturday, April 11th at 1 p.m., five strings total. Three winners of this rolloff to compete in finals at Sports Plaza, Malden, Saturday, April 18th, winner to appear on TV May 5th. Roll-off open to all local bowlers, sanctioned by the Mass. Bowling Association.

S.O.I. Men

The first rolloffs for the championship positions got off to a flying start at the Bowldrome last Tuesday evening with the final matches being had on Tuesday of this week.

Up until this season, the participant with the lowest average for the evening would sit it out the following week but now all six members of the team are a part of the results because all toe the line in the playoffs.

Fighting it out for the first place finish found B. C. really pouring it on against Notre Dame when B. C. won by an 8-0 score. Having a big night for the victors were Andy Buzzotta, who was really grooved in with excellent strings of 120-99-125, Capt. Tony Saraco was close behind with 117-133-90, Max La Carubba had a good night with 107-107-116, Giro Cerulli did well with 95-124-93, Mario Lentine had 85-82-81 and Chick Giacalone finished up with 71-84-79.

Capt. Moose Bellino of N. D. had TV scores but in a losing cause when he was the sole 300 hitter for his unit with 114-90-90 followed by Emilio Donette 77-128-82, Dan Gattinelli 102-89-93, Pete Longiro 91-89-92 and Randy Kazazian 67-83-77. In total pinfalls B. C. had 1808 with 1732 for N. D. and a difference of 76 pins.

For second place Navy took the first two strings against Alabama with the last string ending in a tie and Navy coming out on top 7-1 with a difference of 106 pins in total pinfalls showing 1836 for the victors and 1730 for the defeated.

Capt. Richie Riga of Navy was the big gun in the match with perfect strings of 101-135-133. Doing extremely well for the victors too were Joe Pettite who was zeroed in with comfortable strings of 113-129-94 and Mario Mascioli who came through when it counted with strings of 106-93-111.

Frank Provizano had playoff jitters and led the poorest he's done all season when he rolled strings of 83-92-107. Boss Dattilo bowled in improved fashion and was a big help with counts of 92-87-93. Joe DiTucci sat in as scorer because of doctor's orders but his presence was widely felt by his teammates.

Jay Cammarata had a good night in a losing cause when he tallied strings of 93-117-112 with Va-Va Mingy carrying the young contestants with scores of 101-84-113 followed by Capt. Dick To-Tofuri who found a tough night with 89-92-111. Frank Dattilo, Sr. had 80-87-92 and Al Malatesta finished with 83-84-89.

BOWLING

In the third and final game of the evening Bates had an easy time taking Yale by 8-0 and a difference in pinfalls of 130 pins when Bates had 1756 and the losers had 1626. Capt. Bob Fiore led his winning combine with good strings of 120-106-114 and behind him were Roundy Fiore 110-99-97, Arka Amico 95-106-100, Max DiMambro 104-81-93, Dan Mistretta 88-93-85 and John Pettite 83-102-80.

Mel Fiore performed best for losing Yale with good strings of 100-93-100 with others failing to get up to the 300 mark. Next in line came Muddy Saracosa 88-108-89, Capt. Richie Bucci 98-93-86, Mike Cellucci 99-78-85, Don Kenton 80-97-72 and Chick Vespucci 88-79-79.

S.O.I. Women

Kents have clinched first place this half. Congratulations to Louise Vigorita and her team mates. That means Kents and Kools will roll off for first place. The best to these two teams.

Next week will determine who will play the Newports for second place. Newports won second place in the first half. Now it is between the Luckies, Kay Lentine's team or Springs, Laura Caria's team. Springs are only one point behind the Luckies. Next week's bowling will tell. It will be a fight to the finish for these two teams. Luckies play Newports and Springs play Camels.

The Camels made a first last week. They had three on their team that made the 100 club. Capt. Tony Nappa, Bobby Ungaretti and Evelyn Giacalone. Nice bowling on one team.

There is but one more week of bowling to go. Our high single for the year is 122 for Cusi Fiore and high triple of 345 also for Cusi. Good luck to each and everyone of you. It could be your night next week, if it isn't let's say those famous last words "wait until next year." See you at the rolloffs.

My clue this week is I have not had perfect attendance this year.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Little League Tryouts

It was like playing baseball in the Arctic Zone but the eager hopefuls aspiring for a berth on a Little League team were not in the least upset by the cold weather. Last Saturday more than 350 boys tried out for a position on one of the 26 teams comprising the two leagues in Winchester.

At nine in the morning the groups in the 9 and 10-year age brackets were showing their stuff to the managers and coaches who walked around West Side and Loring Avenue fields to look over the current crop of players. The sun appeared for the afternoon session which brought out the 11 and 12-year olds and it was more like a real spring day.

The Dads' Club again provided plenty of help with the boys so that the managers could devote their time to making their appraisals as the dads put the youngsters through their paces on the field.

Interest in the Little League is high this year due in a large part to the brochure that was prepared by the Dad's Club and sent to every home in town. In the pamphlet was a short history of the program as well as an explanation of the problems of running Little League successfully.

Of prime interest are the finances of the League and the value of the mailed folder was evident in the large turnout of workers who collected donations on Little League Tag Day last Sunday. A small army of canvassers offered their services for the Bucks for Boys drive to make 1964 a banner season for the boys.

This one-day effort provides the biggest part of the necessary funds but much of the burden is lifted by the many Little League sponsors in Winchester who do their part in keeping the program solvent. Procuring these sponsors is another job that falls to the Dad's Club and their success in this facet of the project is fantastic.

Each team is sponsored by an organization or a merchant in Winchester and this year the Dad's Club has provided the sponsors with a placard that can be placed in the window of the respective establishments naming the team that is backed by the sponsor.

Little League is a combined effort and with the financial problem so ably handled there remains only the problem of finding helpful adults to lend a hand. This year, as in the past, there is a crying need for adults to umpire the minor league games especially. One or two evenings a week would be all that is required and with enough adults participating the schedule could be arranged so that only one game per week would be covered by a single person.

The enjoyment provided by the boys in these games will more than compensate for the time spent by any adult and there are plenty of jobs for all volunteers. Scorers and groundskeepers are also needed and scoring can be taught to those who are not familiar with the language.

Any resident of the town who would like to take part in the Little League effort will be welcome. This call is not directed to men alone for a woman can work as a scorer at the minor league games just as easily as a man. Little League needs your help and you can be assured that you will find plenty of enjoyment working with the boys throughout the season.

To apply for a spot in Little League simply leave your name and address at any one of the following shops: Colonial Perfumers, Ed Williams; The Sport Shop, Charlie Koch; The Hobby Shop, Ray Chase.

The Blacklers "split up" for the evening, but still managed to dominate the NS field in Section A of the game on April 1, while the Wheelocks hit the tape first by a wafer-thin margin in the EW group. Average was 110 for 22 boards in the eleven-table event.

In Section B, Peggy Sanderson was too busy thinking about the big open game (both contract and duplicate) coming up this Saturday evening, April 11, at the Church of the Epiphany to concentrate seriously on her own game. And she was more interested in telling everyone that there would be plenty of tickets available at the door for all bridge players and their guests than she was in getting a good score for herself. The result? She and her favorite caddy breezed over the course with nothing but pars and birdies, finishing better than five points ahead of the rest of the EW field and a full 11 points higher than anyone scored NS!

On Tuesday evening, March 31, it was my pleasure to act as referee for the final match of the annual Knockout Team of Four Tournament at the home of Nelson Bell. Before going into an account of the match I would like to thank all participants for their cooperation in this event. Never before have we had so many entrants—34 teams. We are indebted to Nancy Atkinson and Donna Redpath for their fine organizational efforts. The teams cooperated very well in the speed with which they arranged and played their matches. We never have finished the tournament so early—this with a record field!

The final match promised to be a very hotly contested one between two very well-matched teams. The teams were Betty Ann Pritchard, Bob Pritchard, Nelson Bell and Blair Hawley opposed by Ed Sullivan, Dick Herlihy, Jack Harding and Larry Benassi. The events of the first half of the match showed how wrong one can be in guessing the result of any team-of-four match. I will show two hands which swung the pendulum very much in favor of the Hawley-Bell-Pritchard team.

This second hand is a startling example of a big swing. At one table the Pritchard team reached a beautiful contract of 6 clubs and made it. At the other table their partners, Blair and Nelson, bid the opposite hands to a contract of 6 spades, Blair, sitting South, was lucky to get a double from West. This told him the correct way to play trumps—namely, to finesse

Facts on Radio Free Europe's Propaganda Job

Radio Free Europe operates a network of 28 powerful transmitters and relay stations to carry news, information, and entertainment behind the Iron Curtain. This is the one link with the Free World for some 80 million persons in five satellite countries. Without it, these people would have to live on a diet of red propaganda, and countless refugees tell of how important these broadcasts have been in keeping the hope of freedom alive.

The Russians spend huge sums every year trying to blot out these programs. But they don't succeed because Radio Free Europe has had the resources for powerful transmitters. Programs can be broadcast on several different frequencies at the same time.

But all this costs money too, and the annual fund drive for Radio Free Europe is now on. Its success depends on the support of many individual citizens. This is one time of the year when there is no need to ponder what you do in the fight for Freedom. Give and give generously to the support of Radio Free Europe.

New Museum Of Science In Washington, D. C.

A newly designed museum of science and discovery called Explorers Hall shines as the showcase of the National Geographic Society's new headquarters.

The museum, a window on the world and a look to the future, spreads over the high-ceilinged first floor of the 10-story, white-marble building at 17th and M Streets N.W. in Washington, D.C. It was opened to the public on weekdays January 20, 1964.

Striking new life-size displays and historic mementoes include a brooding stone head from a lost American civilization, a cosmic-ray spark chamber, Robert E. Peary's sledge, and a stratosphere balloon gondola.

The hall is designed to take visitors to the ends of earth, the edge space, and the buried past with National Geographic expeditions. Since its founding in 1888, the National Geographic Society has supported more than 200 explorations and research projects.

Performing Globe

The world's largest unmounted globe is the centerpiece of the Hall. Cradled on eight rubber wheels or rotating on a spindle, the globe spins over a black-granite reflecting pool. The sphere weighs about a thousand pounds; it measures 11 feet from Pole to Pole and 34 feet around the Equator.

The globe normally rotates on a north-to-south pole spindle tilted at an angle of 23 degrees 27 ft. the same as the earth's plane. For special effects, the spindle can be lowered by remote control. An operator at the console can then manipulate the globe in the cradle formed by the wheels, rotating it in any direction.

Three maps on 10-by-15 foot paneled greet visitors. The maps alternately turn into view as a recorded narration describes features. One depicts the world as known in 1651, another is a relief map of the world today, and the third is a colorful world map with blinking lights locating National Geographic expeditions.

Winchester Heart Fund Final Results

Maxwell McCreery, general chairman of the 1964 Winchester Heart Fund drive, announced from his home at 4 Curtis Street, that the local effort proved beyond the fondest dreams of its directors. Almost complete returns from all sources indicated that Winchester will add more than $10,500 to the progressive efforts of the Heart Fund to develop preventives and cures for this dread disease.

"It is heart-warming," Mr. McCreery stated "to realize the support we have been given this year by Winchester residents, business houses and clubs. In these times of stress, when more and more causes are asking for more and more money, we of the Heart Fund committee want to publicly acknowledge our humble thanks for the generosity our town has shown."

The work of the Heart Association perhaps affects more families than any other single agency. Heart problems, physically, do not differentiate in the persons they strike. It selects at random, young or old, healthy or weak, male or female. Only through research and training can heart afflictions be cured or, better still, curbed through education. These are some of the reasons why, therefore, the money contributed by Winchester people will be returned many fold in the reduction of heart troubles to a minor position in poor health statistics.

"The fine community spirit exhibited by Winchester in this Heart Fund drive," continued Mr. McCreery "is exemplified by their individual generosity and the hard work contributed by each of our fine staff, to whom I wish to express my personal congratulations for a job well done: Dr. Richard J. Clark, 71 Myopia Road, Special Gifts chairman; Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr., 33 Canterbury Road, Heart Fund Sunday chairman and her many fine workers and captains; Mrs. Richard J. Miano, 16 Hutchinson Road, Business Solicitations chairman; Charles W. Butler, 29 Glen Green, treasurer; Mrs. J. Warren Shoemaker, 1 Wildwood Street, Clubs and Organizations chairman and James R. Stewart, Jr., Advertising and Public Relations chairman."

Dial-a-matic adding machine. For small offices, home use, income tax, etc. Six dials, answers appear automatically. Also subtracts. Priced at $4.00 at the Winchester Star.

Hadassah Luncheon April 15

Final arrangements for the luncheon were made yesterday at a board meeting at the home of president Mrs. Albert H. Copans.

Mrs. Albert Steigmann and Mrs. Morris Snyder both past presidents of the W. S. W. Chapter of Hadassah are very active in this luncheon which will be held at the Colonial in Lynnfield, Wednesday, April 15 at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. Albert Steigmann has charge of the "ad" book and is very pleased with the results. Mrs. Morris Snyder has charge of the reservations and said there is still time to make them just by calling her.

Mrs. Samuel Baker, program chairman has a real treat in store for us. As our guest speaker, Mrs. Baker has invited Mrs. Theodore Feinberg, former past president of Boston Chapter of Hadassah and at present the president of the New England region.

Mrs. Theodore Feinberg, has been affiliated with Hadassah and Zionist life since her Junior Hadassah days. Her interest in Jewish education has closely identified her with this phase of Hadassah activities. She has been active in fund-raising activities, serving as fund-raising co-ordinator for the Region 1961-62 and H. M. O. Golden Jubilee Luncheon chairman for the Boston Chapter, 1961-62.

Mrs. Baker has been fortunate to have as our entertainment for the afternoon Robert Reed, pianist and singer. It promises to be a gala affair and all those who haven't made their reservation, please do so.

Elks Feature Spaghetti Dinner Saturday

This Saturday, April 11, the bi-weekly spaghetti dinner will again be served at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue, from noon to about 2 p.m.

Those who have attended these dinners in the past know what a treat they are. Chef Jimmy Violante will be on hand as usual to make his fine spaghetti sauce with meat balls and sausage. With the spaghetti comes a superb Italian salad, Italian bread, and a beverage.

Elks members and their guests are invited to attend.

Senior Forum

"Why Are We Here?" is the question that the Rev. H. Newton Clay, minister of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, will ask the members of the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church next Sunday morning at the 9:15 chapel service.

Mr. Clay has been a guest speaker at Forum for several years. His interest in and understanding of young people make him a popular speaker at youth meetings throughout his own denomination as well as here in Winchester. His wit and humor spark up his talks, but his challenge to serious thinking and responsible action come through. Forumites are happy to welcome him back.

Assisting in the service will be Diane Kittredge and Marilyn Elm, chaplains; Beth Gilpatrick and Jill Jefferson, deacons; Deborah Barone and Susan Lewis, ushers.

On Saturday, April 18, Forum will have a car wash in the church parking lot. The proceeds will go toward the Quebec trip. Richard Penner and David Weaver are co-chairmen of this event.

Historical Society Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Winchester Historical Society was held in the Rich Room of the library on April 4 with Arthur R. Keen presiding.

The Society voted to accept the slate as presented by the nominating committee for the year 1964-65 as follows: Arthur R. Keen, president; Mrs. Alice K. Greenwood, 1st vice president; Miss Persis A. Richardson, 2nd vice president; Mrs. William A. Davis, secretary; Miss Laura B. Tolman, treasurer and Mrs. Marion L. Symmes, Miss Clara R. Russell, Dr. Eugene M. Pollard, Mrs. Paulina M. Belville, Mrs. Florence W. Parsons, Marshall W. Symmes, Mrs. Rony Snyder and Mrs. Arthur H. Haines, directors. Miss Russell introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Wyman S. Randall lecturing on "Our Heritage of Early American Homes." This was beautifully illustrated with colored slides depicting the homes of the colonial period to the federal homes of the middle 19th century.

Fair Housing Group Reports 1400 Good Neighbor Signatures

Two Month Association, Church Solicitation Drive Nets 1400 Signatures From 5000 Homes On Posed Moral Issue

The Winchester Fair Housing Association has announced this week that over 1400 local residents have signed the Good Neighbor Pledge which the association sponsored on a community-wide scale during the months of February and March in an attempt to achieve popular town signature-ratification of its goal to open, improve, and broaden the image of the town's "welcome mat" to newcomers to Winchester regardless of race, religion, or national origin.

Of the 1400 persons who signed, 1200 were willing to have their names published as signatories publicly affirming their belief in the pledge and statement which they signed. A list of these names appears on an inside page of this week's issue of the Star in space purchased by the association for that purpose.

The Good Neighbor Pledge statement which was circulated around town through the churches, by mail, and by house-to-house solicitation, reads as follows: "One of the basic ideals of our American democracy is that people of different races and religions be guaranteed equal rights including equal opportunities for housing. Our nation has been greatly enriched by the presence of a variety of backgrounds and cultures. Subscribing to these principles, I welcome newcomers to my neighborhood on their individual merits whatever their race, religion, or national origin."

Emmons S. Ellis, chairman of the association, and William W. Cooley, pledge drive chairman, both expressed satisfaction at the response of the town to the pledge drive, even though the association had hoped for as many as 5,000 signatures.

The campaign began on February 24 with an open meeting at the First Congregational Church at which Monsignor Francis J. Lally was the speaker. This meeting was attended by several hundred Winchester citizens who warmly applauded Monsignor Lally's eloquent summary of the American Negro's history and aspirations, with special emphasis on his need for improved housing and what this means to communities like Winchester.

During the following week, which was National Brotherhood Week, the campaign was extended to every Winchester church. Clergymen in each church devoted a sermon to the subject of fair housing and those attending were given an opportunity to sign the pledge.

Telegrams of congratulations were received by the Winchester Fair Housing Association from Governor Endicott Peabody, and from Senator Leverett Saltonstall.

Door to door solicitation for pledge signers began the following week. Precinct chairmen for this phase of the drive were: Mrs. Richard Carey, Mrs. George Goethals, Mrs. Leslie J. DeGroot, Mrs. Robert H. Anderson, Mrs. Raymond Gross, and Mrs. Scott Cunningham. Members of the association, friends, and high school students participated in the solicitations.

The purpose of the pledge drive was to focus community-wide attention on the subject of attitudes

Morehouse Glee Club Of Atlanta Sings April 24th

The Morehouse College Glee Club of Atlanta, Georgia, will appear in Winchester on Friday, April 24, at 8 p.m., in the High School auditorium, in a concert that will include, along with works of Bach and Schutz, five folk songs by Stravinsky and several folk songs by Bartok. Excerpts from the minor Mass of Mozart will highlight the evening and the concert will close with several traditional folk songs and spirituals.

Over fifty years ago the Morehouse Glee Club was founded by Kemper Herold, then professor of music at the college. He sought to break from the traditional repertoire of male glee clubs and introduce the works of the master composers to the audiences of college choirs in Atlanta, Georgia. This began a march toward perfection that has marked this organization throughout its history.

The present director, Dr. Wendell P. Whalum, was a student of Kemper Herold in every way. He has continued the tradition started by this great man in both his personal educational advancement and the performance record of the Glee Club. Thus, he has introduced to the audiences of the south many of the choral works of the masters. His group has for some time been the "avant garde" of college choirs in the south. Its annual concert at the college is anxiously awaited by critics and laymen alike, for it promises something new each year and the unexpected is now expected with this group.

The Glee Club travels with a group of forty men. These are not music majors as with many college choirs of its size. On the contrary, the majority of its members are drawn from the ranks of science rather than the arts. Yet, Dr. Whalum has been able to mold their voices into a performing group that guarantees an exciting

Gilson Critical Of State Law On Teacher Minimum

"It's a matter of playing Santa Claus with other people's money," was Dr. Harry V. Gilson's reaction as superintendent of Winchester's public school system when asked what he thought of the $5,000 minimum pay hike bill for all teachers mandated by the Massachusetts House and Senate and signed into law last Thursday by Governor Peabody.

The new legislated minimum starting salary for teachers does not directly affect Winchester, as the town established a $5,000 minimum at last year's Town Meeting and has been in force since last September.

If past history repeats itself, Superintendent Gilson pointed out, the state's action will affect Winchester's entire teaching and administrative salary schedule. He noted that the Legislature has mandated teacher pay minimum six times in the past eight years, and each time effected a state-wide increase, including those that already were paying above the minimum to attract the most qualified teachers—such as Winchester.

In Winchester's school system, with a minimum of $5,000 for starting teachers with bachelors degrees, the structure of pay ranges after 19 years, to $9,000 to masters degree holders after 19 years, and to $9,500 to doctorate degree holders after 19 years. With the 1964 Town Meeting's approval, these rates are slated to rise next September to $8,300 with bachelors after 19 years, to $9,150 with masters after 19 years, and to $9,650 with doctorates after 19 years.

There are at present 13 public school staff members receiving the minimum scheduled rates of pay: nine with bachelors degrees and four with masters. There are 57 at maximum rates of pay: none with bachelors, 39 with masters, and 15

Selectmen Award Contract on Town Hall Tower Work

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night awarded a contract to R. & P. Millikan, Inc., of Billerica, as lowest of twelve contractors bidding for repairing and repointing work on the Town Hall tower for $7,529.

The 1964 Town Meeting, under Article 16, appropriated $10,000 for the making of repairs and improving the condition of the Town Hall tower to continue the work started last summer by the Board of Selectmen under emergency powers to prevent the further deterioration and collapse of the tower at a cost of $9,230.

The bids received at the Selectmen's office ranged from the low $7,529 to a high $25,956 by Lord and Miller of Melrose.

The contract signed by the Selectmen stipulated that the work would begin no later than Monday, April 20, and to be completed before Friday, June 19.

Petitions Stopped For Referendums On Two Articles

Neither of two petitions initiated last week for the purpose of asking the Board of Selectmen to call a special referendum election to have the electorate decide by ballot two articles acted upon by the Town Meeting were turned in to the Selectmen's office by the 5 p.m. deadline on Thursday, April 9.

The first petition, taken out on Friday, April 3, by Peter Lonigro of 10 Loring Avenue, sought a referendum to have the town rezoned the Beggs and Cobb site back from a Business District zone to a Light Industrial District as it was before the Special Town Meeting changed it (by a vote of 143 to 33) so a large apartment house project could be developed there.

This petitioner wished to limit the height to which the apartment could be built and the setback from Swanton Street, and did not actually want to stop the project, which he and most of his neighbors look forward to having replace the Beggs and Cobb eyecore. This petition stopped circulating shortly after it was taken out.

The second petition, taken out on Tuesday, April 7, by Salvatore Dutillo of 11 Trinity Road, sought to have the town vote again on the Fire Study Committee's proposal to have $5,000 appropriated for the Permanent Building Committee to have plans drawn up for the construction of a west side fire station at the Ridge Street-Lockeland Road site, which was defeated by the Town Meeting by a 97 to 78 vote.

The second petitioner, who had had a small fire in his home and wanted another fire station nearer to his home, attempted to get the required number of signatures to have a referendum on the issue. He needed 33 signers, which would have been 3 per cent of the registered voters.

Marshall Report Calls For A New Junior High, 1-2 Elementary Schools

The Marshall Report on Winchester School Building Needs was turned over to the School Committee and Permanent Building Committee last week. The report calls for several immediate and long-range steps to be taken to provide adequate facilities for the bulging and growing Winchester public schools.

Specifically, the report calls for the School Committee to (1) set aside sites both for immediate construction and others as part of the long-range plan for later building, (2) construct another new junior high school building, (3) construct a new elementary school in the Leonard Field area to serve grades five and six from the Washington, Lincoln and Noonan Schools, and ultimately to construct another elementary school, also for grades five and six, to serve Mystic, Wyman, Parkhurst and Vinson-Owen Schools—leaving all the present elementary schools with grades Kindergarten through Fourth Grade, and (4) in the long-run, to make the McCall Junior High School into an adjunct of the High School by renovation and alteration, with the possible detouring of traffic around McCall instead of the heavy flow down Main Street between the two school buildings.

Both the School Committee and the Permanent Building Committee were pleased with the report made by the educational consultant, John E. Marshall, and noted satisfaction with the arrangement of facts and statistics and opinion into a long-range planning analysis which both committees could use as guidelines. However, both committees also said on Monday night in the joint meeting held with the consultant at the Lynch Junior High School, that they had expected more in the line of educational specifications for the recommended new buildings and rearrangements for the present buildings.

After a short debate between the committees and the consultant, Mr. Marshall agreed that the contract actually did call for more detailed educational specifications for the proposed buildings, and that he would furnish them as soon as he was able to prepare them.

The two committees reviewed Mr. Marshall's projected growth figures, with further elaboration being given as to bases of statistics, figured margin for small error, and premises of analysis by Mr. Marshall. Also discussed was the present state of each school building and where and why each proposal made would alleviate overcrowding in the elementary and secondary schools.

Mr. Marshall informed the committees that he considered only two of Winchester's schools "adequate" for the town's needs; and, noting the general lack of foresight in the planning of the town's schools for their lack of adequate site area and lack of forward planning that would permit expansion, he approved only of the site locations as showing any sense of foresight for area development. Mr. Marshall said he thought the only school in town that was built right in his opinion was the Vinson-Owen School, for it was well located, had adequate land area and the building could readily be expanded if needed.

Because of the great deal of local interest centered on the actual Marshall Report and the significance of its statements, suggestions and recommended proposals to the town, the Winchester Star will print the entire Report over the next several issues.

The following is the beginning of the Report:

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

Forty years ago, as today, the Town of Winchester was a good town to live in; good schools were one of the reasons, as they are today. The Report of the Winchester School Committee for 1924 pointed with pride to the brand new Wyman, Noonan, Lincoln, and Mystic elementary schools; the Rumford, Chapin, and Prince schools had been abandoned; a new school to replace the old wooden Washington and Highland schools was being planned; a major expenditure ($75,000) had "almost completely" renovated the interior of the High School. It was suggested that a school be named for "the late Hon. Samuel Walker McCall."

Superintendent of Schools James J. Quinn in his Report for the school year 1923-24 listed the following among the "commendable features" he had found in the town:

"An attractive town in which to live and work.

"A high percentage of intelligent people, successful in their several life activities.

"A civic consciousness manifested in an active interest in town departments.

"A demand for high standards with its challenge to anyone in public service who must make his case for adequate appropriations to meet those standards.

"A high percentage of fine boys and girls."

"A school plant rapidly developing into one of the best anywhere.

"School appropriations, as totals, that may be termed generous compared with other cities and towns."

Winchester High School Principal Wade L. Grindle acknowledged, in his 1924 report, that success in getting its students into college was the one thing by which a secondary school was most keenly judged, even though (in 1924) "probably not more than seven or eight per cent of the entire student body take college board examinations in any one year." Mr. Grindle could report not only that Winchester students were being admitted to good colleges, "but, what is perhaps a still better test, they are . . . doing very creditable work in college."

The 1924 report of the School House Building Committee explained patiently why some details of the new buildings were not completed as planned: "the appropriation under which the Committee has been working was made at a time when construction costs were comparatively low, averaging 27 to 30 cents . . . The lowest figure

Mrs. Parkman was the daughter of Claus and Johanna (Andersen) Gundersen. She was born in Brooklyn, New York, March 26, 1906, and was for many years a resident of Springfield, moving to Winchester last December. Her husband was associated with the Cambridge firm of Dewey & Almy as a salesman.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Laurence C. Parkman of Springfield and Harry Parkman of Winchester; three daughters, Mrs. Doris Kahnhauser of Springfield, Mrs. Helen Graves of Bangor, Maine, and Mrs. Nancy Bryden of Holyoke; also her mother, Mrs. Johanna Gundersen of Winchester and 10 grandchildren.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Kimball Chapel with Dr. Dwight L. Cart, officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Carl Peterson, who died April 13 in Woburn, was the father of Charles Peterson of this town. Besides his son he leaves his widow, Hilma (Rasmussen) Peterson, and two daughters, Mrs. Joyce McCarthy of Billerica and Mrs. George Harris of Virginia Beach, Virginia. Services are to be at the Graham Funeral Home this afternoon, Thursday, at 2 p.m.

J. Warren Shoemaker

J. Warren Shoemaker of 1 Wildwood Street, former president of Warren Brothers Roads Company, died Monday at his home.

Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Shoemaker was graduated from the Central High School in that city, a school for boys and the only high school in the country that was permitted to grant degrees.

He received two years credit in mechanical engineering, and went on to the University of Pennsylvania, where he had completed two years when he enlisted in the Army Corps of Engineers in World War I. Upon completing his service he was unable to finish his formal education.

While at high school and college Mr. Shoemaker worked summers for Warren Brothers Company as a timekeeper in Boston in 1915 and in Bridgeport, Connecticut, in 1916 and 1917. After his return from France he worked in the summer of 1919 in the machine shop in Philadelphia for a year and for two years with the Survey Bureau of the City of Philadelphia. He went to work full time for Warren Brothers Company in April, 1922.

Laid First Asphalt in Japan

He was trained as an inspector in the Technical Service Department and as such worked in Carolina, Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin. In late 1925 he was made director of the Warren Brothers Laboratory in Cambridge and then in April, 1926, he was loaned to the Nippon Oil Company of Tokyo, Japan, which company had just acquired the rights to Warren Brothers patents. As technical supervisor he played a part in laying the first asphalt pavement in the Orient.

In December, 1926, he went to Cuba to assist in preliminary studies of aggregates for the Cuban Central Highway, a contract Warren Brothers had just received and which was at the time the largest single public works contract in the world, one hundred million dollars.

Sent to Colombia

Shortly after his return from Cuba he was sent to Bogota, Colombia, to negotiate and help plan a city-wide asphalt paving program.

In 1928, after spending some time in the south, Mr. Shoemaker returned to Warren Brothers and worked as superintendent of construction in Maine, and then went to Chicago as treasurer and secretary of the Middle West Roads Company which had just been incorporated as a subsidiary of Warren Brothers Company.

President of Warren Brothers Roads Company

During the summer of 1931 he was transferred to Syracuse, New York, to estimate and construct state highway projects for Warren Brothers Roads Company. He was made president of this company in 1933, with headquarters in Cambridge, and served as president until his retirement in April of 1963.

During this time Mr. Shoemaker saw the company expand from a business of less than one million dollars volume to slightly more than two million dollars volume in 1940. During the period of "national defense" and our entry into World War II the company's annual volume of business reached ten million dollars. After the war the business dropped off and then in 1945 took an upward turn to approach twenty million dollars.

Most Challenging Contract
Mr. Shoemaker's most challenging contract was that for paving the Washington National Airport in 1938. The largest asphalt paving contract ever let up to this time, it involved 100,000 tons.

Because of severe handicaps the production rate was not met at first and the company was threatened with loss of contract. Putting the job on a 21 hour a day, six days a week basis the company actually produced the required 210,000 tons a day and completed the job substantially on schedule. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, Order of the Founders and Patriots of America, Associated Contractors of America and the American Road Builders Association.

In November of 1926, Mr. Shoemaker married Kate May Wheelock of West Newton who survives with a son, William T. H. Shoemaker, of Littleton; two daughters, Mrs. Verne Slack of Belmont and Mrs. Charles P. Harris of Winchester. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 this Thursday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany with the rector, Dr. John W. Ellison, officiating. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Brink Loses Father in N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Brink and their children have returned to Winchester after attending Mr. Martin's funeral on April 11th.

Mr. Martin was manager of the Producers - Empire Cooperative Commission livestock markets in Buffalo. He was consultant to the College of Agriculture at Cornell University, and at Alfred University, and was active in 4-H work.

Important is the knowledge of our skill now. Skill at designing a suitable jewel for each individual, at displaying a variety for the extremes of taste and for those between (in our shops here and on Nantucket), at leaving the confusion of our work benches, tools and materials with a completed workmanship in uniqueness and craftsmanship, and skill at presenting choice selections from other artists in ceramics, powder, prints, and stained glass. The Winchester Star Established 1880 by Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Editorials:

On Government Administration: Thanks To The Retiring, Welcome To The New

Winchester's some 23,000 citizens were very fortunate in 1963. And they are just as fortunate again this year.

A mere look at what is happening now over in the administration of the City of Revere, not to mention the occasional but spectacular state and national scandals in government administration, should make every local resident proud and pleased with the fact that here in Winchester we are indeed fortunate and lucky to have the good, dedicated, and interested administrators of our local government that we do. Frankly, we can't say that we've deserved it with our low town voting record; and that's why we're even more than fortunate, we're lucky indeed.

During 1963 every town board and committee gave a good accounting of itself, and with but a single known exception, every board's membership had darn close to 100 per cent attendance. In addition, the extra work and effort put in by so many members of these boards and committees who took their duty seriously and had genuine interest in the best things for the town is both most exceptional and most commendable. We point with public pride to the retiring members of our town boards and committees and say "Thank you for a job well done."

Particularly to be commended for exceptionally fine performances in the carrying out of their responsibilities are Shailer Avery, retiring chairman of the Board of Selectmen, the town's chief executive body; Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., retiring chairman of the Finance Committee, the reviewing agency for town budgets; Richard F. Norris, retiring chairman of the Board of Health; and the late Alfred D. Elliott, who served as the able chairman of the Board of Assessors until his recent death. With the competent leadership of men like these in our local government we shall always be well governed locally.

To the men who continue this year, as last year, in the chairmanship of their boards and committees, the fact that they are continuing to serve as chairmen attests to the capable job they did in 1963 and the high esteem in which they are held by their own membership. These hard working chairmen include Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board; Lane McGovern, chairman of the Board of Appeal; Robert Sands, chairman of the Personnel Board; Richard M. Alt, chairman of the School Committee, and others.

And to the new chairmen of town boards and committees, the Star, as with the community, extends to you a hearty welcome and congratulations in your new and even more responsible positions as leaders in the town. The tradition of excellence you pick up from last year's fine leaders we trust you will handle with care and equally capable hands. Congratulations to John H. Lyman, chairman of the Board of Selectmen; Paul Chase, chairman of the Finance Committee; Marshall R. Pihl, chairman of the Board of Assessors, and Arthur P. Schmidt, chairman of the new Permanent Building Committee.

Of People Who Run For Office, And Those That Don't...

While it may be fashionable in high national politics for candidates for office to declare "no intention" of running for a desirable public office—such as the Presidency—and merely to say that they would, however, "accept a draft"; if that procedure were to prevail at the local level of government we wouldn't have any candidates running for office, and hence, no office holders . . . that is, no government of, by, and for the electorate.

Perhaps, when you get to local government, sometimes necessity breeds special courses of action. We'll leave that point to be considered when special circumstances and special courses of action are called for. However, we cannot fail here to put the public on notice that some democratic processes in Winchester are occasionally and subtly abridged.

In the April 2 issue of Star's Letters to the Editor column, there appeared a letter questioning why it happens that after an election, if a Town Meeting Member vacancy crops up, the other representatives from that precinct get together and vote for a replacement to fill the vacancy. The letter writer had a good point of democratic procedure. Why would it not follow that if there were other candidates on the ballot who just missed getting enough votes in the election to be elected that the next highest vote getter should automatically fill the vacancy?

What often happens, apparently, is that the representatives choose someone of their own collective personal or political liking to fill the spot, and rarely does it turn out to be someone who has run for Town Meeting Membership. Now if there were no other candidates running for Town Meeting Membership from that precinct, then there would be justification for the present method of selection rather than having a special election to elect one out of 228 Town Meeting Members. However, when there are other candidates, it seems less than democratic to by-pass those who think and care enough for town government to run for office.

And now, less than a month later, another situation of this kind has appeared. Due to the unfortunate passing away of the late Alfred Elliott, there is a vacancy on the Board of Assessors. According to reports, about five persons mentioned an interest in the position to the Selectmen, with two following through with letters. Of these two, and we hasten to point out that this commentary is that of a disinterested observer, one had run for that office in the last election and the other had not. Now, if both of these men were equally qualified, it would seem more in line with democratic type procedure to appoint that man that had run for the office to the Board of Assessors rather than someone who had not run or previously shown any interest at all in the post.

This was not the case at Monday night's meeting of the Board of Selectmen, however. Another man, maybe even more qualified for all anyone knows, was nominated for the position and not one mention was made of any other seeker of the office. Only the most unsophisticated of observers would fail to miss the obvious fact that a previous meeting of the minds had already selected the one and only person who would fill that office.

Interestingly enough, one local citizen happened to be watching the proceedings closely, and he asked one of those embarrassing kind of questions that resulted in a slight guilty awkwardness in the atmosphere, which was cleared only when the Town Counsel informed the board that the citizen was right, and that legally, at least, the correct formal democratic procedure has to be followed next Monday night when balloting takes place on the single nomination; the single nomination who did not seek the office by election, and not the local businessman who had sought the office through the proper democratic procedures!

We are not necessarily suggesting that just because someone runs for office that when a vacancy occurs they should automatically fill it. We are only suggesting that those who are candidates for office should be given very serious and thoughtful consideration in the filling of that office in the event of a vacancy.

The Alaskan Part Of The Eagle

Last week the Federal Government quickly granted an appropriation of $50 million to help the disaster ridden state of Alaska rebuild its public facilities . . . highways, water and sewer, and other governmental services.

A recent cartoon in the Boston Traveler by Jim Dobbins (a perspicacious local resident) was brought to mind. The cartoon showed a large American eagle, representing the American people, tugging at a single worm shaped in the form of a $ sign from a huge bag of worms designated as the $100 billion catch-all foreign aid cache. The cartoon was drawn shortly after the Government announced the passage of the tax cut bill for 1964.

That cartoon seems even more appropriately fitted to describe present circumstances in Alaska. There is no doubt that foreign aid is and will continue to be an important element of our national-international policies. There is also no doubt that Congress will have to appropriate more than the $50 million it already has to help Alaska rebuild. But let us unite to help put one of our own states in order a little more before we start handing out more of our nation's money abroad (as we have been as though it were going out of style). Let's first see to it that all is going well within our own borders—and this means not just getting Alaska started on the road to recovery, but setting it right up solidly so it can stand erect on a solid economy.

Teacher Pay

with masters plus certified advanced study. And there are three who are receiving doctorate degree pay rates.

In 1962 the Winchester minimum starting pay for teachers was $4,750, which put Winchester among the 15 top competitive paying school systems. Last year, however, even with the increase to $5,000, the public school system's minimum dropped in competitive position from the top 15 to the top 25 to 30.

In commenting further on the new minimum pay bill, Superintendent Gilson said: "I do not think the salary minimum established by the state is too large, that's not the point, but the Legislature is guilty of ruthless politics and gross irresponsibility in continuously mandating increased school costs to towns and cities without assuming any of the burden of the extra cost."

"I think the action is justified all right," he said, "however, the state should long ago have recognized its duty by increasing state aid to education, because after all, education is primarily a state responsibility as provided for in the state constitution."

Report

which the Building Committee could obtain was . . . just about 44 1/2 cents (per cubic foot)."

"While two of the new buildings are more or less crowded," reported the School Committee in 1924, "it must be borne in mind by all that the School Building Committee carried out the instruction of the Town as to the amount of money that should be spent for each building; they could not do otherwise in our opinion."

Forty Years Later

As of 1964 Winchester's public school system is at once the Town's pride and the Town's problem, just as it was forty years ago. The new Lynch Junior High School and the Vinson - Owen Elementary School are sources of satisfaction—yet many schools are crowded, and six of the town's ten schools are 40 years old, or older. Of the High School's 1962 graduates, 45.6 per cent went on to four-year colleges, 5.7 per cent to junior colleges, 11.4 per cent to preparatory schools, and 10.2 per cent to technical and other schools. And Superintendent Quinn's 1924 list of "things that were commendable" in Winchester is echoed by the School Committee in the latest available Town Report:

Winchester residents have demanded excellence in education. This is as one would expect, since our town is The Commonwealth's second ranking community in median income per family, according to a U. S. Census Bureau study made at the time of the 1960 census. Our median income is $9,072 and Wellesley, the leader, is $11,478. Our school system has enjoyed the reputation of being one of the best in The Commonwealth of Massachusetts and has customarily been among the first four or five in teacher salaries. It has been quick to adopt tested advances in public schooling methods deemed to be in the interests of better education.

Quality in education doesn't just happen. It has to be planned for, and paid for. Educational quality depends first of all on good teachers; next, perhaps, on providing optimum conditions for good teaching—the space, comfort, and equipment required to do the job. This study is concerned with the tools of teaching and learning. Let us look first at the growing number of children and youth for whom Winchester must provide sites, buildings, and equipment in order to maintain its tradition of educational excellence.

Needless to say, the grace and precision of the songs rendered by Winchester High girls' double sextet in the second appearance of the show, was as always, particularly enjoyable. Jay Sibley returned again to the stage in the wonderful, down-east Maine monologue "The Fire Chief" which nearly brought down the house.

The first half of the program ended with the spirited and delightful music of the Chattanooga Rangers. These talented folk singers offered a striking variety of folk music including the uproarious spoof "Old Shep."

The Emerson College Dramatic School whose strolling players delighted Winchester young people some time ago with "Alice in Wonderland," returned here to offer the audience of the HOPE Show "Highlights from Carnival." To hear the most popular songs from that whimsical Broadway show rendered by Emerson leads whose voices were exceedingly pure and lovely only made one long to see the full and mature production.

The Winchester Chapter of Project HOPE is delighted to report that thanks to the wonderful support of our townspeople and local merchants, Project HOPE will be the recipient of close to $1,000 to help further the exciting work of the S. S. HOPE.

Finally, the individual reports were organized so that each school could be considered in comparable terms, the facts were arranged in chart form, an introduction and conclusion were written, and the entire report was presented to League members and guests at the Unit Meetings in February.

League members who prepared this report, in addition to Mrs. Stollow, are Mrs. Calvin P. Allyn, Mrs. David J. Ashton, Mrs. James G. Baker, Mrs. Christopher Dumaine, Mrs. Robert A. Joslin, Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid, and Mrs. Eber T. LeGates.

BOOK REVIEW

JOANNA AND ULYSSES

by May Sarton

This small book looks simple and sentimental, but it isn't. The action is quiet enough for the most part, but the feelings behind, under, and around it are powerful and often violent. A New York Times reviewer says "compared to this talented author's more serious fiction JOANNA AND ULYSSES is 'a little nothing' of a book. It may be slight and occasionally sentimental—but like classic dress, 'it is simple, elegant and has awfully good lines.'" This is damning with faint praise. I consider JOANNA AND ULYSSES quite as serious as anything May Sarton has written.

Joanna, a young Greek, goes for a month's vacation to the isolated island of Santorini to be alone and to be restored. She has lived through the war, seen her mother tortured and killed, nursed her father back from a non-death to a non-life. She has always painted in a self-effacing fashion, but she wants to be an artist and to be a person. "Listen sky! Listen gulls and sea, I am Joanna! Joanna, the painter!"

Her first contact with island life is a small donkey, being cruelly beaten while he stumbles from the weakness of older wounds. In furious pity, Joanna buys him and takes him up into the hills to care for. He is Ulysses and very much a part of Joanna from then on. As Ulysses' wounds heal and the islanders very gradually come to accept Joanna's "differentness," Joanna begins to find herself as a painter. "She was well aware that she had arrived in Santorini like a starving person, starved, as she had thought, for the self she found as a painter, but starved also for another person altogether, whom Ulysses had brought to life again for the first time since the war. There is such a thing as animal comfort, she thought, after all. And in a world where one has had to witness too much suffering about which nothing could be done, there was the comfort of bringing back to life this one suffering beast, of making Ulysses well."

But besides Ulysses, there is the small boy, Nicholas, to whom Joanna is able to talk and communicate the bitter past. His point of view—proud, optimistic, and practical—really shakes the shell of retreat from her, and when she returns to Athens, with Ulysses as her talisman, she finds a responsiveness in her father who had not had a real person to respond to before.

"Simple, elegant and has awfully good lines" yes, but hardly "a little nothing" of a book.

letters to the editor

A Representative
Refutes Traffic
Light Criticism

Editor of the Star:

In last week's issue of the Star, James E. Farrell wrote a letter which was highly critical of the negative vote pertaining to the traffic light at Swanton and Washington Streets. In his letter he wrote, and I quote, "And if this situation was located in either the West Side or the Symmes Corner section of town, it would pass without comment," end quote.

I wish to bring attention to Article 14 on Page 52 of the March 16, 1961, Town Warrant, quote, "To see if the Town will construct a traffic island at the intersection of Highland Avenue and Main Street, together with any safeguards in relation thereto and raise and appropriate money therefor," end quote.

The finance committee's report on the above article was, quote, "This is a dangerous intersection.

The cost, approximately $3000, includes the installation of a traffic light in addition to the island. Favorable action is recommended," end of quote.

This article was defeated, without discrimination after lengthy debate. I, personally, led the opposition in the above matter and likewise took an active part in opposing lights at Washington and Swanton Streets. If we install traffic lights at all the locations requested, they would be at every intersection in town. Then we would have the most brightly lighted community in the country!

As for "a few" running the show, I would like to remind Mr. Farrell that the doors of the Town Meetings are open and the welcome mat is out for each and every one to go and express his views; but only "a few" are willing to take advantage of the democratic privilege of free speech while the critics choose to sit at home and read the minutes of the Town Meetings at their leisure!

I have a very high regard for public safety, but a few isolated cases of violations do not warrant the squandering of $7000, or $1750 per light. Besides, violations occur wherever there are traffic lights. Everyone in town knows where the dump is; therefore the precinct members are well aware of the location of Swanton and Washington Streets. The last fatal accident date was on Mt. Vernon Street (halfway down), unfortunately involving one of our own retired citizens. Would Mr. Farrell now suggest that we install a flexible barrier along this street to prevent a recurrence of such an accident?

There have been no more accidents at this intersection of Swanton and Washington Streets than at other intersections. Therefore the ounce of prevention should be applied to keeping taxes down and the continuation of assigning members of our very own able police force to such intersections at rush hours.

Sincerely yours,
Vincent G. Carroll

Citizen Wants A Sequel to By-Law
Comm. Proposals

Editor of the Star:

I have had difficulty in eliciting certain information concerning the sequel to proposals made by our late By-Law Committee and the votes taken by Town Meeting on Articles 34-40 of the 1961 Warrant. Since my questions are of general interest right now, may I appeal to you to secure the information from our Town Counsel and publish it in the "Star."

As you know, when limited Town Meeting was adopted in 1928, care was taken to see that the rights the people had always possessed were carefully preserved in the legislation under Chapter 167, and this included the rules governing referendum.

The voters have exercised these rights many times since then and have overturned Town Meeting votes in an astounding fashion. No other town in Massachusetts even remotely approaches this record. It clearly indicates that something in the way we conduct our affairs needs correcting.

The By-Law Committee studied this situation for two years and, as is customary, had many consultations with town officials, past and present. Now our referendum history clearly shows that the people frequently disputed the idea that our town officials and committees always had the right answers, which Town Meeting almost always approved. There exists a profound resentment at the "Father knows best" manner in which too many proposals are set forth. Our finest citizens have participated in our government over the years, and they feel somewhat put upon by such expressions of discontent. Our solid citizens are having doubts. They are learning to question a good many things they had taken for granted.

During a recent town meeting session on apartment zoning, the statement was made that it would take a whole year to redo the entire by-laws, and they should be done over. Four men, as a By-Law Committee, had just spent twice that amount of time in a study which was complete in the judgment of a majority in town meeting. I had made a motion to study the matter further, as I did not agree. It was defeated. How then could that statement concerning the imperfection of our by-laws have gone unchallenged?

The only recommendations of consequence had been to take away from the people their ability to veto the proposals of the town officials currently in their brief period of office. Town Meeting, which by inference had also been chided by so many referendum defeats agreed that what decisions it makes in the future should no longer be subject to effective review by the voters of the town. The objectionable thing, of course, was that each step in getting the proposals through Town Meeting seemed to be in strangely careful sequence. This inability to arrange even one public hearing until the very last minute. Probably it was not intended, but the effect was that no discussion could become full blown, as in the Tuft's Road case.

There has been time for reflection since we asked the legislature for approval to make these referendum changes. If we had it to do over again - with a secret ballot - I am sure that things would be different. Many people, including those who voted for these measures in Town Meeting, have become quite interested in a second look at their property before we accept them. One of them - the bad 20 per cent rule - was rewritten by the General Court, and we would be having our first look at that one to see if we want it.

Naturally, if there were any assurances that we would correct the conditions that caused us to have so many referenda, then nobody would really care and the reasons for using it frequently no longer existed.

I am sure that the Moderator who was responsible for selecting the By-Law Committee, and also our Town officials, have had no intentions of circumventing the rights of the people without their having been fully aware of it. Since no one wants the onus of such a charge upon them, may I ask that someone tell us just what steps are going to be taken to see that the desirability of these measures be fully discussed and publicized among the voters before we attempt to accept the legislation which the General Court has permitted us to adopt.

Sincerely,
Dudley F. Kimball

Democratic
Town Committee

The candidates' meeting on Wednesday evening was largely attended and all four candidates were present and spoke. Mayor John McGlynn of Medford and David Leach of Arlington spoke in favor of being elected to the four-year term of Democratic State Committeeman in the 9th Senatorial District; this seat has been vacant since the recent redistricting.

Mrs. Marilyn Porecca and the present incumbent, Mrs. Frances Murphy, both of Medford, spoke in favor of their plans to capture the seat of State committeewoman. Preceding the candidates' session, Professor Robert Keeton, of Harvard Law School, gave us a fine, comprehensive talk on fair housing. Reading from the Mass. statutes, he quoted the chapter and section which control this problem. His explanation of just what is involved in the whole matter was so well implemented that there were no questions asked. Fortunately, indeed, are the students who absorb knowledge in Professor Keeton's college classes.

In addition to the candidates, the following guests were present: Al Adams, Medford, Guy Petralia, the Misses Lorraine and Maurine Golden, and Professor Daniel G. and Mrs. McLeod of Winchester, Gino Porecca of Medford, and David Blach of Tewksbury.

Next Saturday the Democratic know-how all-day meeting will take place at the Sheraton Plaza. Guests at the noon luncheon will hear talks by Governor Peabody, Senator Edward M. Kennedy, and Democratic National Chairman John Bailey. The following committee members have signed up already: Chairman Elizabeth McDonald, Mary Serieka, Helen Gaynor, Margery Flaherty, Betty Hill, Kay Jennings, Mary Dailey, Bill Dailey, and Hazel Pigott of Arlington, a former Winchester girl.

There will be no regular meeting until after the April 28th election. Early in May we plan to have one or more candidates speak at each meeting just as we have always had in election years.

The Town Committee wishes to thank Mrs. Lorraine Bingel of Kirk Street for the typing help she gave us in preparation for our April 8th meeting.

A Thank You

The senior class of Winchester High School wishes to thank the people of Winchester who helped contribute to the senior class bottle drive on April 11th. The class would also like to thank Converse and Ronton's for accepting the majority of the bottles.

Chadwick In Repub. National Convention Race

Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester and Rep. John M. Eaton, Jr., of Concord, candidates as delegates to the Republican National Convention from the Fifth Congressional District, today stressed that they are "middle - of - the - road Republicans."

Urging support for their slate in the April 28 Presidential Primary, they added, "We shall be very pleased to vote on the first ballot for Henry Cabot Lodge as a native son. Beyond that we are uncommitted."

The two legislators emphasized that they both "reject the extreme positions of Senator Barry Goldwater and Governor Nelson Rockefeller. Our political inclinations lie in the center of the political spectrum."

Mr. Chadwick stressed that although an opposing slate of delegates is also officially uncommitted, its members are running on the urging of Lloyd Waring, leader of the Goldwater organization in Massachusetts.

"One of the delegate candidates on the opposing slate is the secretary of the Massachusetts Goldwater - for - President Committee," Mr. Chadwick pointed out.

Alternates on the Chadwick - Eaton slate are Mrs. Helene S. Carstensen of Melrose and Dean K. Webster of Andover. This ticket has been endorsed by Senator Everett Saltonstall and Republican National Committeeman Richard F. Treadway.

The bottom of the ballot contains a spot where voters may write in the name of their preferred residential candidate.

The Fifth Congressional District includes Lawrence and Andover in Essex County and Lowell, Melrose, Woburn, Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Concord, Dracut, Lexington, Lincoln, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Wilmington and Winchester in Middlesex County.

Are Honored By
Toastmistresses

The Spring Conference and Speech Contest of Council V, Northeast Region of the International Toastmistress Club was held on Saturday, April 11 at the Holiday Inn in Framingham. Contributing to its success were an enthusiastic audience in the mood to display Easter finery on a fine day, an interesting program, and competent direction from Mrs. James Papadakis, council chairman and member of the Winchester club.

Over eighty members representing clubs from the New England states and Montreal, Canada attended. After an inspiration delivered by Mrs. Ivy Harris of the Winchester club, the following council officers were elected for next year: Eleanor Fulton, chairman (Cedar Acres-Reading), Irene Stark, vice-chairman (Needham), Norman Pheneey, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, secretary (Maena Car), and Mollie McCrudden, treasurer (Narragansett Bay).

The 1964 Speech Contest was held immediately after luncheon and was conducted by Marjorie Wade, toastmistress, of Needham. It was won by the Winchester club's contestant, Mrs. John Ingalls of Arlington. Her subject was, "Take It Or Leave It," and the provocative title of her talk, "Don't Do Something-Just Stand There!" Mrs. Ingalls who is the busy mother of three small children and is an active member of her church and the local Civil Rights committee, was presented an engraved silver salver. She will represent Council V at the June speech contest of the Northeast Region to be held at Detroit in June.

Tellers for the contest included Mrs. Arthur Quimby and Mrs. Walter Sadek, both of Medford and members of the Winchester club, and Barbara Hollis of Needham.

Miss Helen Niedringhaus, Mrs. James W. Blackham, Jr., Mrs. Wilbert Underwood and Mrs. William Barone have just returned from Washington, D. The Republican women heard such leading contenders for the Presidential nomination as Senator Barry Goldwater, Governor Nelson Rockefeller, as well as Mrs. Claire Chennault, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Governor George Romney, Honorable John Davis Lodge and others.

Mrs. Blackham, Miss Niedringhaus and Mrs. Underwood were guests at the Hawaiian Suite, at which Senator Hiram Fong of Hawaii was honored and received fabulous flower leis from Mrs. Fong. The ladies were feted at a breakfast given by their Congressional delegation headed by Congressman Morse at the New Senate Office Building. Senator and Mrs. Everett Saltonstall also opened their Georgetown home for tea for the women guests.

Faculty Teas
Add Grace Note
To WHS Library

Evolving over recent months into lively and well attended regular social affairs are the faculty teas held by and for the Winchester High School faculty and staff.

The group is especially grateful to the WHS Parent - Faculty Association for the silver service and tea cloths given them last year which help to make of the school library setting a gracious background for these now much anticipated affairs.

Originated in the fall by Miss Elizabeth Livingstone, of 8 Sanborn Street, librarian, the teas have each month since seen a departmental group take over and play host.

Most recent was the April tea held by the Language Department and featuring all kinds of good edibles from foreign lands including baklava from Greece, Austrian cakes, Irish bread with whipped butter and patisseries Francaise, with a specialty of the day, "poissons d'avril." The ladies of the department prepared the tea. And the gentlemen were hosts of the afternoon, some dressed in sombreroes, other's in French chef's hats fashioned for them by Marjorie Bradford, all taking turns with the actual pouring honors at the table.

Coming next is a tea planned by the business department and office staff.

League Meets On Overseas Fund For Education

The Overseas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters of the United States sponsored a two-day Public Relations Workshop at Wellesley College April 7 and 8th. One hundred twenty-five women, representing eight countries and sixteen voluntary organizations in the six New England States participated. Mrs. O. Guinn Smith, of Winchester, attended as a representative of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters.

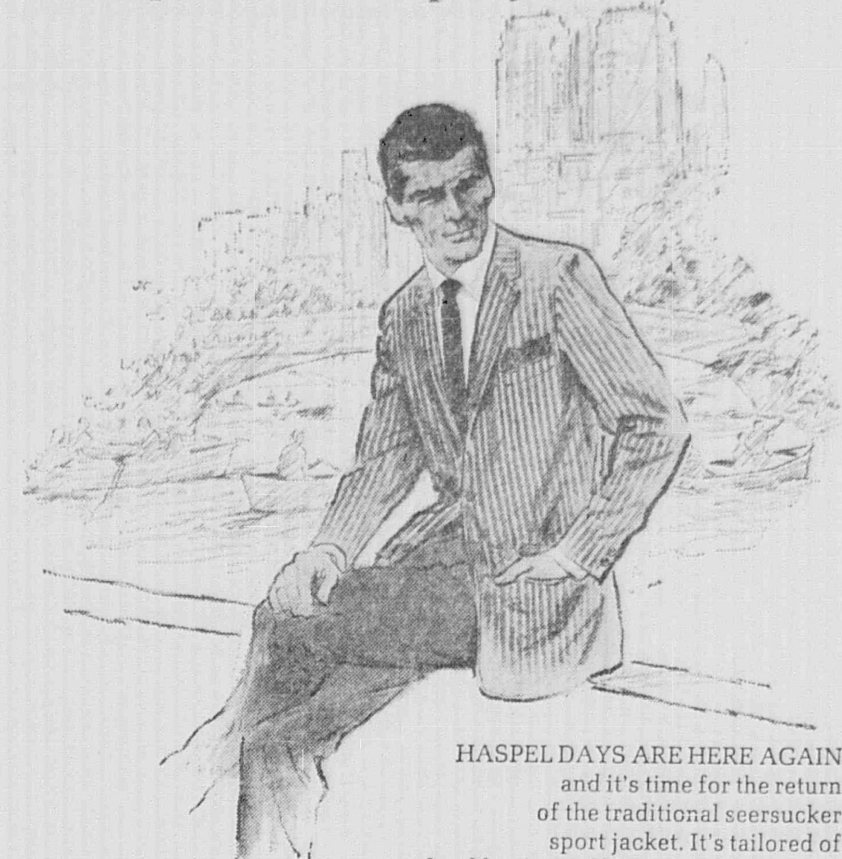

MRS. O. GUINN SMITH

The Overseas Education Fund of the League was organized in 1947 in an effort to "build understanding of the processes and techniques of self-government and of the essential requirements upon citizens so that intelligent adaptations can be made." Originally the programs, at the request of the U.S. Government, dealt primarily with Germany and Japan. However, since 1957 the major focus has been on Latin America. In 1963, the OEF Leadership Institute was begun at Wellesley College enrolling 11 women from South America and 2 from the United States for a year's educational training here and an additional year in their own countries to implement their experiences. The purpose is to provide a nucleus of potential consultants of their own citizens for the Latin American countries.

Among the speakers who discussed "The Role of Communications in a Free Society" were Dr. Edward L. Bernays, counsel on public relations; Prescott Low, publisher of the Patriot-Ledger; David Ives, assistant general manager for community relations and finance, WGBH-TV; and Guillermo Gutierrez, director, Inter-American Press Association, Technical Center, N.Y.

United Fund Aids Health Agencies

A large part of every contribution made to the United Fund goes to the many hospitals and health agencies in the Greater Boston Community.

Your dollars may rehabilitate a handicapped person, cure a drug addict, guide a mentally retarded child, or enable a researcher to find a cure for cancer.

This year 16 health agencies in the Greater Boston area will receive over $1½ million dollars from the United Fund. Included is the Boston Committee on Alcoholism, the first voluntary committee of its kind in the country, which put nearly 7000 alcoholics on the road to recovery in the past year.

Another agency aided by the United Fund is the Medical Foundation, which conducts health research, gives practical tips to patients returning from hospitals, and educates the public through newspapers and radio announcements about the ways to achieve better health.

You or one of your family may be among the thousands who will be helped this year by the health agencies sharing in the United Fund. If there is a retarded child in your family, he will get help at one of the several clinics in the Boston area that direct special attention to retarded children through guidance and public education like the Charles River Associates for Retarded Children or the Minute Men Association for Retarded Children.

If you are handicapped in an accident, you can be rehabilitated and resume your normal life through the aid of the Bay State Medical Rehabilitation Clinic. A blind person may be taken out for an afternoon by a volunteer from the Massachusetts Association for the Adult Blind. Or a deaf child may be taught to understand others through the lipreading classes of the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing.

If you are bed-ridden and need a nurse, you may be visited by the Visiting Nurse Association of Greater Boston, which sent nurses on more than 120,000 visits to some 15,000 patients in the past year.

A person of limited means who is afflicted with cancer or a heart ailment may have his hospital bill paid entirely or in part by the United Fund. Twenty-four Greater Boston hospitals are receiving more than $800,000 this year to help pay for the necessary medical care of patients unable to meet the entire cost. For example, of the 6,737 patients admitted to the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, the United Fund contributed to the hospital bills of over 1,000 patients.

These services are only part of the way your gifts guard the health of the community. A portion of your contribution is also allotted to the local and state chapters of nationwide health and research organizations like the American Red Cross, the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation, and the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation. This year, the Massachusetts chapter of the Roscoe B. Jackson Memorial Laboratory, now conducting the most extensive cancer research project in the country, will be added to the list.

Spring Inspection For Autos Began. Holds Till May 15

Physical checkups for the more than two million Massachusetts motor vehicles is already in progress with the start of the semi-annual motor vehicle inspection. This spring's inspection will continue through May 15.

The inspection procedure will follow, the system started last fall. First step will be checking of the motorist's registration and scraping off the old inspection sticker. If the car passes inspection, it will receive a white inspection sticker, otherwise a "rejection" sticker will be issued.

Motorists who receive rejection stickers on their vehicles will have to exercise all reasonable speed to have the necessary repairs made.

Nine items must be inspected: brakes, lights, horn, muffler, steering gear (front end must be jacked up), number plates, windshield, windshield wipers, and rear window. For the aid of motorists and the more than 3,100 inspection stations, signs have been posted in each inspection station itemizing the equipment that must be inspected.

As with last fall's inspection, the Registry has set $1 as the maximum fee that can be charged for the inspection itself. Under Registry regulation, re-inspection of vehicles which have been rejected is done at no additional cost to the motorist, provided the motorist brings his vehicle back to the inspection station which originally issued the rejection sticker.

"We realize that many stations, as in the past, will not charge regular customers for the inspection, and that other stations will choose to collect the money for some worthwhile charity," said Registrar Lawton.

To prepare for the inspection the Registry held a series of 24 inspection clinics throughout the state for the almost 14,000 automobile mechanics who are licensed by the Registry to perform inspections.

Primary aims of these clinics were to instruct the automobile adjusters in the new inspection procedures, to show them films made by the Automobile Manufacturers Association on front ends, and to answer any questions that might have arisen since the start of last fall's inspection.

A new feature of the inspection will be the distribution of a pamphlet on the need for seat belts. These pamphlets will be given, courtesy of the Registry, to every motorist receiving a sticker. Trailers will also be included in those vehicles to be inspected during the next few weeks. All trailers

U.S. Marine Corps Classifications And Recruiting

Sgt. Albert J. Porretta, local Marine Corps recruiter, announces that back in the "old corps" there were no "standard practices" whereby recruits were assigned to tasks comparable to civilian skills and knowledge. At times whole bodies of men were assigned to infantry, artillery or aviation units simply because shortages had to be filled.

A recruit was graduated with the basic knowledge of carrying on duties in a general assignment, and little effort was made to place him in a technical job. Following recruit training the individual was transferred to his first duty station. Here, in large formations, troop handlers asked individuals to raise their hands or step forward to certain questions: who can type? College students and former service-men step forward! Can anyone drive a vehicle? That was classification.

Today, with specialization in mind, the primary mission of the recruit classification and assignment section at Parris Island, South Carolina, is the personal classification processing of recruits. Selection and assignment of recruits for special training and specific billets is directed by higher authority.

Before the recruit begins his first day of training he is given a series of eleven different examinations designed to uncover a broad spectrum of each marine's interests.

The abilities discovered by these tests can best be expressed as military aptitude areas, and a man can be assigned by placing him in an occupational field associated with his highest scoring aptitudes.

The eleven fields covered by the new testing system are: verbal ability, arithmetical reasoning, pattern analysis, classification, inventory, mechanical aptitude, clerical speed, radio code, general information, shop mechanics, automotive information and electronic information.

Over 1400 Winchester citizens have signed the good neighbor pledge...

"One of the basic ideals of our American democracy is that people of different races and religions be guaranteed equal rights including equal opportunities for housing. Our nation has been greatly enriched by the presence of a variety of backgrounds and cultures. Subscribing to these principles, I welcome newcomers to my neighborhood on their individual merits whatever their race, religion, or national origin."

Library Film Service

The Winchester Public Library is offering a film information service. For those interested in the content of current movies the Winchester Public Library will post "The Green Sheet," a widely recognized movie review service containing the composite reviews of ten prominent national organizations.

Representatives of the following organizations serve on The Film Estimate Board of National Organizations: American Jewish Committee, American Library Association, Federation of Motion Picture Councils, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Council of Women of the U. S. A., National Federation of Music Clubs, Daughters of the American Revolution, Protestant Motion Picture Council and Schools Motion Picture Committee.

The Motion Picture Review Committees of these national organizations screen all of the important domestic and some foreign films, independently preparing their reviews. These are then discussed and compiled into a "film estimate" which represents the composite reviews of all members. The Green Sheet is made available with the cooperation of the Motion Picture Association of America.

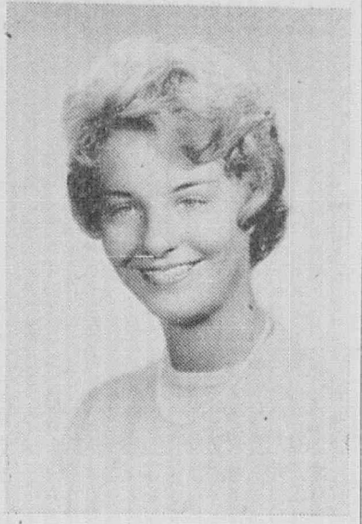

In addition to the reviews, The Green Sheet suggests suitable audiences. These range from general audience (GA) to adult (A), including special categories for young people (YP) and mature young people (MYP). Occasionally when a film is suitable for young children, it is labeled with a special children's rating (C).

Robert E. Wagenknecht, librarian, states, "Our library will not only post The Green Sheet as an easily available source of film information, we will also be happy to answer queries from parents interested in obtaining this information in order to decide whether or not certain films are suitable for the young people in their families. We agree that thoughtful selection of motion pictures is one way to be sure that a movie will always be a pleasurable experience."

The library also subscribes to "Filmfacts." This is issued weekly and contains synopses of films and excerpts of criticisms on each from several leading newspapers and magazines. Four years of it are available for use.

Joanne Hess Does Apprenticeship As Technical Sec.

Joanne Hess of 4 Mayflower Road, a technical secretarial student at Colby Junior College, completed a two-week apprenticeship with Sylvania Electric Products Company in Waltham during the college spring vacation. The apprenticeship is required of seniors for graduation.

JOANNE HESS

The technical secretary is a new specialist in the secretarial world. She possesses strong interests in science, and has prepared herself to work with those doing scientific research. Her mastery of technical terminology, her background in chemistry and physics, her familiarity with equations and Greek letter symbols allow her to free her employer of routine tasks so that he can devote himself to his research work. By increasing the effectiveness of existing research personnel, the technical secretary can help to ease the current manpower shortage in this vital area.

As a technical secretarial student at Colby Junior College, Miss Hess has combined studies in chemistry and physics with general secretarial skills. Her ability to take dictation and to transcribe accurately technical terminology, equations and formulae, results from a year's specialization in this material.

Five Here Attend Junior Science Symposium at MIT

Four Winchester students and Francis X. Flinagan, Winchester High School physics instructor, were among the one-hundred-forty high school students and seventy teachers from secondary schools in the Greater Boston area and eastern Massachusetts who attended a Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology on Thursday and Friday, April 9 and 10.

The students were selected by their schools for their aptitude in science and engineering and the teachers for participation in professional organizations, summer training programs, and extra-curricular student-teacher events.

Students attending from Winchester were Stephen C. Butterfield, of 20 Symmes Road; Richard C. Wakefield, of 18 Fells Road; both Winchester High School; and Kathleen Kennedy, of 25 Lakewood Road, of Matignon High School.

At the two-day symposium, the teen-agers observed and participated in laboratory demonstrations at M. I. T. and attended lectures by distinguished faculty members, including Dr. Vannevar Bush, honorary chairman of the M. I. T. Corporation; Dr. Philip M. Morse, of Wildwood Street, professor of physics and director of the Computation Center; Dr. Irwin Sizer, professor of biochemistry and head of the Department of Biology; and Dr. H. Guyford Stever, professor of aeronautics and astronautics and head of the Departments of Mechanical Engineering and Naval Architecture and Marine Engineering.

On Friday, at the end of the symposium, the group gathered to ask questions of a career panel of four professors, headed by Thomas W. Harrington, Jr., placement officer at M. I. T.

Tree Talk For Arbor Day

Arbor Day is the last Friday in April, in many of the 50 states. groups mark this tree planting occasion, first celebrated back in 1872.

In suburbia countless home owners across the country are planting trees this spring, too. And the questions they most frequently ask are: Where should I plant a tree? and, what kind of a shade tree should it be?

Dr. Edward J. Duda, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, says plant for permanence, visualizing how the tree will look 20-30 years from now. It should stand at least 15 feet from a house or other building.

A tall tree on the west or southwest side of a house may reduce room temperature 15 degrees and lower ground temperature as much as 30 degrees. Other trees may be planted where the shade or shield from wintry winds do the most good, on the front lawn, near a play area or terrace or garden corner.

Trees should be selected for height. The trend today is to diversify the species, large and small. Avoid so-called fast-growing and brittle trees. Shun trees that clutter the lawn with flowers and seed pods, and those whose root systems clog drains. Trees with too dense shade make it difficult to grow a good lawn beneath. And on a lawn avoid trees with shallow root systems that compete with grass for food and water.

Often the best tree to plant is one native to your region. Nurserymen will recommend these varieties. Oaks grow well in most regions, and grow far faster than commonly believed. And if possible plant a dogwood or two.

The American elm, thornless honeylocust, hackberry and English oak offer light, filtered shade. For medium shade try red oak, pin oak, red maple, sweet or sour gum, white ash, London plane and American linden. For dense shade choose a sugar maple, white oak, beech, little leaf linden, horsechestnut or American ash.

Splash Party

The Winchester Assembly of Rainbow Girls is sponsoring a Splash Party on April 17. It will be held at the Malden Y.M.C.A. from 7 to 8 p.m.

Transportation will be provided by private cars leaving at 6:15 p.m. from the public parking lot opposite the Town Hall in Winchester.

Reservations may be made by calling PA 9-4342. Bring a towel and bathing suit—come and join in the fun!

WHS Puerto Rico Book Collection Is Large Success

The officers of the American Red Cross unit in the Winchester High School have just announced the completion and success of their special drive to collect books as a gift for the public library in Arecibo, Puerto Rico.

Al Kimball, president, Ellen Becker, vice president, Jane Van Dyke, secretary and Sally Worthen, treasurer, have jointly reported for their group the collection of more than 2,534 books which are now in preparation for shipment by the Winchester Chapter, ARC. Megaly Jimenez, the WHS student from Arecibo and a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Waldron of 10 Mount Pleasant Street, is delighted at the useful books in fine condition which are now being sorted and packed in the Waldron attic.

The contest in the WHS home rooms was won by students in Herbert Chasan's room. Students in this room brought in 255 books.

"Best of all," reports Mrs. Waldron, whose year's stay in and close knowledge of Arecibo instigated the collection, "is the high quality of books the students brought in. We now have two or three complete sets of encyclopedia, dictionaries, finely bound Shakespeare, Dickens and others. Telephone calls in response to publicity brought from Woburn a bound set of National Geographic. We are delighted and know that Arecibo will be thrilled."

Spring Lawn Care

It could be said that a lawn is to a home what a setting is to a diamond; the latter looks pretty without the first, but each is certainly complemented by the other.

A good lawn is the crowning touch to every home; carefully planned care will make your's worthy of acclaim. Before any steps are taken to build or improve a lawn, the nature of the various grasses must be understood.

Bluegrass, Fescues and Ryegrass-es are the most common here in New England. All prefer a cool moist environment - conditions found here during the spring and fall. Consequently, during the hot dry summer months the grasses suffer; they more or less "mark-time" until more favorable conditions return.

During the warm spring days it may seem to be a good idea to get out and rake the lawn, but care must be taken when doing so, especially if the soil is wet. When the dirt is moist and the grass plants are still in their semi-dormant state, it is very easy to pull up the plants by raking over them.

It is a good idea, however, to go over the lawn as soon as possible to remove any leaves, sticks and stones which have gathered during the winter.

A lawn sweeper is a good investment since its fairly soft bristles apply even pressure which is not likely to up-root the plants. It makes the job go a lot faster, too.
The lawn must be rolled as soon as the soil has dried to such a degree that the turf no longer feels soggy underfoot. Rolling a lawn is important since it levels the turf (which lessens scalping the lawn if a rotary lawn mower is used), and it resets turf which has been loosened by the frost.

With all the new crab-grass killers on the market today, there is no excuse for having a weed factory in your backyard. Both you and your neighbors will profit if a crab-grass killer is applied now.

An insect-larvae killer is an additive in most of the crab-grass killers. Japanese beetle and cut-worm larvae lay dormant in the turf during the spring; if they are killed now, a great reduction in the insect population of your yard will be noticed this summer.

Potassium cyanate and the methyl arsonates are the main ingredients in most crab-grass - insect killers. They are perfectly safe when used as directed by the manufacturer.

The new long-term fertilizers available are far superior to the older kinds which usually just burn the lawn and then promptly become inactive. The new nitrogen-rich fertilizers are almost burn-

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Dom-
ley. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may avoid a similar mistake."

A Cappella Choir Of Lutheran Bible Institute

The Lutheran Bible Institute A Cappella Choir of Minneapolis, Minnesota, is being presented on Tuesday, April 21, at 8:00 p.m., at the First Methodist Church in Woburn. Sponsoring this event is the Luther League of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The program gives a historical presentation of music beginning with the Renaissance and Baroque music up to the present neo-classic era.

The first group includes the "Crucifixus" by Antonio Lotti, which so vividly and poignantly expresses the passion of our Lord.
A double chorus composition,
"Psalm 100," by Heinrich Schütz, will conclude the first group.

The second group will be initiated by Morten J. Lovaas' famous setting of Bach's choral, "Come, Blessed Rest." It is followed by the motet for double chorus, "What Can Life Be But A Shadow" by Johann Michael Bach which breathes the text's spirit of how futile is man's existence on this earth, and that his only hope is in the life to come.

The third group of compositions to be given by the choir will include Russian church music, and conclude with Tom Scott's famous choral setting of the "Creation" by James Weldon Johnson.

The concluding group of the concert includes an original work by the conductor based on the Creed and written for chorus and brass instrumental accompaniment.

The "Alleluia" by Thompson and compositions by F. Melius Christiansen will also appear in this section. The concert will traditionally conclude in a sacred atmosphere with the singing of Peter Lutkin's setting of the "Benediction."

Tickets may be secured in Winchester from Stuart Mumm (729-7619), or Caroleah VanWert (729-6011). The public is cordially invited.

Much Ado About Boys

from Shel

This week I direct my remarks to the younger set. I refer to you fellows who wear sizes 8 to 20. I bet you didn't know that within the store that has finery for men and women we also have a department that caters strictly to you. This is the same section that your fathers, brothers and uncles were outfitted in years before. As each new era has come in, so have we progressed accordingly. You will be amazed at the tremendous assortment of shirts, slacks and jackets that are here for you to choose from. Right now for instance we have the most colorful array of light weight sport coats around. Made of Indian Madras or dacron and cotton, these jackets are a natural with our coordinated slacks. Speaking of slacks, we have them as you need them. For you easy to fit guys we have them in Regulars. For you muscle men who need a little more room we have them in Huskies. Last but far from least is the Slim Type for you long lean ones. We also have chinos in Crumetone or the famous Farah blends. At the risk of shocking you I will mention the word Continental. Sure we may be out of a size now and then, but we will always be happy to order them for you. To put the finishing touches to any wardrobe we offer the latest in short sleeve sport shirts in plaids, solids and stripes, along with some very new and interesting ideas in short sleeve knit shirts. I could go on and on raving about all these wonderful things but . . . what's this? You say you're not surprised and you know all this! Well, then how come we haven't seen you lately?

Can You Profit From The Growing "Teen" Market?

In a timely investment study, Townsend, Dabney discusses the growth of the teen-age market and its probable impact on the common stock of one of the largest designers and manufacturers of leisure and sportswear for this expanding segment of the population. The shares of this company are recommended for investors seeking capital appreciation and moderate current yield.

The study also brings to investors' attention:

- Selected metal stocks suggested for possible cyclical profits.
- Increasingly better outlook for two fire and casualty insurers.
- U. S. paper manufacturer whose high 1963 sales rose 11% to a record high of $70 million. Currently recommended for capital gains.

Lodge Support In Winchester Grows

Considerable sentiment for the Lodge for President campaign was reported at a gathering of several Winchester citizens last Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Denton, of 11 Manchester Road.

Mr. Denton informed the group that his conversations with some fifty residents during the past ten days, indicated an overwhelming response favorable to promoting the Draft Lodge movement here in Massachusetts. "The vast majority," he stated, "expressed an enthusiastic willingness to contact their neighbors and friends to support the delegate candidates, whose leanings are favorable to Ambassador Lodge, at the April 28 Primary Election."

Referring to the slate of district delegates, composed of Representative Harrison Chadwick of Winchester, Representative John Eaton of Concord, Mrs. Deane W. Carstensen of Melrose, and Dean Webster of Andover, Mr. Denton expressed confidence that these candidates will receive the majority of votes cast by Winchester's participants in the Republican primary.

Mrs. Albert Thompson of 15 Garfield Avenue told of her long-held admiration for Henry Cabot Lodge, and that the nation was ready for a return of an Eisenhower-type administration in Washington.

Stuart F. Page of 84 Woodside Road and Linford W. Fitzpatrick of 7 Lockeland Road, both expressed their high regard for Ambassador Lodge with references to his skill and statesmanship rendered our country in the United Nations during the Eisenhower administration.

Mrs. William Cusack of 2 Lakeview Road said she believed there was a real "groundswell" for the Lodge candidacy nationwide, and that Winchester's voters will demonstrate "support for their honored friend who has visited our town many times over the years."

One participant mentioned that he had favored the candidacy of Senator Goldwater, but he said, after weighing the qualifications of the two men, "believes that the nation will be better served by Cabot Lodge in the White House."

Lawrence Smith of 4 Meadowcroft Road stressed the importance of supporting the Chadwick-Eaton slate at the primary to be held one week from next Tuesday. "For Massachusetts to be represented at the Republican Convention by delegates pledged, either formally or informally, to Senator Goldwater would be extremely embarrassing," he said, "and there is no doubt in my mind that if Massachusetts doesn't lead the Lodge boom, some other state will."

Mr. Smith added that contrary to charges being made by the Goldwater supporters, "I am confident that the slate of delegates, both at-large and on the district level, which have the support of Senator Saltonstall and other Republican leaders, will reject the extreme position of Governor Rockefeller as well as that held by Senator Goldwater."

Mrs. Denton discussed the possible participation of registered Democrats in the campaign, and Mr. Page stated that he knew several who have indicated a willingness to work toward the goal of having Ambassador Lodge nominated for President.

The group's optimism with respect to the success of the Draft Lodge movement was substantiated by their belief that not only will Ambassador Lodge top the Republican preferential balloting, he will also receive a heavy vote on Democratic Party ballots.

Mrs. Denton served the group refreshments, and the evening concluded with appreciation extended to the hosts for an enjoyable and rewarding evening.

Citizens Thanked For Easter Seal Gifts to Date

Generous residents of the Winchester area have contributed $1,343 or 96 per cent of the $1,400 local goal in the 1964 Easter Seal campaign, it was announced by Charles W. Butler, treasurer of the Winchester Trust Company, who is area treasurer for the drive.

According to Robert M. Jenney, president of Jenney Manufacturing Co. and appeal chairman, this year's campaign goal is an objective we can realistically expect to achieve. There has been tremendous growth in Easter Seal programs in the last few years to meet the needs of Massachusetts' crippled children and adults and increased public response to Easter Seal appeals. Meeting the fund goal for the 1964 campaign will mean that the society will be able to maintain the pace at which it has been accelerating its services.

Seven Girls Here Help Wakefield Racetracks To Become N. E. Champions

This past year seven Winchester girls have been swimmers for the Wakefield Racetracks Swim Team, coached by Don and Marge Murphy of Wakefield.

Celeste Cartiere, Barbara Byse, and Maureen Sullivan swim on the Class C team, (11 and 12 year olds). Martha Rooney, Susie Van Wert, Kathy Harris and Kathy Sullivan swim on the Class B team, (13 and 14 year olds).

Miss Rooney, Miss Van Wert and Miss Harris went to Westerly Rhode Island with seven other Class B swimmers recently and won the title of New England Champions.

"It took Wakefield four years to build up a team good enough to take the New England, and these girls deserve every bit of the title. Beating Naugatuck, Connecticut swimmers was a big triumph," said coaches Don and Marge Murphy. "Naugatuck is a team that holds national A. A. U. records and is one of the strongest Y.M.C.A. and A.A.U. competitive clubs in the nation, so you can see the quality of swimming that must have come from the girls in order to win. Naugatuck was the only team we felt could stop us."

Susie Van Wert, 13, an outstanding swimmer captured 1st in the 80 yard individual medley with a time of 57.7. She also swam on the successful 160 yard freestyle relay team which broke the existing New England record. They did it in a time of 1:33.7; the old record was 1:36.0.

Martha Rooney, 13, one of the teams best backstrokers swam on the medley relay team which captured third and gave the team a 4 point lead over Naugatuck.

Kathy Harris just missed qualifying in the 40 yard freestyle event. However, she made up for it in the medley relay swimming the freestyle leg.

Class C came in third in the New England Championships, which was won by Naugatuck and Quincy second.

Celeste Cartiere, 12, broke the New England record in the 40 yard backstroke. She did a 26.8 breaking the old record which was a 28.0. In the finals Celeste missed 1st by a split second, but the record she set in the trials still stands. She also swam on the freestyle relay team that broke the New England record.

Barbara Byse, 12, swam the butterfly on the medley relay team that came in fourth, and Maureen Sullivan, 12, swam in the 40 yard freestyle.

Class B also won the titles in the Eastern Massachusetts District Y.M.C.A. Championships in February.

Susie Van Wert won the 80 yard individual medley breaking the district record by a full second with a 57.4. She was also on the winning freestyle relay team which also set a new record.

Kathy Harris swam the 40 yard freestyle placing second. She also swam on the freestyle relay with Susie Van Wert.

Martha Rooney swam backstroke on the medley relay team that won. They missed the record by one tenth of a second.

Kathy Sullivan swam the hundred yard breaststroke and came in fourth.

Class C came in second in the Eastern District Championships which were won by Quincy. Celeste Cartiere won the 40 yard freestyle breaking her old record with a 23.3. She swam backstroke on the medley relay that came in second behind Quincy.

Barbara Byse and Maureen Sullivan were on the Class C freestyle team that came in second to Quincy also.

These girls were determined to make a good showing at the New England Championships, so for three weeks before the meet, they got up at 5 in the morning and went to Wakefield to practice before school.

WHS Vaudeville Presents "Girls! Girls! Girls!"

Tomorrow and Saturday nights the WHS auditorium curtain will rise at 8 p.m. on the 32nd annual WHS Vaudeville Show, this year to be "Girls! Girls! Girls!"

Some 22 dance and song numbers will bring boys as well as girls across the stage albeit some of the former will appear at times as the latter.

Town Softball League

Director of the softball league, Frank Provinzano, met with the managers of the eight teams on Monday night to discuss the rules and regulations to be adhered to for the approaching season and to make final arrangements in forming the schedule.

Those interested in participating should contact the managers as listed below for possibilities of joining their rosters. Players from last year's teams must remain with those teams unless properly released by their last year managers.

Teams not represented at Monday's meeting are not to be included in the plans because previous announcements called for interested teams to be present at this most important and organizational meeting. This year's schedule is already formed according to the eight teams confirming their interest to participate.

Games are to be played Monday through Thursday evenings at Leonard Field with starting time set at 6:30.

The first cry for "play ball" will be heard on Monday, May 4th, when the defending champions, Sons of Italy, will compete against the newly entered team, the Northeast Radiological Health Lab., which is located on Holton Street.

The championship runner-up Elks will take on the Sachems on Tuesday of the same week followed by third place V.F.W. vs. Calidyne unit on Wednesday. The Knicks and Shamrocks will then fight it out for a first victory on Thursday of the first week of play.

Hokie Procopio is again the Johnny Pesky of the champion SOI team and although he has reached the half century mark in years, Hokie still finds himself on the mound pinch-hitting and giving strategic orders. He also claims the trophy will remain on the trophy shelf at the SOI club at season's end.

Richie Mawn is back to manage the Elks nine and he reports that this time he will claim the trophy. His team has finished on top in regular season play the past two years only to lose out in the playoffs but he says, "this is the year for the Elks as they are going all the way."

The V.F.W. which has steadily been improving is again managed by hard-working and likeable Nanny Cogan. Nanny has done a lot to put on a respectable team and has been a credit to the league.

Mike Callahan is still attending evening classes at Northeastern, but has his mind on softball as an excellent form of recreation and hopes to make the playoffs again this year.

The youngest and most erratic base-running team is the Knicks and manager John Hosmer predicts a bigger and better year for his aggregation.

Richie DeMincio will again be at the controls for the Sachems who finished in sixth place a year ago but Richie feels that the Sachems will climb closer to the top.

Calidyne has been reaching higher rating each year and with stronger pitching manager Paul Hoeter predicts a better year.

The new Health Lab. team is managed by Forest Knowles and Bob Balder and they were quite enthused about entering the league. They said they will take time to organize the team and to learn of the opponent's type of play, but that they will put on a good account of themselves.

So it looks like an exciting season is fast approaching and that the boys are eager to get going.

Another meeting of managers will be held in the near future to discuss final details so until then get your eager beavers out there and in shape for the opener.

"CUT OFF AT THE PLATE" is a brand of terminology that would thoroughly confuse most chess enthusiasts, but to the average baseball fan it has the sound of sweet prose. Here, Sachem catcher Ron Scherban, after receiving throw from left fielder Bob Murray, makes tag on unidentified Malden runner to cut short first-inning rally. Sachems overcame seven-run deficit in this exhibition contest to tie the visitors, 3-3.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK:

"Play ball!" —Baseball umpires throughout America, initiating the nation's number one sport.

Barring defensive leakage, the Sachems will be a team to reckon with in the Middlesex Baseball League. Coach Bill Colella's boys carry some potent bats. Evidence of this was observed last Monday when they staged a come-from-behind effort to tie Malden 8-8, after being down 8-1. Previous exhibition games saw Browne & Nichols defeated 9-2, and a loss to Lynnfield, 3-2. Malden is coached by Charles "Chick" McHugh who has been at the helm of both baseball and hockey for the past 33 years.

The Sachems will field a veteran unit, all of whom saw plenty of action last season. It'll look something like this on opening day (April 22): Buddy Rotondi, 1b; Vic Lawson, 2b; Ed Cutting, ss; George Murphy, 3b; Bob Murray, lf; Lee Sullivan, cf; Bob Gilbert, rf; Ron Scherban, c; and Dick Faieta, p.

Even Pierre Salinger, former Presidential press secretary, and presently running for US Senate, gets into the act occasionally. He reminisced this week to Los Angeles Herald-Examiner writer Melvin Durslag about an incident that occurred in a softball game between the White House correspondents and the Kennedy nine. Salinger was playing right field in the ninth inning of this crucial contest when someone lofted a long fly in his direction. Everyone on the field was watching it sail—everyone, that is, except Salinger.

"My eyes were fixed, instead, on a pretty TWA stewardess who was sitting in the stands," he recalled. "This distraction let in three runs and cost us the game."

Both senior Paul DeRossi, reportedly sought after by a number of major league concerns, and sophomore George Neville are making solid impressions with Harvard. . . . Smallest man on the Red Sox roster is third baseman Frank Malzone at 5ft. 10in., while the giant remains Gene Conley at 6ft. 8in. . . .

Bill Colella reports that hurlers Bob Washburn, Bob Crotty and sophomore Kevin Crowley have looked good in their appearances in the Sachems' first three practice games. . . . And infielders Jack Kimball and Davis Blanchard have shown "a great deal of promise" . . . Some observers have been reminded of Joe DiMaggio by Sox rookie centerfielder Tony Conigliaro (pronounced Conig-lee-ah-row). Now if the 6ft. 3 in. Swampscott youngster can only hit like the great DiMag. . . . The oddsmakers have installed another rookie, Dalton Jones, as a 3-1 choice to replace Chuck Schilling at second base by June 1st.

HOPES ARE RIDING HIGH on hurler Dick Faieta to assure the Sachems of a successful season. The lanky senior, troubled in the past with a leg injury, has been selected to pitch the Middlesex opener on April 22nd against Wakefield.

Driving Records By Age Groupings Are Compared

Young drivers last year had the worst performance record of any age group, according to a report by The Travelers Insurance Companies.

Drivers under 25 years of age comprise only about 15 per cent of all licensed drivers in the United States. Yet, these young people are involved in nearly 29 per cent of all fatal accidents.

Young men and women in this age group also were involved in a great number of non-fatal highway mishaps. In 1962, they were implicated in 27.3 per cent of all non-fatal traffic accidents as against 23.3 per cent in 1961.

On the brighter side, the best relative improvement in 1962 was made by drivers 65 and over. This group was involved in only 6 per cent of all fatal accidents compared with 7.2 per cent the previous year.

The largest age group, including drivers from 25 through 64, also improved its performance record in 1962.

BOWLING

S.O.I. Women

Our bowling season is over at Strike Lanes and I'd say it was an enjoyable 27 weeks. This week is the first week of roll-offs. Rolling off for first place will be the Kools, captain Eleanor Lucci, Joan Mistretta, Rose Fiore, Phil Marone and Kay Pizzo. Rolling off with the Kools will be the Kents, captain Louise Vigorita, Irene Mangano, Terry Walsh, Terry Salazzi and Margaret Maggior.

Rolling off for second place will be the Newports and the Springs. Rose DeTeso is the captain of the Newports with Phil Corby, Jean DiDonato, Peggy Fiore, and Ann Cullen. Springs captain is Laura Caria, with Cynthia Esposito, Pauline Giacalone, Sue Barbaro, Sadie Antonuccio. Good luck and good bowling to these four teams.

The Luckies, Kay Lentine's team tried their best to hold second place through the second half but lost it in the last night of bowling to the Springs. The Springs were in tenth place most of the first half with just four girls until they got a replacement and then did these girls go to town.

Congratulations to Terry Nappa for high average of 92.9, and to Cusi Fiore for high triple of 345 and to Pauline Giacalone for high single of 117.

The clue for this week is, my average is between 75 and 85.

S.O.I. Men

The S.O.I. bowling league reached its climax last week when the championship teams were crowned with the title after a most successful season with 84 participants.

Boston College ended up as the first place winners with Notre Dame being the runner-up for the same position. Leading the champions on to victory were Max La Carubba who rolled 105-94-110, Capt. Tony Saraco 99-103-98, Giro Cerulli 81-106-97, Andy Buzzotta 99-95-90, Mario Lentine 87-85-89 and Chick Giacalone 81-71-91. For runner-up Notre Dame Capt. Moose Bellino carried the brunt in a losing cause with excellent strings of 124-126-111 and following him were Emile Doucette 113-

92-98, Angie Amico 101-97-103, Dan Gattneri 85-81-99, Pete Loni-gro 89-89-84 and Randy Kazanian 81-77-75.

In the first round between the first place teams B.C. defeated N. D. 8-0 and in the deciding match Notre Dame had B.C. on the ropes by winning the first two strings and finally succumbed in the final string only to lose by 5 pins.

Alabama took to the foul line trailing 1-7 to Navy for second place and won the first string by 15 pins but Navy needed but one string to cinch the playoff and finally brought the competition to an end when Navy sank Alabama by 12 pins. In the two strings bowled, Capt. Richie Riga led the winners with strings of 106-111 and next in line were Frank Provizano 92-98, Mario Cascioli 90-98, Boss Dattilo 84-97 and Joe Pettiti 85-94. Joe Di Tucci is also a member of the team but being ordered by his physicians to "slow-down" Joe cheered his team on to victory and kept the score sheet.

Runner-up for second place, Alabama had Jay Cammarata leading the pack in performance with scores of 109-111 for the two strings and next in order were Capt. Dick Tofuri 107-97, Mingo Frongillo 94-90, Bill Maggio 90-87, Al Malatesta 85-83 and Frank Dattilo, Sr., 76-87.

In the first meeting for third place Bates was victorious over Yale by an 8-0 score and it required only the winning of one string to put the third place winners on ice. Bates lost no time in getting it over when it defeated Yale by a mere 4 pins but enough of a margin to decide the third place winners. Winning Bates' best performers were Capt. Bob Fiore 102, Dan Mistretta 101, Max Di Mambro 98, Arka Amico 96, Ralph Fiore 90 and John Pettiti 74. The scores for losing Yale were Capt. Richie Bucoi 100, Mel Fiore and Chick Vespucci 8 each, Mike Colucci 94, Muddy Saragosa 93 and Don Kenton 74.

Contests, Clinics Coming Up For '64 Winchester Tennis

C. Donald Stebbins of Oxford Street was elected president of the Winchester Tennis Association at the annual meeting held last Wednesday evening at the residence of Robert W. Horne, retiring president. A graduate of the University of Maine, Stebbins has been active in the W. T. A. for eight years and an enthusiastic participant in local and New England tennis tournaments.

After reports from the 1963 officers and committee chairman, the members voted to carry on a broad program of tennis clinics, tournaments and team events during 1964. Among the featured tournaments will be the Mystic Valley Junior Championships for boys and girls which will be held this year during the week beginning June 22 at the William Packer Courts. Josiah E. Bacon will be in charge of the arrangements for this tournament, which has always attracted large fields. Chairman Bacon expects another good entry this year.

Winchester will field three teams in the burgeoning Suburban Doubles League which now has 40 towns and club teams participating on a weekly basis. Henry Fitz, Josiah Bacon and Donald Puffer were appointed captains of the three Winchester entrants.

Representatives of the Winchester Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce attended the meeting and requested funds to assist in financing a junior tournament being sponsored by the local chapter this summer. The winners in the boys' and girls' divisions are to represent Massachusetts in the National J. C. Tournament at Minneapolis. Following a discussion, the members of the W. T. A. voted to support the Winchester J. C.'s in this worthy while project as an organization, and also to urge all W. T. A. members to contribute individually.

Other officers elected at the meeting included William E. Bird, vice president, and Dwight E. Belows, secretary-treasurer. E. Whitney Gray and Robert A. Joslin were chosen as members of the Governing Board.

It's Track Time Again

The Winchester High School track team starts its season next week with a meet with Reading on April 21 and a meet with Melrose on April 24. Both meets are at Winchester and start at 10:00 a.m. Winchester, the 1963 Middlesex League champion, is expecting another winning season and has nine returning lettermen and a host of new talent from the sophomore and junior classes. The team has two coaches this year, Mr. Battino (short distance and field) and Mr. Rawden (long distance).

Outstanding events this year will be the discus with Captain Peter Fahey and Peter Hichborn, and the pole vault, with state champion Rich Alderson, and John Cussen. Thor Sandler will hurdle again for Winchester in both the highs and the lows. The javelin and shot put will be behind the strong arms of Bill Grout, Steve Litchfield, and Frank Frongillo.

The track team will be represented in the long distance races by Jon "Buck" Buckley, Ian Jenike, and Walter Harwood. Sprinters Joe Grant, Austin Garvey, Tom Committed, Charlie Thoms, Dave Pywell, and Tom Kelley will be faced with the difficult task of filling in the gaps left by last year's seniors.

If all goes as planned, the Middlesex League had better watch out.

WHS Class of '24 Will Hold 40th Reunion May 9

A group representing the officers and members of the class of 1924 of the Winchester High School met last week at the home of Mrs. Herbert T. Wadsworth, of 15 Norwood Street, to complete plans for the fortieth anniversary reunion to be held at the Winchester Country Club on May 9.

Joining together last week to make these plans were class members Dorothy Aseltine Wadsworth, Dr. Richard J. Clark, James J. Fitzgerald, Jr., Mary Lally De-Courcy, Anna Oliver Mawn and Malcolm C. Stewart. More than fifty members, husbands and wives included, are expected to be present at the affair.

All members of the class of 1924 are welcome.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

With the tryouts over and the managers selecting their teams for the coming season, Little League is ready for another banner year. A fine crop of newcomers will add to the minor league performances and there should be some great games slated for the fans again this year.

Ed Williams, president of Winchester Little League Inc., has been more than enthusiastic at the response to his call for workers to canvass the town on Tag Day. "I am tendering my thanks to all of those who were kind enough to give us their help in the 'Bucks for Boys' drive. On behalf of all of those in the Little League program, I want to extend to every worker our appreciation for a job well done," Mr. Williams said.

This year's drive was one of the most successful ever held and the League treasury is again able to finance the expense of the program with the best of equipment and protection for the boys.

Also in line for the "thank you" from Little League is Al LaPointe, president of the Dads' Club and all of its members who gave freely of their time and money in the effort for the boys. And the League is not forgetting to express its gratitude to the sponsors of the teams. These merchants, business houses and organizations are always ready with their sponsor checks which are so necessary in the success of a project such as this.

At this writing only the American League Majors have selected their full rosters but next week's edition will carry the National League rosters and the minor league teams from the American League.

Woodshots	16	14	533

S. O. I. News

The first thing of importance is to remind you that the joint installation of officers and initiation of members of the ladies' and men's lodges will take place on Sunday evening at the Sons of Italy Hall with starting time set at 5:30. It is urged that all newly appointed officers and our new members be present for the most fascinating ceremony performed by the men's lodge degree team.

Following the initiation and installation exercises there will be a brief speaking program followed by a collation and dancing until midnight.

We are extremely happy to learn that Jim Deery, Tony Deluca and Sam Puma are coming along quite nicely after serious illnesses.

It certainly was nice to see Rose Fiore back again and exercising good lung control encouraging her husband, Mel, during the bowling championship playoffs.

Joe DiTucci also made it a point to attend the playoffs to cheer his Navy team on to victory. The closest he could place himself, however, during the roll-offs was a scorer but he was mighty pleased to get sized up for a jacket for being a member of the second-place Navy team.

Most hearty congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fiore, who will be celebrating their twentieth wedding anniversary this week-end. Many, many more to a most happy and highly liked couple.

Here's hoping that Sue Barbara's dad makes a quick and complete recovery from the serious illness that recently confined him to bed.

Scoutmaster and his assistants, Carl Bertolucci and Mel Fiore, enjoyed a most successful week-end with the S. O. I. Boy Scout troop of 34 boys, spent at the Rice Moody Camp in North Reading.

Now that the bowling season has come to a close, Chairman Art Dunbar is lining up his contestants for the fast-approaching golf season. Those interested in participating are urged to see Mr. Dunbar as soon as possible.

Hokie Procopio is also busy making arrangements for his defending champion softball team of the Town Leagues. It won't be long until you hear "play ball" by director Frank Provizano, so get those gloves and shoes out, men.

The S.O.I. degree team, with Boss Dattilo as the guiding light, starts fulfilling its long list of engagements for various organizational installations of officers on Saturday night, when the first performance takes place at Revere.

Port-a-Rook. As many as 5 or 6 books can be strapped together. Has a tough unbreakable plastic handle. Price $1.00. At the Winchester Star.

Girl Scouts' Benefit Bridge

Combine the organizing skills of Alice Kimball and the promotional abilities of Peggy Sanderson with the culinary talents of Winchester's girl scout mothers and the result had to be a most successful bridge party to benefit the Campership Fund of the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council.

Add spice to the mixture in the form of the Sport Shop Challenge Bowl to be won by the duplicate pair with the highest score and you have a sure fire formula for the drama which unfolded in spacious Hadley Hall on Saturday, April 11.

The three duplicate sections were directed by Dick Smith, Chet Davis, and Darrell Root respectively, three of the most competent tournament supervisors in the state. With all sections competing on the same basis of a 63 average, Section A finished first and reported a top score of 75 1/2 for Dick and Lolly Smith.

The returns were in soon afterward from Section B, where Chet and Marion Davis emerged with a score of 80 1/2 to take over the lead in the race for the trophy.

But the pattern of the evening was now set, and Darrell Root to the occasion. When the tally checked out for Section C, Darrell Root and Clarence Woodward had won the trophy with a whopping 92 point score, and had made it a clean sweep of all three sections by the section directors!

But the main thing we noted was that all players, veteran and novice alike, were having a genuinely good time. We feel sure that the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club, which sponsored the benefit, has gained some new friends for its regular Wednesday evening games at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Here are the results in detail:

The World About Them

Three young women students at McCall won top honors in their respective classes as judges picked out 13 prize winning student exhibits among 120 on display Friday night at the annual Science Fair there. A full crowd filled the gymnasium and gave enthusiastic attention to the demonstrations of scientific accomplishment which that afternoon had undergone the close observation and question asking of the team of judges.

Picked for first prize among the grade 9 exhibits was a recording of the living habits of the "Milkweed Bug" done in careful detail by Donna Kelly. Second place in grade 9 went to Scott Anderson for his "Microdissection and Micro-manipulation" demonstrating the use of a micromanipulator in dividing an amoeba. Third place went to Meredith Avola for "Blood Coagulation—a project describing the blood clot components"; and honorable mention went to Ronald Marcy, "Stem Grafting," Susan Mullare, "Rhizopus Development," and to Barbara Quigley, for "Animal Metabolism."

Topping grade 8 contenders was Janice Digman with "Salinity of Oceans," a project telling the story of the development of their salinity over the eons; William Haag took second place with "Photographing Star Trails," a story of the relationship of the stars and the earth and Andrew Sklodowski won third place with an exhibit using his home constructed "Polariscope."

In grade 7 Elisabeth Hopkins won first prize with her exhibit of "Growing Plants Without Soil"; Peter Knight's project on "Osmosis" and how it works won second spot and Thomas Kelleher's "Polarized Light and Polarimeter" took third, demonstrating the detection of sugar with a polarimeter. Projects this year had been pre-judged on Wednesday and the selection from 210 projects presented for the right of final public display had been made by the Science Fair committee, the science faculty at McCall: Mrs. Marie Rawden, Mrs. Judith Sadowski, John Limongiello and Paul Andrews.

Methodist Youth On New York Seminar

Early Monday morning eighteen young people of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Crawford Memorial Church will leave on a four day trip to New York City for an educational seminary. Miss Jo Guley, education assistant will be in charge and Norman Stafford will be the other adult counselor of the group.

While in New York the young people will visit The United Nations, the Methodist United Nations Center, National Council of Churches and Methodist Church Headquarters, Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary, Riverside Church and The World's Fair. They will also attend an off-Broadway play.

The youth group has earned over two thirds of the expense of the trip by paper drives, car washes, serving suppers and other projects.

The committee planning the seminar includes June Haff, Ted Longworth, John Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley, advisors and Miss Jo Guley. Others making the trip will be Barbara Brotherton, Sue Bassford, Kim Chase, Sheryl Fletcher, Marilyn Haff, June Haff, Linda Knight, Barbara Monsen, David Needham, Arthur Stafford, Carol Scharnick, Wendy Newman, Lynn Scott and Royal Morse.

The young people are scheduled to be back in Boston on Thursday night at 9:30.

"Hootenanny Spring Hop" At Legion Saturday

This Saturday night is the date for the "Hootenanny Spring Hop" at the Legion Hall.

Comrade Jim Phillips is in charge of the arrangements for the fun packed evening, ably assisted by his lovely wife, Ginny. Also volunteering their services in setting up for the dance are, Comrades Ed McCabe, and Bill Carroll.

Jim has mentioned that there will be prizes given out for the talented in a couple of dance contests, and possibly one for being in the right spot at the right time. So, now is the time to join in the fun and kick up your heels. Come to the festivities Saturday night, you'll have a wonderful time.

Youth Hear Story Of Mission Dam

Speaking before the Mineral Club last Wednesday evening, Dr. Ruth Terzaghi of 3 Robinson Circle, told about 70 young members and adult friends the story of the development of the Mission Dam in British Columbia.

Her late husband, professor Karl Terzaghi, a soil expert, had drawn the blueprints for the dam and through her slides the audience heard of the choice of location, the materials of the dam—the glacial till and coarser glacial gravel—and the advent of electricity from the dam to bring electric power to the city of Vancouver.

Before the meeting Miss Eleanor Banks, club director, welcomed new and old members to this well attended meeting.

Youth Sunday At Methodist Church

The morning Worship Service this Sunday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist will be conducted in its entirety by the high school age group of the Methodist Youth Fellowship and in observance of Youth Sunday.

Miss Beverly Robbins will give the call to worship, the collect and lead in the prayer. The scripture will be read by David Needham and the "challenge" by Miss Lynn Scott.

The sermon presentation will be dramatized, and the theme will be "What is the Church?" with Lynne Scott, William Chase, Janet Herrmann, John Ellis, Ted Longworth and June Haff taking the parts.

Other young people in the service will be Barbara Monsen and Royal Morse, greeters; Jean Henry, George Ellis, Arthur Stafford and Carol Scharnick, ushers.

Following the service there will be a coffee hour given by the young people in Gifford Hall with the following young people as the committee in charge: Beverly Robbins, chairman, Cheryl Fletcher and Marilyn Haff.

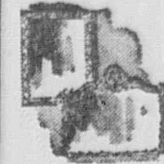

They will also distribute an "M. Y. F. Booklet" of which Miss Wendy Newman is the editor.

Music will be by the Youth and Sanctuary Choirs with Mrs. Gloria Maifeld directing and with Mrs. Julie Collins at the organ.

Governor Signs Act Changing Lexington, Winchester Lines

Governor Endicott Peabody signed into law on Tuesday, March 24, an Act, passed and engrossed in the Senate on March 16 and the House on March 10, which changes the Winchester-Lexington boundary line, giving Winchester an added 218,000 square feet and giving Lexington 5,300 square feet, in what was a mutually agreed relining of the boundary between the two towns.

The 1963 Town Meetings in both towns approved the land swaps, and requested the General Court and the Department of Public Works to make the boundary changes. In Winchester, under Article 49 of the 1963 Warrant, the Town Meeting passed the measure without a dissenting vote.

Actually, four pieces of land were involved. In Winchester, a 5,000 square foot parcel and a 300 square foot piece were transferred by the state to Lexington; and in Lexington, a 193,000 square foot parcel and a 25,000 square foot piece of land was transferred from Lexington to Winchester. All the pieces were north of Winchester Drive and Johnson Road, near Nassau Drive and Thornberry Road.

Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, told the 1963 Town Meeting when it was deciding the issue that up until 1954 the town lines of Winchester and Lexington did not agree, with the result being an unclaimed area. Since then the Murphy subdivision overlapped into the Lexington line, requiring the approval of the Lexington Planning Board by subdivision control law. The Lexington Planning Board then suggested the boundary line be established.

"This is very sound," Mr. Gray stressed at last year's Town Meeting, "so that people living on this land won't have to pay taxes in both towns."

State Secretary Kevin White To Visit Winchester

Continuing with his program of making an official visit to every community in the Commonwealth, Secretary of State Kevin H. White will tour Eastern Massachusetts on Thursday, April 23 and Friday, April 24.

Winchester will be Secretary White's first stop on Friday April 24 at 9:30 in the morning. He will meet with the Town Clerk, Elsie Nelson, to discuss the Town's vital statistics and records pertaining to the state's requirements, and review other matters of mutual interest to both the Town and State.

He expects to complete his program of making an official visit to the 351 cities and towns in the state sometime next month.

A TREE IS PLANTED ON THE COMMON. A sizeable group of local officials turned out at 7:30 on Tuesday morning to observe the planting of a blossoming tulip tree on the Winchester Common, near Waterfield Road, and dedicated to the late Oscar S. Merrow, who passed away in December, 1962, and who was the former first executive secretary of the Board of Selectmen, a chairman of the Finance Committee, and a Planning Board member. Joseph Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, Richard J. Merrow, and Mrs. Oscar Merrow, are shown with members of other town boards observing the tree, shown on the left.

4 WHS Students Place Among Top 25 in Chemistry

Brenda Baker, Brian Kincaid, Garth Nelson and John Cunningham were four Winchester High School students honored among the top 25 high scorers in the American Chemical Society's Northeast sector chemistry exam contest last week.

They were honored at the Student Undergraduate Research Symposium dinner given Thursday evening by the Society at the M. I. T. Graduate Center. And honored with them were teachers Helen Crawley and Lenna Travis of WHS as well as 21 other students and accompanying teachers from high school and preparatory schools in this area.

Nearly 700 students took the test in the area. In the five years since the contest has been given Winchester students have always been among the top 25 and Winchester is the only school to have twice had four students among the top 25 winners. Miss Baker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Baker of 7 Grove Street, took fourth prize and won $100 in the contest as the only girl winner in the top five. Ahead of her were a student from Marblehead High School and two from Brookline High School. The three

Going... Going... Going...; Come Down To The Auction

It will be sunny and warm at the old Town Hall all day Saturday no matter what the weather outside!

The reason: Winchester Rotary's Annual Country Auction.

Sunshine will come from the smiles of buyers as they look over the list of wares (exhibition is 9:30 to 10) and as they respond to the exhortations of Shirley Dennis, auctioneer, from 10 on through the day.

Warmth will come two ways. First from the Rotary-Anns' coffee and cook pots which will make available snacks throughout the day, lunch at noon and the traditional end-of-day bean supper starting at 5 o'clock, not to mention a baked-goods sale table.

Second and most important will be that heart-warming feeling you'll get from coming down to support Rotary's once a year benefit.

Police Searching For Clues on 250 Of Len-Ed Checks

Winchester Police are investigating the theft of approximately 250 blank checks stolen from Len-Ed Motors, Inc., of 927 Main Street, sometime over the last week end.

Sergeant Andrew Crawford, who was in charge of last year's investigation of checks stolen and forged from the Aberjona Pharmacy, reported that the checks were taken by some person or persons who broke into the business and ransacked the offices sometime between midnight on Saturday and Monday morning. He said the blank checks all bore signatures of Len-Ed Motors, and the serial numbers ran from number 2204 through to number 2454.

Leonard Sortino, the owner of Len-Ed Motors, told police that the check marker that was in his office had been moved and showed evidence of being used, so possibly the checks were marked for various amounts. Also missing was a list of Len-Ed Motors customers. The checks were made by the Tanners National Bank of Woburn, and its name also appears on them.

Daylight Saving: Clocks Will Beat Time On Sunday

If you're late to church on Sunday don't blame us. Blame an Englishman named William Willett, who wrote a book, "The Waste of Daylight" back in 1907.

Or you can blame your State Legislature, which enacted a statute to adopt Daylight Saving and which has the power to continue or dismiss it as they see fit.

Officially it goes into effect at 2 a.m. Sunday morning; but many of us unofficially do better to remember it when we go to bed.

Local School Enrollment Growth, Buildings And Planning Are Analyzed

Dr. Marshall Charts, Evaluates Fast Rising School Population; Growth Percent Higher Than Town's, Complicates Building Plans

The Winchester School Building Needs Report by Dr. John E. Marshall, educational consultant for the School Committee and the Permanent Building Committee, includes a charting and an analysis and evaluation of the extraordinary increase in enrollment in the public schools of Winchester since the end of World War II—a spectacular population growth that exceeds in percentage statistics the general increase in town population.

Dr. Marshall analyzes the relative roles of children born of Winchester parents and the in-migration of families with children to Winchester and how they have affected elementary, junior high and senior high school enrollment increases to the degree that between 1950 and 1960, while the town population increased by 25 per cent overall, the school children population increased by 57 per cent, or proportionately more than double that of the town.

Using Planning Board potential growth figures and School Department enrollment increases and other allied town statistics, Dr. Marshall sets a maximum saturation level for enrollment in Winchester schools, and determines that there should be a balance between the saturation year to be planned for and the year to build ahead for when constructing new schools. Such a long-range plan should be able to accommodate about 3200 pupils for Kindergarten through sixth grade, and for about 2900 pupils for grades seven through twelve.

New families, and larger families; new homes, and more people living in old homes; a larger total population, and a higher proportion of the total attending public schools — every evidence of the flight to the suburbs is to be seen in Winchester. It is an attractive community physically, with hills and ponds, parks and playgrounds; schools are good, and other municipal services are good; roads are good and distances are short to jobs and to shopping; and residentially — suitable land is available. How could growth be avoided?

Between 1950 and 1960, while population increased by 25 per cent, enrollment in the public schools of Winchester (kindergarten through twelfth grade) increased by 57 per cent. Between 1960 and 1963, an estimated population growth of 9.6 per cent (to 21,235 persons) was reflected in a school enrollment growth of 11.3 per cent. The proportion of the total population attending public school rose from 17.3 per cent in 1950 to 21.8 per cent in Elementary school enrollment has grown from 1177 pupils in grades 1-6 in 1945 to 2178 this year, an average growth of 56 per year for the 18-year period (this is about two classrooms per year). In addition to this growth in grades 1-6, kindergarten enrollment increased by about 16 pupils a year for the 18 years shown; for the past eight years growth has averaged 23 per year (this is about one kindergarten class).

Junior high school enrollment has grown from 592 in grades 7-9 in 1945 to 1042 in 1963, an average of about 24 pupils per year for the period. Growth in grades 7-9 since 1950 has averaged 36 per year.

Senior high school enrollment has grown from 507 in 1945 to 1094 in grades 10-12 this year, an average of about 33 per year for the period; but note the surge since 1953, an average growth of 59 per year. In 1945 the senior high school enrollment was 22.3 per cent of the 1-12 total; in 1960 it was 23 per cent, and in 1963, 25.3 per cent. The greatest proportionate rise in enrollment is found at the senior high school level. It is impossible to isolate the reasons for this, but one may conjecture that the quality of the senior high school program attracts families with children at or approaching senior high school age, and that the cost of buying or building a residence in Winchester is such that there are fewer young, "just married" couples buying their first house, with no children, pre-school children, or children in the early elementary grades — and relatively more families with the father somewhat advanced in his business or profession, with more children, and some of these at or nearing high school age. This conjecture comports with things observed about family size, school enrollment, residential development, and median income in Winchester.

not too significant, since ordinarily enrollment increases are dealt with on the level where they occur. Yet the overall enrollment increases has averaged 130 per year since 1945, and 170 per year since 1955. (Total enrollment growth of 1955 since 1955 has been met by construction of Lynch Junior High School and Vinson - Owen Elementary School, two schools whose capacity totals less than the growth during the period; hence Winchester is today behind, rather than ahead, of where it stood in 1955 as to accommodations.)

Projecting Future Enrollments

What determines the number of children who are in school? Simply stated, these three things: (1) resident births — the number of children born to Winchester mothers; (2) in-migration — new families with children who were not born in Winchester but go to school here; and (3) the attractiveness of the public schools, as opposed to that of non-public schools that are available. Where a rising number of births to local parents is supplemented by children newly arrived in town, and where private and parochial schools serve relatively few children, enrollment rises.

Births to Winchester parents, fewer than 200 before 1940, have been more than 300 every year since 1952, reaching a high of 355 in 1959. Children born in 1959 haven't started to school yet; they will enter kindergarten the fall of 1964, and first grade in 1965. Because enrollments tend to reflect births for the corresponding year, high kindergarten enrollment may be expected in 1964 and high first-grade enrollment in 1965.

Of course, the number of children starting to school is not exactly the same as the number of births for the corresponding birth year. The number of first - graders in 1963, for example, was 408; this is 123.6 per cent of the 330 births in 1957. Assuming that all 330 children born in 1957 started to first We're looking for contestants between 18 and 28 years," Mr. Romano said. "Emphasis in the local pageant is on poise, personality, talent and attractiveness."

The winner of the Melrose pageant will receive a scholarship to the school of her choice, and will be eligible to participate for further prizes in the Miss Massachusetts contest this spring.

Winchester Visiting Nursing Association

An orientation meeting for the Board of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association was held on April 17 at the home of Mrs. Arthur Watkins. The meeting was preceded by a coffee, put on by the hospitality committee with Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson, vice-president, in charge.

Mrs. Kern Folkers, head of the education committee, handled the meeting and explained the purposes of the board, stressing the three-fold service the association provides in the community: working with adults through the V. N. A. in the home, with children through the school nursing program, and with the pre-school group through the Board of Health.

The association is composed of the professional staff and the volunteers who are board members. The education committee of the board keeps abreast of books and periodicals at the library which may be of interest, sees that manuals which belong to board members are up to date, and sets up programs for V. N. A. meetings, acquiring speakers who will be of interest and value to members.

Mrs. P. S. Cooke spoke as chairman of the finance committee. She explained how the budget of the association is drawn up, and stated the sources of income: fees of four dollars a visit to patients who are able to pay, the School Department, the Board of Health, the Community Fund, Cancer Society reimbursements, etc. Mrs. Howard Bates, chairman of the personnel committee, spoke on policy making, staffing the well baby clinic and auto-claving at the office with volunteers, orientation of new members for these jobs, and transportation of patients when needed.

Mrs. Robert Nyere, public relations chairman, showed how this committee assists in informing the public by means of newspaper articles and promoting public interest in the V. N. A. via methods such as entering a float in the En Ka parade. The main purpose is to make the people of Winchester aware of the services which are available to them.

Mrs. Otto Schaefer, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the name of Mrs. W. G. Overacker as a new member-at-large, and it was voted. She explained how her committee made its selections from the town and moved people to committees after they had served as members-at-large, expecting them to serve five years in various committee jobs.

Miss Rita Plummer, executive director, presented her side of the orientation of members by a very interesting motion picture "A Challenge to Serve," showing a day in the life of a visiting nurse. This was depicted by a nurse visiting a seventeen year old newly discovered diabetic, feeding solid food to a new baby and helping the mother with a deafness problem in an older child, working in the clinic, speaking at a club meeting to encourage volunteers, helping a stroke victim and teaching an expectant parents' class in the evening. The orientation meeting served a valuable purpose, not only in helping those new to the organization, but in supplementing information for the members who were already serving on the board.

YPF Group Forced to Cancel World's Fair Trip

Based on last-minute news reports, the trip this week to the opening of the World's Fair in New York City was cancelled by the leaders of the Young People's Fellowship of the Church of the Epiphany.

Mr. Richard Sweet, the father of the president of the group, was in telephone communication with the man in charge of his company's pavilion at the fair, who gave last-minute apprehensions of the officials in New York over possible race riots. And subsequently a group of parents, including Dr. Ellison and Dr. Donald McLean, meeting with the YPF president, decided that the risks involved were too great to justify taking the trip at this time.

For some time leaders of Negro and Puerto Rican groups in New York have made it clear that they intend to have mass demonstrations which will prevent groups from getting into the fair. At first these seemed to be limited to blocking the bridges leading to the fair grounds and demonstrating at the entrance. However, as of Tuesday morning, things were beginning to get out of hand.

The district attorney for Queens, one of the New York boroughs, is quoted in news dispatches as saying that he is unable to reason at all with the leaders of the Negro and Puerto Rican elements in Queens, which is the location of the fair grounds. These leaders have been expelled from the national organization of CORE, and are defying its leader, Mr. Farmer, who is in New York at this time. Other defiant groups from other cities are planning on being present to assist the Queens group in their disruptive tactics. It is reported that they have said that they will pull the safety switches and safety brakes on the subway trains all over Manhattan and the other boroughs. Masses of cars are planning on running out of gas on the main thoroughfares and bridges.

Another news bulletin has stated that groups may be planning on blocking major highways from the north leading to New York City. On Tuesday morning transportation on one of the subway lines in New York was disrupted by a fire. The origin of the fire was not yet known when this story was written.

Until Tuesday, the plans for the trip had continued on the assumption that if admission to the fair grounds was not possible on Wednesday, sightseeing in New York could be substituted, and that admissions for the rest of the week would be no problem. However, authorities in New York are preparing for the demonstrations to continue throughout the week.

Later in the year another trip will be planned so that the young people can attend the fair as a group. A "consolation party" will be held at the Parish of the Epiphany on Friday evening of this week.

grade in 1963, there were 78 "extra" ones - children who weren't born here, but who started to first grade in Winchester. These, we say are due to "in-migration" of families with children. Since 1954, the number of first graders has exceeded the number of births. For the last six years, first-graders have averaged 109.7 per cent of corresponding births; for the last four years, 113.3 per cent; and for the last two years, 122.0 per cent.

This suggests one basis for predicting first-grade enrollment for the next few years: take the number of births and multiply it by a factor reflecting Winchester's recent experience - something between 109 and 122 per cent. Since births for the last five years (children not yet in school) have continued to rise, it seems reasonable to expect that first-grade enrollments will rise, too. Since first-grade enrollments have, for a decade, exceeded births for the corresponding year, it seems reasonable to expect this trend - 109 per cent, or 122 per cent, or somewhere between - to continue.

In - migration of families with children is seen rather clearly when the "projection per cent" derived by observing grade - to - grade progress is greater than 100 per cent. In Winchester in the past decade, almost every grade's total enrollment for a given year exceeded that of the previous grade the year before. Example: this year's seventh - graders, totalling 344, are 107.5 per cent of last year's 320 sixth-graders. At the ninth grade level, where "projection per cents" reflect not only in-migration but transfer to public school of pupils completing eighth grade in private or parochial schools, the "projection per cent" rises to 110 or 120 per cent.

Attendance at private and parochial schools, in the projected future enrollments reported here, is assumed to be substantially as it is now in total number, not in proportion of all pupils. If, as expected, the total number of pupils rises, it is assumed that a higher proportion of these will attend public school than do so at present, because additional space is not available at parochial schools.

The result of enrollment projections made by applying, to current enrollment and recent birth figures, the "projection per cents" that recent experience in Winchester has shown to prevail, indicate: Elementary school enrollment (grades K-6), now 2637 pupils, will grow to about 2900 by 1968.

Junior high school enrollment (grades 7-9), now 1042 pupils, will grow to about 1400 by 1972.

Senior high school enrollment (grades 10-12), now 1004 pupils, will grow to about 1500 by 1972.

What do these figures mean? They signify in general that the town will continue to experience the kind of growth characteristic of the recent decade - both new residential construction and families with children moving into existing homes. What if the town does in fact grow faster, or more slowly, than the rate projected here? If the long-range plan is sound, growth at a different rate will not by any means vitiate the steps taken to provide school facilities: faster growth will simply mean that a later step, that we thought might not be needed until 1972, is instead needed perhaps in 1970; slower growth, that a later step can be postponed longer than expected.

Can such growth continue indefinitely? No, fortunately; there is a limit on the ability of Winchester to accommodate new residential construction, and hence new families and new school children. A detailed study of potential residential growth in Winchester, made initially in 1957 by Allen Benjamin, planning consultant, and updated most recently by Samuel P. Snow in December, 1963, throws considerable light on the probable limits to population and enrollment. This study is significant in helping to establish a maximum "at saturation" when all or most of the residentially - suitable land in Winchester is occupied. It also aids in predicting the varying amounts of potential growth in each school district.

The existing number of dwelling units in Winchester as of January 1, 1963, was 5834, and the average family size about 3.65 persons, of whom 12.4 per cent were in public elementary school and 10.1 per cent in public secondary school. The 1963 residential growth study predicts, as the "most probable" number at saturation, a total of 7365 residences and a population of 27,000. Elementary enrollment at saturation is presented as a total in grades 1-6 for both public and private schools: 3315 pupils. To this we must add about 450 kindergarten pupils (total, 3765), and then subtract about 576 now in non-public schools, giving an estimated 3189 (called 3200) in K-6 of public schools when the town reaches saturation.

Although enrollment projections to 1968 show 2900 pupils in grades K-6, it seems likely that growth will continue after that figure is reached.

The residential growth study presents as a "most likely" enrollment at saturation for grades 7-12 a total of 2550 pupils, including those in non-public schools. These now total about 400. By subtracting this number from the projected 7-12 figure we get 2550, a figure considerably lower than that projected for 1972 (1400 in 7-9 and 1500 in 10-12). At least some of the difference can readily be accounted for: it is not uncommon for both family size and child-family ratio to pass through a higher stage before settling down, as a growing community matures. The average family size, the child-family ratio, the proportion of the total population in public school, and the ultimate total population - any or all of these factors, if substantially higher than assumed in the residential growth study, would allow public secondary school enrollment to near the higher figure projected here.

A recent tabulation by Guidance Director Norton E. Demsey, made at the request of Superintendent Gilson, shows a total of 912 residences in which the inhabitants are (a) all 60 years or more, or (b) couples, the husband 60 or over and no younger people listed at the address. This gives a suggestion of possible changes to occupancy by larger families, a phenomenon Winchester has been experiencing. "Winchester's surge in school enrollments over the past decade," wrote Dr. Gilson in his 1962 report, "is far greater than could be expected in terms of new residential construction alone. The simple fact is that many of the large and older houses with no children have been occupied by families with children of school or pre-school age."

Average family size in Winchester (population divided by dwelling units) was 3.53 in 1960, and rose to 3.65 in 1963 (based on an estimated population of 21,235). This is not out of line with similar communities: for 1960, average family size in Needham was 3.5; in Natick and Wayland, 3.6; in Wellesley, 3.7; in Lexington 3.8; and in Weston, 3.9. The residential growth study for Winchester, referred to above, uses 3.6 persons per dwelling for determining the probable population at saturation. The fact that 912, or about 15 per cent, of Winchester's present dwellings could accommodate larger families is significant.

The Year to Plan For and the Year to Build For
In assessing school plant needs and developing a plan for meeting them, it is important to distinguish between two bench marks of the future: the Year to Plan For, and the Year to Build For.

A long-range plan must look ahead as far as possible. Even though not every future need will be met at once, each present step should definitely fit into the long-range plan. Where residential saturation can be foreseen (as it can in Winchester), the Year to Plan For is the year of saturation, whenever this occurs. A long-range plan should be developed that provides accommodations for Winchester's ultimate school enrollment; then, no step should be taken that does not move in the direction of the long-range plan.

The Year to Build For is, in most instances, not so far away. It is determined by balancing carefully two equally faulty extremes: (1) it is unwise, and expensive besides, to plan so short-sightedly that a new school is full the day it opens; (2) if a school were built so that a large area of classrooms and other facilities remained unused for a dozen years or so (this never happens!), it might be said that a community built too far ahead. The extra overhead entailed by a multiplicity of small construction projects also, consciously or unconsciously, affect the choice of the year to build for. In most communities the year selected is about five to eight years after the opening of the new building. It is not unusual for growth at a faster rate than anticipated to make this period shorter than planned.

Let us in Winchester use the saturation year, whenever that comes, as the year to plan for: the long-range plan must accommodate about 3200 pupils in K-6, and between 2600 and 2900 in 7-12. Let us adopt the year 1972 as the year to build for: steps taken now, buildings ready for occupancy by 1966 or so, should serve until 1972 before a further step is required. Elementary school enrollment by 1972 is likely to be about 3000, with still further growth to follow. Secondary school enrollment, however, may have reached the maximum near which it will level off - about 1400 in grades 7-9 and 1500 in grades 10-12.

In developing a long-range plan we have to start from where we are now. So let us look next at Winchester's existing school plant facilities.

Scholarship Shares — A Best Buy

The best investment you can make - that in future citizens of your country - is made available right now and right here by the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

It is a best buy in blue ribbon stock - that of Winchester's younger citizens who are ready and willing to prepare themselves through higher education better to do their future jobs.

Unlike many a community effort in this field, Winchester's is well established - it is 18 years old - and thoroughly organized. It has been turned to as a pattern of organization by other communities as its structure has proved its worth through years of testing.

And it boasts continually the untiring efforts of a long list of busy, efficient, dedicated persons who work as a team in the many faceted jobs of collecting and investing monies, assessing candidates and administering the gifts.

Right now there is a compelling need of the support of every householder who can afford one or more shares at five dollars a share over and above the support of businesses and organizations.

Mass Transportation: Shore Up The System?

Governor Peabody asked the Legislature Tuesday in a special message for speedy approval of a massive $200 million state program to solve the rapidly deteriorating crisis in the Commonwealth; saying, "If we stand still, do nothing, and hope for the best, we will almost certainly witness a complete breakdown in our transportation system, not only in Boston, but in every area of the Commonwealth. Then it may be too late to act."

The Governor, sometimes referred to by critics as being too idealistic (including this newspaper, which diametrically opposed and criticized his politicking to abolish capital punishment), has developed and is urging in this field of mass public transportation a very comprehensive and sound program . . . idealistic as it may sound. In this case, the idealism is in reality foresight.

Although the announced program was slightly undercut in its dramatic impact by a Legislative committee's working overtime recently (for a change) to beat the Governor to getting some of the concepts before the public; nevertheless, it is the Governor who deserves the credit for pushing for the development of the plan, and it will only be through hard continued pushing by the Governor that will see it passed, if indeed it is and must be passed, for the General Court can be expected to be slow and obstructionistic toward it until after the election in the fall.

The facts of the situation are compelling: its much more serious than just the fact that the railroads are threatening to shut down commuter service, as an unprofitable venture, that's just "the final telling straw." The bus companies are driving into bankruptcy, the MTA has been a political football for so long its a game no one seems to even care about any more as gate receipts decline and costs soar. Only the airlines among large public carriers seem to be surviving, but they are surviving with large Federal aid to airports and subsidies and tax relief; but even here, Northeast's plight to stay in business still rings loud because it is one of the few major carriers that is primarily a New England business.

There is only one alternative to a comprehensive replanning, reorganization and refinancing of mass public transportation such as the Governor has proposed for the state, and that is the same alternative that the metropolis of Los Angeles was faced with.

Los Angeles, not too many years ago, had to decide whether to build a large mass transit system or develop extensive freeway systems. Figuring that the future mode of transportation would be concentrated on four wheels driving on highways, the city government decided to build freeways before a transit system. It is still building freeways and large garages (some even approach skyscraper dimensions) into and in the city; and it appears to be a never-ending problem, for the city in effect stimulated further the emphasis on auto transportation, which just keeps on adding more and more cars and thus the need for more and more freeways and garages and traffic officers, etc.

A Real Step Forward

We have had a full year now to see the organization and operation of the Permanent Building Committee established by the 1963 Town Meeting. While it's true that the committee has not been charged with actually going ahead on any buildings yet; nevertheless, the committee has already shown itself to be very competent and efficient in its preliminary business of surveying and evaluating with the School Committee on school building problems.

The Town Moderator selected five able men to comprise this committee, and the town can

The need is dramatic. At the same time that the post World War II babies multiply the numbers of well prepared and worthy candidates for college on the local level, so at the college level the demands of more faculty and building to keep up with numbers add to the demands of modernized and broadened curricula that raise educational costs and result in higher tuition.

This means that 1964 will see more Winchester students applying for scholarships and needing larger scholarships to be able properly to plan for the financing of their future years of study.

Colleges report that one of the strongest reasons for dropouts is lack of money and constantly advise parents not to let their dreams for their youngsters over-reach the reality of their finances.

Now is a time that every Winchester citizen who can should come through with the support which will allow these dreams to materialize. By so doing they will invest in their own futures as they help along the supply of nurses, engineers, teachers and well-informed businessmen for the future.

Compare that situation with the metropolitan area of San Francisco, which just in the last year put the question to an urban area referendum. The greater community, seeing the mess that Los Angeles got itself into with its freeways, voted overwhelmingly to plan, organize and finance an efficient mass rapid transit system—with a high percentage of the voters saying they would use such a system extensively.

In Massachusetts, we are so fed up with the transportation systems that we would, for the most part, prefer driving to having to rely on what is available. The exception to this rule was seen this last year when the railroad guaranteed good service on a useful schedule, and the result was a tremendous vote of confidence by a large number of commuters who used it day in and day out.

It's about time more people started thinking further ahead than just to next year's taxes, and realistically appraise what future developments are likely to be. The entire Eastern seaboard strip from Portland, Maine, to New Jersey, and even down to Washington, D. C., will almost assuredly become one huge population complex in the next quarter century or so, and Boston and New York will be mere center cities within this tremendous megalopolis region.

Will our present mass transit system adequately service the needs of such a populous region. Certainly not.

Should we attempt the solution that Los Angeles has already proved to be a bigger problem in itself than a solution? Clearly we should be thinking more comprehensively; and the Governor's plan certainly is a very progressive step in the right direction.

What about cost, some will say. Well right here in Winchester we have some sparkling examples of what short-sighted planning yields. We were so cost conscious that when we built our schools we didn't allow enough site room for expansion, and we didn't have the buildings designed for acceptance of possible additions. Thus, in the very next year or two we'll be faced with more new school building programs. How much cheaper it would have been to build in anticipation of future demands. And it's the same with planning and building for the present and future demands upon mass public transportation systems, let's not kill a penny-wise plan that will save us from being shown by future generations to have been pound foolish.

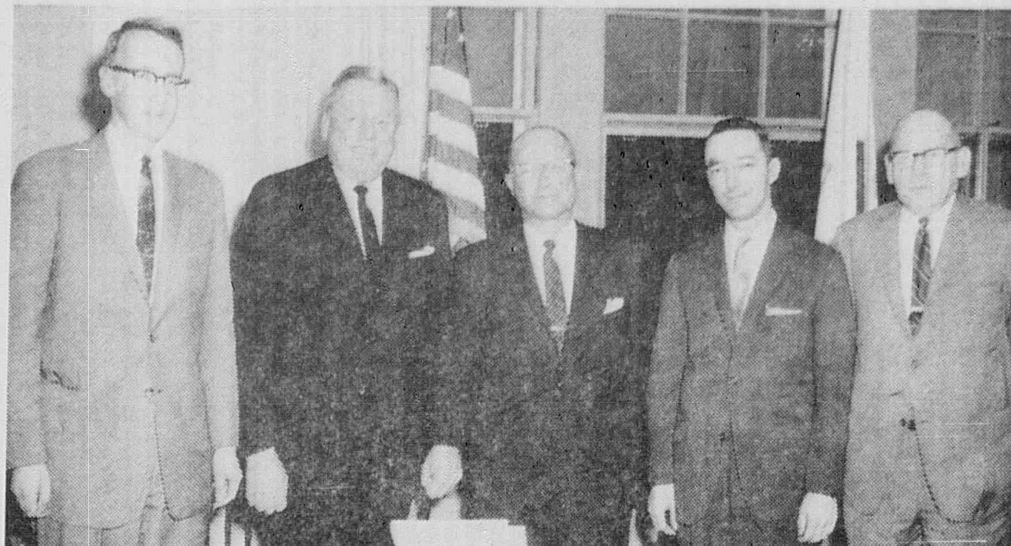

The cost to Winchester taxpayers in tax rate increase in 1966 has been estimated at $.33 for the financing of the massive transportation program beyond the proposed two-cent hike in cigarette taxes. This is a small amount to pay for having an adequate and reliable transportation system available right here on a full-time basis going in and out of Winchester to Boston and other points of call.

rest assured that this is one committee, by the nature of its composition (both in men and permanent structure), that will research and investigate every finite detail before approving the premises of building, sites, adequacy for both present and future needs, and the intricacies of the actual buildings constructed.

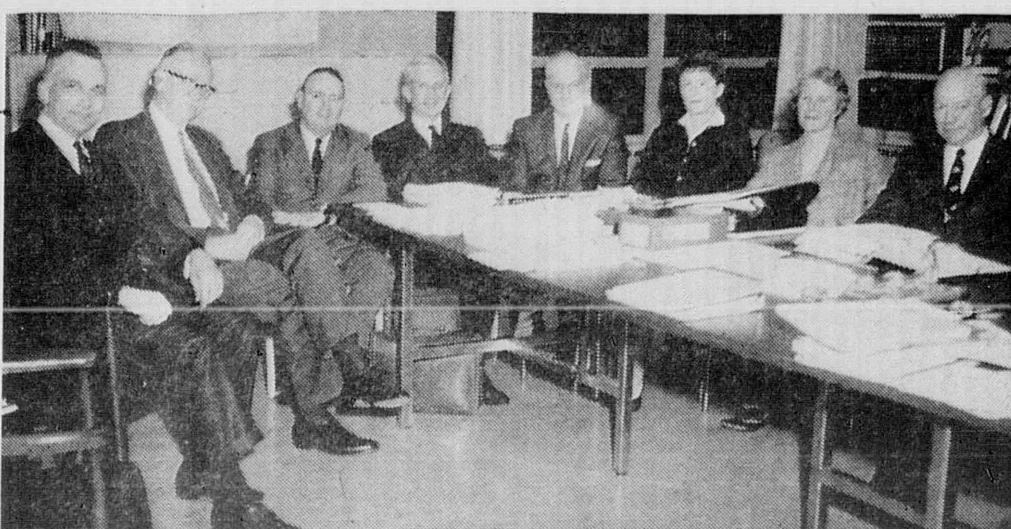

Those who are responsible for the idea of creating such a Permanent Building Committee are to be congratulated for a progressive and far-sighted line of thinking that will in many ways and on many occasions benefit the community.

BOOK REVIEW

by Leila-Jane Roberts
Winchester Public Library

TAKE HEED OF LOVING ME

by Elizabeth Gray Vining

Once in a great while one hates to finish the final page of a book. The reader may have identified so completely with a character that, although the story is complete, he wants to find out what happened afterwards. Or perhaps the picture of life in another period has been so faithfully presented that he wishes for even more detail—he has been transported and does not wish to return. For this reviewer, this was such a book.

Students of English literature may brush aside the name John Donne as "that poet who wrote the line Hemingway used in his title 'For Whom the Bell Tolls.'" Or, "He wrote love poems and then became a preacher, didn't he?" After reading this book, that face with the Elizabethan ruff and sharp-pointed beard comes alive and can never again assume the flatness of the printed page. This fictionalized biography develops the life of Donne in such a way that not only he but his wife and all their close associates are living, breathing human beings shaped by their times but individuals in their own rights.

Elizabethan England and the first part of the reign of King James jump with vitality from these pages. When Donne fell in love and married Anne More, his wild life as a young courtier ended. Her father was so incensed at the marriage, in opposition to his wishes, that he had Donne thrown in prison. In that episode the reader almost feels the vermin and smells the nauseating odor of his cell.

Elizabeth Gray Vining is known best to adult readers for her Windows for the Crown Prince and Return to Japan. The study and scholarship that have gone into the preparation of this, her newest book, are awesome—Bryn Mawr must indeed be proud of its graduate and vice-president of the board. Only on checking back for a lesser character's name, did I discover how involved relationships were and how confusing titles and royal positions could become. There had been no confusion about relationships and ranks as I read along.

Despite the fifteenth-century setting, the problems facing the protagonists are contemporary—or maybe the word is ageless. Families grow and incomes can't keep pace; a man is tied to his occupation but doesn't enjoy it; when things look blackest and he has swallowed his pride to ask for help in getting an appointment with the king, King James refuses his request but suggests an alternation which turns out most successfully.

Those who have no sympathy with a creative character will not enjoy this book. As a husband, John Donne must have been irritating to Anne's practical nature, but their life together had more joy than sorrow and the very human fabric of which it was woven will find an empathetic chord in many readers.

Moderator Writes In Answer to A Letter Question

Editor of the Star:

One of your correspondents in last week's edition of the Star apparently believes the matter of adopting changes in the special law of 1928 establishing the limited form of town meeting in Winchester is awaiting some sort of local action.

The changes in question were thoroughly discussed prior to, and during, the Town Meeting of 1961, were adopted at that meeting, were enacted by the General Court early in the session of 1962, were signed by the Governor on March 12, 1962 and became law thirty days later. The changes have been in effect since that date. Therefore, no further action on the part of the Town was or is necessary.

Yours sincerely,

Citizen Values Vote, Plans On Supporting Volpe

Editor of the Star:

It has been stated that John Volpe will be hurt in his efforts to become Governor of Massachusetts, because of alleged Republican misdeeds, uncovered by the Crime Commission.

When the Crime Commission was formed, its purpose was to discover all criminals in Government service regardless of party affiliations. Cannot we, at this election, vote as American citizens, who desire to see their State arise from the morass of wrong thinking, wrong planning, and wrong doing, regardless of party affiliations?

A man who shows his love and respect for his country and his fellow human beings by the practices of his daily living, and who accomplished as much as he did as Governor even though handicapped by others, who for reasons best known to themselves, impeded his efforts.

This man, given the opportunity, would prove again many steps would be taken in the right direction.

I am a citizen, who feels my vote is very precious. Therefore, I stop, look and listen before I give it. Let us hope that all of us do likewise, and having weighed all things, vote for John Volpe for Governor of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,
Florence C. Crossland

Cost of School Supervision Hit By Correspondent

Editor of the Star:

Not long ago I read in the "Star" that Winchester was the second richest town in the state. I note that the net cost to the Town in Aid to Families with Dependent Children is $6700. I also note that "aid to our rich children" (in the form of cost to the Town of subsidizing the School Lunch Program) currently seems to be running about $30,000.

I have certain thoughts about how much practical effort is being expended to insure efficient use of my school tax dollars. It is a matter in which any of us can differ. However, as a matter of principle, why should I have to help pay for the lunches of the richest children in the state? No one probing into the school budget could find anything to prune out of it. May I offer this item to the new group in the Finance Committee. If it is not so deleted next year, may I ask that someone offer a good reason why Town Meeting should not refuse to O.K. this budget?

This year our ever helpful Citizens Advisory Committee had made its usual continuing study of our school problems. The current study revealed an apparently hitherto unnoticed gap—our supervisory staff was terribly undermanned. In 1958 we had a superintendent and a secretary. In 1959 a need was suggested and we added an assistant superintendent with another secretary. In 1964 we are to add two more top flight people and another secretary. What one man and a secretary could do in 1958 now requires three secretaries and four men—whose salaries average more than we paid one man only five years ago.

These independent studies have been of great help to the School Committee in establishing policies that are so necessary to the finest school system. Even as the quality of our schools depends on the salaries paid our teachers, so would I assume that the quality of our administration may no longer be adjudged lacking. What town can now boast more supervision than ours?

As a matter of information I append a few statistics that might be of interest. These are changes over the last five years.

School Enrollment up 23%
School Tax Rate up 47%

Selectmen Both Agree, Disagree On Star Editorial

Editor of the Star:

The last four paragraphs of your editorial "Of People Who Run for Office and Those That Don't," which appeared in your April 16, edition, comments upon the Selectmen's April 13th nomination of a person to fill a vacancy on the Board of Assessors left by the untimely passing of Alfred D. Elliott.

Since you were not present to gather firsthand the facts for this part of your editorial, you could not know that the comment of your "disinterested" (?) informant is not accurate. I agree with the spirit of your editorial, but I believe that you and your readers should know the facts about this particular situation.

This was the first time that the two Boards engaged in any mutual discussion whatsoever on this nomination, and furthermore, both persons who followed through with letters were discussed and considered. Therefore, your conclusion that an obvious "meeting of the minds" was a "fait accompli" prior to the subject meeting is wrong. In the judgment of both the Assessors and Selectmen present, one of the two interested persons discussed was substantially more qualified, notwithstanding the fact that the other person had run for the office.

Regarding the "embarrassing" question allegedly asked by the "local citizen" the incident to which we believe you refer involved simply a question of procedure which was asked by the Assessors and answered by the Selectmen, then confirmed and explained in detail by the Town Counsel. The "local citizen" did not take part in this discussion at all.

Sincerely,
John H. Lyman, Chairman
Board of Selectmen

Assessor Disputes Star's Editorial On Appointments

Editor of the Star:

While it is the privilege of the press to express opinions in their editorials, I also believe there is a responsibility of reporting factually. In this respect your editorial in last week's Star, "Of People Who Run for Office and Those That Don't," would lead one to believe a prior commitment had been made in the appointment of filling the vacancy in the Assessors Department. This is farthest from the truth or the fact.

As one of the assessors, I was present at this meeting and to the best of my knowledge the Star did not have anyone officially representing the paper. The editorial, therefore, appears to have been written on what one citizen, who was present, reported to you. Having checked with the chairman of the Board of Selectmen and also the chairman of the Board of Assessors, neither of these two officials were contacted directly by the editor in regard to the joint meeting which was held April 13.

In order that our citizens will be informed of the procedure and the law for the appointment to fill a vacancy in a town office, will you kindly print the following which was obtained from the General Laws, Chapter 41, Paragraph 11, Page 106 and this procedure was followed by both the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Assessors at this meeting:

"Appointment to fill vacancy in town office. If there is a failure to elect, or if a vacancy occurs in any town office, other than the offices of selectmen, town clerk, treasurer, collector of taxes or auditor, the selectmen shall in writing appoint a person to fill such vacancy. If there is a vacancy in a board consisting of two or more members except a board whose members have been elected by proportional representation under chapter fifty-four A, the remaining members shall give written notice thereof to the selectmen, who, with the remaining member or members of such board shall, after one week's notice, fill such vacancy by ballot. A majority of the ballots of the officers entitled to vote shall be necessary to such election. The person so appointed or elected shall perform the duties of the office until the next annual meeting or until another is qualified."

Ernest B. Dade

Letter Supports Elect vs. Appoint Star Editorial

Editor of the Star:

Upon reading the very lucid and constructive editorial in last week's Star, I did some research which caused me to have a feeling of deep consternation.

I refer, of course, to Editorial No. Two, which should, in my opinion, win for our fine local newspaper, the Winchester Star, another citation. Congratulations to our editor for this fearless critical writing.

No Board of Selectmen is its own boss. In a great democracy like ours, our forefathers arranged to have a group carry out the decision of the Legislative group (the Town Meeting).

This group (the Selectmen) are therefore responsible to all the voters. So, no member of the Board of Selectmen can draft or encourage a person who is unknown to most of the voters of the town to fill a post on one of our most important boards.

This is especially true when a fine member of the electorate in Precinct 6 (and he could just as well be from any other precinct) spent his money and expended great effort to be a candidate for a position on this board.

There would be no conflict of interest in appointing Sherman Josephson. He is a real estate. The greatest member of the Board of Assessors we ever had was engaged in the building construction business. There was no criticism of the late Al Elliott, ever!

I understand the favored application is in mortgages. What about that?

Let's be fair, as far as our town newspaper is!

Sincerely,
Elizabeth C. McDonald
Chairman, Precinct 6

Democratic Town Committee

The members of the local group attended the all-day Democratic Know-How meeting at the Sheraton Plaza in Boston last Saturday. On the day preceding the meeting, all the persons who had signed up to attend on the following day were notified by mail that due to the importance of matters before the Senate on that day, Senator Edward M. Kennedy would not be able to speak at the one o'clock luncheon. Therefore, those who wished to hear him must be in the large auditorium at 10:15 a.m.

Speaking to the crowded audience of grass-roots Democratic workers from every community in the State, the Senator was at his best. A gifted speaker, as he reported from the Congress, one could easily visualize what a power he will be as his forensic power grows and is developed.

Then, driving home substantiated arguments for the re-election of President Johnson, Governor Peabody, and the other constitutional officers, he left an impression with his audience that will last right up to the November election.

Our group divided into two sections to attend the two morning panels.

The luncheon of fried chicken and all the fixins' was characteristically Sheraton Plaza and, after-luncheon speakers, introduced by State Chairman Gerard Deherby, were Governor Endicott Peabody and National Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey. Both speakers did an excellent job.

Being completely imbued with rich food and fine oratory, the group retired to a restful room on the second floor which had been previously hired.

Relaxed and freshened up, there were two afternoon panels to attend, followed by a cocktail party and a reception for the State candidates' wives.

Our thanks to our chaffeurs for the day, Helen Gaynor, Roger Harsch, and Tom Pigott. The ladies who attended were: Chairman Elizabeth McDonald, May Serieka, Kay Jennings, Margery Flaherty, Peggy Harsch, Bette Hill, Hazel Pigott, Helen Gaynor, and the Misses Maurine and Elaine Golden.

If this meeting was a indication, there will be a strong active campaign waged for the Democratic candidates in Massachusetts this election year.

Chairman McDonald is in receipt of an invitation from Kevin White, Mass. Secretary of State, inviting her to meet him tomorrow, Friday morning, at the Town Hall, at 9:30 a.m., when he will make an official visit to Winchester. Mrs. McDonald will be there.

Jean Luongo is chairlady of this event and members and their friends are invited.

William F. Brophy Describes His Candidate's View

Editor of the Star:

William Brophy, candidate for the Democratic State Committee, is curious as to why he was not invited to the recent "candidates night" of the Winchester Democratic Town Committee as reported in the Star of April 16.

For many years he was a member of the State Committee and served as acting chairman and was paid a complimentary by organized labor that no other member of the State Committee has ever received. While not a believer in splinter groups he does believe most firmly that there is a place in the Democratic organization for the Young Democrats and he has always shown a greater interest in their activities than any other official of the party organization has manifested. (For reference, ask past president Jerome Troy, now Judge Troy of the Worcester Court, and Tom Sullivan, the present president of the Young Democrats.)

Mr. Brophy hopes he was not denied the invitation because he is a Medford Senior Citizen.

If invited he would have said that: he believes in our present form of county government and that the State Committee should endorse this principle; he strongly endorses the recently enacted minimum teachers salary bill; he believes that there should be a study of all retirement pensions of federal, state, county and municipal employees with the purpose in view of upping retirement benefits to compensate for the present 45 cent dollar.

(Mr. Brophy is of the opinion that as a property owner he will have to pay some increased taxes, but believes it is only fair that he should.)

He does not believe that the 35-hour work week is the answer to our unemployment problem.

These are some of the thoughts he would have liked to have discussed with the Winchester Town Committee if he had been invited to the "candidates night."

Democrats of Winchester re-elect WILLIAM F. BROPHY to the Democratic State Committee.

Thank you,
William F. Brophy

fit affair. For about 15 years now Rotary has been asking your support on just one day and following up on the other 364 by donations and philanthropy which give a boost in across the board areas of town life.

According to Aram Mouradian, Rotary president, to name a few would be to point to the substantial gifts of Rotary to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation and the Winchester Hospital; John Milne, Girl Scouts, Little League and High School activities such as band and radio station; their support of developmental reading courses; their instigation and start on the beautification of the Common.

If your curiosity won't wait 'til Saturday to see what you can buy, look at the partial list in the auction ad on page 2B of today's paper.

And then come on down Saturday. Fred Smith, chairman, promises a convivial day and one to remember as always.

Standard Time (autumn) changes is to remember the line: "Man springs forward, and falls back." The Boston and Maine Railroad reports it will just, as usual, change the times of the trains, and that only a few minor schedule changes are due next week.

Most of us relish and make good use of the extended daylight hours and few would now agree with an Englishman named Sir John Milne, in the heated controversy around the first Daylight Saving Bill brought into the House of Commons in 1908 said "The only people that have a shifty time are Mohammedans and savages, and it is now suggested that we should join their ranks."

League to Make Bus Tour of "New Boston" May 5

The Boston Regional Council of the League of Women Voters invites members of the League and any interested groups or individuals to take a bus tour of the "New Boston" on Tuesday, May 5. After the tour, Mrs. Edward Connor, treasurer of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, and Edward Logue, administrator of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, will speak.

The Boston Regional Council is composed of more than 30 League representatives from communities within the metropolitan planning area and was formed to support the work being done by the new Metropolitan Planning Council.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has planned the tour for League, and will provide a speaker for each bus to describe the dramatic changes taking place in Boston. It will be of special interest to those who went on the tour two years ago to note the remarkable changes which have been made since that time.

Buses will leave promptly at 9:30 a.m. from Trinity Church in Copley Square, returning to the church at noon. No luncheon will be served (bring a sandwich) but coffee will be provided. Mrs. Connor will speak at 12:45; Mr. Logue will speak at 1:15. Tickets including the bus tour, literature, coffee and the speeches are available from Mrs. Richard M. Alt at PA9-3487.

Sen. Saltonstall Backs Chadwick

Senator Leverett Saltonstall today emphatically endorsed the slate of delegates to the Republican National Convention for the Fifth Congressional District headed by state Representative Harrison Chadwick of Winchester and State Representative John M. Eaton, Jr., of Concord. The candidates for alternate are Helene Carstensen of Melrose and Dean K. Webster of Andover.

"Those who are opposing the Chadwick-Eaton slate are running on a slate chosen by the leader of the Draft Goldwater movement in the Commonwealth, and therefore, cannot be said to be truly uncommitted. The Chadwick-Eaton slate, on the other hand, is clearly uncommitted and is free to work and vote for the man they consider best qualified to be President of the United States," said Senator Saltonstall.

Entrance was made to the building by rolling back a heavy wire screen over a window, breaking the glass, and battering out the pane frames. The intruder(s) then made his way to the office and ransacked desk and cabinet drawers until the checks were found. Nothing else of value appeared to be taken, according to the owner's report to the police.

Officer Alfred Poole checked the outside of the building for fingerprints, and fingerprinted equipment handled by the thieves.

Police were also kept busy over the last week by several car thefts and the abandonment of a vehicle.

Police discovered on Tuesday morning the wrecked heap of a 1956 Ford convertible abandoned off the side of Johnson Road near the Lexington - Winchester line some time on Monday.

Officer Kevin Richardson, in searching the stripped auto, discovered a small piece of paper wedged in the car's interior which gave the owner's name. Police headquarters reports that the 18-year-old local youth who abandoned the car will appear in Woburn District Court. Abandonment of a vehicle on public or private property is punishable by a fine of from $100 to $500, and loss of license for three months, according to a new law passed last July.

Over the weekend, police were notified by William Perkins of 200 North Street in Stoneham of the theft of his 1964 Chevrolet sedan while it was parked on Mystic Valley Parkway near Manchester Field between 12:30 and 2:30 a.m. Sunday. At 8:45 a.m. that day, Woburn police informed Winchester police that the vehicle was found wrecked on Central Street in East Woburn.

At 8 a.m. on Monday, Joseph Maggiore of 11 North Gateway reported that his 1964 dark-blue Cadillac DeVille was stolen between midnight and that time from his property.

In other incidents, a Cambridge resident reported that his registration plates were stolen from his car while parked on Swanton Street on Saturday night. A local resident informed police that four wire-wheel covers were stolen from his 1964 Oldsmobile while parked on Mystic Valley Parkway over the weekend.

Should You Consider Buying AIRLINES STOCKS?

In their recent market letter, Townsend, Dabney points out that while 1963 was an exceptionally good year for the Airlines industry in general, historically Airlines stocks have been characteristically a highly volatile group. Urging selectivity, the letter discusses industry trends, new equipment development, cargo vs. passenger traffic, and increasing competitive fares, as each may affect company earnings.

Republican Delegates

Mrs. Barone Runs
As Delegate For
Rep. Nat'l Conv.

Among the candidates for delegate to the Republican National Convention which will come up for election at the primaries on April 28 will appear the name of Cynthia Laraway Barone of 1 School Street.

Mrs. Barone, an active campaigner for many Republican candidates, was asked to run as delegate several months ago and has been encouraged since then by many Republicans in this area. Known as a tireless grassroots worker both locally and statewide, Mrs. Barone is an elected member of the Republican Town Committee, a past officer in the Women's Republican Club of Winchester and was a delegate to the Republican State Convention in 1962.

She was a committee member, with National Committee persons Mary Wheeler and Ralph Bonnell, for four big Massachusetts Republican Finance (one-hundred-dollar-a-plate) dinners including the Nixon-Lodge dinner, Volpe-Saltonstall victory dinner, birthday party for Ike, and the more recent "1963 Republican Finance Dinner" all of which were held in the Boston Commonwealth Armory and netted, collectively, over one million dollars.

Mrs. Barone was a board member of the Massachusetts Federation of Republican Women and is a member of the Republican Club of Massachusetts and the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts. She has served on the auxiliary boards of the Middlesex East Medical Society and the Massachusetts Medical Society and has worked on church, civic and school boards in Winchester.

Born and educated in Winchester and at Boston University (with a degree in Journalism) Cynthia Barone was reference librarian at the Winchester Public Library for seven years prior to her marriage to Dr. William D. Barone. Her father, the late Jonas A. Laraway was well known in the 20's as one of the town's most colorful Town Meeting Members. He was a very active member of the Board of Selectmen and only about six years ago, the street by the overpass was named in his memory.

Dr. and Mrs. Barone published the book NAVY'S JOE BELLINO, which created unusual town excitement in 1961 and received recognition not only in Massachusetts but throughout many parts of the country. Dr. Barone has always been interested in young people, serving as a Flight Surgeon in World War II and has followed Winchester's youngsters in their athletic activities with great enthusiasm.

Running on the slate with Mrs. Barone is former State Committee member Vincent Hockmeyer of Andover who was born in Lowell and was a city councillor and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce in that city.

Paul H. Provandie, II, of Melrose, a delegate to several Republican State Conventions, will run as alternate. Mr. Provandie was a Melrose alderman for five years, treasurer and also chairman of the Melrose Republican Town Committee and is currently chairman of the Registrar of Voters.

The fourth member of the slate is Gilbert M. Lothrop, former Reading selectman. A Town Meeting Member and a Republican Town Committee member, Mr. Lothrop was also at one time vice chairman of the Housing Authority and a member of the Reading Board of Public Works.

Although a great number of voters do not bother to turn out to the primaries contest, it should be of civic interest to all registered voters in the state.

Amateur Chamber Music Players
Library Directory

The Winchester Public Library now receives the directory and newsletters of the Amateur Chamber Music Players, according to Robert E. Wagenknecht, librarian.

The Amateur Chamber Music Players is a voluntary, non-profit association formed in 1948 to encourage and facilitate the playing of chamber music by enabling enthusiastic amateur players to meet each other. Membership is open to anyone, in any country, who plays chamber music for pleasure and enjoys playing with new-found musicians at home or when traveling abroad, or who is interested generally in promoting the playing of chamber music by amateurs. There are some 4,000 members in the United States, and members and affiliated groups in more than 50 other countries.

The Amateur Chamber Music Players publishes a geographically arranged directory every year or two, the latest of which the library now has, giving the names, addresses, telephone numbers, instruments, and performance self-grading of members. This makes it possible for strangers to meet for the purpose of playing chamber music. For the convenience of players planning to travel abroad, the Amateur Chamber Music Players provides additional information about members or affiliated groups in foreign countries.

The Amateur Chamber Music Players also publishes an annual newsletter and has for several years distributed with the newsletter a list of available contemporary chamber music suitable for the amateur.

Musicians wishing to belong to the Amateur Chamber Music Players themselves should write the secretary.

MSUEW to Meet
At Gibson House
Monday, April 27

The Gibson House, a Victorian Mansion museum at 137 Beacon Street, in Boston will be the setting of the spring meeting of the Massachusetts Society for the University Education of Women on Monday, April 27, at 10:30 a.m.

The society makes possible a scholarship and loan program to selected students who have been recommended by the deans of certain colleges and universities in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Harold Petherick, curator, will guide the members through the museum. Dr. Petherick, professor of history and the humanities at Suffolk University, has been connected with Gibson House since just after its opening in 1957 and has been especially interested in it as a result of her work in English history, the field in which she received her Ph.D. from Boston University only a short time before the opening of Gibson House.

Two Winchester women who serve the society are Mrs. Cedric E. Robinson, recording secretary, and Mrs. Ralph C. Thompson, a member of the board of directors.

Mrs. I. W. Dingwell, Jr., also of Winchester, has just been welcomed as a new member.

Church-Sponsored Socials Help To Older Retardates

An evening of relaxation and friendship for retarded persons between the ages of 21 and 50 is the object of the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children's Activities Group.

Since October of 1961 the Inter-Church Associates, located in Stoneham, have engaged itself in this civic project pertaining to EMARC. I.C.A. members from Arlington, Wakefield, Reading, Melrose, Woburn and Stoneham volunteer their time and money to support this worthwhile organization.

Meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of each month and the I.C.A. sets up and carries through programs relating to good grooming, dancing, bowling, arts and crafts, singing and general socializing among the group itself.

A special project during the Christmas season delighted both members of the Activities Group and the children who received the gifts they made. The whole group worked diligently on stuffed animals and Santa Claus candy jars for the children at the Tewksbury State Hospital. They experienced great joy and satisfaction in being able to help others. A Hootenanny was held Monday, April 20.

In the future the I.C.A. hopes to broaden its activities on a more educational basis. This has been discussed and such ideas as movies, discussions, and debates have been mentioned. It is their desire to have members of the Activities Group express more of their interests and opinions.

Eliot-Pearson To Give Lectures On Child Development

Mrs. William Beggs, of Stowell Road, is a member of a committee which is planning a series of lectures sponsored by the Alumnae Association of the Eliot-Pearson School, Tufts University. On April 29 the speaker will be Dr. Evelyn G. Pitcher, executive director of the Eliot-Pearson School. Highway Department Sendoff

Congo Women To Hear of Holy Land From the Carts

Dr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Cart will touch briefly on interesting aspects of their sabbatical trip through the Holy Land last fall, calling this 15-minute highlight "On the Road to Jericho," at the annual meeting of the Women's Association on Tuesday, April 28, in Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church.

Mrs. Alfred Higgins will preside, Mrs. Robert Keeton is worship chairman, and Mrs. Wesley A. Mallory will conduct the installation of new officers. This is a luncheon meeting beginning at 1 o'clock, and the luncheon chairman is Mrs. Roger Carpenter.

With the Mission Union as hostess for the afternoon the program will consist of reports of the broad activities of the Women's Association for its busy year 1963-64; installation of officers, and reports. Dr. and Mrs. Cart will conclude the program with their talk. This program will not embrace all of the highlights of the Cart's fascinating tour; it will mention only the Holy Land, because of the time element. At a later date, the highlights will be given in full. All women and guests are welcome to this meeting and program on Tuesday.

School Surveys Available At Public Library

The Winchester Public Library has circulating and reference copies of both the League of Women Voters' and Dr. John E. Marshall's reports on Winchester's educational building needs.

Reference copies of the League's "A Survey of Public School Space Needs in Winchester, Massachusetts" and Dr. Marshall's "Winchester School Building Needs" will be on the new book table starting today. Circulating copies are available immediately. Dr. Marshall's survey was engaged jointly by the Permanent Building Committee and the School Committee.

They should both be of interest to all who are concerned with education in Winchester.

Florence Crittenton Circle

On Friday, April 24, Miss Helen Niedringhaus will open her home at 16 Myopia Hill Road to the Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League for its annual meeting. Dessert and coffee will be served at 1:15, followed by a business meeting. The numerous committee chairmen will give their reports, and election of officers for the next year will be in order.

Mrs. Richard R. Pettigell, the president, will bring the subject of the National League of Florence Crittenton up for discussion with the hope that the Winchester circle will vote to become affiliated with this growing and worth-while organization.

The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. William L. Sheets, president of the Florence Crittenton League. Mrs. Sheets needs no introduction to her many friends in the Winchester circle. She will speak on the progress of the national league and will bring us up to date on the plans for a convention of all the states on the Eastern Seaboard, to be held in Boston this October. Delegates from all this area will be entertained by the local groups, and many lectures, discussions and social events will be planned for this three-day period.

This annual meeting promises to be a pleasant and informative afternoon, and it is hoped that all members and interested friends will attend.

Testimonial Gives A Good Sendoff To Guido Talone

More than seventy guests attended the testimonial for Guido Talone of 23 Grayson Road to wish him a happy, healthy and successful retirement from the Highway Department.

Toastmaster William Bond introduced the two guest speakers, James Wakefield, town engineer, and Sherman Saltmarsh, former member of Board of Selectmen. The toastmaster also presented a best wishes card to Mr. Talone with a substantial amount of money donated by his co-workers as well as his numerous friends.

Also in attendance were Mr. Talone's two sons, Dominic, a head engineer at General Electric and Joseph A., a music instructor in Connecticut, both of whom grew up in Winchester.

Mr. Talone will be sadly missed by his co-workers, not only because of being a fine worker, but most of all because they found him such a perfect gentleman. Once again all want to wish Guido a very happy, healthy and successful retirement.

Home and Garden Members Learn Of Decorating

Mr. Herbert H. Coe, the speaker at the April 15th meeting of the Winchester Home and Garden Club, was so interesting and informative it was difficult to bring the meeting to a close.

"Decorating must suit the family's way of life" and "it isn't good decorating if people cannot afford to finish the job," were two statements highlighting his realistic approach to furnishing a home.

The topic "The House Becomes a Home" was not only illustrated with slides, blackboard diagrams and samples of color schemes but also was highlighted by Mr. Coe's sense of humor. He stressed the importance of using good old pieces of furniture in newer homes to provide a sense of background and belonging. "Without a sense of the past there is no sense of the future."

Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro decorated the tea table in pink and white. Her arrangement of carnations and snapdragons in a compote was charming and matched the formality of the lace cloth and silver appointments. Mrs. Vaccaro, Mrs. Harry D. Locke and Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson presided at the table.

Mrs. Russell Pearl introduced two new members: Mrs. Richard F. Clark and Mrs. Herbert L. Lockwood who were warmly welcomed by Mrs. James N. Mason and the club.

Sergeant Nixon said that interested applicants should take the necessary examinations as soon as possible to qualify for existing vacancies. He may be contacted at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 49 High Street, Medford or call EX-65777.

Sergeant Nixon also announced that similar opportunities are available to young ladies who qualify for the Women's Army Corps. Some of the schools open to WAC enlistees are finance, photography, social work procedures, accounting, communications, medical and air traffic control.

This is a laydown for 6H EW, so why don't we all bid it? Six out of 12 EW pairs did reach the proper contract of 6H. 2 pairs arrived at 6 NT, which is a dangerous contract and depends upon poor defense to make—one making and one going down one doubled. Three pairs reached only 4H, probably due to interference bidding. One infamous NS pair (who shall be nameless) played the hand at 4D doubled, going down 2 for a minus 500 and stole the slam from a sleeping EW.

There are various ways of bidding the hand to 6H. If your partner should respond 2C over your 1H opener, you are certainly encouraged to think of a slam possibility and make every opportunity to arrive there. An interference bid at any level in diamonds from the N hand gives E a wonderful opportunity to cue bid diamonds, showing first-round control of this suit, ensuring the eventual slam contract in hearts. W might possibly respond 3H over E 1H opener, in which case E can cue bid his S ace and W cue bid his C ace. The play of the hand against any lead is routine, conceding one club trick and taking the rest.

Cub Pack 524 April Meeting

Cub Pack 524 held its April meeting at the Parkhurst School auditorium. It opened with a salute to the flag and the Cub Scout Promise. Inspection followed and leaders found that it is getting very hard to pick the best Den, as they are all excellent.

Awards were then made to the following: Wolf was awarded to Jim Grenier and Richard Willis. Richard also won a Gold Arrow. Dave Harsch, Bill Blanning and Bobby Monterisi earned the Bear Badge. Bill won a Gold Arrow (Bear) while Bobby was awarded a Gold Arrow (Wolf). Alan Reed worked for his Gold Arrow (Wolf) and Sey Nishida earned the Silver Arrow (Wolf). Craig Holt was awarded the Lion Badge.

Satisfaction From A Great Gift

THE GIFT OF LIFE to others is what the three unidentified gentlemen at the table have just given at the recent visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Serving the follow-up refreshments are members of the large corps of local Red Cross volunteers who work to make the donors safe and comfortable. The three canteen workers are, left to right, Mrs. John B. Wills, Mrs. George French and Mrs. Kingman P. Cass.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile held April 3, at the Unitarian Church in Winchester, was well attended and resulted in 85 productive donors.

Much credit is due the Blood Program chairman, Henry T. Gerould, for his organization, and to Mrs. Alfred R. Mourling who was the leader of the day. She was assisted by staff volunteers which included the registrar, canteen workers, Gray Ladies, motor service, nurses' aides, staff aides and supper committee.

Red Cross thanks also to the doctors and nurses and to the high school girls, who all helped to make this day a productive one. We are grateful to the Winchester Star for our publicity.

The American Red Cross is a nation-wide voluntary organization through which all people may serve in the American tradition of neighbor helping neighbor. This tradition was borne-out by the support of our local residents and by the following companies and organizations which supported our bloodmobile: N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co., Boston Edison Co., Calidyne, J. H. Winn, Mystic Valley Lodge, William Parkman Lodge, Winchester

"Checkup And A Check" Still Holds

The American Cancer Society is using its time-tested theme—"To Cure More, Give More" during its current Crusade.

Corliss P. Hunter, chairman, also said the Society would continue to use its familiar slogan, "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

"Both slogans are meaningful," he said. "All of us admit cancer is an urgent problem, about 530,000 will develop cancer in 1964. There will be more than 280,000 deaths from the disease this year."

"In the face of this, we must waste no time in developing new cures for cancer and better detection techniques because lost time means lost lives. The Society's broad research program is geared to move ahead toward this end."

Also, he said, the Society must move ahead with its education and service programs, both of which are saving lives now.

Epiphany Will Present "Doings For Dornakal"

On Friday, May 8 from 2:30 to 5 p.m., this year's spring tea at the Parish of the Epiphany will be held. Sponsored by the Church School, it will this year benefit the Dornakal Mission in India under Bishop Solomon's direction.

Epiphany church school children know D. J. Christopher, our seminary at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, who greets everyone with his flashing smile. Chris is the Epiphany's direct contact with Dornakal, India, and he is dedicated to bringing joyous smiles to village children in his native India. "Doings for Dornakal" will provide fun not only for the Epiphany family and friends but also for our brothers and sisters far away.

There will be good times for the young and not-so-young from pony rides for pre-schoolers beginning at 2:30 p.m. to a quiet tea corner in the Suter Room, where house guests and neighbors may be treated to refreshments.

Co-chairmen Elizabeth Hopkins and Barbara Towner have planned a gala festival with their committee chairmen: decorations, Ginny Hillier and Jay Sibley; tea, Dottie Dexter; punch, Mavis Curtis and Barbara Pacetti; grabs, Phil Bates and Mrs. Nash; flowers and Mother's Day corsages, Peg Smith and Norma Merenda; annuals and perennials, Barbara Magoun and Mrs. Blanche.

Also pet shop, Jane Koucky and Mrs. Gurley; movies, Margaret Hemmingsen; popcorn and candy, Jean McLean; bakery and delicatessen, Jackie Leonard, Pat Knight and Clare Woodward; Indian (white) elephant, Ginny Carr and Sue Joyce; balloons, Marge Colony; pony rides, Phil English; babysitting, Mary Jane Anderson; treasurer, Florence Joep; publicity, Mary Wright.

Save the afternoon of May 8th for a visit to India, that magnificent country of many contrasts. Parishioners, friends and neighbors may find the first blooms for spring planting at the Epiphany festival. Come and have a relaxing spot of tea while the children dart around exploring the "Doings for Dornakal."

Evening Services At Second Church

A week ago Sunday saw revival of evening worship service at the Second Congregational Church following the ancient custom of the disciples, who met in the days following Easter in the homes of friends in Jerusalem, the services are held in the home of the minister, Reverend James R. Scroggs.

Continuing through Pentecost, the services coincide with the period during which the disciples gathered to worship and break bread, to meditate upon the nature of the new community of believers into which God had called them, and to await the outpouring of God's Holy Spirit.

Appropriately then, the theme of these meetings is the discovery or recovery of the meaning of the Church. What does it mean that those who are in the Church are God's chosen people? What does it mean that those who are in the Church love one another? What does it mean that those who are in the Church are in the world but not of the world?

The worshippers at these services are bound together by their commitment to listen for God's Word in response to these and similar questions. All concerned Christians are welcome to participate.

To Speak Here On The Legislature

The Evening Study Groups of the Winchester College Club will present Mrs. Mary Newman, representative in Massachusetts House of Representatives from Cambridge, at the annual meeting Monday, April 27, at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Dessert and coffee will be served at 7:45 p.m. The meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. Henry Kiley, chairman of the study groups and a brief business meeting will be held at which time chairmen of the study groups will report on their activities and accomplishments for the year.

As her subject Mrs. Newman has chosen "A Look at the Legislature." She served with the legislature in 1953-54 and after being elected at a special election has served since 1957 to the present time. Her many civic activities include League of Women Voters, Cambridge Community Center Board, Cambridge Council of Churches and others too numerous to mention.

The College Club cordially invites anyone interested in hearing the distinguished speaker to come to the meeting. This can be done by calling Mrs. Henry Kiley at PA 9-1273 or Mrs. Chester Daves at PA 9-2212. A very small charge per person will be made to cover the cost of the dessert.

 "This task God demands us to accept the spiritual which determines the out-

Don't Forget Spring Inspection

Registrar of Motor Vehicles James Lawlor this week reminded motorists that one-third of the official spring motor vehicle inspection period is now over.
 The Registrar said, "Adjusters at 3300 official stations have been instructed in the proper procedure for this spring inspection and are ready to serve you. The bulk of our two million motor vehicles will be brought in for inspection during these last 30 days, so it followed that the earlier you take your car in to be inspected, the less crowded the stations will be.
 The Registrar added, "We are hopeful that by May 15, no unsafe car will be left on Massachusetts highways."
 He pointed out that this spring inspection following a severe winter storm not only to ensure mechanical condition of the car but also to give assurance to the operator that he and his passengers will be traveling in a safe vehicle.
 Once again the Registrar stressed the addition and use of seat belts as a final safety precaution.

A Helpful Law
 You Should Know
 Tobacco... it is unlawful for any person to sell a cigarette to a minor under 18 years of age, or snuff or tobacco in any of its forms, to any minor under 16 years of age. It shall be unlawful for any person, except the parent or guardian, to give a cigarette to a minor under 18 years of age, or snuff or tobacco in any of its forms, to any minor under 16 years of age.

Springtime Is Storage Time

Particular care should be taken by Mrs. Homemakers when she prepares her family's winter clothing for storage this spring.

If you are now in the process of preparing for spring and summer living, extra care should be used to see that garments are stored spotlessly clean and in good repair.
 The condition of a garment when it is stored and the way it is stored affects the way it will look when the next cold spell rolls around.

According to Mr. Melvin Crosby, manager of the Wakefield Laundry, if garments are left with spots and stains, the colors can change and the fibers deteriorate. Garments that appear clean although they have been worn should also be laundered to remove hidden dirt and perspiration. Unless woolen clothes and blankets are freshly laundered and properly stored they become feasting grounds for highly destructive clothes moths.

Closets or other storage places should be clean and moth-proof.
 Plastic bags, boxes and cedar chests make ideal storage places, but they should be cool, dry, and air tight.

Suits, coats, and dresses should be hung in garment bags far enough apart to prevent wrinkling.
 Knits will store better if they are folded and packed in boxes with the heaviest garments on the bottom. When storing blankets, we suggest placing them on top of other articles in the boxes. The reason for the top position in storage is a very good one: If the soft woolen fibers of the blanket are matted by being placed on the bottom of the stack during storage, the blanket will lose some of its warming power.

Lastly, all containers used in storage should be sealed.
 If you live in none too generous quarters, whatever space you have cannot be used for storage off season apparel, so something's got to go. Two objects cannot occupy the same space, etc.

The professional laundry or dry-cleaner will help solve the storage problem by cleaning your garments and storing them in cedar storage for the entire off season period.
 When ready for use, the family's clothes are returned fresh and ready to wear. This service is done at a nominal charge to you.

Lutheran Open House

The public is cordially invited to attend the Lutheran Open House at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 20 Montvale Avenue, Winchester. Although located in Woburn, Redeemer is a church that serves and has many members in surrounding communities.

Pastors of more than 120 Lutheran churches throughout New England, with their guests, who are to be preachers and missionaries during the New England Lutheran Open House, began at noon Wednesday, April 22, a spiritual retreat for clergymen of all participating congregations.

During the retreat, being held at Framingham for pastors of this district, pastors will participate in Bible study, informal group discussions, and worship and prayer sessions. The retreat is scheduled to conclude at noon Thursday and is designed to prepare the clergymen for the four-day evangelism mission which will begin at the Lutheran Church at 7:45 Thursday evening, with the Rev. Albert Zetzer of Babylon, New York, as guest missionary. The Rev. John H.
 Kidder is host pastor of the local church participating in the all-Lutheran mission.

The New England Lutheran Open House is a joint, cooperative venture of the Lutheran Church-Missionary Synod, Atlantic District, and the Lutheran Church in America, New England Synod, designed to strengthen and provide impetus for a continuing program of evangelism in the churches which now total more than 100,000 members in New England.

Other worship services during the mission will be held Friday night and Sunday morning at the church. Friday morning, a coffee hour for women is scheduled at 10, and a breakfast for men is scheduled at 8 a.m. on Saturday.

Saturday's schedule includes a youth rally and Hootenanny to be held at First Lutheran Church in Lynn. The final worship services will be held on Sunday at 9 and 11 a.m.

The theme of the Open House is "Christ Invites You" and Rev. Zetzer will speak about "The Bible without Christ," "The Home without Christ," "A Life without Christ," and "Eternity without Christ."

Gardenesque

By James Batten

Take It Easy This Summer

Perhaps the goal of every man, woman and child is to find the easiest solution to a problem, or at least the one which seems so. In gardening there are many tasks which are time - consuming; most, however, can be made easier by employing simple tricks of the trade.

I'm sure that no one really looks forward to cutting the lawn this summer, but the job can go a lot faster if you use this simple trick:
 remove about three inches of turf from the trunk of each tree, sink in its place, level with the ground, bricks which have been split in half, the long way, leaving blocks which are approximately square.

Now you can make the base of each tree look neat by circumventing it with the lawn mower, no need to use the hand shears. With the wheels of the mower closest to the tree on brick, the grass will be clipped evenly, no shaggy ends close to the trunk will remain.

While we're on the subject of lawn care, when was the

Much Ado About Pot Luck

from Shel

I'm sure almost every one of us has walked into our homes and asked, "Hey, Mom, what's for supper?" Many of us have been answered with "Tonight we're having Pot Luck." Now, in my home, as I suppose in yours, this consisted of taking the leftovers from previous meals, and blending them into the most delicious concoction one can imagine. Now if there were any leftovers from the leftovers, this created a problem, so Mom just plain threw them out to start a new week fresh. This is known as Pot Luck at home.

Now Pot Luck at the "Lady Bountiful" shop is much the same. It consists of the remaining niceties of an earlier selling period. There are not all sizes and colors in this section, but there is enough to concoct a very appealing portion of the feminine wardrobe. There are sweaters, skirts, blouses and dresses just waiting to be blended into tasteful outfits to suit each individual imagination.

Now here is the one difference between Pot Luck in the home and Pot Luck at the "Lady Bountiful" shop. We have marked everything in this section half price. This means that because of the tremendous values, there are no leftovers from the leftovers. It means that every season you will always find brand-new merchandise that is up-to-the-minute in every way.

Your charge account may be used for Pot Luck purchases but we do ask that all sales be final. Who knows, that very item that you held off buying may be waiting for you at half price right now!!!!

Art Group Elects For '64, Hears Of Sculpture Process

The April meeting of the Winchester Art Association in the Rich Room of the library combined the annual meeting with a lecture and demonstration on sculpturing processes.

Those fortunate enough to be able to attend heard a most personable young sculptor, Mr. Philip Geraci, explain the "Lost Wax Process of Bronze Casting." Although the title implied that the process is a lost art, he assured the group that this process is very much in use today.

Mr. Geraci showed how a plaster mold is made over the original clay head; how this mold is removed and lined with wax, thus making a thin mask; how this is then covered with fire-brick clay, which is fired in a kiln, losing the wax, and leaving the space in which the bronze is poured. He also touched briefly on other methods of reproducing sculptured pieces.

After the meeting, an informal reception was held in the Red Cross rooms next door to the library, to meet the speaker and enjoy refreshments. Mrs. William Cusack was the hostess, assisted by Mrs. William O'Malley and Mrs. Norman Storer.

Mrs. Storer also had charge of arrangements for the lecture and the current exhibition in the library. The public is invited to view the exhibition of pictures in the reading room, on loan by the Shore Galleries. This is a beautiful and varied show, including pictures by Ruth Cobb, Raymond Howell, William Hegelheimer, Xavier Gonzales, Sylvia Manning, William Maynard, Romanas Rizk, Laurence Sisson, Howard Schaffer, Syd Solomon, Donald La Branche, Richard Wagner, Paul Zimmerman.

These pictures will remain in the library throughout April.

Mrs. Murphy Asks Re-Election As Committeewoman

Democratic State Committeewoman, Frances D. Murphy, is a candidate for re-election in the Sixth Middlesex District, in the Presidential Primary, on April 28.

Mrs. Murphy, a public school teacher, has served as State Committeewoman for the past four years. Previously she was a member of the Medford School Committee for four years, and was a delegate to national and state conventions. An enthusiastic and dedicated Democrat, she has been a member of the Democratic Ward and City Committee for twelve years.

She has served as legislative chairman for the Democratic State Committee and as a member of the executive staff at the Democratic State Convention. Active in the Women's Division of the State Committee, she holds the office of convener. In the Massachusetts Federation of Democratic Women's Clubs, she is financial secretary and director of organization in Middlesex County.

Having been an organizer and coordinator of "Youth for Kennedy Clubs," in the 1960 campaign of our late President, Mrs. Murphy was also active in the voter registration drive and the "Dollars for Democrats" program.

State Committeewoman Murphy, the former Frances Downey, taught in the Columbus School, Medford, before her marriage to Walter J. Murphy. She is the mother of three children and lives with her family at 306 Fulton Street, Medford. A graduate of Emmanuel College with an A.B. degree, Mrs. Murphy earned a masters degree at Boston University, where she is presently studying for a doctorate, while teaching in the Malden public schools.

Active in educational organizations and civic groups, she is a member of the League of Women Voters, Friends of the Medford Public Library, Medford Visiting Nursing Association, National Education Association, Massachusetts Teachers Association and the Malden Teachers Association, of which she has been elected vice-president, having formerly served as citizenship chairman and legislative chairman. She has also participated in, and worked as area chairman of many benefit drives.

In announcing her candidacy for re-election, Mrs. Murphy made the following statement. "The success of the Democratic Party is largely due to the continued efforts of local town and city committee members, under the leadership of their chairmen and officers, and in cooperation with the State Committee. Together they have improved communication between public officials and the electorate, expressed the interest and wishes of the consumer at local and state levels, recommended suitable legislation when needed, worked for voter registration, and functioned as fund-raising groups for the Democratic Party. It is on April 28, that voters have an opportunity to vote for the members of local committees, delegates to the National Convention, and members of the State Committee. Every registered Democrat should take part in the election of capable candidates to these important posts, to insure success of the Democratic Party in the election next fall, and the four years that follow."

Ready For Disaster Control

MR. FRANK H. LESLIE of 18 Park Avenue receives his commission of appointment to the Massachusetts Petroleum Task Group from Harold J. Magee, commodity supply officer for emergency planning, Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency, Framingham. He was one of eight named in the State to share responsibility for petroleum supply and distribution in an emergency situation.

Pictures to Show, Borrow and See... Thru Art Group

Three Art Association projects are in the offing, all of interest to the townspeople.

The annual members' show takes place next month. While this show and the May meeting which opens it, are open only to members and invited guests, everyone may see the pictures in the library through May. Also, any adult resident of Winchester may join the Art Association and submit pictures to the show by paying his dues when bringing in his pictures for consideration on May 4th.

This new membership will continue throughout the coming year, without paying dues again in October. Non-residents are not eligible to membership at this time, because of very limited space for hanging pictures in the library, and the small size of the meeting room. Rules will appear later in the Star. Elizabeth Lobingier and George Dergalis will jury this show. Mrs. William O'Malley will answer any questions about rules. You may call Mrs. Byron Stites, PA 9-6255 in regard to new memberships.

The second major project is the picture lending program to benefit the Art Scholarship Fund. Sixty couples may buy tickets to attend three parties, the first at the home of Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marks on Sunday, May 17, from 4 to 6 p.m. At each party a picture may be borrowed and taken home for a four-month period. This is an excellent way to try out different types of pictures and become acquainted with different types of art. All pictures are carefully chosen; there are all kinds, all colors, all sizes, and enough extra to permit a wide selection. Since tickets are limited, reserve yours now, by calling Mrs. Stanley Guimenes, PA 9-3083; Mrs. James Jones, PA 9-2326; or Mrs. George Marks, PA 9-2249.

The third current project is the Sidewalk Show, which is open to everyone, young and old, professional and amateur, resident or non-resident who wishes to pay the small registration fee, and hang pictures on the High School Athletic Field fence on Saturday, June 6 (or 13 in case of rain). It is not necessary to join the Art Association. Rules will appear in the Star later. This event is enjoyed by both exhibitors and onlookers. Save the date. Mr. and Mrs. Byron Stites head up the Sidewalk Show. The Art Association is off to a busy season!

Mr. Yolt will come from Philadelphia for the meeting. It is hoped that a large attendance of Forumites will be on hand to greet him.

"Inherit The Wind"

Unitarian Players Score Well In "Inherit the Wind"

On Friday and Saturday evening, April 17 and 18, the Winchester Unitarian Players presented in Metcalf Hall the play "Inherit the Wind" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. This well-written, thought-inspiring play, based on an incident which occurred in this country in 1925, when a young school teacher who taught his class Darwin's concept of evolution, the "Origin of Species," contrary to state statute, was tried and convicted.

Both Woodford Wilcox as Matthew Harrison Brady, the religious fundamentalist, and Stephen Brown as Henry Drummond, defender of the scientific approach, gave magnificent performances. Wilcox with his commanding personality and resonant voice giving full value to the larger-than-life, exasperatingly bigoted Brady; and Stephen Brown projecting the image of the home-spun, pawkily humorous and logical minded Drummond.

The schoolmaster, Bertram Cates, was played by Dan Blanchard, who made of him a most engaging young man, with just the right amount of hesitancy and self-doubt when his girl, Rachel Brown, played with troubled charm by Betty Ann Pritchard, tried to talk him out of his pro-Darwin attitude and into conformity with the teachings of the Bible as interpreted by her father, the Rev. Jeremiah Brown, played by Cecil Prest. This unpleasant, humorless and bigoted character was played by Mr. Prest with skill and fanatic intensity.

Very good character performances were given by Eugene Pollard in the part of a worldly and wordy columnist; Erwin Hutchings as the kindly jail-keeper, Meeker; John White as the ebullient mayor; Sam Reid as Tom Davenport, assistant to Brady; William Spaulding as the judge, and Ken Astill as Elijah Dunlap, a sort of super-bigot.

Paulette Taggart gave a competent and assured performance in the small part of Brady's wife. Even the very small parts, played by Ted Knowlton, Martha Hutchings, Bart Ver Planck, Thornton Stearns, Joseph Saylor, Jewel Jackson, Joy Woolley, Brooks Herrala, Barry Weeks, Teddy Johe, John Lyman, Tony Carrigan, Samuel Hooker, Richard Barnard, and Stephen Funk, came across well and helped to build the impression of a lively, bible-punching small town.

The children taking part, Holly Reed and Mark Merenda on Friday night and Carol Vallee and Chuck Eldridge on Saturday night, were particularly appealing. The director, Robert Storer, and his assistant, Tony Carrigan, are to be congratulated on presenting a fine, well-acted end highly enjoyable play.

One aspect of this effort is the distribution of postals to the members of the club to report to the Registry of Motor Vehicles license numbers of cars whose occupants are observed littering any part of the Town.

MRS. DONALD F. SANDBERG

The Reverend Wilburn Beach Miller performed the ceremony and following the service a reception was given by the bride's parents at their home in Falmouth Foreside.

The bride wore a gown of ivory faille fashioned with a bateau neckline, elbow length sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt terminated in a court train. Her rose-point veil was attached with small clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses.

Miss Elinor Clark, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Sarah Reed Clark, also a sister of the bride; Mrs. William Eaton Clark II, sister-in-law of the bride, of Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Pieter von Herrmann, of Schenectady, New York; Mrs. Thomas deWitt Walsh, of New York City; and Mrs. H. Brownell Wheeler, of Dedham. All the bridal attendants wore floor length empire gowns of light blue chiffon sashed with royal blue velvet, and their hats were matching velvet bows with veiling. They carried bouquets of yellow marguerites and white daisies. Mrs. Samuel Whidden of Wayland, was an honorary bridesmaid.

Pliny Jewell III, of Medfield, served as best man. The ushers were Nicholas J. Baker, of Milton; Dr. William Eaton Clark II, brother of the bride, of Detroit, Michigan; Richard Higgins of Brookline; Constantine Hutchings, Jr., of Needham; Frank Manheim, of Falmouth; and Gavin D. Robertson, of Paxton.

The bride attended Waynflete School in Portland, Maine and was graduated from the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, New York, and from Smith College. She is working with the United States Youth Council in New York City.

DEAR REPUBLICAN AND INDEPENDENT:

Your vote on Tuesday, April 23, is urgently needed to revitalize the Republican Party.

The Republican Party in recent years has become a second-rate party whose leaders are coasting along on past achievement with little enthusiasm for creating a dynamic, active party.

Your vote on Tuesday can change this trend by electing a slate of active younger Republicans. This slate is running At Large to be delegates to the Republican National Convention. The slate is pledged to represent the people of Massachusetts — not a selected elite. The slate is pledged to put new life into the Republican Party.

Cap League Opens Sunday 8 Year Olds Invited

Sunday, April 26, at 2 p.m. at Ginn Field, Cap League commences its fifth season. All new equipment awaits the boys, thanks to various donations of civic groups.

Sponsored by the "Dads Club" of Little League, this provides recreational baseball for boys 8-12 years old who for any reason are not included in Little League. Colors of caps will designate the teams.

Eight year olds will be grouped separately in four teams. These beginners receive special attention provided by their coaching fathers, who provide a pool for future Little League staff. As a father and son sport, this has proven most successful.

Older boys also enjoy help from fathers as well as from Cap League staff. Approximately 120 boys are expected.

Games will be scheduled Saturday and Sunday afternoons at Ginn and West Side Fields. Registration will involve collection of $2.00 dues to cover costs of bats, balls and caps.

Tell your neighbor, tell your son, tell your dad, and let's "Play Ball!"

Bob Wild, director and founder, (PA 9-1258).

Ralph Atkinson, secretary-treasurer, (PA 9-2203).

Jim Stewart, head coach and Al LaPointe, president Dads' Club.

Lynch Freshmen Beat Melrose 3-2

Lynch Jr. High freshmen baseball team coached by George Snyder, opened its season Tuesday morning at Melrose with a come from behind 3-2 victory.

Melrose drew first blood in the second inning when they parlayed two bases on balls, a wild pitch and an error to score two runs. Lynch answered back in the top of the third with two runs on Kevin Sullivan's base on balls, Bill Brunkhorst's triple and singles by Tom Martin and Bob Hilfinger.

Brian Collins, Lynch pitcher, held the Melrose offense in check the rest of the way, working up only three hits, while striking out thirteen.

In the top of the seventh Joe Monterisi reached on an error, stole second and scored on Brian Collins' single which proved to be the winning run. Melrose with two hits in the bottom of the seventh threatened, but a suicide squeeze backfired and Brian Collins bore down and retired the last two batters via strikes.

Lynch will play host to Concord freshmen this Friday at 3:15 at Loring Field.

Jaycees To Hold Tournament

The Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce will conduct its annual local tennis tournament for all boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 at the Palmer Courts on Saturday and Sunday, May 9 and 10. Trophies will be presented to the winners in each of four singles categories: boys 18 and under, girls 18 and under, boys 16 and under, and girls 16 and under. All contests will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday, May 9th.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the Winchester Sport Shop, or from Henry Knowlton's office. The only requirement for admission to the tournament is a parent's signature on the entry blank, indicating consent.

Contestants are urged to return their entry blanks early so that the Jaycee tennis committee, with Ben Forester as chairman, can get plans for the tournament underway.

This year the Winchester Jaycees won the bid for the Jaycee State Tennis Tournament which will be held here in Winchester on Friday and Saturday, July 3rd and 4th.

Winners of the local Jaycee tournament will be eligible to compete in the state tournament, along with winners from other Jaycee chapters throughout the state. To date, nearly 25 of the more than 100 local Jaycee chapters have indicated that they will conduct local tournaments and send their winners to Winchester in July for the Jaycee State Tournament.

An estimated 60 to 80 boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 are expected to participate in the state tournament.

Finally, the four winners of the state tournament in July will be eligible to compete in the Jaycee National Tennis Tournament to be held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, during August.

WHS Trackmen Take Reading

A new WHS high hurdle record was set on Tuesday morning, when the WHS track team opened its season on Manchester Field by taking a strong Reading time, 90 2/3 to 50 1/3.

Tibor Sadtler ran a 15.3 for the 120 high hurdles to break the school record up to now held by Dave Bentley's 15.4 in 1960.

Winchester took 1-2-3 in shot-put with Frank Frongillo, captain Pete Fahey and Steve Litchfield placing in that order. Fahey also took a first in discus with a throw of 120 feet.

Winchester won a total of 11 first places to pace this first win.

Mingolelli Joins U.S. Air Reserve

A Winchester Air Force Reservist is one of 35 airmen who have reported for new duty assignments with the 902nd Troop Carrier Group, New Hampshire's only Reserve flying unit.

A3C Richard J. Mingolelli, of 426 Highland Avenue, has been assigned to duty as an electrical power production specialist with the Group. In civilian life, he is employed as an auto mechanic.

Mingolelli previously served with the 619th USAF Hospital (Reserve) at the Boston Army Base. His new unit is equipped with C119 aircraft, used for the transport of paratroops and combat forces as well as supporting equipment. The unit trains one weekend each month at Grenier Field in Manchester, New Hampshire.

Del Rossi Has Won More Than Half Of Harvard's 3 Year Wins

The most successful pitcher in modern Harvard baseball history is poised 21-year-old senior from Winchester who just keeps rolling along.

Paul Del Rossi, a stylish left-hander became the first Crimson pitcher in the post-World War II era to record 20 varsity victories when he won his first assignment this spring against Hampden-Sydney on Harvard's five-game Southern trip.

Del Rossi has been the mainstay of the Harvard baseball team that has posted a formidable 42-10-1 record during his career under Coach Norm Shepard. And Paul has won more than half of those games.

The three-year record to date of the polished southpaw is a sparkling 22-2. He was 10-1 as a sophomore, 9-1 last spring as a junior and is already 3-0 on Harvard's undefeated (7-0-1) team this season.

This is the second time that Del Rossi has been the central figure on a Harvard team that was notable for its inexperience. When he was a sophomore the Crimson was a pre-season pick to scramble for a 500 record. The team finished at 19-4.

Harvard currently has only two returning lettermen in its lineup except when the veteran Del Rossi is on the mound.

"Paul is our most important asset," says Shepard. "When he's pitching we have a definite advantage. He's a pitcher with a lot of poise and he's at his best when he's under pressure."

The six rival coaches in the neighboring Greater Boston League share Shepard's feelings. At the first local luncheon they unanimously picked Harvard as the team to beat for one reason—Del Rossi—a man they've never defeated in three years of competition.

Del Rossi has held a life-long ambition to play major league baseball and when he graduates in June he hopes to sign with one of the 14 clubs that have contacted him since he's been at Harvard.

"I started throwing to my father when I was a Little Leaguer, and I'd use the center of a cigarette package on our lawn for home plate."

Paul's career has been marked by amazing control. In his second outing of '64 he shut out Richmond, 2-0, on two hits, struck out 15 and didn't walk a man. He threw 102 pitches that afternoon and 80 of them were in the strike zone.

"I feel a lot stronger this spring," says Del Rossi. "I'm about 10-15 pounds heavier and I did a lot of isometric exercises during the winter to build myself up. I also played hockey frequently and it strengthened my lower back muscles."

Del Rossi's added weight has resulted in a higher strikeout percentage already this spring. He has recorded 32 strikeouts in 24 innings. His two-year total showed 142 strikeouts in 168 innings. "I'm throwing harder this spring," says Paul. "I'm using a slightly different grip on the ball and it may be partly psychological but it seems the ball has more zip to it."

Del Rossi is a two-year selection to both the N.C.A.A. District I (New England) All-Star team and the Greater Boston All-Star team. He appears to have a good shot at making it three in a row.

SOUTHPAW PAUL DEL ROSSI shows form, and it's all good as the Winchester youth has started the 1964 season by winning four in a row. In the three years that Del Rossi has been hurling for Harvard, the Crimson has compiled a 42-10-1 record, and Del Rossi has been responsible for more than half of those wins.

Indian Tracks

BY FRANK PROCOPIO

A few years ago an eighty-year-old gentleman suffered two serious heart attacks in quick order. In dismay, and reasoning that a third would be fatal, his doctor told him to try anything he wanted to—even exercise. So the old timer visited a local gym and outlined his troubles. Without fanfare or hesitation an instructor placed him in a swimming pool that contained some five feet of water and was twenty-five yards long.

"Now walk," he was ordered, "the full length of the pool. Then turn around and come back. I want you to repeat this until you feel the muscles of your body tightening."

Each day the old man walked further than he had the day before. Each day the muscles, not only of his body but also of his heart, grew stronger. By the end of the first month he was jogging a mile a day around an outdoor track. By the end of the second month he could run three miles.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"It's impossible. I thought the pace was too slow. Next year if I have a westerly wind, I will break the record. Yes, I'll break it by about five minutes."

—Aurele Vandendriesche, after learning that he had won the BAA Marathon with a time of 2:19:59.

How topsy-turvy can things get? The Yankees have kicked-off the 1964 season losing four out of five, and the Dodgers have dropped six out of seven. . . . Gene Conley's release proves one thing—that if you don't want to get anywhere you won't. . . . Rain dampens a few anxious spirits in postponing the Middlesex baseball opener.

While wasting four races of time at Suffolk Downs on Patriot's Day, I found myself being nudged by a middle-aged connoisseur of the Sport of Kings.

"Say," he whispered confidentially, "isn't that Joe DeNucci right behind us?"

I turned around, and sure enough there stood the battered pugilist of Sam Silverman's stable. "Yes," I replied, "I guess it is." Who is it? a female companion asked, nudging my other arm.

"Joe DeNucci," I said.

"Who's Joe DeNucci?" she asked.

"He boxes," I said.

"Oh," she said.

"Yes," I said, "he goes against Larry Carney in a couple of weeks."

"Who's Larry Carney," she asked.

"He boxes, too," I said.

"Oh," she said.

All of which leads me to more thoroughly believe that the likes of Jack Johnson, Sam Langford, Dempsey, Tunney, Louis and Marciano—reading like a pugilistic litany of saints—will never be seen again.

BOWLING

S.O.I. Men

The S.O.I. bowling league of fourteen six-man teams came to a most exciting roll-off with Boston College coming out on top, Navy in second position and Bates earning third place. Making up the B. C. team are Capt. Tony Saraco, Andy Buzzotta, Max LaCarubba, Gino Cevalli, Mario Lentine and Frank Giacalone.

Second place Navy has Capt. Richie Riga, Joe Pettite, Joe Di Tucci, Frank Provinzano, Mario Mascioli and Boss Dattilo. Bates in third place had Capt. Bob Fiore, Roundy Fiore, Max DiMambro, Dan Mistretta, Arka Amico and John Pettite.

B. C. led all teams in pinfalls for three strings with a total of 1641 with Bates next with 1639 and B. C. tallied 1608. In the team high single games Notre Dame was best with 575, B. C. followed with 569 and Bates finished with 564.

Leading the individual high three games was Bob Fiore, who had a nice 396, Moose Bellino had 394, and Mike J. Saraco had 390.

Moose Bellino is again in the top performance group when he rolled a high single of 164 and behind him with 158 each were Richie Riga and Hokie Procopio.

Frank Provinzano and Muskie Tofuri hit for three successive strikes during the season and scores for those strings were 154 for Frank and 138 for Muskie.

It is interesting to note that out of the 84 participants twenty-three hit for 100-117.6, while forty-six rolled between 90.1 and 99.9 with the remaining thirteen going from 80.3 to 89.6.

Richie Riga topped all bowlers for an average of 117.6. Moose Bellino had 113.8, Bob Fiore had 111.1 and Choppers Gangi 110.6.

S.O.I. Women

The first night of roll-offs got on its way at Strike Lanes with two exciting matches for the first and second place championships. Kools and Kents were battling it out for first place with Kents winning 6-2. Margaret Maggio's strike in the last box of the third string with a nine count on it was the downfall for the Kools.

Margaret's three strings were 82-77-81 followed by Irene Mangano with 80-77-76. Next was Terry Salazzi with 83-92-71, then Terry Walsh with 82-83-81, finishing up with Capt. Louise Vigorita 83-93-92. Total pinfall for the Kents was 1231.

Kools started off the night taking the first string by 14 pins which put the Kents on their toes. It seems the Kools, cooled down losing the second string by 21 pins, losing the total pinfall by 15 pins. The Kools Capt. Eleanor Lucci's strings were 100-84-84, next was Joan Mistretta 81-80-87 with Rose Fiore doing 88-83-78. Then came Phil Marrone's 73-81-79, ending with Kay Pizzo with 82-73-63. The total pinfall for the Kools was 1216.

The hottest team of the evening was the Springs taking 6 points from the Newporters. The Springs won the first string by 32 pins. The Newporters put up a good fight taking the second string by only 3 pins, but the Springs in turn did the same thing to them by taking the last string by only 3 pins. So the Springs are ahead with 32 pins.

Sue Barbaro had an excellent night bowling over her average with a 92-90-96 followed by Sadie Antonucci with 73-83-73, next was Pauline Giacalone with 91-71-105. Then came Cynthia Esposito with 98-99-91 and finished up with Capt. Laura Caria with 84-90-95. The total pinfall of 1331 for the Springs was the highest of the evening.

The Newport's Capt. Rose De Teso had a good night with 91-91-104 with Phil Corby bowling a nice 84-86-100. Next Jean DiDonato with 75-92-71 followed by Ann Cullen with 85-92-98 finishing off with Peggy Fiore with 71-75-84. Total pinfall for the Newporters was 1299.

The highlights of the evening: Margaret Maggio sure pulled her team through with her strike. Better relax before next week Joan, Rose Fiore finally found her wiggle at the roll-offs.

Hey, Terry Walsh, the onlookers at the alleys want to know what it is you are pulling down after you throw your ball. It looks like you're pulling the train whistle. Did you see Kay Pizzo's spare? It really floored her and that's just where she landed. Head you were a nervous wreck. Cynthia, not a bad score for a wreck.

The high single for the night goes to Pauline Giacalone with 105. It sure made up for that 71 string. Captain Rose DeTeso passed out lolly pops to her team for energy. Ann Cullen seemed very calm and it sure showed up in her scores. My clue this week is, I don't have small feet like Cinderella, I take a size seven shoe.

Merchants

Suburban Const. set a new team single of 607 as they exploded against Peterson Chair for 6 points. Gene Huchson leading the club with a 142. Bill Sipp was high man for the losers with a 327, while Larry Cullen, who is leading the league with high average, could only come up with a 305.

Winchester Esso behind Tim Carroll's 322 won 8 from San-O Cleaners. Trefrey swept 8 points from Alan Motors as Messers Banks, Lane and Callahan all hit well in the 300's. Peter Ring and Fred Johnson, the big guns, as Alcock swept 6 from Cradock. Incidentally Peter Ring placed 5th in the finals at Malden Saturday with a 629. This was quite an accomplishment when you consider the fact that he was bowling against 60 of the best bowlers in Middlesex County.

Bowladrome battled Woburn Carpet to a tie, Franny Mawn, the only Bowladrome bowler to hit 300, while Cronwell, Doyle and Winn all were in the 300s for Woburn Carpet.

The standings:

Laurels, Needs Of The Boston Opera

The Boston Opera Group and its worthy local handmaiden, the Winchester Opera Guild join in pointing public attention to the handsome success of this year's Boston Opera season and even more to the pressing needs of the 1964
Founders Gifts Campaign.

Dr. Leo L. Beranek of 7 Ledge-wood Road, is a member of the Development Council for those hoping to establish a permanent Grand Opera Company in Boston.

His case was well stated by "The Christian Science Monitor" in a review of the February performance of
"I Puritani" with Joan Sutherland as Elvira: "Sarah Caldwell gave Boston a production of 'I Puritani' that can hold up its head high in any opera house in the world. . . Now let patrons come forward to underwrite her extraordinary achievement. In 'Lulu,'
'The Magic Flute' and 'Puritani' . .
we have seen the glory that could become part of the new Boston."

The Boston Opera Group needs music, men, and money, according to a joint statement by Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, its president and John Godfrey Lowell Cabot, its campaign general chairman.

Support on the local level and in many continuing ways comes from members of the Winchester Opera Guild who have just announced their officers for the coming year.
Mrs. John J. Donahue of 3 Myopia Hill Road is to continue as chairman. Mrs. John A. Dolan of 7 Lakeview Terrace, as secretary, and Mrs. Robert A. Cesar of 18
Newwood Street, as treasurer. Mrs.
O. Gunn Smith of 38 Rangeley
Road is to take over the publicity.
Mrs. William Davies of 11 Sanborn Street will continue to head the educational efforts of the group many of which are unique. The opera study groups preceding performance schedule are again planned for next year. Last year, in addition, the members of the Guild

Study Of Circulation Wins

"HIDDEN RIVERS" WAS THE TITLE of the top-prize-winning project at St. Mary's School's eighth-grade science fair held last week. James O'Donnell, left, and Glen Johnson, right, created an exhibit using a study of the circulatory systems of both man and frog.

Sons Of Italy News

Congratulations are in order for Richard Penta, chairman, and his diligent working committee in holding a most successful initiation of members and installation of officers at the club hall on Sunday evening. Those on the committee were Bob Fiore, Ginger Maggio, Mary, Sadie and Frank Antonuccio, Pauline Cerulli, Rose and Cusi Fiore, Kay Lentine, Dom and Frank Provinzano, Virginia Gorasi, Ann Staffieri, Gus Baldacci, Randy Kazanian, Carl Bertolucci, Rocco DeTeso and Ann Carpinieri.

Congratulations are also in order for Carmine "Mingy" Frongillo in whose honor the above-mentioned committee named the class of newly initiated members the "Carmine Frongillo Class." It couldn't happen to a more worthy person.

We of the Ladies' and Men's Lodges are sorry to hear of sister Mary Mecurio's injury of a fractured arm as a result of a fall and wish her a quick recovery.

The members and officers of both lodges extend their deepest sympathy to Brother Tony Chefalo on the recent loss of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. David Porcaro celebrated their thirty-sixth wedding anniversary last week-end and we certainly do extend our congratulations to them and wish them continued happiness.

It is urged that all members interested in participating in the Club's gold league please contact Art Dunbar, chairman, or register at the club by the 28th of the month.

This is just a reminder that the Social Night is to take place on Saturday night of this week.

Manager Hokie Procopio of the defending champion softball team is already making his line-up on paper so if you have not signed up yet now is the time because "play ball" will be heard very soon.

Dick Tofuri, chairman of the Sports Committee, has completed final details for the bowling banquet which is to be held on May 2.

The degree team performed brilliantly at Revere on last Saturday night and followed the next night at the ceremony for its own Winchester lodges and we should be highly proud of its performances.

The team's next assignment is at Waltham on April 26.

This writer knows that Vi Bruno would object to this but an apology is in order. Vi has done a number of generous things for the good of the order and desires it to be on the quiet side but an error was made at the installation Sunday night when it was learned later that it was overlooked that Mrs. Bruno did not receive proper recognition for hand tailoring and donating the altar cloth to the Ladies' Lodge which is used at all meetings. Vi, we want you to know that it was not intended and we want you to know that it is members like you that any organization wishes in their membership. It is emphasized that we are sorry and want you to know that such things are highly appreciated.

Congratulations to Bob Maietta who has been appointed by the Grand Council as Dist. Dep. of the Waltham Mens' Lodge and also as a member on the Italian Culture Committee.

Giant Rummage Sale Coming

The Giant Rummage Sale at the First Congregational Church will be held Wednesday evening, May 6, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. (nominal admission donation of 25c), and Thursday, May 7 from 10 to 12 noon. The place is Chidley Hall, entrance on Dix Street.

For this sale, the committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Roger Carpenter, has assembled excellent new and used clothing for men, women, children, good shoes, jewelry, books, household linens, bric-a-brac and treasures, hats and bags. All are budget priced—all are most interesting "finds."

This is an event much-anticipated in this town, and neighboring townspeople watch the date with great pleasure! It is a fine event, and one that puts many a good purchase into the hands of thrifty people. All are welcome, and all will find racks and tables of real bargains.

Eighth Graders At St. Mary's In Science Fair

"You should be the discoverers of the intentions of God," this statement of Pope Pius XII clearly indicates the place of science in the present-day parochial curriculum.

On Thursday, April 16, the eighth grade class of St. Mary's School conducted its annual science fair in the school hall. Twenty-five projects, varying from the study of atoms to animals and covering nearly every area of scientific study, were entered.

The interest, time and enthusiasm of the students were evident in their speeches and displays. Many months of preparation went into these exhibits and this was revealed in the theme of the fair, "Seek to Know." To draw their hearers to God through science, was the ultimate aim of the students.

After much discussion and deliberation on the part of the judges, Mrs. Robert Hallisey, Mrs. John Hoffman and Mrs. John Griffin, the following prizes were awarded: First prize was presented to James O'Donnell and Glen Johnson for their exhibit, "Hidden Rivers," a intensive study of the circulatory system of man and the frog. The interesting project of James Hession and Francis Sylvester, "Light Energy" received second prize at the fair. Third prize was awarded to Cynthia Kenny and Janet Donohoe for their demonstration, "Volcanoes," complete with their own man-made volcano. Elizabeth Dolan and Susan Crimmins were third prize winners also. Their prize was awarded to them for their step by step presentation of an "Appendectomy."

Honorable mention was given to Mark Fitzgerald, Raymond Dantes, Marcia Stygles, Katherine Fiore, Joan Wernig, Carole Duran, Richard Sheehy and Stephen Phipps. The school is sincerely grateful to the student participants, the judges and the audience who helped this fair to be a success.

Scholarship Contributions Needed

Special need for full support of the 1964 Fund of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation was a topic of discussion at a recent meeting of the Foundation's executive committee at the home of Otto E. Schaefer, acting general chairman.

Progress reports were made by committee chairmen. Mrs. H. L. deRivera, chairman of the scholarship committee, indicated that the number of applications by high school seniors is greater than in the past. More contributions will be required to meet the applicants' needs. At no time in the history of our country has the need for higher education been greater.

Co-Chairmen of the finance committee, Leo K. Boodakian and John H. Van Dyke announced their committee of workers who are currently soliciting business, service and social organizations to buy 'shares' in the Foundation.

Among the 1964 solicitors are: Frank J. Grabie, James F. Henry, Gerard M. O'Brien, Arthur R. Towle, Frank J. McN. Jr., Gerard P. Donohue, William A. Wilde, Robert A. Elliott, Edmund A. Williams, Ralph H. Bonnell, Jr., James E. Flaherty, Miss Mary V. Colclough, George B. Needham, Peter J. Cullen, Eugene Lane, James P. McGoldrick, Gardner W. Handy, Keith Bonn and Alexander J. Fay.

As in the past contributions of five or more make the donor eligible for membership in the Foundation.

Individual contributions may be made at all local banks.

On Racial Study Trip to South

Virginia Stearns and Robert D. Eddy, Jr., are among an interracial group of twelve Greater Boston and New England students, ranging in age from 15 to 17, who departed from Cambridge Saturday morning April 18, for a travel seminar to the south by car and station wagon.

Three adults will accompany the youngsters on the trip sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee, New England Regional Office of Cambridge.

The reason for the trip is to provide an opportunity for New England High School students to have personal experience with the racial and economic problems of the South. The trip will take the students to North Carolina and Virginia.

Visits are planned with civic, religious and political leaders, youth groups, and to schools and colleges, industrial firms and agricultural areas.

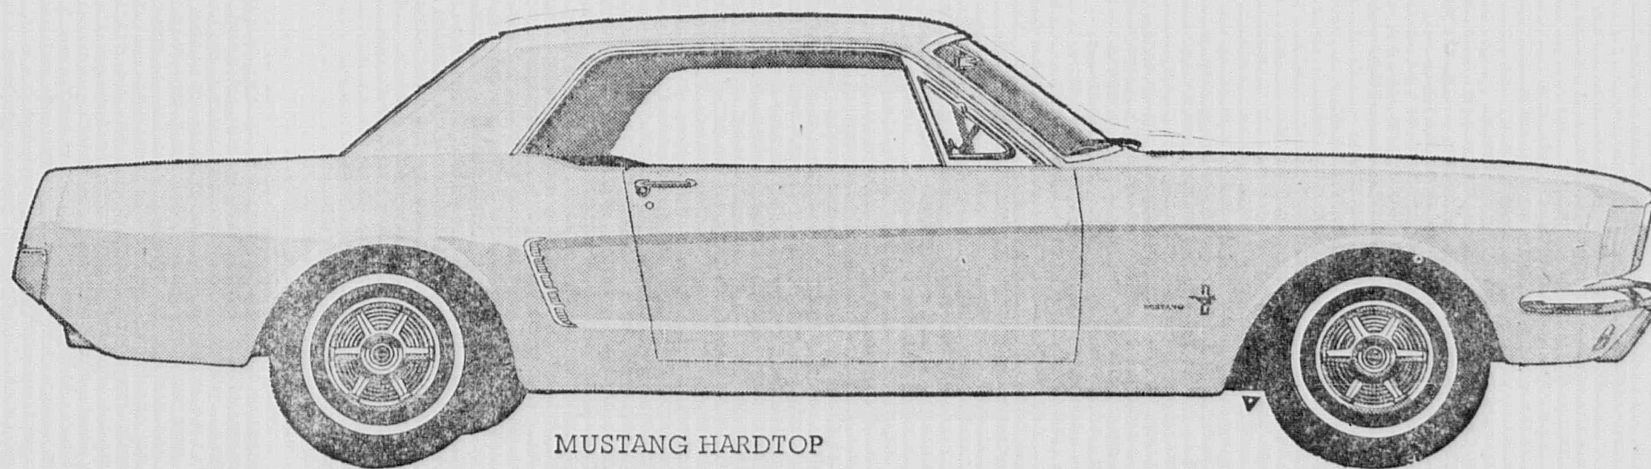

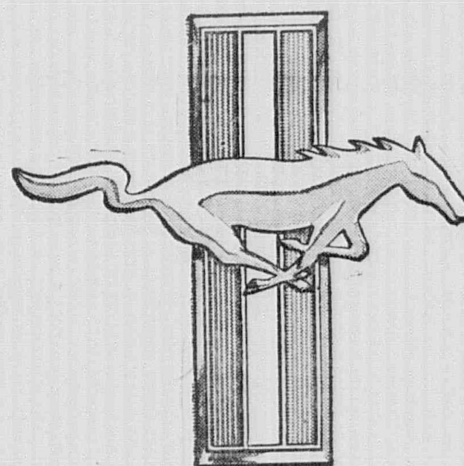

It is hoped that such a seminar will bring about the formation of new friendships and lead to continued exchange of views between teen-agers of the North and South.

Personnel Board Is Moving Ahead On Its Wage, Salary Survey

The Personnel Board has engaged Charles M. Evans & Associates, consultants in Public Administration and Finance, to review and to suggest any necessary revision of the Town's Personnel Policy Guide for consideration by the 1965 Annual Town Meeting. The 1964 Town Meeting made $5,000 available in appropriation for consulting services.

All Town boards and department heads have been invited to attend a meeting with the Personnel Board on Monday evening, May 4, at 8 o'clock in the East Room at Town Hall. A representative of the consulting firm will be present to explain the procedure involved in the study and to answer questions and receive suggestions.

This meeting will be followed shortly thereafter with other similar meetings with the various groups of town employees.

The Personnel Board has recommended that this independent audit of the Town's complete job structure be conducted since its original plan was established over ten years ago. While Winchester has probably been more consistent than most communities in the Greater Boston area in maintaining the correct salary relationships among the various classes of positions based on comparative responsibilities, the Personnel Board recognizes that some inconsistencies have crept into the schedules.

The consultants will review the duties of each position which is included in the "Standard Rates of Salary" which is in effect the Town's pay plan. These duties will then be considered against the background of job descriptions and the latter will be updated where necessary. The board feels that a correct job description is basic to a sound salary and wage structure.

The consultants will also examine critically the formulae which have been used for the past ten years in evaluating positions in terms of specific job characteristics, together with the board's interpretation of relative job values which have resulted from its application of the so-called Harriman Plan. The board recognizes that it is possible that basic rating factor ratios which while technically correct a decade ago may be currently subject to challenge based on new operating procedures and new occupational skills.

The board wants to know that its annual selection of comparative salary and wage data has been sound and if it has not it will expect its consultants to propose new criteria. This determination will require a comparison of significant fiscal indices for Winchester against those of the communities which traditionally have been selected for annual salary and wage comparison.

The board is also requesting the consultants to consider the soundness of the traditional "middle position" which has been the basis of annual recommendations to the Town Meeting with respect to salary and wage adjustments. This policy has been to propose rates which for the ensuing year would place Winchester close to the median or predicted middle position among the communities selected for comparison.

The technical aspects of sound job evaluation are complex. These

Scholarship Aid Needs Doubling In '64 Over '63; Campaign Starts

In 1963 twenty-seven WHS graduates were granted scholarships totalling $12,720 in aid. In 1964 there have been 60 requests for aid. If last year's grant average holds, the foundation would need $28,000 to provide scholarships this year.

These are the background facts as an all-out drive for the 1964 Fund of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation gets underway for the month of May. Purely a local campaign, the Fund depends entirely on the generosity of Winchester residents, Winchester business and Winchester social and service organizations.

Co-chairmen of the finance committee, Leo K. Boodakian and John H. Van Dyke are currently assigning business and organization prospects to their solicitors. Among those who have agreed to work as solicitors between now and graduation day when the scholarships will be awarded are: Mrs. Vincent Carroll; Frank Stepper; Paul K. Chase; John H. Doherty; Mrs. Arthur R. Hills; Joseph F. Kane; Paul Flaherty; Gaspare Galuffo; Mrs. Joseph Tansey; Paul J. Brown; William Maselunas; Harwood W. Boynton and Dan Gattineri.

Estates Garden Club Completes First Planting

Bringing to fruition a plan nurtured and acted on since its initial meeting last September, the Winchester Estates Garden Club observed Arbor Day last Friday by completing its first neighborhood beautification project, landscaping and planting the center island roadway strips on Wincerest Drive and Capri Terrace.

John H. Lyman, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, stated at the conclusion of the planting that the town was more than willing to assist in any way it can in helping to support any civic minded group as they have the Estates Garden Club who have so improved town property by undertaking this large neighborhood project.

WORK PROGRESSES ON TOWN HALL TOWER. Workmen are shown high up on the Town Hall tower preparing to start repointing and waterproofing maintenance to preserve the 160-foot-high town landmark. The preservation project was started last summer by the Selectmen under emergency powers when the tower showed signs of weakening and shifting direction and threatened to topple. Work is continuing now through appropriations granted in the 1964 Town Meeting, and is due to be completed by the middle of June.

K. Of C. Musical 'Kampus Capers' Has College Fun

At 8:15 on Saturday and Sunday nights, May 2 and 3, the curtain will go up at the Winchester High School Auditorium on "Kampus Capers," an original musical comedy sponsored by the Winchester Council Knights of Columbus.

"Kampus Capers" follows the adventures of a freshman, his frustrations and his experiences, from the day he enters the ivy covered buildings until he advances to the stage of sophomore, the wise fool. It doesn't take a college education to imagine what troubles can, and usually do, occur to this young man.

Such old time favorites as "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "I Enjoy Being a Girl," and "Varsity Drag" are combined with the current rage, "Hello Dolly," to bring one of the most humorous comedies ever seen on a Winchester stage.

Under the able direction of Frank Flahive, "Kampus Capers" stars, David Kline, Wayne Crown,

Three Apartments Entered, Robbed

Police are investigating the breaking and entering of three fifth-floor apartments at Stetson Hall at 2 Elmwood Avenue between 11:30 and 1:45 on Monday afternoon, April 27, by a thief or thieves who apparently climbed a fire escape on the north side of the building and gained entrance via an unlocked window.

Mrs. Charles Philbrook of apartment 54 called police at 2 p.m. to notify them that someone had entered her apartment and stolen a $140 from a desk drawer and a shoe horn and which had been ransacked.

Further investigation later in the afternoon when other neighboring apartment dwellers returned, revealed that entrance was also made into apartments 52 and 53, owned by Judson Curtis and his mother, Mrs. Claire W. Curtis, although nothing was reported missing in these apartments.

Present, Future Education Plant Needs Are Computed

THE MARSHALL REPORT — PART III:

A child. A problem. A teacher to observe and guide learning. This is the heart of education.

A classroom. A laboratory table. A filmstrip projector. An athletic field. A textbook. These are the tools of education.

The tools of education -- the school site, its buildings, its equipment -- are never as important as the pupil, the teacher, and the learning situation; but they are important. They can make teaching more effective, make learning more significant, and make the teaching-learning process occur more readily, and more often.

To emphasize, as this report necessarily must, the "things" of education is not at all to depreciate the vital importance of a good teacher. Quite the contrary: it is simply to say that a good craftsman requires good tools.

The Elementary Schools
Winchester's seven elementary schools include five built during the '20s (Wyman, Lincoln, Noonan, Mystic, and Washington). All of these except Lincoln have been added to since. The Parkhurst School was built in 1949 and added to in 1955. The Vinson - Owen School, built in 1961, is planned for a six-room addition.

The five 40-year-old elementary schools were considerably above average quality in planning and construction when they were built. They are excellently well located to serve as neighborhood schools, for most pupils in the elementary grades living east of Cambridge Street are within a half-mile of one of these schools. With an office, a teachers' room, and a combination auditorium - gymnasium to supplement their classrooms, these schools were indeed 'functional' for the educational program of their day. It is not surprising them to say, however, that education has in forty years changed in ways not anticipated in the 1920s, and that they now serve education far less well than they did then. Here are some of the specific ways in which these schools are found wanting to serve today's best educational program:

1. Site area is inadequate. Space is needed for the building itself of course, and for future extensions of it if needed; for walks, drives and parking areas; and, most important, for the outdoor activities (health, physical education, and recreation) that characterize today's good schools. The sites of the five oldest elementary schools average about three acres, far less than required by the most conservative modern standards.

2. Classrooms are small. A modern elementary school classroom is likely to provide 900 square feet or more of unobstructed area, to serve the activities of a class in grades one through six. A kindergarten today is considerably larger. Yet the oldest elementary schools provide classrooms ranging from over 750 square feet (36 of these) to under 600 square feet (15 of these).

Town Hall Tower Repair Work In Full Progress; June Finish Scheduled

Brick Pointing, Waterproofing Are Structural Safety Measures; $16,759 Is Cost To Strengthen 80-Year, 160-Foot Tower Hallmark

A steel scaffold was erected and work begun again last week for the second time in a year to complete the structural repairs and maintenance job to preserve the almost 80-year-old, 160-foot high Winchester Town Hall tower, which last year at this time showed evidence of weakening and threatened to shift and topple, and resulted in the curtailing of many Town Hall activities until basic safety steps were inaugurated by the Selectmen under emergency powers.

The job is scheduled to be completed by June 19, according to the contract awarded by the Selectmen to R. & P. Millikan, Inc., of Billerica, for $7,529 several weeks ago. The 1964 Town Meeting appropriated $10,000 under Article Sixteen for the work to be completed. The first part of the job, done by Lord & Miller of Melrose last July for $9,230, included structural bracing and tying-in of the square tower's walls to prevent further danger of bowing and bulging.

This portion of the project, mostly of a protective maintenance nature, includes the repointing of all the bricks from the granite base 120 feet up to the beginning of the slanting roof, two coats of waterproofing material, the caulking of wood to brick joints around the clock face and around the open windows, and the replacing of any damaged bricks.

In repointing the bricks, masons are digging out the old joints between the exterior brick surfaces to a depth of three-fourths of an inch, and replacing the dried out bonding material with fresh mortar. This is being done on all four sides of the tower from its base to a height of 120 feet where the tower ends and the slanted roof meets it.

Using a clear silicone waterproofing mixture, the workmen will spray two protective coats on the entire exterior four walls of the tower to prevent further weather erosion to the bricks by the action of rain and snow.

A soft putty-like caulking substance will be set between the four wooden clock face frames where they meet the brick design to prevent water seepage from getting in and eroding the integrity of the brick structure. Caulking will also be set around the bottoms of the four sets of open faced triad windows on the bell floor to resist water penetration from there down.

In addition, workmen will replace any damaged bricks found in the tower walls.

Arthur Rand, town architect, said he had no idea how long the structural repair work done last summer and the present maintenance work being done will guarantee the town's keeping the Town Hall tower intact, but added that it should be for a good many years with continual care, and if it were not done the tower would be unsafe and dangerous and would have to have been taken down.

Seizure Victim Dies As Fishing At Wedge

A 40-year-old disabled veteran drowned while fishing at Wedge Pond off Main Street Tuesday noon. It was the first local drowning death in over six years, according to police.

The accident victim, Norman S. Brazel of 34 Spruce Street, left his home at 11 a.m. to go fishing at Wedge Pond, where, according to police, he apparently suffered a seizure and pitched into the water.

Mr. Brazel was discovered lying face down in about two feet of water just a few feet from the shoreline by a neighbor, Wilfred G. Laurin of 9 Holland Street, who went to the area during his lunch break from the Water and Sewer Department garage on Lake Street to do a little fishing himself.

The Police and Fire Departments were notified at 12:15 p.m., and Doctors Joseph J. O'Connor and Edward Rendall also responded to the emergency call. The man was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. O'Connor. He was taken to the Winchester Hospital by Officers George Foley and David Boyle in the ambulance, where Dr. J. Vincent DiRazo, district medical examiner, determined that the drowning victim had been in the water for about 20 minutes.

Local Exhibit Shows A Beardless Lincoln

A photograph of the famous beardless Abraham Lincoln portrait painted by artist Stanley Woodward will be shown among many other works by members of the Rockport Artists Association at the Townsend, Dabney & Tyson office at 47 Church Street on Sunday, May 3, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Maurice Bird, manager of the local investment sales office, announced that the art exhibit will run through May 15, and will feature five local artists among the 37 member of the Rockport Artists Association. Local artists whose work will be displayed include Mrs. Eileen Wolf of 8 Fellsdale Close, Mrs. Carla Casagrande of 24 Arlington Street, Mrs. Elizabeth Lobingier of 4 Manchester Road, Sidney Riesenberg of 11 Everett Avenue, and Miss Edna Hatch of 1 Church Street.

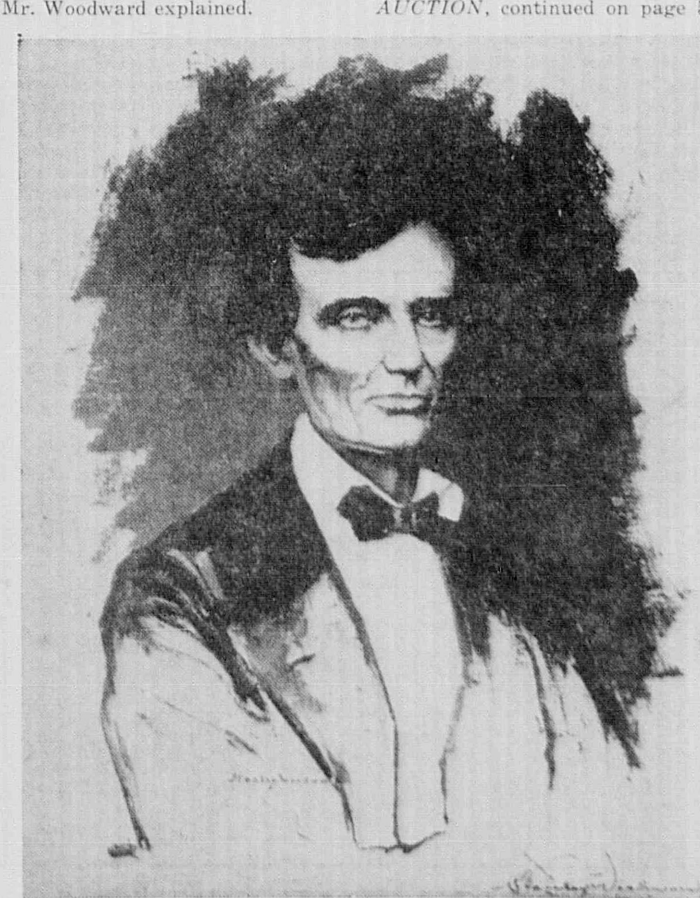

Of the 37 artists whose works will be displayed, 15 are now showing their works at the Jordan Marsh art show in Boston, which closes on Saturday.

The original beardless Lincoln portrait by Mr. Woodward, now hangs in the recently constructed Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City.

Mr. Woodward, a noted seascape artist, commented that he was for many years fascinated with the story of Abraham Lincoln, and one year, on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, he decided to paint a portrait of the extraordinary man. He noted that of the portraits and photographs he had seen of the sixteenth President, he had never seen one painted without a beard.

Mr. Woodward set down on canvas his own conception of what he thought Lincoln looked like before he grew the familiar beard. From the beginning the work went easily, according to Mr. Woodward. "I quickly brushed in a dark background," he told one interviewer, "and later became so interested in the head itself that I never did get to covering the canvas; I felt the story had been told."

Mr. Woodward noted that he had a feeling that Lincoln had a premonition of the great and tragic part he was to play in the Civil War conflict, and that this foreknowledge was responsible for the

Professor Joshua Whatmough, professor emeritus of comparative philology at Harvard, and chairman of the university's linguistics department from its founding some time in the 1940s until his retirement last year, died Saturday, April 25, at his home, 17 Central Street, at the age of 66.

Professor Whatmough was chiefly responsible for turning the 19th century descriptive and historical study of language into the modern study of linguistics. By using mathematics and information theory he revolutionized ideas on how languages change through history. He was one of Harvard's most popular and outspoken teachers.

He was the author of 600 pages in general and Indo-European linguistics and several works on early Roman language and culture. He was also the author of scholarly books and articles, including "Latin and the Monumental 'Dialects of Ancient Gaul.'" He served as editor of the Harvard Studies in Classical Philology and as associate editor of "Classical Philology" and "Word."

Professor Whatmough was president of the Linguistic Society of America in 1961 and of the IXth International Congress of Linguists in 1961. He was also a member and former representative of the Permanent International Committee of Linguists (UNESCO).

A brilliant scholar, vitally interested in his work and his students, he will be equally missed because of his unfailing buoyancy, his wide interest in subjects outside his own field, and his unfaltering adherence to the path of duty. Not only has the academic world lost a great scholar in Professor Whatmough's passing, but the larger world has lost a real person.

Professor Whatmough was born June 30, 1897, in Rochdale, England, the son of Walter, and Elizabeth (Hollows) Whatmough. He won a B. A. at the University of Manchester at Manchester, England, and an M. A. from Emmanuel College at Cambridge, England.

He taught classics at the University of North Wales for four years, before going as a Latin professor to the Egyptian University at Cairo. He came to Harvard in 1928 and to Winchester in 1941.

Professor Whatmough holds an honorary A. M. from Harvard, which he won in 1942, and an honorary Doctor of Literature awarded by Dublin University in 1959.

Following his retirement he lectured at Grinnell College in Iowa and had been selected to give the Danforth Lectures. He was engaged as a language consultant by Itel Corporation in Lexington. Before his death he worked on a grammar of the dialects of ancient Gaul, a grammar of the Indo-European language and his autobiography.

Professor Whatmough leaves his wife, the former G. Verona (Taylor); a son, J. Jeremy T. Whatmough of Dearborn, Michigan; a daughter, Mrs. Frederick D. Greene of Winchester and five grandchildren.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the Harvard University Memorial Church in the college yard. The Rev. Wesley Maloney, associate minister of the First Congregational Church, officiated at the service.

Robert McNamara each received one.

Winchester voted in the Group 1 slate of Republican Delegates at Large to the National Convention headed by Leverett Saltonstall and Ed Brooke by a margin of about 9 to 1 over that of Robbins and Moleworth. Totals for the top five were Saltonstall (1269), Volpe (1268), George C. Lodge (1233), Ed Brooke (1217) and Christian A. Herter (1206).

Along with them they voted in the Group 1 alternates headed by Philip Graham and Elmer Nelson.

In the Republican vote for 5th District delegates, which was closer to home with a Winchester name on each list, Group 2, with Harrison Chadwick, of 24 Everett Avenue and John M. Eaton, Jr., of Concord (1226 and 1000 votes respectively) won out over Group 1 with Vincent Hockmeyer, of Andover, and Cynthia Barone, of 1 School Street (287 and 509 respectively). The alternate group 2 delegates had a corresponding victory.

For Republican State Committee William Barnstead won the male spot over Elwyn Miller (1029 to 257) and Charlotte Greer, of 82 Arlington Street won the female spot unopposed with 1507 votes.

There were no Winchester names among the list of 56 candidates for Delegate-at-Large to the National Democratic Convention. Top number of votes (398) went to Ted Kennedy with Ida R. Lyons (355) second. The next six top vote getters were Endicott Peabody (342) Edward J. McCormack, Jr. (341) Francis Bellotti (337) Robert Francis Kennedy (336) Kevin H. White (327) and Edward P. Gilman of Woburn (314) in that order.

Democratic votes for District delegates gave John J. Buckley 344 and Cornelius F. Kiernan 316 with the alternates James Long and Richard K. Donahue receiving 380 and 294 respectively.

For Democratic State Committee the voting went to John M. McGlynn 311, William F. Brophy 266, David Leone 249 and John Kedian and Joseph Mulhall 21 each. Closer was the vote for Committeewoman with Frances Murphy polling 227 votes to 217 for Marilyn Porreca.

Town votes for local Republican and Democratic Town Committee were as follows:

PLOTTING AND PROGRAMMING for the upcoming May 20 May Musicale, traditional light-hearted musical evening of the Winchester Unitarian Choir, are part of the committee. Club Hears From Landscape Artist

Members and many guests of the Winchester Garden Club were entertained by Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman on Thursday, April 23. Mrs. Percy Bugbee presided at the dining table, where the attractive centerpiece consisted of pure white jonquils in a crystal bowl.

Throughout the spacious house were arrangements of calla and Easter lilies, orchids and a particularly appealing pale lavender clematis plant.

At the business meeting the president, Mrs. Harold F. Meyer, made the following announcements: a donation has been sent to the Metropolitan State Hospital in Waltham for gardening use; the annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts will be held on May 5 and 6 at the New Ocean House in Swampscott, and the federation will hold a flower show at Jordan Marsh Company in Boston May 11 through May 16.

Mrs. Harold M. Twombly gave the notices of the horticultural meetings at the Waltham Field Station on May 25 and June 29. By unanimous vote Mrs. Herbert T. West was made a life member of the club.

Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini then introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Phillip W. Ansell, landscape architect. He received an enthusiastic welcome because it was he who so expertly designed the planting around the entrance to the Winchester Hospital, a major project of this club.

Mr. Ansell, assisted by Mr. Joseph Cefalo of Melrose, showed pictures featuring terraces, but included were gardens of Mrs. Royall B. Wills, Mrs. Deran Hintlian and those of the former home of Mrs. Roger C. Hadley. After a question and answer period all strolled through the grounds to the greenhouse filled with flowering plants.

The Winchester Garden Club is most grateful to Mrs. Freeman and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Spiller, for a perfect April meeting.

Another breaking and entering was reported to the police on Saturday by Anthony Carroll of the Water Department who said the Middle Reservoir in the Fells was damaged between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 9 on Saturday morning.

Sometime between Friday and Monday morning, someone broke 35 windows and a picture window in the cabin with rocks, and ripped the screen on the front door and porch with a tree limb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wills of 230 Highland Avenue opened their home for the April meeting of the Winchester Antiques Study group. The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Roger Terrell, who brought as many and diverse articles as she could to illustrate her talk on her adventures in collecting antiques over a period of years.

Mrs. Terrell's maiden name was Davenport, so her first interest in collecting was Davenport china. She showed examples of plates, platters and cups and saucers of that ware. As she got further into collecting, glass became her chief interest. She was very generous in sharing with the club many of the precious things that have meant so much for her to have. Interesting stories of what each piece was and how she came by it made her lecture a very pleasant one.

The final meeting of the season will be held at the Royal House in Medford on May 19. Mrs. S. M. Edgell will speak on the Greek Revival. Her researches in the West End of Boston and the slides she has taken of Boston examples will make a very worthwhile presentation of an unusual subject.

Alphonse Dionne of Winchester was honored for his excellent driving record as an employee of the Morton Oil Co., Medford, at special ceremonies last Thursday night at the Kernwood Restaurant in Malden.

Burglary

In reconstructing the event, police found that the intruders had climbed up the fire escape and entered the building through an unlocked window in Mr. Curtis' apartment 53. There were footprints on the window sill and on the hassock beneath the window. After ransacking drawers in looking for cash, the thieves then went into the adjoining apartment 52 of Mrs. Curtis and proceeded to dump the contents of drawers onto a bed. Next, they went out into the hall and pried open the door into Mrs. Philbrook's apartment. There were no signs of window entry into Mrs. Philbrook's apartment, and the door was unlocked when the intruders left. The thieves then escaped via the same fire escape they had used to get into the building.

In another break this week, the Winchester Unitarian Church reported on Tuesday morning that its office was broken into and about $20 in cash stolen sometime between 4:30 p.m. on Monday and 8 a.m. on Tuesday.

The building was entered by the rear door near the High School, and the thieves took a screwdriver and hammer from the boiler room as they passed through on their way up to the office. The lock on the office door was chiselled open, and several filing cabinets rifled before they discovered a small cash box. They then took the cash box into the room off Main Street and beside the High School in order to see by the street lights and forced it open and tossed the contents about the room. They left the same way they entered, leaving a broken hammer in the office and a bent screwdriver in the boiler room.

Another breaking and entering was reported to the police on Saturday by Anthony Carroll of the Water Department who said the Middle Reservoir in the Fells was damaged between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 9 on Saturday morning.

Sometime between Friday and Monday morning, someone broke 35 windows and a picture window in the cabin with rocks, and ripped the screen on the front door and porch with a tree limb.

A Time For Awareness: Housebreaking Season Starts

Already this week there have been three incidents of breaking and entering of both private and public property, with some damage and thefts involved. This brings to a start the housebreaking season, the probability of which local homeowners will be faced with from now until the end of summer.

The protection of each citizen's life and property is the prime duty of the Winchester Police Department, and its members are well trained and do a terrific job when called upon. However, it is a small department in a small, "quiet"—but somewhat wealthy—town.

Because of the nature of Winchester's image, it would appear to be the ideal target for the criminally inclined. Those who have heard about or read about the local police department's unusually successful record in catching housebreakers will know not to come to this town to ply their nefarious trade; but those who know little of the town may come to break into homes, of the town may come to break into homes to steal money and valuables. This is why all the town's citizens must co-operate to thwart these thieves.

No matter how capable or determined the police may be to protect citizens' property, they must have the help of citizens who see and hear things out of order in their neighborhoods and streets. Without telephone calls of information or inquiry from citizens alert and wary to the problem, it might be only by chance that a police cruiser making rounds would discover housebreakers in action—and it's a lot harder to trace housebreakers through clues to faraway places than it is to catch them in the act—if they are informed that something suspicious is happening and are able to check it out quickly.

Most of the housebreakers caught in the past several years were found out by police through a responsible citizen's communicating with the department.

Usually housebreakers operate at night, but just this week several apartments in Stetson Hall were broken into in broad daylight. They climbed five stories up and entered through an unlocked window. If an alert citizen had seen them they could have been apprehended.

It is incumbent upon the citizen, if he wants his life and property to be protected by the men in blue who are trained to perform those functions in times of emergency, to be responsible to the job of keeping alert and communicating signs of possible wrong-doing to the preservers of law and order in the town. Only then can the citizen be guaranteed of the protection he wants, needs, and is paying for.

The Town Comptroller Concept: Proving To Be A Valuable Function

The Town Comptroller appeared before the Board of Selectmen on Monday to review the progress in that function since it was established by the Town Meeting and the State Legislature, and filled last August. The verdict appears to be that the post and the man filling it, James Costello, former town accountant, were both good decisions by the town, and ones which have already started to save the taxpayers money and increase municipal efficiency in some ways.

The new comptroller has already established a rapport and meeting of the minds with the Personnel Board in so far as clerical and office personnel and wage and salary matters are concerned. Similarly, the Comptroller and the Finance Committee appear to be in harmony in so far as personal services and equipment appropriations are concerned in town department budgets.

The Comptroller is working with the N.E.T.T. Company on the feasibility and expenses of having a central Town Hall switchboard instead of telephones answered in each office. With the Town Architect being advised by the Selectmen to begin surveying and planning for next year's renovation work in the Town Hall, such a switchboard would have to be decided upon in a matter of months. Mr. Costello described the switchboard to the Selectmen as "more of an economy of efficiency and value of services for each dollar spent than an economy of dollars per se."

The Selectmen asked the Comptroller to study further the two present municipal systems of motor vehicle allowances, and give results of his findings to the board. The town now pays a flat eight cents a mile for mileage on town business except for the school vehicles, which are all flat allowances based on studies of usage.

The Comptroller informed the Selectmen that he intends to conduct an in-depth study of accounting, budgeting, billing, and other procedures. He is also planning a similar study of supplies, which he thinks are not as standardized as much as could be desirable, but are more standardized than as recent as five years ago.

The comptroller is doing further research on the expenses and desirability of the town's doing more microfilming of its records. The town now has most of its records microfilmed and stored about ten miles away in a security vault. What the Comptroller now has in mind is re-microfilming all the records for operational purposes of the departments and boards, and thereby excluding the necessity of having a large storage vault in the Town Hall Basement for records.

Bids are going out this week for a single typewriter maintenance and repair contract, according to the Comptroller. Heretofore, the town has contracted for the maintenance of each individual typewriter at a higher rate than would be the case for a collective contract.

These and many other items of economy and efficiency were discussed by the Comptroller and the Selectmen in reviewing the Comptrollership in its first year of operation, and both the concept and the practices of the function seem to be working out most advantageously for Winchester.

New Chapter 90 Project?

POSSIBLE FUTURE CHAPTER 90 PROJECT. County engineers have been out surveying Church Street on several occasions, including last week, and this usually is the first step in the determining of Chapter 90 (state-county-town) highway projects. The engineers took levels approximately every 50 feet, measuring for the shape of the street at the gutters, tops of curbs, and at quarter and half points of the street. The engineers will then plot the street on paper and superimpose a new dimension over it to determine the quantities of materials needed to resurface it and let the job out on bid. Main Street from the Center to Woburn in 1960 or 1961 was a similar project. The earliest Church Street might be resurfaced would be in the spring of 1965.

Pictures Around And About Town

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY ELECTION. Winchester voters turned out in greater numbers for this year's Presidential preference primary than in either 1960 or 1956. The votes weren't fully tabulated until 5:15 on Wednesday morning. If the town buys voting machines next year, polling results will become known a short time after the polls close at 7 p.m. on election days.

ROTARY AUCTION'S FLURRY OF SALES. Buying and selling was fast and furious at last Saturday's fourteenth annual Rotary Auction. As usual, it was an all-day event, with the traditional old-fashioned bean supper in the early evening. The proceeds of the event are distributed among local charities and organizations.

SCALING LADDER TECHNIQUES. The new firefighters were required to learn how to set up and climb scaling ladders on a five-story building. Then, to give the firefighters confidence in working at heights, the instructor ordered them to hook onto the ladders with a clamp and lean back with arms outstretched. Benincasa is shown at the top right side leaning back, with Queen and Walsh on the bottom.

BOOK REVIEW

by Ann M. Anderson
Winchester Public Library

OVER FIFTY — SO WHAT!

Hildegard Sell

So what, indeed! If it's as hard as this to remain glamorous, unwrinkled, slender, etc., after fifty is it worth all the trouble? To read Hildegard's book one gains the impression that a constant struggle to remain youthful is the duty of every woman and everything else is of minor importance.

Hildegard starts out describing her childhood, and at first we get a picture of a young ambitious girl from a poor family trying to get ahead and make something of herself. She talks of living in rooms behind the grocery store "more or less" owned by her father—of how proud the family was of their new horsehair parlor set when the principal came to call, of her mother offering to do the supper dishes so she could practice her music, of the family celebration on Christmas Eve, all warm and homey and intimate.

But soon the story becomes a catalog of efforts to remain attractive—which we all grant Hildegard has done. A chapter on exercise tells how to achieve a "lovelier back," or "bring down your upper arms" or advises you to tighten your lip over your upper teeth and in this position open and close your mouth twenty times. This will take care of those little wrinkles so quick to appear along your upper lip. And so on for all parts of the anatomy and don't forget—every day.

There is another chapter entitled We Are What We Eat in which Hildegard discusses her diet. She avers she is not a food faddist, but consider this. She eats no sugar since it is too refined. Salt is barred because it contains sodium. Vegetables and fruits must be organically raised to eliminate any possible toxic effects of commercial fertilizers. When travelling in an area where the water contains fluorine Hildegard drinks only bottled water. Alcohol and tobacco are of course taboo if you wish to remain young and beautiful. She does allow herself one cup of coffee a day, but her tea is herb tea which contains no tannic acid.

Then she describes her skin treatments during which, incidentally, she prays to St. Jude to have the preparation work and says two Our Fathers and two Hail Marys. This regimen which she undergoes every day while she is in New York takes forty minutes and she describes the steps in detail.

There are further chapters on how to dress, how to make up, how to speak, how to have lovely thoughts—all with the singleminded objective of being physically attractive. From a mature and sophisticated woman of the world this total emphasis on youth and beauty is disillusioning. Hildegard has come far since her days in back of the grocery store and we would have expected a more important philosophy of life than a constant fight against wrinkles.

Chief Derro Tells Of Travelling On Europe Vacation

Editor of the Star:

Our trip to Paris was very smooth. Can you imagine leaving Boston at 8 p.m., and watching the sunrise 6 hours later from 30,000 feet in the air. It was a beautiful sight to see.

When we arrived at Orly Air Field the captain had told us we may have had to fly to London because a fog had settled over the field. Fortunately after circling for about thirty minutes the fog lifted and we landed safely.

Because of the change in time we lost a night's sleep but this didn't bother us because we kept busy seeing all the sights.

Three days later we flew to Switzerland where we were to meet some of the most friendly and warm-hearted people we ever have met. Switzerland is the cleanest country we have ever visited. You couldn't even see a gum wrapper on the streets.

We took two trips out to the country to view the mountain scenery and it was breathtaking. Brightly colored homes with green grass and a background of high, snow capped mountains.

I was very amused to see young girls handling traffic in Zurich. These girls were stationed in traffic booths set high in the middle of busy intersections. I watched one of these girls handling traffic lights by push buttons and she did a capable job.

At one of the intersections I deliberately started to walk against a No Walk signal hoping to get pinched! But I had no luck.

She gave me a stern look which made me stop and then she smiled. I suppose she said to herself "another one of those dumb tourists."

As far as the cities are concerned they are no different than any city in the good old U. S. A., but once you get out in the country we realize that we are in another country. The last few days we have been in Venice. Venice is very attractive and after seeing so many statues and paintings we are getting to be art enthusiasts.

Today we took an elevator ride to the top of the bell tower in St. Marks Square and viewed the city from its highest point. The more we look at the city the more we want to stay longer.

Our hotel room looks out over the Grand Canal and a short while ago several gondolas went by and a gondolier was playing an accordion and singing at the top of his voice.

Another day in this beautiful city and then we head for Florence, Rome and Naples.

Sincerely,
Joseph J. Derro

Reader Comments
On Electing And Appointing Issue

Editor of the Star:

Subtle abridgment of the democratic process is too mild a term to describe the action of the Selectmen and Assessors in filling the vacancy on the Board of Assessors. In my lexicon it is flagrant abuse. They have disregarded the wishes of 1776 voters to select one whose name did not appear on the ballot.

Legally the boards may flout the wishes of voters, with the lame excuse that one applicant was "better qualified." They chose to do just that.

Both applicants were well qualified to assess property in Winchester. The one who spent time, effort and money to be elected was rejected. Had he been appointed, the selection would have been not only legal, but also just.

Sincerely,
Marcella G. Smith

Rotary President
Thanks Auction's
Many Supporters

Editor of the Star:

This year's annual Rotary Auction topped any we've had before, and while the final figures are not in yet, it looks as though we'll cross a little more than we did a year ago—which was over $8,000.

This is wonderful! All this money earned through the Auction Rotary Club distributes among various town charities and organizations and to scholarships and camps. This turning of the Auction profits into financial assistance to worthwhile local endeavors is the very reason why one of our late members, Al Elliott, started the auction 14 years ago—and the entire Club is especially pleased this year's Auction went over the top, for it's truly a tribute to this fine man that the Auction "tradition" he started and worked so hard on is continuing successfully.

To all the citizens who contributed so generously of their household items of saleable quality and helped in other ways, the Rotary Club is deeply indebted, for these are the things that make the Auction so successful and such a real community affair.

Yours truly,
Aram Mouradian
President,
Winchester Rotary Club

Cigarette Claims
Appear 'Ballyhoo'
To One Reader

Editor of the Star:

"No health claim is made for... (cigarettes) only the promise of an easy draw and smoother taste."

After all the "ballyhoo" about the new "charcoal filter" cigarettes, after the expenditure for costly full page ads, after the expenditure of vast sums on tests and experiments and research, (Saturday Post of April 18th) this is the best that the tobacco companies can say.

For fifty years the tobacco companies have been assiduously inculcating our men, women and youth with a dangerous, costly, and "hard-to-be-broken" habit, and the victims have been paying the bill.

"No health claim is made." How stupid can we be?

Yours truly,
Percy C. Ryerson

Don't Laugh At Be Kind to Animals
Week, May 4-9

Editor of the Star:

Once again has rolled around Be Kind to Animals Week, May 4-9. The various "weeks" are always good for a lot of laughs, Eat-More-Fish Week or National Baby Week (who needs a week to be reminded of babies!). Truly, however, these annual reminders of this group or that DO serve a useful purpose.

During BKTA week, a drive is planned by the local MSPCA to collect old sheets and blankets for the cages of sick and injured animals at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital. The children of the various Winchester elementary schools will be asked to bring used cloth during the week of May 4. It is felt that thoughtfulness to others is encouraged by this kind gesture for the needy animals.

Emphasis on proper care of pets is one object of BKTA week. Often just a little extra thought and consideration on someone's part will prevent a puppy's being tied on too short a rope, or a dog or cat's being left too long without water.

So please don't laugh at Be Kind to Animals Week; give your pet an extra pat and send along your old sheets to school or drop them off at 8 Copley Street.

Yours truly,
Kay Cardin

organizations, scholarships and campships, and other useful purposes that benefit the town in many ways.

The auction continued right on through the traditional Rotary bean supper, with everything from refinished antique furniture to bric-a-brac quickly being sold to the highest bidder and moved out of the Town Hall to make way for more things to go on the stage to be auctioned.

The auction ran until 8 p.m., and, as in every auction, some things of little value commanded high prices, while several things of greater worth "went for pennies." This is the way with the buying public, and half the fun of having an old-fashioned auction. And, all-in-all, it was a big day for the Rotary Club; a grand day in the town.

The planting job was done by Franks Landscaping Gardeners, of Lexington.

Democratic Town
Committee

Chairman Elizabeth McDonald and Mr. McDonald were invited guests last Saturday evening at Anthony's in Lexington when the Arlington Democratic Town Committee held its large and successful annual dinner-dance.

Al DeVito, chairman of the Arlington Town Committee, was master of ceremonies during the first part of the after-dinner speaking. After complimenting the committee in charge of the fine roast beef dinner, he introduced the head table guests, Chairman John Bullock of the Board of Selectmen welcomed the guests, and the State Senator from the Arlington, Medford, Winchester district, Phil Pellegrini, emphasized the welcome note and said that a gathering such as that one, with all the Democratic workers of Arlington present, looked like a large turnout on April 28.

Francis Bellotti, Lieut. Gov. of Mass., spoke briefly but strongly on the importance of voting in the Presidential primary on April 28. Frank then left to speak at a dinner of the Lexington Democratic Town Committee which was being held nearby at the Lexington High School. Frank's next stop was to be at the Lawrence Democratic dinner, after which he was to wind up his evening at a similar dinner on the North Shore.

The next speaker, Congressman Thorbert MacDonald, also spoke briefly, emphasizing the importance of the primary this year and the objective we should have in having a large turnout of voters to select their candidates on the ballot.

Before introducing the speaker of the evening, Registrar Jim Lawton, Mr. DeVito mentioned the presence of the chairman of a neighboring, vigorous town committee, and asked Mrs. McDonald to take a bow. Our chairman received a good round of applause.

Jim Lawton, an excellent speaker, gave a fine account of the progress of his stewardship since becoming registrar. He told of the splendid cooperation he has received from his workers at the Registry and paid special tribute to the outstanding accomplishments of the State Police.

Al DeVito then introduced the candidates in Tuesday's primary, Mrs. Frances Murphy and Mrs. Marilyn Porecca, for State Committeewoman, and David Leone of Arlington and Mayor Jack McGlynn of Medford for State Committeeman. He amplified these introductions with a short description of each of the four candidates: David Leone is an Arlington attorney and a member of their local planning board; Mayor McGlynn is also the Representative in the House; Mrs. Murphy is the present State Committeewoman, and is a Malden school teacher; Mrs. Porecca is the president of her area Boston University Alumnae and is remembered as one of the two women who seconded Senator Ted Kennedy's nomination at the State Convention two years ago.

Then David Leone, who was also chairman of the successful dinner-dance, took over as M. C. Dancing followed downstairs.

Cards were received from associate member Theresa Sullivan, who, with her husband Bob, a member of our local fire department, and their children, visited Washington, D. C., during spring vacation. Theresa wrote that a highlight of the trip was a visit to Senator Kennedy's office.

Chief Amico said he firmly believes in the training courses for new recruits, and he is in the process of trying to get the other three new firefighters, Joseph McDonough, John Nowell and John Regan, into a similar course about to begin at the Boston Fire Department's training school.

The six new firefighters are the new men hired last October to maintain the department's full complement with the changeover from the 56-hour week to the 48-hour week approved at the 1963 Town Meeting.

MISS JEANNIE LITTLE

A New Star
In Winchester's Crown

Winchester's pride in its young people was more than justified on April 20 at the Patriots' Day parade in Lexington when the Winchester Rainbow girls' drill team made its first public appearance.

The drill team was the only Winchester unit to march in the parade, and the smart stepping performance of the marchers led by Jeannie Little was in perfect harmony with the colorful appearance of our young ladies who with their fellow members from Woburn braved the inclement weather to the delight of the onlookers.

The new uniforms are decidedly attractive as well as the wearers of them. From the rakish tilt of the royal blue Australian-style bush hat matched with the gold-embroidered shirt and smart royal blue skirt to the white majorette boots, they drew rounds of applause all along the parade route. The unit is composed of girls from Woburn and Winchester who are members of Winchester Assembly No. 50, Order of the Rainbow for Girls. The cost of this new unit was financed by the assembly as well as the Masonic and Eastern Star bodies of Woburn and Winchester.

Following the parade the girls were guests of Lexington Rainbow and Lexington DeMolay for a collation held at the Lexington Masonic Temple.

The next public appearance of the Rainbow drill team will be in our own town on Memorial Day. The girls will march in the parade to afford Winchesterites the pleasure of seeing this youthful group following their color bearers stepping along in time with the martial music in their attractive uniforms, justifying the confidence that we have in youth today and in the future.

Marshall Report

3. Special instructional rooms are lacking. A library; a remedial class; a class of gifted pupils; a small discussion group; a group of several classes joined for the purpose of more effective presentation of a particular topic; specially designed space for music, for art, for guidance and counseling -- In Winchester's older elementary schools such activities are handicapped because the needed spaces, especially planned, equipped, and located, are not available. Either the activity does not go on, or it takes place under makeshift conditions.

4. Special service areas are lacking. In addition to needed areas for instruction, there are other kinds of space lacking: for the work of the principal and clerk; for the storage of instructional, administrative, and custodial supplies; for receiving the materials that come to the school every day; for cooperative planning among teachers during the school day; for the work of the school nurse in rendering first aid or caring for the ill or giving examinations or fitness tests; for the work of the librarian in ordering, receiving, unpacking, cataloging, and shelving books; for the duties of an audiovisual specialist or technician in helping teachers acquire and use modern teaching and learning aids.

5. These buildings are not adaptable to change. "This is our educational program, and this our environment; for this shall we build." So it seems, said those who designed schools forty years ago. Sites are difficult, or expensive, or impossible, to enlarge. Partitions between classrooms are in many instances bearing walls, or filled with pipes, conduits, and vent ducts, fixable room size. Provision of special spaces can be done only by taking needed classroom area, already too little.

The Parkhurst School, built two decades after the schools described above, makes some improvements; but the site of 4.1 acres is still inadequate, special facilities (except for a combination auditorium-gymnasium) are limited, and storage is lacking on the upper level despite large amounts of subterranean space originally labeled "storage" on the plans for the lower level. Space now used for educational purposes despite lack of windows or acoustical treatment.

The Vinson-Owen School, Winchester's most recent elementary school, provides the space, the classroom area, the special service and instructional areas, and the flexibility needed in a modern school. Its site is 9.3 acres, and includes a flat area badly needing fill and drainage. Classrooms are 976 square feet, kindergartens 1000, and the combination room 40' by 60'.

Whatever the deficiencies of Winchester's elementary schools as physical plants, two things stand out plainly: (1) imaginative and resourceful teaching and leadership offer many examples of excellent educational practice in every school, and (2) present crowding and anticipated enrollment growth indicate that every one of these buildings must continue in use, despite deficiencies, for some decades.

The task then is not to criticize the schools but to help find ways in which they can be made to serve better than they do now. There is now at least one more level, less than 600 square feet area, with 35 pupils in it. There is now no elementary school library (no elementary school library) in the whole Winchester school system. Emergency and makeshift spaces are everywhere serving for classrooms, discussion groups, remedial classes, resource centers, staff office and conference rooms, and storage areas. Valiant efforts to improve instruction through cooperative planning among teachers, use of teachers in their areas of maximum competence, and logical grouping of pupils according to the learning task of the moment -- valiant efforts in these directions are being frustrated by space poorly adapted to new kinds of teaching and learning.

The long-range plan for elementary schools must use what is available -- but use it in a way to encourage and assist, rather than retard, steps that will improve elementary education.

A Word About Elementary School Capacity

Winchester's elementary schools possess 93 classrooms. What does this tell about Winchester's elementary school capacity? The answer is that there are 93 classrooms (tells very little, by itself (although a generation ago a simple calculation might have produced a "capacity" of 93 x 30 equals 2790 pupils). Today the size of the space and the quality and character of the educational program must be known before capacity is stated: a small room that would seat 35 pupils for a strictly formal, academic school program may be crowded with 25 pupils if a modern activities program is attempted. A "twelve-room school" may logically have a capacity greater or less than 12 x 30 pupils: a kindergarten room may serve separate groups in the morning and the afternoon, and so count double; yet 30 pupils is generally considered too many for the best kindergarten instruction. Two times 20, or 40 pupils, might be a reasonable count for a kindergarten room, if it really has the 1200 square feet or so that distinguish a kindergarten room from the ordinary elementary classroom.

On the other hand, when today's elementary classrooms generally provide 900 or more square feet of area for a teacher and her class, it just isn't reasonable to count (for example) the rooms at Lincoln School (eleven of which have an area less than 600 square feet) as having a capacity of 30 pupils each.

Since it seems certain that the elementary schools must continue in use for some time, it is here proposed that a more reasonable capacity allocation be made for Winchester's elementary schools, a capacity count that reflects attempts at quality education and acknowledges the realities of unsatisfactory classroom size. Here are the "rules" proposed for the new count:

1. A kindergarten having more than 1000 square feet will be given a "capacity" of 40 pupils (20 morning, 20 afternoon). A room with less than 1000 square feet will be counted as a regular elementary classroom, even if now used as a kindergarten. (Typical kindergarten area today is 1200 square feet).

2. Even though a classroom today is only 900 square feet, let us assign a "capacity" of 30 pupils maximum to any classroom that has 750 or more square feet of area.

3. For a classroom of area between 600 and 750 square feet, a capacity of 25.

4. Only 20 pupils capacity for those rooms (15 in all) or less than 600 square feet.

While it is necessary to group children for purposes of instruction, they learn individually. A statistical average of 27 pupils per room, high but not unreasonably so, is of little comfort to a teacher trying to cope with 35 or 37 pupils -- or to a parent conscious of a child's need for special attention. The capacity calculations proposed above are reasonable, and may be taken as guides for the future utilization of existing elementary school buildings. Note also that they accommodate rather well to possible future changes: if three 600-foot classrooms, now 3 x 20 in capacity, are altered to make two 900 - foot rooms, the capacity will be the same.

Winchester's present enrollment in grades K-6 is 2637 pupils. By the specious "every classroom is the same" calculation used customarily, the elementary schools are overcrowded -- yet. But teachers and parents know they are crowded. They will be more so next year, and the next. The "new" capacity, taking classroom size as a factor, tells why crowding exists now; the projected elementary school enrollment tells why crowding will get worse until new elementary school facilities are provided.

By a tradition going back at least to covered wagon days, "the school that squeaks the loudest gets the grease." On this basis (although the Lincoln School appears, in terms of classroom size and other factors to be most crowded), an addition has been proposed for the Noonan School. This seems an appropriate place to discuss the circumstances that determine when it is wise to add to a school, and when not.

To Add, or Not to Add?

When a "problem" arises -- increasing enrollment leading to overcrowding, for example -- a community has a limited number of possible solutions. The most obvious are these:

1. After attendance district lines. This decision can be made by the superintendent, or the superintendent with the School Committee's approval; so it is a probable first recourse as a problem arises. It raises fewer repercussions. If the problem is temporary, altering district lines may solve it. Usually it doesn't.

2. Enlarge class size. Communities that are relatively wealthy and that take pride in their reputation for good schools generally try to keep a low ratio of pupils to professional staff members. When they must raise it, they sometimes seek makeshift personnel -- teacher aides or "technicians" -- to help rationalize the move.

3. Eliminate desirable educational amenities. What will the community miss least? Probably not kindergartens (but this is always considered). Remedial classes can be dropped and their space taken over by a regular class. The same can and will occur with libraries (if such there be); special classes for the handicapped, the retarded, and the gifted; special spaces assigned to music, dramatics, art, science, or any desirable but unbasic educational use.

4. Use makeshift space for classrooms. Somehow the classroom still seems the center of education for which we sacrifice the peripheral things. So the lunch room, the indoor recreation space, the assembly room, the gymnasium or physical education teaching space -- these get taken over for classroom space. More pupils are accommodated -- in a program more limited in scope. Storage areas (as at Parkhurst) become places for teaching; the principal's office (as at Noonan) becomes a remedial classroom; an offstage storage closet (as at Washington) becomes a testing and conference room; a corridor becomes a library; an activity alcove becomes a "resource center." Everything "moves" in the educational chess-game that occurs with school crowding; everything moves backward, and the pawns taken first are usually the bright new educational ideas, and their spaces, that make the difference between a prosaic, conventional school and a school that is exciting, stimulating to teach or learn in, out on the "growing edge" of education.

Seldom are the makeshift spaces used for classrooms adequate in area; and when they are (as, an auditorium or gymnasium separated by a temporary partition) they lack sound isolation, sink-counter-storage units, classroom lighting and ventilation, or other amenities.

5. Institute half-day sessions. Parents as well as schoolmen are coming to resent the appellation "double sessions" with the implication that someone is getting something for nothing. When half-day sessions are forced on a school system by poor planning or reluctance to agree on a course of action, pupils get far less time in school.

6. Change the range of grades served by a building. This step in itself is not a solution to overcrowding; but it can play a part in a wise solution -- enabling a building to continue in use for a decade or so (for example) instead of adding to it.

Generally speaking, a secondary school doesn't make a good elementary school because of differences in classroom size and special facilities; nor does an elementary school adapt effectively to the more specialized needs of secondary programs.

7. Construct an addition to a building. The wisdom of this may depend on the design of the original building and its place in the community's long - range plan. There is considerable difference, for example, in proposing an addition to the Vinson-Owen School (designed to accommodate a six-classroom wing) and proposing an addition to any of Winchester's other elementary schools, ill suited to additional construction for the reasons discussed below.

8. Construct a new school. In Winchester, the first four of the possible "solutions" outlined above have already been tried, and a problem still exists. There is no elementary school that does not evidence altered district lines, increased class size or other makeshift resorts to in an effort to adjust to growth and still hold high the quality of education. But what if these fail to solve the problem: how can it be determined whether a proposal to add to an existing building is a wise investment of public funds? Many communities have discovered that the five questions listed below provide a reasonable basis for deciding whether or not to add:

1. Is the site adequate? or can it be made so? The school site is so much a part of the adequacy of the school itself that this question alone may demonstrate that a proposed addition is unwise.

2. Is the building structurally worth preserving? Or will the proposed addition perpetuate an obsolete school beyond its period of usefulness? What about the continuing costs of operating and maintaining the resultant structure?

3. Is the building educationally worth preserving? A structurally sound building may be educationally obsolete, and ill adapted to those internal changes that, along with any outside addition, are needed to make it a useful educational tool.

4. Is the cost of adding reasonable? Sometimes the total cost of making a building safe and usable, and of adding to it, and of operating and maintaining it at the ongoing costs characteristic of an old building -- sometimes these costs, anticipated and studied, clearly show that an addition is uneconomical as compared with the cost of building new space elsewhere as part of a new element in the long-range plan. This cost contrast is especially significant since state school building aid is not applicable to any expenditures made with the original building.

5. Is the proposed addition part of a sound long-range plan? Too often, in the absence of a long-range plan, one addition begets another -- leaves no alternative but to add again, either to this building or to another one. Where there is a long-range plan, the place of the proposed addition can be clearly seen: either it fits and is wise, or it is unwise because it doesn't fit -- is a step in the wrong direction.

With respect to the proposed addition to the Noonan School, the initial arguments that always suggest an addition are quite in evidence: the school is crowded; it serves a residential area that will need school facilities for as long as can be foreseen; the Noonan School itself, although 40 years old, is going to serve Winchester children for many more years. Then why not add to it?

The five questions above help answer this. The Noonan site was 2.2 acres until last year, when additional land was added on the west side of the lot. This is sloping land, the major function of which would be to accommodate the additional classrooms. The total site is still only 3.5 acres, with little or nothing added to the already limited play area. Structurally, the building is solid but not well designed -- two classroom areas on the lower floor have no connection except through the boiler room; classrooms are small, storage space is lacking, and special instructional and service areas are extremely limited. Most classrooms are 600 square feet (only two-thirds the size of today's elementary classrooms), and the kindergarten is less than 700 square feet in area. True, the school serves a residential area that has some room for growth. How much growth? How does this growth relate to possible growth in adjacent school districts? Is the cost of meeting each district's needs, over the foreseeable future, a reasonable cost whether or not existing district lines are crossed by the thinking and planning that determines future action?

And, most important of all, how does the Noonan addition fit into the long-range plan for providing elementary school facilities in Winchester? This will be discussed later in this report; the answers to the other questions suggest, however, that a valid long-range plan will avoid adding to Noonan School if possible.

The Secondary Schools - Widely differing from each other in character and quality are Winchester's three secondary schools.

McCall Junior High School was built in 1904 as Winchester's first school. In 1932 it received an addition consisting of six classrooms, an auditorium, a gymnasium, and a few supplementary spaces. In 1952 two new boilers were installed. In 1955, with the expenditure of approximately 600,000 McCall was rehabilitated and converted into a junior high school.

The site occupies 2.6 acres on a triangle of land located between Main Street, Mystic Valley Parkway, and Washington Street. The building itself, together with sidewalks and steeply sloping lawn, occupies every bit of the limited space available: there is no space near the building for physical education or recreation activities out of doors. Manchester Field, the senior high school athletic facility, is already overcrowded; Shore Road Field, frequently suggested as a makeshift field to serve the junior high school, is too far away for the day-to-day, period-to-period activities of a physical education program that reaches all the students.

Teaching stations available for regular scheduling of classes total 27. This figure includes, on the lower floor, two shops, a mechanical drawing room, and the gymnasium with two teaching stations; on the first floor, eight classrooms; on the second floor, seven; and on the third floor, seven. It does not include the auditorium or the library, nor the first-floor entrance lobby which is currently being used for mechanical drawing.

McCall is now crowded with 535 students in grades seven, eight, and nine. Its capacity, variously reported as between 500 and 600, depends on the type of educational program offered: for a conventional program for grades seven and eight, with large class size and no elective courses, it would be higher than 600; for the kind of program Winchester tries to make available to its students, with reasonable class size, a few elective subjects as early as seventh grade and several choices after eighth, a language laboratory, and student projects, a capacity of 500 is reasonable.

Lynch Junior High School is Winchester's newest secondary school, completed in 1961. It is also the town's best school, with high quality both in its construction and its provision of educational space: flexible, easy to change or to add to, the school initially provides a space for large-group instruction and a number of classrooms divisible into seminar or discussion rooms. This feature of the school's educational planning is not yet fully utilized.

Located on a site of 18 acres between the Woburn line and Wildwood Cemetery, Lynch Junior High School provides a total of 35 teaching stations for a capacity of about 800. At present the enrollment is 507, and the school department administrative quarters occupy the equivalent of five classrooms on the lower level.

Winchester High School was opened in 1932 as the junior high school, and converted to the senior high school in 1955 through substantial additions at the same time. McCall underwent its thorough rehabilitation. The site, about 12.5 acres, lies on a steeply sloping hillside, with Manchester Field, including athletic areas and parking lot for the school, comprising the remaining 10 acres.

The senior high school's 42 teaching stations are located at five different levels, creating a bewildering traffic pattern and crowding corridors and stairways when classes change. A reasonable capacity for the building with the present breadth of educational program is about 900; current enrollment is 1094. This inevitably means the use of sub-standard space for educational activities, and the loss of some amenities: ground floor rooms (really, basement spaces) set aside originally for physical education classrooms house other courses as well; the main teachers' lounge at the building's major entrance has become a classroom; folding partitions were installed, in 1962, in a number of regular 600 - square - foot classrooms, increasing the number of teaching stations but decreasing the flexibility of the building as a whole. Staff offices, available for most department heads but not for all teachers, include such makeshift spaces as book closets and other storage areas.

Inadequate Facilities Inhibit Program There is little point in rehearsing the many inhibitions on teaching and learning imposed by the facilities available at McCall Junior High School and at Winchester Senior High if nothing can be done about them; but something can, and must, be done. First, because the secondary schools are crowded and would need relief even if all spaces were up to par for a smaller enrollment; and second because even without any crowding at all many teaching - and - learning situations go on under unsatisfactory conditions. Either crowding or unsatisfactory facilities constitutes a problem. Winchester has both: the crowding promises to get worse as enrollments rise; and facilities will seem even more unsatisfactory as the junior and senior high school program changes. Let us look at the likely directions for such change.

1. The secondary schools will teach more. The proliferation of knowledge requires that a more thorough general education be imparted sooner than is now the case. Already, in advanced placement courses, much college-level material is covered in senior high school; already, biology, languages, and algebra are introduced to students in junior high school or even earlier.

2. Methods of teaching will be more varied. Lecture, demonstration, discussion, projects, testing and review -- we will know more about which kind of presentation is best for each subject area and each aspect of the subject.

3. Pupils will be grouped and regrouped for most effective learning. The "standard class" or 25 or 30 pupils will go, and with it the so-called "standard classroom." Large groups can effectively be reached with certain kinds of material; other kinds must be presented, or discussed, in groups quite small. Much of a student's real learning will go on alone -- with a book, a programmed learning device, or some other instructional aid.

4. The "library" as we know it will be revolutionized. The kind and quantity of resources available, the number and variety of staff members required, the space and equipment needed, and the way students and staff members are aided -- all will be vastly different in the Instructional Materials Center that already is emerging as a replacement for, or at least an outgrowth of, the school library. A town, or a school staff, that is inadequately served by conventional standards (as Winchester is) will find it hard to conceive of the scope of tomorrow's resource center that replaces today's library. But it is already happening in some communities.

5. Teachers will be treated as people, and professional people at that. The small, ill-ventilated "teachers' room" that is today's feeble gesture toward amenity for the professional staff members will give way to a number of spaces that reflects the tasks the teachers and department heads have to do. Not just a classroom, but departmental offices with a desk for every teacher, clerical and technical help, space to confer with students, parents, or fellow-teachers, a professional library, and time set aside, free of instructional duties, for offering leadership as a department head or making special preparations for a large-group presentation.

6. Pupils too will be treated as people, with far more freedom than they now enjoy for the self-motivated learning and planning that we know they can do. The "study hall" where so little studying gets done will give way to a series of individual study carrels and small group conference rooms. Language laboratory booths, filmstrips, television tapes, and teaching machines will be available to help a student "brush up" on something he's missed. Student lounge, instructional materials center and other parts of the school will be open for use when needed by the student.

This is just the beginning of a list that could seem endless -- and does, when schoolmen get together to discuss the future of secondary education. Everything on the list has an implication for the secondary school plant; every change suggested to improve teaching and learning for tomorrow's young people has a bearing on the space, comfort, equipment, and relationships that must be built into the secondary school of tomorrow. Either the school fits the program, and these things can go on; or it places a ceiling on the imagination and resourcefulness of the teachers, and the best parts of the educational program cannot happen.

There is clear evidence from several view-points that the physical facilities inhibit the program at the Senior High School, at McCall, and (at least as to library and audiovisual aids) even at Lynch. Some of this comes from the staff members themselves, describing things they know how to do but cannot because space or equipment is lacking.

Independent, outside verification of the many problems imposed by physical facilities and crowding came last year in the Evaluation Report of the Visiting Committee of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Visiting Winchester High School in March, 1963, the Committee made a report that, as a whole, may be considered a warm commendation of the school. Yet again and again throughout the report, in almost every subject area, recognition of fine teaching, good organization, and high pupil achievement is followed by recommendations concerning aspects over which the teacher has no control -- the space and equipment available for teaching and learning.

A few comments appearing again and again among the recommendations of the Visiting Committee deserve repeating, for they bear out observations made by others studying the senior high school problem: 1. Need for articulation. There is an urgent need for better, smoother relationships between the grades. Whether the matter at hand is reading, or science, or mathematics, or how to use learning aids, there is no arbitrary cutoff point for any level of competence. Rather, there should be a twelve - year sequential program for educating children and youth in Winchester, with enough vigorous curriculum leadership, or enthusiastic staff participation, or (better) both, to assure continuity in teaching and learning.

2. Importance of instructional materials. Again and again, in subject after subject, the lack of adequate library and audio-visual facilities recurs in the comments of the New England Association Committee. While they were clearly speaking of the senior high school, the problem is equally acute at the junior high schools: Winchester has only just embarked on an audio-visual program, and Winchester has at present not a single school library that can be called adequate by modern standards, either in space provided, equipment, resource materials, or staff.

3. A teacher needs a home base for professional duties. Remember the old, uncrowded schools where Miss Smith could always be found at her desk in her own classroom, whenever she had a free period? This was her "home base," her own professional library (such as it was) was there, her records, her hat, coat, and lunchbox. Here she prepared lessons, read them, graded quizzes, and conferred with anyone who needed help.

In today's crowded schools, with space so expensive, we can't afford to leave Miss Smith in her "own" room the two periods out of seven (29 per cent of the school day) that she isn't actually teaching a class. We find it's cheaper to assign her a desk in a staff office for her department. Cheaper -- and educationally more productive, too. The Miss Smith of our earlier days went her own way. Today she plays her part in a department that has a planned program. Whether she teaches "a class" or does her part as lecturer, discussion leader, or staff assistant, she must interact with the other teachers in her field, else the result is chaos.

4. Storage needs are worth thinking about. Was it ever true that the "Mr. Chips" of a generation ago had everything he needed of mind, a simple shop headquarters, and a small pickup truck, are assigned to do, daily, the countless maintenance tasks that are now postponed or sub-contracted out at great expense. Major tasks that can be foreseen (painting, roof work) are done during summers and vacations, with the custodians adding to the maintenance staff. Minor, irregular, or emergency jobs -- fixing roof leaks, taking out a partition, installing one there -- provide a backlog of work. The building custodian, it is understood, still makes as always such minor repairs as fixing loose handrails, replacing a stair tread, or installing a faucet washer. Really major jobs are still contracted out. The saving is felt both in money and in the lift that comes from having a job done when it is needed.

Four or five men (perhaps by trade a plumber, an electrician, a carpenter, and a painter) with an "I can do anything" frame of mind, a simple shop headquarters, and a small pickup truck, are assigned to do, daily, the countless maintenance tasks that are now postponed or sub-contracted out at great expense. Major tasks that can be foreseen (painting, roof work) are done during summers and vacations, with the custodians adding to the maintenance staff. Minor, irregular, or emergency jobs -- fixing roof leaks, taking out a partition, installing one there -- provide a backlog of work. The building custodian, it is understood, still makes as always such minor repairs as fixing loose handrails, replacing a stair tread, or installing a faucet washer. Really major jobs are still contracted out. The saving is felt both in money and in the lift that comes from having a job done when it is needed.

Although the most important storage needs are those of the teachers (since that's what the schools are organized for), it's also a fact that there are others at school whose storage needs are worth some attention. The custodian: a light bulb just doesn't get replaced if there isn't a closet with replacement bulbs nearby; a floor just doesn't get mopped if there's not a mop sink handy. The audio-visual director: a filmstrip or slide sequence doesn't get shown if the problem of getting a projector to the right room at the right time with proper darkening and the right length of extension cord is unsolved. The administration: certain records (sometimes, money) are lost every year because there was no proper place for them.

5. Building maintenance needs greater attention. The New England Association's Committee on School Plant, after due deference to such points as "the excellent overall conditions of the school plant, considering the size of the custodial staff and the age of sections of the building," goes on to list no fewer than 41 separate recommendations -- all apparently "minor" but each one important. Here are some examples:

a. roof areas which are now leaking should be replaced or repaired to avoid further damage to interior areas.

b. steps be taken to correct the situation whereby water now enters the gymnasium through air-intake fans.

c. all broken or cracked windows be replaced.

d. missing ceiling tiles in gymnasium be replaced.

e. the dangerous condition of the sink garbage disposal in the home economics foods laboratory be immediately corrected.

f. the drinking fountains in the cafeteria be repaired or replaced.

g. the custodial help be supplied with modern and more efficient cleaning equipment.

The last is a telling criticism of the way Winchester spends money for school plant facilities. The town has no school plant maintenance crew. Those minor repairs that can readily be made by a custodian (whose duties are really day-to-day operation, not maintenance) get made, maybe -- if the custodian has the time, and the tools, and the skills required. Other repairs -- major ones, or perhaps minor ones for which no one at the moment has the time or the tools, or the skills -- must be postponed, or farmed out on contract at a cost always far higher than using a school maintenance crew. Many communities far smaller than Winchester (whether in population, wealth, enrollment, number of school buildings, or apparent pride in their schools) maintain, and get their money's worth from, a full-time maintenance crew.

Citizens' Advisory Committee The Citizens' Advisory Committee on Secondary School-College Relations is a group of Winchester citizens whose dedication to public education in Winchester -- as parents, townspeople, and specialists in various phases of education -- is equalled only by the school system's welcoming of their advice and assistance. What is a varsity basketball or hockey team (this committee asks) but an "honors course" for students gifted in physical education? Why, then, not offer equivalent honors courses for those gifted in science or mathematics, or expression? Working since May, 1957, the Citizens' Advisory Committee has recommended and urged and helped and prodded to good effect, especially on behalf of the enriched and advanced programs needed for the college-bound student. Here are some of their recommendations made over the years, many already in practice in Winchester:

1. Try to identify talented youth as early as possible, and meet their needs for education.

2. Pay teachers well to attract and retain the best for Winchester.

3. Hold teacher loads down, in general; but let the staff members themselves decide how to balance classes for relatively equal impact within a subject area.

4. Let class size vary as staff members agree to let it vary, in order for teachers to do their best at their varying tasks of instruction.

5. When teachers are given special assignments (as, department head, lecturer), give them extra time for the special duties involved.

6. Establish departmental libraries in all departments, for the good of department members and those studying with them.

7. Arrange for classroom sizes to be flexible, in order to accommodate various kinds of instruction that may be desired.

8. Start an audio-visual program, with needed appropriations for staff, equipment, and space.

9. Tie the A-V program intimately into the library program, and budget adequately for materials, space, equipment, and staff.

10. Continue both remedial and developmental reading throughout the student's career, as far as either will serve his needs.

11. Improve the articulation between junior and senior high schools (especially), but between all levels in general. Important here are the guidance personnel and the department heads, who must reach beyond their assigned range of grades to be effective.

12. Give department heads time in their schedule to plan and to lead, else they are department heads in title only. Give them not only time, but a place to do their work!

13. Provide space and staff so that every pupil can participate in physical education.

14. Make the guidance staff adequate to advise those planning for college plus those who are not. With the current spread that is occurring in the choice of college by Winchester youth, there may not be enough counselors available for non-college youth!

15. Instead of itself determining what (as to school budget) the traffic will bear, the Winchester School Committee should itself determine "what a community such as Winchester should reasonably provide." Whatever its differences about school plant facilities (says the Citizens' Advisory Committee), Winchester will always provide those educational services deemed to be necessary.

S. O. I. Initiation And Installation

The Winchester S. O. I. held a most successful 35th initiation of new members and installation of the newly elected officers before more than 200 in attendance at the club hall on Sunday night, April 12.

The program got under way when the Degree Team initiated a combination of fifty five men and women, one of the largest classes to be initiated anywhere in the state.

Richard Penta, chairman, and his committee must be congratulated for a job well done, and they saw fit at this initiation to name it the "Carmine Frontello" Class in honor of the organizations most popular and hardest working member. He is a charter member of the organization, is a past-venerable, a delegate, is on several of the organization's committees, is a member of the degree team and a better choice for such an honor could not have been made.

Following the ceremony of initiation the degree team then installed the newly elected officers who were Lorraine Maggio and Robert Fiore, venerables, Geraldine D'Onofrio and Frank Provinzano, assistant venerables; Geraldine Buzzotta and Frank A. Dattilo, past venerables; Vi Bruno and Dom Provinzano, orators; Roberta Ungar-etti and Rocco DeTeso, recording secretaries; Eleanor Russo and Frank Dattilo, finance secretaries;

Joanne Mistretta and Randolph Kazanian, treasurers. Immediately at the conclusion of the ceremony of installation, Bob Fiore, venerable, introduced Frank Provinzano, assistant venerable, as the master of ceremonies for the evening.

M. C. Provinzano immediately welcomed Fr. Martin Dolphin and Fr. Cosmas Paeonessa, the distinguished guests, Grand Officers, officers of visiting organizations, members of both the Ladies' and Mens' Lodges and friends.

After the opening prayer by Fr. Cosmas, the master of ceremonies gave brief histories of the Winchester lodges which was then followed by introductions of the invited guests.

First to be called upon were John H. Lyman, chairman, and William R. Kimball of the Board of Selectmen who gave the town's best wishes for continued success.

Harrison Chadwick, our representative and town moderator, was then introduced and responded with a most interesting message.

Senator Philibert L. Pellegri, who is also a past venerable of the Arlington Lodge, was then presented. He was quite fascinated with the performance of the degree team and wished our organization well.

Miss Mary Benullo is the ladies' district deputy and after she was recognized she thanked the lodge for its loyal support and expressed her wishes for continued progress. Miss Benullo was presented a gift by Ginger Maggio, venerable, in behalf of all the members for a job well done in the past year.

Ginger Maggio, venerable of the ladies' lodge, then thanked her committees and members for a fine year gone by and asked for their continued good work.

M. C. Provinzano then called upon Edmund Tarullo, mens' lodge district deputy, who relayed some of the pleasant experiences he has had in making his visits to our monthly meetings and he closed his message with kind words of best wishes for continued growth.

Bob Fiore, venerable, then presented Dep. Torullo with a gift from all members of the lodge for his keen interest in our undertakings and progress and concluded his chore by promising to make this next year a more successful one.

"Miss Winchester," Diane Mericantante, was then called upon by the master of ceremonies and she received a loud round of applause.

The M.C. saw it proper at this time to recognize those on the hard - working committee (names listed in another column) and all in attendance showed their approval of a most excellent job by offering a loud round of clapping hands.

All in attendance were sorry to learn that "Mingy" could not be with us because of doctor's orders. The class of newly initiated members was called the "Carmine Frontello Class" and sitting in for him to give his message was daughter, Ginger.

John A. Volpe, ex-governor of the Commonwealth, was next to be presented but because of previous engagements he appeared at a later hour. He was immediately called upon to be introduced and expressed his sincere best wishes for continued growth and success.

Others called upon to speak were John Guarino, past grand venerable, Madeline Miceli, first assistant grand venerable, and Joseph Farnham, grand orator.

Officers from visiting organizations came from Fitchburg, Salem, Worcester, Newton, Medford, Wakefield, Waltham, Woburn, Salem, New Hampshire, Somerville, South End Club of Woburn, Shrewsbury, Stoneham, Belmont, Revere, Lynn, Arlington and Malden. Also presidents of the Winchester Columbus Club Lucy Mairullari and Louis Castiglione.

Following the completion of the formal part of the program, Mr. Provinzano thanked all for attending and invited all to remain for collation and dancing and called upon Fr. Cosmas to offer the closing prayer.

Black Horse Hose No. Two Company Back in Service

Black Horse Hose No. 2 Company is back in service after an absence of 75 years.

The Winchester Auxiliary Fire Department recently restored the old Hose Reel that belonged to Black Horse Hose No. 2. This Hose Reel was ordered by the Town of Winchester, December 17, 1874.

This could not have been accomplished without the help of Frank Van Ummersen of Hogen and Van Body Shop in Medford. To show their appreciation, the Auxiliary Fire Department made Mr. Van Ummersen an Honorary Deputy Chief of the Auxiliary.

Members of the Auxiliary purchased duplicates of the old time uniforms and plan to use the old hose reel as a parade piece. They appeared in the April 20 parade at Lexington and will appear in the En Ka Parade in May.

Spring Cleaning Time Again!

Spring is here and it's cleaning time again. In the spring, a housewife's fancy turns to thoughts of crisp, clean curtains and draperies. If you'd like to prolong the life of curtains and draperies here are a few hints from Mrs. Anne Sterling, director of Consumer Relations for the American Institute of Laundering.

If it is practical to do so, Mrs. Sterling suggests rotating the curtains and draperies occasionally from sunny windows to unexposed windows to equalize the effect of the sun on the fabric. Constant exposure to direct sunlight weakens most fibers.

Frequently cleaned draperies and curtains will wear longer and look better because soil that can cause permanent discoloration does not become imbedded in the fabric. When having your curtains and draperies cleaned professionally, inform the laundryman or drycleaner when they contain glass yarns or synthetic fibers. This will enable him to give you the item the specialized care they require.

The best advice to follow says Mrs. Sterling when purchasing your new spring curtains and draperies is shop for quality merchandise. Patterns, color, style are usually the factors that influence buying rather than durability. For greater serviceability, it is wise to know the limitations of fabrics when making selections.

A guide for the best in quality merchandise is the Certified Washable Seal of the American Institute of Laundering. This seal means manufacturers' items have passed rigid standards of quality. Materials are subject to tests for shrinkage, wash fastness, color fastness, tensile strength, and general appearance after laundering.

Special Film Program At Library

On Friday night, May 1, at 7:30, the library will offer a dividend program, through the kindness of Mr. Carl Accardo, a Winchester resident and frequent attendant at our family night films. Mr. Accardo, a space scientist with Geophysics of America at Bedford, will discuss "What we have learned in space." He will describe the space environment, present and future plans for the exploration of space and will have with him an actual rocket payload, designed for the study of the solar eclipse of July 1963. He plans to show a short film on the subject of space exploration and will be glad to explain and discuss any aspects of the subject.

Mr. Accardo is a graduate of M.I.T. and New York University. His talk will be keyed to the attention of the younger as well as the older members of the audience.

This is an unexpected pleasure and should prove a real treat for our family film program audience.

Paul Johnian Played Violin In Concert

Paul Johnian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aram Johnian of 19 Hillside Avenue, played the violin in a concert presented by the New England Conservatory Symphony Orchestra on Thursday, April 23. Mr. Johnian is a sophomore student at the music college; he is studying violin with Robert Brink, a well-known violin soloist. The program, under the direction of conductor Frederik Prausnitz, was presented in Jordan Hall, the Conservatory's world famous concert auditorium. The Conservatory Symphony Orchestra performed William Schuman's "Credendum" and Gustav Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde"; Sandra Provost, mezzo-soprano, and John Stewart, tenor, were the soloists in the Mahler work.

ready to forgive; and plenteous in mercy unto all them that call upon thee" (Psalms

"The poor suffering heart needs its rightful nutriment, such as peace, patience in tribulation, and a priceless sense of the dear Father's lovingkindness" is one of the selections which will be read

Of the Jr. High Student" May 6

The McCall Junior High Parents Association will hold its annual meeting on May 6, at 7:45 p.m., in the auditorium when the parents of all present McCall students will be contacted by telephone by their individual room mothers as a reminder to attend and Mrs. Robert Millican, president of the association, is also inviting all parents of sixth grade students who will be attending McCall next fall.

The business meeting will be of short duration, and the election of next year's officers will be presented for approval. Bradford Bentley, representing the Winchester Scholarship Foundation will speak briefly on this subject. The main topic of the evening will be "The Emotional Needs of the Junior High School Student."

The Rev. John R. McCall, S. J., will be the speaker. The scholastic, social, and physical pressures that are apparent more and more in our secondary schools are now working their way into our lower schools bringing these problems to our early teen-agers. The Rev. McCall is at present at Weston College where he teaches psychology and does guidance work. He also commutes to Boston College to teach history of psychology to undergraduates and child psychology to the graduate students.

Mrs. Robert Olson and her committee will serve refreshments in the cafeteria after the close of the meeting.

Insect Pests

Insects pests and taxes are very similar; you can't escape either one of them. But, unlike taxes, insects can, to some extent, be controlled.

Topping the list of the most destructive insects are the members of the Aphididae family; call them what you will, Aphids, Aphids, plant lice, green flies, etc., all the names refer to the same small, spheroid insects which are found in just about every color — black, green, yellow, red, brown or white.

Aphids are sucking insects — they have needle-pointed beaks with which they pierce the plants' stems and drain out cell juices.
Aphids reproduce at an astounding rate—six will increase to 1000s in 30 days if not controlled.

Luckily, the Aphids have many natural enemies. The ladybugs, in both larva and beetle stages, consume Aphids in quantities far exceeding the predator's own weight.
There are many, many other predators which aid the gardener in controlling this pest.

Unfortunately, unlike TV Westerns, the "good guys" don't always win. The Aphids are present in great quantities no matter how many ladybugs live in our gardens.
It is necessary for man to step in and use carefully planned applications of insecticides to control the pests. The correct chemicals to be used will be discussed later.

Other ever-present pests are the Red Spiders (mites or spidermites), Acarus telarius. Unlike most other pests, these bugs do not appear when the weather has been cool and damp; as a matter of fact, the conditions just described are the best if one is to remain free of the pests.

Red spiders thrive where the air and soil are dry and the sun is warm; they gather on the undersides of leaves, causing the foliage to wither and curl. Small cobweblike threads also reveal their presence.

Just about everyone is familiar with Japanese beetles. These creatures, which are about half an inch long and are iridescent green in color, are a nuisance when in both the larva and adult stages.

As adults, they attack the foliage of just about every plant, making lacework out of the leaves.
When in the larva stage, they live in the lawns and do untold damage.
Japanese beetles are in the larva stage on the lawns right now.

Thrips are a garden pest which do damage in the same way as Aphids; their mouths are equipped for piercing plant stems and sucking cell juices.

They are most often found near the base of Gladiolus leaves—amidst the folds where the leaves originated from the roots, or in other such places on different plants. They

Across the Counter

"The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Dom-
ley. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may
avoid a similar mistake."

Contact poisons kill in an entirely different way. These sprays are mineral and sulphur oils, nicotine and DDT mixes. They kill by smothering the insect with a film of whatever the chemical is. It can be easily seen that the stomach poisons have a long-lasting effect, while the contact poisons must actually touch the insect at the time of the application.

Way back when, in 1890, gardeners were ridding themselves of Aphids by burning tobacco stems in the greenhouses or soaking tobacco stems in water and applying the solution to plants in the garden, what they were doing, of course, was making use of the nicotine in the stems. This method used very well. But, as with all other good things, the effectiveness soon came to an end, as the insects became immune to the solution.

And then, during World War II, DDT came into being. DDT is short for Dichloro-diphenyl-tri-chloroethane. It worked fine, but once again insects became immune to it.

Today, there are many chemicals under all sorts of brand names which do the job, but, as with all the others, some day the bugs will be immune to them, also. It's too bad we can't start the cycle all over again and go back to burning tobacco stems.

"Then a fire struck. The flames greedily ate up my entire investment - the mill burned to the ground. The shock was so great I don't remember what happened that night; but my wife said I sat with my head in my hands, moaning to myself
in disbelief.

"Not buying adequate fire insurance cost me $51,000! But worst of all, since life is too short at best, I figure it set me back SEVEN YEARS, right in the prime of life, towards realizing my goal."

1964 Winchester Mornings Series Tickets Ready

Plans are now complete for the 17th season of Winchester Mornings to be presented in September and October in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, by the Wellesley College Club of Winchester. The committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Colin L. Wheeler, is most enthusiastic about the forthcoming program.

On Thursday, September 17, the committee is indeed proud and fortunate to be able to present to subscribers Dr. James Rhyne Killian, Jr., tenth president of MIT from 1948 to 1959, and more recently chairman of the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. Dr. Killian has received countless awards, including the Atoms for Peace Award in 1960 and in 1959 the Exceptional Civilian Service Award of the Department of the Army. He holds honorary degrees from many colleges, including, in this area, Boston University, Harvard, Tufts and Brandeis.

On Thursday, October 8, Dr. Philip M. Phibbs of the political science department at Wellesley College, will speak on foreign affairs. Dr. Phibbs is a popular speaker, most favorably received by audiences. He is a specialist in international relations and Indian foreign policy. Dr. Phibbs was educated at Washington State University, Cambridge University, England, and received his Ph.D.

in 1957 from the University of Chicago. The following year he worked in the office of a United States Senator in order to obtain practical experience in politics to supplement the years of academic training in the field.

During his service with the Air Force, he was stationed in England, where he directed the Air Force program in that country to promote better relations between our Air Force personnel and the people of Britain. Last year he received a Fulbright award for travel in India, studying its civilization and contemporary politics. With two other special grants, he was able to go to Nepal to study its foreign policy, which is of particular interest both in the East-West struggle and in the Sino-Indian border conflicts.

On Thursday, October 29, the well-known American poet and novelist, May Sarton, will be the final speaker; her subject, "Poetry as a Way of Life." Miss Sarton started her career in the theatre; she served as apprentice, then actress, then director in Eva le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theatre, and later organized a theatrical company of her own which played in New York, Boston and Hartford over a period of several seasons, producing, directing and acting. However, she gave up her theatrical career to write and now has many books to her credit, several of them best-selling novels. Her charming little book, "The Fur Person," is known to cat lovers far and wide. Her most recent novel is last fall's "Joanna and Ulysses." Currently she is teaching creative writing and choral speech in several colleges throughout the country.

Miss Sarton holds the Reynolds Lyric Award of the Poetry Society of America and has also won the Golden Rose of the New England Poetry Society. She has been characterized as "the living embodiment and spirit of poetry."

Tickets for the series are now on sale as announced by the ticket chairman, Mrs. Paul Leverette (729-2961). In addition to the regular subscription list, the committee will welcome new subscribers, including any gentlemen who may be free to attend these Thursday morning lectures.

For the benefit of those who may not be familiar with the Mornings program, the series is sponsored annually by the Wellesley College Club of Winchester and because of the enthusiastic support of this project, by the people of Winchester, the club has been able to contribute to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation and to the Wellesley College Development Fund and its Student Aid Society.

Adjustments Made In Postal Service

The limited adjustments in some postal services ordered in Washington March 10 by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski to save $12.7 million will begin to take effect in Winchester and other cities May 4, Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun said today.

Service changes planned locally include the following, Mr. Gilgun said:

Saturday window service will be consolidated to one window, where Stamps, Parcel Post, C.O.D. and Registry service will be available. Patrons are urged to transact as much of their postal business as possible on weekdays, and to make use of the stamp vending machine located in the lobby for the purchase of stamps.

There will be no Domestic or International money orders issued on Saturday, nor will there be any inquiry or claims, meter setting, trust fund deposits, and box rent collection service.

Parcel Post delivery service will be provided on a five day basis, except that six-day service shall be continued on all mounted routes. Parcel Post will not be delivered on Wednesdays, and Parcel Post deliveries will be adjusted so that various sections of the town will receive deliveries on different days, provided the entire town is given a five-day week delivery.

First-class parcels, air parcel post, and perishable parcels will continue to be delivered six days a week.

The Postmaster emphasized that no essential major services are affected under the orders. There will be no change in home delivery or special delivery, for example. Regular business mail deliveries will continue as usual. Letters and other first-class mail will be handled with the same priority as ever.

The economy step, Mr. Gilgun explained, is in line with President Johnson's programs under which the recent Federal income tax cut was provided.

Two-Hitter By Crotty Sinks Stoneham, 3-0

A line drive single by second baseman Vic Lawson broke a scoreless deadlock at Stoneham last Friday afternoon as Winchester defeated the Spartans 3-0 in extra innings. The win helped balance a 5-4 loss to Wakefield on Thursday.

With both starting pitchers, Bob Crotty of Winchester and Bill Jones of Stoneham, going all the way, and apparently unperturbed by an afternoon that grew increasingly raw and cloudy, the game remained stalemated for seven full frames (regulation time according to new Middlesex League rules). To that point, Jones had scattered four hits, and Crotty had allowed just two infield hits down the third base line.

Then, in the top of the eighth, with one down, Buddy Rotondi and Ed Cutting walked. Clean-up hitter Dick Faieta promptly rapped a hard grounder to Spartan shortstop George Sterling who tossed to second baseman Ken Flynn for the force on Cutting, but the relay to first was two steps late. In the action, Rotondi had moved to third.

Lawson's drive came moments later, and with Faieta running on the pitch, Rotondi scored, and runners were still at first and third. On the second serve to leftfielder Bob Murray, Lawson put himself in scoring position by stealing second. Murray followed pace with a single to left, Faieta and Lawson scoring. After Lee Sullivan walked, George Murphy ended the inning by popping to Sterling at short.

Crotty then made short work of the middle of the Spartan batting order in the last of the eighth, getting Ron Rombo to pop to Scherban, Paul Salerno to pop to Cutting, and Nick Calabrese on strikes. Except for an occasional control lapse, Crotty was sharp. The big junior struck out eight, an average of one per inning.

Only one Spartan got as far as third on Crotty. That was Flynn who reached on an infield hit in the first, stole second, and advanced on Crotty's own misfire.

Catcher Ron Scherban paced the Schem attack with two singles, and narrowly missed a third leading off the eighth. Ed Cutting got Winchester's first hit, walked twice and fled deep to center.

Winchester Takes Melrose

The Sachem track team added another victory on April 24 to its growing list. John Buckley came through with another record time in the 2 mile. He had the record of 10:34, which he broke last Friday. He ran a 10:29.5.

This is one of the toughest teams Winchester meets this spring. The overall meet was very close, with the relay deciding the meet. Kelly, Garvey, Mears and Grant had to really work to win the relay, and these men were the real stars of the day.

T. Saddler picked up 13 points for Winchester with a first in the high hurdles, a second in the lows and a first in the broad jump.

Captain Fahey came through with two first places, one in the discus and one in the shot put.

A. Stafford got a first in the high jump to add to our points. R. Halverson took first in the pole vault, with D. Rowe and Bergstrom (M) tied for second.

In most of the running events Melrose took the first places, but Winchester, wanting this meet, with the help of Grant, Garvey, Kelly, Thoms, Harwood and Jenike, took all the second and third places that were needed to win.

This was a rough meet, with the score 68-63. Come on, Winchesterites, come on down to Manchester Field and support the track rompers.

Sachems Edged By Wakefield In Opener, 5-4

A three-run last inning rally wasn't enough last Thursday as the Sachems lost a one-run decision to the Wakefield Warriors at Wakefield. It was the Middlesex League opener for both clubs.

Despite four-hit pitching by both pitchers, a total of seven errors were committed throughout the damp afternoon — three by Winchester and four by Wakefield.

Vic Lawson led the Sachem attack with two hits. Buddy Rotondi and Lee Sullivan had the others.

We are glad to see you back with us again, Cusi. We missed your friendly smile. Arlene and Harry hit the 600 mark again, nice bowling. Too bad, Ken, your 331 score was to no avail against the Marlboros. Another one of our clan has been missing for quite a while. We hope you will be back with us real soon, Leo Mc. We have a few more weeks of bowling, so let's all break some records.

S.O.I. Women

Hail to the victors! Congratulations to Louise Vigorita and her team, the Kents. They are our first place championship team. Congratulations also goes to Laura Caria and her team, the Springs, our second place championship team. Our praise also goes to Eleanor Lucio and her team, the Kools, and likewise to Rose DeTeso and her team, the Newports, for the sportsmanship way in which they accepted their loss.

Going into the second week of roll-offs the Kents were 6 points to the Kools 2 points with a 15 pin lead. Kents took the first string by 23 pins, which meant the Kools had to take the next string or that match would be over. Going into the last two boxes the score was tie. As luck had it Captain Louise Vigorita got two spares in the last two boxes to clinch it for her team. They took it by 16 pins.

Scores for the evening for the Kents and Kools:

Our second place teams rolling off were Springs and Newports. Springs were ahead 6 to 2 with 32 pins out in front. The Springs took the first string by 7 pins, which meant the Newports had to take the second string or that match would be over. Lady luck was with them and they took it by 29 pins. Newports were still in the running. Now going into the third string the Springs were ahead by only 10 pins. Lady luck took to the Springs and they defeated the Newports 421 to 407. Hats off to Laura Caria and her team, the Springs, our second place team champs.

Your reporter would now like to thank the management at Strike Lanes for the wonderful cooperation received from them during the year, also to the Winchester Star for allowing us to put our private little articles in for the past 27 weeks. At our bowling banquet, which will be held May 23, at the beautiful Sons of Italy Home on Swanton Street, your reporter will be revealed.

My clue for the last week is I didn't win a sweater.

Bowladrome's Jr.

It has been a long time since Winchester Bowladrome's Junior Bowling League has reported its standings.

During the short vacation five new bowlers have gone down in our books as bowler of the week. The first Joe Hawkins bowled a 98 single and a 263 triple. The second Jimmy Olivadoti who rolled a 92 high string. Third, Tommy Mullaney who rolled a 97 high single string. And last week's award winner was Tommy Mullaney who rolled a tremendous 104 single string. Donny Luongo broke two records last week by rolling a nice 328 high triple and 124 high single. Joe Bonasera was lucky this week and rolled a 114 single.

This week, the last week of the league, Bowladrome's news reporter Bobby Joyce, who by the way writes all the articles for Winchester Bowladrome's leagues, won bowler of the week award by rolling a nice 98 single string.

S. O. I. News

The S. O. I. degree team was invited to take part in the past week in installing newly elected officers of the Revere and Waltham Ladies' and men's lodges. On Wednesday of this week the team assisted in installing officers of the Christopher Columbus Lodge in Boston and are also preparing for numerous other engagements with sights focused on the trip to Bridgeport, Conn., on May 16 and 17.

Mgr. Honie Procopio is hard at work lining up his softball team which will participate in the Town Softball League. The team came through with the title last year, and Hokie claims that the championship trophy will remain on the display counter for another year. The team opens its season next Monday evening at Leonard Field.

Chairman Art Dunbar is accepting also names for those desiring to participate in the S. O. I. Golf League. Interested participants are urged to register no later than this week. So get down to the club and sign up.

The sports committee, under the chairmanship of Dick Tofuri, has made final plans for its annual bowling banquet, which is to be held at the club hall on Saturday, May 2.

Mel Fiore, Dick DiMambro and Randy Kazanian are planning to put on a "membership drive" to assist and volunteer their services in giving our building a new coat of paint on the outside. If you can spare an hour or two, contact these men for final arrangements.

President of the A. C. A., Boss Dattilo, has a committee made up of himself, John Paonessa, Art Bertolucci, Nick Ronzio, Art Dunbar and Ven. Bob Fiore which is planning to hold a Hawaiian Luau on June 13. It is not too far away, so see any of the above mentioned for further details.

The pool tournament is getting into the last stretch after Art Dunbar defeated and eliminated Joe Paonessa. Dom Gallelli then took on Art Dunbar and Dom's win leaves him open now to take on Sam Tibaldo for the club's championship title. This was the first such tournament, and it proved to be interesting enough to warrant more to come.

A dilemma? No, for the first time in world's fair history, you can be kept abreast, instantaneously, of what's going on, where and when, so you can pick and choose what most interests you and the family.

This historical "first" is a General Foods Corporation multi-million-dollar network of "electronic newspapers" suspended high above ground on 11 graceful arches. Since each arch will rise 60 feet into the air and span major pedestrian walkways, "you'll have no trouble finding them. (They'll also be numbered, for use by visitors as rendezvous points.)

The communications system features centrally-controlled message panels on which will flash a continuous flow not only of fair-ground news, but also world news, weather and traffic reports and other information of a public-service nature. Each message board will carry five lines of news at a time. Letters and numbers will be formed by clusters of electric lights.

Just below these panels, on each arch, will hang three viewing screens in which will appear changing photos, in color, of men, women and children at work together, at worship together, at play together—graphic support of the Fair theme, "Peace Through Understanding." Reproduction of that theme will also float high in the crown of each General Foods arch. Historically, world's fairs have busied themselves with solving the communications problems of tomorrow. The telephone, the radio, television both national and global—all these were introduced at past fairs. It remained for the 1964-65 New York World's Fair to solve an urgent communication problem of today: how to keep fairgoers themselves informed of what's going on. No other fair in history has been able to turn the trick. It still won't be a snap to shepherd the kids across 640 toteming acres—but thanks to this innovation, it will be a lot easier than ever before.

Extra-Curricular Activities on Stage For WHS Parents

"How can anyone be worried about teen-agers when there are teen-agers like that?" asked Miss Ruth White of the high school English department as 40 high school students concluded their program for the annual Parent Faculty Association meeting held last Monday evening in the cafeteria.

The students had given a program entitled "Student Leaders and Their Activities" giving parents an opportunity to become more familiar with clubs and organizations at the school.

Peter Pontneau and Lance Grenzeback explained how students are elected to the National Honor Society and about its annual awards ceremony.

As past president of Student Council, Peter Fahy gave a report on the Council's functions at school, including the International Fellowship program and the committee for the study and development of an honor system being established at the high school. The Council also has raised $1400 this year for the Owens Scholarship.

More than 2500 books were collected this year for the new library at Ancebo, Puerto Rico," said Al Kimball as he told of the work of the high school Red Cross. As part of their service, members also assist at the bloodmobile and will shortly entertain underprivileged children at the Nickerson Home.

"Unlike other clubs represented here," said Bill Hopkins of the Math team, "We go out and fight!" Bill gave parents an inside view of the friendship and rivalries formed in the Greater Boston Math League in which the Winchester team has an active part.

Introduced by Diane Kittredge, five members of the Philosophy Club held an informal discussion such as is held at meetings during the year. The girls gave a spirited talk ranging from psychology to complexes to their views on Civil Rights.

Dressed in berets and accompanied by a trio of musical instruments, members of the French Club concluded the program with a group of lively French songs. Christine Cooper introduced the group, and Peter Nazaretian, speaking in French, introduced the songs. Alan Bugley, Peter Nazaretian and Patrick Hunt accompanied the singers, the latter playing a guitar solo.

After the student program, Robert F. Williams, president, conducted the annual meeting of the Parent Faculty Association. Mrs. John Hutzenlaub who served as acting president for three months this year, was elected president of the association for the coming year. Other officers and board members were: vice-president, John Shanahan; recording secretary, Mrs. Russell Strout; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas Kell; treasurer, Walter Soule; ways and means, Mr. and Mrs. Ganson Taggart; program, Mr. and Mrs. Rushton Harwood; social, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osgood; publicity, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Abbott; nominating, Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Robinson; room parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Larkin; membership, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith; member at large, Robert Williams; foreign student exchange program, Mrs. Miles Weaver; advisory council, Miles Weaver; member ex-officio, W. Howard Niblock.

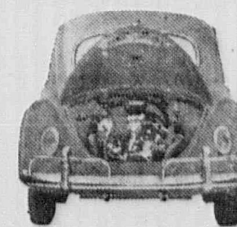

Following the meeting, Mrs. Joseph Castignetti and her committee served refreshments.

Little League Activity

CORRECTION

Last week's edition incorrectly listed the sponsor of the Wolves in the American League. This year's sponsor for the team is the Winchester Barber Shop at 34 Watersfield Road.

Last night the Dad's Club held the annual kick-off night for the Little League at the high school auditorium and it was both noisy and successful. Now that all the teams are complete and are all sporting their new caps, new jerseys, and new ideas the season is ready to begin.

Saturday, May 2, is opening day. At West Side Field the American Major League games will see the Cardinals opposing the Reds in the opener, and the Mets will tangle with the Braves for the second game. The National League will have two games at Ginn Field with the Yankees locking grips with the Dodgers in the first game and the Braves taking on the Red Sox for the second game.

This year an exhibition game has been scheduled at West Side with the Twins from the National League opposing the American League champions, the Athletics.

Minor league action is just as spirited with the Nationals playing two games at Ginn Field. The Bears hope to wear down the Tigers while the Braves are ready to chew at the Rams if they can. The two American League games will be played at West Side Field and the Badgers are not the least upset by the growls from the Wolves. In the second contest the Buffaloes hope to stomp on the Wildcats, but the 'Cats have their claws all sharpened and ready for the fray.

The action is all set up and ready. All that is needed is the spectators and a full day of baseball will be served up to all comers. Little League makes only one promise for the day, and that is complete enjoyment for everybody. Remember that the starting time is 1 p.m. for the first game, and a hearty welcome is offered to all.

A Big Help

LT. ERNEST HOWARD, of the Winchester Fire Department, received a citation of merit from Michael P. Baldino, district director of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc. Lt. Howard assisted in making the 1963 annual appeal for Muscular Dystrophy a great success. A great deal of thanks goes to Chief Amico and fellow members of the Winchester Fire Department who helped in the collection of Marcher envelopes at the Fire Station. Lt. Howard announced that over $2400 was raised and extends his thanks to the citizens of Winchester who contributed to the success of the drive. These funds will enable the Muscular Dystrophy Association to continue its program on research and patient care.

U. F. Spotlight
On Needs
Of People

Hundreds of lonely children need adoptive homes.

Families in increasing numbers need special counseling and community services to meet problems raised by urban renewal and highway relocation.

These are two of the serious unmet needs confronting the nearly 200 agencies participating in the United Fund of Greater Boston.

The agencies' limited budgets, together with continually rising expenses, make it difficult or in many cases impossible to meet the increased demand for their services triggered by population growth and movement.

Vast human problems continue in the wake of urban renewal and highway land taking. Since 1957, some 5,000 families have been forced to relocate, the majority of whom could least afford such a move.

United Fund agencies already have assisted in relocation problems, but sizable challenges lie ahead in the next 10 years in view of a forecast that 50,000 families will have to find new residences. These will include both low and middle income groups.

Although children's agencies, affiliated with the United Fund through United Community Services, supervised the placement in foster homes of more than 2,330 children in 1962, a poignant unmet need exists in regard to hundreds of children whose future would be brighter and happier by their placement in permanent adoptive homes.

More of these children should be situated in permanent adoptive homes, where they will grow into happy, well-adjusted people. However, the agencies' efforts are limited by inadequate funds for hiring sufficient trained staff to carry out the necessary preliminary investigations.

Efforts to cope with juvenile delinquency continue to place a heavy burden on United Fund Red Feather recreational agencies in spite of the fact that in last year 264,000 persons, including thousands of young people, participated in Red Feather recreational programs.

Pressing problems include insufficient manpower and a low salary scale that make it difficult to attract qualified workers. Replacement of equipment and repair of facilities also are much needed.

As one significant example, here are some of the problems facing the Roxbury Neighborhood House: 1) Lack of adequate public recreational facilities and programs; 2) lack of adequate services for delinquent youth; 3) school dropouts; 4) tensions within and between youth groups; 5) inadequate service in housing development neighborhoods; and 6) inadequate services for the aging. Despite the more than 100,000 boys and girls enrolled in YMCA's and YWCA's, these agencies report increasing requests for recreational assistance, particularly in the expanding suburban communities.

Additional giving would strengthen and expand the present limited services for the discharged mental patient who urgently needs rehabilitation for a satisfactory adjustment to community living.

A pressing situation exists within the Family Service Association of Greater Boston, where the group has been forced to discontinue its homemaker service in some areas. The homemaker service provides substitute mothers to care for families afflicted by illness, disaster, accidents or other emergencies.

Although United Fund campaign totals have been going up slowly but steadily each year, mounting agency expenses resulting from the general rise in living costs have not been met.

Is your young child having difficulty with his spelling? Ask about the pre-cut letters we have and make your own alphabet sets. Inexpensive enough to purchase several letters of one kind for sentence building. At the Winchester Star.

You & Your Teeth
A Note On Health

A visit to your dentist may not only lengthen the life of a tooth, it may lengthen your life.

When the dentist examines your mouth, he is looking for more than just decayed teeth. He is concerned with the general aspects of your oral tissues and your entire well-being. Part of his examination covers any suspicious lesions, any abnormal changes in the bone and oral structure patterns and other symptoms of disorders.

Children, as a rule, are not as susceptible to the many serious oral disorders as are adults, but early development of good dental habits and visiting the dentist regularly will help ensure early discovery of a disease when it can be treated before serious complications set in.

One major disorder your dentist is on the alert for is cancer. Oral cancer has a high rate of spreading with a low rate of survival. Eighty per cent of patients with neglected or untreated oral cancer die within 18 months after discovery. Therefore, early detection of oral cancer is essential for survival.

A new smear technique has been developed which is painless, simple but accurate and can be performed by any dental practitioner. The method involves taking smear samples, usually with a spatula-like instrument, from the suspected area of the patient's mouth and examining the cells to determine if they are malignant, a procedure similar to that of the Papanicolaou smear technique in screening for cancer of the uterus.

Oral cancer is not as prevalent as cancer of the lungs, breast, colon, and prostate, but oral cancer does have a lower five-year survival rate, and the number of oral cancer patients is increasing each year. In 1962, approximately 36,000 new cases were diagnosed, and 6,000 persons died of oral cancer.

In routine x-ray examinations, dentists have also discovered persons suffering from sometimes fatal systemic disorders. These x-rays show any abnormal change in the bone and oral structure patterns. Such changes could mean that the patient is suffering from a serious thyroid condition or Paget's disease. The dentist probably will recommend that the patient have an immediate complete physical examination.

Pleurisy, hypertension, leukemia and diabetes are a few of the other diseases that may be uncovered through oral examination.

EMRAC Elects Its 1964-65 Officers

New officers for the next year were elected at the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children's (EMARC) monthly meeting Wednesday, April 22, held at Reading. The group includes many Winchester members.

Elected were Robert Belbin of Reading, president; Ralph Hudson of North Reading, 1st vice president; Richard Gilgan of Woburn, 2nd vice president; Arthur Wright of Stoneham, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Linn of Woburn, recording secretary; Mrs. Anthony Rausseo of Lynnfield, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Samuel Knowlton of Wakefield, financial secretary and Mrs. Thomas Burke of Wakefield, as trustee for two years.

The Activities Club held a Hootenanny Monday night, April 20. Tom Clogston, of 36 Forest Street, was one of three young men who planned the whole evening's entertainment, which was a smashing success. Folk singers, Pat and Rick Janey of Saugus, entertained the group with a number of songs and led the audience in a real old fashioned sing-a-long.

Members were reminded to attend the MARC Convention which will be held May 15-17 at Magnolia Manor, Magnolia. Very interesting workshops have been planned.

Moses Frankel of Wakefield, a prominent lawyer, a member of EMARC and 1st vice president of MARC, spoke on "Wills and Trusts at the meeting."

Winchester Young Republicans On Civil Rights

Civil Rights will be the topic for discussion tomorrow night at the monthly meeting of the Young GOP.

With the Civil Rights bill the biggest legislative battle of the year, its merits and implications should be better understood by all of us.

Is discrimination a moral or a legal problem? If moral, can morality be effectively legislated by a body so divorced from the source of wrong? Does one man's demand to be accepted in a neighborhood infringe upon the right of another to choose his own neighbors?

Attorney J. Laurence McCarthy of Waltham, will present the most controversial segments of the Civil Rights bill, and an open discussion will follow.

The meeting is open to the public, especially those from 16 to 37 years. If your conscience has been hurting and you want to take a bigger part in politics, or if you want to associate with other stimulating people, plan to attend. The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Wilson, 42 Thornberry Road, at 8 p.m.

New Hope Concert Is Musical And Financial Success

The parishioners of the New Hope Baptist Church gave to Winchester an evening of fine music, gratefully received, last Friday when they brought to the high school auditorium the Morehouse College Glee Club of Atlanta, Georgia singing under Wendell Whalum, director.

In addition the concert, sponsored as a church benefit, was a financial success for the church. Mrs. Alice S. Baker, clerk, has announced a business meeting of church members to be held tomorrow night, Friday, May 1, at 7:30 p.m. sharp, when reports will be made to the parish. Church members are reminded of the extreme importance of their presence at this meeting.

The young men from Atlanta (and one exchange student from Bowdoin College in Maine) sang with spirit, discipline and quality throughout a program which took them from the opening a cappella numbers of 15th and 16th century church hymns through a Handel baritone solo and the Gloria from the Liszt Mass in C Minor.

Later parts of the program included a light comic music sequence by the variety quartet, songs by Stravinsky and Bartok, works by Thompson and Mead. They concluded with folk music and spirituals.

Of much interest to the audience was the moment when director Whalum interrupted the program to have club members introduce themselves and tell of their academic majors and minors. At the end he pointed out many fellowship winners, including two recent Woodrow Wilson Fellows.

The Reverend Benjamin Berry, who himself joined the chorus for one number, and his entertaining committee wish to thank everyone that helped to make the concert a success. It also wishes to add the following names to the patron list, not included in the concert program:

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Albee
Mr. and Mrs. George Beal
Mrs. James Chaffee
Mr. and Mrs. Ellis J. Green
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Hill
Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hritzay
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keeton
Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. King
Miss Lucy Kirby
Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Leaf

Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Padel
Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Rozelle, Jr.
Mrs. Marie Scott
Mr. and Mrs. William Spaulding
Mrs. Thomas Weeks
Mrs. John B. Wills
The group has also received a contribution in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Barksdale from Mrs. Martha Merrell.

Worship In Motion

MEMBERS OF THE MOTION CHOIR at the Unitarian Church will be among the groups to perform here Sunday afternoon when that church hosts a spring festival of junior religious arts sponsored by the Junior Choir Committee of the Massachusetts Bay District of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

May 8 Will See Lynch "Talents On Display"

The creative work of students throughout the Lynch Junior High School, be it scientific, musical, domestic, artistic, dramatic or that demonstrating technical craft skills will be before the public on the evening of Friday, May 8, when the school presents "Talent on Display."

Initiating the idea of combining these exhibits and performances to include only the selected best encompassed in one evening's presentation, the administration and faculty at Lynch have this year planned that they be given in conjunction with the regular annual meeting of the Lynch Parents' Association. That group will open the evening with brief business and a short talk by Wade L. Grindle, of 20 Mason Street, former WHS principal.

Subsequently, directed and prepared with the guidance of a large number of Lynch School faculty members, will come a one act play, "Enter Juliet," individual musical performances, both instrumental and vocal; and a science fair, home economics display and art and shop work exhibits in the library, home ec rooms and gymnasium respectively.

Students and teachers have been pointing to this important date for some time.

Maxwell Elected Asst. Treasurer

W. Donald Maxwell of 10 Eaton Street, was elected an assistant treasurer at the annual meeting of the Winchester Savings Bank held at the Winchester Country Club on April 22.

Religious Arts Spring Festival Here on Sunday

A Spring Festival of junior religious arts will be held on Sunday, May 3, at 4 p.m. at the Winchester Unitarian Church. The public is invited.

This festival is one of five organized in eastern Massachusetts by the Junior Choir Committee of the Massachusetts Bay District of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

Junior Choirs participating will come from Arlington, Bedford, Lexington and Melrose as well as from the host church. Also included will be the Young People's Choir of the Lexington parish. Conductors of the combined choirs will be Mr. Philip Young of Malden.

Motion Choirs taking part will be from Arlington, Bedford, Lexington and Melrose as well as from the host church. Also included will be the Young People's Choir of the Lexington parish. Conductors of the combined choirs will be Mr. Philip Young of Malden.

The festivals this May are the first in this area. Co-chairman of the Junior Choir committee are Mrs. Theodore A. Webb and George A. Blair, Jr. Mr. Blair is chairman of the local festival as well as director of the Junior Choir in Winchester. An exhibit of art work by the young people will be featured in the Symmes Room after the concert. Works by Shaw, Bortniansky, K. K. Davis, Mozart, Holst-Blair and a May Day Carol arranged by John Woodworth, organist and choir director of the Arlington Street Church in Boston.

Study Aids—English, American History, Arithmetic, Social Studies, Latin, French, Algebra, English and German. Prepared class notes. Elementary, Junior High and High School. At the Winchester Star.

Byzantine Rite Liturgy at Immaculate Saturday Morning

A Byzantine Rite Liturgy will be celebrated by the Rev. Austin P. Mohrbacher of Fordham University at the Immaculate Conception Church on Saturday, May 2, at 11 a.m., sponsored by the Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus.

He will be assisted by his traveling choir, singing responses in four-part unaccompanied chant. The Liturgy will be entirely in English, and while similar to the Latin Rite in many respects, has far more communication between people and priest. Communion will be under both species of leavened bread and wine.

Father Mohrbacher was born in the Latin Rite, but became interested in helping the persecuted Russian Church and obtained permission to study for the Byzantine Rite priesthood. He was ordained in Rome after studying theology in Russian at the Pontifical Russian College.

For a time Father Mohrbacher lived in refugee camps with Russians who fled the Soviet Union. In 1959 and 1961 he made three trips to the U. S. S. R. and on the last one, he was detained for six hours under the suspicion of being a political agitator. He has also studied the conditions of Christians in Moslem countries.

Marycliff Art Places High At Archdiocesan Fair

Marycliff Academy students were among the winners of the 12th Annual School Art Fair sponsored by the Archdiocese of Boston; and their work will be exhibited at McHugh Forum, Boston College, Friday, May 1, through Sunday, May 3.

Among thirteen Marycliff first-prize winners were five from Winchester, Christina Brigham, Jean DeConto, Kathleen Lucey, Francis Cafarella and Nancy Keleher. These students will receive their awards at a special ceremony on Sunday afternoon.

Among 13 second-prize winners were two Winchester girls, Ursula Keleher (3 prizes) and Cheryl Beis; and among the honorable mentions is Ann Rubser.

The work exhibited at this art fair is representative of the total effort in the diocese and at Marycliff in fostering the fine arts.

Snow White And Woodland Creatures

MYSTIC SCHOOL FIRST GRADERS have been receiving letters and phone calls of compliment since their eye-catching and heartwarming performance of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" just before vacation. Shown is Wendy Capobianco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Capobianco of 33 Hollywood Road, who played Snow White, and members of the cast playing the animals of the woods. The class presented the play under the direction of their teacher, Catherine Stroh.

Masonic Sunday At Crawford Memorial Church

This Sunday will be observed as Masonic Sunday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Members of both William Parkman Lodge and Mystic Valley Lodge will attend the morning worship service at 11 o'clock. Attendance at this service will also be a part of the centennial celebration of William Parkman Lodge, which was chartered in 1864.

The sermon will be by the pastor of the host church, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, whose subject will be "Three Gates." Music will be by the vested sanctuary choir under the direction of Mrs. Gloria Maifeld and with Mrs. Julie Collins at the organ.

The Rev. Mr. Clay has been chaplain of Mystic Valley Lodge since coming to Winchester six years ago, and is also chaplain of Revere Lodge, Boston. He is a member of both the Scottish Rite and York Rite Bodies and also of Aleppo Temple Shrine of Boston.

Chadwick Says He Supports Peabody Mass Transit Bill With Amendments

REPRESENTATIVE SAYS TOWN, STATE, AREA NEED SERVICE

"Winchester is intimately involved in the metropolitan problem of finding some way of transporting large numbers of people freely to and from schools, to and from work, to and from hospitals, to and from shopping, and to and from entertainment in the core city other than on the roads," Representative Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue told the Winchester Rotary Club at a luncheon meeting last Thursday in discussing his views on Governor Peabody's proposed Transportation Bill to the General Court.

"We (the state) can't build highways fast enough to take care of the number of rubber tired vehicles that would be required to do the job," he asserted, "and even if we could it is not the most desirable answer for the reasons that new highways mean expensive landtakings, dislocation of households and businesses, a shrinking of the tax base in communities, and encourages more vehicles to go into Boston — thereby creating more off street parking problems."

"We are deeply involved in the total solution," Rep. Chadwick said, "because we are enmeshed in the metropolitan area and we can't escape it; and we will have to take a position on what we want done."

Rep. Chadwick said he enthusiastically supported Governor Peabody's transportation message to the Legislature, and even though he would like to see some amendments made to refine it and make it more palatable to the communities affected, "Nevertheless," he said, "the package is a good plan, and I intend to vote for it as the long awaited solution."

Rep. Chadwick pointed out that although the plan offered by the Governor was comprehensive and a workable solution, it basically stems from a study that was made way back in 1945 by the Coolidge Report. He inferred that the ideas of that earliest study have all proven either true or have been reaffirmed by every study group since then, and that it was about time some of the recommendations made at that time were followed.

The town's representative noted that the railroads serving the Commonwealth are in financial trouble, and both the Boston and Maine and the New Haven Railroads have filed with the State Department of Public Utilities to discontinue all passenger service — and if they don't get permission they will appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission and get that allowance to prevent their going bankrupt.

The bus companies, he added, are not in any better shape to continue public transportation to and from Boston.

"Therefore," he said, "we'll be a residential community without any public transportation to and from Boston — unless something is done, and we're at that crisis point now."

There are members of both political parties, Rep. Chadwick noted with regret, that will attempt to shoot the Governor's proposal down. But these are not people who are first and foremost considering the interests of the Commonwealth.

Rep. Chadwick divided the subject matter of the bill into three

ONE-TIME SHOWPLACE AND WINCHESTER LANDMARK DESTROYED BY FIRE. The former Pond Estate dwelling at the top of the small hillock overlooking Cambridge and High Streets was gutted by a three-alarm blaze late Saturday afternoon. Off-duty firefighters, call men and auxiliary responded on the second alarm, with additional assistance from Woburn, Arlington, Medford and Stoneham mutual aid fire departments. Several firefighters suffered smoke inhalation and were treated at the scene; no injuries were reported. Damage was estimated at approximately $75,000.

Art Plays Part In Hospital's Care Of Patient

From the simple idea of giving the patients of the Winchester Hospital something more to look at than plain walls, the project of the "Great Art Prints" was born here.

This idea was presented to the Friends of the Winchester Hospital in 1963. Since that time, with the cooperation of the Friends under the enthusiastic guidance of Mrs. Roger Crandell, president, and Reese James, hospital administrator, the financial burden of the Great Art Project was shared and has since taken shape.

A group of art-minded Winchester women has given generously of their time in an effort to provide virtually every room of the hospital with at least one framed art print.

Mrs. Donald Van Roosen is chairman of the project. She is ably helped by Mrs. Richard Bannister, Mrs. Gerald Wright, Mrs. Byron Stites, and Mrs. E. T. Blanch.

The whole concept of "Art in the Hospital" is a comparatively new innovation. Up until recent years the cure of a patient was thought of in an entirely clinical sense. But, with the advent of psychology there arose the realization that arts could play an important part in the cure of the patient.

A happy pastoral scene, a beautiful still life, a thought provoking modern abstract could indeed bring a patient out of himself and thereby allow room for mental and physical improvement.

Until now the only hospital in the Greater Boston area to use this art therapy is the Massachusetts General Hospital. The Friends are proud to think that they are helping to pioneer this happy concept.

Computers - Winchester To Cambridge To Winchester

Some four young women and 26 young men students at the Winchester High School have been turning up at the school every Saturday for the past two months at 10 a.m. to spend two (and often more) hours in an extra-curricular course on "Computers."

Teaching them is Joseph De Natale of 3 Stratford Road, chief of the section of digital programming at the Avco Corporation in Burlington.

The students come on their own. There is no one to urge them or record attendance, there is no credit. Mr. De Natale gives the time out of his own interest. There is no recompense for him. When asked to whom the school and students were indebted for the gift of his time he said quickly, "Thank Mr. De Natale." As a father of six he speaks with meaning.

Winchester had a part in the invention of computers. A history of the computer movement detailed in the April 18 "New Yorker" magazine lists Professor Howard Aiken of Harvard, a former resident, as a contender along with Vannevar Bush and Norbert Wiener of MIT, in the debate as to which - Harvard or MIT - deserves most credit for originating computers.

An increasing number of educational and/or business computer scientists are living here, reflecting the growth of the area computer development in the past five to ten years. Professor Philip Morse of 126 Wildwood, for example, is in charge of the electronic computation facilities at MIT. He serves the School Department as a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Secondary School-College Relations. Others include Thomas Cheatham of 1 Ardley Place, president of Computer Associates in Wakefield, and Philip Hankins of 59 Thornberry Road, president of Hankins Associates in Arlington. There are many more from such organizations as Lincoln Lab and Mitre, as well as Avco.

John J. Walte, Jr., of 44 Winford Way, head of the Math Department at WHS, who is attending the Saturday course along with the students, reports that the course evolved from conversations between himself and Mr. De Natale and that when the word went around the High School 40 juniors and seniors signed up right away. Subsequently the start of the track and baseball seasons cut the group down to just under 30.

"It is remarkable that so many of the young students chose to give up their precious Saturday time for this informal course" is what Mr. De Natale has to say of the group.

He began by teaching them the history and basic math for computers.

Macefield Craft On International Gift

President Johnson presented a camera to King Hussein during his recent visit to Washington, but it was not as simple as that. Interesting complications developed with a flurry of letters, air planes, telephones, and taxis that involved a Winchester shop.

Macefield Jewellers of 10 Winchester Place had a call from a famous camera house in Cambridge inquiring about making a plaque of 14 K gold for an engraving to be attached to the case. No, it couldn't be thin gold, it had to be nice and thick.

Neither Macefield nor all of Boston had enough suitable gold on hand so a messenger from Cambridge made a round trip flight to New York to obtain a sheet about 13" x 4" x 1/16". Notice the precautions taken to insure that there would be no possible chance of delay or error in preparing this gift. A second piece of gold was sent along in case of emergency and two more were delivered to a top Boston shop with identical instructions.

For delayed the flight landing for hours so a taxi from the airport arrived with gold while another from Cambridge came with the case and instructions. It was no easy task and its purpose, although exciting, added an anxiety to the job. The gold had to be curved to fit and had to be attached somehow.

The method Macefield used was five rivets of silver over gold washers. The engraving had to be exactly as shown on a photostat. Roman letters were required which are difficult enough on silver but white gold is so tough to carve that Mark Allen exerted all the skill at his command to do a superb job.

The finished work was called for and whisked away for inspection and comparison with the Boston job. Macefield's was chosen as the outstanding one, returned once more to Winchester to be fixed permanently to the camera, and the already well traveled gift was on its way to Washington with the

Miss Jurgenson, Noonan Principal, Ends Career Here

The resignation of Miss Minnetta Jurgenson, the principal of the Noonan School, was accepted with regret by the School Committee last week, which stated also that it will announce the appointment of her successor in the very near future.

According to Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, "Miss Jurgenson has served the Winchester schools for 38 years and in that time given generously of herself to pupils and teachers alike. Having reached retirement age she has turned in her resignation which we have accepted," he said, "with a sense of loss and with much gratitude to her."

Although a teacher here since 1926, Miss Jurgenson has been principal at Noonan only since 1956. She was known longest and widest in the Mystic School area where she taught for 28 years in the fourth grade before coming to Noonan as head teacher in 1954.

School Problems, Guides For Finding Some Answers

THE MARSHALL REPORT - PART IV

To look at growing enrollments, to assess the quality and capacity of Winchester's educational plant facilities, and to stress the essential relationship between school plant and school program, is not to state the problem; yet these things are prerequisite to stating it. Winchester's school plant problem has several facets:

1. Existing school plant facilities are inadequate, both in capacity for today's enrollment and in serviceability to today's educational program.
2. School enrollment is growing at every level.
3. New facilities must encourage program improvement, rather than freeze education forever into today's mold.

How shall the right answer be recognized when it appears? Three simple criteria are here advanced that may be used as yardsticks by which to measure and compare alternative proposals that are bound to be offered: they are educational adequacy, economy, and long-range soundness. Let us examine each.

Educational adequacy reminds us that, after all, the purpose of a school is teaching and learning; it must provide both quantity and quality — enough space, and the right kind of space. Looking to the year 1972, the right answer will provide space for 3000 pupils in the elementary grades (K-6) and for about 2900 in grades 7-12. Here are some further aspects of educational adequacy, to be met if possible by the "right" answer to Winchester's school problem:

1. Pattern of grade organization: Winchester's present pattern of grade organization is K-6-3-3. The National Education Association, reporting in November, 1963, on grade organization in 344 school systems, found 71 per cent had an 8-4 pattern and six per cent a 6-2-4 pattern. The NEA study simply

Personnel Board, Department Heads Meet Consultant

Approximately 30 town department heads and town board members appeared at the Personnel Board's orientation meeting Monday night with a representative from Charles M. Evans & Associates of Boston, the consultant hired by the board to make an independent audit of the town's wage and salary structure and its premises of operation.

The meeting, held in the East Room of the Town Hall from 8:15 to 10:15, "was successful in its purpose to acquaint department heads with the goals and procedures of the Evans survey," Robert Sands, chairman of the Personnel Board, said on Tuesday.

After receiving many suggestions for methods of conducting the survey from department heads in attendance, the Personnel Board finally decided that Mr. Evans should meet with the town's clerical workers, including School Department personnel, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Town Hall East Room, meet with the town's labor and custodial workers in the Town Hall auditorium at 3:30 this afternoon, and at 8 p.m. tomorrow evening at the Fire House with protective department personnel to acquaint all the town's employees with the reasons for the survey, the way it will be conducted and what it will accomplish.

The Personnel Board then plans to send out individual questionnaires, or job description sheets, to all town employees in their pay check envelopes next week.

Charles Evans emphasized in the meeting with department heads and the Personnel Board on Monday night that the survey "will evaluate jobs—not individuals." He pointed out that evaluating individual performance in jobs was "an administrative task for administrators."

Three Alarm Blaze Guts $75,000 Pond Estates Dwelling On Saturday

Heaviest Local Fire Loss Since '59 Tannery Conflagration; No Injuries Reported, Four Neighboring Towns Also Respond

The 23-room Pond Estate dwelling at 102 Cambridge Street was gutted by billowing flames in a general alarm fire late Saturday afternoon. The large, one-time show place home overlooking Cambridge and High Streets was almost entirely destroyed by the quick burning conflagration that required the efforts of the entire Winchester Fire Department, call men and auxiliary, and Arlington, Woburn, Medford and Stoneham firefighters and equipment that responded under the mutual fire aid program, to stop the total destruction of the building and prevent the fire from spreading to other nearby residences.

Although the frame stands and the sides of the house appear to be only nominally damaged, the building was considered a total loss with the entire central interior burned to mere charred remains. There are no official estimates on the property loss value; but the home, maintained at a peak excellence, easily would have been a $75,000 loss.

The residence fire was the largest property loss in the town in over six years, the last big general alarm fire being the conflagration at the Beggs and Cobb leather tannery in 1959. The Pond Estate dwelling was unoccupied at the time of the fire as it was in the process of changing ownership title. There were no serious injuries reported in fighting the fire; although several firefighters were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation, one was struck and bruised by a falling timber, and many received minor cuts and abrasions.

Housebreak, Car Chase, Accident, Fire Busy Police

The Police Department was kept busy this past week with another housebreak, a stolen car and hit-and-run car chases, several accidents, and the big fire at the Pond Estate dwelling on Saturday.

On Wednesday, April 29, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ashenden of 99 Pond Street reported the breaking and entering of their home by some unknown person or persons during the day while they were at work. Officers John Reardon, Angelo Amico and Alfred Poole went to the Ashenden home to investigate. Entrance had been gained by first trying to pry a side door lock with a small instrument, and then finally the door was forced open, breaking the door casing by the lock.

A desk in the living room was ransacked, and an upstairs bedroom desk and bureau were ransacked. Also, a small money container was broken, and an unknown amount of small change was taken. Nothing else seemed to be disturbed.

In checking the neighborhood to see if anyone had seen strangers in the area, police discovered that one resident had been sitting in her living room looking toward the home with company all afternoon and had not seen anyone around it.

At 1:40 a.m. on Thursday, April 30, Winchester Police were notified by Sgt. Jordan of the Medford Police Department that one of their patrol cars was chasing a small compact vehicle up Route 38 towards Winchester.

Officers Alfred Poole and Frank Tranchita in patrol car 51 were near the Winchester-Woburn line on Main Street. They saw the fleeing vehicle come out of Cross Street onto Main Street and go south on Main Street and turn into Sheridan Circle. They joined the Medford cruiser in pursuing it. At the end of Sheridan Circle the operator of the car tried to make a

At 4:45 on Saturday afternoon the Winchester Fire Department received a call from Mrs. Steles Pizaris of 16 High Street that a house on the corner of Cambridge and High Streets was afire. Alarm 57 was sounded from the Station, and Engines 3 and 4, the Ladder Truck and the Rescue Truck responded, with Lt. Walter J. Carroll in charge.

On arriving at the fire, Lt. Carroll saw that the house was really burning furiously, and he raced back to sound a second alarm.

En Ka "Country Fair" At Manchester Field

"Meet me in Winchester, Chester, meet me at the fair," The En Ka Society's 30th annual Street Fair, that is! The month of May means many things to many people, but to people here in Winchester it means a sure-fire, fun-packed week-end on Friday, May 22, from 6 to 11 p.m., and Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

For a second year in a row the tents will go up on Manchester Field. Remember last year when the Town Hall tower problem forced us to move suddenly? With all the people of Winchester being so co-operative, the fair was a huge success and we decided to go back to Manchester Field again. The additional space enables us to bring more and more to you — the Winchester folk.

The fair, this year, is to be a real Old-Fashioned Country Fair with all the fixings. Our capable chairman, Mrs. William Kimball, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Lyle Longworth, have gone far afield to assure a genuine country flavor to this year's fair.

Attention all you Grandmas and Grandpas! This year's parade is being led by a real old calloope—bringing the youngsters along and show them how it used to be in the days before the Beatles! This nostalgic music-maker will lend a gay atmosphere to the fair grounds all day Saturday.

The midway will be bigger and better than ever; a new game has been added and the greatest stomach-tickler of them all: a roller coaster, plus the two big ferris wheels; the whirling scrambler, and the tilt-a-whirl.

Ernest Franklin Seller

Ernest Franklin Seller of 21 Braemore Road, Natick, a former resident of Winchester and brother of Mrs. Olive Seller Wilkins of this town, died Wednesday, April 29, at the Leonard Morse Hospital in Natick after a long illness.

Mr. Seller was the son of Herbert B. and Lulu A. (Jones) Seller, his father having been well known through his long association with the former old line Seller's Market on Washington Street.

He was born August 27, 1908, in Somerville, but came to Winchester as a child, attended the Winchester schools and graduated from Winchester High School in the class of 1927.

He then attended the Coast Guard Academy for a time, and then was graduated from Bryant & Stratton College. He had been for the past ten years a machinist associated with the Arch Gear Works Inc., in Quincy. He was a member and active in the Fiske Memorial Methodist Church of Natick and had been a member while in Winchester of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Mr. Seller leaves besides his sister, Mrs. Wilkins, his wife, Mrs. Marcia (Kenney) Seller, a daughter, Mrs. Barry Anderson of Niagara Falls, New York; and a son, Deane H. Seller of Natick.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Loker Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Dr. Likins, pastor of the Fiske Memorial Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery where the committal prayers were read by the Rev. H. Newton Clay, pastor of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Miss Lucy E. Bacon

Miss Lucy Elizabeth Bacon, who lived in Jamaica Plain and died on April 28 at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was a former resident of Winchester, making her home at 2 Bushcliff Road. She was a devoted, active member of the Church of the Epiphany.

Her years of teaching in Brookline and Jamaica Plain made her many friends among pupils and parents, and she was greatly beloved by all who came within the scope of her influence. She was a member of St. Paul's Church, under three rectors.

At the age of 94, she was the last of her generation. Three of her brothers attained distinction as architects. Henry designed the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C., Frank's outstanding work was the shrine for our Constitution in the Library of Congress, and James did the terminal for the Canadian Pacific Railroad in Prince Rupert, Canada.

Services were held at St. Paul's Church on May 1, with the Rev. Murray W. Dewart, Jr., and Bishop Frederick Lawrence officiating.

Report

reports practice: there is no firm evidence that one pattern of organization is in itself superior to any other one. The "right" answer for Winchester can alter the grade organization if there is strong reason for doing so; such reason is more likely to be concerned with economy than with educational advantages.

2. Articulation throughout the grades: Various observers have sensed awkward artificial breaks in the smooth progress from kindergarten through grade twelve. No one suggests a K-12 school to overcome this; yet there is no doubt that the continuum should be maintained as smoothly as possible. This, however, is not a school building question; good articulation through the grades (and especially between junior high and senior high school) can be had or lost under any pattern of grade organization, or even in the same building. Curriculum leadership, selection of strong department heads for a whole subject area, and time assigned for instructional leadership — these are at least partial answers.

3. School size: If there is a "best" school size or range of sizes, Winchester probably falls within it on the secondary level with a single senior high school and two junior high schools, as at present. For elementary schools that cover grades K through 6, at least two classes per grade are desirable, to permit logical grouping of pupils and to help use special staff members and special instructional spaces effectively.

4. School location: Winchester's elementary schools are well located, in that they serve all developed areas of town equally well. Secondary schools are not so well located, with the senior high and one junior high within two blocks of the town's busiest center.

5. Improving the educational program: despite crowding and inadequacies of plant, much exciting instruction is going on at every level in Winchester. Needed new schools will encourage this and extend it, not only by providing new spaces especially designed for improved instructional practices, but also by relieving at the existing schools space that can be adapted to new needs.

Economy is the second criterion by which to measure any proposal for action on school needs. Note that it follows educational adequacy: no matter how economical, an answer that doesn't meet educational needs is not really an answer. Here are some aspects of economy:

1. Existing buildings must be used in a way that gets the most educational return out of each. The 60-year-old McCall, for example, might by now be scheduled for honorable retirement, but for some $600,000 spent in 1955 to face-lift it. Notoriously unsuitable for elementary school purposes because of its location, site, and inflexibility, it presents a very real problem. So indeed does the senior high school, with its inadequate site, its "five-story" plan, and its poor circulation both vertical and horizontal.

Yet these two buildings, at 500 and 900 capacity respectively, represent a replacement cost in the neighborhood of $3.5 million; the criterion of economy says they must be utilized.

2. The number of separate construction projects should be minimized, to save paying extra overhead costs to contractors. It costs considerably more, for example, to build part of a building and then add it to twice, than it costs to build it all at once—assuming that, even by transporting pupils, use can be made of the building.

3. School construction costs are not the big costs of education. Most people don't realize that, by the time a new school building is six years old, the town has paid more in the current budget to operate the school than was paid to construct it. True economy, then, may relate to the adequacy with which the school serves education over the years; the ease with which it can be altered to meet new needs; and the ongoing costs of heating and lighting, operating and maintaining it for generations to come.

Long-Range Soundness, third of the proposed criteria for judging the suitability of any proposed solution, is a look at each proposal from the vantage point of tomorrow. Experience has shown — indeed, experience in Winchester has shown — that a proposal can be educationally adequate for today, and economical for today, and yet be costly and unsound. Here are some aspects of long-range soundness that it will pay to consider:

1. Select adequate sites. Few of us really believe that the school of tomorrow will use the out-of-doors less than it does today.

2. Design buildings that can be added to, easily, economically, and without undue disturbance to the ongoing educational program. Even if the long-range plan for today says we'll never add to the building—still, design it so we can.

3. Plan to facilitate internal change in the size and use of the space. Change is the surest thing in education. Communities like Winchester are in the forefront of change and educational innovation. Will the building welcome and accommodate desirable educational change? or will it freeze education forever in the mold of the 1960's?

The Children, The Taxpayers, and the Future

The three criteria here proposed—educational adequacy, economy, and long-range soundness—will help the citizens of Winchester evaluate, not only the long-range plan proposed herein, but the alternative proposals that will inevitably be presented. Educational adequacy protects the children by demanding that school needs be met as to both quantity and quality. Economy protects the taxpayer by seeing that they get their money's worth, both in facilities purchased from the capital budget and in the ongoing cost of operating the schools. Long-range soundness looks to the future and sees that both school buildings and school dollars are well placed.

Computers

ters, has taken them to the computer section at his place of business, the Avco Research and Development Company, specialists in aerospace developments and particularly instrumentation and vehicles for return from space, for both military and peaceful use. They have now learned to "program," or prepare their data for the processing machine and are expecting to return to Avco this Saturday to process some of their results.

Although only four to six girls are in the course, Mr. De Natale assures that there will be more, that work with computers plays no favorites with the sexes. "We hire as many women as men in my department and they make fine programmers," he says, reiterating that the field ahead is wide for both men and women. However, he sees a continuation of the requirement of a high level of mathematical knowledge and ability, although opportunities in the computer maintenance field will increase for technicians.

Mr. De Natale is one of seven members of the Educational Committee of the Greater Boston Chapter of the Association for Computer Machinery, and it is in this capacity that he is especially active in increasing education in computer mathematics. Mr. Waite reminds us that the study of the binary and octal systems, factors in computer math, are already introduced to Winchester students through the new mathematics program. He would, however, like to see straight computer course within the WHS curriculum. Lewis E. Knight, of the High School math department was one of a group of secondary teachers who last year were given a 16 week, three and one half course in computer math at Minneapolis Honeywell, computer manufacturers, on Route 128.

The broadening scope of the use of the computer in higher education and scholarship is detailed by Christopher Rand in his New Yorker article (one of three on the "Renaissance in Cambridge, Massachusetts.")

"The scholars are teamed up with the computers rather as Erasmus was teamed up with the printing press," says Mr. Rand, "with the computers' help they are studying things on a scale not dreamed of in the past..." In addition to the more expected work in the "hard" sciences - physics, mathematics and their use in medicine, he describes some of the astonishing research being done on computers in linguistics, political science, psychology and even a long study of irrigation in Pakistan.

Norton Demsey, coordinator of data processing for the schools here, reports that the use of the computer for attendance, scheduling, grading, etc., will be increased and expedited with the opening next week of a new computer center for the New England Education Data Systems (NEEDS) on Fresh Pond Parkway, Cambridge.

The center is a gift to NEEDS of the Ford Foundation; the School Department has been affiliated with NEEDS since its inception. The students enrolled in Mr. De Natale's class have felt their enthusiasm increase as their knowledge has brought to them the potential of work with computers, most particularly some of Mr. De Natale's examples of work done right at Avco.

They have all been introduced to one of the most exciting developments on the modern scene and feel this an excellent use of "precious" Saturday time.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Neighboring Arlington has started a new program for High School graduates under the name Arlington Technical Institute which teaches data processing. Exams will be held this Saturday, May 9, at 9 a.m. at the Arlington High School for admission to next September's class. Under state law Massachusetts residents are eligible for admission free of charge, with tuition being paid by the town in which the student lives. Further information may be obtained from the Arlington School Department.)

D. A. R. Installs New Officers

The annual meeting and luncheon of the Committee of Safety Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held Monday, April 27 at the Lord Wakefield Motor Inn.

Following the luncheon a short business meeting was held with Mrs. Charles O. Nichols presiding. Annual reports were given by Mrs. Rony Snyder, recording secretary, Mrs. Harold Twombly, chapter treasurer, and Mrs. Harry D. Locke corresponding secretary. Mrs. William C. Cusack was then asked to speak and she gave an exciting and most informative account of her attendance as the chapter's delegate to the 1964 Continental Conference held in Washington, D. C. Next on the agenda Mrs. William W. Goodhue, chairman of the nominating committee reported the nominations of Mrs. William C. Cusack for regent for the coming year, and Mrs. Michael Macdonald as vice-regent. Following their elections Mrs. Herbert Darling, chapter chaplain, installed Mrs. Cusack and Mrs. Macdonald. At the conclusion of the installations the meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Cusack.

Many Problems Beset Fire Department: Some Citizens Endanger The Community

Last Saturday the Winchester Fire Department gave an extremely good accounting of itself as an organized protective department, and the good training and determined efforts of each and every firefighter—both on and off duty regulars, and the call men and auxiliary men—was magnificently displayed when they were able to contain and beat down the Pond Estate dwelling fire that Chief Amico described on first seeing the blaze as a hopeless loss.

Marring a glorious Saturday, later that evening someone lacking any sense of responsibility deliberately damaged the outer case and destroyed the interior workings of Fire Box Alarm No. 541 at Wildwood Street and Woodside Road. It is not enough to say that public property was intentionally vandalized, for there is more involved. Supposing there had been another fire in town that night—where that particular box might have been needed to turn an alarm in to save property and maybe lives? The town property loss of some $300 was needless, but the potential endangering of many area residents' properties and lives was of greater and even fearful consequence.

The destruction of the fire alarm box was not an isolated incident, either. Just in the past week the Fire Department has been plagued by many false alarms rung in from fire alarm boxes. In addition, there have been about five or six deliberately set fires in back of the Irving Street area, and several more on town property.

The destroying of the alarm box, the deliberately setting of fires, the false alarms sent in, all of these are more than just harassments to the town's excellent fire protection force, they are deliberate acts on the part of some person or group that actually endanger the lives and property of the townspeople. They are acts which if found guilty on, the culprit could be fined up to five hundred dollars and sentenced to prison for up to two years, or both, under the law, because the state recognizes the peril to cities and towns by these acts by dangerous unthinking individuals.

The Initiative Petition: The Legislature's Betrayal

To some, the Legislature's repeal of H.3000, the bill to repeal most of the statutory powers of the Executive Council, was an undesired but expected foregone conclusion. Although many representatives and senators were strongly in favor of the bill's passage, including Winchester's own representatives Harrison Chadwick; nevertheless, political observers saw that many of the more politically ambitious legislators would not wish to kill their own racket—their patronizing executive branch power.

Some of these legislators even openly rationalized their position by saying that the three groups initiating the petition to curtail excessive and debilitating Executive Council powers, the League of Women Voters, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers, were "just pressure groups making a noise in an otherwise smooth operative function of the state government." Of course, nothing could be further from the truth. While it might be true that by their existence these organizations are indirectly a form of pressure group through their studies of government and publicized recommendations from time to time; nevertheless, this is the first instance that these three large groups of ordinary citizens pursuing active interest in a properly managed state government have gotten together and directly sought to correct a situation that has been long overlooked and that needs correcting.

An interesting thing about this particular initiative petition is the fact that it obtained 125,000 signatures in a rather quick time, and that that number of signatures was the highest ever recorded on any initiative petition in the Commonwealth's history and double the number needed to make the Legislature consider the matter. Might it not appear, then, that a large number of legislators truly betrayed the "public interest" as it was reflected in the real wishes of the people when they voted down a measure that the people so clearly wanted?

As a matter of local interest, one state Jaycee official said that Winchester's part of the petition was among the earliest gathered and turned in, and the town had a very high percentage of its voters signing it—one of the highest voter responses in the state!

To see its way on the November election ballot as a referendum question to the general electorate, the initiative petition now needs an additional 11,000 signatures by July 1. When the petition is circulated again in this area, anyone who did not get a chance to sign it before, and who believes in a strong efficient state government, should happily sign it and show those legislators who chose to go against a very definite will of the people that the ultimate power of decision still rests with the people, and that the voters really are concerned and want the best state government possible.

Something New On The Walls

A rather nice community project has come to light this week that really shows how ingenious some local citizens can be when they set out to do something for others. The Friends of the Winchester Hospital got together with the administrator of the Hospital and worked out a plan whereby the group and the Hospital would jointly finance a Great Art Prints project that would help in the therapy and cheer of every patient.

For the most part, the cure of a patient is thought of almost entirely in the clinical sense in most hospitals. Therefore, the entire concept of "art in the hospital" is a relatively new innovation with the recent emphasis on the important subsidiary role of psychology in the cure of the patient. A beautiful pastoral scene, a romantic seascape, a quiet still life, a provocative modern abstract—all these and others could indeed play a part in helping to bring patients out of themselves and allow natural mental and physical improvement.

Massachusetts General Hospital, known around the world as one of the best hospitals, has long recognized the worthwhile value of "art therapy," and until now it was the only hospital in the Greater Boston area to employ it. Now the Winchester Hospital also will have at least one framed art print in virtually every room to brighten both the Hospital and the patients, thanks to the care and efforts of the Friends.

SMOKE MUSHROOMS FROM BURNING HOME. A large crowd gathered at the Pond Estate fire on Saturday, requiring eight regular and several auxiliary police officers to keep the spectators and heavy traffic clear of firefighting operations. Firefighters from neighboring Woburn, Arlington, Medford and Stoneham also joined in helping Winchester firefighters' valiant attempt to contain the blaze.

AERIAL LADDER TO THE SKY. With the aerial ladder on Ladder Truck One extended over a tree and above the burning building, on the right, firefighters battle the blaze from sky height as well as frantically below. Barely visible through the dark smoke in the center of the picture, three firefighters are hacking through the roof to get a hose line played down on a part of the fire.

ANALYZING TACTICS. Fire Chief I. Francis Amico and Fire Captain Michael Connolly are caught during a quick conference over the best way to tackle a certain aspect of containing and combating the huge Saturday blaze at the Pond Estate. Chief Amico, in charge of battling the blaze, ordered that a third alarm be sounded for help from neighboring mutual aid communities—an unusual occurrence in a small town like Winchester.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT. A 78-year-old man was killed yesterday morning at 11:12 a.m. when the vehicle he was driving came out of D Street, according to police, and crashed head-on into the stone wall by Washington Street at Calvary Cemetery near the Woburn line. John LaSalle of 20 Manison Street in Stoneham was pinned inside the car when police arrived. Officers Richard Beaton, James Cogan and Peter Morgan extricated the victim from the vehicle. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the Winchester Hospital.

THE SECRET OF COOKING FOR DOGS

by Martin A. Gardner

Now we've seen everything. Unbelievable but true, here are culinary delights for your canine companion outlined and described in true chef manner. If a dog is your best friend, why not take his taste buds into account and prepare for him Tripe Delight Fantastic or Pineapple Supreme?

Allow yourself plenty of time. Cooking three tasty nourishing dog meals a day is perhaps more than you bargained for when you took Fido in. But as you look over this book, illustrated by Clare Barnes, Jr., you'll be truly inspired. Particularly when you see what he's done with Grant Wood's "American Gothic."

No dog is a complete vegetarian. Where meat is concerned some dogs like it raw, and some like it cooked. Rare, medium, and well-done, you know? Why not try Instant Meat Loaf, or Bacon and Burger Brunch, or Burgandoodle Bash? How about Tripe Delight Fantastic:

1 small can tripe
Margarine
Salt and handful of kibble

Preheat broiler. Brush tripe with margarine. Broil 10 minutes, turning frequently. Add seasoning. Serve warm, covered with kibble.

The author believes in rewards and special treats (for dogs). In case you didn't know it, soup is a terrific meal for dogs. It has, the author maintains, strong psychological appeal.

When your dog enters the Casanova stage, prepare yourself for a whirlwind social season. Prepare your dog, also. With edibles such as Salmon Stew:

2 tablespoons margarine
1½ tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
8 ounces salmon, dried leftover vegetables dog biscuits

Melt margarine in double boiler. Add flour and salt. Add milk slowly. Stir constantly to prevent lumps. Cook until smooth. Add salmon and leftover vegetable, cooking until fish is warm. Serve sprinkled with dog biscuits.

This is a special rewards and treat recipe.

When there are pregnant paws in the family, you will find there's no need to maintain her girlish figure. And when she makes that long walk to the laundromat, have ready a dash of cold milk. Add, if necessary, a spot of brandy.

About the time your dog joins the Golden Age Club, his appetite may not be as it used to be. Play up to his olfactory sense. Let the hearty aroma of home-cooked meals start his digestive juices flowing. Feed him New England Delight or St. Patty's Special. Or try Chicken and Tomato Squash.

This book is just a howl.

Marshall Report
Noonan Addition
Remark Protested

Editor of the Star:

I want to protest a remark in Part 3 of Dr. Marshall's report on the Winchester schools, published in last week's Star. I am referring to his rather personal inference that the addition for Noonan School was not actually the most pressing need but had been given priority because of certain highly vocal groups or individuals.

I had understood that the pre-school census clearly pointed to an unbearable crowding at Noonan in the near future and that this was the basis for the proposed addition. Dr. Marshall to the contrary. The proponents of the plan certainly had no intention of being favored at the expense of any other elementary school. Rather, they had seen the situation steadily deteriorating and wished only to relieve it before there was any further loss of a desirable educational environment. Indeed we have been fortunate to have retained such a capable staff in spite of increasingly difficult working conditions.

Dr. Marshall's quote about the squeaking wheel seemed to be an unfortunate attempt at humor in an otherwise objective report and perhaps can be overlooked on this basis. However, if it offended the loyal people who have tried for so long to improve Noonan School, then I think an apology is due.

Yours truly,

Editor of the Star:

On behalf of the Winchester Estates Garden Club, I should like to take this opportunity to thank the Star for the very nice article and picture you ran last week covering our community project, that of our combined efforts in street beautification.

In the picture we were not allowed space to include two of our most dedicated and vital workers, that of our co-chairmen for ways and means, Mrs. Hugh B. Frey and Mrs. Vincent George. All of this committee have worked very hard all year at numerous fund-raising projects.

Editor of the Star:

On Friday, May 1, the Town Hall was transformed into oriental splendor. Mrs. J. P. Barker was responsible along with her committee for the realistic decor.

We sincerely thank the Winchester Conservatories and the Wildwood Cemetery for contributing the plants and grass which lent themselves beautifully to the arrangement in the center of the hall. The custodians of the Town Hall, Frank Muraco and Tony Barbaro, helped us in so many ways at the biggest dance since 1953, and they have our gratitude.

We also thank everyone who supported the efforts of our chairman, Mrs. James F. Walsh, and her committees.

State Science
Fair Honors 3
Out of 3

All three of the Winchester High School entries in the 15th annual Massachusetts Science Fair finals last weekend came away with awards.

The Fair was held at Rockwell Cage, MIT, and sponsored by MIT and the Boston Globe. The 274 participants had earned the honor of being there by winning at local and regional fairs over some 15,000 original contestants in the state. And, according to Miss Helen Crawley of the WHS faculty, who was vice-chairman of the affair, and Miss Sybil Daniels, of the faculty, a judge, the exhibits were well worth the time of the thousands of visitors who streamed through the area during the three days.

Winchester's students who were honored in this way:

Richard L. Amoroso, of 25 Taft Drive, a junior, won one of the 29 second awards with his physics project, "Particle Accelerator" in which he demonstrated acceleration of electrons and proved the acceleration with his own x-ray photos.

Robert W. Ryder, of 14 Grove Street, a senior, also won a second award with his project in bacteriology, "Morphological Study of Carnivorous Plants." Robert's accomplishment was particularly noteworthy as he had not attended the regional fair at Brandeis but had been given the chance at the State fair through the record of the other two boys at the regionals. He had prepared the data for his project for Miss Daniels' advanced placement biology course and subsequently illustrated with graphs and photographs.

Frederick A. Cardin, Jr., of Copple Street, a senior, was one of 50 honorable mentions with "Advanced Aspects of Photography." Fred had polished a mirror to make a telescope through which he photographed the moon and also had moving pictures of amoebae. He was a winner last year.

A Marycliff Academy student, Patricia L. Nilo, of Medford, won one of the 39 third awards with "Genetic Information Exchange in Bacteria."

All contestants underwent penetrating questioning from six judges each before they were rated. There were students from 152 schools in the State at the fair.

P.E.O. Convention

Winchester members of the three local chapters of the Massachusetts State P. E. O. will be ending the group's annual convention today and tomorrow in Framingham.

The P. E. O. Sisterhood, founded in 1869, sponsors three educational philanthropies: The Educational Fund, Cottage Junior College, and The P. E. O. International Peace Scholarship Fund.

The Thursday morning session will feature Miss Shibani Basu from India, recipient of a P. E. O. Peace Scholarship, who is studying journalism at Boston University and who is the author of "A Blueprint for Peace."

Election of officers will highlight Friday's sessions, which will open at 9 a.m.

"Do It For Tom Dooley Day"

On Saturday, May 9, about 14 Winchester young people will participate in the "Do It For Tom Dooley Day" in Arlington, sponsored by the Dr. Thomas A. Dooley Youth League of Massachusetts.

The group will participate in two car washes, and a bake sale and all proceeds from the days enterprises will go toward the activities of the Dr. Thomas A. Dooley Foundation in Laos and India.

Fair Housing Hears Speaker On Freedom Movem't

Speaking for the Freedom Movement before the annual meeting of the Winchester Fair Housing Association held at the New Hope Baptist Church last Tuesday, Noel Day, executive director of the St. Marks Social Center, told the audience that one of the things the Freedom Movement wants first is that the United States look at itself as it really is, that it destroy the myths of America and face reality.

Prior to the talk the meeting was opened by Emmons Ellis, the president, and after a short business meeting, he introduced the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Edw. Rendall, who read the slate of officers for 1964-65. Elected were: Emmons Ellis, president; H. Kimball Archibald, vice-president; J. Samuel Jones, treasurer; Dr. Howard Hunter, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Pritchard, corresponding secretary; Dr. and Mrs. William W. Cooley, membership chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cary, housing chairman; Mrs. Karl Terzaghi, program chairman; Mrs. Warren Price, publicity chairman; Francis X. Hurley, legislative chairman; Mrs. Ellis Green, urban affairs chairman; Mrs. Roderick G. Hoag, M. C. A. D. chairman; Mrs. Daniel Hritzay, hospitality chairman and Wayne Davis, nominating chairman.

Mr. Ellis then announced the next meeting of the Association to be held on May 14 at the Rich Room of the library at 8 p.m.

Mr. Day spoke on the very pertinent question "What Does the Freedom Movement Want?" He recalled that it was just about a year ago that the brutality of the police dogs and firehoses in Birmingham brought the situation into sharp focus for the citizens of this country and since that time more and more white people have asked the question "What Does the Negro Want?"

He told the audience that the reality at which the U. S. must look is that four children can be killed in the bombing of a church in Birmingham merely because of the color of their skin, or a man killed in Mississippi merely because he voted.

He said that the negro wants to be permitted to enter the mainstream of American life. He wants not only the right to eat in the restaurant he can afford, but the right to vote without fear, to equal education, to full employment and to decent housing. The Freedom Movement is really beginning to think in larger terms, realizing that if America continues along the path of segregation and discrimination, she faces a probable national death. It is striving for freedom for white America as well—for his country to really fight the war on poverty, to truly believe in man's basic dignity, and to create an educational system that will teach our children to face our inadequacies and deal with them.

Lastly, he said, the Freedom Movement wants us all to look at the word "love" in its exalted rather than its profane sense. The Greek meaning of the word is "a spiritual flow between people. This is what the non-violence of the Freedom Movement is aiming at, and non-violence alone is capable of creating a new world.

In conclusion Mr. Day stated that the life or death of the Freedom Movement in this country depends on the struggle of every American within his heart and conscience.

sharp turn and struck and damaged a stone wall in front of 37 Sheridan Circle, and the auto came to a stop.

The occupant of the car was apprehended and taken to Medford Police Headquarters.

In another stolen car chase at 9 p.m., on Monday, May 4, Winchester and Medford Police joined efforts again when the Medford Department alerted Winchester that it was chasing a stolen vehicle along Mystic Street into the town.

Officers Mario Buzzotta and John Frongillo in cruiser 51 arrived at the Cambridge Street and Everett Avenue intersection just as the 1961 Oldsmobile turned right off Cambridge Street and onto Everett Avenue. The chase went down Bacon Street to Symmes Corner and on Main Street towards Medford. At speeds over 80 miles an hour the police chased the stolen car back into Medford.

The operator of the stolen car resorted to sharp turns on many Medford side streets. The Winchester cruiser and the Medford cruiser stayed close to the vehicle for a while, lost it for a few seconds, and then spotted it again and backed-tracked to resume the chase. Finally, the operator of the stolen auto stopped the car and ran away. Officers attempted to locate the fugitive by searching the area for him, but were unable to find him.

The car, which was also wanted for refusing to stop for Lynnfield State Police, had been stolen from District Two in Boston on March 29.

Car Accident
Hospitalizes
Five Year Old

Five-year-old Kirk Scott Mellen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Mellen of 465 Main Street, was hit by a car on Monday afternoon and is still being held at the Winchester Hospital, where he is expected to be for another week.

Kirk sustained bruises to his head and lacerations and bruises to his legs and was treated by Dr. Phillip McManus, under whose care he remains.

Kirk was struck while crossing the Mystic Parkway, near Washington Street, by a car driven by Constance T. Crehan of Medford. According to MDC police records, he was reported to have come out from between parked cars.

Resuscitation at the scene was given by Officer Kevin Richardson. In another accident on Saturday afternoon in Burlington nine Winchester residents riding in a station wagon received minor injuries in a two-car collision on Cambridge Street near Kinney Avenue.

A vehicle operated by Joseph V. Oliveri collided with a vehicle operated by Eugene Barry of 934 Washington Street, Winchester.

Reporting minor injuries were Mrs. Jean Barry, 34; David Barry, 1; Mary Barry, 4; Kathleen Barry, 15; Kevin Barry, 15; Eugene Barry, 49; Maureen, 9; Mary O'Leary, 73; and Mrs. Margaret Keeler, 67.

Dee of 11 Fairview Street collapsed in front of the Black Horse Bootery and he in turn was taken to the hospital. Follow-up reports were unavailable when the Star when to press.

Democratic
Town Committee

With the new committee of 35 members elected and ready to prepare for the upcoming campaign months, it looks like a very interesting summer and fall.

The new committee will soon be called to a meeting to choose the delegates to the State Convention. Then there will be the election of officers for the new committee to serve for the next four years.

We are in possession of some interesting letters which have been sent to Democratic townspeople in our midst. The object of these letters is to encourage the Democratic recipients of this invitation to build up a campaign fund for a member of the party of the opposition, a former elected State official. One of the letters explaining this unique and naive fund-raising plan will be read at our next meeting.

2 Scout Troops Represented At Area Camporee

The Muskiet District of the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, conducted an "American Heritage Camporee" at the Sheepfold in Stoneham, May 1-3. Over 235 scouts and leaders participated.

Winchester Scouts were represented by Troop 509 sponsored by the George Washington School under the leadership of David Greel and Albert McDougall, and by Troop 524, sponsored by the Parkhurst Parents' Association under the leadership of William Krupsky, Albert Moulton, and Donald Thayer.

The purpose of the Camporee was for the Scouting units to share skills and ideas as well as to hold ceremonies recognizing the American Heritage theme of the Boy Scouts of America.

Troop 524 took an active part in the "Come-C-Do" events and put on a demonstration of First Aid which was observed by all in attendance.

A rally was conducted which included all Scouting units. Both Troop 509 and 524 fared very well in competition with the other ten units in attendance.

Highlighting the event was a Campfire on Saturday night, led by Roger Sullivan and assistant scout executive, Anthony Toto. The Tasking Lodge, Order of the Arrow, a National Honor Camporee, conducted a tap-out of new members who will be inducted at one of the Minuteman Council camps this spring.

Chadwick

crucial parts: (1) the physical system, including the layout of railroad tracks and stations, etc., (2) the administration of mass transit, and (3) the financing of the system.

Under the physical aspects of the system, Rep. Chadwick noted the first step would be the conversion of the B. & M. tracks to Reading to rapid transit, including electrification, by the state. This line would then join with the MTA line at North Station and continue to the Washington Street tunnel. Under urban renewal, he said the Federal Government would contribute funds for some of the work in Boston. Rapid transit would then be built through to Quincy. The Boston & Maine would be subsidized by the state to continue through Winchester until Winchester was joined in on the rapid transit system.

Under administration of such a system, Rep. Chadwick said he had hoped the Governor would more drastically alter the name of the present MTA, as he thought the MTA sounded too much like, and that with the present poor image of the MTA as a deficit ridden political football field in the minds of the people of the state. Most communities, he noted, wouldn't want to become a part of the MTA system because of its "image of rotten management." By abolishing the present administration of 3 trustees, the Governor is attempting to free the administration from politics, Rep. Chadwick continued. Each of the 78 cities and towns would be included in an advisory board that would have a voice in vetoing any poor trustee appointment by the Governor, he added. The advisory board would also be concerned with fares and schedules and the operating budget, he said, and therefore would have a direct voice in the expenditures of the operating authority.

Under financing, Rep. Chadwick noted the estimated cost locally would be 33 cents on the tax rate. "For 33 cents on our taxes for this kind of service to Boston, we would certainly be getting a bargain," he said. Rep. Chadwick disagreed with the Governor on the state's assuming only 90 per cent of the capital cost, for with the 2 cent proposed hike on cigarette taxes, he said, the state could well afford to finance the entire $258 million. He felt any deficit in the operation of the system could be apportioned among the cities and towns participating, with any profit that might and could be realized going to reduce the general debt. He noted that the Shaker Heights transit system in Cleveland has been making a profit on excellent service and management, as is Toronto.

In pointing to some of the benefits in favor of the proposal, Rep. Chadwick noted that Boston has one of the most usable and complete underground subway systems in the country, and one that easily lends itself to modernization and conversion to rapid transit.

"The planning engineers are enthusiastic over this program," Rep. Chadwick said, "and even with the doubtless problems that will arise on it that will have to be worked out, I do feel that the package is a good one and one that the town should get behind, and enthusiastically."

Mr. Sands said he believed the joint meeting between the Personnel Board, the consultant, and the department heads, and later with the employees, would serve to dispel any cynicism or complaints of non-involvement from any of the town's reimbursed personnel.

Pers. Board

was not a function of the survey.

Mr. Evans warned the department heads that he had never seen a municipal wage and salary plan receive complete unanimity among all city or town employees, from New York City all the way down to Provincetown, both of which he had done, but that a well organized and thought out system could achieve the best possible plan that would be equitable to all in its standards of measurement and operation.

Mr. Evans noted that he expected to evaluate all the job description sheets during the summer, from July to October. Also during that time, he plans to evaluate the present Personnel Board policy of maintaining a "middle position" as a viable and fiscally sound system for the town to follow. This calendar, if followed without complications, should yield early results to the Personnel Board so that it can use the report as a basis for establishing its recommendations to next year's annual town meeting. Paul Chase, chairman of the Finance Committee, asked whether the consultant could furnish a per capita cost to the town for services offered by the town so the committee would have comparative statistics to work with in reviewing its budgets. Mr. Evans asserted that personal service statistics on a per capita basis could be worked out.

Edward Williams, a commissioner on the Park Board, asked whether the survey would include a determination of the work load performed by a given number of employees, for the Park has the same number of men working that it did ten years ago, with the care of the ten year sites added to its work chore. Mr. Evans said the survey would not evaluate individual work loads, that was an administrative and finance problem, and not a part of a wage and salary structure survey.

Selectman William Kimball asked whether the consultant would assay town wage and salary rates in relation to Route 128 industry and local private businesses. Mr. Evans replied in the affirmative "on comparable jobs."

Selectman Robert Armstrong asked whether town fringe benefits would be taken into consideration in comparing Winchester and other town wage and salary structures. Mr. Evans said they would be considered.

Richard Desjarlais, assistant superintendent of schools, said he thought having the survey done was a good idea, and that the town's ability to pay for services and the quality of services received should be taken into consideration. He said he felt there was an inconsistency in the town's middle of the road "middle position" pay policy because the town's Winchester is compared to are not comparable in terms of economics or services demanded. "By saying we'll only rise as far as the middle position among middle paying communities is way off," he said.

Mr. Sands said he believed the joint meeting between the Personnel Board, the consultant, and the department heads, and later with the employees, would serve to dispel any cynicism or complaints of non-involvement from any of the town's reimbursed personnel.

Fire

The burning house was vacant and uninhabited, as the house was in the process of being sold by the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company for the Dana R. Pond Estate to Dr. Anthony J. Gaffio of Medford, who had agreed to buy the old Winchester landmark.

Firefighters laid hose lines from two fire hydrants across High Street and up to the crest of the rise where the house was located opposite Marycliff Academy. Next they raised ladders and got on the roof to ventilate the building. However, the roof was so hot that they could not open it up to let burning gases, flame and smoke escape, and they had to get off until second and first-story windows could be broken by ground ladders to begin ventilation before they could get back on it.

Meanwhile two firefighters with Scott air pases and masks forced the front door open and attempted to get into the house with lines to start beating back the fire and attempting to confine it to the central interior of the building. Chief Amico followed the firefighters in the front door but realized the building was still too hot to gain entrance and ordered the men to withdraw for their safety until hoses could be played through the windows enough, and the building was properly ventilated from above to permit their safe entrance to fight the fire.

When the roof was finally cooled by water and ventilated from above, the fire followed its course up towards the vent holes, and this is what helped firefighters keep the fire in the center of the building and not let it expand throughout the entire interior of the structure.

The fire was generally under control at about 6 p.m., and the assisting Arlington, Woburn, Medford and Stoneham departments released with thanks by Chief Amico. A total of about 4100 feet of 2½-inch hose and 1200 feet of 1½-inch hose was used by the many firefighters in quenching the raging inferno during the intense hour-long pitched battle with Winchester engines pumping a total of more than six hours in finally holding down and hosing down operations before the ultimate all-out recall was given at 11:27.

The Police Department also aided at the scene with eight regular officers and several auxiliary policemen keeping the large crowd of spectators that gathered to watch the burning dwelling out of firefighters' way, and the traffic jam-ups at the Cambridge Street (Route 3) and High Street intersection. Officer Richard Beaton was seen to adroitly handle many difficult and perplexing traffic problems when fire engines were dashing up Church Street from the Center to the fire and had to get by cars at the intersection, and in preventing cars from striking the hordes of spectators that were crossing Cambridge Street to get to the fire.

Chief Amico had high praise for all the firefighters that worked so hard to save the Pond Estate dwelling, including the call and auxiliary men, "for it was only through everyone's trained and determined efforts that the fire was stopped as quickly and efficiently as it was," he said, "and we were thereby able to prevent its spreading to the other nearby home."

An Informed

Public

★ THERE ARE many misconceptions about costs in funeral service—some of which are difficult to dissolve because of people's reluctance to discuss financial matters during time of bereavement. Many fear any interest in costs may be construed as haggling and indicate a want of feeling. Actually, a desire to know what you are paying for, under any circumstances, is only reasonable. And, at our establishment we welcome the opportunity to clarify all aspects of this subject.

Mrs. Dwight Cart To Be Last Forum Speaker of Year

Mrs. Dwight L. Cart will be guest speaker Sunday morning at 9:15 a.m. at the last of this season's chapel service of The Senior Forum of First Congregational Church.

The theme for the 1963-64 season has been "Youth Asks - Life Answers," and Mrs. Cart will discuss the question "What Is the Most Important Thing in Life?" She has been a most interested friend of Forum. A graduate of Simpson College and Columbia University, a former teacher and active in youth work of various types, especially Girl Scouting, Mrs. Cart knows the mind and spirit of young people very well. On their recent sabbatical journey through Europe and the Middle East, Mrs. Cart took special note of what young people were thinking and hoping and her talk will have a timely interest because of these observations.

Chapmans for this service will be Carolyn Kell and Susan McClenan.

After the chapel service on Sunday the annual election of Forum officers and Student Council representatives will take place. Balloting on a slate of candidates for the 1964-65 season is open to all Forum members. The nominating committee has been: Jonathan Moody, Susan Keppeler, Christine Cooper, Elizabeth Jackson, Daniel Brink, Scott Cunningham, Theodore Cook, Deborah Barone, Stephen Waters, and Ellen Moody. Results of the election will be announced at the closing banquet on May 17.

This Saturday evening Forum members and their friends will attend the Boston Pops Concert in Symphony Hall. Tickets for this are still available at the Forum Office.

Sally Worthen and Alan Eagley have been named co-chairmen of the closing banquet. A baked ham supper will be served at 6 p.m. on May 17 to be followed by the annual recognition of seniors and the "review" program of this season's activities. Reservations for the supper should be made at the Forum Office.

Should You Consider Buying AIRLINES STOCKS?

In their recent market letter, Townsend, Dabney points out that while 1963 was an exceptionally good year for the Airlines industry in general, historically Airlines stocks have been characteristically a highly volatile group. Urging selectivity, the letter discusses industry trends, new equipment development, cargo vs. passenger traffic, and increasing competitive fares, as each may affect company earnings.

Living With Your Heart

Half of America's 10 million heart patients also are victims of kidney ailments.

And, although the heart and kidneys are some distance apart in the body, they are closely related in terms of your general health.

The Massachusetts Heart Association considers the role of the kidneys so important to cardiovascular health that over the years it has sponsored many research projects directed primarily at the kidneys.

The kidneys, for instance, can play a major role in high blood pressure, one of the most dangerous forms of cardiovascular illness. Here's how the heart and kidneys affect each other.

Your heart exists to pump blood to all parts of your body, including the kidneys.

The kidneys exist to filter, separate and reassemble this blood.

The filtering apparatus is so delicate an affair that it has its own stop-valves to shut off or increase the fluid flow. This makes for an even pressure on the fragile vessels of the kidneys' tremendously complex absorbing and filtering beds.

When your blood pressure goes too high the heart can be damaged, and frequently the kidneys also are affected; the entire filtering system can be thrown drastically out of order.

Research has shown kidney damage to be the result, rather than the cause, of high blood pressure, but the important fact is that high blood pressure tends to strike at both organs, and both are vital to life.

The complexity of the kidneys' function in our bodies can be better understood when we realize that they are much more than filtering plants; they also monitor the blood to insure the return to the circulatory system of essential ingredients. Each kidney has about one million units in which blood is separated and put together again.

Normally, the kidneys filter 185 quarts of water in 24 hours, and the blood reabsorbs all but about three pints of it.

Hard - working and durable as they are, kidneys are susceptible to a number of ailments, occasionally "silent" infections, Heart Fund-aided research in Boston has made possible a simple bacteria-count test to discover the otherwise-hidden infections. It is typical of numerous kidney - oriented projects undertaken by the Heart Association.

You & Your Teeth A Note On Health

The body has many specialized parts, and the health professions have had to develop dozens of specialties to treat these parts and the diseases which afflict them.

Within dentistry, there are also specialties. There is, for example, pedodontics, or children's dentistry.

And there is orthodontics, a field which deals with the problems of malocclusion (poorly aligned teeth). It is estimated that about 50 per cent of the nation's children are in need of some form of orthodontic supervision, for protruding teeth, jutting or receding jaw or poorly spaced teeth. This problem is most common during the time the permanent teeth are erupting.

Orthodontic ailments, if not treated, can easily lead to faulty speech, malnutrition and emotional disturbances. The emotional disturbances stem from self-consciousness about the facial deformities caused by malformed mouths.

Additionally, when teeth do not meet properly, added strain is placed on the gums and supporting bones, which usually leads to periodontal or gum disease. Another dental specialty is periodontics.

Periodontal disease is usually thought of as an adult disorder, but its incidence is disturbingly high among children.

This disease, really a number of diseases grouped under the one heading, has many causes. There is the stress previously mentioned, there are local irritants such as tartar or calculus, and there is poor nutrition.

Symptoms of this disease are a bad mouth odor, excessive salivation, sensitive gums and, usually, bleeding. Early detection and good oral hygiene at home under the watchful eyes of the parents are the best weapons against the disease.

A fourth specialized area, although not a formal specialty, is endodontics, a field dealing with treatment of the pulp or "nerve" of the tooth. In endodontic treatment, teeth whose pulps have been affected by deep decay or injury are preserved by partial or complete removal of the pulp. The canal is then filled and capped to prevent penetration of bacteria or fluids into the tooth. Through this process, teeth which would have been considered lost a few years ago can now be saved and made useful for a lifetime of service.

The family dentist, the dental specialists and the parents form a team which can give a child a firm foundation of dental health habits on which a lifetime of good dental health can be built.

The Three U's

by Paul C. Tullier,

Senior Editor, World Book Year Book

Our nation's youngsters are in deep trouble. One million of them between the ages of 16 and 25 are adrift on our city streets. Most are school "drop-outs" — unschooled, unskilled, unemployed. Their plight is desperate, their future bleak. How did this explosive situation arise? What can be done to help this growing horde for whom we cannot now find jobs and whose ranks are expected to swell to 2½ million by 1970?

the three u's paul c. tullier, senior You might find a group of them aimlessly clustered in a neighborhood drugstore, or hanging around a street corner gloomily smoking cigarettes. Some sit idly on the front steps of cheerless houses thinking, and dreaming, and weaving hopeless hopes.

They're young, mostly in their late teens or early twenties. Yet the problem they face is serious enough to make them old even before they become adults, regardless of where they live, or how they spend their time. Right now their problem is particularly acute, and threatening to become worse.

What is all this about? Who are these young people? What is their problem?

Prepare yourself for some unpleasant facts. The United States prides itself on its educational system, it spent an estimated $18,000,000,000 on education in 1961-1962, and on its related ability to provide jobs for its youth. Yet today, 1,000,000 young Americans between the ages of 16 and 25 are looking for jobs. Surprising as it may seem, these young people make up the biggest single age group of unemployed workers in the United States. Unemployment in their bracket is at least twice as high, and rising at a faster rate, than in older age groups.

The future of these youngsters, according to former Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, is "potentially the most dangerous social condition in America today." Their plight, says Robert Taber, a noted Philadelphia educator, "is the great American tragedy of our time."

What can be done about it? There is no simple answer, but answers are being sought. In some places, there are heartening signs of progress.

Machines and Men Generally, however, the picture is grim. Two principal factors are responsible. As society becomes more and more highly mechanized, certain jobs disappear. The remaining jobs, as well as the new ones that are created, require an increasing degree of skill. That is one factor in the picture. The second is a human problem.

Almost all of the youngsters included in the current legion of the unemployed are so-called "drop-outs," students who left school before they earned a diploma. Theirs are the faces that were missing from the high school yearbooks.

If present predictions hold true, moreover, their number will increase in the years ahead. As matters stand today, 40 out of every 10 youngsters in the United States either fail to attend high school or drop out before they have finished. If this trend continues, says Abraham Ribicoff, former Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, the number of unschooled, unskilled, and unemployed youths will have soared to 7,500,000 by 1970. Of these, some 250,000 will not even have finished grammar school. They will represent, roughly, 30 per cent of all the young workers who are expected to enter the labor market between 1960 and 1970.

Unschooling, these teen-agers will become part of an adult world in which education is a "must." Unskilled, they will struggle to find employment in a labor market in which jobs often disappear at the click of a switch.

In New York City alone, automatic elevators have already displaced an estimated 40,000 operators. In one large automobile plant, a manufacturing operation that used to require 39 workers and 39 machines is now handled by only nine workers and nine machines.

In Detroit, factory jobs formerly filled by 16 and 17-year-olds have been decreasing at the rate of 2,000 a year since 1950. Between 1955 and 1960, 56 out of every 100 such jobs ceased to exist. The mass production industries no longer absorb the number of unskilled workers they once did.

Nor is the "blue collar" workman the only one whose job is threatened.

Some types of "white collar" positions are disappearing, too, largely because of office automation. Altogether, 1,500,000 office jobs vanished between 1953 and 1960. Of the jobs available today, according to a reliable source, only a small number, four out of every 100, do not require an education.

Squeeze Play The problem the unemployed dropout faces, then, becomes painfully clear. He is caught in a squeeze play. Unable to qualify for the skilled jobs that are open, the supply of unskilled jobs he might be able to fill is drying up.

There is another irony. "Because of automation, and technical devices," says one authority, "professional and technical jobs are going to grow by 3,000,000, or about 40 per cent, during this decade. Fields will grow by about 3,700,000. Skilled occupations are expected to provide 2,000,000 additional jobs by 1970." Implicit is the fact that these 8,700,000 new jobs would more than absorb the 7,500,000 youngsters, who, because they will lack skills and schooling, will know want in the midst of plenty.

Educational requirements for any kind of a job are higher today than ever before. According to most personnel directors, they will rise a notch or two each year, from here on out. "I venture to predict," says one, "that within the next 10 years, post-high school education for two years, at a junior college or technical institute, will replace the high school diploma as a basic requirement."

Today, a high school diploma is the least most employers will accept for even a low-level job. One Midwestern firm has an ironclad rule that even its mail sorters and messenger boys be high school graduates. Many firms are not satisfied with just a diploma, either. They carefully check the graduate's school record and insist on better-than-average grades before hiring.

Few companies will pay any attention to a dropout. For them, he is an "untouchable." The personnel director of a large steel plant in Pennsylvania says: "We want youngsters who are capable of climbing from the factory floor into an office seat, or into our sales force. And we don't want them to stop there. Somewhere among them we like to believe, is a future company president." He pauses, and his lips tighten. "If our company's executives are to come from among today's youngsters, why should we hire those whose school records show they were interested only in getting by?"

It's Bicycle Season Again

Good weather brings the urge to travel, and very soon now youngsters will be taking their bicycles out of storage, cleaning and oiling them for use on our streets and highways.

Last year in Massachusetts from May through September there were 982 motor vehicle accidents involving bicyclists in which 1,082 persons were injured — four fatally. Therefore it becomes necessary to caution both motorists and bicycle riders that special care should be taken at this time.

If a boy or girl is old enough to have a bicycle, he should accept the responsibility which goes with such ownership. He should be aware that his bicycle is not a toy — that it is a means of transportation and if used on our streets and highways, motor vehicle laws must be obeyed.

There are other safety precautions to be followed — ride in a single line, ride on the right side of the road, stay in one lane, use signals for changing direction and stopping, cross streets on foot at intersections, do not tow riders, do not carry guests on a one-passenger bike, and wear brightly colored clothing at night. Bicycles must display a front white light and a red rear reflector and have reflectorized paint or tapes on both sides of the front fork and rear fender and be equipped with a bell or horn.

Parents should observe their child's bicycle riding habits to assure themselves that their youngsters are using their vehicles in a safe manner, and according to the law.

"It is my earnest wish that not one child will lose his or her life or suffer disabling injuries on the Commonwealth's highways during the bicycle-riding season. I hope all bicyclists, motorists, and parents will accept this reminder in the interest of public safety," Registrar Lawton said today.

For the third consecutive year the Winchester High School will present a Pops Concert, to take place in the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. on Friday, May 8.

The concert is under the direction of Wendell Withington, music director at the high school. He will conduct and direct the high school orchestra, the mixed glee club, the girls' glee club, the double sextet, and a new musical group this year, the Stool Pigeons.

Frederick Murray will direct the high school band.

Many hours of work have gone into the preparation of the program so that varied selections may be brought to the audience, and the several committees have done their best to make this the best pops concert yet.

The tickets are being sold through any member of the high school music organization at nominal prices.

No municipal incinerator is designed to burn these materials but the disposal of the above items is effected by contract with a Junk Dealer to remove them from the Incinerator Site.

- Materials which cannot be burned at the Incinerator and which must be disposed of privately—not on the site of the incinerator.

Building Debris	Boulders
Trees	Solid Fill
Tree Stumps

TO INSURE THAT NO DAMAGING FIRES WILL OCCUR IN THE INCINERATOR REFUSE PIT THE FOLLOWING ITEMS ARE PROHIBITED

FIRES, HOT ASHES AND LIGHTED CIGARETTES, ETC., ARE PROHIBITED IN THE REFUSE PIT AND ON THE CONVEYOR. VIOLATION OF THIS PORTION OF THE RULES AND REGULATIONS WILL SUBJECT ANYONE GUILTY OF SAME TO LOSS OF DUMPING PRIVILEGES. VIOLATORS MAY BE PROSECUTED AND HELD LIABLE FOR ALL DAMAGE CAUSED, AND PENALIZED TO THE FULLEST EXTENT OF THE LAW.

- Dumping Hours
Dumping will be permitted only between the hours of 7:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. Mondays through Saturdays, holidays excepted.

- Procedure at Incinerator
All trucks and Trailers of over one-half-ton size using the Incinerator must be equipped with a dumping mechanism. Any spillage at the dumping door or at the conveyor must be shoveled into the storage pit or on to the conveyor.

- Private Collections - Board of Health Rules for Transporting Over Highways
All private trucks using the Incinerator shall display a sticker which may be obtained from the Board of Health.

All private trucks hauling refuse shall use a tarpaulin or other form of covering to prevent littering of highways and Incinerator grounds.

All private vehicles shall display a sticker which may be obtained from the Board of Health for the transporting of refuse over the streets.

- Refuse from Other Towns
Under no condition will refuse collected outside the Town of Winchester be accepted at the Incinerator.

All truck and car drivers should expect to be questioned by the Incinerator personnel as to the source of their loads, and if required, shall produce a document showing that the refuse is from the Town of Winchester.

- Enforcement
Incinerator personnel are authorized to reject any truck or car whose operator fails in any way to conform to these rules and regulations. Continued neglect by such operator of the rules and regulations may result in suspension of permission to use the Winchester Incinerator and for an indefinite period of time.

- Cooperation
The Town of Winchester has spent nearly a half million dollars on the Incinerator and all concerned must give fullest cooperation. Please separate allowable non-combustibles from combustibles so that each may be placed in the proper location at the Incinerator Site. Culling out of non-combustible materials in the Incinerator storage pit is an impossible task and if non-combustibles get into the Incinerator furnace they may well cause a breakdown which will affect the refuse disposal of the entire Town.

These regulations do not apply to the collection or disposal of Garbage which is now disposed of out of Town.

It is absolutely essential to the proper operation of the Winchester Incinerator that these Rules and Regulations be followed by each and every resident and private collector.

Washington School Mother-Daughter Night Happy One

Last Saturday evening the gaily decorated auditorium of the George Washington School was filled to overflowing when over 30 beautiful young girls in their very prettiest dresses and their proud mothers attended the annual Mother-Daughter night.

"An Evening for My Fair Lady" was the theme and it was plain to see by the squeals and applause that all the ladies, little and big, were delighted by it. Joe Derby, master of ceremonies, led off the musical program dancing and singing "Dark Town Strutters Ball" and "Cecilia."

The other performers, all from Winchester High, were as follows: Miss Jane Lynch doing an original dance to "Dungarve Doll"; Misses Sally Worthen, Gale Snelling and Mary Mouradian, a trio, singing "Hey, Look Me Over," "Getting to Know You," and "Whistle a Happy Tune"; Peter Occhintio, accordionist, playing "Boogie Woogie Shuffle" and "Long Long Ago"; the Misses Ann Rozelle, Donna Kelley, Ellen Porter, Susan Mullare, Beverly Janson and Emily Muford, a guitar and vocal group rendering "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" and "Puff the Magic Dragon"; Anthony Buzzotta, David Amato, John Gentile and Drew Lydotes, doing a really terrific impersonation of that well-known group, "The Beatles," and singing "I Want to Hold Your Hand," "All My Love," "She Loves You," and "What I Say."

After the program all the girls were invited to parade across the stage to receive a brightly wrapped favor. Then it was back to their seats to enjoy delicious ice cream sundaes with their choice of toppings served by several of the dads, Peter Villari, Truman Dayton, Bob Grainger, Nick Vallas, Mario Marrocco, Craig Wark, Ed Hicks, Merton Ober, Sam Perkins and Don Wrisley. All agreed that this was the social highlight of the year.

Mrs. William Dean was general chairman for this event, assisted by the following members of the Mothers' Association: decorations, Mrs. Truman Dayton, chairman, Mrs. David Edwards, Mrs. Cecil Abbot, Mrs. Donald Murphy, Mrs. Samuel Perkins and Mrs. Ado Comito; tickets, Mrs. William Varley, chairman, Mrs. Francis Keenan, and Mrs. Elaine Hall; favors, Mrs. Henry Wynn, chairman, Mrs. Calvin Bowker, Mrs. John Lacey and Mrs. Richard Schroeder; programs, Mrs. Robert Fahey, chairman, and Mrs. Robert Grainger; refreshments, Mrs. Peter Villari and Mrs. Charles Deroot, co-chairman, and Mrs. F. C. Lyons.

Walter Josephson, Rev. O'Donnell Elected to Board

The Reverend Joseph E. O'Donnell, of the First Baptist Church and Walter Y. Josephson, of 16 Winslow Road, were among those elected to serve the Baptist Home of Massachusetts as members of its board of corporation at a meeting last week held at the Home in Newton.

Several hundred clergy and lay leaders from all parts of the state attended.

Duplicate Bridge Club

The ladies dominated play in the WDBC game on Wednesday evening, April 29. In a "dress rehearsal" for the Women's Pairs Championship, Kay McConnell and Barbara Sawyer shared Section A honors with Fredna Perkins and Jo Dingwell, while Molly Fitzgerald and Ann Murray were pulverizing the field in Section B. We don't know if the ladies were using loaded powder puffs, but the men certainly came out of the evening with a collective black eye!

Section A completed 22 boards for an average of 110. The leading pairs were:

North-South
Kay McConnell and Barbara Sawyer 127½
Ellen Schofield and Martha Walker 126
Nancy Atkinson and Greta Hawley 119
James Byrne and William Duryea 114

Chandler Symmes 116
Lobby Smith and Steve Root 113
Barbara Quigley and Helen Mahoney were the "roving pair" in Section B where average for EW was 90 while NS worked on a percentage basis.

Paul Lorris and Larry Yannuzzi 562
Barbara Greaves and Douglas Martell 559

The hands dealt in Section A generally tended toward the colorless after the tricky ones selected for the previous week's play.

Fairly interesting results were shown for the above hand. Three times the hand was played a 3 NT by East and made. Yet inspection of the four hands shows that South has merely to make a normal fourth-best opening from his clubs to set up four club tricks for himself once North is in with the ace of diamonds to lead clubs through East—result six tricks for the defense and down two. At a guess, all the South players opened diamonds, thus removing the vital entry from the North hand before clubs were led at all.

One North played the hand at 1 spade, doubled and made, apparently as the result of a bidding sequence in which East passed and West opened the bidding at one heart, with the one-spade overall doubled by East. One questions the acceptance of this bid by the West hand.

Four hearts, twice bid by West, is doomed to down two by average defense, and this was twice the result. Several part-score bids in hearts generally also made two but one declarer at three hearts made four with help from the opposition. Perhaps, in this case, South never got a good opportunity to show his clubs to direct North's opening lead.

MSPCA Members To Watch Chicks Hatching

An interesting afternoon is in store for members of the MSPCA, Winchester Auxiliary, at their annual meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Damon of 70 Arlington Street, at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, May 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mann hope to be able to show the actual hatching of chicks, which they plan to bring to the meeting in an incubator. Mr. Mann is an official of the Animal Rescue League in Boston, and his talk and demonstration should prove most unusual and absorbing.

In addition, the slate of officers for next year will be presented and a most delightful surprise will charm the eyes and ears of all who come to the meeting. Refreshments will be served, so do come and bring your friends.

Sons Of Italy News

Congratulations are in order for chairman Dick Tofuri and his sports committee for a most successful bowling banquet held on last Saturday night.

Congratulations are also in order for the Degree Team which assisted in installing newly-elected officers for four lodges in Waltham on last Sunday. The team is now preparing for its trip to Bridgeport, Conn., in the middle of the month, to install the grand officers of that state.

Just a reminder that delicious clams and lobsters are served at the club every Friday night between 6:00 and 9:00 o'clock.

The Grand Lodge held its first annual bowling tournament at the Woburn Bowladrome on last Sunday and our own men's lodge entered one team while our ladies lodge entered three teams and hats are off to all of the participants for excellent showings.

The ladies had two teams winning top positions of second and third with eight teams taking the line. Woburn's team took first place but right behind them were our own second place team which consisted of the following:

Rose DeTeso 79-93-76, Terry Nappa 79-81-86, Louise Vigorita 75-84-70, Cynthia Esposito 87-81-93, and Ginger Margio 104-89-89. Our girls finished up with a total pinfall of 1276 while winning Woburn had 1360.

Winchester's third place team had a pinfall of 1255 and making up this unit were Emma Provinciano 78-82-83, Bobby Ungaretti 77-86-97, Margie Gambino 96-92-77, Laura Ciara 90-77-87, and Annette MacKienzi 85-82-82.

Winchester's third team in the tournament making a good account of itself found Phil Corbi with 78-105-91, Kay Lentine 65-76-77, Evelyn Giacalone 81-80-87, Eleanor Russo 88-84-73 and Florence Paonessa 83-77-82.

There were seventeen teams entered in the men's league and our Winchester aggregation found the range in the final two strings to cinch second place. The men found it a bit difficult in the opening string when they felt the floor was a bit on the slippery side, but they dug in later as mentioned and ended up only 19 pins behind a winning team from Newton. Approaching the line for Winchester's SOI were Richie Riera who hit for 108-121-116, Richie Russo 95-121-116, Moose Bellino 108-114-116, Richie Bucci 93-94-105 and Tony Saraco 102-91-108.

In another section of the alleys, the grand officers had their own competition and having one player short because of unforeseen circumstances our own Carl Bertolucci filled in and came through with flying colors by having excellent strings of 105-93-111.

Following the tournament, the proprietors of the Woburn Bowladrome, the Gangi Bros., invited all of the contestants to report to the Winchester Sons of Italy Hall where the Gangi Bros. ordered pizzas from Moose Bellino for all to enjoy. This was something all were proud of and all present wish to extend their many thanks of appreciation for the kind thoughts of the Gangi Bros.

Did you hear of the fishing trip Babe Tofuri and Emile Doucette took? Babe still wonders if that was a 12in. pickerel.

Congratulations to Sam Tibaudon on being the champion "bump" pool player of the club. He defeated Dom Galelo in two straight in the finals.

Chairman Art Dunbar reports that there is an increase in interest for the club's golf league which had its first matches last Sunday morning. It is urged that all participants refer to the bulletin board for standings and schedule.

Don't forget to contact Mel Fiore, Max DiMambro or Randy Kazanian to assist in giving our quarters an exterior painting. Remember that this is your club and

The Roses Were Red And Hearts Were Lightened

On a lovely May evening, what could be more romantic or lovely than red roses?

Take them in two, four, six and twelve dozen, place them in the plot of a delightful Italian comedy, and you have the Parish Players' liveliest of spring comedies! "Two Dozen Red Roses," a seldom seen but fun filled comedy by De Benedetti, was presented on the stage of Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church, this past Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The five-character cast was impeccably directed by Harlan F. Grant.

The play opened each night with spontaneous applause as John MacLellan's gorgeous Italian villa setting melted all hearts. It was a gold Italian marble effect, with beautiful columns, soft draperies and charm such as few decorators achieve!

Then the players came on—and the spring night began to resound with the wonderful sound of laughter. George S. Hebb, Jr., played the playboy "floral artist," Bernardo, a most convincing young Don Juan who almost fails in his amorous advances to the chic little maid, Rosina (Shirley Puffer). Mrs. Puffer has a fine sense of comedy and timing, and her every line was fun to hear. Her mistress, Marina, played by Phyllis Hollinshead, had the sparkle and life that marks the true actress and comedienne. Her exquisite gowns by Cyrdell and lovely coiffure by Ollie Jean's helped set the feeling of luxury and wealth in this Italian household.

Henry Fitts, the troubled and complacent husband, showed the audience a most engaging man, one who wanted his comfortable home but a glamorous wife, and who almost lost her through an odd way of wooing her, after 20 years! Then there was Tomasso, played by the veteran actor George Connor. He gave a most polished performance, so many lines given with dead pan and superb timing. These five people on the stage made this "Two Dozen Red Roses" a memorable theatre evening.

Committee members are: Mrs. Robert White, program; Mrs. Charles Irwin and Mrs. Harold Pyne, nominating; Mrs. Benjamin Goodwin, social; Mrs. James Ryder, worship; Mrs. David Votaw and Mrs. Donald Cook, material aid; Mrs. Theodore Shasta, greeting cards; Mrs. Roger Davis, Mrs. Joseph Faga and Mrs. Eugene Clark, membership; and Mrs. Willis Hooker, publicity.

Friendship Guild Elects

The annual meeting of the Friendship Guild of the First Congregational Church was held Tuesday, April 21st in Chidley Hall. The slate of officers for the following year, 1964 and 1965 was presented.

They are as follows: Mrs. Jennifer P. Eugley, director; Mrs. Richard Dutton, associate director; Mrs. Mortimer Nickerson, recording secretary; Mrs. Lawrence Beckley, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Samuel Erskine, finance.

Committee members are: Mrs. Robert White, program; Mrs. Charles Irwin and Mrs. Harold Pyne, nominating; Mrs. Benjamin Goodwin, social; Mrs. James Ryder, worship; Mrs. David Votaw and Mrs. Donald Cook, material aid; Mrs. Theodore Shasta, greeting cards; Mrs. Roger Davis, Mrs. Joseph Faga and Mrs. Eugene Clark, membership; and Mrs. Willis Hooker, publicity.

Macefield

The reason for running the little ad for so many months about hand-wrought gold designs by Macefield of 10 Winchester Place was the constant inquiry about working in gold. Macefield has worked in gold for twenty years now with no intention to slight silver; it is a beautiful metal of deep highlights. Any silver you have will respond to a brisk rubbing with a soft cloth, especially a hand made piece, may 7-2t

Lynch Parents To Hear Mr. Grindle

The annual meeting of the Lynch Junior High Associates will be held on Friday, May 8, at 7:45 in the Lynch cafeteria.

The Science Exhibits will be in the library; Home Economics displays will be in Home Economics Rooms 114, 115; the art work and the shop work will be in the gymnasium and a one-act play, "Enter Juliet," and a series of individual musical numbers are to be in the cafeteria.

Class of 1939 Gala Reunion

On Saturday, May 16, Winchester High School class of 1939 will hold its 25th reunion at the new Sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street.

Much Ado About Mother

by Shel

Give your wife a gift said one fellow to another
Why should I asked the first she's simply not my mother
I will admit she's charming yes and even gay and I will confess she's nice to me in every single way
she cooks for me and cares for me just as a woman should she confides in me and comforts me as I know she always would but, buy my wife a gift asked one fellow of another sure she's very deserving but still she isn't my mother

Show your wife you care
said one fellow to another you can appreciate a gal although she's not your mother she'll stay by you through thick and thin and when things are at their grimmest you know she'll be your guiding light when life is at its dimmest so give a little thought and add a little cheer to the girl who forces a smile rather than wipe away a tear yes, give your wife a gift
said one fellow to another
I've talked about your wife
You've talked about my mother

The panel will consist of the psychiatric staff of the clinic, headed by Dr. Morton B. Newman, director.

"Behind the Scenes at the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic" will be given at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, May 13, in the Kennedy Memorial Junior High School cafeteria. Announcement of the meeting was made at the annual meeting of the Winchester MHA held last week Wednesday evening at the Unitarian Church when speaker Dr. Robert Bragg, of the Wellesley Human Relations Project, presented a fascinating and informative word picture of the clinical aspects of this project, which concerns itself with the mental health problems of suburban living.

The Human Relations Project is an outgrowth of true Friendship Association of Wellesley which was started in 1908 and became the Family Service. In 1948 the project was born; it is sponsored by an executive committee and the funds are administered by Harvard School of Public Health.

Mental health research projects described by Dr. Bragg included one which stimulated much audience interest, the study of the kindergarten child with regard to his emotional ability to accept new situations, in this case the separation of mother and child with the beginning of the school year. In Wellesley this is now included as a voluntary service with the pre school check-up. Fifty mothers and children took part in this check-up last year.

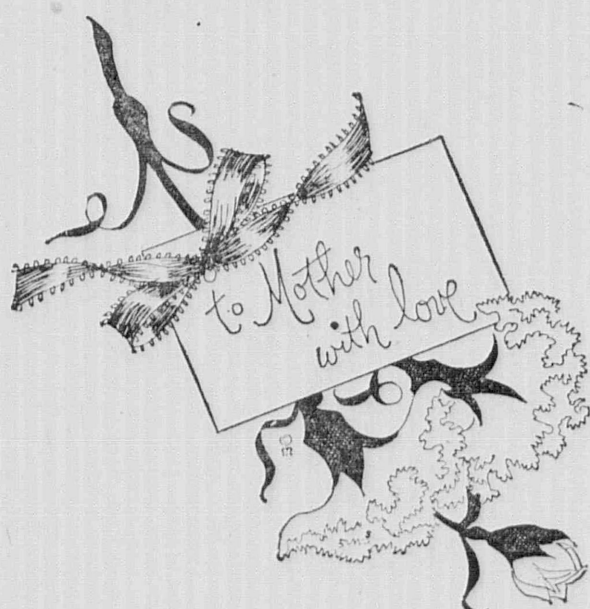

The Human Relations Project enjoys a very close tie with Wellesley schools, police, Health Department, and churches, all of which share the goal and hope of reducing the incidence of emotional disturbance. The slate of officers for the coming year was presented by Mrs. Rowland Patrick, chairman of the nomination committee. The officers for the year 1964-1965 are to be: Miss Constance Trickett, president; Miss Leonor Rich, vice president; Mrs. Richard Alt, secretary; and Mrs. Clarence G. Gay, treasurer.

Mrs. James Wingate, outgoing president, conducted the meeting.

K. Guild Nichols, Jr., a sophomore at Hamilton College, is the recipient of a $500 summer intern scholarship awarded by the Newspaper Fund, Inc. The program, supported by the Wall St. Journal, puts the winners to work as beginning reporters during the summer vacation period. Upon successful completion of 10 weeks, Nichols will receive the scholarship which is independent of the salary he will earn as a newspaper employee.

Faieta Bests Belmont, 5-4; But Sachems Fall Apart Against Melrose, 16-7

A perfect throw by centerfielder Lee Sullivan cut off a Belmont bid to tie last Wednesday's game at Manchester Field, and gave Dick Faieta his first win against one loss. But last Friday, in a humiliating turn-about on the same "play" ground, the Sachems did almost everything imperfectly, and handed a mediocre Melrose nine a 16-7 decision.

In league play, Winchester now stands at two wins and two losses.

Sullivan's one-bounce throw to catcher Ron Scherban came with two outs in the top of the seventh, and runners on first and second. Dick Haheshian had singled sharply to center for what was apparently a game-tying hit, but Sullivan scooped the ball up on the run and cut down Bill Graham at the plate by four feet.

Take Early Lead

Capitalizing on Belmont errors, the Sachems took a first inning 2-0 lead on singles by Faieta, Lawson and Gilberti. It was short-lived, however, when Rahal, Gardner and Jack Mara singled to open the third, and Geraldino sacrificed home the tying run.

In the bottom of the third, a single by Rotondi, a walk to Cutting, and an error by Belmont first baseman Dick Wilinski paved the way for two more tallies.

Shortstop Rudy Pizzi walked in the fourth, stole second, and scored on Rahal's single, to trim the edge to one. But singles by Ed Cutting and Dick Faieta, and a sacrifice fly by Vic Lawson propped it back up to a more comfortable two in the fifth.

It was needed, since Bob Mara, drawing a pass, scored on Rahal's third hit, a Texas Leaguer to right, in the sixth.

For Faieta, who walked three and struck out eight while allowing nine hits in seven innings, it was a matter of hanging on, and thanks to Sullivan, he managed to do just that.

Came The Nightmare

It was a matter of holding on against Melrose, too, but, in this case, the Sachems might as well have been trying to hold to the sinking Titanic.

Grabbing a first inning 3-0 lead on singles by Scherban, Rotondi and Lawson, and adding another in the third on a home run by Rotondi, the Sachems saw their margin vanish the following inning when Vic Lawson's error opened the gates for a four-run uprising by the Raiders, including a two-run homer by Tom Kasperzak.

Errors by Lawson and Rotondi gave them two more in the fifth, and further miscues by Cutting and Murphy added another two in the sixth.

Bob Gilberti, who had reached on Billy Martin's error in the bottom of the sixth, scored on Bob Murray's pinch-hit single to right, making the score 8-5 going into the last inning. Then it happened; all in one helpless frame.

Reliever Bob Washburn, while allowing four singles, committed two balks (an earlier balk was charged to Crotty) and one error. His teammates did little to halt the fiasco, Lawson, Gilberti and Murphy also making errors. Left-hander Kevin Crowley, after allowing a hit of his own, finally got Kasperzak to fly out and end the inning.

Eight runs—that is, runs—had crossed the plate, and the Raiders led 16-5.

Taken resistance was offered in the Sachem half of the final frame when Cutting singled with one down and Faieta homered.

Winchester Takes Wakefield: 2 Records Broken

On Tuesday, April 28, Winchester faced Wakefield, one of the toughest teams in the league. Our track squad managed to down the fighting Wakefield team, 68 1/3 to 62 2/3, thanks to two record-breaking events, and an all-out effort by the team members.

Tibor Sandler won two first places for Winchester in the high and low hurdles, despite stiff competition from Watson of Wakefield. Austin Garvey won two seconds in the 100 and 22-yard dashes, and Tom Kelly placed in the 440. Two sophomores, John Larkin and Neal Shapleigh, did especially well for our team, placing first and second in the one mile. Ian Jenike of Winchester broke a two-mile school record, taking first. He was followed close behind by Jon Buckley and David Swanson, also of Winchester.

The shot put was swept 1-2-3 by Winchester men Frongillo, Litchfield and team captain Fahey, and the first two places in the discus were taken by Captain Fahey and Peter Hiehorn. Richard Halversen won first place in the pole vault by setting a new school record. Winchester also captured second and third places in both the high jump and javelin, and despite some bad luck in the broad jump, managed to come out on top in the field events.

Team spirit played an important part in the outcome of this meet, and all the members who worked so hard to make it a victory for Winchester are to be congratulated.

Elks Defeat Sachems in Opener 10-6: Game Featured by Extra-Base Hits

Town Softball League

The Park Department did an excellent job in getting Leonard Field prepared for the opening game of the current season on Monday night for the Town Softball League, and we of the league certainly appreciate the fine cooperation and interest.

To answer the first call of "play ball" the defending champion Sons of Italy team took the field against the new Health Lab unit and had an easy time for an opener by defeating the Lab by an 18-2 score. The champions jumped on the opposing pitcher in the initial inning to bat around one and a third times while getting four hits and seven runs. Wozy Giacalone walked as leadoff man, Bob Fiore doubled and Dave Kline singled to score Wozy for the first run. Jake Ciarcia then took his turn to bat to elicit a bases-loaded homer to put the SOI in a quick 4-0 lead. Dave Boroian, Bob McNamara and Pete Gilberti reached on errors and Jay Camaratta reached on a fielder's choice and as a result of the mishaps the champs were able to put across three more runs.

Jake Ciarcia started off the second inning with a walk. Boroian made first on a fielder's choice and later scored on Pete Gilberti's single. Camaratta then connected for a hit to score Gilberti with the ninth run.

The outstanding event in the third frame was Dave Kline's two-run homer which was followed by a hit by McNamara to score Ciarcia for the team's twelfth tally.

Not giving up, the Lab dug in in its half of the third frame to cross two runs on one hit and passed balls. N. Gaeta and P. Hahn reached on passed balls and G. Burns came through with his team's only hit to score two runs. Harry Ellis and Dave Kline checked the Lab's batters the entire game while their own teammates jumped on the serves of the Lab's pitcher.

The SOI had a four-run fourth stanza on a single by Bob Fiore, Kline's walk, single by Ciarcia and a bases-loaded triple by McNamara while in the fifth inning Camaratta opened with a walk, Leo Mericantante hit safely and Kline got a three bagger to score Camaratta and McNamara.

The Lab team fought hard to the very end and with a few games under its belt, it will give headaches to many opponents before the season's end.

On Tuesday evening last year's runners-up, the Elks, defeated the Sachems by a 10-6 score and for a summary of the encounter please refer to another column.

Program Before

Men's Club

The closing dinner meeting of the Men's Club 1963-64 season of the First Congregational Church will be held in Chidley Hall at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19.

A very interesting and amusing evening is in store as Gilbert E. Merrill of the Boston Museum of Science, will present an illustrated lecture featuring live animals entitled "Woodland Fears - Real or Imaginary?" Because this program has such universal appeal, the Men's Club would like to extend an invitation to include not only adult friends but also children who are sure to enjoy this very unusual presentation. Because the children are being invited, the dinner will be served promptly at 6:30 in an attempt to complete the meeting between 8:30 and 9 o'clock.

Reservations should be made with Roland Moody, PA9-1824 on or before May 17.

SACHEMS STAGGER THE IMAGINATION WITH ERRORS AND SLOPPY PLAY

Veterans of the major league wars will tell you that if you make one mistake against the Yankees—forget it—they'll run you into the ground and throw the shovel away. Well, the Sachems weren't playing the Bronx Bombers last Friday afternoon at Manchester Field, rather a team of somewhat less stature named Melrose High School, but they still succeeded in committing no less than thirteen miscues—ten errors and three balks. And we haven't even touched upon the mental lapses. They lost the contest by the score of 16-7. It was a fiasco of unbelievable proportion, bordering on the outer limits of the twilight zone. It should never have happened. There is no excuse for it. Bill Colella hung his head in disbelief. His team isn't that bad, and he knows it. He must have felt like Johnny "Panic Button" Pesky when he helplessly mumbled during Spring training that he was "sure you fellows aren't as bad as the scores seem to indicate."

What, then, happened? What caused a team of better than average ability and promise to fall on their faces like so many frustrated athletes at a 20-year reunion?

It had been obvious right from the beginning that this squad was weak defensively. They were just as weak last year, and since there weren't any noticeable changes in their training schedule, they were destined to be weak again this year. But, some will point out, how can this be with all that wonderful Little League training these boys have had over the years?

Little League baseball? That's the organization that breeds healthy young Americans and lousy infielders; young professionals who spend more time putting on a uniform than they do playing their position; who polish trophies with the finesse of a concert pianist and run the base paths like Moby Dick.

I remember a gentleman of dignity and poise, except when it came to inexcusable mistakes and then he turned into a diabolical machine of verbal fire and brimstone, who coached baseball, basketball and football at WHS during the forties and early fifties. His name was Edward "Ted" Bartlett, and though he made enemies, he had the genuine respect of all. He knew his business with the cunning and instinct of a professional bounty hunter. He figured all the angles. Most of all, he gave much and expected much in return. Anything short of total effort filled him with rancor and disgust.

I can still recall him taking infielders who were weak defensively and hitting grounders to them until they reached the point of exhaustion—and, usually, they also reached a point of marked improvement. I can recall the afternoon growing dark, and Manchester Field becoming an eerie setting for a lonely group of ball-players and coach, and I can still hear the crack of ball meeting bat and the slap of leather making contact with ball in flight reverberating with a loneliness of its own.

There seems to be a new school of thought today among those who direct athletics: do everything together, do it routinely, and, above all, don't hurt anyone's feelings. Some coaches today have to keep one eye on the field and the other in the stands where the young athlete is liable to have a whole congregation of relatives, friends and sweethearts. Anything the least bit out of line is met with a flood of indignant protest. The old school, I'm certain, was a better one—primarily because it concentrated on the individual as something capable of development. And the individual develops alone, not amidst a crowd. He develops by long practice, and much sweat. Sometimes he has to hate a little too.

Once, when Ty Cobb had been thrown out attempting to steal second, he spent a brutalizing seven hours after the game perfecting every conceivable slide; the hook, the fade-away, the delay, the ram, etc. After an hour his pants were torn and his legs scraped and bloodied, but he kept sliding. Alone—and I stress this point—he developed into the greatest base stealer of all time. Maury Wills? Cobb never had anywhere near Wills' speed; he made up for it with effort, with long hours of practice, and with head-work.

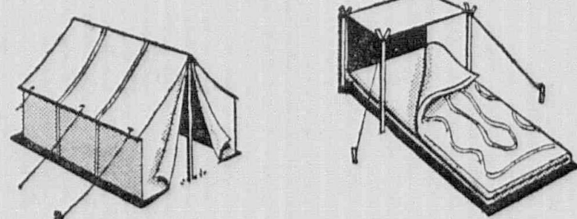

Look around and take inventory of our best athletes. Who are they but people who have set themselves apart, and developed themselves with a kind of Spartan harshness. Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings, although recognized as a NHL super-star, still devotes four hours a day slapping pucks into an empty net from the blue line. Ted Williams once had trouble hitting a slider, so you guessed it—somebody threw nothing but sliders until Ted could belt them out of the park in his sleep.

What's the best way to run a 26-mile marathon, win it, and still have reserve energy? Practice by running 30 to 40 miles a day, half of it uphill. The human body is God's finest handiwork, it can endure much more than you think it can.

"I returned and saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong."

—Ecclesiastes

TV watchers will have the opportunity of seeing three local boys this Thursday night at 7:30 over WGBH, Channel 2. "College Sport of the Week" will feature a replay of last Friday's baseball game between Tufts and Boston College. Vandy French and Dale Grinnell bat third and fourth respectively in the Jumbos' lineup, and Woburn's Jack Rotondo lurled for the Eagles, Grinnell, by the way, accounted for two of Tufts' four safeties in the game. . . . The Sachems remaining lacrosse schedule find them at Andover JV (May 13), at Cambridge School of Weston (May 15), at Moses Brown of Providence (May 23), and at Governor Dummer Academy JV (May 27). The Saturday contest at Providence will start at 2 p.m., the others at 3:30. . . . Anyone who remembers Woburn's Eddy Foley making a shambles of Winchester a few years back is not in the least bit surprised that BC coach Jim Miller rates him as the quarterback with the edge for a starting berth this Fall. Foley threw just six passes in an intra-squad game at the Heights last Saturday, and completed them all, including two touchdowns of 11 and 15 yards. His White unit defeated the Maroon group 21-7 before a crowd of 6500.

Babe Ruth League

The Winchester Babe Ruth League will open another season this coming Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at Manchester Field. In the first game the White Sox will meet the Phillies followed by the Cubs vs the Indians.

The White Sox, sponsored by the V.F.W., will be under a new manager Neal Doherty with the retirement of Bill Cruwys, who now will receive his pension. Leading the White Sox attack this year will be Larry Kelly, Kevin Barry and Larry Donaghey. John Lapointe will do the bulk of the catching this year and also will be used in the outfield along with Stan Cruwys and Pete Busfield. Jack Newhall, John Gentile and Paul Sheehan will all be fighting for infield positions. Rounding out the White Sox squad are newcomers Bobby Heitz, Jerome Doherty, Peter Knight, Eddie Roy and Pete Rozett.

Opposing the White Sox in the first game will be the Phillies, under the sponsorship of Chit'd's Men's Shop. This year the Phillies will have a veteran team with 7 out of 9 starters back, including 3 pitchers. Jeff "Golden Glove" Schlener will be back at first base while Bob Helfinger will play second. Brian Collins and Tom Martin will play shortstop and pitch while the "Iron Glove" Brian McKenna will play the hot corner.

In the outfield will be the old man of the team Scottie "Moose" Anderson. Fighting for the two remaining positions will be Paul Hooker, Ken Cooper, who also pitches, and rookies Doug Dalton and Ed Greenwich. "Wild Willie" Brunkhorst will be behind the plate while Alan "Monster" Ingraham may be the "Dick Radatz" of the league. Other rookies on the Phillies are Jim Peterson, Tom Flaherty and Richard "broken bat" Shanahan.

The feature game of the day will be between Beany Perry's Cubs and Paul Connor's Indians. The Cubs, sponsored by O'Neil's Pharmacy, have already been hit hard by injuries with the loss of Rickey Kidder with a broken bone in his foot. Mike Garcia will be the Cubs No. 1 catcher while pitching will be handled by Toby Harvey, John Olivadoti and Bruce Marvel. Richie Donaghey, Fred Thayer and Paul Vespucci will play the infield while the outfield will be patrolled by Joe Cantillon and former Maple Leaf hockey star Fred "Slash" McCormack. Rookies on the Cubs squad are Scott Baerwald, Paul Peterson, Doug Rolli, Mark Merenda and Kevin Cleary.

The Indians, sponsored by Ren-ton's Market, this year will rely on Kevin Sullivan, Joe Monterisi and Jim Munne. Also helping to carry the load this year is Ricky Allen, Sal Pizzano and Phil Boesch. Among the newcomers to the team are pitchers Chuck Elliott and Courtney West, along with Danny Mears, Paul Martini and Tom Mumm.

The Orioles and the Giants don't open their season until the second week of May 18th. The Orioles, sponsored by Herbert L. Wood Plumbing Co., are defending champions in this exhibition games so far, though they lost their quiet man, Pete Blaisdell. Bobby Nobile and Kenny Garvey will give the Orioles a fine pitching staff while Bill Rozett will do the catching.

With the retirement of Johnny "Stilt" Lanzillo, Harry Wood will hold down the hot corner while Rickey Downes and Danny Garvey will guard the right side. Steve Kane, Jerry Downes and Marty O'Donnell will be in the outfield. The new men on the Orioles are Bill Capone, Bill Allard, Mike Boodakian, Jim Hession, Dennis Ross and Greg Mullen.

The Giants, sponsored by Parker - Lane Winn Coal. Oil Co., this year seem to have a lot of pitching depth with the return of Dave DeTeso, John Shanahan and Mike Murray. John Clair will hold down third base this year while Tom Kennedy will also be among the returning infielders. Paul Robinson and John "Len" Carroll will patrol the outfield while Danny "Mumbles" Martin, the new "L" of the league will catch. Rounding out the squad are Bert Arnold, Doug Freeman, Bob McClellan, Leo Lauretano and Mark Fitzgerald.

Lynch Drops Two, Takes One

The Lynch Jr. High School Crusaders after losing two squeakers to Concord and Muzzey of Lexington by identical 2-1 scores, put on their hitting togs Friday afternoon at Diamond Junior High in Lexington.

The final score was Lynch 6, Diamond 0. Brian Collins pitched a masterful one hitter. An infield single in the third proved to be the only blemish. He struck out eight and had starting support behind him in the field of Bill Brunkhorst with two doubles, Joe Monterisi with a double and a single and Tom Martin with a brace of singles led the offensive barrage. Lynch will journey to Belmont tomorrow afternoon.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Little League Opening Day

Winchester Little League opened its 1964 season last Saturday with the weatherman bating a perfect 1,000 and providing the boys with a baseball day that met all requirements. There was plenty of action for the fans with the American League operating at West Side Field and the National League doing its stuff at Ginn Field.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

At West Side Field, the festivities got under way with all of the players lined up at the major league diamond to salute the flag. Rev. H. Newton Clay of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church said a short prayer and the umpires took over for the first game.

The Reds matched hits with the Cardinals in the opener and the final score was Reds 6 and Cards 5 after a see-saw battle that was a seat-squirm from the first inning to the final minutes. John Richmond was pitching no-hit ball for three innings and the Cards were enjoying a 3-0 lead until the Reds woke up in the fourth and pushed four runs across the plate.

It did not take the Cards long to start things off when Ken Sullivan blasted a home run in the first inning with Louie Gentile aboard and then John Puffer drew a pass in the second inning and was able to score on subsequent plays to put the Cards out in front by three runs.

By this time the Reds had had enough so Henry Petrillo singled and Joey Julian did the same. Keith McPhail added the third single and Paul Shanley contributed the fourth hit and when the dust settled the Reds had a 4 to 3 game on their side of the fence.

In the fifth, John Richmond and Carleton Croft were able to add two runs and post a 5 to 4 score for the Cards. Coming up in the last of the fifth, John Campbell singled and scored on Joey Julian's hit to knot the count. Then Paul Shanley singled to get Julian across with the winning run and an opening day victory for the Reds.

Both teams made eight hits and it was a ball game that was a credit to both clubs.

The second game was a three-hit affair as the Mets clashed with the Pirates in a close pitching duel. Steve Mulloy pulled out the honors on this one as the Mets edged Johnny Uccello and the Pirates by a 2 to 1 score. The Mets won this one in the third after Jim Marduhler singled and crossed the plate on Mark Keating's double. Then Keating came in with the Mets' second run and it was a 2-0 ball game.

Dave Hillman's single in the fifth started the Pirates on their way and Peter Niles pumped out a timely single that allowed Dave to score but that was all that the Pirates could do with Mulloy's offerings and it was just not enough.

This was another great ball game that could have fallen either way and the fans had to hold their seats until the final out was made to determine the winner.

An exhibition game was put on at the West Side Field No. 2 with the National League's Twins taking on the American League's Athletics. The Twins did not seem to have read about the Athletics taking the League crown last season so they proceeded to pounce on the champs with a three-run second inning and added another before the festivities were over. The final score of this one was Twins 4, Athletics 1. Oh, my!

The minor league activity was started with two pretty girls throwing out the first ball. Susan Magoun, daughter of the Badgers' manager tossed the apple to Kathy Haffner, daughter of the Wolves' head man. Kathy then threw the ball to the Wolves' catcher and the game was on.

Seeing those girl baseball players must have upset the Wolves, however, for they let out not a growl and the Badgers methodically cut them to ribbons. Thirty-seven ribbons in all were hung up by the usually calm Badgers as they walked off with the really long end of a 37 to 2 score.

The second game brought together the Buffaloes and the Wildcats and this one was full of fireworks. The Buffaloes got off to a fast start but the Wildcats kept scratching away until they were able to capture the game on a 16 to 15 score. Both of these teams will be going all out to show what they can really do in the games to come and the outcomes will be interesting indeed.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

At Ginn Field Rev. Fr. Francis X. Turke of St. Mary's Church said a prayer to open the season after the boys had saluted the flag and the activity began on the diamond.

In the opener the Yankees blasted the Dodgers with a 9 to 3 score that was settled in the first inning. Bruce Mullen singled and Bob Kitteridge, Bill Wolfe and George Queen did the same. Then Jim Grenier smashed a two-base hit, and by the time things quieted down the Yankees had quieted the plate four times.

The Dodgers were still battling, though, and in their half of the second Jim Scollans doubled and scored on Tom Haggerty's single. Haggerty then scored on Bob Whitney's hit and Bob came in on the following plays to give the Dodgers their third and final tally.

If that was the end for the Dodgers, the Yanks were still pounding the ball to all corners of the field. In the third, Bill Wolfe and George Queen both doubled to add the fifth Yankee marker. Then in the fifth three more runs were added by virtue of a Bill Wolfe homer with Bob Kitteridge aboard and Jim Grenier scored after making a long two-base hit.

The ninth run was posted in the sixth as Bruce Mullen scored after singling and it was a long day for the Dodgers' pitching staff. The final count showed the Yankees with nine runs on 12 hits against the Dodgers' three runs on three hits.

The second contest brought the Braves a 9 to 4 victory over the Red Sox in a game that featured a home run by Joe Donahue of the Braves and a homer by Pete Crowley of the Red Sox. The even deal on homers was the only thing that was held at a balanced position as the Braves showed no mercy to Red Sox offerings and rolled over the opposition with ease.

On the minor league side of the ledger the Tigers clawed the Bears to a 14 to 6 tune and it looks like those Tigers have grown out of the kitten stage.

The second contest brought together the Beavers against the Rams. This year the Rams have a roster of young hopefuls that have not yet hit their stride and they bowed as the Beavers built a 15 to 7 victory out of this game.

It was a big opener and there is a lot of season left to go but the winners of the initial games are hoping that it is a lucky sign for them. History is yet to be made!

The Three U's

By Paul C. Tullier, Senior Editor, World Book Year Book

One of the nation's proudest resources—its youth—is being wasted. Why? Because in today's world of automation jobs require not only greater skills but a higher education. Our wasted youngsters lack both qualifications. The following article tells how and why one million of our youths are uneducated, unskilled and unemployed.

The step-up in educational requirements is fanning out into the labor unions. Most have tightened their standards for apprentices; candidates must nearly always have a high school diploma. Nor is that all. Apprenticeships themselves are growing scarce. In 1950, there were 231,000 apprentices registered with the U. S. Department of Labor. But there were only 166,000 in 1959—a drop of nearly one-third. Here, again, the unemployed dropout is caught in a vise. Not only is he unqualified for a trade union apprenticeship, but the apprenticeship system itself seems in danger of shriveling up.

Oddly enough, child-labor laws often seem to hinder rather than help the million odd youngsters who haunt our back streets today. The age at which youths may start work is regulated by state law. So are the hours per day and per week, and the type of work they may do. But the regulations vary from state to state, and the state laws themselves are usually superseded by federal laws when a company is involved in interstate commerce. Rather than get snarled in red tape, firms bypass the young and hire older workers.

Youth unemployment, then, is Doris, who quit school to escape home life, is an underprivileged product of a big city slum. But many dropouts come from much more fortunate environments. Jim, a spoiled, handsome 16-year-old, is from a better-class suburb in New Orleans, where his father is a highly respected minister. His mother is a prominent social worker. "All my crowd had 'jalopies' except me," says Jim, who is an only child. "I felt left out. When my father said the only way I could get one was to earn it, I decided to do just that. I quit school and took a temporary, part-time job. I was 16. What could he do?"

A few dropouts are like Al, who ran afoul of the law at an early age. Al's father died when he was three, and his mother took a job with the Internal Revenue Service in Atlanta to support him. "My mother was away most of the time. I guess I got mixed up with a bad crowd, and all that jazz. Anyway," he adds, "one day a bunch of us were playing a game called 'chicken' and someone dared me to snatch a purse. Just for kicks, I did. I got nabbed."

The corners of his mouth turned down and he wrinkled his forehead. "When my mother found out, she flipped. 'You're tarred for life,' she says. 'That police record'll follow you around like a curse.' I figured, well, what the heck, if I can't win because of one mistake, what's the use of even trying anymore? What's the good of an education? So," he says, defiantly, "I quit school as soon as I could."

Explanations are as varied as the faces of the teen-agers. They come from small families that set little store on education—where the parents themselves are barely able to read. Or they come from large, low-income families who want them to go to work as soon as possible to bring in money. Thousands come from broken homes. The youngsters themselves often give different excuses: "I wanted to get married," "I wanted to join the army," "I was ashamed of my grades." "I was no set of rules to explain them."

But, generally, say most experts, the dropouts can be split up into two groups. Group One takes in below-average students who can't seem to get the hang of reading. The words make no sense. Yet reading is the heart of modern education, the fundamental skill. Arithmetic, too, is extremely important, but it adds up to zero for some youngsters. Simple sums throw them for a loop. This "slow learner" group, according to Eli E. Cohen, executive secretary of the National Committee on Employment of Youth, includes 15 to 20 per cent of the entire U. S. school population—which in 1961-1962 totaled about 38,000,000. They form the bulk of the dropouts.

Group Two is made up of youngsters whose learning ability is normal, or even better-than-average. A study made by the U. S. Bureau of Labor shows that 70 per cent of the group could finish high school if they wanted to. Between 6 and 13 per cent of them are bright enough to do college work.

These then are our dropouts—youthsters who failed high school because they couldn't do the work, or youths who could have done the work but wouldn't. They are the really mixed-up teen-agers with family, school, or social problems who didn't finish school and for whom we can't produce jobs.

S. O. I. Bowling Banquet

The S. O. I. Men's Lodge held its annual bowling banquet last Saturday night, with 200 in attendance.

A social hour at 5:30 got the evening's activities under way, and an hour later Chairman Dick Tofuri gave the call that "dinner will be served." Immediately upon getting all to sit in their places Chairman Dick called upon Ven. Bob Fiore to offer a prayer. Giuliano's Caterers then served antipasto, salad and rolls before heaping plates of ravioli, followed by roast beef and all the trimmings, which was then topped off with coffee and strawberry shortcake.

Chairman Dick then welcomed all in attendance and introduced the distinguished guests seated at the head table. First to be called upon was former Governor of the Commonwealth John A. Volpe, who spoke briefly but earnestly before leaving for another speaking engagement. Others at the head table were Dep. and Mrs. Ed Tarullo, Ven. and Mrs. Bob Fiore, Bill and Ven. Ginger Magro, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson of the Winchester Bowldrome and Frank DiSpella.

To make the first of many presentations of awards, Chairman Dick Tofuri presented trophies to Moose Bellino for high single (164), Richie Riga for highest average (117.6), and to Bob Fiore for high triple (396).

Chairman Dick then asked Ven. Bob Fiore to present blazers to the first-place team, which consisted of Capt. Tony Saraco, Max LaCarubba, Andy Buzzotta, Giro Cerulli, Mario Lentine and Frank Giacalone.

Hokie Procopio, S.O.I.'s successful manager, then had the pleasant chore of presenting jackets to the second-place team, made up of Capt. Richie Riga, Frank Provinzano, Mario Mascioi, Joe DiTucci, Joe Pettiti and Boss Dattilo.

The statistician and official scorer, Paul Lentine, was given the privilege of presenting jackets to the third-place team and members of this unit are Capt. Bob Fiore, Ralph Fiore, Arka Amico, Ralph DiMambro, Dan Mistretta and John Pettiti.

President of the A. C. A., Boss Dattilo, was given the honor by Chairman Tofuri to award trophies to the first runner-up team, and in the unit were Capt. Moose Bellino, Dan Gattineri, Emile Doucette, Angelo Amico, Pete Lonigro and Randy Kazanian.

Ven. Bob Fiore was called upon to say a few words and he thanked all for attending and expressed best wishes to all of the bowling committee for a job well done and closed by congratulating all bowlers on a most successful season.

Last year Rudy Fiore rolled three successive strikes and Chairman Tofuri invited him to present desk sets to Frank Provinzano and Muskie Tofuri for doing likewise this season. Muskie and Frank were told to stand still for Mr. Harold Johnson, proprietor of the Bowldrome, to present to them a pin showing an exact duplicate of the string bowled as shown on the score sheet.

Mr. Johnson also donated a huge trophy showing the names of those on the first-place team to the S.O.I. and for all his kindness and keen interest he was given a loud round of applause.

Chairman Tofuri then selected hard-working Dom Suppa to present most valuable player trophies to one of each of the fourteen teams and those honored were Richie Giacalone, Frank Gangi, Richie Riga, Jay Camaratta, Hokie Procopio, Carl Bertolucci, Bob Fiore, Ben Gigliotti, Dan Gattineri, Joe Marrone, Mike D. Saraco, John Mangano, Tony Saraco and Richie Bucci.

Mr. John Gattineri has his thoughts and interest in the league and every year makes it a point that all participants in the league receive a printed schedule with the rules and regulations and at this point in the program, Chairman Tofuri recognized Mr. Gattineri's fine work and thanked him on behalf of the officers and members of the lodge.

Tony Saraco showed some fine sportsmanship and teamwork that is so important in any form of activity by asking for a moment to make his own presentation. As mentioned above Tony received the M.V.P. award for his team and Tony wanted his next highest bowler, Max LaCarubba, to be the recipient and for this fine gesture Tony was given a big hand.

Dom Provinzano was then called upon by Chairman Tofuri to make an award to Frank Provinzano for a job well done as the S. O. I.'s publicity director.

Chairman Dick then called upon his dad, Muskie, who gave a brief history of sports and recreation as they grew in the lodge. In his history, Muskie went back to 1930 when activities just got under way in the lodge and developed this to present-day standing. He could not help but bring back the fine work Andrew "Dippy" Diapella undertook before the good Lord called for him. Since Dippy has passed a sportsmanship trophy bearing Dippy's name and what he stood for has been presented each year at this bowling banquet. It is the most-sought-for award and is held in high esteem and Muskie Tofuri mentioned that the recipient of this trophy is one who possesses inspiration and desire, one who respects rules and those associated with him and one who accepts decisions without prejudice. He is also one who is fair and firm and is able to sacrifice personal selfish interest for the whole. He is one who is loyal, appreciative, idealistic, friendly, respectful, cooperative, unselfish, not boastful because of disagreement and one who is courteous. After listing these qualifications, Muskie invited "Dippy's" brother, Frank, to announce the winner of the trophy and when Carl Bertolucci's name was given the place went into turmoil and it took a good ten minutes to get back to order to hear the final speaker of the evening, Dep. Edmund Tarrullo.

Chairman Tofuri then concluded the formal part of the program by thanking all for attending and invited all to remain for a night of dancing.

Lewis G. Curtis Is N. E. Manager For N.Y. Company

Announcement has been made by M. Carter Strickland, president of The Smith-Lee Company Inc. of Oneida, New York, of the appointment of Lewis G. Curtis, 154 Highland Avenue, as New England sales manager for the Dairy Division.

LEWIS G. CURTIS

Mr. Curtis has led the Smith-Lee Company in sales for the last twenty-five years and has devoted his entire career to selling to the Dairy Industry in the Northeast.

$1¼ Million Municipal Bond Proposed For Arlington St. Sewer

Increasing Septic Tank Problems Plague Health Board; Myopia Area Public Sewer Line Allays Future Problems

The Winchester Board of Health and the Water and Sewer Board have been considering this week the possibility of introducing an article in a Special Town Meeting Warrant to float a quarter of a million dollar municipal bond issue for the town to install a public sewer system in an area that has recently developed a certain amount of private sewage disposal system (septic tank) problems.

The present plan being discussed by the two town boards involves running a public sewer line from Cambridge Street up Arlington Street (alongside the Country Club) as far as Swan Road. The proposed system would not include any lateral connecting lines; all tie-ins would be at the expense of any developer or homeowner. There is at present a public sewer system that goes down Arlington Street from High Street to Swan Road, and is pumped up Swan Road.

The suggested system would take care of present and future possible tie-ins from those portions of Myopia and Fernway that could gravity flow toward the Country Club. This would allow possible tie-ins from homes currently being developed by the Whitten Construction Company, Inc., on the former Schrafft Estate in the Myopia area.

Michael D. Saraco, director of the Board of Health, said that there are now six known trouble spots in the Myopia area. He noted that among the town's some 200 homes employing septic tanks, problems have arisen in the Myopia, Arlington and Fernway Road area, the South Border Road area, and the River Street area.

"As recently as a year ago malfunctioning septic tanks posed no real problems," Mr. Saraco said,

Country Fair On May 22, 23 Has New Attractions

In just two weeks Winchester will roll out the welcome mat for En Ka's Old-fashioned Country Fair. The Street Fair may be old—but this is the 30th annual fair—but there's always something new.

Everything will be "go" at 6 on Friday, the 22nd, and the fun and the food will hold out until 11 when the weary merry-makers shall wend their ways homeward to be ready for the big Saturday morning parade.

There's lots new in the parade this year. The route will be announced next week, but there's one thing for certain—the parade will lead to Manchester Field in time for flag raising at 10. The old circus calliope will lead off, with floats and marchers falling in behind.

The Auxiliary Firemen in their old-time uniforms will be there with Black Horse Hose no. 2—Winchester's refurbished, authentic hose reel. Robert Raymond is going all the way to Maine to get his antique fire engine for En Ka's parade. En Ka donates money to many organizations and most of them will have floats or cars—all hoping to win one of the two $25 prizes.

Several Thousand Kids See Woo Woo Ginsburg Monday

One might have thought that 527 Main Street was an unemployment office distributing compensation checks Monday afternoon with the continual long line seen there—except for the fact the crowd was mostly eager youngsters dying to get into Harold's Shoe Salon.

All the excitement was over the special personal appearance of "Woo Woo" Ginsburg, who appeared on behalf of JETS, "The speaker with the red ball on the heel," to autograph sneakers and photos of himself, give away "Good Guys" pens and sweatshirts, and distribute JETS top tune hit sheets.

"This is the biggest thing that's ever happened in this town," one smiling young freckle-faced youngster was heard to comment as he waited his turn in line to get in and see "Woo Woo."

"but during the past year the Board of Health has been flooded with numerous complaints about refuse and odors arising from many septic tanks." The board is currently working with distraught homeowners on eight different troublesome systems.

70% In Winchester Drive To Their Job

Facts and figures have just been released by the Government showing the means of transportation used by Winchester residents, and by people in other areas, to get to work each day.

The survey, which is concerned primarily with the nation's difficult commuting problems, is presented in a 560-page publication called "Journey to Work." It was prepared by the Department of Commerce, incorporating data gathered during the last census.

Locally, it shows, the private car is the chief reliance for the daily trek to work.

Of the town's 7,212 residents who go to work each day, some 5,032, equal to 70 percent of the total, commute by car or by car pool.

By way of comparison, the proportion of workers throughout the United States who drive to their jobs is 64 percent. In the New England States it is 65 percent and, in the State of Massachusetts, 63 percent.

To a considerable extent, the nature of each area is a factor in determining the means of transportation used. The compact, highly urbanized communities have more public transit facilities, as a rule, than do the more rural areas.

In such localities, more people use buses, street cars and rail transit, or walk to work, than in others.

In Winchester, the report shows, there are 468 who are listed as walking to work and 219 who have jobs that enable them to work at home.

For the remainder of the local working population, the means of travel is varied. The number who use buses or streetcars is given as 181, those who commute by train, 911, and those who use taxicabs, motorcycles and other conveyances, 139. The number in the "not reported" category is 262.

Immediate, Long-Range School Provision Plans

THE MARSHALL REPORT — PART V

The long-range plan for school plant facilities that is proposed for Winchester includes a single senior high school; two junior high schools; and nine elementary schools. It uses all existing school buildings, but in ways that minimize their deficiencies. It demands immediate action for its initiation, but leaves certain final steps for a later date. It is flexible and open-ended, permitting change and improvement of education to occur on any level at any time in the future. And it promises improvement of education at every level as soon as the first step is completed.

The Senior High School

The senior high school proposed for Winchester comprises the present senior high school, plus McCall Junior High School, with considerable internal change (especially at the senior high) to provide an adequate library, a better cafeteria, additional science facilities, space especially planned to house honors programs, advanced standing classes, and individual work on advanced projects. Individual study carrels will be grouped in areas near the library and near each major subject area. Staff offices will provide a desk and storage space for the personal and professional effects of every staff member. Large - group instruction rooms will be available as needed; at least two, one for science and mathematics and one for social studies

The growth of population in the United States, the move toward the suburbs and the steady increase in the number of cars and trucks on the road have greatly complicated the transportation problem. In some localities, where traffic congestion is most severe, the expanded use of mass transportation, especially buses, is being looked to as a solution.

Voters' Petition Circulates Again For a Referendum

Bill H3000, curtailing the powers of the Executive Council, was defeated by a narrow margin after heated debate by the State Legislature. Although this bill was begun by initiative petition, signed by 125,000 citizens of the Commonwealth—more than twice the number required to bring an issue before the Legislature—it lost in the Senate by four votes. However, it can still become a law. If 10,546 new petitioners show their interest in bringing this issue before the voters, it will appear on the ballot in November.

Winchester's support of Bill H3000 was overwhelming. About 2500 people in Winchester, or nearly 25 percent of the registered voters, 139. The number in the "not reported" category is 262.

Personnel Board Appoints Doherty Exec. Secretary

Daniel J. Doherty, 70, of 1 New Meadows Road, recently retired Chief Attorney for the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Boston, has been appointed executive secretary to Winchester's Personnel Board, according to an announcement this week by board chairman Robert A. Sands.

DANIEL J. DOHERTY

Mr. Sands described the duties of the appointed position as similar to that performed by the late David Crockett, who helped pioneer the formation and operation of the Personnel Board in Winchester during its first eleven years before his death last November. Mr. Doherty will conduct research, information and data, and comparative studies for the board's uses in determining local wage and salary recommendations to the Town Meeting.

Mr. Sands said the Personnel Board had high praise for the several candidates that applied for the executive secretary position, but that the board was unanimous in considering Mr. Doherty the most qualified applicant. "The board is very happy that we have been able to attract and obtain the services of such an eminently well-qualified man as Mr. Doherty," Mr. Sands said, "and his services will

Mugging Attempt, Elks Home Theft, Keep Police Busy

A Canterbury Road resident endured a terrifying incident early Sunday when she was starting her car at about 5:10 a.m. to go to an early Mass in Boston and a stranger man wearing a pull-over type mask opened the car door and quickly stepped in and reached across the seat and grabbed her by the throat and commanded "Don't holler."

The woman, in her late forties, immediately reached over and grasped the man's black woolen mask at the nose—in a clawing reaction—and screamed and grappled with the assailant for what seemed to her like several minutes before he gave up and backed out of the car and ran away.

At 5:18 a.m. the police were notified of the incident, and Officers Anthony Proski and Daniel Pearson were dispatched to the scene by Sgt. William Callahan.

The woman, who suffered several scratches on her face, had a stiff neck and was severely distraught, described the man as being completely dressed in dark clothing with a black pull-over Navy or skier's type slitted hood covering his eyes.

Officers Mario Buzzotta and Angelo Amico joined the other officers in making a thorough search of the neighborhood, but no one was seen.

Sgt. Andrew Crawford and Officer Donald Pigott continued the investigation into the week, and learned that similar cases had been reported in Medford. Medford Police provided an artist's sketch composite of the tall, thin man who has been entering automobiles operated by lone women when they were stopped at traffic lights or starting cars.

On Thursday, May 7, two members of the Elks Club on 12 Elmwood Avenue reported to police that the club house had been broken into and about $400 stolen from a safe sometime during the early morning hours.

The theft was discovered by William "Zark" O'Connor of Somer-

Local Travel Official Blasts N. E. Pavilion As Flop Of World Fair

Storm Of Controversy Follows Wallwork's Describing N. E. Exhibit "A Comedy Of Errors—A Farce Lacking Imagination, Show, Pizzazz"

A 44-year-old Winchester travel official blew the whistle on the New England Pavilion exhibit at the New York World's Fair last week and sparked a region-wide controversy that had literally everyone from the man on the street to the Governors in each of the six states up in contentious arms.

"Somebody needed to say it," said Philip C. Wallwork of 7 Jefferson Road, executive secretary of the American Automobile Association (A.A.), "and everyone else—especially the politicians in an election year—was afraid to say it." What Mr. Wallwork said about New England's exhibit at the world's fair was anything but complimentary or humorous; in fact, he satirically called the pavilion "a comedy of errors . . . an unbelievable farce."

Mr. Wallwork's pungent and weighty remarks brought such quick rebuttals it seemed to many as though the excuses for criticisms of inadequacy were prepared in advance by those responsible for planning and arranging the fair pavilion; and the Governor's in each of the six states instantly set to remedying what could be salvaged and improved upon at the exhibit as a result of the withering blast from the national travel expert.

"If you could imagine something designed to keep people away you couldn't have done a better job," Mr. Wallwork told the Star in an exclusive interview shortly after he made his announcement. "It's a dull, passive, unimaginative exhibit," he said, "and almost anything would be an improvement."

Asked how he arrived at his critical opinion of the New England situation at the World's Fair, Mr. Wallwork said the whole thing started when ALA members coming back from the Fair wrote or called and complained about not being able to find the New England exhibit, and if they did find it they didn't like what they saw. When Variety, the show business newspaper, called ALA for background information for an article it was doing on the lack of showmanship at the New England Pavilion, Mr. Wallwork decided he would personally go down and examine the scene.

Mr. Wallwork spent all of Friday, May 1, going around the New England exhibit, checking attendance figures, interviewing pavilion workers and fair visitors, and inspecting various other exhibits at the fair. "Only one-half of 1 percent of the visitors to the fair are stopping at the New England pavilion," he concluded, "and that's being generous." He added, "Right now New England has a real bomb," Mr. Wallwork says, "but it's not too late to improve things." In supporting his statement that the pavilion's exhibits display a lack of organization and imagination, Mr. Wallwork described the total pavilion as dwarfed by everything else at the fair.

Whereas every other exhibit is two or three stories high, he said, ours is only one story high. Our exhibit is steeped in symbolism, he added, saying everything was hexagonal (representing the six New England states) in shape from the many small buildings joined together to the very tile work on the main mall of the pavilion. This thematic representation of the six New England states was overdone, he said, and few other than native New Englanders are appreciating the point.

Mr. Wallwork strikes out at a comment made by one pavilion official who said "The New England pavilion should be a quiet, restful place for pleasant meditation." "Visitors don't go to a world's fair to meditate," Mr. Wallwork asserts, "they go for fun and it's evident that thousands of fairgoers saw no possibility of getting much of that at the New England exhibit."

Another fair staffer told Mr. Wallwork "We're after quality, not quantity." "He was certainly right on the latter," retorts Mr. Wallwork.

Mr. Wallwork ascribes the lack of pizzazz at the New England pavilion to the fact that it is almost entirely without animation. "Animated displays depicting skiing, lobster boats, and pastoral and beach scenes would help to liven the exhibit up," he contends.

"Take, for example," Mr. Wallwork said, "the beautiful photographic depicting of the nature and character of this region done by Arthur Griffin right here in Winchester." "Any one of those photographs in his book New England could have been made into an impressive diorama of the region's scenic charm to liven up the pavilion," he said. (Off the cuff, but on the record as one of the nation's leading travel officials' as executive secretary of the large ALA organization, Mr. Wallwork said he thought Mr. Griffin's book was one of the finest pieces of photographic work ever done on New England, and he was glad to see it was being sold at the New England Pavilion's Country Store, for it was one of the few creative or artistic things at the exhibit that would in

Wedge Pond's Second Drowning Victim in 2 Weeks

Antonio Subrizio, 78, of 5 Quigley Court drowned Saturday, May 9, in Wedge Pond, the second drowning accident to take place there since April 28, when Norman S. Brazel of 34 Spruce Street, was drowned while fishing.

Mr. Subrizio's body was discovered at 6 p.m. by two boys, Peter Ellison of 3 Glenzary and Steven Washburn of 7 Glenzary, who were swimming around the shore of Wedge at Palmer Beach. They brought the body ashore and Pete's father, Rev. Dr. John W. Ellison, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, who was with the boys at the beach, at once hastened to Palmer Street where he spotted a Police cruiser with Officer Robert Elliott and Frank Vozella aboard.

The Police at once contacted Headquarters where Lt. Jack McHugh notified the Medical Examiner, Dr. Vincent J. Dirago, of Woburn. Dr. Dirago ordered the Police to remove the body to the Lane Funeral Home where he subsequently viewed it, pronouncing death due to accidental drowning. Police said there was no evidence of foul play on the body. Mr. Sub-

Reviews Progress In Patient Care

A patient spends half as much time and gets better faster today in a hospital than he did 30 years ago, Reese E. James, administrator of the Winchester Hospital said on the opening here of National Hospital Week, May 10-16.

Winchester Hospital is joining other hospitals throughout the nation in observing National Hospital Week, held annually during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday (May 12). This week is sponsored by the American Hospital Association to give individuals an opportunity to learn more about the hospitals in their community.

Service, drugs and methods of patient care that were unknown a few years ago have helped reduce the average stay of a patient, Mr. James explained.

"Thirty years ago, the person who entered a hospital could expect to stay approximately 14 days. Today, he can anticipate a visit averaging 7.6 days, thanks to these improved methods of care."

"New triumphs of medical science mean not only new supplies and equipment for the hospital but also require new skills for hospital personnel and new technicians to operate some of the advanced equipment. The doctor's orders today often call many trained teams into action."

As this progress is made in medical care and hospitals become increasingly more complex, they need more and more personnel to care for patients, he noted explaining that for each 100 patients in the hospital, approximately 237 employees are needed.

Although costs of hospital care have risen, Mr. James believes the patient is getting "a bargain" with the advanced methods employed today in hospitals. "The patient is made more comfortable, recovers faster and returns to his normal daily routine sooner," he added.

It Should Have Been Mrs., Not Mr. De Natale

In the story last week about the Saturday computer course at the High School, the omission of the small letter "s" turned a compliment to a lady into a misrepresentation of her husband. When asked to whom the students and the school were indebted for his time on these days, Mr. De Natale had said, "Just thank Mrs. De Natale" (they have six children and a mother of six could use a father on Saturdays). By error it came out "Thank Mr. De Natale." The Star is sorry.

Toastmistresses To Meet May 16

Mrs. James Papadakis, chairman of International Toastmistress Clubs' Council Number 5, and a member of the Winchester Toastmistress Club, will conduct a special meeting on Saturday, May 16, at the Holiday Inn, Route 9, Framingham. The meeting will run from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., with luncheon at noon.

The business meeting will include plans for the forthcoming Northeast Regional Conference, to be held in Detroit, Michigan, on June 13, 14 and 15.

Historical Notes From the Edgells On the West End

On Wednesday, May 6, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Edgell of 8 Sheffield West, their son, Stephen, Jr., and Mrs. Edgell's mother, Mrs. Henry M. Kelly of Cambridge, attended the open house at the newly restored Old West Church on Cambridge Street, Boston, and later, in the evening, attended the reception at the Museum of Science for the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John M. Quirk, new pastor of St. Joseph's Church, West End.

Both historic churches have long chapters devoted to their colorful histories in the book being done by Mr. and Mrs. Edgell on the old West End. The Edgells have spent five-and-one-half years on their book, with Mrs. Edgell (Claudia Kelly) writing the text and doing the illustrations, while Mr. Edgell has taken hundreds of photographs of the area, now raised for the Charles River Park development.

On Sunday, May 10, the Edgell family and Mrs. Kelly went to the Old West Church, where Mrs. Edgell presented the minister, the Rev. John R. Lilly, with a rare copy of the sermons of the Rev. Hugh Worthington. The book, published in 1785, was already inscribed "Charles Lowell, For the Parish Library, a volume of excellent sermons." Dr. Lowell, father of James Russell Lowell, was the fourth minister of the West Church, being ordained in the original wooden church famous in Revolutionary days, and continuing in the present church, which was built in 1806. He died in 1861.

The book of sermons, a rare find, especially since it had been at the church so many years ago, was welcomed back to its home by Mr. Lilly with deep gratitude.

For Public, Too Annual Chest X-Ray Clinic

The annual Chest X-Ray Clinic sponsored by the Board of Health will be held on Monday, May 25, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Michael D. Saraco, director of the Board of Health, explained that this Chest X-ray clinic is held for the convenience of food handlers who must comply with Regulation 16 of the Sanitary and Food Regulations of the Board of Health.

Food handlers under the age of 18 will be tuberculin tested by appointment. This can be done by calling the Board of Health office for an appointment. However, Mr. Saraco added, any person wishing to take advantage of this X-ray clinic is invited to attend whether they be a food handler or not. A fee of eighty cents is charged per person.

"Adventures In The West End Of Boston"

Report

a period of several years, while careful study is being made of exactly what additional spaces should be provided for the ultimate enrollment. The spaces required will be minimal, amounting to a replacement of those classrooms required for additional library space, storage space, and staff offices.

The Junior High Schools

The two junior high schools proposed include, of course, Lynch Junior High School, and another, of about the same quality and capacity to be built at once on a site south or west of the center. These two schools will serve grades 7, 8, and 9, with (it is hoped) close liaison with the senior high school to overcome problems of articulation already mentioned.

The Elementary Schools

It is proposed that Winchester's seven elementary schools be kept to serve grades K through 4, and that, in the long-range plan, two new elementary "middle" or "intermediate" schools be built, each to serve some 400 pupils in grades five and six only. Relieving the existing elementary schools of these upper grades will offer many advantages: the limited special facilities and site area will be less telling on the program of the younger children, and with fewer pupils at each school space can be set aside for some of the things now missing, such as library and remedial classroom.

The planning and construction of the new schools for grades 5 and 6 offers a real opportunity for Winchester to do effectively, in a building planned for the purpose, some of the "new" things that are being tried so rewardingly at Parkhurst, Lincoln, and other elementary schools. The grouping of children in logical ways for special purposes will be encouraged if the building provides space for testing and classrooms with movable walls so that space, as well as pupils, can be employed according to the needs of the activity. Cooperative planning among teachers will go on most effectively if staff offices, conference rooms, and professional libraries are planned and built in rather than created in makeshift spaces. The use of aides and clerical assistants, the obtaining of help from outside resource specialists, and the provision of special help to teachers, already being tried in Winchester with exciting results, can work over so much more effectively in a building designed to facilitate new things.

Where will these schools be located? One, needed at once, should be built at Leonard Field, using the present play area for its outdoor play space and the adjacent town-owned land for the building itself with its walks, drives, parking area, lawn, and landscaping. The second intermediate school, not needed so soon for reasons to be mentioned, should be located west of Cambridge Street, perhaps adjoining or on the park at Ridge Street and Highland Road.

The flexibility of the long-range plan is indicated in that the proposed six-classroom addition to the Vinson-Owen school may or may not be needed, depending on the extent and location of enrollment growth.

Steps Needed Now

Where ever possible the steps in achieving a long-range plan are spaced out so that only a single one need be taken to start with. This is just not possible in Winchester, if the town is to retain its reputation for educational excellence: both the senior high school and the elementary schools present pressing problems, and action on both elementary and secondary levels is imperative.

Step One is always to set aside sites, not just for immediate action but for the later steps that are part of the long-range plan. Potential sites have been identified for the new schools that are recommended, and will be reported to the School Committee and the School Building Committee.

Step Two is to plan and construct a new junior high school. The need here is for something like the capacity and quality of the new Lynch Junior High School. Yet the same plans should not be used: it is always possible to improve on the planning, both educational and structural, of a school; and besides, site conditions are never the same at two locations.

Step Three is to plan and construct an elementary school, to be located at Leonard Field and serve grades five and six. Especially important to the design of this building is staff participation in its planning, to assure that the school reflects the possibilities for improved education in the upper grades—possibilities already budding but not flowering because these interesting experiments in teaching and learning are being carried on in buildings not adapted to new things.

The timing of these first three steps must be immediately. Serious overcrowding and further setbacks to the educational program are inevitable at best, before new quarters can be readied. It must be emphasized that the educational planning of the new facilities is as important as their structural planning. It is unlikely that they will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1965; the fall of 1966 is more likely.

What has been happening in the meantime? The senior high school staff, knowing that upon completion of the new junior high they will have McCall available, must spend many hours of study in determining just how they propose to utilize the space thus made available. Since neither moving nor changes to be made can occur until the new junior high is occupied, there will be ample time for such study.

When the new buildings can be occupied, what is the situation? Elementary education is carried on in a dual organization, with Winchester's existing elementary schools all housing grades K through 4 only. The new school at Leonard Field has relieved the nearly Noonan, Washington, and Lincoln of their grade 5 and grade 6 students, and possibly those from Mystic as well. Pupils from grades 5 and 6 in Wyman, Parkhurst, and Vinson-Owen (or some of these) may for a time be housed in temporarily "extra" classrooms in the new junior high school, thus utilizing it efficiently and postponing construction of a second intermediate school.

Junior high school pupils are housed in Lynch and the new junior high school. Senior high school grades are served by the "campus" comprising the present senior high and McCall. A year or more of study will have made possible the most effective utilization of the spaces in both buildings, with administration, department heads, custodians, and teachers participating in a coordinated effort to use space effectively, eliminate those disadvantages that can be eliminated, and work around those that can't. The resourcefulness already shown in their utilization of the present building gives reason to believe that the expanded facilities will permit a great educational improvement to take place—especially if the town is willing to spend some of the money saved (by not building a new senior high school) to make improvements at the present one.

Later steps needed include the construction, west of Cambridge Street, of a second elementary school for grades 5 and 6, and (at some point in the distant future) replacement, on enlarged sites but at their present locations, of the older elementary schools.

What Will It Cost?

A new junior high school as recommended in Step Two, for 750 students, is estimated to cost about $1,750,000. An intermediate elementary school for 400 pupils can be provided for about $750,000. These figures, based upon costs of similar schools in this area, include construction, equipment, fees, and site development, but not cost of acquiring land.

Harder to estimate, because comparable experience is not available, is the cost of needed changes and rehabilitation at the senior high school and McCall, plus the limited amount of additional space that must be added to assure that the total plant possesses both the capacity and the educational quality required. The figure is probably as high as $500,000, but certainly not near $1 million.

Harder to estimate, because completely new senior high school for 1500 students would cost about $4.5 million, the total expenditure recommended for immediate action is considerably less than if a new senior high school were to be built. Further, the utilization of existing educational plant facilities is not easy to work out efficiently, if a new senior high is built. In terms of the three criteria selected—educational adequacy, economy, and long-range soundness—the steps proposed, if carried out on the high quality of a tapestry made by Mrs. Borden, will permit the schools to continue their excellent contribution to community life.

Elks Big Final Inning vs Calidyne In Hard-Fought Game at Leonard

In a game cut to five innings by darkness, the Elks beat Calidyne by a lopsided 12-5 score at Leonard Field to take over first place in the Town Softball League.

The score is not indicative of the tight game played. Going into the final inning it was 6-5 Elks. In that inning, with one out, Ed Fitzgerald hit a drive far over the center fielder's head which went over the fence for a ground-rule double. The next two batters reached base on an error and a fielder's choice. Tomasi hit a double which just eluded the left fielder's grasp on a diving catch attempt to clear the bases for three runs. Inniss doubled in Tomasi. Casalnuovo walked, as did Richie Walsh. Two more runs scored on some loose play by Calidyne. Kevin Mawn ended the scoring by driving in a run with a double. Calidyne did not score in its final of the inning.

Merenda for the Elks was wild throughout the game and was removed in the fourth inning when he walked the first two men. Tomasi checked the rally by striking out Hector and getting the next two men on a fielder's choice and a fly to right. He struck out two of the three batters he faced in the final inning.

Calidyne scoring took place in the first inning with two runs, and three in the third. For the Elks, they scored two each in the second, third and fourth innings in addition to their six in the fifth.

Hits for the Elks: Inniss a double, Casalnuovo a single, Richie Walsh a single and a triple, K. Mawn a double, Ed Fitzgerald a double, Tim Walsh a triple, Merenda a single, and Tomasi a double.

For Calidyne: Sid Bromander a single, Joe Bromander a triple, Billy Lindsey a single, and Malon a double.

Richie Walsh would have had a home run in the fourth inning, but he fell down halfway between third and home and was tagged out.

Inniss made a fine play on Bob Mingoelli's bid for a hit when he leaped high to snag a liner going over his head. However, the best play of the game was Mingoelli's diving catch of Merenda's soft liner in the second inning. He also made a fine running catch in short right on a ball that looked like a sure hit.

Rescue

Witnessing the ceremonies was Richard V. Golden, the seaman whose life was saved by Foster, operations officer on the Locator.

The incident occurred last January 4 while the Locator was at sea in the Northern Pacific.

Golden and six other men had used the ship's motor whaleboat to pick up mail dropped from a patrol aircraft and had just returned to the side of the ship when two large waves swamped the small craft.

Golden, stunned by the crashing impact of the big waves, was washed overboard into the icy sea.

Lt. Foster, who was a senior life guard at Cornell University, immediately removed his outer clothing, donned a lifejacket and jumped from the fantail of the ship into the water.

He struggled for 300 yards through the wind-swept sea, grabbed Golden and then managed to tow him back to the side of the ship. Too weary by this time to help either himself or the stricken seaman aboard the ship, the 24-year-old officer kept Golden afloat until help came.

Another sailor jumped into the water to help while two other men climbed down a ship's ladder and also entered the water.

Meanwhile several other sailors had gone down the side of the ship to aid in the rescue of the remaining men from the capsized boat.

Foster graduated from Cornell University in the class of 1961, where he was a member of the NROTC Training Program. He entered the Navy and was stationed at Pearl Harbor for two years as a communications officer. He was transferred from Pearl Harbor to San Francisco in July, 1963, and duty aboard the USS Locator.

The seawater temperature at the time of the spectacular rescue was forty-nine degrees. Navy officials said Lt. Foster was in the water thirty-six minutes, and suffered from exposure, muscular cramps, and exhaustion.

V.F.W. Poppy Sale Coming

"Wear a Buddy Poppy. It gives one that good feeling which comes from a small contribution to a worthy cause."

This appeal was voiced by Commander James Rue of V. F. W. Abington Post No. 3719 in announcing the annual sale of V.F.W. Buddy Poppies which will be held on the streets of Winchester on May 22 and 23.

He pointed out that one cent from the sale of each poppy goes to support the V. F. W. National Home for Orphans and Widows at Eaton Rapids, Michigan. This unique child village has attained a world-wide reputation as an example of providing hundreds of orphan children the kind of home all of us enjoy as good Americans.

"We feel that every loyal American will want to do his part to make life easier for those who gave so much. They will have that chance on May 22 and 23 when Buddy Poppies will be on sale here in Winchester."

he of great benefit to both the board and the town."

Mr. Sands said that Mr. Doherty started working with the Personnel Board in the first week of May, at the beginning of the Charles M. Evans and Associates' survey of the town's wage and salary structure, methods and procedures, and system premise of comparing Winchester to 15 other nearby cities and towns to establish the so-called "middle position" in pay schedules, so that he could "get in at the beginning of the Personnel Board's current work and studies."

Mr. Doherty was born in Woburn, and graduated from Woburn High School, Burdett College, Suffolk Law School and Bentley School of Accounting and Finance.

He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1922, and to the Federal Bar in 1925. He is also a member of the Massachusetts and Federal Bar Associations.

During World War I Mr. Doherty served as a Warrant Officer in the Pay Corps, USNRP, from 1917 to 1919. From 1935 to 1939 he served as a Lieutenant Commander, USNRP. He is a past national commander of the American Legion and a life member of the National Executive Committee of the American Legion. He is also a past department commander of the Legion, and a life member of Woburn's George A. Campbell Post No. 101.

Mr. Doherty's professional and governmental experience is varied and impressive. He was a member of the Woburn City Council for two years, and secretary to the Mayor and Assistant to the City Solicitor there. He moved to Winchester in 1947, and served as a Town Meeting Member for three years.

He maintained a private law practice for 20 years, and served as Middlesex Assistant District Attorney in 1935, as Special Assistant District Attorney in 1936, and as Assistant Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts from 1938 to 1941.

Mr. Doherty became Administrator of the U. S. War Bond Program and finally Executive Manager of that program during World War II. He then became Security Representative of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Assistant Chief Attorney for the branch, district and regional offices of the Veterans Administration, and finally, from 1960 to his retirement in January of this year, he served as Chief Attorney for the Veterans Administration in Boston.

As Chief Attorney of the Veterans Administration, Mr. Doherty worked closely with the VA's Personnel Officer in actions involving personnel. He is therefore familiar with all types of standard personnel actions involving position performance requirements, position descriptions, promotions, demotions, performance rating, grievances, disciplinary actions, all phases of work measurement, manpower utilization, establishment and coordination of vacation schedules and other matters pertaining to personnel work.

Another favorite to be enjoyed again this year is the Penny Sale. After the treasures from the Bargain Box and the books have all been nabbed, the high school cafeteria will be the scene of several exciting Penny Sales. A ticket is purchased for 25 cents entitling the holder to 25 chances to win. The Winchester merchants have again donated fabulous prizes—$25 war bond, camera, outdoor grill, doll carriage, bicycle—to mention just a few. So hurry on up to the cafeteria and rest your feet while giving yourself a chance to be a multiple lucky winner.

Plan ahead though and before you make your way to settle down in the cafeteria load up on your supplies—ice cream, tonic, popcorn and a must for the small fry, cotton candy, a guarantee for peace and quiet.

ville who went to the club to clean up in the building.

In investigating the theft, Sgt. Andrew Crawford determined that it appeared to be an "inside job," as a key had been used to gain entrance and then the door lock forced from the inside to make it look as though the storage room in the rear had been forced open, and a similar method used to open a 2 by 2-foot Mosler safe that appeared to have been opened by combination and rifled of about $300 and four small checks before the thief broke the lock dial off.

A coin box on a bowling machine on the first floor was broken open with a screwdriver and the change taken.

On the second floor, doors to the secretary's and the treasurer's offices were forced open by someone slamming against them with his body.

Sgt. Crawford said the police were continuing the investigation, as there were only a few persons who had keys and who knew the combination to the safe.

Also on Thursday morning, Henry Bickford, an employee at Inman Brothers Mobil Gas Station at the corner of Forest and Washington Streets, reported that a rear window at the station had been broken and a thief had entered during the night and stolen $21.80 from the cash register.

The Fortnightly

The Literature Committee of The Fortnightly met at the home of its chairman, Mrs. Ralph Meigs, of 11 Hancock Street on Wednesday, May 6 at 2 p.m.

Plans for next season were discussed. A study of Shakespeare was decided upon in honor of his 400th anniversary.

A social period followed at which a delightful tea was served. Mrs. Everett Littlefield graciously poured. A centerpiece of roses decorated the lovely table.

The final meeting of the club was a most pleasant afternoon, evidenced by the usual charm and warm hospitality of the hostess, Mrs. Ralph Meigs.

Increased study pressures, social pressures and the fact that youngsters mature about two years ahead of when they did twenty-five years ago all add up to increase the difficulties which must be endured by both teenagers and parents, according to the Reverend Father John R. McCall, S.J., who spoke on the "Emotional Needs of the Junior High Child" at the annual meeting of the McCall Junior High Associates held last Wednesday evening.

The meeting opened with a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. Calvin Allyn in the absence of Mrs. Robert Millican, president. Copies of the annual report were passed to each parent and the necessary business was soon completed.

Mr. Brad Bentley representing the Scholarship Foundation then spoke on its efforts and the manner in which applicants for scholarships are selected. He particularly emphasized the fact that each candidate is an individual and that at the end of each year all applications and information are disposed of in order that each candidate's privacy be respected. Mr. Bentley urged that all parents support the Scholarship Foundation as a basic investment in our Winchester youth.

Father McCall, the main speaker of the evening, is an entertaining speaker. He has the unique ability to state plain truths and facts with a sense of humor and this ability takes out some of the personal sting but none of the truth.

Stressing that puberty is ahead of what it was in earlier years, he said that during this development the adolescent goes through a period of self-identification during which he is confused, idealistic, needs constant communication with his peers for security and is often known as the "stone face" by his parents.

Father McCall feels that the basic responsibility of parents is to try and set the best possible example for their children. Children learn by imitating and what better place to learn than at home. An adolescent will learn to stand on his own two feet only by suffering personally small failures along the way. He cannot be coddled through adolescence, nor can he be allowed to run wild. He must have a set of standards set by his parents, and these must be adhered to regardless of what other parents are doing. Only by having a set of standards can he learn to depend on his parents for a stabilizing force.

The attentive parents in this audience alternately laughed with a note of self-identification or listened intently to Father McCall who tried to give an insight on this changing, demanding, frustrating, and challenging period of children's lives.

Mrs. Robert Olson and her committee served refreshments in the cafeteria upon the conclusion of this meeting and Father McCall joined the discussion groups of parents answering questions whenever possible.

The following slate of officers was elected to serve the board of directors of the McCall Junior High School Associates: Mrs. Calvin Allyn, president; Mrs. Walter Farrell, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Wallace McDonald, secretary; Mrs. Stanley Buchanan, treasurer; Mrs. Leonard Mead, program chairman; Mrs. R. Schroeder, assistant program chairman; Mrs. Ernest Covino, membership chairman; Mrs. William Tunnicliffe, publicity chairman; Mrs. Grant Curtis, social chairman; Mrs. Robert Gallant, ways and means chairman; Mrs. Joseph Maspero, seventh grade room mothers' chairman; Mrs. Arthur Fowle, eighth grade chairman; Mrs. Hartley Curtis, ninth grade chairman, and Mrs. William Jeffery, nominating chairman.

A Little Imagination, Please

The special promotion at Harold's Shoe Salon on Monday, with radio disc jockey Arnie "Woo Woo" Ginsburg as the featured attraction, was a little more than just another advertising and promotion campaign. It was a well thought out, planned and organized event—and it was more than that too—it was something that showed a lot of creative imagination on the part of a relatively new local merchant.

Harold Maloomian's matinee "show" had a lot of pizzazz, and the several thousand local youngsters who crowded the sidewalk all afternoon to get in loved it. As one young freckle-faced kid was heard to say: "This is the biggest thing that's ever happened in this town." Well, true or not, one thing is certain: beyond the self-evident commercial aspects surrounding the periphery of the promotion, there is the major factor which we think is worth emphasis and note, and that is that the event was a big deal for many youngsters.

Harold's and "Woo Woo's" comments about the behavior of the mob of youngsters was also of interest: they were pleasantly surprised at how well behaved all the youngsters were. Some cynical and pessimistic localities have a propensity to think that when something is done for youngsters the only thanks returned is sundry amonies like litter strewn about or property damaged or wise-guy remarks. We tend to take the opposite view, and Harold's bears us out, for Mr. Maloomian is very enthusiastic in his compliments on the behavior shown by the many youngsters who turned up at his store.

A matter of continuing debate and interest is just how much the town should or should not be in providing entertainment or recreation for its youngsters. The cocktail party theorists split along the lines of local government involvement. Some think the town government should go beyond the present School and Park Department athletic programs and offer a social activities or civic center of some sort or another with varied and interesting programs for many youngsters. Others, buggy and horse day thinkers, remember that when they were young they created their own enjoyments from small and simple things and didn't have to have "more provided," and therefore question why the present generation should be so lacking in initiative and sometimes control.

On the latter point, the older parental groups should bear in mind that when they were young the United States was so isolationistic that we almost didn't even recognize the existence of the outside world—until we were devastatingly shocked out of our cocoons and hurled into two great world wars that completely altered the mental, emotional and spiritual character makeup of the newer generations formed. While those generations born before World War II still harbor assimilated isolationistic thinking; those born later—today's youngsters—are more alert, aware, informed, and reactive to a much wider world of viewpoints.

What does this all mean? It means that today's youngsters are learning in grammar school what was previously college material; it means that today's youngsters are intermixed socially in ways that wouldn't have been considered quite proper not that long ago; and it means that their leisure time is more and more important than used to be the case.

So the answer to the question of local government involvement in offering more recreation and entertainment to today's youngsters may quite rightly be no, it isn't an obligation. However, as a social problem in a town that used to be a small rural community with not too many youngsters but now is a small city with a decidedly larger number of youngsters than adults, there is a world of difference between what might have to be done and what should be done.

In the community, many service organizations help out with aid, and the churches help out too by doing and offering more and more for the youths in their congregations. The town itself has a Recreation Committee that for several years has been doing an excellent job in providing interesting programs for High School students and gathering study material on the successful results.

The time is rapidly approaching when facilities and money must be appropriated to offer nighttime recreation and entertainment for the many thousands of youngsters and young adults who are hungering for something to do or a place to meet and have some fun in their free time in the evenings.

While the Monday afternoon event this week sponsored by Harold's was a one day affair, its success among local youths should help point out the receptivity with which a well organized and imaginative project would be met. Newcomer Maloomian is to be congratulated for bringing imagination to the forefront. Let's hope to see some more imagination in the community, please.

A Hue And A Cry

Self-criticism is the secret weapon of Democracy, and the ability to openly criticize things and conditions in our society is without a doubt one of the major factors which has led to this nation's continuing improvement and progress on the road of greatness.

It is interesting, in this vein, to observe the great hue and cry that was raised when Winchester's Philip Wallwork, a travel official for the A.L.A. auto organization, spoke out and blasted the poor New England World's Fair Pavilion and exhibit as inadequate.

Sometimes, amid the dissensions, conflicts and strifes of controversy, there arise true record achievements, and it looks as though this might be one of those times. It may be said that the Governors and politicians of the six New England states reacted quickly to Mr. Wallwork's critical charges—in almost record time, one might say. But, while busy trying to refute the arguments, they were also speedily trying to get out from beneath the lowered boom and liven up and improve the pavilion and exhibit. Already many changes have been announced by the participating states, such as Maine's statement that it was rushing some native wildlife down to the exhibit, and more changes are expected to come from a hurriedly called Governors' conference next Monday.

Whatever improvements are made at the N. E. pavilion and exhibit, and a large amount of its eventual success due to the tremendous publicity generated by the controversy, will be all to the credit of Mr. Wallwork—a Winchester man who had something to say, and didn't hesitate to say it truthfully in all its harshness while others sat back and did or said nothing.

A Difference Between Power And Balance

In the past several years the Winchester Board of Health has been obliged to handle more and more health problems in this very large "small town," and has concurrently acquired more power and status as a full town board.

This is as it should be, for there are many health problems of a serious nature that crop up during the year, and it is self-evident that to function adequately the board would have to have personnel, funds, and powers to operate in the public health interest.

One thing observed this week is of interest after seeing several cases in the past Town Meeting of situations where town boards were at odds and actually working against each other to the detriment of efficient town administration and harmony.

The Board of Health's handling of the present septic tank problem from the point of view of proper administration is commendable. Instead of attempting to push ahead on its own and merely through power struggles trying to achieve the ends it deems in the town's interests, the board has met with the Selectmen, the Water and Sewer Board, and plans to meet with the Finance Committee and the Planning Board—in other words all possibly interested or effected town boards—to obtain their help and suggestions in combating the problem.

It is refreshing to see instead of power struggles a balancing of powers through mutual cooperation among town boards. This way, the end solution is more likely to be the best solution for the town.

any true way convey a characterization of the region to non-native visitors.

In commenting further on the pavilion, Mr. Wallwork noted that Massachusetts taxpayers put up 42 per cent of the $2.3 million contributed by the six N. E. states toward the $4 million cost of the exhibit, "but I can't see where there's even $1 million worth of construction to show," he added.

Mr. Wallwork likened the N. E. Pavilion to a museum—somewhat flat, and lacking any lifelike atmosphere. He compared the exhibit to those put up by other states, and said the contrast was great. West Virginia's exhibit has a bright, colorful exterior, and the theme shows the role coal mining plays in the state. There are educational dioramas the visitors see as they walk along a passageway constructed like a path through a mine. In addition, there is a glass-blower there practicing his art before fascinated audiences. Meanwhile, he said, N. E. has a "Walk on the Moon" exhibit which is nothing more than standing in a room looking at a diorama of what the surface of the moon might look like.

Florida has jumping porpoises and fish in tanks and pretty girls, he further noted, while the Massachusetts part of the N. E. exhibit has a small hexagonal building with one hostess handing out travel brochures and answering questions and a quantity of unidentified pictures lining the walls.

The Illinois exhibit has a giant statue of President Lincoln astride a horse at the edge of a huge mall. Mr. Wallwork continued, "while Massachusetts' Kennedy memorial doesn't have a single personal possession or memento of JFK, just a bunch of framed photographs and portraits, many very small and difficult to see."

Mr. Wallwork was especially critical of the apparent lack of organization at the pavilion. Three there was still a lot of work left to be done, and the restaurant was weeks after the fair was opened and things could still be improved, rather than bemoaning a bad exhibit when the fair was over, and, like a Monday morning quarterback, think of what could or might have been done.

Also, he said with a trace of a knowing smile "since the group planning the pavilion didn't allot a single penny for advertising and promoting the exhibit as it should have, the pavilion at least now has received better than a million dollars worth of publicity—and everyone is talking about the New England Pavilion, and is going to see what everyone is talking about!"

Main Street. U. S. A.

by Bert Mills

Washington, D.C.—At least $6 billion in Federal tax dollars will be at stake soon when the House takes up an urban mass transit bill which the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations have been trying to get passed for more than two years.

The key issue is the old quarrel of urban versus rural areas. Major cities have tremendous transportation problems and want Uncle Sam to adopt a new subsidy program to help develop mass transit systems. Congressmen from non-metropolitan areas bitterly oppose using their constituents' taxes for this purpose.

The Senate passed the Urban Transportation Act on April 4, 1963, by a close vote of 52-41. Five days later the House Banking and Currency Committee reported its companion bill. In the 13 months since then, the House bill has been stalled in the House Rules Committee.

The bill has been held up by House leaders for fear it would be defeated. Speaker John McCormack (D., Mass.) said months ago that he was delaying the measure in hopes of attracting sufficient Republican votes to insure passage.

Of course, if House Democrats were solidly in favor of urban mass transit legislation, no G.O.P. help would be needed. There are about twice as many Democrats as Republicans in the House and the majority could roll over the minority if all Democrats supported the White House position.

But many House Democrats are from the rural areas of the South and are just as opposed to a new spending program for the exclusive benefit of major cities as their Republican colleagues. So the outcome is in doubt and tremendous pressures are being exerted on both sides of the issue.

Starting Cost Is Low

Supporters of the transit bill deny that billions of Federal dollars will be required. The initial price tag on the bill awaiting House action is only $500 million, a relatively modest sum. Opponents contend the ultimate cost would be $10-$15 billion. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which opposes the program, assesses the eventual cost at $6-$10 billion.

Subsidy programs have a way of starting small and growing more expensive with each passing year. Also, transportation is an expensive business. New York City in 1961 had an investment of $2.37 billion in its municipally-owned business transit system, Washing-— behind the 1000 budding birch trees that will be planted around the exhibit. "So who will see or read the signs?" Mr. Wallwork queries.

Mr. Wallwork describes the wooden structures composing the pavilion as very much like the backs of what one might expect to be a group of repair or maintenance shops . . . "Or worse yet, like a series of outhouses?"

PHILIP C. WALLWORK

Mr. Wallwork said this week he was glad to see that Maine has just published a long list of corrections it intends to implement, including sending down native fish, deer and other wildlife. In addition, he noted, the governors of all six New England states are planning a meeting in Bedford, N. H., next Monday, May 18, to spruce up the joint pavilion.

Asked whether he thought his remarks would result in such quick reaction and action to improve the New England Pavilion, Mr. Wallwork stated he felt sure everyone else would sit back and remain quiet, "and since it needed to be said, I said it," he said. He added that it was better to criticize the pavilion and exhibit at this time when the fair was just beginning and things could still be improved, rather than bemoaning a bad exhibit when the fair was over, and, like a Monday morning quarterback, think of what could or might have been done.

Also, he said with a trace of a knowing smile "since the group planning the pavilion didn't allot a single penny for advertising and promoting the exhibit as it should have, the pavilion at least now has received better than a million dollars worth of publicity—and everyone is talking about the New England Pavilion, and is going to see what everyone is talking about!"

Foreign Policy Goals

Each day in recent months, new paper headlines have announced some new crisis around the world. Governments have been toppled in South America; Southeast Asian nationalists have seemed to lean toward the Communist orbit; acrimonious disputes have threatened the fabric of the Atlantic Alliance. These developments have generated a deep feeling of uneasiness; all is not quite right with the world. It is clear that the United States is not responsible for every coup and controversy; nor should we attempt to intervene in what are often local matters. Nevertheless, it is the solemn responsibility of American foreign policy to recognize the major forces at work in the world today and conduct our relations with other countries in a freedom and stability.

MAJOR WORLD FORCES

Recent crises suggest three major conclusions. First, the efforts of Communism to dominate the world continue unabated. The agents of Moscow and Peking are not behind every uprising, but they are ready to go to work where there is discontent, where law and order break down; where angry men take up guns and spears against their neighbors.

Communist propaganda offers an appealing world view in the face of human misery, economic confusion and social revolution. We must frame our goals of freedom and liberty in a way that will win the hearts and minds of peoples all over the world.

The second inescapable conclusion is that nationalism is an important source of the disunity we now see in the Free World.

The United States came face to face with the Soviet Union during the Cuban missile crisis in 1962. We won that test of will, but the confrontation demonstrated that both world powers are anxious to avoid the holocaust of a nuclear war. This face has widened the policy choices of other nations and we see that increased freedom manifested most clearly in the independent course pursued by General DeGaulle. His policies embody widely held and well-founded forces at work all over the world; our own policy must reflect this reality.

It is imperative that the United States enunciate coherent foreign policy goals. It should not require a major international crisis to bring the Free World together in common cause. Solidarity can be achieved through the declaration and pursuit of coherent policies. We cannot expect other nations to follow our lead if it is uncertain, shifting or contradictory. We must win the support of other nations by acting like the leader of the forces of freedom.

I firmly believe that embedded in the history and traditions of the American people are the elements of a principled, responsible foreign policy, a foreign policy that can win the hearts and minds of men everywhere. But those principles need clear and affirmative statement. They must be written, as Daniel Webster said of the principles of liberty and union, "in letters of living light" so that they may guide America in her role as world leader in the cause of freedom and justice.

Woo Woo

Harold Maloomian, who established the shoe salon in Winchester last summer, said he was very happy with the large turn out of youngsters and teen-agers from 2:30 to 4:30. He also was very impressed with the children themselves: "This is the best behaved group of teen-agers and youngsters I've seen," he commented with some amazement at the cooperativeness of the kids in waiting at the door in an orderly line, at the absence of any litter being tossed about, and at the manners shown.

Harold said "Woo Woo" distributed some 1500 to 2000 autographed hit sheets, about 200 pens, 20 sweat shirts and 250 records and albums. He said Ginsburg was also quite impressed with the good manners of the children.

The special promotion, which literally took over the entire store for the whole afternoon, helped sell, albeit hurriedly, some 50 Red Bull JETS sneakers. Mr. Maloomian noted that the sales would hardly pay for the promotion, but that that wasn't the purpose of the event—the real increase in sales would come later, he said.

But it was Mrs. Maloomian who probably got the biggest chuckle out of the day. She laughingly told of seeing her husband driving down Main Street just before the opening of the store for the promotion and hearing several neighbor merchants and friends waving and saying "Hey, there goes 'Woo Woo' Harold!"

BOOK REVIEW

Winchester Public Library

FALSE COLOURS

by Gergette Heyer

George IV was regent from 1811 to 1820 and during the years of "Prinny's" reign, life was gay in England—more than gay, it was elegant, extravagant, mannered and boisterous, also immoral, but that hardly distinguishes the Regency from any other period in history. Women were charming and ravishingly beautiful, given to flirtation and reckless spending. Men were debonair, fiercely proud and honourable (despite their peccadilloes) and also given to reckless spending. Beau Brummel set the "ton."

Into this lively setting, Gergette Heyer introduces a reigning beauty and her handsome identical twin sons, aged twenty-four. Alike as two peas in looks and charm, Evelyn (Lord Denville since his father's death) and Kit are different in temperament. "Only the very discerning could detect the real difference between them, for it was subtle and one of expression: Kit's eyes were the kinder, Evelyn's the more brilliant; each was more ready to laugh than to frown, but Kit could look grave for no reason that Evelyn could discover; and Evelyn could plummet from gaiety to despair in a manner foreign to one of Kit's more even temper."

Amabel, their mother, aged three and forty, but looking three and thirty or less, is not only captivating but a ninny-hammer as well where money is concerned. Her sons adore her and their efforts to extricate her from the monetary snarls provide a highly improbable but equally enjoyable plot—the "real story" that so many readers wistfully ask for. Of course, there is a confusion of identity between the boys. Evelyn disappears at a crucial moment and Kit unexpectedly arrives from Vienna to take his place. His twin telepathy has warned him of some misadventure to his brother, but he also feels that Evelyn is safe. Amabel, with her illogical logic manages to compound many errors, but everyone always forgives her. She eventually solves her own problems in a manner which would have prevented them ever arising in the first place. To tell more would be unfair to an expectant reader. But the very essence of the Regency is here—irresponsibility and recklessness, courage and wit, deep affection and scorn—an age of chivalry returned in sophisticated dress.

Apart from the story itself, Miss Heyer has done an admirable job with her characters. Her command of Regency idiom is superb, her dialogue reminiscent of Oscar Wilde or Anthony Hope of "The Dolly Dialogues." And her people are such fun—all of them. The only prospective villain is merely mentioned; he never appears and his villainy never materializes. The several romances are comforting (you want them to happen) and all concerned, even the demon Dowager, possess an irresistible sense of humour. The moral turpitude consistent with "bon ton" is at once matter-of-fact and discreet. Were women treated with gallantry because they were lovelier then, or did they seem and feel lovelier because they were treated with gallantry? No matter. This "then" is a nice time to drop back into and if its end result was Victorian England, the country probably needed a breather.

Remembrances Of Old Winchester,
Water Reservoir

Editor of the Star:

As I am 84 years old and retired it gives me lots of time to think of other days.

Of late I have been thinking of Winchester, Massachusetts and the time I spent around the Reservoirs as a mounted Police Officer and how it all came about through Chief MacIntosh and others.

At first I was appointed as a guard on the North Dam by day and Ned Shea was appointed for nights. We were deputized by the Metropolitan Park Commission; they policed the area and used it as a part of the Middlesex Fells. We had guarded three months when Mr. Charles E. Kendall told me that all guards would be dropped at the end of the week, and they had a serious problem. A notice had been received from The Commonwealth of Massachusetts Health Department that the samples of water from Winchester Reservoirs were definitely much polluted and must be greatly improved or Winchester would have to find a new source of water supply.

A Boston newspaper had reported that the Spot Pond car stop had deposited 10,000 picnicers on a weekend at the five cent fare limit from Boston. The Park Police allowed no one to trespass near Spot Pond as that was Boston's Reservoir storage for about two weeks' supply of water which was brought from up state. The crowd could go to the Sheep Fold, to the Athletic Field or enter the fells or settle in the shade near the field, or go toward Winchester, Stoneham or to the Bear Hill Observatory. There were many places where crowds could have much liberty unmolested away from the eyes of the Police on the Winchester Water Reservoir.

Knowing conditions around the old swimming hole back in Maine, I took my first day off and found my hunch proved correct and I told Mr. Kendall what I had discovered—pollution—shores used as toilets by swimmers. He requested me to put my information into a letter that he could have in hand for Monday evening at the Winchester Water Board meeting where I was asked to continue my investigation until further notice and report in writing for each Monday evening. I later learned that after my reports had been to the Board Meeting they were forwarded to the Massachusetts Health Department and their field men took the reports and checked my investigations.

The outcome was that I bought a horse, put on a uniform and had some men to clear all shore lines of underbrush so that after I had made my rounds I had seen all shore lines of all three lakes.

It was a good job and I liked it but I had a 500 acre farm in Exeter, Maine and it was beginning to look neglected. I also had grandparents to consider and some one of us should make the move, so all were glad for me to make the move.

I had policed for five years and stopped the pollution. The Board had signs with adequate instructions on posts which were anchored in such a way that the ones who tried to pull them up were trying to lift themselves. We had set out Oregon Fir, White Pine and Arborvitae to prevent oak leaves from blowing in the lakes. I built a log cabin of oak and hickory with a field stone fireplace and chimney for a police shelter and a shelter in the rear for the horse in case of showers. These were inexpensive as I did most of the work on slack time when on the job with local material, and the horse did most of the transporting. When I left Ned Shea took over and the Reservoir seemed to me to be in good working condition for some time.

After I had been back on the farm a while the State of Maine went to building State Roads. My location was on a direct road from Bangor to Greenville and Moosehead Lake. They by-passed me to take in some small towns and I was left with two miles of mud to go to the State Road and six miles to a standard High School. I was offered a police job in Exeter at good pay and as my grandparents were no longer living I moved my family to Exeter and let some one else do the farming. Not long afterward I was appointed the Deputy Sheriff to act anywhere in Penobscot County and when a depression caused Exeter to want to give my pay quite a cut I told them to let some one else prove the streets nights. I had had my share. They still appointed me as Police for special duty as is done to enforce ordinances that are not under the general law and any office that no one would take they gave to me. This spring they sent a photographer up to the house to take my picture then I learned that it was to be in the Town Report.

I was given several of the Reports to send to my friends, one of which is herewith.

My wife and I are very fortunate to have four of our children within a few miles and the oldest, Mrs. Isabel True, lives in Methuen, Massachusetts. We have thirteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

I doubt if many of the inhabitants of Winchester would remember me as it was at the beginning of the first world war that all of this began to happen, and the year of the Boston Police Strike, that put Governor Coolidge into the White House.

Very truly yours,
C. F. D. Marsh
96 Grove Street
Dexter, Maine

P.S. I would greatly appreciate to learn if Winchester Water Reservoir still serve the Town, also if the log cabin I built on the Reservoir is still standing.
Editor's Note:

The cabin to which Mr. Marsh refers was destroyed by fire in December 1936 and the insurance money was used to erect a new cabin in the summer of 1937.

Editor of the Star:

Sincere thanks are extended through your columns to the principals, teachers, parents and children of the Winchester elementary schools and Saint Mary's for their fine response to the appeal for old sheets and blankets for sick and injured animals in the wards of Angell Memorial Animal Hospital.

Winchester's support of Be Kind To Animals Week (50th Anniversary) just passed speaks well for the thoughtfulness of its mothers and the kind hearts of its young children.

Winchester
Civil War Group

The Winchester Civil War Group will meet in the Rich Room of the Winchester Public Library on Thursday, May 21 at 7:45 p.m.

The topic for discussion will be May 1864. This was a time of frenzied activity. Not only the Army and Navy were on the move, the political pot was boiling. There was a frenzy of speculation and commercial activity, making May 1864 a most interesting period to study. All men interested are invited to attend.

Board of Appeal
Denies Dwelling
Conversion Case

The Board of Appeal last week delivered an opinion to deny the petition of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Sodi to convert a single-family house at 43 Myrtle Terrace in the Single Residence District to a two-family house.

At a public hearing held in the Town Hall on April 14, thirty persons who were residents of the immediate neighborhood, including nineteen who live on the terrace, signed and submitted a petition objecting to the petition; and many appeared at the hearing to reiterate their position.

The petitioner told the board that there would be no changes in the exterior of the building, merely an interior upstairs conversion to accommodate an apartment for rent.

The board, in its decision, noted: "Although substantial neighborhood opposition is not determinative of the issue, it carries, in a case of this sort, great weight and is certainly compelling evidence that the surrounding property owners are sincerely and legitimately concerned about the dampening effect a two-family house could have on future property values."

The board's denial of the petition was based on Sections 2C and 8 of the zoning by-laws, in which the board determined that such conversion would tend to depress property values and therefore be "injurious to said neighborhood." The board also noted that the 6,000-square-foot lot area was not sufficient to meet a general residence two-family house requirement, and therefore would similarly fall short in a Single Residence District, although there appeared to be no written lot requirement for a two-family house in Single Residence.

The Board of Appeal also handed down last week a denial of the petition of Joseph and Donato Gattineri for the parking of automobiles in a portion of the petitioners' lot which falls within the General Residence District, with the remainder of the lot in the Business District on Swanton Street with a hardware store and cleaning establishment on it.

At a public hearing held in the Town Hall on April 14, no one appeared in opposition to the petition but two persons wrote letters expressing opposition.

The petitioners were thinking of adding a second story to their building which would contain six apartments and which would necessitate extra parking space beyond that which is already paved for five or six cars belonging to employees of the building.

The board determined that conditions required by statute did not exist in this case, and in particular, "there has been no showing of 'substantial hardship,' and . . . that to extend the Business District another 50 feet or so, up to the boundaries of residential neighbors who strongly object to it, would be 'substantially derogating from the intent' of our zoning by-laws."

Dr. Lawrence Quigley, chairman of the Board of Health, informed the Star that a large number of the complaints are coming from high-priced types of homes located among ledge or high-water table or swampy areas. "And," he added, "with most of the lowland Winchester land already built up, the only house sites left in town appear to be mostly in just such areas."

The Board of Health and the Water and Sewer Board, which are mainly concerned with the problem, met jointly with a representative from the Board of Selectmen on Monday night to discuss the problem, and the proposed Arlington Street public sewer line as a plan to prevent more problems from arising in that area where some existing systems are already becoming troublesome, and where more homes are being built.

Editor's Note: According to present building laws, if a developer intends to build a home and there is a public sewer system reasonably accessible, he must tie into it. Otherwise, he may provide the home with a septic tank if the land meets certain state and town percolation and water table test requirements. If a site does not meet regulation requirements, the Board of Health has the right to refuse to grant a permit to allow construction.

The Board of Health is further inviting members of the Finance Committee and the Planning Board to meet jointly to discuss the economic and planning aspects of the health problem and potential menace.

"A private sewage disposal system should be looked upon as a temporary solution to any sewage problem," Dr. Quigley asserted on Monday night, "because a good system could last 60 days or 60 years, and no septic tank system can be given a guaranteed life."

On Monday night the Board of Health reluctantly granted four septic tank permits to the Whitten Company so construction could begin on four new homes. The board emphasized that its reluctance was only due to its dislike from a health standpoint of having septic tanks installed as a means of sewage disposal, but since there is no public sewer line accessible, there was no alternative but to grant the permits. "If a sewer line should later be laid up Arlington Street," Dr. Quigley added, "it might naturally be expected that ties would be made."

A 1962 Town Meeting Article changed the town's building laws stipulating that on unsewered streets construction could not begin before a permit was obtained from the Board of Health allowing septic tank disposal system installation.

In the last three to four years, according to Mr. Saraco, new regulations adopted and recently modified provide very stringent stipulations insuring the most up-to-date health standards; and no system installed in this recent period under the new regulations have yet developed any problems.

Democratic
Town Committee

The newly-elected Democratic Town Committee has been called to a meeting which will take place in the East Room, Town Hall, Tuesday, May 19, at 8 p.m.

The object of this meeting is the election of a chairman, a vice-chairman, a secretary and a treasurer, these officers to serve for the years 1964-1968.

It is expected that we will have a full attendance.

Our social chairman, Mrs. Bee Wilson, assisted by Mrs. Helen Nadeau, is busy setting up hostesses for next Wednesday evening, May 20, when we will conduct our annual series of telephone bridge and whist parties. It is expected that we will have much greater success than last year when the results of the house parties were so gratifying. The money realized from conducting these enjoyable gatherings will be utilized to defray the expenses of our annual cook-out.

The Committee has wound up its 1960-1964 tenure of office with a record of splendid successes, socially and financially. It begins the new term of office with an experienced group of elected members who can be expected to carry on in the best Democratic tradition, instilling pride and satisfaction, not only locally, but state and country wide. At a later meeting the elected group will add to its membership those who have expressed a desire to serve as associate members.

Several of our members were saddened this week to learn of the death of Mrs. Mary Brimmer of New York who died Monday while visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pigott of Arlington. Mrs. Pigott will be remembered by many of our members as Hazel Donaghay, a Winchester girl who spent her early years on Middlesex Street in our town. Our sympathy has been extended to the bereaved family and a large delegation from the committee visited the funeral home in Arlington on Tuesday evening.

Several of our members will attend the Friendship Dinner for Jack Dever, chairman of the Middlesex County Commissioners, Saturday evening in the War Memorial Auditorium in Cambridge. Jack has been a frequent and welcome visitor at our meetings.

REVEREND MOTHER CECILE FONDIMARE, R. C. E., superior general of the Religious of Christian Education, whose mother-house is in Paris, France, will be feted at a Marycliff reception on Sunday, May 17. The Marycliff community and the parents' associations are co-sponsoring the event.

Library To Show
36 Paintings Of Art Association

A group of 36 paintings by members of the Winchester Art Association, selected from a large number submitted by the membership for judging by Elizabeth Lobingier and George Dergalis, will be hung in the Winchester Public Library throughout the month of May for the town's pleasure.

This year's artistic endeavors by the association's membership represented various media of art, and those that can be seen at the library should afford pleasant browsing moments for those visiting the library.

The association held its annual "Member Show on Tuesday evening, May 5, in the Rich Room of the library, where the selected paintings were announced.

James Jones, president of the association, gave a brief talk and introduced George Dergalis, well-known contemporary artist and teacher, who gave a gallery talk in the form of a constructive and inspiring critique. His remarks on each painting kept the large audience completely engrossed.

Of the selected paintings the following eleven works received special honorable mention:

Frank Barnes—Rockport
Addaide Bratt—Calligraphy
Cynthia Cooley — November Woods
Valia Downes—Seascape
Pauline Govoni—La Veechia
Gladys Hopkins—Camp Potts
Sally Luitwieler—Harmony
Emily Marks—Marshlands
Elizabeth O'Malley — Untitled
Red
Jon Sibley—Train Whistle
Lorraine Stewart—The Seventh Hour

The next event sponsored by the Art Association and eagerly anticipated by both the public and artists is the "Sidewalk Show" to be held June 6 in the vicinity of the high school's Manchester Field.

Winchester
Young Democrats

The Winchester Young Democrats attended the State Young Democrat's Convention, on Saturday, May 9 at Agawam. It was a useful and stimulating experience with over three hundred delegates in attendance. Many of the delegates included members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. Among the invited guests were Governor Peabody and Lt. Governor Bellotti. They spoke about the great progress Massachusetts has made in the last two years.

The Winchester delegation was unanimous in its support of Thomas Sullivan who was re-elected to the presidency for two years. It was a very interesting convention and we are certain that all delegates profited by the experience of our convention system.

The next meeting of the Winchester Young Democrats will be announced in next week's edition of the Star. At this meeting we shall inaugurate our speaker's program which will aim at a better understanding of our legislative process.

One Horse But No Shay

Calls came into the Police Department Sunday evening about 8:30 that a chestnut gelding with no rider and no shay attached was seen on both Euclid Avenue and Wilson Street.

The saddled horse was enjoying himself presumably on his own spring outing and continued to do so, going back into the Fells until finally apprehended by officers of the law, Mario Buzzotta and Dan Pearson.

Reported missing for about two hours at the A.A.A. Stables in Medford where it is boarded, the horse had left its young rider and owner, Phil Kieffer of Stoneham, behind on a Fells bridgepath, the victim of a gentle fall.

Just an example of the old saying, in the spring a horse's mind turns to horsplay.

A Volpe Theater Party to Raise $$

A band, traditional floodlights, and ushering by the "Volpettes" will feature the "Volpe Theater Party," on May 15 at the Music Hall in Boston, when the premiere of the year's outstanding motion picture—"Becket"—will be presented.

According to Ralph Lowell, chairman of the Volpe for Governor Committee, advance sale of tickets for the theater party, staged to raise funds for the campaign of former Gov. John A. Volpe, a candidate for the office again this year, has been going well. Ticket prices are scaled from $10 to $100, and the party affords Volpe supporters an opportunity not only to help him campaign but to get together for an enjoyable evening of entertainment.

Tickets may be obtained from Volpe Committee workers or from Volpe campaign headquarters, 141 Milk Street in Boston. All proceeds, except actual production expenses, go to the Volpe for Governor Campaign Fund.

Mrs. James Papadimis spoke on "The Origin and Function of the Peace Corps" and the title of Mrs. Joseph Dagnese's speech was "How to Become a Peace Corps Volunteer." Timor was Mrs. Francis Staffier. Mrs. Harold Pyne was the speech critic and Mrs. Ivy Harris the general evaluator.

Mrs. Cusack Heads Committee For UNICEF

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution have formed a committee of Daughters of the American Revolution who support the United Nations Children's Fund, it was announced today, by Mrs. William C. Cusack, chairman of the committee and Regent and Delegate from the Committee of Safety Chapter.

The New Committee of Safety includes two other Winchester women, Mrs. Stephen Nichols, of 38 Wedgemore Avenue, and Mrs. Lewis Wadsworth, of 54 Wedgemore Avenue, and are pledged to ascertain the true UNICEF sentiment among the 188,000 members in DAR unable to attend Continental Congress; and to recruit DAR members and Delegates to the 1965 Continental Congress to ensure that the DAR Daughters will support the United Nations Children's Fund.

Mrs. Cusack said that her "Resolution" for UNICEF passed the Fall Conference of the Massachusetts Chapter September 26, 1962, with only 2 standing dissensions; and was defeated by the 1963 National Resolution Committee before hearing her explanation. She has received many unsolicited letters, met so many DAR members from so many states this past year, holding her views, some already having resigned because of the present DAR stand against UNICEF.

She feels this committee is important for the interests of DAR and for its image to the United States public - and the world.

The Committee points out that since UNICEF was founded in 1946 it has been supported by each President of the United States, regardless of party affiliation, and Congress each year has contributed to the United Nations Children's Fund—in 1962—$12 million.

Mrs. Cusack stated that in April 1959 DAR Continental Congress passed the 1st resolution against UNICEF and has since circulated derogatory literature about UNICEF.

Mrs. Cusack, welcoming supporters, stated that the committee would start on its work immediately, and promised to keep the public informed of what it would do.

O.E.F. Leadership Institute Addresses Wellesley Group

A special meeting of the Winchester Wellesley Club was recently held on the campus at Wellesley. Members were invited by the college to meet in the new Wellesley College Club for faculty and alumnae. The group first gathered in the large and beautiful Wall room overlooking Lake Waban where they were briefly addressed by Miss Patricia Wulp, director of the Overseas Education Fund Leadership Institute and had the privilege of meeting several Latin American members of the Institute.

A delicious buffet luncheon was served in the dining room, after which Miss Virginia Sides, assistant to President Clapp, brought greetings from the college. Miss Sides, with her delightful sense of humor, brought the group up to date on events on the campus. Of particular interest was her report of the success of the program for Negro guest juniors and the announcement that it is to be continued next year. The college can well be proud of the great success of this venture. As Miss Arline Grimes of the Boston Herald has said, "For nine young Southern Negroes, whose lives have been circumscribed by bigotry, Wellesley College has unveiled a vision of equality, aspiration and color-blindness."

At the close of the meeting, the group was taken on a tour of the new building which is proving to be a great boon to both faculty and alumnae.

Homefronters' Annual Bake Sale Will Be Tomorrow

The annual bake sale sponsored by the Winchester Homefronters, under the able chairmanship of Mrs. L. J. Scott, will be held in Converse Market, May 15, at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Michael MacDonald, chairman, and Mrs. Arthur Sullivan, co-chairman of the sale and their committee, said they hoped they would get the support of the entire town, as this event is the kickoff fund-raising to buy supplies to help fill the Christmas Boxes which are sent to Winchester residents who are on active military duty.

Donations of baked goods will be most welcome, according to the committee.

Cambridge YWCA Annual Meeting

A highlight of the annual meeting of the Cambridge Y. W. C. A. held recently was the announcement that the April benefit auction had resulted in proceeds of more than $2,700 for the New Residence Building Fund.

Mrs. Henry D. Winslow of Cambridge, president, presided at the meeting and introduced Mrs. Burton B. Stuart of Lexington, chairman of the benefit auction who stated that the addition of the auction funds brought the total of the New Residence Fund to $404,643 of its $475,000 goal.

Winchester residents who had helped toward the success of this event were Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr., Mrs. James Sauber and Mrs. Frank X. White.

In the light of the above financial report, Mrs. Craig Angell of Lincoln, chairman of the capital expansion committee, was able to announce that the ground-breaking for the new residence would be only weeks away. The much-needed doubling of the Y's overnight accommodations will soon be a reality.

At the election of officers at the close of the meeting, H. Gardner Bradley of Winchester was elected a trustee for a term of three years.

Laundering Glass Fiber Draperies

If fiberglass draperies are on your list of items to launder while involved in that spring cleaning chore then here is a bit of practical advice from the Wakefield Laundry.

Glass fibers are essentially tiny glass rods and, therefore, have the same properties as glass. Draperies made of glass fibers will not burn, stretch, shrink, deteriorate, or absorb moisture. The only soil a glass drapery can hold is surface soil and it can easily be removed. Because glass fibers are like tiny glass rods, they are more brittle and less flexible than other fibers. They lack durability when subjected to a great deal of bending.

The laundering of glass fiber draperies can create many problems unless mechanical action is kept to a minimum. The friction in washing can cut or scratch the fabric. A special finish is added to the fibers to help them resist abrasion.

When laundering your draperies, we recommend a dip and soak action, and air drying. Because glass fibers are non-absorbent, they will dry quickly. Avoid excess mechanical action, tumbling, wringing, or ironing when handling glass fiber draperies.

When having your draperies cleaned professionally, inform the laundryman or drycleaner when they contain glass yarns or synthetic fibers. This will enable him to give your items the specialized care they require.

Is your young child having difficulty with his spelling? Ask about the pre-cut letters we have and make your own alphabet sets. Inexpensive enough to purchase several letters of one kind for sentence building. At the Winchester Star.

St. Mary's Art Entries Displayed At Boston College

For the past few weeks the students of St. Mary's School have anxiously awaited the results of the judging of the art entries which were submitted by forty-five students of their school. These drawings were entered into the Twelfth Diocesan Catholic Art Fair.

The following awards which were presented to the children at the Award Ceremony on Sunday afternoon, May 3, at the McHugh Forum, Boston College:

First Prize: William McBain, grade 5; Paul Curran, grade 4 and Charles Bumiller, grade 1.
Second Prize: Judith Eames, grade 7; Mary Dobbins, grade 4 and Mary Anne Yanulis, grade 1.
Honorable Mention: James Spignesi, grade 5 and Mary Ann Beaton, grade 1.

The Twelfth Catholic School Art Fair was open to the public last weekend from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Kiwanis Holds Successful Social

The Kiwanis Club held a fine social Saturday night, May 9, at the Masonic Hall on Mt. Vernon Street, with a congenial crowd in attendance.

There was dancing to that popular combo, Two Scotchies and a Rye, throughout the evening, interrupted only by a fine collation served at about 10:30.

Chairman for the affair was Sonny Cannava, assisted by a committee consisting of Dominic Capone, Creighton Horn, Hugo LaTosi, Roger Whittemore and Joseph Peel.

Dr. Marshall To Speak at Lincoln School Meeting

On Thursday, May 21, at 8 p.m., Dr. John Marshall will speak at the Lincoln School to all parents who are concerned about children's education. This meeting is open to all citizens and will be of especial interest to those parents whose children are attending Lincoln, Washington, Noonan, Wyman and Mystic Schools.

The topic "Space and Educational Needs of Winchester Elementary Schools" will define this pressing problem of overcrowding; the result of Dr. Marshall's recent survey of Winchester's school building needs.

Dr. Marshall was hired by the School Committee and the Permanent Building Committee to develop a professional proposal to solve school building problems. Before parents and citizens can hope to obtain the best school buildings for the education of their children, intelligent discussion of school problems and needs is most urgent.

Dr. Marshall's report, now completed, includes a proposal for a $700,000 school in the vicinity of Leonard Field. This school would serve grades 5 and 6 from the Lincoln, Noonan and Washington Schools, all older and overcrowded beyond any effective educational requirements.

This particular recommendation, involving all parents in the three school districts, poses a number of questions. Will such a school solve long-range needs? Are there any alternative solutions to this proposal?

Parents will have a rare opportunity to question Dr. Marshall, for this is his first appearance before a school parents group. The Lincoln School Mothers Association invites every parent in town to attend this meeting.

Of additional interest there will be an "art gallery" on display composed of drawings and pictures done by the children of Lincoln School. Parents will be able to purchase these "masterpieces," the sale of which will help to support the unique dictionary gift fund.

Each year the 6th graders of Lincoln School are presented in June with a superb dictionary, useful throughout high school and college. Parents will not only have the opportunity to help the dictionary fund, but also to appreciate the art program carried out successfully despite the inadequacies of 40-year-old school buildings.

The town is faced with immediate decisions involving several million dollars to provide the schools with more space. Come and hear Dr. Marshall and involve yourselves in this problem by helping to evaluate our present school building needs and suggest possible solutions.

McCall Classes Enter Contest

The home economics classes of McCall Junior High School have high hopes of winning an all-expense paid trip to Detroit for the June convention of the American Home Economics Association.

They entered the Fleischmann Yeast Young American Menu Planning Contest, and for weeks the students have been preparing a week's menu for a typical family of four—the contest requirement—trying the recipes in class sessions as well as at home.

Forum to Hold Baccalaureate And Closing Banquet

Members of the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church will attend morning worship at 9:15 on Sunday in recognition of the annual Baccalaureate Sunday. Jonathan Moody, Forum president, will assist the ministers of the church as chaplain. The Forum choir, Dottie Keller, chairman, will sing.

At 6:00 p.m. in Chideley Hall, the closing banquet will be held, bringing to a close the 26th season of Forum activities. A baked ham dinner will be served which will be followed by a program including a recognition of senior class members by Dr. Dwight L. Cart, a review of 1963-64 activities prepared by Sally Worthen and Alan Egleby, co-chairmen, the president's farewell message by Jonathan Moody, and a concluding worship service led by Lee Dresser and Steve Butterfield, who have served as worship chairmen for the chapel services during the current season.

At the close of the evening the results of last Sunday's election of officers will be announced by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keppler, Forum superintendents during the past year.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

A fourteen-table field met on Wednesday, May 6, to compete for the Anderson's Jewellers Trophy and the title of Women's Pairs champions for 1964. When the scoring of the scrambled Mitchell movement had been unscrambled, Lee Mitchell and Betty Slade emerged as winners with score of 130½ on an average of 110. This was the closest overall finish in the history of the club, as any one of the first ten teams could have won had they scored a "top" instead of a zero on one board. Or, to put it another way, the field was so closely matched that none of the pairs had even a 60% game.

Sharing in the ACBL master point awards were:

CHOICE OF SLAMS

Most slam hands of the "pat" variety are rather trite in that they offer only passing interest and usually end up with a score at or near average. Board 6 played in Section B (while the ladies were struggling in Section A) had some interesting features overlooked by all.

To the majority of the N/S players, the hand appeared matter of fact—bid six diamonds making seven for a score of 940, which score was exactly average. Strange to say, two pairs "chickened" out at the five level while a pair of real chicks stopped at four. And the grand slam is a lay-down against any defense! Two venturesome pairs bid a slam in spades, also a lay-down, for a score of 980, which would have tied for top except for one E/W pair sacrificing at six hearts for a 1,100-point penalty. As far as the spade slam is concerned, seven is also a lay-down if an initial spade in finesse is taken. Who but a confirmed poker player would risk a sure slam against a fifty-fifty chance of making the seven?

Now about bidding the grand slam in diamonds. My partner, sitting North, gave the clue as soon as my hand became the dummy. After three passes, partner opened two clubs (we were playing "Mexican") so he could not open two diamonds. I responded with two spades; then followed three diamonds, four diamonds, six diamonds. When my hand went down, partner said "I'm sorry. I bid too fast. What would you have done if I had cue-bid in hearts after your diamond raise?" I told him I would have cue-bid in clubs, after which he would have jumped to seven diamonds for a 1,440-point top.

East could interfere with the routine by opening three hearts with his beautiful seven-card solid suit. In this case I would overcall on spades and West would undoubtedly raise in hearts. Now my partner with his great strength should cue in hearts, forcing me to show my club ace. Since we had not been able to show a diamond fit, the seven-diamond bid would have to be made with the hope that the seven outstanding diamonds are not adversely distributed.

WVNA Hears Public Health Nursing Needs

The Rich Room of the Public Library was again the scene of a well attended, informative meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association Board on Friday, May 8.

Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham presided, and reports of various committees were read and Mrs. Arthur Anderson gave a good account of the annual meeting in Boston of the United Community Services, which she attended with Mrs. Loring Thompson.

Dr. Lawrence Fuchs, professor of American Civilization at Brandeis University was guest speaker at this meeting. Formerly, he was head of the Peace Corps in the Philippines and chairman of the Commonwealth Service Groups Study Commission. After some pertinent comments on the unique character of our American culture, he reported on the work of the Study Commission, now dissolved. The recommendations are now in the hands of Governor Peabody and will be made public shortly.

Miss Rita Plummer, in her nursing report, told of several meetings she had attended. Of particular interest was a two day conference on public health nursing sponsored by the Department of Public Health Nursing of the National League for Nursing. It was startling to learn that at least one half of the population of the United States lives where no organized nursing care of the sick is available. And only one percent of the remaining half is served by public health nurses. In order to have adequate home nursing service by 1970, we will need 86,000 public health nurses. There are now 36,000 in public health nursing.

Following the nursing report, a film entitled, "Long Day's Journey," was presented. This motion picture took us on a day's journey with a public health nurse as she cheerfully cared for a number of chronically ill old people, inspiring each patient with a little more courage and faith in their proud efforts to care for themselves. In the care of our aged, the public health nurse gives an invaluable service.

S. O. I. "This Is Your Life"

The ladies' lodge of the Winchester Sons of Italy held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, May 5, and it took a hard-working committee to complete plans for what was to follow after the meeting was adjourned.

There are times when the program and entertainment committee of the organization arrange various forms of entertainment for the members in attendance, and the arrangements made for this particular meeting is, no doubt, the best that could have happened and one that will be remembered for years to come.

The chairlady, Mrs. Rose Fiore, and her diligent committee of See. Vi Bruno, Florence Garcia, Kay Pizzo, Jennie Amico, Sue Barbaro and Ven. Ginger Maggio met at various homes for the past five months to make final arrangements for this unforgettable program which was kept "top secret" until Mrs. Fiore was handed the microphone by Ven. Maggio.

Mrs. Fiore immediately thanked all for attending the affair and lost no time introducing the above-mentioned committee plus the "prop" men Bill Maggio and Joe Paonessa.

Chairlady Fiore opened the program by mentioning that the committee found it most appropriate to have a "This Is Your Life" program and immediately all started to bite their nails in suspense of what might take place. Mrs. Fiore continued by saying this could be you, Kay Lentine of 26 Albany Street, Woburn, or it could be you, Mrs. Angie Dattilo of 8 Columbus Road, or it could be you, Rose De-Toso of 19 Olive Street.

After a moment's hesitation Mrs. Fiore broke the suspense by saying "Yes, This Is Your Life," Mrs. Mary Rotondi of Forest Street, Winchester, Mass., and through all of the excitement Mrs. Rotondi was led to her chair of honor by Sue Barbaro and Jennie Amico.

Mrs. Fiore went on to say that Mrs. Rotondi was born in North Cambridge on May 8, 1911, of French and Irish heritage and attended St. Mary's Parochial High School to graduate with the class of 1927.

The first to bring back memories in Mrs. Rotondi's life was Sister Superior Reinecke (formerly Helen Boyle), a classmate and close friend of the lady of the hour. Sister Reinecke was unable to attend the affair but a telegram mentioned that she would pay a visit to the Rotondi home the next day.

Then a series of voices were heard over a tape recorder and the first belonged to another classmate. Not recognizing the voice Mrs. Ed Serika then came through the curtains and tears started to flow.

Next on the tape came the voice of Mrs. Josephine Faietta and it was at her wedding that the Rotondi's started a romance that lasted four years before they decided to walk the aisle on New Year's Eve of 1929.

Hearing the next voice Mrs. Rotondi said: "Oh, how can I miss that one?" and out walked her husband Gene to greet her with a fond embrace and immediately presented her with a mink stole.

Following Gene came another voice of a close friend and one who stood up for the Rotondi's on their wedding day. The voice belonged to Mrs. Anna Cefalo, who witnessed the "I do" and is held in high esteem by the Rotondi family. Again tears were flowing when they met face to face.

Chairlady Fiore then had the sons and daughters express themselves over the tape and one by one out walked Gene, Jr., Mary Lou, David, Janet, Gloria, George, Budie, Claudia, Anna, Chuckie and Dianne (twins). Not present were Roger, who was on business in New York, and Joe, who was on a honeymoon in Florida, but they both sent very sentimental telegrams.

Also present were Mrs. John A. Volpe (mother of Mrs. Roger Rotondi), Mrs. Gene Rotondi, Jr., Mary Lou's husband John Shattuck, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Shattuck, Mrs. James Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Shattuck.

Following the introductions, Chairlady Fiore continued to say that Mrs. Rotondi has been a member of the S. O. I. for seventeen years; and despite the problems of bringing up thirteen children, a husband, a seventeen-room home, she still found time to take an active part in several of the organization's committees; she brought in many members, was a faithful bowler in the S. O. I. ladies league and was always volunteering to do her part for the welfare of the order.

For all she had done for the lodge and for the keen interest she holds in the order, Mrs. Rotondi was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses by Mrs. Fiore with the love and affection from all officers and members of the order.

Mrs. and Ven. Ginger Maggio was then called upon and she presented Mrs. Rotondi with a sterling silver charm engraved with the S. O. I. emblem. The gift came from each and every member of the ladies' lodge.

Chairlady Fiore then recalled that Friday was to be the birthday of Mrs. Rotondi, and through the curtains came Mrs. Frank Amico bearing a fully lighted birthday cake which was baked by her daughter, Rita Rotondi. After Mrs. Rotondi extinguished all the candles, those in the audience sang "Happy Birthday."

With the formal part of the program over, Chairlady Fiore thanked all for attending to make the affair a successful one; and after forming a reception line, those present were invited to remain for collation and an evening of dancing.

In closing it must be mentioned that the program was quite different, was well planned, was a night never to be forgotten, and the entire committee did an excellent job. Congratulations!

Thomas A. Morse Brings Washington Highlights to WHS

Dean Rusk, secretary of state; Carl Rowan, director, USA; Menen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs and W. Averell Harriman, under secretary of state for political affairs were only a few of the important people heard in conference by Thomas A. Morse, assistant principal of the High School, when he recently attended in Washington the U. S. Department of State's National Foreign Policy Conference for Editors and Broadcasters as a representative of WHSR-FM.

The conference also included a round-table discussion on Africa headed by J. Wayne Fredericks, deputy assistant secretary for African Affairs. Mr. Morse also attended a Monday evening reception given for the delegates by Dean Rusk which was followed by a reception for Massachusetts members of the conference at the home of Senator Edward Kennedy.

The meeting was concluded on Tuesday with a reception given by the President in the Rose Garden at the White House at which time President Johnson spoke, answered questions, and personally greeted the conference members; and it was followed for Mr. Morse and others from Massachusetts by dinner in the Senate dining room as a guest of Senator Saltonstall.

Mr. Morse found the entire conference a most rewarding one and on Thursday, April 30 he spoke to over 150 students of the Modern Problems classes in the high school recapping highlights of the conference.

Prior to his Washington visit he was in New York attending the annual convention of the Speech Association of the Eastern States, the second largest organization of its type in the United States. He completed a two year term on the executive council as the only secondary school representative and he was elected to membership for the coming year to the Committee on Speech and School Administration representing administration.

Heritage Camporee

Troop 524 spent May 2 and 3 at the district camporee, which took place at the Fells in Stoneham. Twenty-two Scouts under the leadership of Scoutmaster William Krupsky and assisted by his two assistant scoutmasters Albert Moulton and Donald Thayer.

It was one of the most successful camp outs the troop has been on all year, weather was ideal. The troop added two blue ribbons and two red ribbons to their collection for performance in troop competition with other troops of the council.

They competed in all five events that were scheduled and came in first in four and second in one. The events were rope rescue, first-aid, fireman's carry, centipede relay and knot tying. All events were relay events with 6 to 8 scouts per team and the event was judged on time and knowledge. The troop also won the major event of the camp out which was camp first aid. There were nine troops that competed.

On the final day each participating Scout received a camporee patch that was of the theme of the camp out, it is one of the most impressive patches that has ever been given to this date. Each boy will be proudly displaying this on his uniform. Only those Scouts that attended are allowed to wear this patch.

Many of the boys were able to pass some of the outdoor requirements for advancement.

Those that attended were: Jack Eames, Bert Bryan, David Cincotta, Wayne Krupsky, Albert Thayer, Eugene Cancelliere, Niel Suneson, Craig Holt, Jon Suneson, Robert Petterson, John Petrany, Thomas Phipps, Steve Phipps, Robert Swanson, Jonathan Webber, Lenord Cancelliere, Richard Anderson, John Farley, Donna Hanson, Scott Moulton, Robert Amoroso, and James Pazolt.

The following patrols were awarded ribbons for the part they played in the success of the camporee: Eagle Patrol, blue ribbon; Wolf Patrol, blue ribbon; Hawk Patrol, red ribbon and Beaver Patrol, red ribbon.

Troop 524 is a camping troop and have been out six weekends throughout the winter and all of the Scouts have had great experience in the art of living in the outdoors. The troop has one more weekend planned before the summer season. This year the troop will go to Parker Mountain for one week, July 26 to August 1.

On Friday, May 15, the troop begins a series of Friday night swims at the Melrose Y. M. C. A. At this time the boys that qualify will be able to pass their swimming merit badge requirements.

Edward Shinnick Receives Award

Edward C. Shinnick of Woburn, formerly of this town, was the recipient of the Albert I. Gordon Memorial Award and designated the "Restaurateur of the Year" at a luncheon held Tuesday, April 28, in the Charter Room of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Building. This luncheon is the kick-off social affair of the New England Hotel and Restaurant Show and was attended by more than 300 people.

A selection committee of leading restaurateurs of the Massachusetts Restaurant Association based their choice on Mr. Shinnick's contributions to the restaurant industry, his effectiveness as an officer of the Massachusetts Restaurant Association, his activities at the community level, the efficiency in which he administers his responsibilities, and the manner in which he represents the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in business as well as in public affairs.

The award was presented by Morris Gordon, president of the Morris Gordon Company, one of the leading hotel and restaurant supply organizations in New England. In addition to a beautiful engraved gold plate, a full scholarship to the University of Massachusetts will be donated by the Morris Gordon Company to be given to a worthy student in the hotel management course in Mr. Shinnick's name.

Mr. Shinnick is the general dining service superintendent of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company which has the largest company operated employee feeding program in New England. He has been employed by the telephone company since returning from World War II military service.

Other activities include the Industrial Cafeteria Managers, Food Service Executives Club, and is a member of the Advisory Board of Boston Girls Trade School.

Mr. Shinnick resides at 5 Innitout Road and is married to the former Alyce McMurray of Stoneham. They are the parents of four children, Stephen, Richard, Nancy and Diane.

Questions About Toastmistress

Just what is the Toastmistress organization? How does it differ from a course in public speaking? Is it expensive? But I don't want to become a public speaker. Is the Winchester club open to Winchester residents only?

These are the most frequent questions and statements asked Toastmistress members. International Toastmistress Clubs, Inc. is an educational, non-profit organization for women with clubs all over the world. Central offices are in California. It differs from public speaking courses by offering continuing experience with emphasis on active member participation and evaluation. Dues are low, which includes handbook, workbook, educational material and a subscription to the Toastmistress magazine. Toastmistress offers not only public speaking experience, but knowledge in parliamentary procedure (necessary in all organizations), lexicology and constant practice of thinking on one's feet.

The Winchester Toastmistress Club is open to women in the general Winchester area. Currently the club has members from Winchester, Medford, Malden, Arlington and Woburn. In the Greater Boston area there are clubs in Reading, Lynn, Natick, Newton-Waltham, Quincy, Scituate, Needham and Boston.

Laymen's Sunday At Unitarian

On Sunday, May 17th, Laymen's Sunday will be observed at the Winchester Unitarian Church. John H. Caldwell of Symmes Road will conduct the service of worship. Mr. Caldwell prepared for the ministry and served the Congregational Church in Charlestown, New Hampshire during his student days. He is at present in business. The preacher for the service will be Herbert F. Rondeau of Thornberry Road who has chosen for his topic: "Onward and Upward — A Basic Tenet." Mr. Rondeau is with the General Electric Company as an engineer in the materials and processing operation of the plant. He has made a thoughtful investigation of the relationship of religion to science and has come up with some interesting concepts.

Dr. Storer will be in San Francisco attending the annual meetings of the Unitarian Universalist Association. Delegates from the Winchester church include Mr. Richard Barnard, Mrs. William Spaulding, Mrs. George Kimball, Mrs. John Reed, and Mrs. Dorothy Guilfoil. Mrs. Barbara Marshman, director of Religious Education, will participate in a workshop on Educational Methods. Dr. Storer will serve as Moderator for a panel on the Arts of the church.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE Seeks "Image Interpreters"
 Everything in the field of Intelligence is not "hush-hush" nor is it all cloak-and-dagger. There's a lot of good old-fashioned hard work involved in most of the jobs of the people carrying out the task of keeping this country informed.
 The hard work, however, does not make the jobs any less interesting or glamorous by the best-selling novel "The Spy Who Came In Out of the Cold."
 The task of the image interpretation specialist, for example, is one of the most challenging yet most rewarding "routine" jobs presently available to members of the Army Intelligence Corps. It is the image interpreter's responsibility to see things in pictures that no one else sees. It was one of these highly specialized young men who, closely studying aerial photographs, verified our suspicions that there were, indeed, Soviet missiles in Cuba.
 The field of image interpretation allows promotion to the top enlisted pay grades as well as appointment to Warrant Officer. In addition to the advancement opportunities, every qualified enlisted image interpreter receives an "extra" $75 a month under the Army's plan of giving additional proficiency pay to certain badly-needed skills.
 Young men interested in the field of image interpreter, or just Military Intelligence in general, may obtain more information by calling the Winchester Army recruter, Sgt. Fred T. Nixon at EX-6-5777, or by visiting his office at 49 High Street, Medford.

Gardenesque
 By James Batten

Russell Lupines
 Russell Lupines became famous overnight when they were introduced 27 years ago. The seeds were imported from England, where the common Lupines had been hybrid-ized by George Russell.
 The Lupines which had been grown here prior to 1937 had small flower spikes in blue and white. The Russell hybrids, however, had gigantic spikes in solid yellow, white, blue, rose, pink, orange and crimson. Thanks to the foresight of an American seedsman, E. C. Vick, the seeds were available throughout this country in 1937.
 Many people believe that the manner in which the seeds were advertised was just as much a cause for the plant's success as was the beauty of the plant itself.
 Most advertisements told that Mr. George Russell first became interested in Lupines at the age of sixty. He supposedly began collecting many species and hybridized his favorites, selecting the finest for further study. His allotment garden, as small plots are called in England, was frequently visited by many people.
 All were amazed at the beauty of the plants; most visitors wished to buy plants. The seedlings were not, however, for sale, and only
 Mr. Russell and a partially paral-yzed assistant knew the breeding secret.
 When George Russell was in his mid-eighties, he chose his finest plants and released them to the trade for the gardeners around the globe to enjoy.
 The hybrid varieties were far superior to the common garden varieties in many ways. The flower spikes were not only taller, but were more completely covered with flowers. The colors available were more varied, too. The lush green leaves are some of the first to appear in spring.
 The name Lupine was derived from lupinus, meaning wolf, since the plants were said to devastate the land as a wolf would small animals. The background of this derivation is interesting and brings up another improvement of the Russell hybrids.
 Quite some time ago, a widespread campaign was started to feed Lupine stalks to live stock.
 However, the drive ended when cattle became ill. It was later discovered that Lupines contained a mild toxin. The poison, called Lupi-nine, is a crystalline alkaloid, with the chemical formula C10 H19-
 NO. The Russell hybrids do not contain the poison.
 Lupines require a sunny location. The seeds germinate easily, but plants, once put into the garden, should be left in the same location. This species has a long taproot and, therefore, does not transplant well.

 The plants should be liberally watered when the leaves show signs of wilting; remember that it takes a lot of water to reach down to that long taproot.
 The plants are perennials and should live for from five to nine years. Should they be planted in an exposed location, some winter protection is necessary.

Make It A Musical Picnic
 This Saturday
 On this Saturday, May 16th, the music organizations of the Winchester High School will travel to Weston to meet with the bands, choruses, and orchestras from high schools in forty towns as Northeastern Massachusetts holds its annual Music Festival.
 During the morning of the festival a very serious series of audition concerts and critique sessions will be held.
 After picnics on the lovely Town
 Green and at the schools, there will be a concert by the massed choruses of seven High Schools. This will be followed by a band concert on the Green by a combined band of 2700 players, after which the bands will parade through the town.
 The Winchester High School orchestra (30) and Glee club (75) under the direction of Mr. Wendell S. Withington will be heard in selections for which they are judged on performance and quality. The Winchester Band (75) directed by Mr. Frederick Murray will also be heard. A rating and criticism of the performance is given. This function gives our young people a chance to see that they are not alone, that in Middlesex and Essex Counties alone there are over 3700 young high school people who place music high up among their interest, who find fun and relaxation, as well as a real challenge in "playing together. Here in their group effort, individual excellence and team spirit produces something they could not do alone.
 The Northeastern District Festival is one of the many activities sponsored by the Massachusetts Music Educators Association. Robert C. Corley, director of Music in the Weston School, will be host and aided and abetted by the town and its organizations who will welcome the young people.
 Youngsters may bring lunch or buy from 12 catered wagons at strategic points in the area (Bor-romeo of Waltham) 4000 picnickers will fit on Town Green and school grounds.

Port-a-Book. As many as 5 or 6 books can be strapped together.
 Has a tough unbreakable plastic handle. Price $1.00. At the Winchester Star.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Dom-
 ley. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may
 avoid a similar mistake."

"I saved my money and bought a small lumber mill for $55,000. This was the realization of a lifelong dream. The mill made good money. But the fire insurance rate on the mill seemed frightfully high. I sincerely felt I couldn't afford much coverage. I took out a fire policy for just the amount I owed on the mill - $3700.

"Then a fire struck. The flames greedily ate up my entire investment - the mill burned to the ground. The shock was so great I don't remember what happened that night; but my wife says I sat with my head
 in my hands, moaning to myself
 in disbelief.

"Not buying adequate fire insurance cost me $51,000! But worst of all, since life is too short at best, I figure it set me
 back SEVEN YEARS, right in the prime of life, towards realizing my goal."

We pass along this true story with the sincere hope that you will profit by Cy's costly lesson.
 May we review your fire insurance coverage NOW—before it's too late?

Elks News

LOBSTERS
TOMORROW NIGHT

The last spaghetti dinner at the Elks Home took place last Saturday, with a good number in attendance. There will be no more Saturday spaghetti dinners until further notice.

Much credit must be given to the house committee for a wonderful job done; to Jimmy Violante for acting as chef for these affairs; and to the many Elks members who chipped in to help prepare, serve and clean up afterwards. Among those who put in a lot of hard work were Mickey Curtin, Bud Twombly, Bennett Wightman, Frank Hadley, Bill O'Connor, Andy Colomese, Bernie Riley and Jack Murphy. There were others whose names do not come to mind at the moment who also did their share.

It was felt that with hot weather coming on something more in keeping with the season would be substituted. The house committee is working on this now, and will make known its plans when completed.

However, the Friday night lobster are still going strong, with the next one taking place tomorrow night. Lobsters, stuffed quahogs and steamed lobsters will be served from seven to about nine. Give yourself a seafood treat. Wives and guests of Elks are most welcome.

The new phone number of the Elks Home has been changed to PA 9-9801. It is the only number that will get Elks quarters. The secretary's phone number remains PA 9-1830 for purposes of official business.

Mitzi Mawn's Elks softball team got off to a successful start with a win over the Sachems a week ago Tuesday. Several new players have been added, and this young, aggressive team should once again play winning ball, with their sights aimed at the S.O.I., their long-time nemesis. For a pleasant hour in the sun, drop down to Leonard Field when the Elks are playing. A little moral support will be most apropos.

Saturday, June 6, is a date to put aside for the family bean supper at the Elks Home. This affair is to give due recognition to Elks wives and their children, who will be served free. Only the head (?) of the family will have to pay a nominal price for his supper.

More information will be mailed to all members in plenty of time, giving fuller details.

New Corporation Formed By Roger D. Newell

A former Winchester resident, Roger D. Newell, now of New York, has recently formed a new corporation under the name of Newell & Friedman, Inc., and has been appointed as the exclusive sales representative of men's, boys' and outerwear fabrics for The Kent Manufacturing Company of Clifton Heights, Pennsylvania.

The Kent mill is one of the largest independent woolen mills in this country today and produces many types of fabrics for the apparel trade, and has been in continuous operation since 1843. The present management represents the fourth generation of the founders.

Prior to forming the new company Mr. Newell was president of the Newell Textile Sales Co., Inc. His entire business life has been spent in the textile field. He started as an apprentice wool sorter in 1932 at Pacific Mills in Lawrence, Massachusetts, and after spending three years in the mill and attending Lowell Textile School evenings, moved to the company's Boston office where he was assistant to the treasurer. He was honorably discharged as a Lieutenant from the Marine Corps, and in 1946 started in New York with Newell Textile Sales Co., Inc., which company has been in continuous operation for the past eighteen years.

In addition to the Kent mill, Newell & Friedman, Inc., also represent several Italian mills, plus Harris Tweed mills, English and Scotch mills. Mr. Newell has served as a director of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers; is a director of I. R. Boody & Co., of New York, exporters and importers; a director of Scentex Corporation, importers of Scandinavian building materials; a member of the National Defense Executive Reserve, and a director of the Mutual Adjustment Bureau of New York.

THE J. H. WINN COMPANY held its annual management dinner last week and heard as guest speaker, Representative Harrison Chadwick, talking on "The Business Climate." Among the many present were, left to right, George M. Naylor, Jr., director; Henry L. Clark, Jr., president; Mr. Chadwick; Ralph W. Jury, general manager; Ernest B. Dade, chairman of the board; Olive E. Barry, assistant treasurer; and Vincent C. Ambrose, treasurer.

Winn Management Meeting Hears Rep. Chadwick On
"The Business Climate"

On Tuesday evening, May 5th, the management personnel of the Winn Company met for a dinner program at the Winchester Country Club. These meetings are usually held once a year to bring this group together as a unit and include personnel from assistant foremen to top level management, as well as directors, the invited guests.

General Manager, Ralph W. Jury, made the introductory remarks to the group, welcomed the new members, and then turned the floor over to J. H. Winn president, Henry L. Clark, Jr.

Mr. Clark referred to the excellent progress of the new 16,000 square foot plant addition, and thanked all for their forbearance in carrying on under the confusion and inconvenience caused by the program; the culmination of two years' planning and implementing. "The full scope of growth and expansion, both past and future, is in direct proportion to the harmonious effort expended by all," he said, "and is reflected in earned wages and greater opportunities. President Clark reminded the group that profit is the primary motivation shared by all business; and supervisory management must use man power skillfully to this end. Fifty-two cents of every sales dollar is spent on man power, he said.

Following a short introduction, Representative Harrison Chadwick of the 29th Middlesex District proceeded on a general discussion of his subject, "The Business Climate." He announced he had the feeling of a homogeneous family group, and went on to say J. H. Winn is a good employer for Winchester, is appreciated, and he wished there were more similar companies within its confines.

As an item of interest — few of us knew that Mr. Chadwick was at one time part of the work force of the Cadillac Motor Co., and did not decide to enter public life until he had completed service in World War II. He enjoys representing people and wants their views brought to him, preferably via first class mail. Yet through trusteeships and directorships, he still enjoys varied business contacts.

One of the great dangers of a democracy, he asserted, is the feeling of the people that the democratic way is automatic. Of course, this is not so and we must bother ourselves with politicians and government. Business must tell its story more effectively through direct contact and lobbyists as opposed to the influential and powerful espousing of the labor side of the picture. "This is a healthy condition," according to Winchester's Representative, "and there are signs that management is beginning to take a more serious interest in government."

team on this problem. Our state court system, with its crowded dockets, calls for expeditious settlements not more judgements. Some local governments have so eroded that they have subrogated autonomy to state government, and conversely the State Legislature has usurped home rule i. e. school committee budgets, teacher and protective department salaries, tenure of office of individuals, etc.

As a concluding statement, Mr. Chadwick said the greatest problem in America today is the moral relaxation since World War II, but as a legislator he feels the turning point is being reached.

Needless to say, after a brief question and answer session, all members of this management group felt they had been part of an enjoyable and very informative evening, thanks to Harrison Chadwick.

Macefield

The reason for running the little ad for so many months about hand-wrought gold designs by Macefield of 10 Winchester Place was the constant inquiry about working in gold. Macefield has worked in gold for twenty years now with no intention to slight silver; it is a beautiful metal of deep highlights. Any silver you have will respond to a brisk rubbing with a soft cloth, especially a hand made piece. may7-2t and all the trimmings, on Monday afternoon, May 4th, by the North Reading Girl Scout Troop 301, a Junior troop, composed of eight girls and their two leaders. These youngsters wanted to do something nice for someone and they couldn't have picked a more appreciative group of children to help. Eyes widened and voices ohed and ached at the sight of the doll house. The teachers Mrs. Carroll Moshier and Mrs. Muriel Todd expressed their appreciation to the girls and their leaders for all the effort and interest that the girls put into the project.

Sachems Blanked By Concord, Then Trip Lexington, Woburn & Reading

It was a week of picking yourself up and bouncing back to normal. After being shutout by front-runner Concord 8-0 on the one-hit pitching of John Tucker, Bill Colella's boys then proceeded to beat Lexington 7-1, Woburn 14-6 in a non-league affair, and Reading 9-3.

Highlighting the current surge was the pitching of Kevin Crowley and the hitting of second baseman Vic Lawson. Crowley, a left-hander with plenty of poise and ability, allowed Lexington just three hits and one run, while walking three and striking out ten. Lawson hit two homers in the same contest, and a third in the Woburn game.

Against Concord it hardly appeared the Sachems were destined to snap out of their tailspin. Only two men reached base against Tucker, who wasn't exceptionally fast but managed to get the ball over the plate. They were catcher Ron Scherban on an error in the first (who was promptly erased on a double play), and third baseman George Murphy who doubled in the third.

Besides the array of cold bats, hard hands also contributed to the defeat. Four Sachem errors again opened doors that should have been shut tight. Centerfielder Billy Donovan, who some will remember running at halfback during the football season, led the visitors with two hits and three runs. Two days later the Sachems traveled to Lexington and struck with a vengeance. A day after that Woburn fell easily. Then Reading on Monday. It was almost as though they had lost their tempers. George Murphy spearheaded the attack against Reading with two triples and three r.h.s. Leftfielder Bobby Murray had a double and a single. And first baseman Buddy Rotondi homered for the winners.

Rotondi's round-tripper came in the midst of a four-run second inning, after an error by second baseman Tom Kelly and a passed ball by catcher Paul Romano had forecasted things to come. Three more runs crossed in the third to put the game out of reach.

Pitcher Dick Faieta had a one-hitter going until the sixth, then Concord sandwiched a stolen base between two singles and broke the ice. They got two more in the seventh on two passes, a hit batsman, an infield hit, and a creditable single.

Camp Six Acres Announces Local Members of Staff

Camp Six Acres, a day camp in Medford, has just announced that three young women from Winchester will be among its counseling staff this summer.

Pamela Hall will return as counselor, Betty Bixler has been retained as Red Cross swimming instructor and Jane Pettie will join the group as junior counselor. It is also happy to announce that Nancy Harrison of Medford will again be with the staff.

The camp serves all children and provides an opportunity for learning to live together day by day. The out-of-doors will be emphasized through the camp's outdoor play areas, softball and baseball, outdoor crafts and cookouts, a playground, archery and rifle range, and our own swimming pool, are just a few of the features.

Camp Six Acres strives to provide every child with a planned summer program set at their own level and pace, as well as a working and social relationship with their own peers. The age standard for registration in camp is the total group for children between the ages of three to five, and the regular camp is for children aged six to twelve.

Because of its beautiful permanent pool, the administration at Six Acres believes that camping there has become more than just summer fun. It is an important experience of learning new things, sharing new experiences, and testing new abilities, in a warm friendly situation designed specifically for this purpose. It's a planned program indoors and out, supervised by a mature well-trained staff which is skilled and experienced in working with children, and in understanding their individual and group needs. Parents who would like additional information in reference to registration procedure, their child, or camp fees, may call Mr. Kipnes, executive director at 396-3262.

WTA Tennis Clinic Begins Saturday

The Winchester Tennis Association again is sponsoring the annual Tennis Clinic at Packer Courts, near Wedge Pond. This clinic is for children, ages 8 to 18, both beginners and intermediates. It will begin on Saturday, May 16, and will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Follow-up clinics will be on Saturdays, June 6, 13 and 20, starting at 9 a.m. After the initial clinic, the group will be separated into two sections, beginners and intermediates, and given special attention.

The first clinic will be conducted by Joe Corish, chairman of the New England Lawn Tennis Association Clinic Committee. Mr. Corish has given clinics for 25 years to coaches, colleges, schools, clubs and playgrounds. He is a pioneer in the Coaches Clinic, having given many in the New England area. On many of his clinics he has worked with such stars as Sam Budge, Jack Kramer and Doncho Segura in America, and also the stars of Europe and Australia. His methods of teaching tennis by analogy has been used throughout the world.

The second clinic on June 6 will be on the backhand and conducted by Mrs. Arthur Hills. Mrs. Hills is ranked in the first ten women players in New England. She also carries a national senior women's ranking. In 1962 she won the New England women's singles championship, and has for many years won the Winchester women's singles.

For the third season R. A. Joslin will cover the forehand and service. Mr. Joslin has been prominent in New England tennis for many years. In 1961 with Arthur Hills he won the New England Junior Veteran doubles championship. At present this team is ranked third in New England Junior Veterans. In previous years he has conducted clinics in Winchester and coached local players for the New England Junior Tennis League.

During the last session the children will learn the fundamentals of court etiquette and scoring. Whitney Gray, tennis court supervisor, will be the instructor. Mr. Gray is well known in local Winchester tennis. As supervisor of the tennis courts he has helped many develop interest and enthusiasm for the game of tennis. Many other local tennis stars will be on hand to give assistance and work individually with the participants. In the event of bad weather a notice will be posted at the tennis courts regarding relocation of the clinic.

CAP League Notes

Last Saturday and Mother's Day the fields were full of CAP leaguers. Each boy played several innings and their thirsts were quenched by Roberta Nowell and Rose Tartarian.

Bob Wild announced that all CAP leaguers will be invited to a Red Sox game at Fenway Park. Busses will leave en masse and fathers will also be invited to help keep the group together. Tickets have been kindly donated and the date will be announced soon.

Babe Ruth League

The Babe Ruth League opened its season last Sunday afternoon at Manchester Field with the Phillies beating the White Sox 10-9, and the Cubs trouncing the Indians 13-2.

In one of the wildest opening games ever, the Phillies came from a 5-run deficit to score 6 runs in the last of the ninth to defeat the White Sox 10-9. With the game in extra innings, the White Sox scored 5 runs in the top of the ninth to take a 9-4 lead, but the booming bats of the Phillies finally exploded with 6 runs in the bottom half to win the game.

Hitting stars for the Phillies were Bill Brunkhorst who had 3 hits including a game winning double, Tommy Martin had a double and 3 singles while pitching a fine game before tiring in the ninth. Brian McKenna had a triple and 2 singles while Jeff Schlener and Brian Collins had 2 hits apiece.

Leading the White Sox attack were John Gentile who had a home run and double and John LaPointe who had a 2 run triple and single. Larry Donaghey also had a pair of hits for the White Sox.

In the second game the Cubs seemed to have too much power as they trounced the Indians 13-2. Leading the Cubs attack was Freddy Thayer who had 3 hits including a home run. Paul Vespucci and Johnny Olivadiotti also had home runs for the Cubs while Olivadiotti pitched a fine game. Ken Vollmar had a home run for the Indians.

Next Sunday afternoon the Orioles and the Giants will open their season with the Orioles sending Ken Garvey against the Giants John Shanahan. In the second game the Cubs will meet the Phillies. Tony Harvey or Johnny Olivadiotti will go for the Cubs while Kenny Cooper will be on the mound for the Phillies.

Jaycee's Tennis Tournery Draws 40 Participants

The second successful annual Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament was held on Saturday, May 9, with semi-finals and finals in the boys' divisions run Sunday morning.

Approximately 40 boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 participated, with four winners and three runners-up—one of each in the boys 18 and under and 16 and under, and the girls 16 and under, with no runners-up in the 18 and under.

In the girls 18 and under category, Kandy McConnell automatically became eligible for the State Tournament to be held here in Winchester over the July Fourth week end and by the local Jaycee Chapter when no competitors entered the tournament against her.

In the girls 16 and under class, Jan Klippel beat Nancy Hoehn, the runner-up, in a close and exciting two-out-of-three set match by 6-4 and 6-3 scores. Jan will represent the girls 16 and under division against same class winners from other cities and towns in the State Tournament. If she is unable to play then for any reason, Nancy, as runner-up, will serve as the alternate.

In the boys 18 and under division, Billy Keeton defeated runner-up Gerry Hills in a three-out-of-five set match with 6-4, 6-3, and 6-1 scores. Many spectators enjoyed watching this final match played on Sunday morning, for Billy has competed successfully in state tournaments and is well known as an excellent tennis player, and Gerry, also known as a good player, comes from a tennis-minded family (his younger brother won the 16 and under division).

And finally, in the boys 16 and under division, Mike Hills won over runner-up Doug Carlson in a long but close match with 6-4 and 6-3 scores. Each winner and runner-up will receive trophy awards, which will be presented to them as soon as they are made up. Also, each winner is automatically eligible to play in the State Jaycee Tennis Tournament which will be held at the Packer Courts over July Fourth week end—with runners-up serving as alternates for those who are unable to play for any reason.

Winners of the State Tournament will be sent to Minneapolis, Minnesota, for the National Tennis Tournament in August by the Winchester Jaycees, with financial assistance from the Winchester Tennis Association.

Red Cross Offers Chance to Study Water Safety

More and more Winchester residents are taking advantage of the diversified and unique water safety program offered each year by A. R. C. at its National Aquatic School, Camp Kivance, South Hanson.

Each year, in the first two weeks of June, Camp Kivance is turned over to the A. R. C. to be used for the advanced training in water safety of prospective instructors.

The courses not only teach the individual how to perform the various skills, but also what methods are best in teaching. Among the various courses offered to students are: Standard First Aid Training, Instructorship in Life Saving, Basic and Advanced Boating and Sailing, and Handicap Swimming.

The school operates for 10 days with 50 percent of the time being spent in the water and the rest of the day in dry land classroom and instruction. When completed and graduated, instructors are permitted to teach and pass anywhere in the world that is covered by the A.R.C.

The following group of young people have already applied and been accepted to attend the school in South Hanson, where the group will total over 245 students which is the capacity of the camp: Maureen Ann Chandler, Harold Murray, Jr., Robert Bravley, Patricia Shinnery, Pamela Davis, Sue E. Puffer John Totman.

Attending the A.R.C. camp in Brookline, New Hampshire will be Rosemary Leary. Any further information regarding the camps can be obtained by contacting William J. Shinnery, PA9-0404.

Lynch Defeats McCall 6 to 1

The rivals from the opposite sides of Aberjona, namely Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools, met for the first time this season on the baseball diamond (Leonard Field). From the first inning when the Crusaders from Lynch scored two runs on three singles and a base on balls, they were in command of the situation. They added one in the second and three more in the sixth.

Tom Martin was the offensive star with three singles while brother John sparked in the field. Brian Collins turned in another superb pitching performance allowing only three hits as he struck out nine, while issuing only three bases on balls. Two of the free passes came in the seventh inning and were followed by an error that allowed McCall to score its only run. Final score Lynch 6, McCall 1.

The two teams will play again Friday, May 22 at Loring Field.

TV Rolloff

On Saturday, May 9, three boys from the Winchester Bowldrome traveled to Bowl-Haven in Cambridge to compete against other bowlers for the right to go on TV. The three boys were Donald Luongo, Jimmy Barry and Bobby Joyce.

Although the boys did not come home with 1st place, they did place pretty good for their first time in a TV rolloff. Donald Luongo rolled a nice 100 first string and ended up with a 289 for three strings to put him in 5th place.

Jimmy Barry did fairly well but placed 14th by rolling a very nice 248 triple and a 91 single. Bobby Joyce didn't do too good this time out, he placed 19th out of 60 boys by rolling an 87 single and a 232 (not too good) triple.

The winner was Kenny Goss from Wakefield who rolled 109-92, 117 singles and a beautiful 318 triple.

The girl's winner was Mary Ellen Burke who rolled a 281 triple and a high single of 109. The boy and girl winners will appear on TV May 23. Don't forget.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

(This is the first in a series of sketches of the Little League teams in Winchester. Each team will be covered in succeeding weeks and we hope that you will be watching for your favorite club.)

AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Athletics

Sponsored by Federal Heating and Engineering.

The season has just begun and already the Athletics are gazing at that pennant for 1964. "We are out to make this our fourth straight championship," is Manager Hal Mullen's comment, "and I think that this may be the team that can do it!"

As he glanced along his bench during a recent game Manager Mullen commented on his club. "I don't expect this outfit to burn up the league," he said, "but these boys have the desire and the ability to latch on to that pennant and I fully expect that they will do just that." Bob Stevens, the Athletics' coach, is new to the team this year so he cannot comment on past performances. "But I like what I see this year," was Bob's report, "and I don't think that this team will disappoint me."

It is easy to see why the managerial staff has such confidence as they have a pitching staff that numbers eight men out of the 15-man roster. Bob Bigelow is a pitcher that can also take over in left field and Dick Bannister toes the rubber on occasion and then can travel around in right field. Fred Cammon is another fliker who also catches and plays short while Anthony Fiore works on the mound and takes over at third when needed.

Talent At Lynch School

Marian Blake In Tufts' "Death
Of a Salesman"

Marian "Tommy" Blake of 42 Jefferson Road has been cast in the role of Linda Loman in the Tufts Community Players production of "Death of a Salesman," opening this Friday, May 15, in the Tufts Arena Theater, Medford. Mrs. Blake is well known in the community and in the area for past acting performances.

"Death of a Salesman" is considered one of the classics of the American stage. Written by Arthur Miller, it first reached Broadway in 1948 and since that time has had countless performances in this country and across the world. Though nearly twenty years old, it has a very contemporary ring.

Opening on Friday, May 15, the play will be performed again Saturday, May 16 and again next week, Thursday through Saturday, May 21-23. Tickets can be reserved by calling the theater 623-9662.

First Communion Is Held At Saint Mary's

Attired in white dresses and suits, Saint Mary's First Communion class filed, on Saturday, May 10 from the school hall to the parish church.

The children were led by two acolytes, Ralph DeConto and Christopher Kennedy, brothers of Joseph DeConto and Michael Kennedy, two of the communicants.

Serving Monsignor at the 7:30 Mass were Stephen DeConto and Paul Kennedy, Father Walter Heath, O. P., of Providence College and uncle of Edward Costello assisted the celebrant in distributing Holy Communion.

At the 9 o'clock Mass, the servers were John Connaughton and William Burnham. Acolytes leading the children at this Mass were Paul Shanley and Robert Sylvester, brothers of Mary Shanley and Terrence Sylvester.

Seated in the sanctuary were Rt. Rev. John P. Carroll, C.Y.O. director and uncle of Terrence Sylvester and Rev. Ralph Paonessa, O. S. F., of Christopher Columbus High School and uncle of Stephanie DeTeso and John Paonessa.

Mr. Busby graduated from the Winchester High School, class of 1963, and is a student at the New England Conservatory of Music. S. O. I. News

Many members are making plans to take part in the Bloodmobile Day which is to be held at St. Mary's Hall on June 4. More details later but mark your calendar now.

The regular monthly meeting was held on Monday of last week and we are proud to say that the members widely approved to make donations to the Winchester Scholarship Fund, the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund and the Home for the Italian Children in Boston. Congratulations to every member and it should be mentioned they were all proud to make the donations.

Scoutmaster Bob Fiore announced that the Lodge's Boy Scout Troop is making preparations to participate in the Memorial Day Program.

Boss Dattilo, chairman, urges all to get tickets at an early date for the Luau which is to be held at the club hall on June 13.

Chairman of the Golf League, Art Dunbar, announced that there are 24 members signed up to take part in the order's golf league which got under-way last Sunday. No matches were held on Mother's Day.

Ven. Bob Fiore has announced that the Friday Night Special of clams and lobsters will be terminated until next fall.

Congratulations to Bro. and attorney Bob Maietta who is climbing the ranks in the S. O. I. organization. He is the installing officer of our own lodge's degree team; has been selected a member of the Italian Culture Committee by the Grand Lodge; is the newly-appointed district deputy of the Waltham Men's Lodge and most recently been appointed as the president of the Grand Lodge's public relations.

Bro. Jim Derro has been convalescing for the past two months but he was surprised last Saturday night when his daughter, Madeline, and son, Tom, arranged a 25th wedding anniversary celebration in the honor of their parents. There were 100 present at their home to assist in the celebration with the entire wedding party present. Congratulations and best wishes from all of us to all of you.

Shore Road Athletic Field Project Nears The Finishing Stage

McCall Junior High Playground Is Two Year Development; Cost Of $40,000 Includes An Automatic Sprinkler System

Winchester's newest athletic playing field, known as the Shore Road Athletic Field opposite the Municipal Parking Lot and beside the railroad overpass, is nearing completion and sports a "luxury" item that no other playing field in the town has—an automatic underground sprinkler system to keep the grass green and growing, and which also will cut down on the amount of time and money required for maintenance at the field.

The construction of the field has taken two years, since the spring of 1962 when the Town Meeting appropriated some $40,000 for a field that could accommodate McCall Junior High School physical education athletic programs, due to the engineering problems involved in the settlement of the land that was formerly a dump before becoming a general playground field.

The idea of installing an automatic underground sprinkler system was the brain child of the Board of Park Commissioners, after observing the success of a similar system installed at the Common. Plans were worked out with the Highway Department, which actually installed the system, with the funds coming from economies realized within the appropriations for the project by having town departments doing the work.

The sprinkler system consists of four main aisles of water mains, running parallel to the railroad bypass with sprinkler heads rising to the surface from each; and three lateral lines heading toward Skillings Path to water the corner by Nelson Street. There are 19 sprinkler heads in all, and they are controlled by a clock device in the pump house.

Work on the Shore Road Athletic Field is entering the final stages now as the Highway Department prepares this week to add the last cover fill of loam, which is being taken from behind the Municipal Parking Lot across the street, and then plans to complete the rough grading of the field before the end of the month, according to James Wakefield, town engineer.

Then, in June, the Park Department will take its equipment and men in and scarify the field (loosen the soil up by use of a spoon filled piece dragged behind a bulldozer), rake the stones off the surface, lime and fertilize the soil.

fence in the area, seed it, and see that the automatic sprinkler system is working properly.

New School Building Program In Planning

In a joint meeting Monday night of the School Committee, Permanent Building Committee with its attendant Secondary School Building subcommittee, and Dr. John E. Marshall, the question of a tentative timetable for resolving the school building(s) program problem included a discussion on whether to ask the Selectmen to call for a Special Town Meeting on Thursday, June 18.

The suggestion, made by Richard M. Alt, chairman of the School Committee, was intended to get the school building program "on the road" to make up for lost time before the schools get any more crowded than the near intolerable present overpopulation. The idea would have called for intensive and hurried School Committee and Permanent Building Committee decisions on a course of action.

The suggestion was immediately rejected by Arthur P. Schmidt, chairman of the Permanent Building Committee, who was firm on his reasons that there was a great need for more publicity to bring the townspeople up to date and along with the committees on the problems and possible solutions involved—any one of which could run into millions of dollars, and a need for more study and discussion by the two committees on the problems.

"It would be better to present three different proposals to a Special Town Meeting next fall after exhaustive study and discussion by the committees and let the town decide which solution it wants," was the gist of what Mr. Schmidt said, "than to present a single plan now based on recommendations and compromises and later finding out it wasn't either the very best in long-range terms or what the town itself really wanted but had no choice on."

The complex problem which has plagued the School Committee for more than a year now, seems to be a frustrating situation for its members who are feverishly striving to solve an apparently illogical riddle for which "a logical and at the same time desirable answer" must be found and furnished by them, the riddle is a town with scattered neighborhood elementary schools, two junior high schools, and a high school—with eight of the ten overcrowded and with no site room for expansion, more than half over 40 years old and some even antiquated in terms of modern educational plant requirements, and a continually changing educational system as more and more subjects of higher education are funneled down through the grades and more and more important side aspects of education are added to the system.

"We are searching for a qualitative and elusive answer," Dr. Alt noted with heavy emphasis.

THE FENCE COMES DOWN ON SATURDAY at En Ka's old-fashioned "Country Fair" at Manchester Field, and kids can enjoy patting the cows, riding ferris wheels, and tilt-a-whirl or whatever suits their fancy. Here, Bill Harris and Steven Whitten are shown at Hood's Cherry Hill Farm in Beverly with the cows that will be at the fair. This year's fair has several other new feature attractions added to the annual event to provide more interest and fun for fairgoers.

Planning Board's OK on Steep Rock Road Subdivision

The Planning Board has given final approval on definitive plans, subject to the terms of a conditional approval contract, to the developers of the Steep Rock Road subdivision at the extreme southwest corner of the town bounded on both sides by Arlington and Lexington.

According to the approved plans, there will be ten homes constructed in the area. There will be a main road built through the subdivision (Steep Rock Road from Arlington to Winchester to Lexington) and a lateral short road heading toward the Locke property—and generally toward Lockeland Road. The owners-developers of the homesites are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Graziano of Arlington.

The plans, originally submitted about six months ago, were delayed by mutual agreement between the Planning Board and the developer. Due to the subdivision's location on the extreme edge of Winchester, the Planning Board attempted to get both Arlington and Winchester to agree to transfer the small portion of land over to Arlington, as that town could provide utility and protective services to the area more easily and at less cost than Winchester could. The Arlington Planning Board declined the offer, however, and the idea was rejected.

In subsequent negotiations between the two towns, and by authority granted the Water and Sewer Board under Article 23 of the 1964 Town Meeting Warrant, Arlington agreed to take over water and sewer service in connection with the new development, much as it now provides for an annual fee for Dunster Lane and Hutchinson Road.

The Planning Board finally approved the definitive plans on Monday, May 4, after entering into a conditional approval contract with the developer. Under such a contract, the developer agrees that he cannot obtain a building permit FINISHING TOUCHES ON SHORE ROAD FIELD. A grade-all is shown filling in one of four long water main lines for the Shore Road athletic field sprinkler system. The Highway Department expects to finish its grading by the end of May, the Park Department expects to finish its seed planting in June, and the field should develop young grass by July. The field may then be turned over to the School Department by Legislative Act, and will be ready for McCall athletic programs in the fall of 1965.

A new report on the incidence of cancer in the United States shows just how Winchester compares with other areas of the country in number of cases per year.

Veterans Prepare For Memorial Day Parade Ceremony

This year's annual Memorial Day Parade on Saturday, May 30, will observe wreath placing and Taps ceremonies at the new Honor Roll beside the Town Hall for the first time. Funds for a new permanent Honor Roll were appropriated at last year's Town Meeting; it was constructed last summer, and dedication services were observed on Veterans Day, Monday, November 11, 1963.

An attractive flower setting arranged and donated by Paul Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm now tastefully adorns the Memorial Honor Roll for the observances.

John T. Horn, chairman of the Memorial Day Committee and Parade Marshal, announced last week that both the local American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars organizations were particularly anxious to have as many Winchester Veterans participate in the Memorial Day exercises on May 30 as could make it, regardless of whether they are members of any veterans organizations or not.

As usual there will be many spectators lining the parade route, and the Selectmen will be reviewing the parade at the Common.

Light Reflecting Hydrant Tops Will Be Seen at Night

Winchester's some 1000 fire hydrants will appear a lot more colorful and less drab in the not too distant future when the Water Department, at the request of the Fire Department, paints the bonnet tops of the high service area green hydrants with a reflecting yellow paint for night visibility, and the low service area tops in the lowland parts of town with a grey light-reflecting paint.

Fire Chief Frank Amico said the new color tops will aid firefighters in locating hydrants in the night, and will also serve as a color legend to distinguish high and low pressure outlets as a matter of safety in handling the opening of the hydrants.

At first, Chief Amico asked the Board of Selectmen if the hydrants could be painted all red or yellow so as to really attract attention when going to fires. However, the board noted at its Monday night meeting that it did not like the idea of such vividly outstanding hydrants because they would "look gaudy," although the Selectmen conceded that the present green hydrants do tend to blend into

Republican, Democratic Town Party Committees Elect State Delegates

Pre-Primary Conventions Create Party Platforms, Name Candidates; New Act Adds A Republican Delegate: Rep...9, Dem...3 Delegates

The "kick-off" in local party politics is being formally activated this week in Winchester with the Republican and Democratic Town Committees both meeting to elect state delegates to send to the pre-primary state party conventions during the summer to work on, create and help determine the course of party platforms, and to select candidates whose names will appear as nominees on September Primary ballots for six constitutional state offices and for a U. S. Senatorial seat.

Although many townspeople have been actively supporting and politicking various candidate choices in both parties for the Presidency and the Governorship from the beginning of the year, and although technically the first step in local political decisionmaking occurred during the April 28 Presidential Preference Primary with the simultaneous electing of the Town Committees and the State Committee representatives; nevertheless, this week the Town Committees launch significant steps in the town's having a voice in deciding party platforms and choosing nominee candidates by their very selection of delegates to the state conventions—for it is these men and women who actively participate in determining party decisions at the state level.

The Democratic Town Committee held its election of delegates and officers in the East Room of the Town Hall on Tuesday, May 19, from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Chosen as delegates to the state convention at the Exposition Grounds in West Springfield on July 18, 19 and 20 were Elizabeth C. McDonald of 10 Hill Street, William E. Dailey of 7 Middlesex Street, and Mary V. Serieka of 3 Middlesex Street.

A poll taken among the 33 Democratic Town Committee members present out of the 35 elected revealed that all but one wished the three delegates to support the re-nomination of incumbent Governor Peabody. The excepting Town Committee member favored the nomination of Lt. Gov. Bellotti. When a question was raised as to whether the delegates should remain firm in their commitment to Gov. Peabody, or whether they should be allowed to change their position after first balloting, the Town Committee voted "no" to any deviation from pledged support for Governor Peabody.

In other business for the evening, the Democratic Town Committee unanimously re-elected Elizabeth McDonald as its chairman, and elected John E. Hogan, Jr., as vice chairman; William E. Dailey, treasurer; Margaret C. Harsch, secretary; and Mary E. Doherty, assistant secretary.

The Republican Town Committee meets tonight in the East Room at 8 p.m. for the election of delegates and officers. The Republican pre-primary state convention will be held at the Boston Arena on Saturday, June 20, according to present committee chairman, Rep. Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue.

According to a recently passed Act, signed into law just this past Monday by Governor Peabody (Chapter 399), both parties' elected state committee members and women automatically become delegates to the pre-primary conventions. For this reason, this year, Winchester Republicans will have nine delegates at the Republican State Convention instead of the eight it would otherwise have because State Committeewoman Charlotte M. Greer 82 Arlington Street will have a delegate's vote without having to be elected a delegate by the Republican Town Committee (standard operating procedure to have a state committee member from a town to be elected as a delegate).

Neither the Democratic state committee man or woman elected from the Sixth Middlesex Senatorial District is a Winchester Democrat, so the Democratic Town Committee has three delegates based on the following system: one

EnKa "Country Fair" At Manchester Field

The zero hour is approaching, the vans are unloading and Manchester Field is becoming a veritable paradise for the young and old. Mrs. William Kimball chairman of the En Ka "Country Fair," and her co-chairman, Mrs. Lyle Longworth, are checking all the last minute details so that all will be ready to start by 6 tomorrow.

Who can eat when they are so excited? So why not plan to get a light supper at the Fair—a hot dog or hamburger with ice cream and a congo bar from the Snack Bar for dessert. There will be Pepsi, milk and coffee, too!

Be sure to be on hand for Saturday's big parade which leaves the Theatre parking lot at 9:30. To the rousing music of the immaculate Conception and Winchester High School bands, the many floats and marchers will proceed down Main Street to the center where they will turn right onto Church Street, left on Waterfield Road and down to Mystic Valley Parkway. It will turn left on Mystic Valley Parkway to Washington Street, left on Washington Street to Mt. Vernon Street and continue until it gets to the rotary. The parade route will go around the rotary, down Main Street to the Parkway and then left onto Manchester Field. Two $25 prizes will be given—one to the float most in keeping with the Fair theme and the other to the float most appropriate to its own organization.

At 10 o'clock sharp the ferris wheels will start to turn, the roller coaster will be on its way, the merry-go-round music will be heard all around, and you'll be off and away for a day full of fun and, maybe, fortune. Be sure and show your special Her what a whale of a shot you are—basketball toss, baseball toss, darts or home-made En Ka lollipop. (By the way, while you're in the Store don't forget to get Sunday's dessert or perhaps a large grandmother's jar of penny candy!) There will be real live ponies to ride again this year and what would a fair be without balloons. When it is time to go, let the kids have one last look at the animals and then lure them homeward with a promise of choosing a grab.

Friends, Romans... & Countrymen Meet

Some 25 characters from Roman history convened Saturday night in Lynch amphitheatre—like courtyard for a night of feasting, oratory and ceremony.

NOTABLE ROMANS ALL HERE Saturday night with 21 other emperors, poets and famous women from early classical history, were Julia, Publius Claudius, Claudia and Catullus shown above with teacher Mrs. Edith Phelan. The Lynch courtyard was the scene of the reenactment of the Roman Feast of Lemuria, an annual special occasion for the ninth-grade honor group Roman Club. Sally Weedon, George Croft, Janice Equi and George Janson are the names the students are more usually known by.

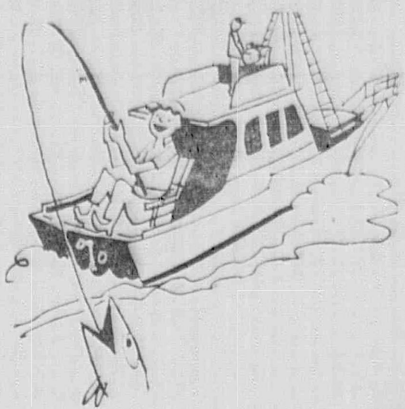

man Club at the school, they have met in serious study throughout the year but had chosen this night to celebrate the Roman May Feast of Lemuria. Under teacher Mrs. Edith Phelan and their had presented in turn during the year serious study portraits, each of a well-known Roman character; and they had held discussion groups (often with parents present) of such topics as "Compare the world after the death of Alexander with the world after the death of F. D. Roosevelt" or "Compare the Delian League with the League of Nations and the United Nations."

But Saturday night they gathered in their self-made toga first to feast (assisted by eighth grade slaves) on roast duck with orange, salad, punch (for wine) and watermelon; and then to hear each other in humorous representations of the character they had been for the year. Given for the most part in verse, their original spot portraits of their Roman character were read from scrolls to the delight of their fellow Romans.

The evening ended with the serious business of the day, the ceremonious casting out of their homes of the spirits of their fathers, done on this occasion for them all by Henry Shean who was there as Caelius Rufus, President of the Club has been Chuck Lucier, who prepared the role of Julius Caesar; treasurer has been Janice Equi, present as Claudia; and secretary Sally Weedon, Julia. Other familiar Roman personages were Mark Antony (Barry Blanchard), Atticus (Paul Ferguson), Brutus (Mark Smith), Vergil (Bob Hamilton), Calpurnia (Ann Haley), Cleopatra (Daryl Layzer), Lepidus (Tommy Martin), Maecenas (Ed Downing), Publia (Robin Byford), Pomponia (Holly Dolben), Catullus (Greg Janson), Octavian (Ray Delaney), Publius Claudius (George Croft), Cornelia (Lauren McClellan), Octavia (Mary Power), Cytheris (Carol O'Connor), Horace (Bruce Abbott), Scribonia (Karen Swanson), Terentia (Kathy Lindbo), Pompey (Tom Erskine), and Crassus (Phil Boesch).

S. O. I. News

All members of the organization express their sincere sympathy to Mrs. Dom Ferraina on the loss of her husband recently.

We certainly hope that brother Rocky DeTeso has a quick and complete recovery of an illness that hit him suddenly.

Although Sam Puma states that it is difficult for him to get around after a serious heart operation, we were certainly happy to see him back in the clubhouse.

The ladies' bowling banquet committee has been working diligently for the affair which is to be held on Saturday night. From past experience we know it will be a huge success.

Softball manager Hokie Procopio is thinking of revamping his lineup after its loss to the Sachems last week. The results of the Vets game on Tuesday will tell more.

Chairman Art Dunbar of the golf league reports that progress is being made and things will get more exciting from now on.

Congratulations to Randy Kazanian (and Mrs., of course) for becoming grandparents over the past week.

Congratulations and best wishes, too, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bertolucci, who gained a son-in-law when their daughter married in New Jersey, where the happy couple are now residing.

The organization's degree team had a most successful trip to Bridgeport, Conn., last week-end where it assisted in initiating new members in the Conn. lodges and installed the Conn. grand officers last Saturday night.

The team left by car Friday night and reached its destination at 11 to register at the Stratfield Motor Inn, where the occasions took place. A big "Welcome Winchester Degree Team" sign was waving at the inn's entrance and the members of the team were made to feel right at home upon arrival.

F. P.'s car with Minny Frongillo, Pat Bruno and Joe Paonessa as passengers was first to arrive; and close behind was Art Dunbar with Ven, Bob Fiore, John Paonessa and Boss Dattilo giving instructions. The third "car" with pilot Nick Ronzio at the controls departed at a later hour but arrived as the two previous cars were unloading. Having a difficult time loosening the seat belts in this mode of transportation were Dom Provanzano, Hokie Procopio and Mel Fiore. They made attempts to describe their trip but no words were coming through A-O-K.

The next morning Bob Maietta and Ralph Cefali left for Conn., as did Gene Rotondi with Mrs. Rotondi, and Frank Antonuccio. Once the gang got together things began to hum.

Usually when visiting places, one goes looking for souvenirs. But this is one time Minny said he would leave one and planted an article made of melted sand, potash and lime, and this he did immediately upon arrival in a beautiful row of hedges. Sorry, Minny, but it does not grow and you won't see it the next time you go there. Then acting as spokesman for the group, Minny borrowed a set of rules from the inn management and called for a quick meeting to hand out the "do's" and "don'ts."

The boys then went to their respective rooms and Hokie ran for the window, opened it wide and stretched and howled in Tarzan fashion. Dunbar leaped for the softest bed but found himself on the floor when John Paonessa had the same idea and beat Dunbar to it. Minny told F. P. that he wanted to sleep near the wall and it was later discovered that he would have rolled out of bed without that protection. The other side? Yes, he rolled the desk on that side. Bob Fiore turned on the TV and said he'd watch it while resting for a while. He did all right because he started to snore until Pat Bruno gave him the "hot foot." Bob didn't rest any more.

Minny thought it best if all would take a short nap after the long drive but Boss retaliated with "Not me — I'm going to look around." Nick Ronzio said the same thing and a long while later they were found still looking around after others enjoyed a rest. Dom Provanzano and Mel Fiore headed for their usual round table and gave no difficulty in being found when needed. Mel then decided to make the rounds when the boys checked in and with the help of Joe Paonessa and Hokie the boys just had to stand all the pouncing so decided to have "open house" until the wee hours of the night.

Frank Antonuccio decided to get a few winks so stretching himself across the bed with his pipe still in his mouth, he thought he heard some scratching in the closet. Opening the door to investigate out jumped F. P. with a sheet over him and we haven't seen Frank since.

Come on back, Frank, it was only a joke.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rotondi had their own room, but they were not free of goings on because Ralph Cefali, managed to sneak in to short-sheet the bed. Gene couldn't understand why he had such a sleepless night.

Bob Maietta used the excuse of having to get some information since he is the installing officer of the team so he went directly to the Grand Venerable's secretary. There must have been a lot to learn because we have not seen him since.

All in all the trip was most successful and the team made an excellent showing. The team received an invitation to go to Hartford a year from now and all members wish to thank all those in Connecticut for such a fine reception and for making the team as comfortable as it was. It was just wonderful.

Dr. Albert J. Penner, of 329 Highland Avenue, took a prominent part in the three day 165th annual convention of the 600-church Massachusetts Congregational Christian Conference held at Pittsfield.

Robert Scanlon, of South Effingham, New Hampshire, died suddenly Wednesday, May 13.

Son of the former member of the Winchester Fire Department, Robert J. Scanlon, the deceased, had lived in Effingham for more than 10 years.

Mr. Scanlon was a member of the Effingham School Board, and active in the "Interim School Committee" which was instrumental in turning out the new Cooperative School. A former member of the Grange, he was also a member of Charter Oak Masonic Lodge of Effingham.

Mr. Scanlon was born in Cambridge September 25, 1914. He spent his early life in Winchester, attending the Winchester schools and Malden Commercial School. Stella Maris In Gloucester Tells Of 1964 Camping

The Rev. John J. Sheehan announces the appointment of Rosalie Covino, of 9 Sanborn Street, as a counsellor at Camp Stella Maris this year.

Miss Covino is completing her freshman year at Lowell State College and is planning on a career in teaching. She has been a camper at Stella Maris in former years.

Stella Maris, a Catholic camp for girls at Wingaersheek Beach, West Gloucester will open for its 26th season on Sunday, June 28. The Rev. Sheehan, pastor of St. Rita's Parish in Haverhill, founder and organizer of the camp continues as its director. Father Sheehan has been actively engaged in the program of Catholic Youth Organization since its inception in the Archdiocese of Boston and has had over thirty years experience in youth work.

Camp Stella Maris is a boarding camp for 120 girls from 9 to 16 years of age and campers may register for two, four, six or eight weeks. It rates as one of the finest in the New England area from the viewpoint of equipment, facilities, program and staff, which numbers 25.

Camp Stella Maris emphasizes a well-rounded program that takes into account both the spiritual and physical well-being of the campers and includes swimming instruction, arts and crafts, dramatics and nature study. Facilities include tennis court, basketball and volleyball court, softball field and archery range.

A registered nurse is on duty at all times. Mass is offered on an average of four days a week and the camp day always closes with group recitation of the rosary.

The counsellor staff is composed of teachers and collegians. The camp requirement is that every counsellor must have completed at least one year of college.

Interested parents may obtain information from Father Sheehan at St. Rita's Rectory in Haverhill.

Salvation Army Names Hersey Fund Chairman

Peter B. Hersey, of 61 Grove Street, has accepted appointment as Winchester community chairman for The Salvation Army Building Fund Campaign. It was announced by Kenneth Latham, chairman of the East district.

Mr. Hersey is now enrolling captains who will form teams of solicitors. They will ask friends and past benefactors of The Salvation Army in this community to subscribe pledges, payable over three years, toward the $1,850,000 campaign goal.

In the midst of urban redevelopment, The Salvation Army is undertaking a renewal program of its own. It must renovate, expand and rebuild eight of its facilities to restore lives in the Greater Boston area. As people in need have turned with confidence to The Salvation Army since it first came to Boston in 1884, the Army in its need for capital funds now turns with confidence to the people for help.

Marycliff Paper Is Honored

Marycliff Academy has received notice from The Columbia Scholastic Press Association that the school newspaper, The Clarion, has been awarded a first place Medalist certificate in Columbia's 40th annual press contest.

Out of 1,000 points, The Clarion score of 1000 points, The Clarion received 945. "Medalist" rank is granted to publications selected from the First Place winners and is based on "intangible qualities" of the newspaper that could be termed the paper's personality.

Although The Clarion has placed in the first prize category many times in previous years, this is the first time the newspaper has received the Medalist award. It is supervised by Mother W. Bohlen, R. C. E. and one of its page editors, Mary Louise Albani, is from Winchester.

Highborn Catches Opening Bass In Ipswich River

Warren Highborn, of 237 Highland Avenue and Little Neck Ipswich, a well-known local sportsman, opened the season in the Ipswich River, Sunday, May 10, by catching the first striped bass on the North Shore.

Mr. Highborn reported that his catch was made on a sea worm fished deep on a drift in a channel; it measured 29 1/2 inches and weighed 9 1/2 pounds.

Best news to other fishermen is that another strike before high winds ended his fishing that day gives evidence, along with the sun catch since, that it will be a good season in this area.

The Winchester Star

Editorials:

A Litter Example

It seems that Winchester is now setting some sort of example as being a tidy, neat and clean town. According to the Winchester Civic League, which under James Fitzsimmons keeps active, neighboring towns have noticed how clean and relatively free from litter Winchester has become over the past two years and are planning similar clean-up campaigns themselves.

Mr. Fitzsimmons was invited to speak at the Arlington Garden Club on the subject last week. There he was told that the club had heard about the success of the Civic League's efforts in making Winchester litter conscious and how it had solicited funds from merchants and organizations to purchase the pea green litter baskets that are seen and used daily around the Center. The Arlington group planned a campaign themselves then, and began it with a poster contest which has just recently been concluded. (60 prizes were awarded to winners from 600 students in grades one through twelve, and the winning posters will be placed in store windows.)

A project entitled Woburn Operation Pride is also reported to have originated from responsible citizens in that city noticing how successful Winchester's efforts have been.

Mr. Fitzsimmons notes that interest is continuing locally on the anti-litter campaign, and said that the Winchester Home and Garden Club has recently shown an interest in helping out. Many merchants have donated litter baskets ($14 a piece), and include slogans like "Don't be a litter bug, keep our town clean," and "Let's make Winchester the cleanest town in America" within their advertisements in the local paper.

An interesting item that came to the Star's attention last week was the fact that the manufacturer of the litter baskets placed around town prepared a page containing many merchants' anti-litter ads under the heading "Winchester, Mass. Goes All Out For Litter Control!" and has mailed copies to every city and town in the United States.

Mr. Fitzsimmons began his anti-litter campaign two years ago when a visitor from Florida stated when asked what he thought about Winchester "It's the dirtiest town I've seen. Look at all the litter on the streets and sidewalks." Since then Mr. Fitzsimmons has done much to rectify the situation, and the town looks the better for his one-man efforts.

Mr. Fitzsimmons comments that he dreams of someday entering Winchester in the National Clean, Paint, Fix Up Bureau's annual contest for the tidest town in America. He says the bureau has requested the town to enter because it had heard about the litter campaign here. However, he says, no New England town has ever dared enter the contest because the cities and towns in the Mid-West and West are too active in keeping their municipalities clean, and they always win.

Philosophically, Mr. Fitzsimmons believes the state appears literally, that's litter-ally, as well as politically rotten. Maybe, he believes, if the state were cleaned up physically, its political atmosphere might also clear up somewhat.

The nation's total annual litter cleanup bill has been estimated at over $500 million by the Bulletin of Keep America Beautiful. "That's a lot of litter!" Mr. Fitzsimmons says ruefully, and adds: "Thank goodness Winchester is establishing a better litter example."

A Little Imagination Shown

Last week, the Star ran an editorial entitled "A Little Imagination, Please." This week, it is worth pointing out an instance where imagination and foresight has been shown to the town's advantage.

Over at the Shore Road Athletic Field that is nearing completion, one can see where four large ditches are being filled in. They enclose an automatic underground sprinkler irrigation system for the new athletic field, much as was done at the Common last summer. Some one, or group of persons, and we suspect it emanates from the Park Board, used a heck of a lot of practical imagination in thinking to put a system under the new field, and it will mean an economy of dollars and a much nicer playing field for the town over many years.

The sprinkler system will free men who otherwise would have to handle this aspect of field maintenance for other jobs, which is the equivalent of having an extra man or two working for the town free, during those hours the field would have to be watered or set up for watering manually. Through the automatic system, operated by a clock device which controls the time and therefore amount of watering, the town should also end up having a nicer, more evenly greened playing field—both earlier and later in the year—than would otherwise be the case, for it also insures that the job of watering wouldn't be overlooked or overpassed due to lack of manpower or time to have it done.

This is the kind of progressive forward thinking the town should have been employing in all its planning for building projects. If such imagination had been shown the school buildings wouldn't be in the inadequate plant situation all but a few of them are in now, the Fire Station addition could be built toward the river and bridge instead of toward the bank and cutting out the entrance to the Police Station and requiring further renovations, among other things.

The almost excessive conservative Yankee approach so often evidenced in this town is "A dollar not spent is a dollar saved," and so often the "dollar saved" has turned out to be much more expensive at a later date when modifications and additions have to be made onto what should have been done right the first time.

The Park, Highway and School Departments are to be commended for their imagination and mutual cooperation evidenced in this project. It should turn out to be a showplace playground in Winchester.

On Jury Lists And Jury Duty

The Board of Selectmen is in the process of preparing its jury list for 1964-1965 and applications for jury duty are available at the Selectmen's office in the Town Hall. Each year, according to John Lyman, chairman of the board, many persons write in and tell the board of their desire to serve on a jury but do not know how to go about applying.

The process is very simple. All an applicant has to do is write to the board stating his desire to serve on a jury before the board makes up its list and files it with the Clerk of Court on July 1. To be eligible, an applicant must be between the ages of 25 and 70, and may not be employed in certain occupations such as policeman, lawyer, teacher, etc. Once an applicant's name is on file, he receives a questionnaire designed to determine his character, moral, and other standards to insure the elimination of prejudicial and weak personalities. Once eligible, the applicant's name is approved and returned to the local Board of Selectmen, who, during the course of the year and as the need arises for jurors, pick many names from a jury list box, and the applicant is informed by mail of the time and place to report to the court for jury duty.

The rest of the jury list, not filled out by applicants, is made up of names of men and women living in the community who might qualify. Although not volunteers, many of these people make excellent and dedicated jurors. Some bemoan the fact that they have to give up a little bit of their time to perform this important civic task and duty, which would inevitably come at an "inconvenient" time; and some even go so far as to go to any extreme to escape having to "put the time in." Oddly and ironically, these people are abdicating the responsibility to defend . . . but watch their dander go up when a legal decision doesn't meet their fancy.

Jury duty is an important citizen's responsibility, like voting, and those that participate in it are better citizens for the experience and the participation; and those that don't—aside from those that can't—are not as enriched by the facts of life and living within a democratic society and its democratic processes as they might be.

Mr. Doherty Joins The Personnel Board

With the extension of life expectancy in the United States well into the sixties, seventies and eighties ages, and with most working men retiring in their early sixties when many of them are still in a period of peak production and acumen, there has developed the unusual and ironic problem in this country of having many senior citizens who are still able to contribute substantially to the society becoming inactive.

We are pleased to see that here in Winchester one individual who retired recently has made his services and skills and knowledge available to one of the town boards that has a serious need for just such a qualified person.

Daniel J. Doherty, former Chief Attorney for the Veterans Administration regional office in Boston and a well known and respected local attorney, applied for the announced opening as executive secretary for the Personnel Board, as it would not interfere with his desire to continue practicing law in Winchester. "The Personnel Board needed the best man it could find to help it do its work, as it had been understaffed since the death last fall of David Crockett and there was much catching up work to be done as well as launching the new personnel survey on town wages and salaries.

The Personnel Board did well in obtaining the services of such an excellent and eminently qualified senior citizen. And Mr. Doherty is to be commended for taking on this difficult task in local public service during his well-earned time of retirement. We are happy to see that the public interest here is going to be so wisely and well served.

Of Writers And Writing

By Frank Procopio

THE MYSTIQUE OF CAMERONE

"The appeal of Camerone to a Legionnaire is as natural as instinct. He reaches out to it in his own heart, because it is a part of his own pain. It is the great reminder to the Legionnaire that the sand is always blowing in his eyes, the battle-ground is always ill-chosen, the odds are too great, the cause insufficient to justify his death, the tools at hand always the wrong ones. And above all, nobody cares whether he wins or loses, lives or dies. Camerone gives the Legionnaire strength to live with his despair. It reminds him that he cannot win, but it makes him feel that there is dignity in being a loser."

—An Italian Legionnaire

There had been stalemate in Korea now for four months. While American soldiers patrolled the 38th parallel and hoped that they would soon be sent home, the Chinese had diverted their attention to the scraggly little guerrilla unit known as the Vietminh. On a clear November 21, 1963, two companies of these irregulars, accompanied by Chinese advisors, were on maneuvers along the River Nam Ou at a place named Dien Bien Phu when, unexpectedly, the heavy drone of engines was heard to come from somewhere beyond the glare of the sun. Then, like puffs of white smoke, thousands of parachutes blossomed and drifted groundward.

Dien Bien Phu was a plain spotted here and there with rice paddy fields, and dimensioned by distant mountains. There was no cover. The Vietminh had no choice but to stand and fight.

Parachutists do not take prisoners, not because they are ruthless but because they rely upon the advantage of surprise and, in war, surprise generally means a great deal of shooting and little thinking. The men who came out of the sky were dressed in green, yellow and brown fatigues; they wore light helmets and tommy guns swung on straps around their shoulders. Gracefully, they met the earth, rolled with weapons already spitting fire, and freed themselves of the cumbersome chutes. "En avant!" their officers shouted. "En avant!" In minutes the Vietminh, hopelessly surrounded, were wiped out to a man.

"None of the six divisions," writes Geoffrey Bocca in La Legion! "were Legionnaires, and Legionnaires never composed more than half of the garrison at Dien Bien Phu. Nevertheless, in this manner began the great battle which will always be associated with the Foreign Legion. When, by the end of the battle, the fat had been scorched off the French cadaver, when the local Thais had deserted, and the Arabs had decided it was not their war, it was the seven thousand Legionnaires and the two thousand Colonial Frenchmen who went on fighting, and killed twenty thousand Viet. It did not prove to be enough."

The French defense of Dien Bien Phu lingered until May of 1954. It was a strange battle, fought in the method of the trench warfare of World War I, and augmented by fierce Vietminh attacks which gave little regard to the value of human life. In the final analysis, however, it was the Viet artillery that tipped the balance. Hardened German Legionnaires said that it was the heaviest they had experienced since the Russian front.

When Dien Bien Phu fell, it went down in ignominy. Thirteen thousand Frenchmen were lost. After seventy years of rule, France pulled out of Indochina. Another Communist country struggled out of the womb of blood and moderation and ignorance. The victors were small, dark-skinned men on bicycles who carried bags of rice flung over one shoulder and rifles over the other.

Americans who looked toward Indochina in those days with sympathy and sorrow for the French could not realize that, in just a few years, the United States herself would be committed uniquely—to the same cause. Once again, indifference and nearsightedness proved to be fatal.

There will be the traditional placing of wreaths and Taps ceremonies at the town's Honor Roll at 10 o'clock, with refreshments at 10:20 and reassembly at 10:45.

The parade will proceed to the War Memorial at the Junior High School for similar ceremonies, and then go to Wildwood Cemetery for Taps and an invocation delivered by the Rev. H. School

A large part of the evening's discussion centered around three possible solutions: Proposed Plan A would follow the Marshall Report and renovate the High School and McCall into a campus style high school with Main Street being closed off to traffic between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m., and building an elementary school at Leonard Field for fifth and sixth graders; Proposed Plan B would build a new high school outside of the Center, transfer the high school back into a junior high and transfer McCall into an elementary school for fifth and sixth graders; and Proposed Plan C would tear up Main Street between the two schools and build a high school addition there near the front of the high school, and ultimately demolish McCall and build another high school addition there—a sort of conversion by stepped stage building which would result in a new high school eventually.

Before the close of the meeting, Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, was directed to head a task force of school administrators and teachers to study the problems and recommended solutions further in depth over the summer.

The School Committee noted that it would in the meantime be crystallizing its educational requirements planning, and the Permanent Building Committee said it would investigate further building requirements in terms of economic and architectural possibilities and liabilities.

Delegates

delegate guaranteed each town and city ward, with one additional delegate and alternates allowed for each thousand party votes balloted in the previous gubernatorial election.

The structural organization, functions, and activities of party Town Committees is clearly set forth by the State Legislature. Each town and city ward must have at least three members, but no more than 35. They are also allowed to have associate members, without votes, and many politically interested persons do this.

Besides electing delegates to the pre-primary party conventions, the town committees conduct organization work for the party, assist at elections by having checkers at the polls, exhort voter registrations, and aid in planning for primaries.

In Winchester, many of both town committees' members are well known in their respective party circles at the state, and even the national level. For example, both the Republican Town Committee chairman and the Democratic Town Committee chairman are at present serving on the Metropolitan Area Council researching, studying and analyzing for evaluating possible solutions to the mass public transportation problem currently before the Commonwealth; the former being the town's Representative in the General Court and its representative to the council, and the latter being appointed to serve on the council by the Governor.

Ralph H. Bonnell of 81 Arlington Street is the only local resident known to have travelled the circuit from a town to a state to a national political party committee. Originally an ardent supporter of Taft for President when he served on the National Republican Committee, Mr. Bonnell is often referred to by local Republicans as a strong party man who gave his strongest support to the party's choice when General Eisenhower was nominated; and he continued to serve on the National Committee under President Eisenhower.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS SPEAK OUT

by David Mallery

In his preface the author queries, "What happens to a student as a person as he goes through an American high school today?" The answer, as it is presented in the rest of the book, is both discouraging and encouraging.

The Committee on School and College Relations of the Educational Records Bureau decided that the student as a person was being lost in much controversy about content of courses and building programs so it commissioned a young English teacher to conduct a study. Mallery visited eight schools covering different parts of the country and different types of schools—public and private; rural, suburban, and city; eastern and western; college preparatory, vocational, all-girl all-boy, and comprehensive. None of the schools is ever identified. He chatted informally with students in the lunchroom and more formally with those chosen by teachers and administrators to meet during class periods. He visited classes—sometimes at the insistence of students who wished him to see particular teachers in action. He listened intelligently and was able to get reactions from both articulate and inarticulate groups. Because he respected the young people as being worthy of having opinions, he drew them out and obviously got them thinking.

Too often students felt intellectual development and creative thinking had to be stifled for the sake of good marks. Too often young people who were terminating their education with graduation from high school felt that the "college prep. kids" ran the school or had all the advantages. Courses did not prepare this group for lifetime living and thinking. Too often vocational students had no contact with other students except perhaps through sports.

On the brighter side of the picture were the students who took summer school courses in order to study all they wanted, or to pursue an idea or a project more deeply. Then there's the school where the sections in Problems in Democracy senior year are not divided by ability but combine all types of students so that each gets a chance to understand the many ways of looking at the questions that come up. Inspired and inspiring teachers shine through and students are quick to know who they are.

This book is a must for all student teachers. Practicing teachers should be jolted out of their ruts and forced to do some constructive thinking about methods of instruction. The innocent bystander who tots up the crime record of juvenile delinquents as reported on the front page of the daily newspaper may develop more respect for these developing adults if he reads this book discerningly, and parents will gain support from an objective source for many of their own conclusions.

With our accelerated curricula and our frantic haste to push youngsters to the limits of their ability, are we forgetting that in high school teen agers are building lifetime habits of responsibility, that they are still forming attitudes and philosophies which will determine not only their personal futures but the course of the lives that impinge on theirs for a whole generation? Perhaps we are not allowing sufficient growing time. Perhaps the specter of getting into the right college needs to be re-evaluated as the ghost that it is.

Septic Tanks As A Local Problem Are Discussed

Editor of the Star:

I have read with considerable interest your recent article indicating a possible Special Town Meeting by the Winchester Board of Health and the Water and Sewer Board to introduce an article to float a municipal bond issue for the installation of a sewer system in the Arlington Street area.

Being one of the "some too" homeowners who have septic tank systems in the Winchester area, I can well appreciate the efforts of the Board of Health and the Water and Sewer Board to install a reliable public sanitary sewer system. Several of my neighbors and I who live on the North end of Ridge Street have experienced difficulties with our septic tank systems during high surface-water runoff periods such as the one that occurred during the March-April thaw of this year.

There is a present sanitary sewer line that extends north on Ridge Street to Winerest Drive, but for some reason it was never extended to the end of the street. With today's rising costs in construction, I believe that if it had been extended at that time it would have cost less than it will today and far less than it will cost at some future date!

Since septic tank systems are not foolproof and can become potential health menaces we would like to see this sanitary sewer line system extended.

I would also like to commend the Winchester Board of Health and the Water and Sewer Board for their efforts in trying to keep Winchester's reputation as being one of the nicest towns one can live in.

Very truly yours,
Steve Johns

Remembrances Of Old Winchester: Updating Sequel

Editor of the Star:

Last week the Star carried a most interesting letter from a former resident, C. F. D. Marsh of Dexter, Maine, who recalled his days in Winchester and his contribution to the town as guardian of the Winchester reservoirs. Mr. Marsh doubts if people remember him as far back as the 1920's. As a next door neighbor on Hillcrest Parkway his old friends the Nichols family remember him well. Many a time I patrolled the Fells with Mr. Marsh, he on his big brown horse and I on my small black pony. I recall particularly a race at full gallop from the police cabin at the sheep fold back to Hillcrest Parkway, about a mile at full tilt. I won—generous man!

Mr. Marsh may remember Hillcrest Parkway as North Border Road in those days, until I found two street signs in our cellar which read Hillcrest Parkway. I thought the name rather classy and asked my father if we could change the name. Permission granted and we nailed up the signs. Mr. Marsh must also remember his neighbors the Chapmans who moved away around 1925 and subsequently the son, William Chapman, and his family returned to Winchester and have been living in the old Marsh home for the past 15 years.

C. F. D. would find Winchester changed in some aspects from forty years ago, although the physical appearance is much the same. The deeproot town hall still stands and serves as a rather poor public building for civic and social affairs. New schools have been built in Winchester, but as in many areas, prove inadequate today.

However, in one area Mr. Marsh would be as shocked as I am personally sick at heart at the ever worsening condition of certain aspects of our town. I have just returned this morning from a short drive along the east shores of the Mystic lakes. This is (to use a polite word) the filthiest three-fourth mile of roadway in all of New England. I travel 40,000 miles a year in New England and I know whereof I speak. The M. D. C. is either not interested or unable to maintain even the slightest degree of cleanliness along this parkway, which once a beautiful driveway, is now a daily car wash and the dirtiest street I know of anywhere. Trash cans along the roadside this morning were filled and overflowing with home refuse and turned into a public dump with a sign on the fence reading (No dumping in this area). Old tires—garage junk—oil barrels—bed springs—the worse kind of rubble you could think of is dumped on the shore of beautiful Mystic lake. The dump is teeming with rats. Whiskey bottles, wine bottles, and beer cans you can't begin to count.

At the head of the Mystic lakes Mr. Marsh will remember the Wedgemere R. R. station with beautiful rose gardens and shrubbery. When the B & M R. R. tracks were relocated the old station was replaced with a well built brick building with enclosed stairways and elevated station platform. This station today is a shambles—windows all broken, replaced and broken again—doors smashed—beer cans all over the premises and human filth in the closed waiting room. Even Hillcrest Parkway this last Sunday had 52 empty beer cans strewn along the street which residents have to pick up every Sunday morning.

Respect for public property seems not to exist. Vandals have been rampant in several of our own public schools. Winchester too has a growing delinquency problem. Yet, we have two drug stores with wall to wall carpeting and most of our homes are still well kept. We seem to be living in an age of private opulence and public squalor—no civic pride—nobody seems to care a wit as long as it doesn't touch them.

Beer, Boats and Bowling seems to be the order of the day. Perhaps these are the signs of a decaying and disintegrating society. As it was in the crumbling of the early Roman civilization—circuses and bread led to the end.

Yes, Mr. Marsh, Winchester is changed.

Two Model In Senior Scout Fashion Show

The youthful look in spring and summer fashions was carried from early morning to evening date on Sunday afternoon, May 17, as members of the Senior Girl Scout troops in the 13 cities and towns serviced by the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council staged their "May Magic" fashion show in Malden at the Beebe Junior High School.

Nancy Robinson and Deborah Gouzele were among the twenty-four young ladies representing as many troops who modeled a bright array of fashions from the Harvard Princess Store, Malden, from beach togs to evening dresses and other Winchester Scouts were in the audience.

The basic idea of the show was to point out that Girl Scouting, contrary to a popular misconception is not a program of camping, but is varied enough to appeal to every young lady, not only those interested in life in the outdoors.

While the forward look predominated in the selection of clothes, a backward look was taken as the girls modeled the various Scout uniforms which have been worn through the years as well as the present four age level and leader's uniforms.

Recently 38 Boy Scouts and leaders Bill Schimnik, Pete Schimnik, R. Hilger, Bill Jeffery, and H. Woodward were encamped at Camp Oak. A group of 13 Scouts again hiked from town to the campsite, a distance of 10 miles.

A Court of Honor was held Monday, May 18 for the following advancement achievements: Tenderfoot, Mark Allen; second class, Bruce Clark, David Gibson, Peter Kaufmann, Noel Webb—first class, Chris Barlow, Paul DeMora, Frank Grabiec. The high ranking awards were Star to Bob Shannon and Life to Scott Jeffery.

Merit badges were awarded to Scott Jeffery, camping; Jamie Olson, wildlife management; J. Rondeau, soil and water conservation and Jim Sauber, reading and citizenship in the community.

their backgrounds, making them less noticeable than might be desirable. Therefore, the painting of the tops with reflecting paints was the solution arrived at.

On Monday evening the Board of Selectmen also awarded bids to the Alda Dodge Company of Woburn for a Ledge Fire Alarm Truck chassis and cab with a 200 horsepower engine for $2,389, and to the James A. Kiley Company of Somerville for a custom-built body and aerial ladder with top and bottom ladder controls so firefighters can operate the ladder from above when it is extended, for $5,920.

The body and ladder bid award is subject to Finance Committee approval, as the cost exceeds by a small amount the sum estimated in the original Town Meeting budget.

In other bids awarded, the Fire Department is getting 2300 feet of 2½-inch hose at $1.04 per foot from American Fire Equipment for $2,392 (of which $312 is from the Civil Defense budget) and 1200 feet of 1½-inch hose at 69¢ a foot from Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Co. for $828. The hose purchased will replace 500 feet of both the 2½ and 1½-inch hoses used up last year, and 1500 feet of 2½-inch and 700 feet of 1½-inch hose which is over 20 years old.

Niblock Chairs NEASC Group In Newton Rating

W. Howard Niblock, principal of the Winchester High School, has just completed a job for the New England Association of Schools and Colleges serving as chairman of a 43 man and woman committee which made a more than two week evaluation of the Newton High School.

Mr. Niblock has served the group in many other working capacities including as a member of evaluation committees accrediting both private and public schools. He was chosen to chair the large Newton committee shortly after a similar group from the NEASC had completed accreditation of WHS last spring.

ten is clock set for adequate and appropriate watering. According to Babe Mullen, superintendent of the Park Department, there should be grass growing on the field by July or August. He said he did not think the field would be fully ready for playing activities until the fall of 1965, however, because the sod turf should be given a year's growth to develop and mature enough to withstand the hard effects of athletic games.

Once the field is completed, it will take a special act of the Legislature to transfer the ownership and control of the field from the Park Department as park property to the School Department as a school playground.

Henry T. Knowlton, head of the physical education and athletic program for the Winchester school, said yesterday that he is planning on having a baseball diamond, a football field, a football field marked out on the Shore Road Athletic Field when it is completed and available for McCall Junior High School use.

for any homes until a certain percentage of the required subdivision utility and road work is completed—these include water, sewer and drainage lines, the paving of any roads and the seeding and loaming of grass plots beside the roadway and pedestrian ways on either side of streets laid out. (For example: if the developer does 40% of the utility work required, then the Planning Board would release something less than that amount, say 35%, of the lots for building purposes and permits would be granted accordingly.)

The above-described method of subdivision control, as explained by Joseph C. Gray, chairman of the Planning Board, is an occasionally used alternative by developers instead of their placing bonds on an engineer's estimate of utilities costs which are verified by the Town Water Board and the Highway Department) in the full amount.

Democratic Town Committee

The Ward and City Committee of Medford and the Town Committee of Arlington and Winchester enjoyed a joint meeting on Wednesday evening, May 14. The meeting which was held at Carroll's Carriage House in Medford, contributed much to the exchange of ideas and in the social get-together which enlivened the after-lunch period. Edward Doyle, chairman of the Medford Democratic City Committee, welcomed the neighboring committee members and then introduced John Bullock, chairman of the Arlington Board of Selectmen, who served as M.C.

Some of those at the head table who were asked to give short talks were John Carr, former State Committee chairman; Ruth Glavy, vice chairman of the Medford Committee, and our local chairman, Elizabeth McDonald. The Medford legislators were unable to be present as the Senate and House were in session.

Former representative Tom Doherty of Medford introduced Governor Endicott Peabody, who spoke of the accomplishments of his term in office, citing his interest in education, metropolitan planning, mental health, highway safety, manpower development and training act, constitutional reform, and many other accomplishments. Several times he was interrupted by hearty applause. The Winchester delegation took credit for a splendid attendance—thirty out of the 35 Town Committee members present and, in addition, 12 of the members' husbands.

Tuesday evening of this week the committee, meeting in the East Room, Town Hall, elected its delegates to the June State Convention and its officers who will serve for the 1964-68 term of office.

Wednesday evening the telephone whist and bridge series was conducted in several of the members' homes, the overall planning carried out by our social chairman Bee Wilson and her assistant, Helen Nadeau. These members were, in turn, assisted by Anna McLean and Kay O'Brien, each of whom had her own group of active workers.

The funds raised at these enjoyable parties will be used to defray the expenses of the annual cook-out. The host and hostess for this year's outdoor party will be Mr. and Mrs. John Serika, who will again welcome the members and their friends to the ideal setting of their historic home and the lovely grounds surrounding it at 3 Middlesex Street.

Next week's Star will contain a full account of the Tuesday night election of delegates and committee officers, and also of the committee members who did such a fine job on the telephone whist and bridge parties.

4 Firefighters Begin Training

Four new firefighters reported to the Chestnut Avenue Fire Station in Brighton yesterday for five or more weeks of drill school training, similar to the program recently completed by three other firefighters in Brookline's training school (Star of April 30, Front Page).

The four firefighters are Joseph R. McDonough, Thomas P. McDonough, John J. Regan and John F. Nowell.

New Award In Radiology Goes To Dr. Robbins

Dr. Laurence L. Robbins, of 98 Cambridge Street, radiologist-in-chief, Massachusetts General Hospital, and Clinical professor of Radiology, Harvard Medical School has just received the first Oliver E. Merrill trophy.

DR. LAURENCE L. ROBBINS

Dr. Robbins was presented this award in Auburn at the recent 1964 Convention of the Massachusetts Society of Radiologic Technologists. The award will be given each year in memory of Oliver E. Merrill, who was the chief engineer in the Department of Radiology of the Massachusetts General Hospital. At the time of his death in 1962, he had been a member of the Department for 35 years.

Dr. Robbins received this award because of his outstanding leadership in the field of radiology and because of his great interest in the educational programs of the Massachusetts Society of Radiologic Technologists.

In accepting the award, Dr. Robbins said, "The technologist of the future can expect a wide diversification in the field of Radiology. It can include studies of thermography, ultrasonics, lasers, and other new developments. With all of these applications you may have to familiarize yourselves in the next decade, and these are probably only forebodings of what may follow."

Dr. Robbins also commented, "The educational implications of all the possible ramifications of the future call for consideration. In the field of diagnosis I am ready to prophesy that the era of conventional fluoroscopy with spot films is nearly at an end. It will give way to television with cine studies and, more often, tape recordings. Mention has already been made of such special techniques as thermography, ultrasonics, and lasers. Such is the confusion of our future."

Cancer

The American Cancer Society reports that, as a result, the number of Americans now alive who have had cancer and have gone for five years or more without recurrence, is now over 1,200,000.

According to Dr. James Shannon, director of the National Institute of Health, important new victories are in sight.

Through a better understanding of viruses and the development of more effective chemicals, dramatic progress may be achieved in the next ten years or so, he believes.

VERY CONTEMPORARY ART, fresh from the drawing boards of many Lincoln School "young masters," will be on display at the parents' association meeting to be held there tonight. On sale for the benefit of the Scholarship Foundation, the art show is to be an adjunct of the meeting which will feature a talk by Dr. John Marshall, school planning consultant. Shown is Mrs. Marshall Kincaid, with four of the artists.

Dr. Marshall And Art Show to Be At Lincoln

On Thursday, May 21st paintings and drawings created by Lincoln School pupils will be on display for parents who attend the Mothers' Association annual meeting. Proceeds from the sale of these pictures will benefit the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

A New York City art gallery, which deals only in children's art, has given the Lincoln School art gallery impetus to offer parents and friends an opportunity to enjoy and buy the expressive works of their children, and also to support the Scholarship Foundation.

Fictitious gallery prices of $300 to $1000 will add to the delight of a visit to the show. Prices in reality will be very, very moderate. Refreshments will follow the meeting in the art gallery. The featured speaker of the evening is Dr. John Marshall, whose subject will be "Space and Educational Needs of Winchester Elementary Schools." The program will begin at 8 p.m., followed by the art show and refreshments. All are welcome.

A Continuing Obligation

• FOR US, a service does not end at the cemetery. Acknowledgement cards to those who showed solicitude during a most trying period are supplied. A record of floral tributes is on file, as well as the list of callers. We also arrange for additional death transcripts, usually needed for various legal reasons. And, naturally, we are available for consultation on matters such as Social Security benefits and similar things with which many people are not conversant. In short, our conception of service is a continuing obligation to those we have served.

Correction On Construction

In last week's Star article on Page One on the increasing septic tank problems in the town, mention was made of new homes that were going to be developed on the former Schraft Estate by the Whitten Construction Company. The developers, in fact, are actually the Whitney Construction Company, Inc.

Local Improvement

A fortunate combination exists in Winchester with results already showing and continually growing at Macfield, 10 Winchester Place, makers of fine jewelry. Being handy to a local coin cutter is one among a number of great advantages. It was feared that the lapidary's art was dying out but it, like so many other arts, is apparently being revived with a new spirit. Most of the old-time cutters were unsympathetic to a new idea in shape, or size, or material. In this respect Mr. Philip Parsons, Jr., is to be complimented, for he has not only made handsome cuttings to Macfield designed shapes but constantly turns up new versions of his own and discovers unique materials to work with.

It is obvious from exhibits that even selected polished beach pebbles from Nantucket can impart a richness to good jewelry design. With these successful results there is added incentive to creating for those who enjoy handmade jewelry collections.

FINAL MEETING

On next Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock in the K. of C. Hall, the outgoing president, Mrs. John Cosgrove will hostess a tea for the new slate of officers to be installed at this meeting. After the meeting informal bridge will be played. Do try to come and we promise you a most enjoyable afternoon.

Planning Musical Carryover

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC WILL BE IN THE AIR this summer as well as this week. The summer school for the first year has scheduled, in addition to a music appreciation course, ensemble classes for beginners through advanced with John R. Woodworth, above, instructor. Three separate courses are planned for elementary through high school ages, designed to keep and improve musical skills through the summer. Kevin McKenzie, trombonist, and Martin Erb, violinist, above, are already signed up for the courses. Mark Sinclair, cellist is among the many elementary school youngsters from all over town who will bring their vocal and instrumental concert to the WHS stage Friday evening, May 29. Mr. Woodworth has studied with Richard Burgin and Louis Krassner and played with the Indianapolis Symphony. In addition to teaching in the Winchester schools he also plays regularly with Boston groups, often with the Arthur Fiedler orchestras.

The WDBC Individual Championship for 1964 will be held on Wednesday evening, June 3, at the Knights of Columbus Hall with play commencing at 7:30. A large field is expected to compete for the Winchester News Challenge Bowl currently held by Miggs Root. To provide a practice round and increase familiarity with the "rain-bow" movement, it is planned that one section of the regular game on May 27 will be run as an individual.

Ed Mansfield (whose modesty is exceeded only by his sense of humor) takes up the quill as guest-bridge-editor-of-the-week. It's your non-expert back again, so if you expect to learn anything you can stop right now. Most duplicate players find cause for rejoicing if they get among the top two or three. This commentator breaks out the champagne if he gets above average; and he assured his wine bill is quite moderate.

It would be nice to describe a hand in which this non-expert by brilliant bidding and play achieved a top board; but on going through the tally slips for Section A, it seems that his only clear top and tie for top were made only because the opponents overbid in one case and underbid in the other. Therefore Board 7 from Section A has been chosen because it presents an interesting variety of contracts and an interesting play in one case.

This hand was played four times in diamonds by East, four times in spades by South, twice in no-trumps by South and once in hearts by North. All but two of these contracts went down by one to five tricks, six of them doubled. A contract of three diamonds doubled by East made three and would have been top board of East-West if it hadn't been for North going down five at four hearts doubled.

The other contract made was three no-trumps by South for a clear North-South top and this brings up the interesting play mentioned above. The bidding is not available but South probably arrived at his or her contract over a three diamond bid by East.

The opening lead was the nine of diamonds. Although a heart lead might have defeated the contract there was no way of knowing this, and it is proper to lead your partner's suit. Obviously East did not want the lead and played low, South's queen taking the trick.

South now counts his winners. He has two club tricks, two diamond tricks if they are led to him, and four spade tricks. He needs a successful finesse in either spades or clubs to make his extra trick.

Normally with a choice of two finesses one chooses the longer suit or the one with the most entries, which would be spades. In this case, however, a closer look will show that both finesses can be tried, but only if clubs are attacked first, and even this non-expert knows that two finesses are better than one. Therefore South leads a club and the finesse works. He doesn't need it for his contract but it's always nice to make an extra trick and he has to bet the queen of spades out of the way anyway. The ten of spades is led from the dummy so that another finesse can be taken if necessary. This is taken by West's queen and now no matter what the lead South has his contract. A diamond or heart lead will give East the lead and all he can do is take two heart tricks and a diamond trick. If a spade or a club is led South must throw into the lead with a heart and the same condition will prevail.

Unfortunately this is not the way the hand was played at your non-expert's table, the only other pair to bid three no-trumps.

Lynch Orchestra, Chorus, Band Perform

The Lynch School musical groups pleased a good sized group of parents and friends Friday night with a well prepared and presented concert.

The Orchestra, larger than last year, played with confidence under John R. Woodworth and excelled especially with Anderson's "A Trumpeter's Lullaby," which featured Fred Thayer and John Cheever as soloists.

The Girls' Chorus, singing under Mrs. Caryl Carle, opened well with a Bach Chorale and met especial audience approval with Irving Berlin's "Give Me Your Tired and Poor." And the Lynch Band gave a good account of themselves with marches, highlights from "West Side Story" and, especially, the excerpt from Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition." They played under band director, Frederick J. Murray.

Singing and playing in the concert were:

Special Farewell To Ann Galligan

A farewell testimonial was held at the China Moon in Stoneham on Friday night, May 15, to honor Ann Galligan, nursing supervisor at the Winchester Hospital.

The presentation of a money tree plus poems and other gifts expressed the admiration and devotion of all those that have associated with Miss Galligan at the hospital.

Miss Ann Galligan, the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Galligan of Stoneham, will enter the U. S. Air Force next month. Her friends know that the Air Force's gain is the Winchester Hospital's loss!

Registration Time For Girl Scouts' Camp Joy

Mrs. M. Edward Shinnick, director of the Girl Scouts' Camp Joy, announced that she was anticipating a banner summer at the Day Camp on South Border Road, Winchester, featuring programs for the girls and by the girls.

Camp Joy is operated under the guidance of a professional staff each summer at the Winchester Cabin and in the surrounding wooded area. The campers, this year will come from Arlington, Medford and Winchester, in the main. Although priorities are given girls from these three towns, other Girl Scouts may attend until the registration is filled up. The entire season starts on June 22 and runs through July 30. Sessions are broken into convenient two week periods, but girls may attend more than one session. Emphasis is placed on providing adequate adult supervision so that each girl will get the most out of her day camping experience.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Shinnick, former executive director of the Winchester Girl Scout Council, enthused over the plans for this year's day camping prospects stated:

"We are going to give the girls an opportunity to participate in the activity planning, this year." "Each unit of girls will have two representatives on the Camp Council which will plan all of the camp-wide activities," she continued. "In this way, we can be sure that each girl will have the opportunity to do a majority of the things she would like to do at day camp. Under the general Council plan, then, each unit will plan and execute its own activities under the supervision of adult leadership. We hope for fair weather, of course, but camp will be held regardless of the weather."

It is anticipated that, basically, there will be 1 Brownie Unit (ages

7-8), 2 Junior Units (ages 9-11) and 1 Cadette Unit (ages 12-13) for each of the two week sessions. The days will start at 9:15 a.m. and finish at 3:15 p.m., Monday through Thursday. The girls will usually bring their own lunch, but several "cook outs" are being planned for each session.

Mrs. Shinnick emphasized that she has several unit leader openings as well as those for assistant leaders at the present time. Unit leaders must be over 21 and assistants must be over 18. The challenges of these jobs are minor compared to the rewards their accomplishment can mean. Those who would welcome this out-of-doors opportunity to broaden and share their skills and knowledge will want to contact Mrs. Shinnick at the Mistic Side Council Headquarters at 33 Ship Avenue, Medford, or phone 395-8640 as soon as possible to assist the overall planning.

Applications for Camp Joy and further information, is contained in each camp folder which was distributed to every Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout and leaders some time ago. Rates vary from $9 to $11 for each two week period, including insurance, with transportation furnished according to the breakdown of town groupings. Registrations are on a first received, first accepted basis.

Girl Scouts who are at least 15 years old and have completed 9th grade will be interested in another innovation — Program Aide Units. These girls will get training in sharing their skills as well as the opportunity to further their own abilities.

For a wonderful experience of hiking, nature study, exploration, campcraft, singing, dramatics, outdoor cooking and many other worthwhile activities, parents of Girl Scouts are urged to send in their daughters' application for Girl Scout Day Camping at Camp Joy.

WHS Musicians In Fine Pops

A full audience enjoyed a very good evening Friday, May 8 at the High School when they heard more than 200 young musicians "Say It With Music."

Against a background of spring flower decorations, at tables and with intermission refreshments, parents and friends of the singers and instrumentalists heard a program that began with the Girls' Glee Club in "Hol-la li Hol-la lo," a German Folk song but which also included such things as Palestrina's "Gloria Patri" by the Mixed Glee Club.

The orchestra, performing well as did the vocal groups, under Wendell S. Withington, presented five numbers, opening with Beethoven's "Turkish March" and ending with highlights from "My Fair Lady."

The program included the less formal groups of musicians, the Brass Quintet and the Abergona Ten, both of which delighted the audience. It ended splendidly with the WHS Band, under Frederick Murray which started with Caccav's "Burnished Brass" and concluded the whole affair with Rodgers' stirring "Victory At Sea."

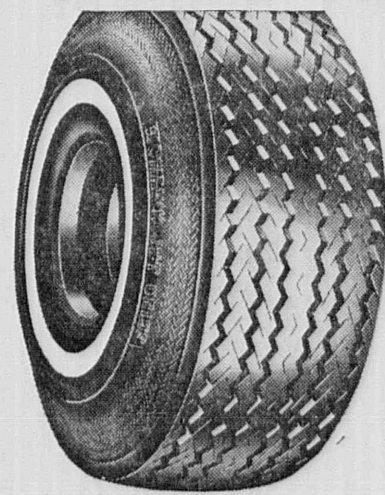

Music, which has made its mark all year with the performing students, left its mark on a well-satisfied audience.

Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8:00 o'clock

Reading Room, 4 Mount Vernon Street.
Open daily except Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays 9 to 9
Sunday, May 24
The transforming and healing effects of knowing man's spiritual identity as a child of God will be emphasized at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The subject is "Soul and Body." The healing of the lame man at the temple by Peter will be read (Acts 3), and also this verse from Corinthians: (2:18): "We all, with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

Related readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include these lines:
"Consciousness constructs a better body
when faith in matter has been conquered.
Correct material belief by spiritual understanding, and Spirit will form you anew" (p.
425).

Jehovah's Witness Assembly to Be In Late June
Robert S. Jones, overseer of the Wilmington congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses announced that Springville, Maine has been selected as the location for the next Christian assembly for Bible education which is scheduled for June 19-21. The Nasson College, Spring-ville, Maine has been engaged for the three-day religious seminar.
Eighteen congregations from parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts will assemble in Springville for the educational program prepared. More than 1100 ministers are expected to attend including 20 from Winchester.
The theme for this assembly will be "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World." Jones said "Jehovah's Witnesses must be prepared to teach others the truth of God's Word the Bible in an expanding world population. This means continual training to efficiently carry on the ministry Jesus commanded to be done at this time in world history."

Practical demonstrations and talks will emphasize how the visiting delegates can shoulder this responsibility as Christians.
Saturday evening will feature one of the assembly highlights. A two hour motion picture film "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News around the World" in color, and produced by the Watchtower Society depicting the tremendous world missionary work of Jehovah's Witnesses will be shown. This film will afford many an excellent opportunity to see for the first time the vast scope of the work and organization of the New World Society of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Sunday at 3 p.m. the feature talk of the seminar will be delivered by C. V. Henry, district minister, on the subject "Facing up to the Urgency of Our Times."
Two other talks "Protect the New Generation" and "Study the Word of Life" will round out the convention program.

WHS to Boston Area Math League Finals Wednesday

A team of five from Winchester will compete next week in the Greater Boston Math League playoffs to be held at Watertown High School the afternoon of May 27.

Winning the honor by being one of the top 12 of the 37 secondary schools in contest throughout the year in the five geographical sectors around Boston, the WHS team will compete next week against Boston Latin, Brookline, Needham, Concord-Carlisle, Lexington, Braintree, Westwood, Newton South, Newton, Haverhill and Arlington.

On the team for Winchester will be Bill Hopkins and Brian Kincaid, seniors and veterans of three years of league competition; Brenda Baker and Dick Wakefield, juniors; and Caroline Root as the sophomore representative.

"Remember this is a battle of champions, so the questions may be more difficult than usual," is the way in which John Waite, Jr., WHS math teacher and this year executive director of the area organization, greeted the competing schools in his notice about the playoffs. And that is the only such thing about the meet coming up which promises to be exciting.

Problems, tackled by two from each school in each category excepting the final team question, on which the five cooperate, are to be in: arithmetic (verbal problems); algebra I (inequalities and absolute values); geometry (similar polygons); algebra II (complex numbers) and introductory theory of equations. Interested spectators will be welcome at the meet.

Theatre Party Rates At Glass Menagerie

Special low theatre party rates are now available for the extended run of the Tennessee Williams' drama "The Glass Menagerie" starring Betty Field at the Charles Playhouse.

Groups of ten or more will receive discounts for the remainder of the engagement, through May 31. More than 75 schools and organizations have thus far participated in the group program for this critically acclaimed production.

McNamara Elected Jaycee President; Bird Wins Award

At the general meeting of the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce held on Tuesday evening, May 12, the following officers and directors were elected for a one-year period:

President—Robert McNamara
Vice President—John Kavanagh
Secretary—John Williams
Treasurer—Joseph Conley
Directors—William Schromm, youth and sports; Edward Nadeau, community development; Ben Forster, social; David McLean, publicity; and Rudy Peins, membership.

In the absence of outgoing president Joe Saylor, the eight new officers and directors were sworn in by Jaycee state vice president, Walter Butler.

Bob McNamara expressed his appreciation to all of the members present who elected him as their new president, and he pledged to do the very best job possible. He further expressed his confidence and pleasure in the excellent slate of men who were chosen to work with him during the year to come.

For the first time, an award was presented to the member voted the outstanding Winchester Jaycee of the year. Selection of this award was determined by a secret ballot held during the April general meeting. The winner for this year was Bill Bird, who has devoted much time, energy and talent to the local chapter's successes in its first three years. This award will be made as an annual presentation from now on.

John Kavanagh, vice president, outlined the latest developments in the Jaycee State Tennis Tournament to be held in Winchester over the July 4th weekend with the Winchester Jaycees as host. Approximately 25 Jaycee chapters throughout the state are planning to send the winners of their local tournaments to Winchester to compete in the state tennis tourney. This means that about 80 to 100 teenage boys and girls up to age 18 will be competing in Winchester over the weekend.

Arrangements have been made to have approximately 20 players and their chaperones who will be coming to Winchester from communities beyond a 50-mile radius. Nearly 80% of the $900 needed to send the four winners (two boys in the 16 to 18, and two girls in the 16 to 18 divisions) and two chaperones to the Jaycee National Tennis Tournament in Minneapolis in August has already been raised or pledged.

Two new Jaycee members were welcomed and sworn in by President McNamara. They were Paul Stevenson and Bud Rowlin (a transfer member from the Portland, Maine, Jaycee chapter).

Retiring members Bill Bird, Ted Read, and Dick Brackett were each presented with exhausted rooster pins. Exhausted rooster is the official term for a member who reaches the Jaycee retirement age of 36.

At the conclusion of the general meeting, members retired to the kitchen of the Red Cross House for refreshments and a chance to congratulate the new officers and directors.

Scouting's Highest Award

Troop 507 Eagle Award Earned By Robert Charles

Robert Charles of Winchester Boy Scout Troop 507 is now an Eagle Scout. The highest rank in Scouting was awarded him last week during Court of Honor ceremonies at Parents' Night in McCall Junior High School auditorium. The 15-year-old Scout is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton P. Charles of 18 Madison Avenue.

Bob is the 13th young man to achieve Eagle rank under Scoutmaster Paul Butterworth and is the Troop's 22nd Eagle since the organization was chartered more than 30 years ago. In the audience at the ceremony 150 people including 45 Scouts, parents, brothers, sisters, friends and invited guests.

Beginning as a Cub Scout in Hamden, Connecticut, Bob Charles joined the Winchester troop when his family moved into town. He continued in Scouting through the sixth and into the seventh grades. "I must admit," the Eagle explains, "my interest lagged somewhat at that time, and I dropped out for a time. But I am grateful that a buddy persuaded me to go back into 507 during the eighth grade. Soon after that I 'caught fire' and made up my mind to go for the top. I had finally seen what Scouting had to offer me, and I wanted it."

"Troop 507 is strong on camping and outdoor activities. That's what really captured me," he comments. "Through those projects I developed strong interest in camping, fishing and swimming. Believe me, I welcomed this experience."

Bob also speaks very appreciatively of help and encouragement of his parents and adult leaders.

Eagle examiners, troop committeemen and fellow Scouts name leadership as outstanding among Bob's personal qualities and contributions to the Troop. This ability was developed largely, he says, through Scouting experience. Leadership is a requisite for Eagle, and Bob was given an opportunity to work with younger boys, took responsibilities on his own, and, as he says now, "I had plenty of younger boys to practice on. I only hope I helped them as much as they have helped me!"

The young Eagle is now troop junior assistant scoutmaster. He plans to continue in Scouting as long as possible—to add an Eagle palm or two to his award and to serve the Troop, however he is able.

FOLKS—This week I want to give you a little more information about Chrysler Corporation's new offering—the "Barracuda." This is the one car in the U.S.A. with no competition, because there is not another car made like it. The Grindelman Corporation makes a car they call the "Bronco." Go take a look at the Bronco and then come and look at ours—there is absolutely no comparison. In fact, they are not in the same league. I might say we are in the Big League, they are in the other league. We have had big response to our car. Do come and see it at our place. A "Barracuda" is a fish, but this is not a fish story. See Harry or Bob Scott or myself. Thank You.

Crittenton Elects And Plans For Ensuing Year

Members of the Winchester Senior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League held their annual meeting at the home of Miss Helen Niedringhaus on Myopia Hill Road and unanimously voted in the officers and committee heads listed below.

Mrs. William Sheets, president of all the leagues in Greater Boston, spoke on the National Association of Florence Crittenton Leagues of America. This is the group with headquarters in Chicago which ties together the many local leagues throughout the country by sending them informative literature, by sponsoring area conferences, by sending speakers into the field to keep each circle up to date on the newest thoughts and aids in the care of unmarried parents. The Winchester Circle then voted unanimously to join the National Association, and the officers who had studied this new plan and had worked to interpret it to the members were very much pleased to have it accepted.

Mrs. Sheets also spoke enthusiastically of a very large conference to be held in Boston in October, 1964-65, which will be attended by over 3000 delegates from social agencies in eleven states, who will be entertained by members of the local groups, while they are here for three days.

Mrs. Richard Pettingell, the new president, was hostess at luncheon at the home of Mrs. Don Greer for out-going and in-coming members of the board this week and many plans for next year were discussed. But members are never idle in trying to help the girls at Crittenton-Hastings House and imaginative plans were made then and there to hold a "Day at the Beach" on June 10th at the Gloucester home of Mrs. Coakley.

Members and friends will buy tickets which will include, besides beach fun, an unusual luncheon and a chance to win a beautiful hand-made Norwegian sweater. Everyone is urged to save the date of Wednesday, June 10th and to fill up her car with friends for a "Day at the Beach."

Inconsistency Thwarts Sachem Efforts To Gain Playoff Spot

A lopsided 17-9 loss to cellar-dweller Stoneham last Friday afternoon at Manchester Field—a contest that featured eight Sachem errors—dampened hopes of Winchester attaining a post-season playoff spot. Prior to the game, Stoneham had scored just three runs in five games. The Sachems are now faced with the job of defeating both second place Melrose and front-runner Concord back to back if they want to salvage the season.

THE RED SOX COULD TAKE LESSONS on Bob Crotty's level swing and follow thru, but effort went for naught as this pitch was fouled off. Action occurred in last Saturday's 9-7 win over Woburn at Manchester Field.

Concord, with 1-0 wins over both Elmington and Melrose last week, assumes the role of the team "that won't beat itself and won't be beat."

Prior to the Stoneham fiasco, the Sachems had looked sharp against Wakefield with a 4-1 win. On Saturday they came from behind against Woburn and then had to hold on for a 9-7 decision.

Monday's 5-1 victory over fading Belmont (they've dropped four straight) helped alter the taste of the Stoneham game.

This has always been a popular tournament, and the Tennis Association urges that all town tennis enthusiasts—no matter how uncertain their talents—file their entries.

Tom Dooley Youth League

To all those Winchester youths who participated in the "Do It for Dooley Day" in Arlington on May 9, the Tom Dooley Youth League wishes to express its deepest thanks. Their enthusiasm and willingness to work helped to make the day a gratifying and profitable one.

The Tom Dooley Youth League is organized to carry on the great work of Dr. Tom Dooley in Laos, India, and Nepal. The league does this by performing services for a reasonable price and putting the profits towards a specific goal such as a medical van to operate in the jungles of Laos.

A Winchester unit of the Tom Dooley Youth League is now being formed, and an introductory meeting will be held in the middle of June. All who are interested should call Bonney Smith at PA 9-1859.

Town Softball League

On Wednesday evening of last week the Shamrocks gained its second win by defeating the Health Lab by a score of 9-4. Richie O'Brien of the Shamrocks opened the game with a single while Roger Symmes and Bob Gray were walked with O'Brien scoring the first tally on a wild pitch. The Health Lab was held scoreless in its half of the first frame although John Gagliastro found Bill Sipp's delivery for a hit.

Richie O'Brien and Gene Lane hit safely in the second for the Shamrocks and scored on a walk to Jim Gibbons and two errors. Health's Tom Galvin connected for a double and later scored on hits by George Burns and Marvin Rosenstein.

In the third the Shamrocks hit pay dirt again on a hit by Tom Callahan, a walk to Bob Gray and a double by Symmes.

The fourth frame was a big one for Health Lab when Paul Hahn opened with a single, John Gagliastro hit a fly to short center with Hahn halfway to second thinking of an easy put out and ran back to first. The ball dropped for a hit and Paul was called out at second. Then on successive hits by D. LaGatta and George Burns were able to cross the plate for two more runs.

Bob Gray and Jim Callahan reached base on hits and advanced on a wild pitch and Gray tallied on a long fly by Gene Lane.

In the last stanza Bill Sipp opened for the Shamrocks with a walk, Jim Callahan bunted and both were safe and Jim Gibbons doubled to score Sipp and Callahan. Bob Gray then popped foul to first base and the fielder held the ball while Tom Callahan and Bill King circled the bases to score after they were walked and reached on an error.

The Health Lab went down in order to end the game on a fly, infield out and fly to left.

Thursday's game between the V. F.W. Knicks was called because of rain, but was played on Monday with the Vets winning 16-15 on a last inning home run by Jim Rae. John Zaffina pitched all the way for the victors and helped his own cause by connecting for two singles. Dave Shean did well on the mound for the Knicks and if it were not for some loose fielding the results of the game could have been different. The big sticklers in a losing cause were Bruce McKay who had two hits to his credit, Chip Swett and Bill Lamarche both connected for homers.

Tuesday night's game between the S.O.L. and Vets was postponed because of rain and strong winds and will be played at a later date.

Receives Tufts Athletic Award

Vandy French, a name synonymous with versatility and courage at Tufts College the past three years, will be the recipient of two distinguished athletic awards Monday, May 18, at the annual Letterman's Banquet in Cousins Gym.

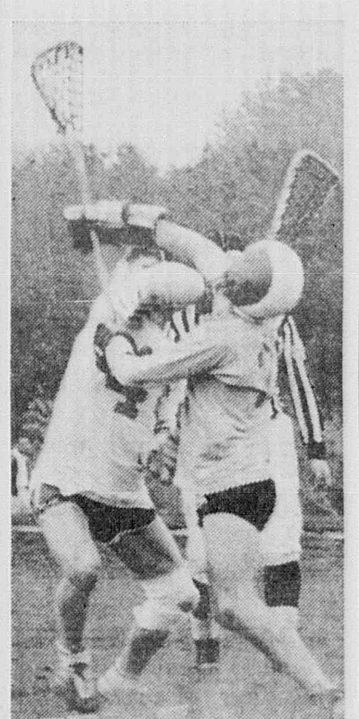

The 5' 7", 150-lb. baseball and basketball captain from Winchester will accept the coveted Clarence "Pop" Houston Award as the Junior's top student-athlete of 1963-64, along with the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) 1964 Merit Award for "scholarship and athletic prowess."

Last Tufts athlete to cop both elite awards was David Thompson, 6' 4", 235-lb. football and track star in 1962.

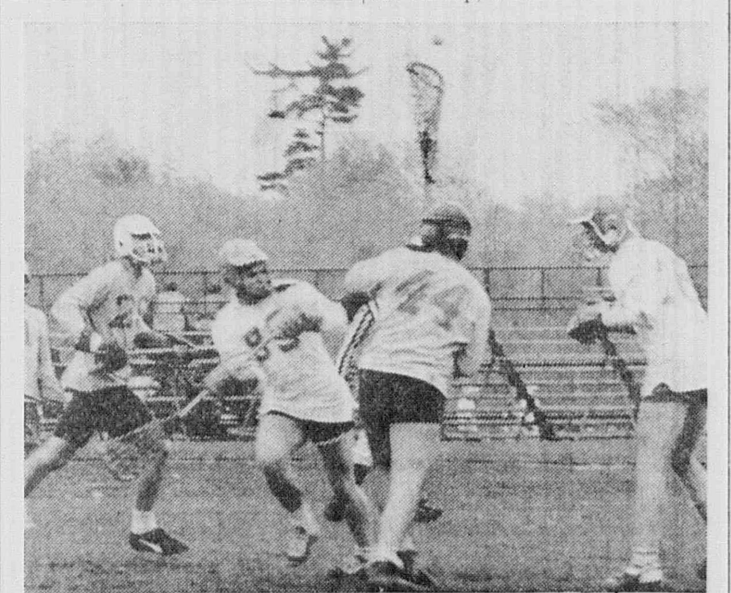

French, who was accorded the Bob Cousy Award last winter as New England's finest "little" basketball player (under six feet), led the Jumbos to their best season on the court in eight years. He was also named to the Greater Boston League All-Star team following his brilliant play in the Beanpot Tournament. Vandy set a Tufts record for assists in basketball, 116.

French has been a standout in baseball all three varsity campaigns. Last spring he was named to the Greater Boston All-Star squad at first base, despite his short stature. He has played almost flawlessly as a starter for three years—plus turning in frequent relief pitching chores. While his bat sizzled last season at .368, Vandy has experienced a prolonged slump this year, and, with two games left, is hitting below .275, although he leads all area players in stolen bases (15).

French recently received another honor indicative of his classroom accomplishment. The Dean's List student has been awarded a teaching fellowship at Harvard Graduate School of Education, and will teach at North Reading High School next year.

LOOKING LIKE TWO GLADIATORS in mortal combat, Sachem Greg Howard (r) battles Weston opponent for possession. Coach Gene Bouley's lacrosse team came out on top, 7-4.

IT'S ROUGH AND TUMBLE, that's lacrosse, and according to those who play it, plenty of fun. Here is action from last Friday's game with the Cambridge School of Weston, played at Weston, and won by the newly conceived Sachem unit 7-4. Sachem players (in gray) are Peter Thorpe (29) and Joe Tranfaglia (44).

"LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL JUST AIN'T ENOUGH"

He was an old man, and he had seen the dust of many diamonds—so Hemingway might put it.

His age and his individuality had been fused as one in the marks of the scars that ran down both legs from the knees—so Camus might weave it.

He drank hard or thirsted himself, ate a great deal or listened to his belly rumble in protest, slept around the clock or missed two nights of rest, played too much or slobbered for too long a time in idleness, but most of all he did a lot of talking—so Steinbeck might condense a life-time of moral weakness into a single paragraph.

Yet, no matter how the old man is described, no matter how he's introduced, he still deserves a little respect. Somebody ought to listen to him. Like the other day when he began to ramble on about that "after supper nursery" called Little League baseball. Why he got so worked up he couldn't stop, and there were moments when even I wondered about his mental equilibrium. And that language of his was so colorfully atrocious that it could have scored first round knockouts over the combined efforts of Henry Miller, James Baldwin and Erskine Caldwell. How, I asked myself, can a man hate so much? Then it came to me; came the way things come when they have always been right in front of you, but because you did not expect it to be so simple you kept looking for answers amidst trees and under rocks and on mountain tops. The old man actually loved the very thing he chastised.

"Baseball's been my whole life," he said, jutting his jaw forward, "and nobody's gonna convince me that the 400 or so boys who are active in Little League baseball in this town are gonna make it theirs. Probably 350 of 'em won't even touch a baseball after they graduate from high school. They'll sprawl in front of their television sets, pop corn in one hand and Narragansett in the other, and they'll say things like, 'Hit it over the fence, you bum. Why I could handle a bat better than you when I was twelve years old and Coach Smith had us rummin' around Leonard Field in 20 degree weather on Patriot's Day. Yes sir, we were tough. They cancelled the Red Sox-Yankees doubleheader, and half of the marathons dropped out with frostbite, but we still practiced. Ole Smitty said we had to learn how to win, told us we'd win the pennant by 30 games if we only played that many.'"

"Kind of like the has-been fighter reminiscing over past glory," I contributed.

"Heaven and saints forbid," he said. "Little League boxing."

"Say maybe that's no so far fetched. I'd wager that a good percentage of those kids would give up baseball for something that really appealed to them. Why does everybody have to play baseball?"

"Write to Williamsport. I think they're tryin' to sabotage the majors."

"How?" I inquired, genuinely curious.

"Easy," he said. "By producing more and more mediocrity every year."

"Maybe some of these kids ought to take up swimming or running or basketball or archery or something else that they're good at and will not trouble concentrating on."

"Right, so many of 'em just wastin' their time. It's a shame, Little League baseball just ain't enough."

"What do you suggest be done? I asked, knowing right well he had already solved the problem to his own satisfaction.

"Start by cutting leagues down to a reasonable size." He said it pointedly, as though he had been enmeshed in box scores that ran high in runs, low in hits, and high again in errors. "Kill the professionalism that stifles individuality with too much too soon for the mind of a 12-year-old. Why they (I assume he meant the administrators, both local and at Williamsport) insist on making a scaled-down adult world for those kids is beyond me. The young must have a world of their own, not fragments of make-believe from the imaginative mind of some frustrated athlete who has little respect for himself and less for others.

"Take the uniforms away. Give them caps and T-shirts, that's enough. Do away with league standings, all-star teams, everything that suggests competition on a 'do or die' basis. The unique pressures of competition should begin when the mind is capable of accepting them. After all, you teach a child to walk before you teach him to run; you teach him to talk before you teach him to write."

"I like that word 'individuality.' I think it's one of the most beautiful words in the English language."

"Beautiful and meaningful," he assured me, "it holds the key to everything."

"We are totally in accord."

"How much special attention does the talented ballplayer get?" He shook his head sadly. "Why they're lucky if they spend fifteen minutes a week fielding grounders or shagging flies. By the time they reach high school instead of being at an advanced stage they have to be taught the fundamentals. Count your Little League products now playing in the majors. Not many are there, and those that have made it have done so by sheer work and concentration on the one thing they wanted."

"There's a leftyhander over at Harvard who's a Little League Product, what do you think his chances are?"

Paul Del Rossi, I believe, is aware of his individuality. He has a temper, has channeled it properly, and has been willing to work. He reminds me of Boston's Billy Monbouquette. He has that same fierce desire to accomplish what he has set out to do.

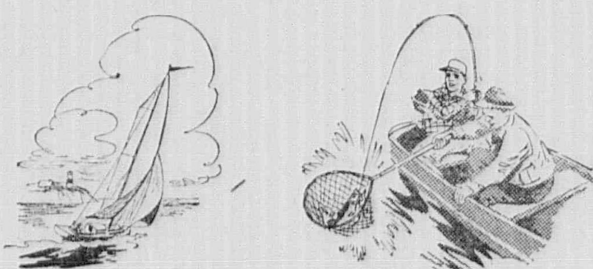

"I also do not consider Paul a product of Little League as it exists today. When he played on that championship team that went to Williamsport there were only four league entries in Winchester. Now things have gotten entirely out of hand."

"Even back then," I offered "Little League baseball was the center of some pretty stiff controversy. Bob Feller, as I remember it, was for it, and Tommy Heinrich was against it. Heinrich warned that the overall quality of the major leagues would be lessened year by year."

"Well, he said, hasn't it?"

"The potential intrinsic values are too frequently glossed over and neglected for the extrinsic glitter of numbers, money, attendance, and tournaments—all part of the frantic pursuit to justify the program quantitatively instead of qualitatively."

—J. J. McCarthy

Babe Ruth League

The Phillies moved into sole possession of first place as they won their second game of the season by trouncing the Cubs 16-3, while the defending champs the Orioles scored five times in the seventh inning to beat the Giants 6-1.

With the score tied 1-1 going into the last inning the Orioles broke loose to score five runs on 3 hits, 3 walks and a hit batsman. Getting the big hit for the Orioles was rookie Paul Capone who had a two-run single. Ken Garvey pitched a strong game for the Orioles giving up 3 hits while striking out 7 and walking 1. John Shanahan pitched well for the Giants while getting 2 of the team's 3 hits. John "Len" Carroll had the other Giants hit and scored their only run while showing blazing speed on the bases and in the outfield.

The Phillies continued to wield hot bats as they banged out 14 hits again this week in their win over the Cubs. Leading the Phillies attack this week was their "Muscle Man" first baseman Jeff Schlener, and short stop Tommy Martin. The big "S" had a single, double and triple while scoring 3 runs. Tommy Martin who is currently yielding a hot bat had 2 hits including a 500-foot home run (with a roll) to start the Phillies big 8-run third inning.

Kenny Cooper pitched a fine game for the Phillies and also having 2 hits. Bobby Hifinger had a single and a double before giving way to rookies Jimmy Peterson and Richard "Big" Shanahan. Mike "Harmon" Garcia had 2 hits for the Cubs including a home run.

A burgeoning volunteer program, with an increase in numbers of 11 percent and in assignments of 17 percent over last year, was reported at the fifth annual meeting of the Museum of Science Service League yesterday.

Membership in the organization, which last year gave 12,000 hours of service to the Museum, now totals 226 adults and 28 juniors, it was announced.

Mrs. Ellis J. Green, of 7 Ravenscroft Road, will continue to serve the board of directors at the Museum. And attending the meeting were three more League workers from Winchester, Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. David B. Holmes and Mrs. Henry E. Damon.

ALA in Plea For Windshield Tints

The ALA today urged automobile manufacturers to take pity on tall drivers by considering equipping cars with windshields having the lower portion tinted to cut glare.

"Sun visors and windshields tinted at the top are great for cutting glare for most drivers," noted Gerald J. Gagnon of the Automobile Legal Association's safety department.

"But tall drivers must still contend with the eye-straining glare reflected off the shiny car hood fenders and chrome-plated windshield wipers."

V. F. W. Buddy Poppy Sale

"More than one-half of the net proceeds received from the sale of Buddy Poppies remains here in our own community to meet the calls," Commander-elect John Collins of the Abernethy Post stated today in promoting the annual sale of Poppies this coming Friday and Saturday in Winchester.

"The Post maintains a relief fund into which is placed all net profits received from the sale of Buddy Poppies," said Commander-elect Collins. "This fund is available to meet any calls for relief from our local veterans."

It is hoped that our citizens will respond generously when asked by members of the V. F. W. and its Ladies' Auxiliary to help them "honor the dead by helping the living." There can be a lot of satisfaction in wearing a Buddy Poppy.

You & Your Teeth
A Note On Health

The American people may well be eating their way toward dentures.

It is known that, for tooth decay to occur, fermentable carbohydrates, such as sugar, must be present in the diet. It is also known that the annual per capita consumption of sugar in the United States has increased almost tenfold in the last 125 years.

Besides increasing the possibility of tooth decay with the additional sweets, Americans have compounded the problem by almost eliminating all fibrous, coarse foods which give more exercise to the chewing muscles and which also serve to help cleanse the tooth surfaces. Highly cooked, soft foods, furthermore, readily become impacted between the teeth and are more difficult to remove by brush-ing.

With today's diet of sweet and easy-to-chew foods, more diligent home and professional care is necessary if good dental health is to be maintained. If this care is not observed, then in the future we can

Bentley Honors Harold Lewis At Waltham

When Bentley College of Accounting and Finance of Boston yesterday dedicated the first building on its new 102-acre campus site in Waltham they named it Lewis Hall, in honor and memory of the late Harold M. Lewis of West Medford, former executive of the H. P. Hood and Sons milk firm and chairman of the company's financial committee until his retirement in 1952. He was a member of the Country Club here for 40 years.

A bronze plaque honoring Mr. Lewis was unveiled in the lobby of Lewis Hall by his daughter, Mrs. Helen Lewis Gilpatrick of 1 Everett Avenue and his son, Thomas M. Lewis, 2nd, of Westwood. Assisting in the unveiling was Thomas L. Morison of 4 Bruce Road, president of Bentley College.

President Morison announced that Lewis Hall would be used initially for administrative purposes and that two departments of the college would relocate from Boston about July 1.

Master plans for the multi-million dollar campus complex will provide for two classroom buildings, a library, an administration and faculty office building, a student center, and dormitories. Among members of the Bentley Board of Trustees also taking part in the dedication was J. George Gange of 1 Edgehill Road.

Cynthia Barone Serves N. E. Area For Goldwater

Mrs. William D. Barone of 1 School Street has been appointed by the Washington Goldwater for President Committee to be New England regional chairman of public relations. Working in this capacity, Mrs. Barone will be coordinator of publicity for all six New England states.

Field directors of the Washington office met with the New England representatives at the Statler Hilton last week end. Goldwater chairmen from all New England states were present and a press conference was held Sunday afternoon set up by Mrs. Barone. Earle Eisenhower was among the group who came up from Washington for the two-day conference.

The Massachusetts Goldwater committee which was instrumental in the election of five delegates from this state, is still actively operating at its 10 School Street headquarters in Boston.

The Three U's

By Paul C. Tullier, Senior Editor, World Book Year Book

A horde of idle youngsters roam the nation's streets looking for jobs that aren't there—for them. New ways are being explored to change them from useless minuses into social pluses.

A million of them are now idle. Millions more will follow. What can we do to hold those millions in school? How can we salvage those already out of school?

There are no pat answers to the first question. But a search for one is under way. "We must catch the would-be dropout early," says Robert C. Taber, director of pupil placement and counseling for the Philadelphia school system. "By the time a pupil reaches high school, he has usually decided whether he will finish school or drop out." But, he says, "by starting in the early school years we have a good chance of influencing and reducing the number of dropouts."

The way to "catch" the would-be dropouts is to recognize their symptoms. Some are easy to detect. Playing hooky is one. Tardiness, day after day, is another. A report card filled with low or failing grades is a third. But there are other symptoms that are not so easy to spot. Typical examples of such behavior patterns can be found in pupils who have passing grades, but who often daydream in class. Brash youngsters who talk back to their teachers or who are continually bullying their classmates are suspects. Painfully shy students who have little to say either in the classroom or on the playground need watching. Each in his own way may be flashing an SOS for help. More and more teachers are on the lookout for such signals. Sometimes, of course, these traits are found in the gifted child as well as in the dropout, and teachers are aware of this.

Once the would-be dropout is spotted, the school staff closes ranks and works as a team. Youngsters with "behavioral problems", the shy ones, the aggressive ones, the insolent ones, are dealt with more understandingly. Or they are referred to specialists. Family troubles that are affecting their schoolwork, or even school attendance, are handled by school authorities or turned over to social agencies. Most of all, the teachers look for the youngster's special interests.

An example of such teamwork at the grade school level, and what it can result in, comes from Robert Taber. "Mary Ann was a shy, retiring girl," says Taber. "She was also a non-student, unable to keep up with her class."

In her second year, Taber continues, she was placed in a special class for retarded children. Her teacher worked closely with her, looking for ways to cut through her indifference. When Mary Ann showed an interest in drawing, her teacher encouraged her. Soon the counselor and art director were drawn in. Special instruction in art was provided.

"The changes in her attitude soon became evident," says Taber. "The scowl left her face. Her interest in schoolwork improved. She returned to regular classes. She was no longer considered retarded."

Mary Ann's talent was further developed in junior high school. Later, she received a high school scholarship. Her academic grades were satisfactory, and, after graduation, she won an art scholarship and subsequently went on to earn honors for herself in the professional field.

"Not every student has special talents like Mary Ann," says Taber. "But it's a good example of what teachers and counselors can do to help a child."

Almost every school system now has some kind of special program to help backward students. Some, like the one in Cheyenne, Wyoming, are on the lookout for possible poor readers as early as kindergarten. Other systems have corrective reading courses all the way through grade school into high school. Some cities, such as Union City, New Jersey, and Medford, Massachusetts, have introduced special teacher programs to improve reading instruction.

Reading ability is one of the foundation stones of a Chicago program designed to help potential dropouts and reclaim those already in that category. Known as the Great Cities School Improvement Program, it is one of 10 such projects financed by the Ford Foundation in U. S. cities. The Chicago experiment is a good example of the originality being shown by each of them.

Part One is devoted to holding the would-be dropout in school. It involves pupils 14 years or older who are still in elementary school and almost certain to drop out. Classes are held at the Stephen A. Douglas School.

"Mail Order" Learning
New subject matter and new ways of teaching have been introduced. Two unusual "textbooks," for example, have been added to the usual list: the newspaper and the mail order catalog. "The newspaper," says Mrs. Helen Isbitz, assistant principal in charge of the program, "has been called the 'poor man's university.' And because it is an up-to-the-minute record of current events, it is a university in print." As used at the Douglas school, the daily newspaper becomes a tool by which the youngsters improve reading skills, learn to "skim," and improve their vocabularies. They learn history through current events. They discover science. They learn practical arithmetic by "shopping" the ads.

The classrooms themselves are vibrant with color. Large bulletin boards are filled with posters, pictures, and student projects. "We keep their eyes as well as their minds busy," says Mrs. Isbitz. "Blank walls too often encourage daydreaming, a luxury these youngsters can't afford." Some classrooms have pictures of Lena Horne and Louis Armstrong cheek-by-jowl with Ralph Bunche. "We try to inspire the children with pride of race," says Mrs. Isbitz. "We try to raise their sights and encourage them to believe that they, too, can amount to something if they will only make the effort."

All of these innovations have paid off. Pupils are rarely bored. Their reading skills have increased, their vocabularies have enlarged, and even their way of dressing has improved. School counselors work closely not only with the children, but also with their parents. Field trips are made to museums, to concerts to plays. All these forces, combined, have achieved the main goal of the project. Of 420 youngsters involved, all have remained in school.

Part Two of Chicago's Great Cities project involves those who have already dropped out. Headquarters are at the Paul Laurence Dunbar Vocational High School. Early in 1961, teams of teen-age volunteers made a door-to-door survey of the school district, seeking out youths of 16 or over who had dropped out of school. Later, the youngsters were invited into the project office at Dunbar for personal interviews and counseling in the after-school hours.

"In many cases," says Gilbert Sims, guidance counselor in the special project office, "we were the first persons these people met who took the trouble to listen to them. Most of their experience had been failure. Many of them couldn't believe that they actually would get another chance to complete their education and learn a trade."

A measure of the program's success is reflected in a special needle trades pilot program which was set up by the Board of Education with the cooperation of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the Illinois State Employment Service, and three clothing firms: Hart Schaffner & Marx, Kuppenheimer, and Weinert Corporation. A 10-week course was given. At its end, 23 of the 24 persons originally enrolled received certificates of completion in the needle trades course. All were placed in jobs. The missing 24th had been injured in an automobile accident but planned to continue after recovery. Most important, all 24 had taken steps to complete their high school education.

WHO'S EYEING WHOM? It could be his first, but it surely won't be his last En Ka ride. One of the town's younger citizens and one of the merry-go-round dabbins give each other traditionally skeptical looks as the big successful fair goes round and round around them. The old-fashioned "Country Fair" drew the largest crowd in its history this year at its new Manchester Field site beside Mystic Valley Parkway.

James Sylvester Murray

James Sylvester Murray of 9 Everett Avenue, former owner of the Murray Leather Company on Campbell Street in Woburn, died Saturday, May 23, at the Winchester Hospital after several months illness. He was 79 years old.

Mr. Murray came from an old Woburn family. He was the son of Hugh D. and Delia (Fallon) Murray, and he was born January 29, 1885, in Woburn. His father was a well known former mayor of the city.

He grew up in Woburn and was graduated from Woburn High School. At the age of 18 years he entered the business on Campbell Street, founded by his father and advanced to owner, a position he held until five years ago when he retired because of failing health.

In the old days of semi-professional baseball in Woburn, Mr. Murray took an active interest in the game, managing a Woburn team that staged some thrilling duels with the old Winchester Town Team. "Doc" McMahon, a former Red Sox pitcher, pitched for Woburn in those days with Ray Tift, a left-hander, formerly with the Yankees working for Winchester. Huge crowds were attracted to the games, usually held on Labor Day.

Mr. Murray was a former director of the Woburn National Bank, and a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society. He came to Winchester at the time of his marriage to the former Elsie M. Dickie of Cambridge, who died in 1954. He lived first on Maxwell Road, then for a short time on the Parkway and finally at his late home, 9 Everett Avenue. He was widely known in Woburn where he was in business for 60 years and also had many friends in Winchester.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Walter G. Distler of Larchmont, New York; a brother, William H., of Clearwater, Florida; and three sisters, Mrs. Thomas O'Neil of Arlington; Miss Mabel Murray and Mrs. John P. Kenney, both of Fort Lauderdale, Florida; also six grandchildren.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the late residence at 9:15. Solemn requiem high Mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock. Rev. Francis X. Turke was celebrant, Rev. Martin J. Dolphin was deacon and Rt. Rev. Msgr. John M. Manion, pastor of St. Mary's, was sub-deacon. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Frank Smith, Jr. To New Post At Shawmut Bank

Frank A. Smith, supervising analyst in the computer research department, has been elected an assistant cashier of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, according to an announcement by Lawrence H. Martin, president. Formerly of Winchester, he now resides in Billerica.

He is a graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1949, and the School of Banking at Williams College, class of 1953. He will be graduated from Boston University next month, magna cum laude, with a B. S. degree in business administration.

From 1950 to 1954 he served with the United States Air Force as a staff sergeant, assigned to personnel planning and management sections, and to base finance. He has served as secretary and educational vice president of Shawmut Chapter of Toastmasters International and he holds membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Beta Gamma Sigma, the scholastic honor society for Schools of Commerce and Business.

He is married and the father of seven children.

Dr. Thomas Goodman

A memorial service for Dr. Thomas Patton Goodman of Fairway Drive, Wilmette, Illinois, husband of Sally Lou Kriner Goodman, formerly of 339 Main Street, was held Saturday, May 16, in the Hyde Park Baptist Church in Chicago.

Dr. Goodman until the time of his death was professor of mechanical engineering at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. A former Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University, Dr. Goodman also held degrees from Northwestern University, the University of Pittsburgh and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was the recipient of both a Guggenheim and Fulbright award in 1956-57 when he studied at the Technical University in Munich, Germany.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Ann, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goodman of Chicago. He was the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Kriner of 339 Main Street. The Thomas Patton Goodman Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established in his memory at Northwestern University.

Elizabeth Ellen Carter

Elizabeth Ellen Carter was the six-year old daughter of George William, 3rd, and Barbara Ann (Aarflot) Carter of 158 Highland Avenue.

The little girl was born November 3, 1957, in East Orange, New Jersey, and came to Winchester with her parents last November. She was a pupil in the Lincoln School and popular with her teachers and schoolmates.

She leaves, besides her parents, a brother, James, aged 4, and her paternal grandparents.

Services were held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church with Dr. Dwight L. Cart, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial will be in New Jersey.

Charles A. Haggerty

Charles A. Haggerty, a native and former resident of Winchester, died last week in Portland, Maine, where he had been living at 47 Chapel Street. He was 70 years old. Mr. Haggerty was the son of Charles H. and Mary (Porter) Haggerty. He was born September 17, 1893, in Winchester and lived most of his life in this town, moving to Portland 10 years ago.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mahoney of Arlington; and several nieces and nephews in Winchester.

The funeral was held last Thursday morning from the Lane Funeral Home. Requiem high Mass was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine M. Morse

Mrs. Katherine M. Morse, widow of Walter J. Morse and a life-long resident of Winchester, died in a Melrose convalescent home Monday, May 25, after a long illness.

Mrs. Morse was the daughter of Patrick F. and Bridget (Walsh) Guerin. She was born November 21, 1891, in Winchester, and spent her entire life in the town, her last address being on Main Street near Fairview Terrace. She had been in the convalescent home for the past year. There are three grandchildren surviving, but aside from them there are no near relatives. Her son, Arnold E. Morse, passed away last year.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the chapel of the Church of the Epiphany. The assistant rector, Rev. Stephen Walke, officiated. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

From Bloodletting To Bloodmobile: Fear Still Exists

The 1964 American Red Cross program for blood collections and use is a project that would astound and bewilder the tenth century physician who practiced bloodletting as a therapeutic measure for any number of human ailments.

Yet when the Bloodmobile comes to St. Mary's Hall a week from today some of the primitive elements of distaste which accompanied the patient's ordeal in those early days will be a factor among those which keep potential Winchester donors from coming to give.

On May 5, as part of a national survey, the Massachusetts Regional Blood Program asked donors at four mobile units in the state this question in a questionnaire: "what do you think is the most important reason why individuals who can give blood do not give?" Fear (of needle, pain, health, injury, etc.), 111; ignorance (of need, of benefits, etc.) 36; apathy or indifference, 24; dislike of Red Cross, 9 (and other, 8).

The old bugaboo, fear, had quite a lead.

Asked "what do you think is the most important reason why individual people give blood?" 174 said humanitarianism, 59 thought for family protection or to have blood for emergency, 21 put civic duty (and 7 had other reasons).

Civilization has brought us along, but there is still a good way to go, apparently, especially in Winchester. The May report from the state listed 18 cities or towns which received 150 or more donations in one or more April Bloodmobile visits. It included Andover, (232), Wellesley (244), Needham (217) at the top. Winchester's average, in the last 5 bloodmobile visits, over 10 months, is only 73.8 a visit.

Next Thursday, June 4, at St. Mary's Hall, the bloodmobile will accept blood donations to be credited to the Good Neighbor Blood Bank.

This blood bank has been created by your local chapter office of the American Red Cross to fill the blood demands of any citizen of Winchester. If you, or your family, have a blood requirement, call your chapter office, 729-2300, for information on how to obtain this blood at no charge.

Be a good neighbor.

Smithsonian Inst. Pays Tribute To Inventors

The unknown genius who built a better flytrap has at last received national recognition.

An exhibit in the Smithsonian Institution's new Museum of History and Technology honors the inventor of the Coercive Fly Catcher, as well as those unsung tinkers who devised apple parers, self-wringing mops, mechanical churns, and other aids for hard-working housewives.

Early in the 19th century, virtually the only labor-saving devices in American homes were spinning wheels and spice mills. "Yet families were large, houses big, and appetites hearty," said C. Malcolm Watkins, curator of cultural history at the Washington museum.

"Servant Problem" Starts The housewife's perennial "welp" problem was aggravated as widespread expansion and the widespread growth of new factories absorbed labor, the National Geographic Society says.

The new water- and steam-powered factories turned out to be the housewife's best friends. By 1850, large-scale iron casting permitted mass production of everything from eggbeaters to washing machines.

More than 1,750 patents were issued for washing machines in the 19th century. The early models often no more than cumbersome wringers, were less than successful. "Almost every hunkler who can make a lumber box or an ox sled has invented a washing machine," a rural magazine complained, "and most of them require the power of an ox to use them at all."

Later washers suffered from the prevailing weakness for unnecessary complication. "Through most of the 19th century the machine inspired awe and wonder," Mr. Watkins explained, "so that the more conspicuously intricate the workings of a contrivance, the better it was likely to sell."

A self-wringing mop, however, was operated by a simple crank that drew the mop head between two rollers. The manufacturer claimed it rescued housewives from the "unpleasantness of putting the hands in hot and dirty water, and the straining and wrenching of wrists and arms."

In summers of the 19th century, a cook slaved over a hot wood-burning stove all day, but inventors eventually alleviated her lot. A circular for an early gas stove promised relief from "heated martyrdom."

For those housewives who had to light cook stoves, there was Smith's Infalible Fire Kindler. This gadget, in the words of one satisfied customer, "is easily lighted with a match and blows out as quick as the jerk of a sheep's tail."

A combination coal scuttle and sieve separated unburned lumps of coal from ashes. It was guaranteed to pay for itself in a short time. A flour-pail sieve on the same principle was advertised thus: "As a useful and elegant wedding present it is par excellence (sic)."

In the days when window screens were luxuries, flytraps were necessities. One popular trap was a wooden box holding a drum saturated with sweetened water. A clockwork mechanism revolved the drum. Flies perching on the moving blade were carried around to a blade which knocked them into the water-filled box. Rube Goldberg would have loved it.

You & Your Teeth A Note On Health

Early and regular dental care is a standard recommendation of the dental profession. But how soon is "early" and how often is "regular?"

In a national survey, the American Dental Association found that dental patients under four years of age had an average of three teeth needing fillings. The highest incidence of decay occurred among those aged 15 to 19, who had an average of five teeth needing fillings. And this is not counting those who seldom, if ever, see a dentist.

It was also revealed that 80 per cent of the dental patients under the age of 15 who were surveyed needed fillings, while about 64 per cent of those over 15 needed fillings.

Children are highly susceptible to dental decay, as this and other surveys have shown. This is due to a variety of reasons: snacks between meals, excessive amount of sweets, improper and infrequent toothbrushing and lack of regular professional care.

Home care is quite simple. The teeth of those who eat sweet snacks frequently during the day are subjected to almost continuous acid attacks. Therefore sweets should be kept to a minimum. Brushing immediately after eating will help to remove the sugar before it is converted to acid. When brushing is not possible, the mouth should at least be rinsed with clear water.

As for professional care, a child should make his first visit to his first teeth, normally between two and three years of age. During that visit, he may need no more than a thorough examination, including x-rays, and cleaning teeth. However, some pre-school children have cavities that require treatment.

The child should visit the dentist as often as the dentist recommends to see that the teeth are growing properly. Contrary to common belief, the first teeth are very important, for they set the growth pattern for the permanent teeth to follow.

Thus by starting early, when a child is two or two and one-half, by continuing regular care, and by making use of such preventive measures as fluoridation, you can ensure a bright future for your child's dental health.

Anyone For Gilbert And Sullivan?

A number of enthusiasts met recently at the home of Mrs. Norman Houlding, 19 Yale Street, to discuss the possibility of forming a Gilbert and Sullivan Society in Winchester, to put on one of the traditional light operas each year.

All interested persons are hereby alerted that this plan is in the wind. It is hoped that a further meeting can be arranged for June when the result of the preliminary negotiations are better known.

A canvassing committee will contact many of the town's singers and actors personally in the near future. But in the meantime anyone interested is invited to contact one of the following persons, each interested in musical and dramatic groups and all of whom were among those present at the first meeting: Bertha or Milne Blanchard, Richard Bates, George Hebb, Frances Cabot, Betty Foskett, Jane Koucky, Betty Vallee, Marion Wright and Alice Yanulis.

EMARC Notes Events, Reports Of Importance

The East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, through which Winchester parents work in the interest of their handicapped youngsters, sent a large delegation to the State House on Tuesday to attend the hearing before the Public Welfare Commission on the investigation of the state schools.

It is also reminding parents that through the efforts of Senator Charles V. Hogan and others, a new school for the retarded will be under construction on the grounds of the Danvers State Hospital in June, 1965; it will, however, be able to care for only 500.

Parents of children between 3 and 7 years of age not now attending the Wakefield or Winchester Pre-School Nursery are asked to register their children now for the classes. Please call nursery chairman, Lucie Cripps at 944-9133 to register your child for either class.

Thanks to some very kind and generous friends, the play area is quickly taking shape at the Winchester Nursery. Ernest McCormiskey of Woburn has made and installed the necessary gate and fencing of cedar screen which looks very attractive. Walpole Woodworkers gave a most generous discount on the fencing material. Soon the children will have all kinds of play equipment through the wonderful generosity of Mrs. Leon Blanchard of Greenwood who is giving the children the fine play equipment from her well-known and highly-rated kindergarten which she is closing the end of May. EMARC is most grateful for a well-equipped nursery for its children.

Attention all parents of children 5 and one-half years and up: plans for the Summer Day Camp are almost complete. The Town of Stoneham has again consented to sponsor and we are fortunate to retain the most capable Robert Ford of Lynn as director.

There is no charge. Everything if free. Applications and information may be obtained from Mrs. Gloria Johnson, Stoneham (438-3458).

The Occupational Center is the only center sponsored by a parent association in Massachusetts that has been accepted under the National School Lunch Program. This is due to the high standards of the program. This program entitles the Occupational Center to receive government surplus foods and a financial reimbursement from the state for each lunch served to the trainees. It is also the only field unit in the state dealing with the mentally retarded, that is recognized by Boston University's Rehabilitation Counseling program. Graduate students in this program receive training at the Occupational Center which leads to a masters and doctorate degree in rehabilitation counseling.

The Occupational Center was chosen by the Telephone Company of New England as their first community project in which they could offer volunteer help in aiding the mentally retarded. The result of this pioneer project is that New England Tel. & Tel. has accepted the mentally retarded as a community service with which they can identify. The future implications are that this will become a national project in 1965.

Attorney Moses Frankel of Wakefield was elected president of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children (MARC) at their 9th annual convention held at Magnolia Manor, Magnolia recently.

Mr. Frankel, a member of EMARC, began his presidential message by stating, "It is written that Solomon who was accounted among the wisest of men was asked, of what gift he most stood in need; and that Solomon answered, 'O Lord, give unto thy servant an understanding heart.'"

Ice Landic Consul Here Sponsor Of Scandinavian Pops

The Honorable E. Oher Pridle, of 37 Foxcroft Road, Icelandic consul in Boston, is one of four honorary sponsors for the American Scandinavian Night at the Boston Pops planned for Friday evening, June 19. The other three sponsors are the consuls for Sweden, Norway and Finland.

Mr. Pridle will be attending the Pops evening along with other Winchester people members of or interested in the Greater Boston Chapter of the American-Scandinavian Foundation. Information about and tickets for the evening can be obtained from Miss Laura Bryant, 57 Grozier Road, Cambridge (EL4-5430); orders must be in by June 8.

The American-Scandinavian Foundation has been active, among other things, in student exchange programs and exchange fellowships. Among the earliest exchange students in the program was the late Mrs. Alonzo Woodside of this town.

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

Fruit And Flower Mission

With all the Winchester gardens full of beautiful flowers, it is again time to gather some each Tuesday morning and have them at the railroad station in time to be put on the 1912 train for Boston. They are delivered to settlement houses where volunteers take them to shut-ins and convalescents in Boston's more crowded sections. This is a valuable service that for years has been sponsored by the Unitarian Church and augmented by the other churches in town.

Once again Mrs. Neil Borden, 58 Winford Way, and Mrs. Roswell Harding, 24 Hancock Street are in charge of this work. Contributions of flowers, cookies, teas, fruit and jellies will bring much pleasure to some shut-in. No bouquet of flowers is too small to bring joy and a bit of outdoors to someone who cannot go out this spring and summer.

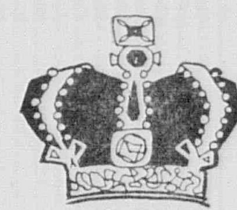

June 2 is the first date to remember. Every Tuesday thereafter through June, July, August and September, this opportunity to serve is available to all.

Crittenton Jr. Circle Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Winchester Jr. Circle of the Florence Crittenton League was held on May 19 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Bradford Whitten, 18 Sheffield Road.

Mrs. Charles E. Potts, president, conducted the business meeting at which time each board member was called upon to present her report for the past year. The circle's gratitude was expressed to Mrs. James P. Walsh, ways and means chairman, for the success of the year's projects. Mrs. James W. Blackham, nominating committee chairman presented the new slate of officers for the coming year. The newly elected officers are: Mrs. Richard Bannister, president; Mrs. William T. Bird, vice president; Mrs. Robert E. Duffy, secretary and Mrs. E. Leigh Quinn, treasurer.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Alan Ross and her committee, Mrs. Richard Bannister and Mrs. Seymour M. Niles poured.

Wedge Pond Tragedy: A Sad Commentary

A little six-year-old girl drowned at Wedge Pond on Sunday afternoon, and was almost followed in death by her younger four-year-old brother. She was the third person to die by drowning at Wedge in just about a month's time; and many townsfolk are talking about the tragedy of it, and criticizing the circumstances under which this tragedy took place.

The other two drownings at Wedge were, of course, unfortunate. But they were accidents of a different nature: one a victim of a stroke, the other a victim of another kind of accident. Neither of the earlier two were in any way preventable or avoidable—they were "things that happen," and the men involved were both over 40 years of age and so, one might say, had already lived a good part of their normal lives out.

This week's drowning was more in the nature of a true tragedy, and it has cut deeper into the imaginations and feelings of many responsible citizens. Here was a relatively new family in Winchester, which was unfamiliar with the peculiar ways of our town, who, on a hot weekend, went swimming at Wedge Pond "just like everyone else."

There were no signs posted anywhere along the beach entrance or on the beach itself, either prohibiting the use of the officially closed beach, or even asserting that persons using it did so at their own risk. Yet, a scant distance away at the Palmer Tennis Courts, there is a sign which notifies tennis players what's what. It reads in large letters: "Tennis Court Notice. Persons Using Them Must Wear Flat Rubber Soles Without Heels. Positively No Basketball Shoes. Winchester Residents Only. Per Order Park Comm." Similarly, when there is road construction in town there is usually a sign which warns the motorist of the conditions and adds: "Persons Using This Road Do So At Their Own Risk."

Now there is a chain across both road entrances to Wedge Pond beach, with a small "Stop" sign on the middle of it. Unfortunately, it is very much like closing a barn door after the horses have already left. But at least it's a step in the right direction, if the town really wishes to ensure that the beach will be closed when it is supposed to be closed, and it may prevent there being another drowning at Wedge. If the town does wish the beach to remain closed to the middle of June, when lifeguards hired for the summer by the Park Department go on duty, then there must be constant police patrolling or someone there to make sure no one goes swimming, for the chains across the entrances stop only vehicles, not the people who want to go swimming.

During the summer months, Wedge Pond is roped off to show where people can swim and where they aren't supposed to go, and there are always three or four lifeguards on duty. Over the hot weekend just passed, when it was natural to expect people to want to go swimming (and it was natural to expect that people would go swimming at Wedge), the beach was crowded almost to capacity with several hundred adults and children swimming and sunning. In addition to there being no posted signs or barriers, there were no lifeguards and the usual swimming area was not marked to show where the separation between the safe and unsafe (sharp drop-off) areas were.

Now the situation as it existed, and for all intents and purposes may still exist until the beach is opened on June 20, is totally unrealistic. The beach is officially closed, but yet hundreds of persons use it whenever the weather is hot. No effort has been made to prevent people from going swimming at Wedge, either by the Park Department on instructions from its Board of Commissioners, or by police on instructions from the Board of Selectmen (i.e., no instructions, no effort), and with no prohibiting signs there was obviously never going to be any compliance.

The Park Department says it can't take responsibility for opening the beach until the lifeguards are out of school in the middle of June. Is anyone naive enough to assume there will be no swimming at Wedge during the hot spells of the late spring and early summer? Does this mean that every year from the end of April to the middle of June (and maybe from Labor Day, when the beach closes again, to the end of September), we can expect a possible series of drownings?

Policemen say it would be impossible to keep everyone away from Wedge without a full-time officer there to enforce such a directive. As in the days of prohibition, it is silly to ask the police to attempt to enforce unnatural laws—for when it is very hot, just as wild animals will go to a watering hole to cool off, regardless of how dangerous it might be, so too human beings will congregate at beaches, almost regardless of drowning statistics.

What is the answer then? It would seem that there is only one solution possible. During the late spring, over the weekends when a large number of the townspeople will want to and will go swimming, the town should provide the means whereby its citizens can go to Wedge (and Leonard Pool, too) in safety and be protected.

This solution would close the beaches during the week when the children are in school and adults are working, backed up by Park and Police Department enforcement; but would open them over the weekends when they will be used by large numbers of people. This would mean roping off the safe swimming areas, putting up the rafts, and providing a few lifeguards for the weekends.

The proposed solution would not be very expensive, it would satisfy the very evident needs, and, most important, it would protect the townspeople.

Memorial Day: A Remembrance And A Rededication

Break out the banner, for Saturday is Memorial Day, and you will want your standard to be clean, fresh, brilliant, and furling as freely as we as a nation are free.

Every house, every business, every public building in this town should prominently display the American Flag on Memorial Day. Memorial Day . . . when we honor all the men who sacrificed their time, effort, "blood, sweat and tears," and lives; that our nation should not be trod upon by other nations, and that our people should not be subjected under others, but should remain free in every way to discover destiny.

Memorial Day has undergone somewhat of an evolution since its inception in 1869. In that year, General Joan A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, designated May 30th as a day on which the graves of Union soldiers were to be decorated. Over the years the honor was extended first to include the graves of Confederate soldiers, and finally the graves of American soldiers of all wars. In recent years, Congress has enlarged the scope of Memorial Day by proclaiming it as a day when the nation shall pray for peace.

Memorial Day is simply a public acknowledgment of a great debt of gratitude we living Americans feel in our hearts for what those we honor did for us, for this nation, and for liberty and freedom everywhere. This is a day for renewed dedication to the principles for which they gave their last full measure of devotion.

When you see the Flag pass in review in Memorial Day parades, cheer for the sailors that fought on the waves for it, cheer for the airmen that flew dangerous skies for it, cheer for the soldiers that always were brave for it, and, there will be tears for the men that went down to the grave for it.

With all the many kinds of challenges, dangers, and problems that we as a free people face in the current Cold War era—a different kind of war that we are in fact actually engaged in—it is even more necessary that we rededicate ourselves, on this Memorial Day, to the cause of human freedom, and to the cause for which our fighting veterans died.

So when you fly the United States Flag on Memorial Day, fly it in remembrance, in rededication, in pride! Fly the Flag with the determination that the supreme sacrifices that have gone into the building and preservation of our free country shall never have been made in vain.

Prime Minister Nehru Of India A Great Statesman Of The World

It has been said that there is a world of difference between a politician and a statesman and the difference is a world point of view. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, a statesman of the world with a worldly philosophy based on an almost ethereal goal of peace in the midst of Cold War power struggle conflicts, died at the age of 74 yesterday.

The head of the world's second most populous nation, Prime Minister Nehru, the guiding light of India since its independence in 1947, will also be missed and mourned by the rest of the world—for which he was the brightest light of hope for peace and the most religiously sincere spokesman for peace in our time.

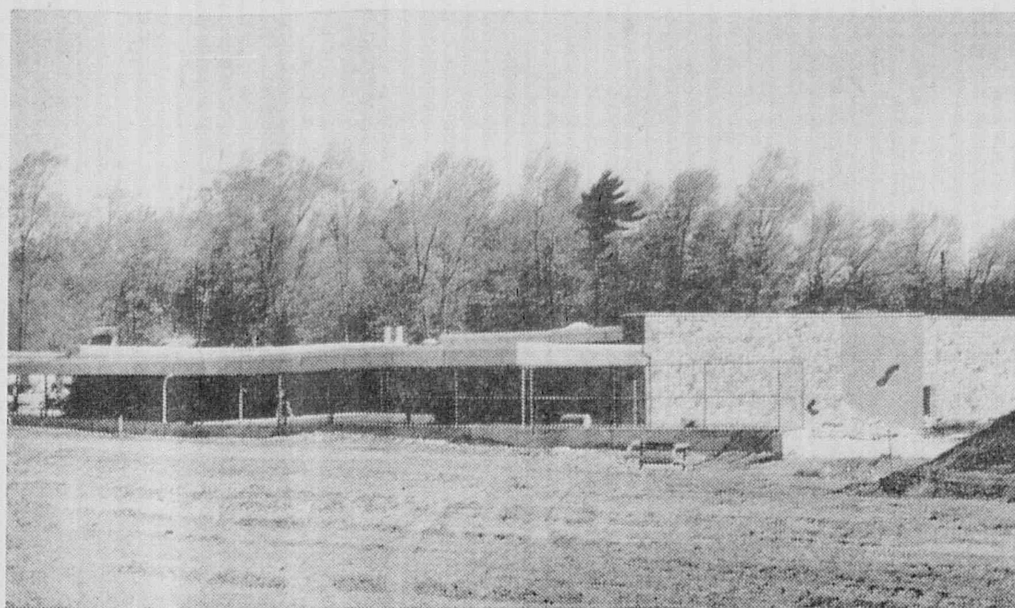

Although he sought a neutral role amid Cold War struggles, pressures from both the Communists and the West finally formed him to face the sad political realities of the modern conflicts in the world.

A great believer in the United Nations and everything it stood for, Prime Minister Nehru was one of its principal and staunchest supporters. For him, the United Nations was the vehicle through which world peace could be achieved, and he devoted much effort toward that achievement. And even while the UN was becoming split along Cold War blocs and various nationalistic factions, he spoke for unity of nations, through neutralism statesmanship, in order that that congress of nations could work together for peace.

A great leader for hope among men is gone, now. Only the light of his principles remain for man to do with what he will.

Zoological Slum Is Wiped Out: M. D. C. Rebuilds, Modernizes, And Enlarges The Stoneham Zoo

NEW . . . $425,000 . . . MAMMAL HOUSE at M.D.C.'s Middlesex Fells Zoo in Stoneham being opened weekends starting June 6.

From a tiny office that was once a potting shed two men gazed possibly for the last time this week at a century-old converted chicken-coop called home by a small pack of jungle animals at Middlesex Fells Zoo in Stoneham.

They chatted happily about final details of plans for wiping out a zoological slum and opening the first stage of a sparkling new zoo with a bag of tricks for displaying animals and birds that can hardly be matched anywhere in the world.

It was a proud day for Metropolitan District Commissioner Robert F. Murphy and Walter D. Stone, M. D. C. director of zoological gardens, as they arranged moving-day strategy for the animals that can barely wait to show off in their new setting.

For next week the inhabitants of a shabby, cramped, one-time chicken-coop will hit the trail to their handsome, air-conditioned home 100 yards away.

A few days later, on the weekend of June 6-7, Commissioner Murphy promised the gates will be opened to the public for a look at the first phase of a $1,740,000 dream restoration of the ancient Stoneham zoo nesting on the shore of lovely Spot Pond.

They will see only a hint of things to come later, a $425,000 mammal house, glittering in its cut granite stone, yellow brick, aluminum and massive picture-window cage-fronts. This is the centerpiece for a whole cluster of planned smaller buildings and outdoor show-places.

There is also a new entrance building with toilet facilities and a parking area for 200 cars, later to be expanded to 500. Much of the $624,000 first phase is underground in the form of utilities for the entire project, along with a big heating system, landscaping and razing of 40 old structures.

But this is only a small piece of an eye-opening sequence of attractions coming in the second and third building phase, requiring more than another year's work. Unique features will include:

— A moving walk-away carrying spectators 30 feet into the air at a $235,000 aviary, high among colorful birds winging their way freely in the midst of tall, exotic plants.

— A close view of free-running African animals living in a veldt-like habitat, separated from viewers only by a moat.

— New England's first penguin house.

— A display of seals, otters, other water mammals and water fowl in outside pools.

For this season, Commissioner Murphy said, the completed section of the zoo can remain open only on week-ends, for heavy equipment and trucks will be at work week-days on other parts of the project. Visitors will be guided past construction and demolition areas by parallel snow-fence walkways.

A few steps from the parking area and entrance building visitors will find the newly-completed mammal house, a 180-foot by 90-foot exhibit area. The U-shaped with an overhang to protect spectators in stormy weather, contains nine exhibits.

From their gloomy, compact cages of less than 60 square feet in the erstwhile henhouse a Bengal tiger and pairs of spotted leopards, lions and the rare African Caracal cats will be transported to spacious enclosures three times the size of their old quarters.

In a cavalcade over city streets and M. D. C. parkways will travel a chattering simian delegation from Franklin Park Zoo, a Mandrill baboon and pairs of chimpanzees, orange-ufan apes, Gelada baboons and Hamadryas baboons.

The new inhabitants will reside in the comfort of air-conditioning, radiant-heated floors and fresh air ventilators. Huge picture windows will afford a clear view of human beings and vice-versa.

Just around the corner Babe, the frisky elephant, will continue to reign in her 10-year-old home, soon to be converted into a penguin house when new and larger elephant quarters are finished.

As the J. M. Construction Company puts on the finishing touches to the first phase, Commissioner Murphy and Zoo Director Stone are wrapping up final details for the rest of the project with McFadden, Everly and Associates of Chicago, specialists in zoological architecture and design.

They're aiming, particularly, at bringing animal life and visitors closer together. And the plan does just that!

Opposite the mammal building will be spread out a thrilling scene from the African plains, kudu and impala antelopes, zebras and ostriches ranging the veldt together, separated from the public only by a wide moat.

Lions and tigers, in separate areas, will rove through similar surroundings.

In the huge, glassed greenhouse-like aviary, rising 70 feet along a hillside, gaily-plumed tropical birds will fly at will through homogeneous plantings. Nothing will separate them from visitors who view them from ground level and then ascend the moving walk nearly to the top to see winged creatures from other vantages.

"They can fly among the spectators, but they will probably prefer the tropical plantings and trees," commented Stone.

For a youthful 39-year-old career zoologist the challenge of shaping new concepts in exhibiting and caring for wild animals is exciting for Stone who was lured here from Detroit Zoological Park in 1959.

"The finest small zoo in the country, with more unique features than you would find in the large zoos anywhere in the world," proudly proclaims Stone.

A Holy Cross graduate, Stone studied zoology at Tulane University. Other than his duties at Franklin Park Zoo he is rarely far from the Stoneham showplace, for he lives on the grounds with his wife, five sons and four daughters. Helping him run things is Gustin Lafayette de Woburn who has been around Middlesex Fells for 16 years.

His boss, Commissioner Murphy, shares Stone's enthusiasm for animals. Most any week-end the Commissioner can be found at Stoneham or Franklin Park Zoo among the throngs of patrons, laughing at the antics of the monkeys or admiring the colorful plumage of the feathered inhabitants.

Now that the Middlesex Fells Zoo is shaping up happily, Murphy and Stone are eyeing the prospect of a major restoration at Franklin Park Zoo, which the M. D. C. took over from the City of Boston.

Nearly a million dollars has been invested there by the M. D. C., highlighted by the popular $235,000 animal nursery or Children's Zoo, several new structures and a major refurbishing of existing buildings.

When he makes his appeal to the Legislature to authorize funds for wholesale rebuilding at Franklin Park, Murphy will have plenty of ammunition. A look at Stoneham's transformation may be enough.

ROBERT FROST IN RUSSIA

by F. D. Reeve

Professor Reeve has written a terse, dramatic, and most intimate day-by-day account of Robert Frost's cultural exchange visit to Russia in August of 1962, a sojourn of some ten days. As Frost's interpreter and constant companion, he is able to give the reader a personal record of Frost's reactions to the Russian people as well as their reactions to Frost.

Frost felt that he had "something to say" to the Russian people; particularly he yearned to meet Premier Khrushchev, and truly hoped to convey ideas which might be influential in East-West relations. He was imbued with the feeling that politics and poetry are inseparable. However, as Professor Reeve states, "Frost's most important accomplishment in Russia was not the political embassy he aspired to but the enactment of free-wheeling literary activity, which he, by his poetry readings and by his talk, encouraged among the Russians. Won by the Russians away from some of his preconceptions about them, Frost was an example and a reminder to them not of the politics of literature but of vitality of the literary tradition."

All was not smooth sailing during Frost's trip. After a few of his poetry readings, the Russian press insisted upon extracting political meanings. "Mending Wall" became a commentary upon Berlin. The literary periodicals played up his many references to "work" and "labor" in his poems. However, Frost's humanity and wit came through without misinterpretation.

The most enjoyable meetings for Frost were the numerous private, informal parties given in his honor. The poet Evtushenko and other Russian intellectuals could not do enough to show their respect for Frost, and Frost, in turn was tremendously impressed by their cordiality and hospitality.

As the days passed, a meeting with Khrushchev did not seem to be forthcoming. When Frost was becoming very discouraged and completely obsessed with the idea that his trip would be negligible unless he had an audience with the Premier, the invitation did come. At this point, as Professor Reeve describes it, a "fit of nervousness" attacked Frost which resulted in Khrushchev's waving protocol and visiting him in the Guest House of the Georgian SSR Ministry of Health. Though their conversation was certainly not earthshaking, it must have been most interesting to see them verbally tangle with each other through their respective interpreters. Professor Reeve sums it up by saying "What remains of this meeting, as of Frost's whole trip to Russia, is the dramatic confrontation of two irreverent and much-honored men, each of whom was more affected by the other than most people suspect. The power of skill is that it commands respect."

Frost had been much troubled by his blunders during former President Kennedy's Inaugural reading and seemed determined to make something of this trip as a representative of the United States—at the age of eighty-eight. One can't say that he didn't triumph with his high-mindedness and integrity. The journey took its toll on his health but it was a poignant ending.

Letters to the editor

Wedge Drowning Spurs Discussion Of Safe Swimming

Editor of the Star:

This letter is a protest to the town of Winchester, it is shocking to think that our community, which prides itself upon its fine schools and community projects, should allow an unprotected death-hole to exist at the Wedge Pond Beach.

On Sunday an innocent 6-year-old child who was used to paddling not over her waist stepped into one of the terrible drop-offs adjacent to the beach area and drowned. Her younger brother was miraculously saved.

This mirey area was absolutely unmarked, no fence to guard little ones (who were still playing near there an hour after this tragic occurrence) or danger sign saying to keep away.

And this happened to a new family to Winchester. They did not know about a formal opening of the beach. There is no barricade or big sign saying keep out until beach is open! It was the hottest day of the spring—hundreds of families were at the beach. If the beach is not open why were they allowed to be there? And why weren't protective barriers erected early in the spring and left there?

Great negligence is evidenced, and a child's loss of life is the result. Bulldozers should fill in the treacherous spots all along the beach area and make the beach a safe recreational spot. Fresh clean sand should be spread so that the beach would be an attraction instead of an eyesore and death trap. The families of Winchester have the right to demand that a beach under the town's jurisdiction does not have unprotected drop-offs a few feet from sand dunes.

Action must be taken. Our children are our most priceless possessions.

If people are allowed on the beach before it is "formally opened" the town should provide emergency weekend life-guards when hot early spring weather comes.

Please call your town meeting member, the selectmen, and write the Winchester Park Department and urge immediate action. One family has already been the tragic victim of this negligence.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Robert White

Little Leaguers' Critic Assailed; Players Defended

Editor of the Star:

It has been brought to my attention that an article entitled "Little League Baseball Ain't Enough," was published in last week's paper. The type used in setting up the caption was big enough for a front page announcement of World War III. It's a sad state of affairs when an article printed in a previous week's Star, knocking the youth of our town for not being "winners" (evidently it went unnoticed), has to be followed up by quotes under the Little League caption to draw attention to phrases such as "belly, slobbered, drank hard," etc. In Little League, a manager or coach using this language would really be taken to task if heard by the writer, but, for nine and twelve year olds to read it in the Star is, evidently, all right!

Because "400 or so boys (as the writer puts it) ain't gonna make it a life's career," seems to bother only one person, the writer. The "After Supper Nursery" operates from approximately May 1 to June 30, and we prefer to call it "Winchester Little League." It's another phase in life, just like our sand-lot days, except, today's youth has the equipment to work with and a few men who care enough to act as umpires, managers and coaches. Most of these boys, and I mean most, are also Boy Scouts, hockey players, football players, basketball players, swimmers, hunters, runners and musicians. This is not on a professional level, I agree, but between the ages of 9 and 12, what can you expect? (I couldn't find any archers.) There aren't many boys, who, in their lifetime haven't played baseball at some given time, many with the desire to become major leaguers. Some who worked hard at it made the major leagues. Others, with the same ideas, worked just as hard and didn't make it. Thank the Good Lord for this, because doctors, lawyers, dentists, writers and many other wonderful occupations would be dreadfully lacking in manpower.

Little League in Winchester doesn't stress "drive, win or else, it's my whole life, practice till you drop," or anything else detrimental to our town's youth. It does stress "clean living, honesty, pride, and above all, have fun." (Anyone can check with Police Chief Derro as to the good Little League does).

I think the youth of Winchester, win, lose, or draw, are terrific, and I stand behind them 100 per cent in any worthwhile endeavor and in the career of their choosing (even archery).

Sincerely,
Edmund A. Williams, president

Local Red Cross Appreciative Of Merchant Support

Editor of the Star:

The Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to thank the merchants of Winchester who so generously supported, and paid for, the full page ad in this week's Star. The bloodmobile visits to Winchester need support of this type, and we urge the citizens of Winchester to show their support of the program and the merchants, by giving a pint of blood on Thursday, June 4, at St. Mary's Hall.

En Ka Chairman Expresses Thanks To Fair Helpers

Editor of the Star:

May I take this opportunity, as chairman of the 1964 En Ka Old Fashioned Country Fair, to express our appreciation to all those persons who contributed their time in manning the many different jobs... and also those that supported the Fair with their attendance and participation... regardless of the 90 degree heat.

Without this loyalty and support En Ka would have been unable to carry on this tremendous project. We are deeply grateful and would like to say "Thank You" to Everyone.

Gratefully,
Bernice A. Kimball
8 Ginn Road

En Ka

There were no accidents or injuries reported at the Fair over the weekend. Mrs. William Kimball, chairman of the Fair, attributed the excellent safety record to the good equipment and personnel of Lawrence Carr of Wilmington, who supplied the midway rides and games, and to the Fair's many conscientious and devoted volunteers who spent so much time making sure that every aspect of their part of the Fair was organized and well run.

Mrs. Kimball said the Penny Sale was especially successful this year due to the terrific contributions of merchants.

She added that the fun at the Fair was not confined to youngsters and teenagers alone, however. The winner of the all expense paid trip to Nassau was Mrs. Beatrice Thomas of 45 Russell Road, who was thrilled at winning the prize.

Mrs. Kimball also has a "prize" to remember the Fair by... someone took a picture of her husband, Selectman William Kimball, as he was feeding one of the cows in the animal pen!

Marycliff Honors Many Students At 1964 Class Day

The entire student body of Marycliff Academy took part in the activities of Class Day on Friday, May 22. Class Day was marked by the reading of the Senior Class will and prophecy and in addition students received awards for sports, Latin, Mission Club participation and journalism.

The school and college figure skating committee awarded an honor to Tina Noyes for her participation in the National Figure Skating Championships sponsored by the United States Figure Skating Association. Letters were awarded at the same time for outstanding participation in extra-curricular sports.

On Class Day, the seniors officially presented their class gift, a set of stage light dimmers, already installed, to the school.

Membership in "Quill and Scroll," an international honorary society for high school journalists was awarded to Susan Luick and Margaret Toomey. This honor is given to juniors or seniors who are in the upper third of their class and who have done superior work in some phase of journalism.

The Catholic School Press Association granted to Dianne Bouley the Apostle of the Word Award. Students who have done outstanding work on publications while maintaining a high scholastic average merit this award.

The National Scholastic Press Association granted the Star Award to Marlene Belviso, Louise Hurley, Mary Lou Albaine, Diane Rooney and Paula Goldberg. The Star is "one who shines prominently in a calling or profession." It is awarded for exceptionally meritorious service over a long period.

To Edwina Macchia and Judy March, the Quill and Scroll Society granted special awards for their business activities. Judy Maselli, as faithful circulation manager also merits an award from the Quill and Scroll Society. Elaine Romano, who has typed for the "Clarion" for three years, merited a journeyman pin from the National Scholastic Press Association.

In the 1964 nationwide examination sponsored by Auxilium Latinum eight girls earned certificates of merit, already announced. For accomplishing outstanding work in the Massachusetts State Science Fair sponsored by the Boston Globe, Patricia Nilo earned a certificate and 18 more (also previously announced) received art fair awards.

Susan Gallagher and Christine McBain have received their entire 12 year education at Marycliff. The faculty presented them with a special award in honor of this.

It is the practice of the church to confer honors upon those who have been outstanding in the work of the apostolate. So it is in keeping with the best tradition for the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade to honor its leaders and outstanding workers with special awards.

The degree of Paladin Leader with silver ribbon in recognition of special achievement in accordance with the program of apostolic study and action of the CSMC was awarded to: Judith March and the degree of Paladin Companion with merit in recognition of special contribution to the work of the CSMC was awarded to: Kathryn Bubser and Diane Ricci.

Officers Robert Baird and Henry Cogan responded to a call from Officer Coran for assistance in searching for the suspect. They found him walking along Winchester Drive in Arlington. When confronted with the break, the suspect denied any complicity, saying he was merely looking for a caddy job at the Country Club U. S. golf open, but Officer Cogan arrested him on suspicion of breaking and entering in the daytime to commit a felony, and he was booked at the Station at 11:55 a.m.

Officer Cogan interrogated the alleged suspect for a few hours. Policemen from eight neighboring communities also questioned the arrested man to see if the alleged housebreaker was involved in any breaks in their towns.

Polidoro appeared in Woburn District Court before Judge Alfred Sartorelli at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, May 26, and released on $1,000 bail pending a continuation of the case on Wednesday, June 3.

Tragedy

Meanwhile, Officer Donald E. Pigott in Patrol 51 cruising the Palmer Street area was stopped by a woman saying a man had pulled away from the water and a little girl was still missing. Seconds later another woman said her little girl had been missing for about five to ten minutes. Officer Pigott radioed the Police and Fire Department headquarters for more men and rescue equipment.

Officer Robert G. Baird in Patrol 52 immediately responded. He arrived just as R. Fryatt of 32 Widge Road in West Medford, who was among the men diving for the girl, shouted "I have her."

As Mr. Fryatt brought the child into shore, Officer Baird grabbed the child's body, shook it in an attempt to get some of the water out, and immediately placed the little blonde girl on her back on the beach and started to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

At this time firefighters arrived in the Rescue Truck and were coming across the beach with a boat. Officer Pigott told them they had retrieved the two youths but needed the mechanical resuscitator, which they got. Lieutenant Henry O'Melia and firefighters Vincent Benincasa, Thomas Robert, Robert Walsh, Charles McNutt and John Nash set up the respirator and relieved Officer Baird.

While Officer Pigott was keeping the crowd of spectators back, Officer Baird and Dr. John D. Stokle of 14 Fenwick Road, who had responded to a police call for a physician, whisked young James to the Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Donald Annino and admitted to the Hospital for possible pneumonia caused by the amount of water swallowed. He was reported in "good" condition recovering at the Hospital yesterday.

Sergeant Andrew Crawford meanwhile had contacted Dr. Richard Stiles, who responded to the scene, examined the girl that was being worked on in a frantic effort by firefighters to save her life, and ordered her taken to the Hospital in the Police ambulance. Drs. Annino and Stiles attempted further medical efforts to revive the six-year-old girl, but to no avail, and she was pronounced dead.

Funeral services for Elizabeth E. Carter, 6, a pupil at Lincoln School, were held at 4 o'clock at Ripley Chapel in the First Congregational Church on Wednesday. Burial was in New Jersey.

In other drowning deaths at Wedge Pond in the last month: Antonio Subrizio, 78, of 5 Quigley Court, drowned on Saturday, May 9, and Norman S. Brazel, 40, of 34 Spruce Street, drowned while suffering a stroke while fishing on April 28.

Aid

(What was burning was gone, he said, and the only thing left to do was to try and contain it—"it was like a mad demon streaming all over the area.")

It was heart-rending the Chief said. "One man had to be restrained by about ten firemen for going inside a completely flame engulfed building to see if his family were there where he had left them."

"Another time," the Chief recalled, "a man asked whether his mother on the third floor of a razed building had gotten out; and it was only after much concerned discussion and pacification did the man finally retire from the firefighting scene to search out his relatives from among the refugees."

Fighting a fire in a burning building that is vacant is one thing, the Chief noted, "but here there were many lives and a lot of personal property involved—and the human element in the tragedy saddened everyone."

"It was a fantastic fire," the Chief Annino stated, "and to think of what could have happened—the Boston Fire Department did a tremendous job in holding down the fire damage."

The Winchester firefighters left the scene when the fire was termed "under control," and were back in Winchester at 5:45 p.m.

CALL YOUR RED CROSS

Secretary Of The Month

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN with WBZ's Carl deSuzo, left, was awarded to Marilyn Goldthwait of 71 Swan Road, whose boss wrote a prize-winning letter in the WBZ "Secretary Sweepstakes Contest." Marilyn met Gordon MacRae, right, star of Caesar's Monticello in Framingham, before the show and dinner held in her honor. The "boss" who wrote about his invaluable secretary was John F. McKenzie, president, Massachusetts Bay Community College.

Democratic Town Committee

As last week's Star announced in its news columns, the local committee elected its delegates to the Springfield convention on Tuesday, May 19. There are: Chairman Elizabeth McDonald, chosen by acclamation, Mary Sericka, and Treasurer William Dailey. These delegates were instructed to support our Governor, Endicott Peabody, all the way for re-nomination. Governor Peabody has been so notified.

The telephone whist and bridge parties conducted on Wednesday evening were a fantastic success. The proceeds from the parties, increased by several sizeable donations from members who didn't conduct parties, added up to a sum that has put the treasury in great shape for the coming campaign, as well as setting up an adequate amount to take care of the cook-out expenses.

The members who were hostesses for the successful house parties were Mrs. Helen Nadeau, Mrs. Anna McLean, and Mrs. Kay O'Brien. Each of these hostesses had fine assistance from several other members, and there were valuable prizes and delicious refreshments. These reports delighted our social chairman, Bee Wilson, and her assistant chairman, Helen Nadeau.

The newly elected officers of the town committee, Chairman Elizabeth McDonald, Vice Chairman Jack Hogan, Treasurer Bill Dailey, Secretary Peggy Harsch, and Assistant Secretary Mary Doherty will constitute a strategy committee to act on emergency matters which will come up between meetings during this busy campaign year, such action subject to the approval of the entire committee at a later meeting.

The cookout at the Serika home on Middlesex Street will take place in July, as it did in 1962, and all signs point to another grand success, socially and financially, with the complete slate of candidates, headed by Senator Ted Kennedy, as special guests. Democratic leaders from several of the surrounding towns will also be invited guests.

Two of our members, John and Mary Murphy of Richardson Street, have donated a beautiful silver steak platter, to be awarded on chances sold before and during the cookout, the proceeds to be added to the amount raised at that party. Our thanks to John and Mary Murphy for this lovely gift.

women. It is a member organization of the National Federation of Republican Women.

The move left the post of first vice president open for an election at a later meeting, but named Representative Mary Newman of Cambridge, second vice president.

Mrs. Blackham is a past president of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester, former vice chairman of the Republican Town Committee, former Republican Finance Committee chairman for Winchester, and a member and past officer of many civic groups.

With her new duties she has been voted membership on the Republican State Committee as well as membership on its Executive Committee.

Convention. Being elected a delegate on April 28 to the National Convention, Mr. Chadwick told the Star this week that he preferred having another responsible Republican assume the duties and have the honor of being a delegate to the State Convention; and so he did not become a candidate for State delegate, a post which he almost certainly would have been elected to.

The delegates were pledged to vote for former Governor John A. Volpe of Everett Avenue as the Town Committee's gubernatorial choice on the first ballot for Governor. This followed an instruction by the committee, and was so agreed to by the delegates, and they were committed to pledged support of Mr. Volpe on the first ballot—after which the delegates are free to decide their votes if they so wish.

In the election for officers of the Republican Town Committee, Rep. Harrison Chadwick was re-elected chairman for the ensuing four years, and Cynthia Barone was elected vice chairman, Marcia Saltmarsh, secretary, and William William Wilde, Jr., treasurer.

Those elected to the nominating committee included Messrs. Harwood, Lyman, Smith, and Christina Thompson and Barbara W. Lamarche. This committee nominates persons to fill any vacancies in either the committee's membership or officerships, and in 1968 will be responsible for nominating a slate of 35 members for the Town Committee.

Could you volunteer a little of your time to assist your local Red Cross Motor Service?

The Winchester Red Cross is in need of capable drivers to volunteer their services for the coming summer months. You would be on call to pick up and deliver patients, blood, etc., and many of these trips would be of very short duration. A car is not necessary, we just need a little of your time.

If you can assist in any way, please call Mrs. Robert K. Sullivan at PA 9-1221 or your local Red Cross at PA 9-2300.

There will be a meeting at the Red Cross Chapter at 84 Washington Street (next to the library) on June 2, 10 a.m. All are invited to attend—both men and women. Coffee will be served—come and meet your neighbors.

Handicraft At Sidewalk Show In Many Media

The Arts and Crafts Sidewalk Show, to be held at Manchester Field, is less than two weeks away. The date set is Saturday, June 6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year's show is already drawing more attention than previous years since the committee planning this year's program announced the inclusion of a children's art section, and the expansion of the arts and crafts exhibit. Indications show that public interest is high and a new record of attendance and exhibits will be set. The Winchester Art Association is basing its optimism on the fact that many inquiries have already been made by artists eager to display their works; also a number of art teachers and parents have expressed interest in the children's section.

Along with this year's display of colorful paintings, there will be a variety of beautiful and interesting handicraft work to be shown on tables, set up on the Unitarian lawn, adjacent to Manchester Athletic Field. Heading up the crafts division are Mrs. George E. Connor and Mrs. Adin B. Bailey. Most of the craft work will be for sale. Items will include leather work; enameled; silver and cathedral glass jewelry; pottery of many types; clays and glazes, all handicraft work; hand designed eagles; several varieties of lovely weavings; block printing items; early American table ware, decorated and restored; a type of decoupage; stained glass. Hostesses will be present all day to discuss the crafts with visitors.

As a reminder, any one interested in exhibiting arts or crafts will be able to register the morning of the Sidewalk Show. For further information, please call PA9-6255 or PA9-1431. Children's section, PA9-3966. Crafts, PA9-3607.

May Musicale Sings Its Way Around World

It was lovely!

The stars shone both inside and out on the evening of May 20th. Wonderful music and a hall packed with people in a gay mood, made the seventeenth May Musicale one of the best yet. The Unitarian Choir, its ranks swelled with many friends for this occasion, took off from San Francisco on a melodic tour of the world, unerringly guided by Mary Ranton Witham.

Colored slides projected on the stage behind the choir, hanging baskets of geraniums and enormous scenic scrolls hung down one side of the hall handsomely complemented the program as it skipped from country to country.

After the concert, Dr. and Mrs. Robert D. Eddy entertained the choir at their home.

Members of the Winchester Unitarian Choir singing in the May Musicale were: Monty Aiken, Ruth Anderson, Tom Baird, John Baldwin, Herb Bixler, Sid Blanchard, Janet Burbank, Leonard Chandler, Willard Chandler, Bob Eddy, Betsey Ewing, Peter Fontneau, Olive Hill, Bob Horne, Bill Jeffery, Martha Kimball, Justine King, Dick Lawrence, Carleton Maley, Estelle McNeely, Linda Nichols, Elsa Osgood, Steve Parkhurst, Nancy Robinson, Maggi Singleton, Karen Trump, Betty Van Slyke, Roxanne West, Carol Witham.

Also singing with them were: Tommy Blake, Widge Blake, Susan Breckenridge, Judy Carroll, Eileen Gill, Kathleen Gill, Maureen Gill, Scott Jeffery, Fran Lawrence, Jim McNeely, Betty Minot, John Morabito, Mary Mouradian, Bob Nichols, Steve Preston, Carol Robinson, Gail Snelling, Barbara Wood, Sally Worthen.

Much Ado About Those Who Didn't

from Shel

I guess most of us are now convinced that the hot weather is really here. To those of you who took advantage of our information on "Lighter things to wear," we doff our straws. Oh, how wonderful it must have been during this past hot weekend to lounge about in those new Bermuda shorts and that short-sleeved knit shirt. And what about you fellows who didn't have the Bermudas, but still felt so comfortable in your crisp-looking tropical slacks and colorful short-sleeved sport shirts, great, wasn't it? If you were like me and had to take your wives out to a special occasion Saturday night, we felt and looked our best because we had on one of the new lightweight tropical suits I've been raving about. The half-sleeve batiste oxford shirt added extra coolness even though we had to wear a tie. Yes, for those of us who took heed, we overcame the heat. Now, what about you fellows who waited a bit too long? Cheer up, for all is not lost. You too can still enjoy the long summer ahead with lots of fashionable comfort. Whether it's a lightweight suit or a sport coat and slacks, or be it short-sleeved sport or dress shirts, come in and make your selections now. You will get the same courteous attention and we promise not to mention one word about you waiting so long.

Major Roberto Leaves B. U. Air Science Teaching

Major Samuel N. Roberto of 32 Ginn Road is leaving as assistant professor of Air Science at Boston University in August.

Major Roberto joined the Boston University unit in the fall semester of 1959, coming from the Strategic Air Command as chief of training in the office of the Eighth Air Force Director of Personnel at Westover Air Force Base, Chicopee.

A veteran of service in the U. S. Army and U. S. Marine Corps, as well as Air Force, he served in the Pacific Theater during World War II, attached to the First Marine Division assault team.

In Disguise

It may be that in no other place in the world, where elegant expensive things are purchased, can the gift wrapped box be carried away in a sandwich bag.

Macefield Jewellers of 10 Winchester Place started this in the early years as an economy but it became obvious that the lack of attention to such a sack was good for smuggling fine surprises. Also it may be pointed out that it is still an economy. Macefield directs as much value into each item as possible in design, in materials, and in workmanship. There are gift boxes suitable for each sale, some are costly but kept within reason. So often inexpensive commercial jewelry is sold in fancy cases costing more than the contents. A good value in a proper box in a lunch bag is more sensible.

Final Meeting Of St. Mary's Mr. & Mrs. Club

On Saturday evening, June 6, the final meeting of the year of the St. Mary's Mr. & Mrs. Club will be held at the church hall.

Joe and Rita Collins are the ticket chairmen for this annual event and will be assisted in contacting club members by Richard and Ruth Coakley, James and Mary Henry, Jim and Claire Mountain, Bob and Lillian Costello, Kate and Dick Hines, Francis and Alice Yanulis, Albert and Celia Gravelle, Arthur and Helen Mallon, Joseph and Ellen DeNatale, Jim and Margaret Hoelscher, Jim and Jean O'Neill, George and Betty Saulnier, Jim and Noreen Connell, Jim and Wiffie Grozier, Charles and Joan Mahoney, and Charles and Nancy Polcar. Reservations for the buffet must be made by June 1, and it is suggested that anyone not contacted for tickets get in touch with one of the members of the ticket committee.

Make your reservations now and do plan to join us.

REESE JAMES, ADMINISTRATOR OF THE WINCHESTER HOSPITAL, accepting a check for $2500 from Mrs. Roger C. Crandlemire, outgoing president of The Friends of the Winchester Hospital, and Mrs. James Hollinshead, new president of the Friends. This check is a first payment toward an automatic X-ray processing machine.

Friends Present $2,500 Gift To Hospital Here

The 14th annual meeting of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital was held Thursday afternoon, May 21, at the home of Mrs. Gustav Kaufmann, 8 Wedgemere Avenue.

Mrs. Roger C. Crandlemire, presiding over the business meeting, announced that the total number of volunteer hours for the year was in excess of 17,000 and that the membership has increased to 700, about 65% of whom are active workers. Mrs. Samuel Perkins is to be chairman of Waltz Evening, the Vienne nese Fantasy, to be held at the Town Hall on October 16 and 17. The organization of the Candy Strippers into these Junior Friends of the Winchester Hospital and their invaluable help in the hospital was reported. Mrs. Persis Gow, chairman of volunteer services, spoke of the need for summer volunteers. She also asked for vases, any size, for patients' flowers, and aluminum pie plates to put under plants.

Tribute was paid to two members of the Friends who have died this past year, Mrs. Charles Lovejoy and Mrs. Milton Viall.

Mrs. Crandlemire then presented a check for $2500 to Reese James, administrator of the Winchester Hospital, as the first payment toward an automatic X-ray processing machine. Mr. James told the group that this machine would produce a dry plate in about 10 minutes, thus saving much time for the patient, doctor and hospital. Mr. James spoke of the valuable contribution both in time and money made by the Friends in a year.

Mrs. Robert Sulis, chairman, presented the report of the nominating committee and the following were elected to be the new officers:

President—Mrs. James Hollinshead
Vice-President—Mrs. Paul Levette
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Harry Benson

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Philip Cade

Treasurer—Mrs. John McDonald
Asst. Treasurer—Mrs. Samuel Miller

Director for two years—Mrs. H. Rushton Harwood Director for three years—Mrs. Ernest Nigro

Mrs. Hollinshead was introduced and spoke with enthusiasm about the coming year.

The speaker for the afternoon was Alfred J. Murphy, senior inspector of the Drug Control Section, State Department of Public Health. He is one of three men on the drug force who follow up on information on illicit drug traffic as well as check the manufacture of drugs and see them through to their consumption. His source of information is mainly from the public, and he stressed the importance of citizen complaints on anything that might be relative to illicit use of drugs.

Mr. Murphy gave some good advice to the Friends. He also warned of a large number of thefts of doctors' bags when left in cars, especially in hospital parking lots. This is apparently a favorite maneuver for addicts to obtain drugs and prescription blanks; but the doctor also loses his bag and expensive equipment. Mr. Murphy answered a number of questions. He was a most informative as well as entertaining speaker.

A pleasant coffee hour preceded the meeting, with Mrs. James Hollinshead and Mrs. Thomas Purdie pouring. Mrs. Thomas B. Dowd, chairman of hospitality, was assisted by Mrs. John F. Elliott, Mrs. Lawrence W. Lougee, Mrs. Francis A. McClellan, Mrs. Norman F. Pheeney, Mrs. Richard L. Spellman, Mrs. John C. Walsh, Mrs. John A. Wilson and Mrs. Fred C. Kenney, Jr., of Reading.

En Ka's "Country Fair" Success Is Attributed To Donations, Time & Effort Of Interested Citizens — And Very Sunny Weather

En Ka Thanks Workers, Patrons For Success of Fair

Once again it's time for the En Ka Society to thank the many loyal workers for the Street Fair, without them, one and all, the 1964 Old Fashioned Country Fair would not have been able to become history.

The day was a success, no doubt, due to a certain reaction. A fabulous chairman, Bernice Kimball, and co-chairman, Kay Longworth, who surrounded themselves with able directors and managers who in turn arranged for loyal, enthusiastic workers for every nook.

The parade this year was better than ever and a tough job it was for the judges, John Lyman, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Leo Boodakian, president of the Winchester Merchants' Association, and Mrs. Hatchell, art superintendent of Lynch Junior High School, to select the two winners. The $25 prize to the float most in keeping with the fair theme was won by the Winchester Recreation Committee and the $25 prize for the float most appropriate to its own organization by the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association.

Our hearty thanks to all the parade participants and most especially to Bentley College and its president, Thomas Morison, for making it possible to have the parade in the parade and on the fair grounds. To H. Miller Nichols of Belmont for the use of his 1931 Packard, to William Gile of Wakefield for the use of his 1928 Lincoln, to Robert Doty of Winchester for lending his 1929 Ford and to Robert Raymond of Winchester for lending his old fire engine.

Our profits would have had to be lessened considerably without Christine McDonald's donation of bakery boxes and string, Winchester Carton's donation of the two winners, Mrs. Thomas, and the En Ka, are indebted to Leo Boodakian for pulling the lucky ticket from the barrel.

The winning ticket for the five day, four night, all expense paid trip to Nassau was held by Beatrice Thomas of 45 Russell Road, Mrs. Thomas, and the En Ka, are indebted to Leo Boodakian for pulling the lucky ticket from the barrel.

A loud, resounding applause to Winchester's own, Winchester Star. Their help and interest has been most important in letting the people of Winchester know when and where what was happening. And also to Charlie Riley of the Vohum Daily Times for his helpful interest, too.

And now old-fashioned country fairs can once again be read about only in books. It's been a lot of work, a lot of fun, and below are a lot of workers without whom we never could have done it. The En Ka Society thanks you one and all.

WINCHESTER'S VERY OWN SPRING FESTIVAL took over last Friday night and Saturday when the annual En Ka Fair lit up the town with its gay goings on. It had all the fixings—balloons, cotton candy, the circus canvas and, most of all, the happy children and adults at the concessions. Now we must wait another year till the next one.

Memorial Day Week End

Memorial Day, the first long holiday of the season, will witness more than a million motorists on the highways.

Chief of Police Joseph J. Dorro and Registrar of Motor Vehicles James R. Lawton, in a joint statement made today, called special attention to the need for caution by motorists and pedestrians. In an effort to keep accidents at a minimum as the vacation season begins, 10,000 enforcement officers will patrol the highways to control and regulate traffic. Safe driving must be the order of the day, careful, considerate, and cautious operation of motor vehicles will help avoid accidents.

Last year, over a 102-hour Memorial Day week end 8 persons lost their lives in Massachusetts and hundreds were injured. Throughout the Nation, 525 persons were killed. This year, it is expected that in the 78-hour week end, 425 persons are expected to lose their lives in the United States.

In the vacation season of June, July, and August of 1963, 188 men, women, and children lost their lives on the Commonwealth's highways. Common sense driving, observing signs, signals, rules, and regulations, driving in one lane, allowing sufficient time for travel, stopping to rest when tired, not following too closely, using directional signals, yielding the right of way are all ingredients of highway safety.

Spring Bulb Planting

Continuing this week is a guide to spring bulb planting. Species are given with planting instructions and notes on culture.

Lisane or Peruvian Daffodils are handsome two-foot plants which lend themselves well to any surroundings. The plants were introduced from Peru in 1800 and placed in the Amaryllidaceae family; they have been changed, however, into the Hymenocallis rank.

Hymenocallis lisane calathina has pure white, very fragrant flowers. The bulbs may be planted three inches deep for summer garden blooming or in pots during the winter for early spring flowering. The plants bloom six weeks from planting.

The bulbs which were planted outdoors should be lifted in the fall and stored in dry peat moss inside for the winter.

Lilium canadense, known by no common name, is especially beautiful, with flowers in orange and yellow. The species was one of the original 11 lilies classified by Linnaeus in 1753.

The bulbs should be planted four-and-one-half inches deep in loose soil; the plants are at their best when in clumps of four to six.

Montbretia is a gladiolus-like plant of the Iridaceae family; the plants can be found listed as Trifolium equally as often as Montbretia. The two foot plants are indigenous to South America and bear flowers in bright yellow, orange red or white.

The corms should be planted three and one-half inches deep in rich loose soil. Once again, the plants are at their best in a clump and the bulbs must be lifted in the fall.

Ranunculus is known in two different forms by the gardener. One is the common (weed) buttercup, R. acris flore-pleno, the other is a very beautiful garden flower, known as the florist's ranunculus, R. asiaticus.

The tubers should be planted two inches deep when the weather warms. The plants, growing two feet tall, bear beautiful double flowers in yellow and orange.

It is interesting that in England, the plants are known as "Fair Maids of France," and that in France as "Fair Maids of Kent."

Summer Hyacinths, known as Galtonia or Hymenocallis canadensis are beautiful plants native to South America. They bear four foot scapes, (a scape is a stem rising from the crown of a plant bearing nothing but flowers) with fragrant white blossoms.

The bulbs should be planted three inches deep in a sheltered area. Although the bulbs are spoken of as hardy, it is best to lift, in the fall, the bulbs which have formed during the summer and to store them indoors during the winter. Don't bother saving the parent bulb; it won't bloom again.

Tigridia plants have a very

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Domesley. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may avoid a similar mistake."

"I saved my money and bought a small lumber mill for $55,000. This was the realization of a lifelong dream. The mill made good money. But the fire insurance rate on the mill seemed frightfully high. I sincerely felt I couldn't afford much coverage. I took out a fire policy for just the amount I owed on the mill - $3700.

"Then a fire struck. The flames greedily ate up my entire investment - the mill burned to the ground. The shock was so great I don't remember what happened that night; but my wife says I sat with my head in my hands, moaning to myself in disbelief.

"Not buying adequate fire insurance cost me $51,000! But worst of all, since life is too short at best, I figure it set me back SEVEN YEARS, right in the prime of life, towards realizing my goal."

We pass along this true story with the sincere hope that you will profit by Cy's costly lesson. May we review your fire insurance coverage NOW—before it's too late?

Anniversary Term Of Office Served By Mrs. E. Filler

The fortieth anniversary of the Frances E. Willard Arlington Auxiliary was recently celebrated at Town Lyne House in Lynnfield. This occasion was particularly outstanding because its first president forty years ago, Mrs. Edmund C. Filler of 9 Madison Avenue West is this year again serving as president of the organization. Mrs. Filler has maintained an active interest in the Frances E. Willard Homes all these years.

The Frances E. Willard Homes at present maintain two homes for women, the Ross Worthen in Waltham and Llewellyn Lodge in Bedford. The Arlington Auxiliary works for these homes and frequently visits their elderly guests. Other Winchester members attending were Mrs. Denton W. Randall and Mrs. Clifton L. Shea.

SIXTH-GRADE SCIENCE CLUB MEMBERS at the Lincoln School recently exhibited projects to co-students, parents and friends at an informal fair held at the school. Three Professors Are Advanced At Tufts University

Three residents of Winchester, all members of the Tufts University faculty, were among those just voted advancements in rank by the Trustees of the University.

Dr. Allan M. Cormack of 18 Harrison Street was named a full professor in the department of Physics. Dr. Cormack, who joined the Tufts faculty in 1957, has wide knowledge of both experimental and theoretical physics. He combines teaching with research in high energy physics and has done important work at the Harvard Cyclotron.

Also promoted, to associate professor of English, was Dr. Michael Fixler of 55 Fletcher Street, who has been at Tufts since 1961. He is the author of numerous articles in his field, including some seventy, signed and unsigned, in the current issue of the American Peoples Encyclopedia.

Dr. Robert D. Stow of 8 North Gateway was advanced in rank to associate professor of Chemistry. He combines teaching with a program of research in Physical Organic Chemistry and other aspects of his field supported by grants from the National Science Foundation, National Institutes of Health, and the Research Corporation. Dr. Stow came to Tufts in 1956 after two years of active service with the U. S. Army Chemical Corps.

Mrs. Fred Cardin Honored at Party

The Monday was sunny and filled with flowers, and the hats were equally so, and on that afternoon, May 18th, members of the incoming and the former board of the Winchester Auxiliary, MSPCA, gave a gala party in honor of Mrs. Fred Cardin of 8 Copley Street. The occasion began at noon with sherry and punch served at the home of Mrs. George E. Connor on Main Street, and then on to the Towne Lyne House in Lynnfield.

Mrs. Cardin, in yellow wool suit and tangerine flowered hat, was presented with a beautiful pale gold orchid by Mrs. William Beggs and on that day, Mrs. Cardin, who drives in all kinds of weather and thinks nothing of driving many miles to help an animal in need, was not permitted to touch the wheel of her car. For this one time, SHE was chauffeured to and from the party!

The luncheon part was most informal, with much small talk and many enthusiastic ideas for the year ahead in MSPCA work, with Kay Cardin again heading the organization. The board voted to send her to the National Humane Convention in North Carolina in October and to invite her to report her findings at the November meeting.

Then in one of those moments that make an audience close to tears, Mrs. Holbrook Dodge read a poem "To Kay," and gave her a beautifully "illuminated manuscript" of the poem. The boards presented Kay with a gift, an Italian wrought iron centerpiece that had been made especially for her, and a card which all had signed.

The entire board helped with the party, but those in the initial planning were Mrs. George Warren Smith, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Beggs, Mrs. Connor, Mrs. Stanley Seaver, Mrs. John Boland, Mrs. James Gustin. It was a memorable party for a greatly esteemed lady!

From Circuits To Saplings At Lincoln

"Many a scientist has learned as much from a failure as a success. One can develop test theories on why an experiment did not work, but one must be thorough in one's investigation."

With this injunction from Mrs. Barbara Nicholson, Science Club advisor, members of the sixth grade at Lincoln School prepared their projects and interpreted their findings to other members of the school, parents and friends.

Those participating and their topics of investigation were as follows: Charles Moore, electrical circuits; Paul Donahue, a self-made telegraph set; Jon Tobey, the effects of different amounts of light on photographic paper; Ronald Cavallo, growing a mold garden; Margaret Millican, germination of maple saplings; Sally Hayden, grafting a yam to a sweet potato plant; Jean O'Neil and Lauren Preston, oxidation and its effects; Elizabeth DiLoreto, chromatography and Kathleen Test, optical illusions.

At the close of the Fair judging took place and Science Museum admission passes were awarded to four of the participants. The judges were John Limongello, McCall Junior High Science specialist, Miss Martha V. Cunningham, Lincoln School principal and Mrs. Barbara Nicholson. Selected as four of the best exhibits were those of Elizabeth DiLoreto, Kathleen Test, Ronald Cavallo and Charles Moore.

Local Girls Win Mount Holyoke's Art Exhibition

Prizewinners at the 21st annual Student Art Exhibition at Mount Holyoke College included Miss Deborah Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harrison of 47 Yale Street, and Miss Christine Trump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Trump of 9 Cambridge Street. Miss Harrison won first prize in the prints division of the Janet F. Brooks Memorial Prizes for a work entitled "The Fourth Dimension: Time." Miss Trump received honorable mention in the drawing category of the same prize for her pencil drawing, "Crown of Thorns."

The work of both students will be on show at Dwight Art Memorial on the college campus until commencement on June 7.

Hersee Chairmans Salvation Army's Building Drive

Peter B. Hersee of 61 Grove Street was announced as chairman of The Salvation Army Building Fund Campaign by Irving L. Seiler, the division chairman.

Mr. Hersee, an officer of the State Street Bank & Trust Company and a local United Fund leader, is now enrolling captains who will soon ask friends of The Salvation Army in this community to add pledges, payable over a three-year period, to the $1,850,000 which is being raised in Greater Boston.

The Army, a charter member of the United Fund, has been allotted the period January to June 1964 for its capital effort by the Budget and Allocations Committee of the United Fund. Like other Fund members, it receives annual maintenance assistance from the United Fund, but must raise its own capital needs separately.

Now, having spent almost $3,000,000 from gifts, trusts and other means in the last years without having made a public capital funds appeal in its 80 years of service to Greater Boston, the Army has asked the public for assistance in restoring and rebuilding eight of its properties in the metropolitan area. Redevelopment and population shifts required the repositioning of three of these projects and five more need modernization and expansion to meet present needs, especially for young people.

The new Booth Memorial Home for unwed mothers, a new day nursery for lone parents and working mothers in Dorchester, and a new rehabilitation center for alcoholics at Blackstone Square will replace lost properties. The Cambridge, Roxbury, and Waltham Neighborhood Centers, the South End Boys' Club, at the Army's Camp Wonderland at Sharon will be expanded and updated.

Mr. Hersee's family are longtime residents of Winchester and are well known in both banking and military activities. His father and grandfather were, like Peter, bank officers, as well as officers of the Massachusetts National Guard.

He will be assisted by the Winchester Service Unit of The Salvation Army—Miss Nellie M. Sullivan, 44 Spruce Street; Mrs. Leslie J. Scott, R.N., 17 Wildwood Street; Miss L. Eleanor Wolsey and Mr. Charles W. Butler, both of the Winchester Trust Company; and Mrs. Maxwell R. McCreery, Winchester Circle, who is also a vice president of the Florence Crittenton League.

Annual Meeting Of Winchester Home And Garden Club

With an interesting membership participation program on Wednesday, the 20th of May, the Winchester Home and Garden Club closed the 1963-64 season. Members brought their "favorite standby" arrangements.

Containers were varied; a thimble, an alabaster compote, driftwood, a cruet and handmade pottery were some of the imaginative holders. In these containers flowers and blossoming branches from members' own gardens filled the eye with beauty, filled the hall with fragrance. Miniature nosegays, branches of dogwood and azalea, and elegant bouquets of lilacs and tulips gave the members choice and range for the popular vote. All were beautiful as might well be expected of a club standing 5th in size in the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs.

At this annual meeting officers and committee chairmen for the coming year were unanimously voted into office. Officers are: Mrs. James N. Mason, president; Mrs. Granville S. Gilpatrick, vice president; Mrs. Arnold W. Kleinbocker, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward J. Devlin and Mrs. Clifford S. Sundberg are corresponding secretaries; Mrs. D. Francis Rimoli, treasurer and Mrs. George H. Lemay, assistant treasurer.

Committee chairmen are: Mrs. John Chipman and Mrs. Frederick W. Cole, conservation and road improvement; Mrs. Deran Hintlian, community service; Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro, courtesies; Mrs. George H. Goudy and Mrs. Clifton McNeill, exhibitions; Mrs. Robert S. Baylies and Mrs. Harold M. Twombly, garden club service; Mrs. Richard R. Keppler, home for the aged; Mrs. Theodore M. Atkinson and Mrs. Ray E. Brown, horticulture; Mrs. Linford N. Fitzpatrick, membership; Mrs. Joseph Burgatti, Mrs. Edward J. McDevitt, Mrs. Russell Pearl, Mrs. Frank Robinson and Mrs. Edmund M. Wright, nominating. The ways and means committee is headed by Mrs. Roger L. Carpenter and Mrs. Charles H. Ungerman; Mrs. James N. Jones and Mrs. Harold S. Lewis, press; Mrs. Howard W. Bates and Mrs. Valery Havard, program; Mrs. Edward B. Mansfield, landscape design; Mrs. Lorenzo Della Femina and Mrs. Frank Detoso, social; Mrs. George H. Lemay, yearbook and Mrs. Carlton J. Dane, auditor.

The teatable was decorated by Mrs. Deran Hintlian with a marine motif. She used a teal blue burlap cloth and a fish made of wicker containing salmon-colored geraniums, coral and shells. Hurricane candles were set in fork floats. Hostesses at the table were Mrs. James N. Mason and Mrs. Granville S. Gilpatrick.

Two new members, Mrs. S. Kennedy Tully and Mrs. Arthur L. Watkins, were given a warm welcome to the club.

Sachems Drop Crucial Game To Concord 4-2 And Lexington 11-4 Playoff Bid Fails

With one game remaining Winchester's "on again, off again" baseball squad find themselves one game over the .500 mark and tied with Melrose for third place. It could be worse since the Red Raiders obliged by dropping their last four out of five.

But the biggest surprise has been Reading, the winners of six straight, and the only team now in a position to catch front-runner Concord. A Reading victory over Winchester in the season's finale combined with a Concord loss to Lexington would deadlock the two for first.

Another slow starting entry has been Stoneham. After failing in their first nine starts, the Spartans have grabbed four straight. It all began with a lopsided 19-7 decision over Winchester, and included a 2-0 win over Concord. The surge pulled them out of the cellar, while Wakefield, losers of six straight, fell in to it.

Winchester's efforts of the week started well enough when young Kevin Crowley pitched a masterpiece against Melrose on Wednesday, and his teammates got just enough runs to win 2-1.

But on Friday, with the weather in the low 90's, Dick Faieta hurled a three-hitter yet lost 4-2 at Concord. A clean single that got by rightfielder Buddy Rotondi for extra bases was the turning point.

Still smarting from the Concord turn-about, the Sachems fell to Lexington 11-4 on Monday, as Crowley showed ineffectiveness for the first time.

S. O. I. News

Scoutmaster Bob Fiore and his assistants Carl Bertolucci and Mel Fiore have their S.O.I. Boy Scout Troop ready to keep in step for the town's Memorial Day Parade.

The Club House will be a busy place Saturday night with the charity fund committee, the program and entertainment committee and the social night committee combining their efforts for much excitement. As Jim Dooley says, "come on down" from 8 to 12 p.m.

Boss Dattilo, chairman, and his committee have made final arrangements for a Hawaiian Luau which will be held at the S. O. I. Hall on Saturday, June 13. Tickets are reasonable and you certainly are in for a good time. The hall will be decorated in a Hawaiian atmosphere and there will be plenty of food, entertainment and a hula contest. Hawaiian dress is optional but it is hoped that more fun and enjoyment will be added by many appearing in Hawaiian make-up. Get your tickets early as places are limited.

Hokie Procopio, manager, and his defending champion softball team are anxious to get back into the victory column after dropping its game to the Sachems last week. The team will have played the Shamrocks on Wednesday of this week.

Volunteer painters are still wanted to give the outside of the quarters a new coat. If you have not yet signed up and are willing to give up an hour or two for a most worthy cause, please sign up in the lounge. The project will get underway shortly and the more men on hand will make the task that much easier and more fun! Sign up!

The S.O.I. Golf League is showing more interest and improvement and Art Dunbar, chairman, will be giving standings after another time out on the fairway.

It was a very nice day when Larry O'Onofrio decided to play ball with his youngsters. A good time was being had by all until the sound for dinner was called. With this Larry set up a race to see who would get in the house first and with this he made a quick start which resulted into his turning his knee. Sorry to hear of the mishap Larry, but hurry and get well.

Have you seen Dom's flower garden yet? He's really going to wow and those colors will certainly add to the beauty of the area. He recently sent away for a "special" and is now keeping his fingers crossed for expected results.

Don Kinton was recently operated on for appendicitis which will sideline him from softball for a while, but we are happy to see him making rapid progress.

Bro. Rocky De Teso is having a tough fight in the hospital and we do hope for the best. Get well in a hurry Rocky! We want to see your happy smile at the bowling alleys next year!

It seems that Mike Saraco was having his troubles in umpiring a softball game. After the game Mike decided to go to the doctor's and the doctor said "I think you need glasses." With that Mike jumped to his feet, jerked his thumb and said, "that will cost you a hundred dollars, and what's more, you are out of the game."

Town "Grab-Bag" Tennis This Weekend

Entries are still being received for the annual spring Doubles Draw Tournament sponsored by the Winchester Tennis Association for town residents. First round play begins on Friday afternoon, May 29, at the following times:

2:00—Women's Doubles
3:00—Family Doubles
4:00—Mixed Doubles
5:00—Men's Doubles
In the Women's, Mixed and Men's events, individual entrants are being paired by the Tournament Committee at random in "grab bag" fashion. The Family Doubles consists of father-daughter, mother-son entries, etc. Play is at the Packer Courts on Palmer Street. Triumphant first-round winners will then play second-round matches on Saturday, May 30, as follows: Men's, 9:00 a.m.; Mixed, 10:00 a.m.; Family, 1:00 p.m.; Women's, 2:00 p.m.

Sunday, May 31st will find the surviving teams continuing their battles and the semi-finals and finals will be played the following week end.

The association reminds entrants that each team should bring one new can of balls. The winner of each match will then keep the remaining can of unused balls for their next match.

Last-minute entries will be accepted until 6:00 p.m. Thursday, May 28, by Bob Pritchard, tournament director, at 53 Salisbury Street (fee per person per event is 50c for adults and 25c for juniors). Should there be rain, events will be postponed until courts are playable.

Town Softball League

The Knicks won its first game of the season by downing the Health Lab 12-5 on Wednesday of a week ago. Making some stand-out plays for the victors were John Hosmer, Frank Leverone, Paul Lamarche and Bruce MacKay. The leading batters for the winning combine were Bruce MacKay, Chip Swett, John Hosmer and Bill Lamarche.

The Lab's George Burns, John Gagliastro, Tom Glavin and Paul Hahn did outstanding defensive work which helped in keeping the score down, while the big hitters in a losing cause were Bob Newcombe, Marvin Rosenstein, Paul Hahn and Nick Gaeta.

On last Thursday the Elks defeated the Shamrocks by 19-5 to keep its slate clean and on top in the league standing. Joe Tomasi pitched a fine ball game for the victors and had some excellent support at the field as well as at bat. Ben Hardy and Bill Sipp pitched for the losers.

We are sorry to say that an accident in the sixth inning turned out to be quite serious although nobody was to blame. Jim Gibbons of the Shamrocks hit a grounder and gave it the old college try. Jim tried awfully hard to beat it out by sliding into first. In his attempt, Jim's foot got caught in the ground and he turned in pain. Rushing him to the hospital it was learned that he fractured his ankle and will probably be sidelined for the remainder of the season. Here's hoping you come along fast Jim!

The Health Lab finally got into the win column for the first time by taking a 9-0 decision over Calidne's third successive one, but if the team could only get together it certainly could give its opposition some headaches.

The big game of the week was played on Tuesday between two undefeated teams and at the end of the contest the Elks kept the winning streak in tact after setting back the VFW 6-0 for the team's first loss. The summary:

League Standings (May 26)
	Won	Lost
Elks	4	0
SOI	1	1
Sachems	1	1
VFW	2	1
Shamrocks	2	1
Knicks	1	2

Dale Grinnell Named to Boston All-Star Team

Dale Grinnell of Winchester, an unexpected surprise at the plate for Tufts successful baseball team this spring, has been named to the Greater Boston League All-Star team.

He, along with Winchester neighbors Paul DelRossi and George Neville of Harvard, were honored at the League's annual banquet, Tuesday night, at the Hotel Kenmore, following which they were the guests of the Boston Red Sox for their night game against the Washington Senators.

Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Grinnell of 81 Forest Street. He is a senior Economics major at Tufts, and will graduate June 7. He will then enter the Navy's Damage Control Assistants School in Philadelphia as a newly-commissioned ensign through the school's Navy ROTC program.

Grinnell was a member of the Winchester Little League team which went to Williamsport, Pa. It has been noted time and time again that a number of outstanding college players emanated from that club, and Grinnell, DelRossi and Vandy French of Tufts are fine examples.

Grinnell played basketball and baseball at Winchester High before graduating in 1960.

Dale came to Tufts with a reputation for excellent glove work but little "stick." However, he wound up his senior year as top hitter on the Jumbo squad with a .343 batting average (23 hits in 67 at bats). He developed power this season, too, and Coach John Coe put him in the cleanup spot where he finished tops in slugging percentage. A year ago he hit for 266 with no extra base hits at all, but this spring he had four doubles, a triple, homer and 10 rbis. He also stole six bases in 19 games.

Grinnell and the Jumbos still have a game remaining, that against Harvard on Alumni Day, June 6, at 3:00. That game, regardless of the outcome, will end one of the finest baseball seasons ever at Tufts. The Jumbos currently own a 12-7 record. They lost to Harvard earlier in the year, 3-2.

Besides his athletic activity, Dale has been an active campus participant, too. He belongs to Delta Upsilon fraternity, and is a member of the Student Council, Economics Club, Traffic Commission and is a senior class officer. He is the recipient of a Naval Institute Award.

A Tufts teammate, pitcher Wally Wadman, with an 8-1 mound record, also made the Greater Boston All-Star squad.

BROKEN UP is the only way to describe this scene. On the bottom is Sachem Harold Mugford, and in the background is teammate Dave Pratt (33). "They've met some stiff competition," says Coach Gene Bouley of the newly conceived lacrosse unit, "and they've done surprisingly well. In time they'll be holding their own against any college freshman or JV squad."

Tomasi Pitches Two-Hit Shutout For Elks in 6-0 Win over V. F. W.

In a game which included, among other things, the Elks pitcher circling the bases on a strikeout, the Elks defeated the Vets 6-0 at Leonard Field Tuesday night for their fourth straight and undisputed possession of first place in the Town Softball League.

Tomasi pitched a masterful game giving up but two hits and retiring the last nine men in order.

The Elks runs came in pairs in the third, fourth and seventh innings. In the third, a hit by Fishy Inniss, a walk to Casalunovo and a double by Tim Walsh accounted for the two runs.

In the 4th, After Bobby Thompson walked, Tomasi struck out, the Vets catcher dropped the third strike and Tomasi legged it for first base. The heavy first was overthrown, and both Thompson and Tomasi made home when the relay from the second baseman to third was wild.

A walk to Kevin Mawn and a line shot to left by Ed Fitzgerald which went by the left fielder for a home run when he slipped ended the scoring.

Bill Bond, the Vets pitcher did a creditable job and could have held the Elks to two runs with better fielding and better breaks. But he was no match for Tomasi. Tracey, the Vets fireballer, was unable to pitch because of a previous commitment.

For the Elks, Inniss had two singles, Kevin Mawn a single, Fitzgerald a home run, Walsh a double, Jim Mawn a single, and Thompson a single. For the Vets Paul Roche and Bill Bond had singles.

With Tomasi pitching the Elks have a fourth infielder. He has quick reflexes and fields anything within reach. He made a couple of fine fielding plays in the game. Inniss at third plays his position like a Cletus Boyer.

The Elks smothered the Shamrocks with assorted hits last Thursday to win 19-5 with Tomasi pitching his usual good game. Inniss had three hits, Kevin Mawn two doubles, E. Walsh a triple, Fitzgerald a single and two doubles, T. Walsh a double and Tomasi a single.

The big game for the Elks takes place next Thursday at Leonard when they take on their nemesis, the Sons. A good crowd should be on hand for this one. Game starts at 6:30.

The opening of the 1964 season of the semi-professional Carlisle Inter-City Baseball League got underway last Sunday at Wilmington where the Wilmington Town Team defeated Lexington 5-0, and at North Woburn where the Reading Town Team rolled over the Woburn City Club 12-3 . . . For the 15th consecutive year, Harry "Red" Butland, 71, of North Cambridge, will be at the helm as league general manager . . . Towns represented by teams in the area are Lexington, Medford, North Cambridge, Reading, Wakefield, Watertown, Wilmington, Winchester, and Woburn.

After nineteen games Dale Grinnell heads the Tufts nine by batting at a .343 clip . . . Dale has 23 hits, has scored 13 runs, batted in 10 runs, has 4 doubles, 1 triple, 1 home run, and has stolen six bases . . . With one game remaining Tufts has won 12 and lost 7 . . . Grinnell's efforts gave him a berth on the Greater Boston League All-Star team.

Red Sox outfielder Roman Mejias, whom manager Johnny Pesky has recently re-installed in the lineup, compiled quite a record in his first year with the Houston Colts in 1962. Some of his marks still stand. He had a batting average of .286, batted in 76 runs, hit 24 home runs, had a total of 252 bases, stole 12, and had 39 extra base hits. He also struck out the most at 83, and tied two others for grounding into double plays the most at 13 . . . Nevertheless, Roman is the kind of ballplayer you like to see out there. He'll help.

The first meeting of the Massachusetts Principal's Association to plan a State Basketball Tournament was held last Monday at Worcester. The net set-up will eliminate a New England tournament since Rhode Island pulled out this year, but will still be held at Boston Garden during the same dates. Four teams will be selected from Eastern Massachusetts, two from Central, and two from Western. In attendance at Worcester were Winchester Athletic Director Henry Knowlton, Executive Secretary of the M.P.A., Charley Downs, and Marty McDonough, former Woburn athlete, and Director of Athletics at Fitchburg . . . Henry Knowlton, who also happens to be President of the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association, was among the head table guests at a testimonial to Dennis A. Gilder at Caruso's Diplomat on Route One, Saugus, Gilder, who is rounding out 29 years of coaching, most of it at Everett High, compiled a 163-72-29 record. The dinner, held last Thursday, also saw the attendance of former Harvard great "Swede" Nelson.

Besides Dale Grinnell, the Greater Boston All-Star team also saw the selection of two other Winchesterites, Harvard's Paul Del Rossi (L.I. era) and George Neville (.348).

"THEY SHALL NOT PASS," is what Sachem Joe Tranfaglia seems to be saying in this lacrosse action that occurred against Cambridge School of Weston, won by Winchester 7-4. New high school unit traveled to Moses Brown of Providence last Saturday and lost to an experienced varsity squad there, 5-3. In net is Tony Silvestri.

Duplicate Bridge Club

We are very proud to announce that Carl and Irene Sittiger, two of our Club's most loyal and popular members, have just made it possible for us to add a new championship event each year by donating a permanent trophy to the Club. This trophy, which will be known as the Sittiger Challenge Bowl, will be awarded annually to the winners of a special Mr. and Mrs. (or husband-and-wife) championship event.

No date has been set for the holding of this "First Annual Couples Championship," but it will be publicized well in advance when the time comes. Coming up next week, however, (Wednesday, June 3rd) will be the WDBC Individual Championship on every board! This event is open to all Winchester residents who can count to 13 and no advance entries are required, so come on down to the K. of C. Hall and join in the fun and confusion.

Master point night on May 20th was a triple-decker with Club members being offered a choice of Mitchell and Howell movements. Section A, a 63 point average Mitchell, saw the following pairs in the van after 21 boards.

Charlie Watson has been heard to claim on many occasions that he doesn't know much about bridge, an assertion which is belied by the deadly regularity with which he and Mildred finish in the money in Section A.

In a recent rubber bridge game reported to us, Charlie sat East and held:

♠ A 5 4
♥ 10 9 8 7 5 4 3 2
♦ A 5

With West dealer and both sides vulnerable, the bidding went:

West North East South
3 C double pass 3 D pass 3 H pass 3 NT
pass pass pass

West led the AC and continued with the QC (South played the 8S on the first trick). As East, what cards do you play on the first two tricks? See North hand, the dummy, below.

Well our friend Watson (Sherlock Holmes would be a better name for him) saw that he had two tricks but that the key to defeating the contract must lie in setting up partner's clubs. In the hope of setting up a possible entry in West's hand, Charlie threw away BOTH ACES on the first two clubs!

This took courage as well as fabulous analytical powers, and now 3 NT was completely unattainable for South, as West suddenly had a certain entry with either the JS or the QD. Here is the full deal:

North

Troop 513 Honors 27 Girl Scouts

The Junior Girl Scouts, Troop 513, under the leadership of Mrs. Alvin Malthaner, held Court of Awards ceremonies at Parkhurst School, Thursday afternoon, May 21.

Mothers of the Scouts were present to watch as the festivities began with the performance of the Flag Ceremony, the Girl Scout Promise, and the Scout Laws.

Mrs. Malthaner welcomed the guests and briefly reviewed the duties of the Girl Scout required to earn the badges given as symbols of proficiency for the duties and the fulfillment of the Girl Scout Promise, and using these skills to serve and help others.

The Scouts have had an active year. They had a hike in the fall on which they learned to make a fire and cook over it; they have learned simple cooking skills; they had swimming instructions and fun at Tufts Pool. As a Christmas project they searched out a needy family from the Welfare Department to surprise with boxes of outgrown clothes and toys; they participated as a Living Window during Girl Scout Week; they marched at the En Ka parade and they now are looking forward to an overnight at the Girl Scout Cabin on June 5.

Mrs. Malthaner expressed sincere thanks to Mrs. Richard Dutting, neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Robert Jewell, Mrs. Norman Pheene, Mrs. Dwight Newman, Mrs. Charles Doe, Mrs. Theodore Cook, Mrs. Paul Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Henry Toomajian for their services.

Badges were presented to: Mary Longo, "Heather Barlow, Marina Cincotta, "Carol Malthaner, Marilee Clark, "Wendy McDavitt, Constance Merenda, "Carole - Jean Cook, "Polly Ann DeConto, Betty Mobbs, Deborah Doe, Heidi Newman, "Mara Downes, Gail Pheene, Barbara Dunn, Lorraine Riccerato, "Frances Farley, Marcella Smith, Carol Fitzpatrick, Judith Snow, Susanne Toomajian, Nancy Fulton, "Patricia Jewell, "Carol Vallee, Victoria Kinley, "Christina Wiener, and Kathleen Logan.

In addition, awarded the Sign of the Arrow Badge.

Finally, each Scout acted as hostess in serving refreshments to her mother.

Lynch 8, McCall 6

Arch rivals from opposite sides of the Aberjona, Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools met for the second time on the diamond last Friday at Loring Avenue Field. The first engagement played at Leonard Field found Lynch on top by a 6-1 score.

In this return encounter Lynch jumped out to a 2-1 lead in the first inning on singles by Tom Martin, Fred Thayer, Brian Collins and Bill Brunkhorst. McCall struck back in the fifth when two bases on balls, two errors and sharp singles by Bob Nuttle and Scotty Anderson netted four runs.

Lynch answered the challenge in the sixth with four runs to go ahead by a 6-5 score. However, in the seventh a single by Dave De Teso who stole second and scored on Scotty Anderson's single tied the score. Lynch, however, was not to be denied.

Kevin Barry singled to right to open the eighth, Kevin Sullivan got a free pass after John Martin flouted to right. Barry and Sullivan advanced on a passed ball. Tom Martin laid down a perfect bunt on the suicide squeeze to score Barry. Joe Monterisi singled to score Sullivan with run number eight. Brian Collins, Lynch ace, who relieved Sullivan in the sixth, took care of the home team on two strike outs and fly to right field.

Brian Collins led Lynch's offensive with three singles, while Tom Martin, Joe Monterisi and Kevin Barry had two apiece.

Jeff Schlener, Dave DeTeso, Scotty Anderson and Michael Garcia had two singles apiece for McCall.

CAP League Notes

Approximately one hundred boys paraded Saturday for En Ka as Ralph Atkinson led the Jeep float. Bob Wild was busy with his Little League Lions, but several fathers helped keep the boys in line. Henry O'Neil looked magnificent in Royal Blue. Many boys were absent with scout activities.

The boys were undaunted by 90 degree heat on Sunday and played some fine ball. Roberta Nowell cooled them off with 240 lbs. of ice on the tonic.

Permission slips were passed out for a free trip to the Red Sox - Baltimore game Saturday, June 13. Busses will leave Ginn Field at 1:00 p.m.

Next meeting, Sunday, June 31, 2 p.m., at Ginn Field.

No games - Saturday, Memorial Day.

AMERICAN LEAGUE The Pirates

Sponsored by Fitzgerald Fuel
The Pirates decided to go right out in front and they have made it a point to stay out there. "We like being the front runners," was Manager Mad Leslie's comment. "It gives you a different perspective when you are ahead of the pack and looking back at the rest."

Coach Frank Cullen agrees with Mad. Frank says, "When you are chasing the other teams the outlook is entirely different. Being chased is much better."

And these Pirates like being chased. They have some good men on their club and they have all been showing their stuff to advantage so far this season. Probably the best all-around player on the Pirate team is Dave Brunkhorst who can fill in at any spot in the infield or outfield. Dave is one of the heavy hitters on the Pirate aggregation and he is the type of player that most managers dream about but never see.

Dave Cavanaugh is the guardian of first base and they don't come any better than Dave. Frank Cullen calls down the second base sector and is a heavy hitter too. Peter Niles at short is all that is necessary. Peter does a mound chore when he gets the nod and is one of the better pitchers in the league.

The Pirates have two third basemen who can handle the job with equal skill. Joe Mozzicato works the hot corner and also patrols an outfield spot if needed. John Uccello is the other third sacker who doubles as a pitcher. John does a good deal of doubling as a hitter too.

Jeff Charles is probably the best Pirate flinger and he also steps behind the plate when one of the other pitchers has the mound assignment. Jeff has become one of the smoothest players in the league this season. Gerald Ferro is the other catcher on the club and Jerry scampers to an outfield post when his services are needed there.

The outfield problem with this team is easily covered. Bill Gannon, Bob Haffner and Ed Keating are a trio that covers more territory than a salesman looking for a prospect. David Hillman is a utility man who can be used in the infield or outfield and Jim Marvin is an outfielder with superior ability. Murphy is another steady outfielder who also covets around second base when needed.

This outfit has a wealth of material and it is showing up better with each succeeding game. There is no doubt that the Pirates like being at the head of the league standings and they see no reason to make any change in their position for the rest of the season.

The Panthers
Sponsored by A. J. Tambone, Inc., Contractors.

"This team is going to tell all of a sudden and then it's 'Watch Out, League,'" is the way Bob Hewes, the manager of the Panthers, describes his team. Coach Charlie Retz is nodding his head in agreement while Bob explains that the Panthers ought to be running away with the league but they just haven't started to really click up to now. "This team has the stuff," says manager and coach, "they are good, dependable players and one of these nights they will begin to roll and knock the roof off the league."

And it might happen sooner than expected for the Panthers have plenty of stuff to bring off a surprise at any time. Dick Tambone is their first baseman and he also toes the rubber for his team. Dick's hitting is one of the big noises for this club.

At second there is Mike Siegfried and, with Chris McCarthy at short, the Panthers have as strong a center section as any team in the league. Third of these boys are fast and good glove men. "Tom" Betz handles third base and nothing more is needed in that spot. Tom is another good hitter for this club and is a hustler on the field.

Jim McGoldrick does some good pitching and also can handle himself around first base. Brother Bob McGoldrick is a heavy hitting catcher and between these two boys there is no choice for opposing pitchers.

Bill Hewes handles an outfield post with Jim Dale and Greg Sullivan completing the trio. Vaughn Mullen, Harold Leach and Jeff Wilber are another set of outfielders who can patrol the garden like Texas Rangers. Steve Neergaard is usually an outfielder but can handle an infield post as well and Ken Abbott is another first baseman who looks great at the initial sack.

These boys are all good ball players and the Panther managerial staff is ready to read tea leaves to find out just why this outfit is not pounding the opposition into the ground. But that is not to say that they are about to quit trying, for such is far from the case. The Panthers have been lying back up to now but their claws are sharp and so are their batting eyes.

Sponsored by Bonnell Motors
"This is one of the best outfits that I have ever handled," is Manager Babe Olivadotti's appraisal of his club. "A team with potential like this one cannot be counted out until the final game of the season." And Coach Bill Carroll and Walter Johnson back that sentiment right down the line. Bill and Walter both feel the same about the Braves. "This team is fast and smart. Nobody takes an easy game from them and they are getting faster and smarter as the season goes on," was the explanation by the coaches.

It is easy to see why the Braves' chiefs feel the way they do about this outfit. With pitchers like Joe Fiumara winning the first three games he pitched, Paul Whitney, a 19-year-old mound prospect doing his stuff and Frank Graciee changing at the bit to get on the rubber, the team is well protected in the losing department.

Both Paul Whitney and Frank Graciee can be called on to take over the first base job when they are not doing pitching assignments. Lance West is all that is needed at second and it seems like his glove is everywhere on that side of the diamond. Joe Dunham is as good as they come in the shortstop spot and he is also able to don the mask and mitt and step behind the plate. Steve Swanson is another good catcher and both Steve and Joe are heavy hitters for the Braves.

Kevin Riley at third is a "good hit-god field" man that any manager would enjoy having on his team. Steve Heitz is usually in left with Bob Olivadotti playing center and Norman Janson in right. Also whooping it up for the Braves are a trio of good outfielders like Wayne Johnson, Dick Beaton and Jim Olivadotti. These boys are willing and able to take over when they are called upon to do so by their manager.

Joe Fiumara is an old hand at the center field post and Paul Kennedy and Bob Robeson are both well above standard in the outfielding charts. With boys like these doing their stuff it is easy to understand why the Chief Braves is more than happy with his tribe. The Braves are not sneaking up on the opposition, they are announcing themselves in loud noises at the plate in every game.

The Lions
Sponsored by Renton's Market.

"The Lions' roar is going to be getting louder with each game from here on in," is a promise made by Manager Fred McGrath that is backed by Coach Bob Wild and Coach Peter Keane. "This team is up to show that the Lions is really the King of the League," in their unanimous opinion.

With the hitters and pitchers that the Lions are sporting they might not have too much trouble in making the rest of the league listen. Peter Wild has been doing a lot of good pitching and also a lot of good hitting. Cliff Emery has been doing all of the catching up to now and has been hitting home runs like there was an early season on them.

Bob Monterisi handles first base with all the smoothness of a professional and Bill McGrath is all any manager could ask for as a second baseman and hitter. Wayne West covers shortstop like a blanket and has been carrying a heavy bat up to the plate as well. Ralph Jacobs is nailing the hot corner to the ground with ease and ability.

Mike Smith is a veteran with the Lions and plays a lot of right field for the club. With Mike in the field is Mark Snelling and Dick Kramer and this trio is as good as they come in any company.

Charlie Patti is a utility infielder who is ready to step into the game at any moment. Roger McGrath plays outfield and also fills in at third base when the manager gives him the job. Joe Penta is available for either infield or outfield duty and does either with skill and enthusiasm.

Tom Queen, Ralph Tullberg and Jerry Kenny are another outfield group that can patrol the space with the best of them. This team is not being sold short by the managerial staff and by this time it is apparent to the rest of the league that the Lions are out to win on every occasion.

It won't be an easy task to twist this Lions' tail and it might be a good idea to beware of the Lions' teeth as well. They are beginning to bite hard.

Antiques Group
Studies Greek Revival Periods

As in previous years, the annual meeting of the Antiques Study Group was held at the Royal House in Medford Tuesday evening, May 19.

For those who wished a conducted tour of this beautiful historic home, the main house which is not electrically lighted, was open prior to the eight o'clock meeting. The meeting itself was held in what was formerly the slave quarters of Royal House.

Mrs. Stephen Edgell of 8 Sheffield West spoke on the Nineteenth Century Greek Revival period in architecture, furniture styles, and fashions in England, France, and especially America. She described the classic revival beginning in the 18th century, went on to discuss the Napoleonic campaigns and their influence at the beginning of the 19th century and the ensuing tremendous desire for everything classic — especially the Greek — in America through the mid-19th century, when the Gothic Revival had already been established and other "Revivals" came along.

The lives and works of some of the greatest architects working in the classic idiom were described, and excerpts were read from the chapter devoted to that period in the Edgell's book about the old West End of Boston.

Jr., illustrated the talk with colored slides, more than half of which he has photographed for the Edgell collection.

General discussion, a social hour and refreshments followed the meeting.

Swingline High Compressor Staple Gun. For use for paring, decorating, insulating, upholstering. Push button load, handle lock and built in staple extractor. As advertised on TV, $4.95, box of staples included. Available at the Winchester Star.

Elks Lobster
Nite Tomorrow

The Friday lobster night, a weekly affair since the Saturday spaghetti dinners were discontinued, will be held tomorrow night at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue. Lobsters, steamed and quahogs will be served from 7 until sold out, usually about nine or thereabouts. Members and guests are most welcome.

These lobster nights have been quite popular. Many of the members bring their wives and guests.

Mickey Curtin, chairman of the house committee, announces that on the lobster night to be held next week, June 5, each person on hand to eat lobster or steamed will be given a number. A drawing will be held, and the winner will take home a five-round lobster—live and fighting mad!

There will be a family bean supper at the Elks Home Saturday, June 6, starting at 5 for Elks and members of their family. Adults will pay a nominal price, while the children will be served free. What a bargain for an Elk with a lot of kids.

The Elks softball team won another last Thursday night at Leonard Field when they clobbered the Shamrocks 19 to 5. Not counting the game played Tuesday night against the Vets, they had won their first three games, certainly a good start. Mitzie Mawn has a young, hustling team which is determined to take the championship this year.

Fifty Brownies Receive Wings At Fly-up Ceremony

Girls from five Brownie troops in the Noonan and Wyman School areas flew up to Junior Girl Scout troops at an impressive ceremony on May 21, in the Wyman School auditorium.

The program started with a flag ceremony planned and executed by Junior Girl Scouts from Troop 487, Mrs. Thomas Wilber, leader.

Girls in the color guard were Joan Haggerty, Barbara Lieberman, Karen Connolly, Kathy Farrell, Barbara Higgins, Cynthia Allinson, Cathy McHugh and Laurette Bunzel. Cadette Scout Cynthia Rand served as captain.

There was entertainment by the Fly-up troops which consisted of songs, poem, and a "lion hunt."

The Brownie Wings were presented to the girls by their Brownie leaders. While cadette scout Marcia White favored everyone with music on the piano, the Fly-ups were given their Girl Scout pins by the Junior Troop leaders, Mrs. Malcolm Leslie, Troop 485 and Mrs. Fred Wood, Troop 487. The girls repeated the Girl Scout Promise and Laws while cadette scout Deborah McLean lit the candles.

Mrs. Richard Duttling, Sachem Neighborhood chairman, acted as mistress of ceremonies and also spoke to the girls briefly. After the girls had sung "Girl Scouts Together," refreshments of punch and brownies were served.

Brownie Fly-ups from Noonan School area, Troop 468, under Mrs. Richard Bunzel, leader were: Carol Pratt, Barbara Scholl, Deborah Wood, Deborah Morgan, Karen Neergaard, Ina Pollack, Diana Wazack, Diana Cabral, Beth Mander-vill, and Michele Lombard.

Troop 467 Fly-ups under Mrs. Kenneth Donaghey, leader and Mrs. J. Fenoglio, assistant were: Leslie Rae, Jane Barnard, Catherine Haggerty, Joan Cantillon, Janet Collins, Linda Fraser, and Arlene Lieberman.

Brownie Fly-ups from the Wyman School area were:

Troop 519 under Mrs. Lane McGovern, leader, and Mrs. Galen Vincent and Mrs. Edward McDavitt, assistants: Patricia Byrd, Beverly Cade, Marie Casey, Janet Chelman, Dorothy Clark, Wendy Dillon, Lisa Fitzgerald, Robyn German, Judith Houlling, Denise O'Toole, Suzanne Quigley, Karen Tesar, and Debra Yavner.

Troop 475 with Mrs. James Gustin, leader and Mrs. Thomas Leonard, assistant: Laurel Abbot, Rebecca Brackett, Deborah Cabot, Martha Fernald, Diane Gustin, Phyllis LaCascia, Margaret Mauger, Mary Jane McLaughlin, Susan Parkhurst, Lisa Woodward, and Joanne Zimmer.

Troop 520, under Mrs. Robert Westwater, leader, and Mrs. Edward Read, assistant: Linda Britten, Betsy Mahoney, Judith Burns, Nancy Higgins, Lexine Hoag, Margaret Morton, Katherine Raleigh, Amy Westwater, and Nancy Eaton. Jayne Heitz, Rosemary Lane and Janet Lindmark ushered at the ceremonies.

Their 25th Reunion At WHS

ORCHID LEIS FLOWN FROM HAWAII by former classmate Barbara Bragdon Innis lent a gala touch to the class of 1939 reunion party held recently at the S. O. I. Hall. Coming from as far away as Texas and Michigan, some 65 members of a class of 113 got together. At the head table were former teachers and committee members. Seated, left to right, Lee Boodakian, committee chairman; Mrs. E. Stacy, former history teacher; Mickey Meurling, former athletic director and present assistant principal of McCall; Mrs. Meurling; Sam Graves, former history teacher and present principal of Wellesley High. Standing are Mrs. Connie Bond Hessler, '39 committee; Mrs. Lenna Peabody Travis, former biology teacher, present WHS science department head; Mrs. Boodakian; Mrs. Richard McCormack; Mr. McCormack, committee member; and Mr. Hessler.

Parkhurst Parents Conclude Year

On Wednesday, May 20, the Parkhurst Parents' Association held its annual meeting in the school auditorium, called to order by the president, Mrs. Frederick Lindberg.

Mrs. Lindberg delighted the assembly by giving in verse a resume of the association's activities of the past year, and then conducted the business meeting. She regretted that absence due to illness prevented Miss Caffrey, acting principal, from accepting the collective best wishes for her new role of principal of Noonan School and a parting gift from the association.

The president delineated the duties of the individual board members and offered thanks for their services. Then Mrs. Joseph Vitka, nominating chairman, introduced the slate of officers for the year 1964-65: Mrs. Richard T. Nelson, president; Mrs. Ralph M. Swanson, vice president; Mrs. Robert M. Goldhammer, recording secretary; Mrs. Alan T. Leand, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Theodore Robinson, treasurer.

Committee chairmen are to be: Mrs. Thomas Dowd, extra-curricular activities; Mrs. George Snow, luncheon; Mrs. Coy L. Huffine, safety; Mrs. Robert Heileman, membership; Mrs. George J. Baratta, room mothers; Mrs. Charles Whitten, social; Mrs. Thomas Longo, ways and means; Mrs. Henry V. Toomajian, publicity; Mrs. Donald J. Senna, nominating and Mrs. Alexander Samoiloff, Mrs. Martin F. Burkhardt and Mrs. Douglas Parkhill, members at large. The nominating committee is Mrs. Mac Adams, Mrs. Herbert W. Arnold, Mrs. Whitley A. Cummings and Mrs. Frank Inzeria.

Following was a gym exhibition program presented by Mrs. Gail Montgomery, assisted by Mr. Houghton. Students from the first through the sixth grades participated in the current physical fitness program.

The spectators enjoyed seeing the youngest children perform ball-handling to music and enthusiastically watched each grade perform with admirable ease and dexterity tumbling, square dancing, basic physical exercises, rope jumping, pyramid building, and a marching drill.

Mrs. Montgomery graciously accepted a bouquet of red roses. In addition, a box of candy was presented by Carol Malthaner, representing the fifth and sixth grades. Refreshments were served and enjoyed.

Presbyterians Ready to Go With Canvass

The United Presbyterian Church of Burlington is embarking upon a building fund canvass.

The financial committee headed by Robert Svensson, chairman, is enrolling a canvass organization of thirty or forty men and women. Robert Tish has been elected general chairman of the campaign for funds. James Williams will be the initial gifts chairman. Niels Hansson will have the responsibility for the special gifts. Mr. Svensson, as canvass committee chairman, will handle the general solicitations with a committee.

The canvass got under way in its four phases following a Loyalty Dinner held for all families of the church last night in Meadowbrook School in Burlington. HOW TO STARVE A MOTH

Leave it to Monks.

We have a well earned reputation for being unfair to moths. In fact, they hate us, for without conscience, we just eliminate them completely. And that goes for their little hole-eating larvae, as well.

Moths love woolies. So call in Monks for all your clothes and household things that may be in danger. Woolens cleaned by Monks mean starvation for moths.

325 W. H. S. Seniors To Graduate Sunday At Manchester Field

This is the final week for 325 senior students at the High School and, weather permitting, Sunday evening will see this number, 33 more than last year, receive their diplomas in graduation ceremonies to be held on Manchester Field.

Exams conclude today, tonight is Class Night, tomorrow night is the Senior Prom. The last day of classes for them was last Friday and was marked by a picnic on the school lawn and the usual morning march up from the square.

The ceremonies are scheduled for 6:15 p.m. on Sunday, and should rain preclude them then they will be at the same hour on the next fair evening. A long history of fair weather for graduation was broken last year when the exercises ran a close race with the rain. There is still some question as to which won.

This year strong consideration was given to doing away with the traditional procedure of the individual receipt of diplomas and handshakes in favor of a group procedure more common in schools of comparable size. However, traditionalists among students and parents objected enough that plans were restored to the usual pattern. And under this plan the time needed for the numbers involved dictates a very skeletal supporting program.

Of what used to be three to five student addresses, only the greeting by class president, Thomas M. Ford, remains on the program.

Father Herbert K. A. Driscoll of the Immaculate Conception Church will give the invocation, W. Howard Niblock will be heard in short remarks to the class and will make the annual student awards. Other awards will be presented by Dr. Richard Alt, chairman of the School Committee, who also presents the diplomas and the Winchester Scholarship Foundation awards will be announced and presented by Mrs. H. L. deKivera.

Of the 325 candidates for degree four will receive their diploma in absentia, including one who has completed his whole high school course through a home tutoring program and three already in the service who merit diplomas through the service early release program.

Roughly $25,000 in scholarship money has already been earned by members of the class of 1964, an amount which includes one unusual four year full tuition award to Peter Fontneau from Webb Institute. Webb, a school of naval architecture on Long Island, has a very selected national enrollment of only 100, all on full tuition scholarships.

About 30 students are going directly to work, a number down by about 20 from last year's smaller class; and Bernard Silva, guidance supervisor, reports that the number going on whose plans include some form of formal study now is close to 80 per cent and is steadily on the rise. Enrollments in technical schools have increased, but the number of young men going into the service remains about the same. Young women are going into nursing and on to business schools, many students will take another year of college preparatory work.

44 Inducted In National Honor Society Ritual

The challenge to today's youth of the era of automation - its demands at hand and the fantastic potential of change it holds for civilization - this was the focus of the talk given by Dr. Leonard Mead, vice-president and provost, of Tufts University, to the 11 juniors and 33 seniors inducted into the National Honor Society at the Winchester High School the evening of May 28.

His talk was the climax of ceremonies under the direction of Carl Fontneau, president of the honor society this year, and augmented by the commendations of W. Howard Niblock, principal. The inductions brought to a total of 44 the number in the class of 1964 who will be graduated with the distinction of this national honor.

Dr. Mead, a former resident here, commended the students on their motivation which has led to this success and, drawing a picture of the changing face of America, exhorted them to use their abilities toward the wisest use of the marvels of the times. He reminded them of the many difficult decisions ahead for civilization attendant on the arrival of these marvels.

Many parents were present in the cafeteria to hear the talk and watch the students take their oath of membership from Mr. Niblock. New members joining from this year's senior class join the eleven elected last year who, in addition to Carl Fontneau included: Lance Grenzback, vice-president, Rebecca Pitts, secretary, Peter Fahey.

Kiwanis Fish Derby Is Set For Saturday

Boys and girls of Winchester from pre-school age to the eighth grade are invited to sign up for the Kiwanis Club Fish Derby this Saturday morning, June 6, at Wedge Pond. An eleven-year-old annual Fish Derby has proved to be a popular event for hundreds of young anglers, providing good fun, sportsmanship, and that old children's favorite, a good parade.

REGISTRATION

Registration cards may be obtained at the Winchester Sports Shop on Church Street. The card should be returned to the Sports Shop after being signed by a parent or guardian.

PARENTS

A parent or guardian must accompany each entrant at the Derby, except that one parent or guardian is sufficient if one or more children are registered from the same family.

PARADE

Everyone participating in the Derby meets at the rear of the Town Hall at 9 on Saturday morning to march in the 9:30 parade to Wedge Pond.

FISH DERBY

The Fish Derby starts at 10 o'clock and ends at 1 p.m. Borrow dad's shovel and start digging worms! Only worms may be used as bait, each entrant bringing his own supply. Don't forget to bring a pole to hook the worm and fish onto.

PRIZES

Entrants will take all fish "small enough to carry" to the judges' tables beside the pond when caught. The prizes will be awarded to boys and girls at a later (Kiwanis) Little League Dodgers game after the entries have been correlated by the judges.

AXING OPEN FOR VENTILATION. Winchester firefighters are shown axing open the upper areas of a Highland Avenue house last Thursday to let an attic fire escape upwards through the roof instead of mushrooming across the house and downward. Five firefighters were overcome by smoke, three received minor injuries, and a police sergeant broke his ankle on hose lines below. Mutual aid assistance was sent by Woburn, Arlington, and Stoneham for the two-alarm late-evening fire.

Petitions Return For More Signers From Winchester

The League of Women Voters, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers will circulate petitions in Winchester between June 1 and 22 in order to obtain the additional signatures needed to place on the ballot in November the bill to limit the powers of the Executive Council.

Last fall approximately 125,000 valid signatures were filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, thus bringing to the Legislature a bill removing most of the statutory powers of the Council. In spite of this outpouring of public support, the Legislature (109-109 in the House, the tie being broken by the Speaker, and 20-16 in the Senate) rejected the bill. The sponsors must now gather approximately 12,000 certified signatures to bring the bill to a vote by the people in November. This right of initiative petition to circumvent the Legislature is one of the unique safeguards granted by the State Constitution.

School Committee Votes to Cut Off All Tuition Pupils

The School Committee has just voted to suspend indefinitely its policy of accepting non-resident tuition pupils.

The vote to terminate this policy came about due to the overcrowded conditions in the Winchester schools and in all grades including kindergarten. However, with the exception of kindergarten pupils, any tuition pupil presently enrolled in Winchester may continue through the last grade of high school.

Volpe Defends Mass. Crime Commission

Former Gov. John A. Volpe of 10 Everett Avenue, an announced gubernatorial candidate for re-election, issued a statement Monday defending the establishment of the Massachusetts Crime Commission with his support during his administration, and stated his belief that it is "fulfilling a necessary and valuable function."

The former Republican Governor came to the immediate defense of the child of his administration after Cardinal Cushing said on Sunday he was sorry the Crime Commission had ever been created.

The Roman Catholic leader, appearing on WEEI's "Bay State Forum" radio discussion of the moral climate of government in the Commonwealth, said he believed the state had sufficient law enforcement agencies to expose corruption in state and municipal governments without a crime commission. He laid partial blame for corruption in politics on a "society where everyone lives on credit," which causes many to resort to dishonesty when tragedy, trouble, or financial difficulties strip them of alternative resources. He said there was a better way of handling wrongdoing in public office than to have a crime commission sit in judgment on state officials.

Homeowner Needs Permit to Alter His Septic Tank

Since the May 14 issue of the Star printed a story about septic tank problems in town and a proposed sewer system for Arlington St., Michael Saraco, director of the Winchester Board of Health, has discovered that two private sewage disposal systems have been altered for homeowners by private contractors without the filing of necessary plans and specifications for a permit, and a third has been started without that legal authorization.

According to state law, permits are required not only for constructing septic tank systems in new homes, but also for altering or making changes in existing systems at older homes. The purpose of the law, and the permits, is to ensure that correct sanitary regulations are complied with; both for the homeowner's and the public's protection.

Water, Water . . . Everywhere; Nary A Drop to Spill

"In view of the importance of conserving our water supply and maintaining good service to our customers, particularly in periods of high consumption and operating difficulties, we (would) appreciate your cooperation in these matters," the Water and Sewer Board wrote to the Board of Selectmen this week in requesting that the Fire Department's use of hydrants for other than emergency pumping be restricted.

Hereafter, according to the letter, with the exception of actual firefighting emergencies, the Fire Department was asked to use the hydrants at the North Reservoir for its training purposes rather than pumping the one on Palmer Street by Wedge Pond, so that the water could be returned to the reservoir for use in the town's system and not be taken out and discarded in Wedge Pond.

Automatic Voting Machines Are Rented By Selectmen

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night concluded several months of discussion over types of voting machines for Winchester's voters, and awarded the bid on the rental of 28 voting machines to the Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown, New York.

Proceeding under authorization by the annual Town Meeting, which appropriated $5,010 under Article Fifty-One for rental and transportation costs of 28 voting machines for a one year trial period with the option to turn rental costs toward a purchase price, the Selectmen opened bids from two competing manufacturers this week.

The board split, 3 to 2, over which of the two machines to acquire. Chairman John Lyman and Selectman William Kimball favored the Shoup Company's machine on the grounds that its 250 voting space capacity appeared adequate for all voting needs, appeared more flexible in unit voting patterns, and would only cost in total about $45,000 as opposed to the $50,000 cost of the Automatic Voting Machine Company model. Selectmen Edward Hicks, John Van Dyke, and Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., favored the more expensive model on the grounds that its bank of 450 usable voting spaces offered more for the money, its horizontal instead of vertical (Shoup design) ballot makeup appeared simpler to set up and vote on, and the company's record of service and maintenance in the state were excellent as compared to Shoup's just breaking into sales in the New England area.

Both of the voting machines offered in the bids worked strictly on mechanical principles; employing interlocking systems to prevent either incorrect or "over voting," employing adding tabulators to furnish the counts, and procedural voting devices to insure precisely correct voting methods and countings—with built-in checks and balances.

Firefighters Overcome, Police Officer Injured At $15,000 House Fire

Fireplace Embers Sucked Up Chimney Send Sparks Over Home's Roof; 5 Firefighters Overcome By Smoke, 3 Injured Battling Attic Fire

Five Winchester firefighters were overcome by smoke and a police officer injured while battling a two-alarm house fire at 59 Highland Avenue late Thursday evening, May 28. The rescue and treatment of the overcome and the depletion of manpower hindered firefighting efforts, and mutual aid assistance was sought from Woburn, Arlington and Stoneham Fire Departments.

Fire Chief Frank Amico estimated fire and water damage at $15,000. The home, owned by Rony Snyder, 78, a retired naval officer, caught afire in the attic section when some papers and sparks burning in the fireplace were suddenly swept up the chimney by a draft and sent out over the roof and into the guttering, and later traveled up the eaves and into the attic.

A grandson of Mr. Snyder, Robert Wright, 21, noticed the sparks in the roof gutter and used a garden hose to wet the area down. A short while later an unidentified woman knocked on the door and told the occupants that their house was on fire, and Mrs. Snyder called the Fire Station.

Box Alarm No. 65 was rung from the Station at 10:15 p.m., and Engines 3 and 4 and the Rescue and Ladder Trucks responded with Lieutenant Ernest Howard (newly appointed captain, as of Sunday night) the officer in charge. Upon arriving at the scene and seeing flames licking from the attic and roof area, Lt. Howard ordered a second alarm sounded at 10:18.

The ladder truck backed into the driveway to make use of the aerial ladder from the side of the house, while the engines worked from the front of the house. Hydrants were made, lines laid, and ladders sent up to the roof so firefighters could ventilate the top of the building and let hot gases and flames escape upwards rather than mushrooming sideways and down through the rest of the 14-room, three-story wooden frame house.

Meanwhile, Woburn sent an engine to the Fire Station to cover-in as did Arlington with a ladder truck. Chief Amico requested the Stoneham Fire Department to send a ladder truck to the fire scene for the use of its ladders, as the Winchester ladder truck's ladders couldn't be taken off the truck because the garage was in the way. (Later the garage doors were opened, and the ladders were taken from the back of the truck and raised.)

The officers determined that entry was made by forcing a screen door on the north on the front left side of the home. There were jimmy marks on the door frame, and the lock was later found to be jammed. A storm window was removed, and several panes of glass were broken in an attempt to open the door, then the window. Apparently, at this point, the alarm system went off, for the person or

Welch Appointed To Lieutenant In Fire Department

The Board of Selectmen confirmed Fire Chief Frank Amico's recommendation for the appointment of Firefighter Francis B. Welch to the rank of Lieutenant in the Fire Department on Monday night.

The appointment of Lt. Welch fills a vacancy left in the department's officer rank when Captain Ernest Howard was promoted last week.

Lt. Welch, 39, of 14 East Street, joined the department on July 10.

Artists' Sidewalk Showing Saturday

Saturday, June 6, is "A" day; a day for artists to exhibit their fine works; a day for arts and crafts lovers to wander amongst them; and a day to admire and be proud of the artistic talents of many children in the community. This is the day that the Winchester Art Association is sponsoring the sixth annual Sidewalk Show.

The setting for this colorful event is but a stone's throw from the town center, at the Winchester High School athletic field, along the fence by Mystic Valley Parkway. Original paintings by local artists will be exhibited. Immediately adjacent to the high school fence, on the Unitarian lawn, viewers will also be captivated by lovely works created by inspired craftsmen.

Enhancing the scene still further, will be the exhibits of young artists who will be proudly, and perhaps apprehensively, anticipating the approval and comments of "their public." The atmosphere promises to be one that should afford passers-by pleasant feelings.

As an added attraction a well-known figure, Jane Y. Jawdy, will be on hand, to make charcoal or pastel sketches for those who so desire it, for a reasonable sum. She will be stationed inside the gates of the athletic field.

Hostesses, distinguishable by their straw hats, will be available all day, to answer inquiries, help in the hanging of pictures and to act as custodians of the exhibited works.

Artists from surrounding towns are all invited. There will be a very small charge for registration and a modest commission on sales. The exhibit will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; if inclement weather prevails the event will be postponed to the following Saturday, June 13.

Profits after expenses will be donated by the Winchester Art Association, to the Winchester Art Scholarship Fund.

Persons desiring further information may call PA 9-6255 or PA 9-1431; children's section, PA 9-3966; crafts, PA 9-3607.

Fire

In addition, Lt. Howard was taken to the hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation and exhaustion, auxiliary fireman John Joslin was treated by Dr. Benson for a burned right hand, and firefighter Bernard Styles was treated at the scene for a lacerated finger on his left hand.

Woburn Fire Chief Edward Callahan offered Winchester the use of a fresh crew of men and a truck with extra oxygen equipment, which Chief Amico accepted when the overcome firefighters depleted his firefighting manpower.

Sergeant Andrew Crawford, who was among about a dozen both on and off duty police officers aiding at the scene, suffered an ankle injury when he was taking a stretch-out of the rescue truck and stepped on a hose line and twisted his ankle. He continued working at the fire, but later when his ankle swelled up, he had it X-rayed and discovered that he had a broken bone at the ankle. His leg was put in a cast, and reportedly he will be on crutches for about four to six weeks.

According to Chief Amico, the fire was under control within about an hour after they received the emergency call. However, the firefighters continued putting down and checking for remnants of fire until about 3:15 a.m.

The following morning, several firefighters returned to the fire-damaged home to board up windows and cover the exposed roof area.

Mrs. Thenora Mitton Bigley

Mrs. Thenora (Mitton) Bigley of 205 South Huntington Avenue, Boston, widow of George Bigley and a former resident of Winchester, died Thursday, May 28, in Boston. She had made her home at the Home for Aged Women on South Huntington Avenue in Boston for the past ten years.

Mrs. Bigley was born in Moncton, New Brunswick. She married Mr. Bigley in 1901, and came to Winchester in 1904, living for twenty-five years on Lloyd Street. Her husband, who died in 1950, was widely known in Winchester as a tailor and as a musician. As a young man he was a clarinetist in an English Army Band and he often played the E-flat clarinet with the old Woburn Brass Band with other musical organizations throughout the district. After leaving Lloyd Street, Mrs. Bigley lived for a time on Myrtle Street before going to the Home in Boston.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church, of the Fortnightly Women's Club and of Victoria Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Bigley leaves a son, George Albert Bigley of Worcester; a daughter, Rev. Alice J. Snow of Beloit, Wisconsin; and two grandsons, George A. Snow and John R. Snow, both of Beloit.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Waterman Chapel in Kenmore Square, Boston with the Rev. Arnold G. Hawkins, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church in Jamaica Plain officiating. After cremation interment was in Forest Hills Cemetery.

Lawrence Brown Will Solo With Polymnia Society

Lawrence E. Brown of 441 Highland Avenue will be doing a solo in the last concert of the year for the Polymnia Choral Society. The "Poly-Pops" will be tonight at 8:15 in Memorial Hall, Melrose.

Mr. Brown has been a member of Polymnia for the past four seasons and has been studying voice with Keith Phinney of this town. Ragnar T. Brandt Ragnar T. Brandt, assistant treasurer of the Hersey Paper Lining Company of Melrose died suddenly Friday forenoon, May 29, while working in the yard at his home, 5 Thornton Road. His death was attributed to a heart attack and was wholly unexpected, as he had not complained of feeling ill.

Mr. Brandt was the son of Anders and Maria (Nyquist) Brandt. He was born August 22, 1899, in Worcester, and grew up in that city, graduating from the high school in Worcester. He then came to Boston and entered Boston University College of Business Administration, from which he was graduated in the class of 1924.

He worked as an accountant for Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, an accounting firm of Boston, before joining the Hersey Paper Lining Company in Melrose where during the twenty years he spent with the firm he advanced to the position of auditor and assistant treasurer.

Always interested in singing Mr. Brandt began singing as a boy, and during his years in Worcester he was a charter member of the Mendelssohn singers there. He came to Winchester from Belmont in 1938, and became active in the First Congregational Church, serving the church as deacon and as a past president of the First Congregational Men's Club. He was also a member and past president of the Mystic Glee Club.

Brass Quintet Performs at St. Mary's

The students and faculty of St. Mary's School last Thursday, May 28, were present at a most unusual and beneficial concert in the school hall.

The Boston Committee of Young Audiences, Inc. rendered this exhibition. Mrs. Reuben L. Laurie, member of the National Board of Directors Young Audiences, Inc. accompanied the group as a most interesting and interesting participant.

The New England Brass Quintet section, under the direction of Ralph Pottier, explained to the children the use, purpose and musical significance of the trombone, tuba, French horn and trumpet. The students were then given a question period; a musical selection terminated the program.

This non-profit organization's purpose is "to instill in children the desire for musical participation as performers or listeners." By using the best musical literature, informally presented, and geared to all ages from first grade through college level, students are encouraged to form their own local ensembles or are urged to develop a keener appreciation of the best in music.

Most successful and highly enjoyable was this program. Perhaps the comment of one of the students, "Concerts never interested me before, but you have changed my opinion," gives some indication of the reaction of the audience to the performers.

To Attend Legion Aux. Convention

Mrs. Helen Johnston, president of Winchester Unit No. 97, will attend the 45th annual department convention to be held on June 4, 5 and 6 at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, with delegates Mrs. Sally Miraglia and Mrs. Alice Healy, and other members of the auxiliary.

More than 800 delegates will represent 350 units of the Auxiliary functioning in almost every community in Massachusetts. Reports of accomplishments over the past year will include child welfare with expenditures of more than $75,000; hospital and volunteer workers covering 400 Auxiliary Volunteer Workers; Americanism activities including visits to sixteen Nationalization Courts and numerous essay contests; detailed report of the 20th year conducting Citizenship Course for 250 Girls at Girls State, with special emphasis given to increased Junior Activities performed by more than 3,000 young members throughout the Commonwealth.

Legion Booklet On Scholarships

The American Legion's education and scholarship handbook, "Need a Lift?" lists sources of information about many careers, helpful information about where to study, courses to select, job opportunities, etc.

Also included in this booklet is information about sources of many scholarships. Some may exist in the various local communities, while others may be found in the publications described on the last page of "Need a Lift?"

Winchester American Legion Post No. 97 recently presented copies of this scholarship handbook to the Winchester Public Library and the Winchester High School Library, in hope of aiding the youth of Winchester.

Democratic Town Committee

Chairman McDonald is being flooded with requests from candidates for office in the up-coming Democratic campaign. It seems as though there have never been so many aspiring Democratic candidates, especially for the office of Lieut. Governor. All have requested the opportunity of speaking to our town committee.

The candidates whose fate will be decided at the June convention are, of course, engaged only in meeting with, or speaking to, our convention delegates. Candidates for other offices, such as that of Executive Councillor, County Commissioner, State Senator, etc., will be invited to our meetings, which will take place after the convention, and as always, these meetings will be open to invited guests.

A candidate for Secretary of State, Attorney Peter R. Beatrice, has sent invitations to our committee members to attend a ward and town committee buffet, to be held at Cabot Farms, Somerville, Wednesday, June 3, at 8 p.m. Cocktail hour from 8 to 9.

Our chairman, Elizabeth McDonald, and her husband will be the guests of the newly elected chairman of the Woburn Democratic Ward and City Committee, Lawrence Gilgun, on Friday evening, June 12, at the American Legion Hall in Woburn. This is Woburn's big pre-convention get-together which is held every two years and is always a tremendous success. Following a buffet lunch and talks by the candidates, there will be entertainment and dancing.

Our chairman and Mr. McDonald are in receipt of another invitation, this for Sunday, June 7, from Peter Rainey, who, on that Sunday afternoon, will receive his master's degree at Colgate University in New York. Mrs. McDonald's interest in Peter's academic ambition began 10 years ago. After he comes back to spend a short time with his dad, Harold Rainey of Harvard Street, he will leave for India to pursue further studies as the recipient of one of the highest honors a student can receive, a Rhodes Scholarship.

Peter's mother, who died a short time ago, was a faithful member of the local Democratic Town Committee.

Plans are shaping up for the big July event on our social program, the cookout at the Serika home on Middlesex Street. Because of the tremendous success of the cookout two years ago, the demand for tickets for this year's party is already under way, not only from Winchester, but from surrounding communities.

The special guests at the party will be the candidates nominated at the Democratic convention in West Springfield, June 18, 19, and 20.

Chairman McDonald has received from Senator Edward M. Kennedy a beautifully framed souvenir containing the stamp issued in honor of our late President, John F. Kennedy, and containing, also, a beautiful picture, in color, of the late President, an excerpt from his inaugural, and a personal message from Senator Ted.

Area Chi Rhoers

The Woburn Deaneary, with Chi Rhoers from Arlington and Winchester in key roles, will present a panel of "Liturgy—Promises and Problems" at the fifth Archdiocesan Chi Rho Congress Saturday and Sunday at the Sheraton Plaza. Moderators will include Kathy Kelley of St. Mary's and Elizabeth Fitzpatrick of St. Mary's will be a secretary.

Assist to Muscular Dystrophy Drive

The Winchester Fire Department is spearheading the 1964 Muscular Dystrophy Drive.

In support of the house-to-house march, the fire-fighters are placing election canisters to help fight Muscular Dystrophy. Chairman Captain Ernest Howard and Chief Francis Amico are making the first contribution. The canisters, while raising money for Muscular Dystrophy, gives the donor an opportunity to place their coins in either the generous Democrat or generous Republican side of the coin collector.

Captain Howard hopes that all will support this year's annual appeal in order that the research and patient care program can be continued and expanded.

That's the name of a Broadway show I saw on my last New York business trip and it was very good at that. BUT it's also the price of a custom tailored man's suit from our Custom Shop. On this last trip to New York I was able to obtain some superb imported English fabrics at a superb price (to me and of course to you). We will custom make these fabrics into suits for you according to your exact measurements, to your requested style, and will include any and all other specifications you desire. The price of these suits is $110 and the time of making is one month. These are all medium weight goods for all year wearing. If you are difficult to fit, if you are not satisfied with a "ready-made" suit or if you just plain want a custom suit, I sincerely believe that this is the answer. I know that this is an excellent "buy." You'll know it too when you see the fabrics and wear the suit.

Philathea Reunion

A large group of members of Philathea, a women's organization which for many years was active in the life of the First Baptist Church and this community, gathered at the home of Mrs. Ernest B. Dade on Hillcrest Parkway, on Wednesday evening, May 27. Former members from out of town as well as local members were on hand to renew old friendships.

Mrs. Neil Borden, who has visited in many lands and recently returned from an eight months stay in India, showed a most interesting petti-point account, designed by her husband and executed by herself, of her travels all over the world, as well as slides of life in India. Mrs. Borden is a most charming narrator and gave a long to be remembered pictorial trip to that important country.

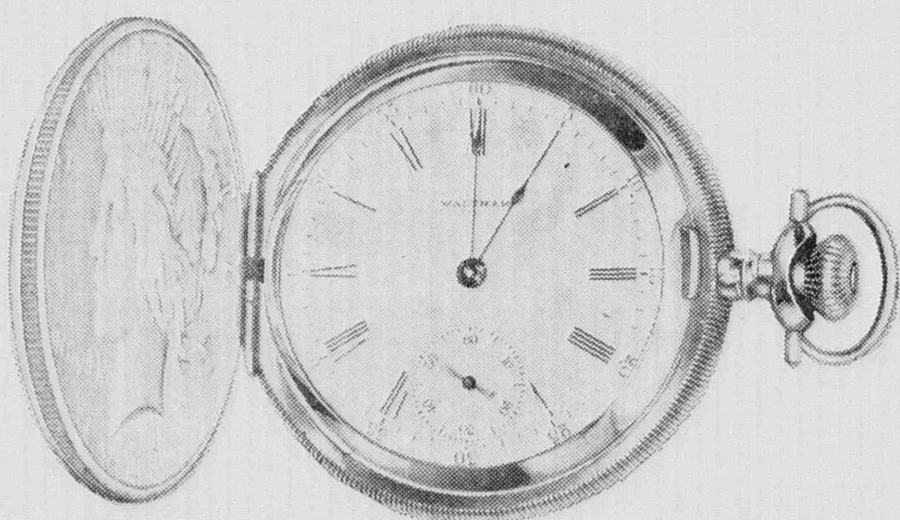

The evening was such a success and so thoroughly enjoyed that another reunion was enthusiastically planned for the fall.

East Middlesex Harvard Club Hears McCord

Last Wednesday night the annual (and ladies) meeting of the Harvard Club of Eastern Middlesex was held at the Winchester Country Club. A good attendance was rewarded by the skilful artistry of David W. T. McCord, Harvard's Poet Laureate, who commented on and read light verse most amusingly.

Mr. McCord, now retired from official capacity at Harvard, has combined over the years the seemingly incongruous skills of raising enormous sums of money from alumni and writing delightfully for publication.

At the brief business meeting preceding Mr. McCord's reading, Richard E. Bennink of 16 Yale Street was elected president, Edward E. Hicks of 4 Churchill Road, vice president, and John D. West, 168 High Street, secretary - treasurer.

H. Gardner Bradlee, retiring president of 46 Lorena Road, and H. Rushton Harwood, Jr., of 30 Ledgewood Road were elected to the executive committee. Philip P. Wadsworth of 66 Oxford Street, chairman of the nominating committee, paid particular tribute to Edward J. Sullivan, Jr., of 5 Plymouth Road, who is retiring after seven years of service as secretary-treasurer.

Duplicate Bridge Club

A gremlin must have slipped into the Star's proofreading department last week. Part of the second sentence in the second paragraph was left out, with disastrous results for the continuity of the text, but the real whopper was changing "In a recent rubber bridge game" to—"In a decent rubber bridge game." Our apologies to Charles Watson, the hero of the story, who could certainly never be accused of being indecent at the bridge table!

The bridge evening on Wednesday, May 27, provided club members with an opportunity to sharpen their skills (and toughen their hides) in preparation for the Individual Championships.

Both Sections A and B were played as seven-table individual winner games based on a 63-point average. The results were:

Section A
Darrell Root	77½
Robert Haskell	77
Ruth Bibby	77
Lee Mitchell	74½
Gerry Lawrence	73½
Nancy Atkinson	70½
Clarence Woodward	68

Ed Mansfield	67
Richard Smith	67
Section B
Lois Seidewitz	81

Mrs. Logan Gives Speech At Desk and Derrick

Mrs. Roberta F. Logan, of 160 Forest Street, association public relations chairman of the Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America and a member of the Bay State Club, was a speaker at their Annual Regional Conference held in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, this past weekend. Mrs. Logan is employed as a secretary at Mobil Oil Company, East Boston.

In her address, "The Future of the Petroleum Industry," Mrs. Logan said, "Despite its 101 years, the oil industry is still a young industry, and constantly looks to the future. A venturesome spirit gave birth to this industry, and that same spirit is now sending all companies into the turbulent North Sea and the frozen Arctic."

She spoke of the intelligence, initiative and competence needed in oil company personnel for the future and she concluded her talk by saying, "Women have the will to accomplish the daring, the difficult and the untried. Through greater knowledge, and service through understanding, petroleum women will give even greater service."

Membership in the Bay State Desk and Derrick Club is open to all women employed in the petroleum and allied industries. Women interested in joining this worthwhile organization can contact Mrs. Logan at the above address or at Mobil Oil Company in East Boston.

Mystic Science Exhibition Is On for Today

If you happen to be in the vicinity of the Mystic School today, you will find yourself caught up in a hustle and bustle of excitement as the sixth grade classes put on their annual Science Exhibition.

Seventy sixth graders under the direction of their science teacher, Margaret Millican, are displaying today their many projects, demonstrations, posters, pieces of apparatus and models which represent their year's work in science.

A strange and varied collection of boxes, bottles, wires, batteries, lights, bells, buzzers, etc., engage the interest of the younger members of the Mystic School as they wander about inspecting, manipulating and listening to the explanations of the exhibitors. There are electric answer boards, lights, prisms, and lenses to look into, also magnetic and electrical circuits to ponder over.

Atom models hang on wires over their heads. At one table, they can listen to strange and wonderful sounds created by tuning forks, bottles, and wires, while in other corners of the hall they witness experiments involving air and water, color and light, etc.

From 3 to 6 p.m., parents will arrive to inspect their children's efforts and to ask questions.

Most of all, it is fine to see the interest and enthusiasm being exhibited by the sixth grade pupils as they "entertain" their audiences. Their teachers feel that if at Mystic they can lay the cornerstone and open some doors for the boys and girls, they have realized the primary goal in elementary science education.

Editorials:

The Day The World Held Its Breath

Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel gazed thoughtfully across the beach that stretched north from Cherbourg. "You have no idea," he related to an aide, "how difficult it is to convince these people. It's obvious that if the enemy gets his foot in, he'll put every anti-tank gun and tank he can into the bridgehead and let us beat our heads against it, as he did at Medenine. To break through such a front you have to attack slowly and methodically, under cover of massed artillery, but we, of course, thanks to the Allied Air Forces, will have nothing there in time."

In the early hours of June 6, 1944—twenty years ago this week—Rommel's bleak prophecy began to unravel. Shortly after midnight, under a full moon, thousands of American and British paratroopers drifted out of the sky and landed on French soil. Later, the greatest naval armada the world has ever seen—more than 4500 vessels—appeared off the coast of Normandy between Cherbourg and LeHavre. By 5:30 a.m., the first wave of the Allied invasion force was heading toward beaches designated with the code names of Omaha, Utah, Sword, Juno and Gold.

For the British it was a day that had been looked forward to since the ignominy of Dunkirk; for the Americans it was the inevitable day when you pick yourself up and take the initiative; for Adolf Hitler it was the realization of a constant fear that had imbedded itself inside that fibre of frailty he tried to cover with fits of anger. For the entire world it was D-Day, and at its end the pendulum of fate would have struck a new page in history.

It was a day that no matter who you were or where you were or what you were doing you stopped and thought about a great battle, and about the men who were involved in it, and about the consequences of defeat. In a thousand different ways you prayed that the German army would be defeated. You looked at the people you passed on the street, and you knew that they were thinking exactly as you. You felt a little frightened about it all. Truly, it was a day that the whole world held its breath.

In that single day the Allies suffered between 10 and 12,000 casualties; the Germans almost 9,000. Through air superiority the initial foothold was maintained. On June 13 Rommel wrote to his wife: "The long-husbanded strength of the two world powers is now coming into action . . . We are doing what we can. I often think of you at home, with heartfelt wishes and the hope that everything can still be guided to a tolerable end." By July Rommel estimated his casualties were "28 generals, 354 commanders and approximately 250,000 men."

It has been suggested that on that day the war ended for Germany, and she would never again be a country powerful enough to take up the ways of war. Rommel, ironically, had hoped that the Allies would be stopped on the beaches, and that eventually the West would join a new Germany against Bolshevism on the Eastern front. Supported by General Hans Speidel and other officers, the possibilities of such a move had been seriously discussed.

Rommel's dream of a "new" Germany meant a country under democratic ideals. If he had lived he would have witnessed only a fractional realization of this. Last year, many of the German veterans of Normandy, including General Speidel, greeted a young American president in the divided city of Berlin. What they heard they did not expect. They heard not words that echoed of the gunfire and bombs of two world wars, that did not uncover the dust that lay thick upon the bunkers at Saint-Marconi, but rather that spoke eloquently of a common brotherhood and a common destiny in a world in which all things pass. Voting Machine Decision

This week's decision by the Board of Selectmen on the awarding of the rental contract for voting machines for Winchester's voters to use in elections, as authorized by the Town Meeting, had several interesting aspects to it.

First of all, the Selectmen did a very thorough and fine job in looking at, going over, investigating and analyzing the various competing models offered. Their decision took several months in the making—much on the long side for an executive decision—but no one can say, on the other hand, that they didn't really look into what made the machines tick and how they differed from each other.

Whoever first thought of bringing voting machines to Winchester to make voting more attractive to voters, to speed and guarantee accurate returns, and to ultimately cut down on election costs through "mechanization," indeed, has done a service to the town. It was an excellent idea—albeit somewhat overdue for this modern New England town. The Board of Registrars of Voters deserves commendation for the way in which they have carried through with the idea and sought to obtain them; even though, to some degree, it has appeared along the course of discourse that their minds and hearts were set on one of the two competing machines from the beginning, and that was the one which the Selectmen finally favored by a narrow 3 to 2 margin. In any event, both machines offered were of high quality and either would have satisfied the town's needs sufficiently. The one selected has several added features that make it an exceptionally fine machine, and one which is sure to please the voters—who will be paying for them and using them.

The renting of voting machines for a year is a clever arrangement. It is clever in that if the ones rented are not to the town's liking they can be returned with only a $5,000 rental cost as opposed to a $50,000 cost if purchased outright and then considered a poor expense or a loss. On the other hand, once rented and found desirable, the town is sure to go along with purchasing them . . . a very enticing sales gimmick . . . and that is clever in that since the rental charge can be applied to the purchase price it would be wholly unlikely that anyone would dare suggest that the purchase be set out on open bid (as it was for the rentals) and "lose" the $5,000 already spent.

In awarding the bids, the Selectmen asked for complete purchase and financing prices, knowing that this would be the case. However, since they were only renting the machines, they were not confined to the lowest bidder clause in the purchasing of public equipment. And, in fact, the bid award did go to the highest bidder (if purchased) by a few thousand dollars.

Approximately two hours before they made their decision, the Selectmen gave the Town Comptroller a set of figures and asked him to work out a cost analysis on the machines to get a clear picture of the price differences in "real" and comprehensible terms, since the machines and the accountings were not exactly like comparing apples and apples, but more like apples and pears. This is where the Selectmen's decision-making procedure was lacking in true executive character, and why the decision was so long in the making.

The Selectmen solicited the aid and opinions of the Registrars in looking into the machines, for they would be the ones overseeing their uses. However, they neglected to bring the Comptroller into the picture until two hours before they were to make their important ($50,000 worth of capital expenditure for town equipment) decision. Why then do we have a Comptroller? Wasn't this type of function specifically why the town and the state voted to create the post?

At the outset the Comptroller was the most logical man to do a relative cost and efficiency analysis between the two machines, prepare and compare statistics on their operation and capacities, and gather information about each from other communities and states and even from the companies themselves and their engineers. The Comptroller, a very capable and thorough individual, has done this type of comptrollership work before (for the town's purchase of accounting machines, for example), and has displayed his expertise in this type of function. Instead, after many discussions over opinions and sales talks, the Selectmen finally asked the Comptroller to whip up a comprehensible picture that they could get their teeth into and make a decision.

A lot of time and effort, plus a more efficient executive handling of the situation, could have been achieved by the Selectmen if they had employed to full advantage the delegated resources they had at hand from the beginning. Their decision then would have been easier to make, and more satisfying.

An Analytical, Critical Look At Little League: "Little League Lunacy"

By Jean J. McCarthy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR HEALTH & PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND BASEBALL COACH AT MANKATO STATE COLLEGE IN MINNESOTA
COPYRIGHT 1963, DEPARTMENT OF ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PRINCIPALS, NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

One of our most cherished democratic tenets is equality of opportunity. Little Leagues and their prototypes are essentially in opposition to this principle in much of their practice. The proponents of Little League reply that more boys play baseball now than ever before. While this is true, it is not an adequate response to the charge. There are more boys in the Little League age bracket today than there were in the days before Little Leagues. Furthermore, the question is not so much one of how many boys participate but of how they participate. It is the nature and quality of participation which has become of increasing concern to educators and child development authorities.

Young ball players and would-be players have birthdays every year. They do not continue in Little League forever. Therefore, what happens—and even what does not happen—during this age period is basic to what follows in both a baseball sense and a growth and development sense to every boy touched by the program's influence. It is to these long-term results that one must look for the real test of these baseball programs for young boys. The potential intrinsic values are too frequently neglected for the extrinsic glitter of numbers, money, attendance, and tournaments—all part of the frantic pursuit to justify the program quantitatively instead of qualitatively.

Little Leaguers Are Not Adults

One of the first things Little League administrators must learn is that the boys in their charge are just that. They are not junior adults. Nor do they normally live in a scaled-down adult world. They are in a stage of growth and development just as distinct from adulthood as is the fetal stage. To fail to recognize this simple fact or to choose to ignore it will result in the same kind of fiasco which has occurred when affluent countries have tried to "help" underprivileged nations by imposing their culture upon them. The super-structuring of childhood with adult standards, values, and aims is totally unrealistic and completely incompatible with the needs, interests, and capacities of this age group. Most of these boys are not mature enough, psychologically or emotionally, to cope with the full-blown adult pattern of success oriented with its tensions and frustrations.

There are probably few adults active in these programs who would willingly and maliciously exploit the boys for personal aggrandizement or financial gain. But there are those who unwittingly produce equally disastrous results by seeking through the boys the fulfillment of their own aborted athletic careers or the furtherance of family prestige. Competitive baseball creates a highly emotionalized atmosphere—an atmosphere which can and should be used to mold worthwhile values and not to create the attitudes too often encouraged by baiting the umpire, evaluating the scoreboard, or deriding players.

The pressures to become a Little Leaguer are real and potent. Parental urging, peer pressures, mass media propaganda, and even bubble gum wrappers—all encourage the young boy to participate in our national pastime. It behooves those responsible for Little Leagues to make these pressures a force for sanity in child development.

The entire pattern of trades, league standings, all-star teams, tournaments, major-minor classifications, identification with a single position, awards, and publicity establishes firmly in the boys' minds abilities. It does so at a time in their lives when there may be a difference of as many as ten years in their psychological ages but only four years in their chronological ages. This premature assessment of ability works at least two disservices. It gives false values to some boys who mature early physically and frustrates those who will mature later. The situation is particularly bad for the late developer who may potentially be a great athlete but is inhibited from realizing his potential by premature stereotyping. This ability division is customarily emphasized and perpetuated in many high school and college athletic programs where the major portion of money, equipment, facilities, and attention goes to the best athletes. Are these abuses conducive to equality of opportunity? Do they stimulate sound psycho-emotional development or enhance the development of baseball abilities in young boys?

Quite recently, the baseball enthusiast has been shaken by medical reports that pitchers of Little League are frequently afflicted with injuries to their throwing arm elbows. This is apparently a consequence of too much strain upon a physiologically immature articulation and musculature. The need for personnel who thoroughly understand the physical and psychological demands of competitive baseball on young boys is obvious.

This year has witnessed a return to an old rule governing the vertical distance of the strike zone. The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and professional baseball have all adopted the knees-to-shoulder delineation of the strike zone. The Little League has decided to remain steadfastly with the knees-to-armpits zone. Aside from the questionable practice of asking eight-to-thirteen-year-olds to do what has been adjudged too difficult for professionals, there are some serious reservations about the status of hand-eye coordination in this age group with respect to pitching control. The net result is an excessive number of walks or else boys develop a poor estimate of the size of the strike zone because of loose interpretation by the umpires.

Many Little League pitchers cannot throw strikes consistently enough to encourage sound hitting techniques. The hitters are too frequently sent to the plate with instructions to wait for a walk unless the count reaches two strikes. If an enlarged strike zone would give the pitchers too great an advantage or increase the danger of head injuries, a more reasonable solution would be to lengthen the pitching distance and use the standard strike zone employed throughout the rest of baseball.

Inadequate Adult Leadership

Little League officials need to examine the adequacy of their personnel. The vast majority are parents with somewhat less than Dr. Spock's understanding of child growth and development and only a spectator's knowledge of baseball. The wonder that any players of consequence are produced rests with the mathematical probability of the numbers and the surprisingly elastic constitutions of youth. The myopic view that volunteers armed with pamphlets from the national office and fortified by a clinic or two can even remotely approach the calibre of people produced by years of experience on the diamond and by professional education in child development is pathetic.

Educational psychologists tell us that children of this age group learn motor skills best through imitation. Since former ball players of any noteworthy skill are definitely rare in Little League coaching and managing circles, just whom do these neophytes imitate? Whether the answer be each other or the inadequate efforts of some volunteer coach, the net result is a regression from potential excellence toward mediocrity. One could only hazard a guess on how many potentially fine players either have been deterred completely from baseball or have had to agonizingly relearn a skill which had been mis-taught.

Many of these same coaches try to identify the boys with a single position in baseball. Beside the paternalism of not giving all boys a fundamental background in all of the baseball skills, the validity of position designation by untrained coaches is quite suspect. It is significant to note the frequency with which high school, college, and professional coaches change the positions of boys who come to them and the way they use many players in several positions. Better coaching at a young age and a change of emphasis from competition to instruction would fit many more round pegs in round holes and submit boys to the next step of baseball competition at a far higher skill level. It is unfortunate that the reward for excellence in coaching is too often a promotion to working with youth of an older age, when in reality the very best instruction is needed in the beginning stages of the sport.

It should also be observed that the image presented by many Little League officials leaves a great deal to be desired. The interested parents or observer has a good deal of difficulty in generating enthusiasm and support and fully discharging his responsibility to the program when some of these officials neither exhibit an intelligent understanding of baseball or children nor communicate so as to engender confidence in their program.

Competition vs. Instruction

It would also seem in Little League programs that competition is emphasized in lieu of and to the detriment of instruction. The extent of the competition should depend upon the particular needs of a given group of boys. It is pointless to extend competitive schedules beyond the degree which satisfies the players.

BOOK REVIEW

by Ann M. Anderson
Winchester Public Library

ULYSSES FOUND

by Erle Bradford

Since classical times people have been busy speculating about Ulysses and attempting to trace his protracted and unlucky voyage home from the Trojan War. Scholars are still divided in their opinions on the Odyssey. Was Ulysses a historical figure, a composite, a sheer invention? Was the Odyssey written by one man, by many different people, or was Homer actually a woman?

Erle Bradford has no doubt that Ulysses was an actual historical personage who made the ten-year journey from Troy to Ithaca. In this work he takes exception more than once to the statement made in the 14th edition of Encyclopedia Britannica which states the Odyssey is pure fiction. Incidentally, later editions are not so dogmatic.

Bradford's confidence in the actuality of Ulysses extends to a description. At the beginning of the voyage Ulysses was in his early thirties, a short-legged, red-haired man with a tip-tilted beard. He walked with a sailor's rolling gait and probably had a slight limp.

The author proceeds in the same positive way throughout the book. He locates the Land of the Lotus Eaters, the cave of Polyphemus, the giant who breakfasted on one of the crew each morning, the Island of Aeolus, God of the Winds, the quiet harbor where all but one of the ships were destroyed by the Laestrygonians, the dangerous waters of Scylla and Charybdis, Aree's Island—all the stopping places of the Greek voyagers.

In each case Bradford compares the geography of his location with Homer's description, discusses winds, currents and the suggesting changes which would necessarily have taken place in the last three thousand years. He proves, to his own satisfaction at least, that this was the actual place.

He does not claim that Homer made the voyage himself or necessarily visited any of the places mentioned, merely that a writer with a sensitive ear can describe accurately places which he has never seen from listening to the stories of travellers.

While many of his arguments make sense, we feel that in certain places he cuts his coat according to the cloth. The floating island of Aeolus which seems to place Aeolus' home in the realm of the imagination, Bradford explains away as only seeming to float, the description, "around the isle there runs an unbroken wall of bronze," he says could be an idiom much like the modern description of an "ironbound" coast, which may be just as puzzling to a historian 3000 years from now. The noises of Scylla which Homer describes as a bark or yelp, Bradford says could be caused by the wind blowing in the numerous caves on the rock, although he himself has never heard it.

In spite of these weak points however, we find the author's enthusiasm engaging and many of his arguments persuasive. He is well qualified for the job of tracing the voyage and is an ex-officer of the Royal Navy who spent his war years in the Mediterranean sailing the very waters where Ulysses is supposed to have voyaged, and his hobbies include classical literature and sailing.

He writes with charm and imagination and his descriptions are vivid. A map of the Mediterranean and a chronology of the events adds much to the satisfaction of tracing the voyage. Perhaps this book will send more readers back to a translation of the Odyssey.

Former Pk Comm. Protests Star's Wedge Editorial

Editor of the Star:

I must strongly protest the tone of your editorial last week on the "Tragedy at Wedge Pond" which put the entire blame on the Park Board. As a former member of that board I know the problems involved.

In the past the board have erected signs which have not only been ignored but many times destroyed by people who wished to swim on any hot day, week-end or middle of the week. The beach is "closed" when the beach house is locked and no life-guards are present and ignorance of the law is no excuse for violating the ordinance.

It is almost impossible to engage life-guards during May and early June when colleges are still in session and older men or women are not available because of other jobs. Even were it possible the board cannot patrol the beach, night and day, during the week when people, ignoring the law, choose to use the beaches. Neither could the board anticipate, if the guards were available, a hot week-end.

The problem again comes down to the increasing lack of parental supervision and discipline. If children will disobey the laws the parents must accept responsibility.

Finally in answer to a letter published the same day as your editorial... it is impossible to bulldoze the holes because of currents and springs present in Wedge Pond. Even were it possible, children who are unwatched have drowned in two feet of water.

Sincerely,
Eugene M. Pollard

Civil Rights Bill Constitutionally Disputes Rights

Editor of the Star:

I have just studied the 1963 Civil Rights Bill as passed by the House of Representatives. I have also compared it section by section, with the United States Constitution. I see one obvious conclusion, that the bill as written, makes a farce of the United States Constitution.

I can see no honest possibility of amending the bill to make it fit within the legal framework of our Constitution. Who, even under extreme political pressure, would take a cup of arsenic, add a few egg whites, some sugar, flour, and flavoring to make it palatable, call it Angel Food Cake, and feed it to his hungry family? The death of liberty and justice is as certain to follow the first as the second.

I would urge each citizen of Winchester if you care at all about your freedom, to investigate the Civil Rights Bill and write your senators. A copy of the bill (about 30 minutes reading) and an analysis of it (also about 30 minutes reading) may be obtained by writing a letter to: Commonwealth of Virginia, Commission on Constitutional Government, 605 Travellers Building, Richmond, Virginia 23219.

Sincerely,
Jack A. Wilson

Canine Officer Fines Owners Of Unlicensed Dogs

Editor of the Star:

Please inform your readers that all owners of unlicensed dogs are now subject to a $15 fine.

The 1964 license period started in March and dog owners have had two months to secure a 1964 license from the Town Clerk.

The Winchester Dog Officer is now checking on dog owners and will bring complaints against any owner or keeper of a dog three months or older which has not been duly licensed and tagged.

Unlicensed dogs will be picked up and turned over to Harvard Medical School if not claimed within the time prescribed by State Law.

Very truly yours,
William T. Ryerson

Beautification At Town Hall Noted By Pleased Writer

Editor of the Star:

How pleased we were to see the beautiful transformation which has been achieved on the Town Hall grounds just in time for the Memorial Day parade and patriotic exercises.

To those of us who are natives of the town, the Town Hall building enjoys a nostalgic memory. In our school days it housed the Public Library and we loved books spent many happy hours there. Our high school graduations were held in the Town Hall auditorium and we enjoyed lectures and dancing parties there. Through the foresight of recent Town Meetings we have voted to improve the Board rooms and offices inside the hall and brace up the steps.

Now, the grounds have received long over-due attention. To custodian Frank Muraco and assistant Anthony Barboro, whose interest in beautifying our main community building was responsible for the lovely improvement, we must extend our thanks. Thanks, too, to the Board of Selectmen, who approved the idea and the design.

John Horn In Special Thanks To Paraders

Editor of the Star:

As Marshal of the Memorial Day Parade, I should like sincerely to thank all those who participated in making this parade outstanding in every way. It is difficult to express my gratitude to the marchers and spectators who contributed so much in giving the Town another fine Memorial Day Observation.

Our Board of Selectmen gave the committee the utmost in cooperation in carrying out our plans. To Chief Joseph Derro of the Police Department and Chief I. Francis Amico of the Fire Department many thanks for sending detailed groups for this observation.

Our deepest appreciation is extended to Rev. H. Newton Clay of The Crawford Memorial Methodist Church and to Rev. Francis X. Turke of St. Mary's Church for delivering invocation at Calvary and Wildwood Cemeteries.

The Commanders of the Veterans Organizations; James Rae, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Fred Cause, American Legion; Emilio DiLoreto, Italian American Veterans; are all to be commended for their cooperation in making arrangements for their units to march.

A thank you to Arthur Collins who made the arrangements for wreaths at the two cemeteries and at Leonard Field, the Honor Roll and the Junior High Memorial.

In the music department we had our fine High School Band and the Elementary School Band under the direction of Frederick J. Murray. They were well received along the parade route.

The snappy precision of the Immaculate Conception Senior and Junior Drum and Bugle Corps and Girls Drill Team, (220 strong) escorted by their pastor, Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, was an outstanding feature of the parade.

The Boston Fire Department Band under the direction of Mr. Robert Cook was equally fine as last year's performance.

The unit from the U. S. S. H. Purvis (DDT09) added a great deal of color to our parade along with the Woburn National Guard Co. A. 22nd. Transportation made their traditional fine appearance.

Auxiliary Police Chief Fred Weir and his officers did a splendid job, along with the Civilian Defense and American Red Cross with their two-way radio cars.

The newly formed Rainbow Drill Team of Winchester and Woburn, Winchester Assembly No. 50, parading in their first Memorial Day Parade, added much color and precision marching. A numerous group of Boy Scouts did a fine job marching the entire route.

To all units which participated a final thanks for a job well done. It is not our intent to slight anyone yet we feel that we should try and single out those organizations and individuals who contributed so much to the success of the parade.

I should also like to thank all the Veterans that helped in decorating the veterans graves. To superintendents James A. Wakefield, Jr., Highway Department and Herbert (Babe) Mullen, Park Department a thank you for their cooperation.

A vote of thanks to my committee: James Rae, Gordo H. Horn, Jr., Clem Landry, John Collins, Paul Connors and Charles Cogan of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Sincerely,
John T. Horn, chairman
Memorial Day Committee

"Little League Lunacy"

Whenever a game is played, there must be a winner and a loser. This particular brand of idiocy is projected from community league play through the ridiculous course of city, state, regional, national, and even international championships.

Since when did one game ever decide decisively which is the better team? What, then, is the object of single elimination competition for this age group? After such an enforced competitive experience, should his team be fortunate to continue to win, what is there for a Little Leaguer to look forward to in high school, college, or professional baseball? Were the teams in the final phases of state, national, and international play so much better than those on the league and city level that the additional competition was significantly educational in its broadest sense? Or could the money, time, and effort have been put to better use for all Little Leaguers.

Suggestions for Better Little League Programs

Little League is potentially a fine activity. It can help boys to increase their ability in a great sport and can help them form some valuable attitudes and concepts. The following suggestions are offered, therefore, in the hope that they may help to alleviate some of the manifest shortcomings of the program. The list is not all-inclusive; there are probably many other fine procedures in use in various leagues. Nor is the listing of these suggestions meant to convey the impression that none of these techniques are employed. Many are used in Little Leagues where a rational approach to youth baseball is taken.

1. Use the money now spent on uniforms, unnecessary equipment, awards, stadiums, and travel to: a) institute a long-term, continuous, compulsory educational program to train Little League officials and volunteers at the team level, and b) pay qualified people to supervise and manage the program at the administrative and league levels.

2. Solicit help among qualified people to supervise and coach the teams—people who know both baseball and children. Or if these qualifications cannot be found in one person, attempt to secure the services of two or more people with complementary qualifications: for example, active teachers, physical educators, and coaches; housewives who have degrees in education, recreation, sociology, child welfare, and psychology; advanced college students in these fields of study; retired teachers; psychologists; doctors; trained recreation leaders; sociologists; child welfare specialists; and former professional, semi-professional, and collegiate ball players. Trained physical education and recreation people have a professional obligation to assist in these programs when schedules permit.

3. Eliminate tournaments, playoffs, league standings, all-star teams, and most of the statistics ordinarily kept in organized baseball.

4. Eliminate trophies, awards, jackets, all-star teams, and publicity playing up the accomplishments of individual players and teams rather than the total program and its objectives.

5. Reduce uniforms to caps and either T shirts or sweatshirts.

6. Confine travel to the immediate locale.

7. Eliminate grandstands, lights, and any other contrivances fashioned in the adult pattern chiefly for the comfort of adults.

8. Reduce to three per game the maximum innings played at a given position by a single player. All team members should play at least one-half of every ball game.

9. Prohibit pitchers from pitching two days in succession whether in regular games, scrimmage games, or batting practice.

10. Play a round-robin schedule with the closest teams, the number of these teams to be determined by proximity rather than variety; the number of league games to be limited to one per week with a maximum of twelve per summer.

11. Eliminate designated umpires. Use the coaches and managers in this capacity and encourage the boys to handle the tactical aspects of the game.

12. Strictly enforce a rule prohibiting adults, except official man-ers and coaches, from any contact with the boys during a game.

13. Eliminate all trading and swapping procedures.

14. Eliminate major and minor classifications.

15. Establish geographical areas for team and league memberships. Limit team size to fifteen and establish team rosters by lot taken from a general registration by age group of all interested boys.

16. Abolish the traditional three outs per inning. Instead, use the complete lineup sequence each inning so that every player bats. Outs then remove potential runs, but do not hasten the end of the inning and prevent some from a turn at bat.

17. Scale down baseball standards to suit the capacities of the boys at the various age levels; e.g., length of game (number of innings), number of games, base line length, and pitching distance (so that pitchers neither can dominate the game nor must strain).

18. Limit practices to two two-hour sessions a week on days other than game days. Practices would be primarily instructional, not competitive.

19. Prohibit any father from coaching or managing his son's team.

These suggestions are intended to maximize the quality of opportunity for boys in Little League without injecting any inhibitory factors which may reduce optimum baseball and emotional development. As with any educational effort, we must never lose sight of the program's aim. The ends of Little League have frequently been used to justify the means, even though the ends have never been appraised. Attention must be refocused from extrinsic to intrinsic values and Little League personnel must be more concerned with meaningful ends.

The issue is not the elimination vs. the expansion of Little League baseball programs. Rather it involves returning more of childhood to children and more baseball to baseball people through a program characterized by moderate scope and sane administration. This program could be Little League baseball.

Machines

The 28 Automatic Voting Machines, and six additional ones to be loaned by the company, are due to be delivered on or before August 1, and will be used in the school voting sites in the six precincts for the national, state and local elections during the year until August 1965.

The machines contracted for have been examined and approved by the State Board of Machine Examiners. The use of voting machines is becoming more and more prevalent in the Commonwealth, and they have been used for many years in large cities. (Boston has used them for nearly 30 years.) Reported, the machines give little, if any, maintenance problems, and their returns are final when completed. This means that recounts in Winchester could be precluded with the acquiring of voting machines.

At the next annual Town Meeting in March, 1965, if the townspeople like and "take" to the new voting machines, the Selectmen will in all probability insert an article in the Warrant to set up a purchasing schedule for the machines over several years. Although the quoted bid included a purchase schedule with interest charges over about a five year time, it is likely that the Selectmen will request a municipal bond to purchase them and reduce the interest cost.

Graduation

The large number who go on to two or four year colleges are planning this year to study all over the country. They will go to the Ivy League colleges, to the service colleges, to state universities including those in Iowa, Arizona and Utah. The road of study, tests and exams for many of them will continue for some time ahead. For those going to work and those going to study, Sunday is just a beginning.

The no-school fire signal will be blown at 5 p.m. if the exercises are to be canceled.

Petitions

The new petitions are yellow in color and will be circulated on a house by house basis by members of the League, Jaycees and Tax-payers. Petitions will also be located in The Public Library and at the Star office. The signatures must be those of persons who did not previously sign the initial petition.

Any person wishing to sign the new petition may telephone Mrs. James R. Willoughby, PA 9-5137, Mrs. Bernard Smith, PA 9-0584 or Robert McNamara, PA 9-4328.

Teachers' Group Concludes Year

Tuesday, May 26, was the occasion of the annual dinner meeting held by the Winchester Teachers' Association to honor their departing members, and conclude the business of the year.

The affair again took place at the King's Grant in Peabody, with Dr. Harry Gilson, superintendent of schools, members of the School Committee, and four former Winchester Teachers as honored guests, in addition to those whom the association wished to honor in farewell. The former teachers attending were: Mrs. Mary Mead, Mrs. Louise Bone, Miss Helen Cullen, and Wade Grindle, who was present with Mrs. Grindle.

After a social hour a banquet was enjoyed, following which outgoing president Henry Fitts conducted a short business meeting for the purpose of electing the new officers. At the head table were seated Dr. Gilson, Mr. Fitts, Lewis Knight, the newly elected president, Miss Marian Phipps, Miss Minnetta Jurgenson, Mrs. Esther Laughner, and Miss Pauline Goodrich. Mrs. Fitts and Mrs. Lewis were also there.

Miss Marian Phipps, who has served the Winchester Schools for twenty years, first as reading consultant, then as reading director, is leaving the Winchester system permanently, and was presented with the association's farewell gift by Mr. Fitts. Miss Jurgenson, retiring principal of the Noonan School, was presented with a gift on behalf of the association by Miss Leonore Rich, principal of the Washington School. Mrs. Lenna Travis, head of the science department in the Winchester High School, presented a gift to Miss Pauline Goodrich who is retiring from the high school art department and Miss Margaret Millican of the Mystic School did the honors for her retiring colleague Mrs. Esther Laughner.

Many warm wishes and expressions of loss marked the presentations and Dr. Gilson spoke of the long and valuable service of all four departing teachers.

Arrangements for the banquet were made by the staff of the Wynnan School, under the direction of Ann Dolan, committee chairman. The officers for the ensuing year are: for president, Lewis Knight, Senior High School; vice president, Mrs. Janet Green, Wyman School; secretary, Miss Charlotte LeClair, McCall Junior High and treasurer, Sybil Daniels, Senior High School.

Winchester Garden Club Hears Talk

The hostesses for the annual meeting of the Winchester Garden Club were Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, Mrs. Edward B. Mansfield and Mrs. Frank J. Robinson. It was held at the home of Mrs. Aitken on Thursday, May 28.

Mrs. Frederick A. Russell presided at the coffee table. The centerpiece by Mrs. Mansfield consisted of pink and blue delphiniums, mauve Fuji chrysanthemums and delicately shaded gerberas which blended with the decor of the dining room.

At the business meeting Mrs. Harold F. Meyers, president, displayed the two awards given to the club. The first was from the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and Sears Roebuck Company, for the planting at the entrance to the Winchester Hospital. The second was from the federation for outstanding achievement in garden club work.

It was announced that Mrs. Warren C. Whitman and Miss Corinne Mead had been appointed to serve on the Winchester conservation Commission.

Mrs. Harold M. Twombly urged all to attend the Horticultural Meeting at the Waltham Field Station on June 29.

The following slate was unanimously voted for 1964-65: Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, president; Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick, vice president; Mrs. Hazen H. Ayer, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank J. Robinson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Philip Boone, treasurer; Mrs. Chandler W. Symmes, program chairman and Mrs. Edward V. French, Mrs. Philip W. Wadsworth and Mrs. Percy Bugbee, nominating committee.

The guest speaker, Mr. Michael Abdul, A. J. D., spoke on interior decorating, a subject dear to the hearts of all women. He combined drapery materials, glass curtains and swatches of rugs demonstrating how contrasting colors brought together can help or hurt each other. He stressed the fact that all rooms must have the personality of the owner rather than of the decorator. Mr. Abdul spoke in an easy and fascinating manner. He was interrupted many times by enthusiastic applause from his audience.

Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini deserves special credit for this fine program. The afternoon ended with a walk through the gardens most of which had been planned and planted by Dr. and Mrs. Aitken.

MMM Lawn Party To Rebuild At Tanganyika

The M. M. M. are holding their annual Lawn Party this Saturday, June 6 on the grounds of the Sisters at 1 Arlington Street, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The customary welcome sign is out for all friends and neighbors. The booths will offer choice summer articles, and the best cakes produced in Winchester kitchens, especially for the cake table. The Sisters will serve their now famous chicken dinner for all comers.

The difference this year is made by the urgency of needs in Tanganyika. Word has come from Mother M. Therese, well known to local friends as the superior of the M. M. M. in Winchester from 1952 to 1959, that her present hospital mission in Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika was leveled to the ground by an earthquake on May 18. Nothing is left of the assemblage of 15 buildings—wards, operating rooms, x-ray department and convent are demolished.

News of the disaster was a blow to Mother M. Helena, present superior in Winchester, who pioneered this hospital mission and was responsible for its erection into a first class hospital. Decision to benefit the mission by the results of the lawn party therefore is most pleasing to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hall, of 60 Yale Street, recently attended a seminar of the American Association of Hospital Accountants held at Woodstock Inn, Woodstock, Vermont. The subject of the seminar was paperwork simplification in hospitals and was presented by associates of Mr. Hall, who is district manager for the Standard Register Co. of Dayton, Ohio.

Lobster Tomorrow Nite; Bean Supper Sat. at Elks Home

There will be some week-end activity at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue, with the regular Friday lobster night on as usual, and a fine bean supper on Saturday.

Tomorrow night a new feature will be added to the regular lobster, steamers and quahogs served from seven on. Each of the diners will be given a number. There will be a drawing, the holder of the lucky number to win a five-pound live, rambunctious and m-e-a-n lobster ready to do battle with anyone who tries to take him home. Should one of the ladies present win, it will be interesting to see how she handles him.

Members and guests are cordially invited to attend the lobster night.

The following evening, Saturday, June 6, there will be a bean supper served from five to seven. This is strictly an Elks family affair, at which members and wives will pay the nominal charge for the supper, and all children of the family under 18 will be served free. What a break for a member with a large family!

These two fine affairs are well worth attending. Try to make it for both.

WHEN THE WINNING FARM directors and members met last week they made plans for the summer and also elected officers and directors, among whom were, above seated, left to right, Mrs. George A. Winning Farm Directors Plan An Expansion

At the annual meeting of the Winning Farm membership and board of directors plans were announced by Thomas J. Martin, president, for a new camping committee and a new plan of expansion of day camp facilities.

Making up the new committee on camping will be all corporation officers plus Fred McCormack, Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, Charles A. Murphy, Miles R. Weaver and Paul J. Whitney of Winchester, in addition to John J. Black and Albert J. Wall.

The 30 or more present also heard Mr. Martin define plans for an expansion of day camp facilities which should mean that during this season a total of more than 500 youngsters from Boston can be accommodated. The day camp plan is in addition to the regular camping program through which three groups of about 65 each come to camp at Winning for three weeks at a time each.

Serving as officers next year will be, in addition to Mr. Martin, Guy Palage, first vice president, and James J. Mawn, secretary, both of Woburn; Fred McCormack, second vice-president, and George L. Billman, treasurer, both of Winchester.

Family Wishes

AT OUR establishment we do not try to follow a rigid pattern in the funeral service. We are well aware that these are times of flux and that dignity and good taste are not necessarily confined to prescribed formal standards of etiquette. We will outline what is usual and customary, but in all details the family has the final word, for we believe that the funeral service should reflect their wishes. As the years roll by, it is they who will remember.

WHS Students To Discuss Africa On WCRB Sunday

Winchester High School students will participate in the final school broadcast of the season on "Point at Issue" Sunday, June 7, at 7:05 p.m. on WCRB.

Dr. Martin Kilson, lecturer in government, Harvard Center for International Studies, will lead the students in a discussion on "Africa: Communism or Democracy?" The panelists will include Nancy Robinson, Maureen Gill, Russell Hatch and Dick Penner. The students prepared for the broadcast under the direction of Miss May Miliken, chairman of the History Department at Winchester High School.

Eight schools participated in the series, presented in cooperation with The World Affairs Council in Boston, during the 1963-64 school year. These included Newton South, Commonwealth School of Boston, North Reading, Cambridge School of Weston, Boston English, Lexington, St. Mark's School, Southboro, and Winchester. Idea for the series was conceived by Nicholas Nyary, executive director of the World Affairs Council. Programs were produced by WCRB news director Dave MacNeill, with the assistance of Mrs. Cynthia Elman, of The Council.

Math Team Loses At Playoffs

Representing one of twelve Greater Boston schools which had earned the right to compete in the playoffs held Wednesday afternoon at Watertown High School, the WHS team of five finished 10th due to a misreading of the team-work question on geometry.

Tied for second after two categories, the team question muffed cost them a final finish of fifth place. It was the first time in a sum of 15 meets over the past three years that the home team had missed a team question.

The meet was won by Concord-Carlisle with Brookline and Haverhill tying for second place and Boston Latin, Braintree, Lexington and Newton also scoring well.

In the awarding of prizes after the meet Brian Kincaid was honored for a perfect score for the day (in the two categories which he worked as an individual) and Brian, Bill Hopkins and Brenda Baker were honored as high scorers for WHS during the four sectional meets which preceded the playoff. Dick Wakefield and Caroline Root were the other members of the team Wednesday.

Three Generations Of Teaching Influence

Children's Own School Closing Day on June 5

For the young students at the Children's Own School, 86 Main Street, an interesting and sometimes exciting school year is drawing to a close.

Among the field trips for the Upper School, were trips to the Science Museum and the Peabody Museum as well as the Harvard Observatory. Excitement and more interest have been aroused by the building project going on at the school with the various machines to watch and lessons to be learned through observation.

The closing day parties, to be held on June 5, bring the school year to an end. The morning party is to be for the Lower School, while the party in the afternoon will be for the Upper School. Parents and relatives, as well as future students, will be guests at these parties.

Various members of the parent's committee have given a series of gay dessert and coffee parties for parents and teachers. These coffee get-togethers have been held at intervals during the spring. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Granger of Burlington, with Mrs. Bertram Christmas assisting. Their party was for the Lower School parents. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Graham, of Woburn, entertained the parents of the upper school. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bloom, of Lexington, entertained parents of the ungraded groups. Following these events an Open House took place at the school in April.

The final delightful affair of the year was an Italian party, held at the school on the evening of May 16. In rooms attractively decorated with flowers, Italian posters, as well as American and Italian flags, a delicious catered buffet dinner of special Italian foods was served to the many parents and friends of the school.

The Paul Frano Trio played during the dinner and later for singing and dancing. This occasion honored Dr. Maria Montessori, the Roman doctor - educator whose teaching principles have spread throughout the world. It celebrated, also, the addition of a new wing to the Children's Own School whose work is founded on the teaching of Montessori.

Miss Keneally Presented Musical

Little Patricia Doherty opened the program most artistically with her "Busy Little Clock" by Black. The program proceeded in progressive order with each showing their individuality, diligent thought and skill. It was a most pleasing occasion. Light refreshments were served.

Wellesley Alumnae Meet

On Wednesday afternoon May 27, in a picturesque setting of flowering dogwood azaleas, at the beautiful home of Mrs. Robert Stone on Wood Lane, members of the Winchester Wellesley College Club met for their spring meeting and picnic.

Mrs. Stone welcomed the group and their guests with her gracious hospitality. Among the guests were Mrs. Gilman Wallace, whose daughter, an honor student, graduates from Wellesley next week and Mrs.
 Lawrence E. Beckley, whose daughter is a junior there.

Club members brought sandwiches and were served a delicious dessert and coffee by Mrs. Richard Lindenfelter and her committee.
 Mrs. Ellis J. Green, president, conducted a brief business meeting and Mrs. Colin L. Wheeler, chairman of the Winchester Mornings series, reported on the extremely successful sale of tickets for the 1964 series.

The club was most fortunate in having as guests three members of the staff in the office of Students Aid at Wellesley, Mrs. Cohn, Mrs.
 Powell and Mrs. Eaton. The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Harriet Cohn who has served twelve years in the work of Students Aid at the college. All student help, including loans, is handled by the Students Aid organization and Miss Cohn stated that "no qualified student of sound citizenship ever has to leave Wellesley because of financial difficulty. The need," she said, "determines the amount given a student." She said that $90,000 will go out in loans to students next year; these loans are expected to be repaid by the student within two years after graduation, no interest is required. In the past seven years only two students have not been heard from.

The Students Aid personnel consider it a privilege to be of assistance to those who apply and Mrs.
 Cohn emphasized especially the calibre of the girls whom they help and the wonderful spirit of appreciation shown by them.

It is the alumnae of the college who make all this possible and it is felt that having this service administered by Students Aid rather than by the bursar's office of the college greatly strengthens the ties which bind the girls to their alma mater.

Study Aids—English, American History, Arithmetic, Social Studies, Latin, French, Algebra, English and German. Prepared class notes
 Elementary, Junior High and High School. At the Winchester Star.

ACROSS THE COUNTER
 "The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Dom-
 ley. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may
 avoid a similar mistake."

The event was the occasion of the loyalty dinner of the canvass for a building fund. Initiated by The Presbytery of Boston and given financial aid by the United Presbyterian Board of National Missions in 1960, the church has fortunately been able to meet and hold services in the Wildwood School; but it has become increasingly evident that the expanding and growing program necessitates planning toward a building.

Robert Tisch, general chairman of the canvass, presided. Among the speakers were Edward Kaminsky and Ralph Hanson, on the subject of the church's needs; Niels Hansson, on the plans; Robert Svensson, on the method of the canvass; James Williams, initial gifts chairman, spoke on pledging and reported that pledges already received total $18,020 with an additional $650 in special gifts.

THE END OF THE BOWLING SEASON came for the S.O.I. women at their annual banquet held Saturday night when Pauline Giacalone, left, took the high single award, Cusi Fiore the high triple and Terry Nappa the high average. To the far right is Ginger Maggio, venerable.

S. O. I. Women Bowlers Conclude Their Season

The Sons of Italy women's bowling banquet was held at the Sons of Italy home on Swanton Street, Saturday, May 23. Hors d'oeuvres were served at a social hour from 6:30 to 7:30, served by Guitano's Caterers. Our lovely chairlady, Florence Paonessa, called on our worthy district deputy, Mary Benullo to say the grace, followed by our worthy venerable, Ginger Maggio and her husband William Joseph Paonessa, husband of the chairlady; venerable, Aldo Cair.

Our venerable Ginger Maggio was called upon to present the three highest award trophies going to Terry Nappa for high average, high triple going to Cusi Fiore and high single going to Pauline Giacalone. Peggy Fiore and Mary Benullo had the privilege of presenting the sweaters and trophies to captain Louise Vigorita and her team the Kents, first place winners. Emma Provinzano and Lillian Ciarcia presented the sweaters and trophies to captain Laura Caria and her team the Springs, the second place winners.

For the first time the first and second place runners up were the recipients of a consolation prize. Kay Lentine, an ex-chairlady, presented a bone china cup and saucer to the Kools and Newports. One of the highlights of the evening was a souvenir bowling pin presented to Cusi Fiore by Ralph Scott, which was donated by the management of Strike Lanes. Inscribed on the pin were her three strings which were 106-119-120, totaling 345.

The reporter was finally revealed with a poem written by Florence Paonessa:

able of the S.O.I. men's lodge, Bob Fiore and his wife Peggy; from the Strike Lanes, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scott; secretary Polly Lafave and her husband Amy. Also recognized from the floor was the husband of one of our bowlers, who happens to be grand trustee, Aldo Cair.

Lacrosse Club In First Season

The Winchester lacrosse club ended its season with an impressive 16-2 win over the Governor Dummer Academy J. V. team at South Byfield last week.

After a close first period in which the Winchester club got off to a 2-1 lead, the offense, led by Randy Randlett with five goals and two assists, showed their newfound skills by tallying 14 more goals with ease.

This win gave the Sachem warriors a 500 season against private school competition in their first year. The club's other two victories were over the Lawrence Academy J. V.'s 5-3 and the Cambridge School of Weston Varsity 7-4. They suffered defeat at the hands of Rivers School 4-3, Andover Academy 8-3, and Moses Brown 5-3. A 4-4 tie was the result of a game with St. Mark's School.

The Sachem attack was led in scoring by the creative attackman Randy Randlett, with a total of 18 goals and 3 assists and by feeder Hugh Fisher with 8 goal and 4 assists. Other attack men were John McKenna, Dave Pratt, Bob Letty and Chuck Schipellite. The leading midfielders were John Moran and Peter Thorp each with a total of 7 points.

The rest of the midfield units consisted of Harold Mufford, John Stavros, Dennis O'Connell, Richard Wakefield, Greg Howard and Bruce Jordan. In the goal was Tony Silvestri who had a total of 113 saves in seven games. He was backed up by Ken Trevitt. At the beginning of the defense was their weakest point for Winchester, however, with work by the boys and help from Dave Fennar, a defenseman from the Boston Lacrosse Club, they became a tough group to score upon.

The defense was led by Joe Tranfaglia on the crease and Charles Dutoit (captain-elect for 1965). Ken Church and Peter Fisher also developed into good defensesmen. In the last two games Tranfaglia, Fisher and Church had to play the entire game without substitutes due to an injury to Dutoit.

Coach Gene Bouley feels that lacrosse has a definite place as a spring high school sport. It allows boys of all ages to play a fast contact sport that is enjoyable to play and practice. It is a growing sport all over the nation, and these boys will be able to continue to play in college or on clubs like the Boston Lacrosse Club.

Mr. Bouley hopes to continue the lacrosse club next year. He will be seeking recognition by the school system of this new sport so that the team will have the financial backing it needs. This year the boys paid all of the expenses for trips and equipment. Football helmets were borrowed from the high school, but they do not provide the necessary protection. The boys also lack arm pads and other safety devices. It is hoped that through recognition by the Winchester school system this club which got off to such a good start will continue in this new and exciting sport.

The previous winners of the sportsmanship award were recognized and they were Florence Ciarcia, Loretta Frongillo, Evelyn Giacalone, Sue Barbaro and Rose Fiore.

The assistant chairman of the men's sports committee, William Fiore, made the presentation of the sportsmanship award which is donated each year by the Winchester Men's Lodge. The Sportsman Award this year went to Lillian Ciarcia.

At the conclusion of her program the chairlady then acknowledged her committee and thanked them for a job well done. The committee consists of chairlady, Florence Paonessa; secretary, Polly Lafave; treasurer, Peggy Fiore; Lillian Ciarcia and Emma Provinzano. The chairlady then gave her best wishes to Rose DeFeso, the new chairlady for the coming season. Dancing followed the banquet with Angelo Gentile and his orchestra.

The reporter would like to congratulate Florence Paonessa and her committee for bringing to a close our bowling season with a lovely banquet.

Little League Auxiliary Hears Hal Mullen Talk

The Knights of Columbus Hall was the scene last Tuesday evening for the annual meeting of the Winchester Little League Auxiliary.

Coffee and cookies were served by Mrs. Roland Robinson and Mrs. George Pettersen. The business of the meeting was delayed so that Mrs. David Choate could introduce Hal Mullen, who arrived to speak, between coaching his Athletics to a victory and a business flight to New York later that evening.

Mr. Mullen spoke very amusingly about the difficulties and challenges of working with Little Leaguers and their parents. He told about a community effort back in New Jersey when a handful of men organized and promoted a Little League there, building the diamond by hand, and working late into the night before opening day by the light of 60 automobile headlights directed onto the field.

He spoke of the continuing efforts of the men in the Williamsport, Pennsylvania headquarters to make the game safer for the players. The type and quality of helmets, bats and other equipment has been tested and regulated, pitching limits have been established for boys in each age category so they will not injure developing muscles, and electric machines have even been used to determine the amount of stress on any player and his reactions to varying amounts of pressure.

In closing, Mr. Mullen emphasized that Little League in Winchester operates for about 530 boys, including the Cap League on 100% volunteer adult help and not one cent of tax money is used for the program.

Mrs. David Boyd, the president of the auxiliary, then introduced the other officers, and received reports on their activities. June 7 is the date of the annual mothers' baseball game and Friday, June 12 is the annual dance in the Town Hall. Mrs. Frank Brennan is organizing the National League team and prospective players can telephone her at PA 9-3232, while Mrs. A. V. Staniewicz is lining up the American League, and can be reached at PA 9-1808. Since the game is on Sunday afternoon it is hoped that those mothers who are not competing will attend to encourage the players.

Tickets for the dance have been circulating for two weeks, and in most cases it is the managers' wives who should be contacted to purchase them. For those teams with unmarried managers, Mrs. Seymour Niles and her committee will be happy to furnish tickets.

The dance committee, with Mrs. Niles as chairman, consists of Mrs. Richard Brackett, Mrs. Malcolm Leslie, and Mrs. Robert Heileman. Mrs. Niles announced that the Multi-Tones from Wakefield have been engaged to play from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Mrs. Frank Cullen reported on the success of the float decorated and entered in the En Ka parade, and expressed thanks to her helpful committee, consisting of Lucille Cesari, Alice Yanulis, Paula Petrillo, Georgia Julian, Barbara Macdon and Mary Laughlin.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Boyd presented Al LaPointe, president of the Dads' Club. Mr. LaPointe spoke a few words and then surprised the officers by presenting them with certificates of appreciation from the Dads' Club.

In addition to Mrs. Boyd, those who were so honored were Mrs. Robert Haffner, vice president of the National League; Mrs. Joseph Julian, vice president of American League; Mrs. James Beck, secretary; Mrs. Byron Stites, treasurer; and the following chairmen of committees: Mrs. Seymour Niles, dance; Mrs. Herbert Arnold, ways and means; Mrs. A. V. Staniewicz, stand, West Side; Mrs. George Barotta, stand, Ginn Field; Mrs. David Choate, nominating; Mrs. Frank Cullen, float; and Mrs. Clarence Gay, publicity.

Steve Mulloy plays outfield, catches and is a good pitcher as well. When Steve comes to bat the opposing fielders know that it is time to play deep. Charlie Rotondi is one of the best first basemen in the league. This is in addition to being one of the Mets' best hurlers and also an outfielder of good standing. Chuck is not exactly under the rug when it comes to base hits either.

Tom James is a good second baseman who is also a member of the pitching staff and can be called upon to take over in the catching department also. Tom does not need any directions on swinging a bat either. Jim Marudler is another guy who is out to prove that if you have desire and ability you don't need to be a bruiser in baseball. Jim is one of the select on the pitching corps and does a good job at second base when needed there. When he is given the job, Jim is a willing outfield hand and is always ready to step into a fast one at the plate. A good hitter as well as a good fielder, Jim is a "must" on any team.

Mark Hodgson and Paul McCormack are two outfielders who can be called upon to do their stuff at any time. Both boys are good glove men and keep the Mets' defensive strength at the top of the ratings. Chris Osgood is another member of the tossing staff who also covets at third base and can be asked to Sunday, 110 boys filled four diamonds at Ginn Field. Ralph Atkinson did a fine job of organization. Next meeting will be Saturday at 2 p.m., West Side Field and again Sunday, West Side Field, 2 p.m.

Permission slips must be signed by this week end for the free Red Sox TRIP. We must have count to schedule buses which will leave Ginn Field at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, June 13.

Three alternate days per week on twenty-acre lakeside tract. Fun and learning for boys and girls five through twelve, with pick-up and delivery at your door; two counselors in each car. Outstanding swimming instruction. Activity groups average seven per counselor. Well-balanced program includes sports, archery, crafts, nature study, boating. Mature, understanding counselors. Detailed progress reports by personal interview in Winchester at month's end. Circular. Since 1933 under same director.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

NOTICE TO BASEBALL SCOUTS

The first and only no hit ball came this season in Winchester Little League was pitched by John Richmond for the Cardinals a week ago. John faced the Athletics in a well played game and chalked up twelve strike - outs while capturing a 7 to 0 game.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Mets

Sponsored by Boodakian Rugs

"We know that we are a better ball club than our standings show right now, but watch our smoke in the second half." Manager John Stone is not putting up any alibis for the Mets as he is confident that this team can turn the tide. Coach Tom Keating shares Manager Stone's belief in the club as he says, "We have dropped some pretty close ones that could have gone either way. In the second half we are going to give it that extra something that will make the close ones fall our way."

A look at the lineup of the Mets will convince any baseball fan that the team has the ability and the skill to back up the managerial forecasts. The pitching department boasts of members like Mark Keating, Mark Frazier, Steve Mulloy, Joe Maspero, Chuck Rotondi, Tom James, Chris Osgood and Jim Marudler. There are plenty of fast pitchers in this seven man crew and each of these boys figures to be in a couple of wins during the second half of the season.

Mark Keating handles shortstop and can do a good job at first base or in the outfield. This is in addition to a pitching assignment when called to the mound. Mark is a heavy striker also and is a credit to any team. Tim Fahey is another fast shortstop who also doubles as an outfielder when given the nod.

John Schroeder is a man of many jobs too. He catches, plays third and can do a whale of a job on second base or jump to outfield duty according to the roster changes. At bat, John is one of the club's really good hitters. Mark Frazier plays a lot of outfield for the Mets when he is not assigned to a pitching chore. Mark can do a credible job at first base if needed and is always there with a base hit at the right time.

Peter Wardwell is an outfielder and has been called to play first base on occasion. Pete does either post with ability and drive. Richardson can catch and patrol the outer garden as well. Both of these boys are willing performers and can be relied upon to give their best at all times.

Joseph Maspero is one of the mound corps who works an outfield position or first base according to the line-up listing. Joe can dent the fence when he gets a good bit of wood on the ball and has done it often in the past. Bruce Jones proves that baseball playing takes skill and not size. Bruce is ready and able to play second base or an outfield spot in any game. His speed and sure fielding makes him a manager's delight.

Steve Mulloy plays outfield, catches and is a good pitcher as well. When Steve comes to bat the opposing fielders know that it is time to play deep. Charlie Rotondi is one of the best first basemen in the league. This is in addition to being one of the Mets' best hurlers and also an outfielder of good standing. Chuck is not exactly under the rug when it comes to base hits either.

Tom James is a good second baseman who is also a member of the pitching staff and can be called upon to take over in the catching department also. Tom does not need any directions on swinging a bat either. Jim Marudler is another guy who is out to prove that if you have desire and ability you don't need to be a bruiser in baseball. Jim is one of the select on the pitching corps and does a good job at second base when needed there. When he is given the job, Jim is a willing outfield hand and is always ready to step into a fast one at the plate. A good hitter as well as a good fielder, Jim is a "must" on any team.

Mark Hodgson and Paul McCormack are two outfielders who can be called upon to do their stuff at any time. Both boys are good glove men and keep the Mets' defensive strength at the top of the ratings. Chris Osgood is another member of the tossing staff who also covets at third base and can be asked to

Terry Golden Is Hurdles Champ 3rd Year in Row

Terry Golden of 10 Robinson Park won the New England Prep School Hurdles' Championship for the third straight year.

He won both the 220 yard low hurdles and 120 yard high hurdles on May 17, tying the New England Prep School high hurdles record of 14.7 that he had set as a sophomore. In so doing, he captured the Governor Dummer team to the Class B Championship and 3rd place in Class A competition ahead of host Andover Academy.

Golden, cited two years ago as the fastest sophomore hurdler by a national track and field magazine, and last spring named as a Boston Herald "Athlete of the Week," has been an outstanding athlete for Governor Dummer. In his junior year he was the leading seaver and rusher on the football team; he captained both winter and spring track teams and in dual meets won as many as five events, including the high jump and javelin.

Last July 1, however, Golden fractured his neck in a freak accident at Good Harbor Beach in Gloucester. As a result contact sports were ruled out and his track activities confined to running.

Despite his injury, he remains undefeated in the hurdles in 3 years of competition and holds the Governor Dummer records in nearly all short - distance events. A four-time captain, Golden graduates in June and will enroll at Harvard University next fall.

field that cannot be outshone. All of these boys are fast and experienced in handling the long ball.

Mike Desher is available for second base duty and also jumps around in the outfield when his name is posted for that job. John Brennan is a utility infielder who is an important man to have on any club. With reserve strength like this it is no wonder that the Sox are standing on top of the league. This club has every intention of working the second half exactly as they did in the first half season. And with a roster like they have it is easy to see how they might do it.

The Greyhounds
Sponsored by Turner's Sunoco Station

"We had a tough time getting started but the season is not over yet," warns Manager Bill Bond of the Greyhounds. "We have begun to click and the rest of the league will be watching some good play in the rest of the games this year." Coach Eddie Porter feels the same way about the club. "It was one of those things," says Eddie, "we just didn't seem to jell in the first half but we think we have found the secret and are ready to go from here on in."

The Greyhounds are not without the speed and ability to put on a late season spurt. Dan Meyer is an infielder who hits well up with the best in the league. Ralph Dietze is another infield man who swings a wicked bat. Jim Babin and Steve Garcelon are two more infielders who do their best with the glove and with the bat.

Rupert Stanley plays first base and does it well. Paul Restighini covers second like a tent and both of these boys are seasoned veterans. Larry Wright handles the mound work and takes over in an outfield post when the occasion demands.

Bruce Hill is another pitcher who is ready to patrol an outfield position when necessary. Kip Tobey is a catcher that any manager would like to have on his club.

Outfield duties are split between Joe Campbell, Dave Walters, Eddie Porter, Paul Christerson and Phil Toomajian. This is a real outfield staff who can field with the best of them and are all good men with the bat.

It begins to look like the Greyhounds are off and running and the rest of the league had better start practicing for the big finish.

Bill Cutler is a center fielder of outstanding ability and teamed with Andy Shannon and Dan Gattineri, the Red Sox have an out-

Red Cross Honors Volunteers And Elects Directors

The Winchester Chapter, American National Red Cross, held its annual meeting in May at the Chapter House with John F. Sexton, chairman, presiding.

The meeting opened with an invocation delivered by Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell of the First Baptist Church after which Mr. Sexton welcomed and introduced the new blood program chairman, Henry T. Gerould; motor service chairman, Mrs. Robert K. Sullivan and new director, Philip D. Cabot. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were then presented.

The activities of the local chapter during the past year were reviewed briefly. There were six bloodmobile visits in town with one still to come, today, June 4. Three hundred and sixty nine pints of blood were collected which is far below the number needed to take care of all of Winchester's blood needs. The Junior Red Cross made favors and place mats for six holidays for the patients at the Bedford V. A. Hospital and the Friendship boxes which are sent overseas elicited letters of thanks from young friends in Wales, Yugoslavia and Greece. The High School Red Cross had a mammoth drive for books to stock a library in Arecibo, Puerto Rico. A Standard First Aid course was given by Gerald Y. Hills last fall at which eleven persons received their certificates and the Water Safety program continues to grow and this summer is expected to be a banner year. Motor Service transported many patients to clinics and hospitals plus making many trips to pick up blood for the local hospital.

Mr. Sexton next awarded service pins to Red Cross volunteers.

For five years service pins went to Mrs. William Buracker, Mrs. Carleton Clogston, Mrs. Charles S. Eaton, Mrs. Robert E. Pay, Mrs. Horace deRivera, Mrs. Arthur R. Hills, Mrs. Alexander Korwath, Mrs. Franklin Lane, Mrs. Marjorie Moore, Richard F. Norris, Sherman Russell, Mrs. Carl A. Stevens and Mrs. Joshua Whatmough.

For ten years service to Mrs. Frank T. Barnes, Mrs. Wayne E. Davis, and Mrs. Lester R. Godwin. For fifteen years to Miss Marion Arrell and for twenty years to Mrs. Edward M. Feeley.

William L. Martin, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the names of the following persons as members of the board of directors for a period of three years and they were elected by the membership: Frank T. Barnes, Mrs.

Barbershop Baritones At McCall

THE McCALL BARBERSHOP SINGERS are among about 275 vocalists and instrumentalists who will make the McCall School annual concert tomorrow night a standout. The orchestra, three chorus groups and the band make up the program with flute and violin solos as accent. The above singers are, left to right, rear, Toby Harvey, David Andersen, Paul Griffin, Kevin Lynch, John Snelling, David Castle, John Pirani, Charles Hemmingsen. Seated are Eric Okerson and David Moffat.

William C. Cusack (2 years), Mrs. Wayne E. Davis (2 years), Henry K. Pitts, Henry T. Gerould, Richard F. Norris, Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell and Mrs. John B. Wells.

At the board of directors' meeting directly following the annual meeting, Mr. Martin read the report of the nominating committee for officers and members of the executive committee for the next fiscal year 1964-65. The other members of the nominating committee were Frank T. Barnes, Herbert E. Bixler, Mrs. Wayne E. Davis, Lawrence T. Smith and Mr. Martin, chairman. The names of officers submitted and elected were: John F. Sexton, chairman; Richard F. Norris, vice - chairman; Mrs. Aruther R. Hills, secretary; Lawrence T. Smith, treasurer. Elected to membership on the executive committee were: Mrs. H. Kimball Archibald, Herbert E. Bixler, Mrs. Wayne E. Davis, William L. Martin and Rev. Joseph E. O'Donnell.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Daniel Wormwood, disaster director of the Boston Chapter, showed slides and talked about the Ohio Valley floods this past March. This was the area where Mrs. Moulding spent five weeks working with the Red Cross disaster group. Covering 1,000 miles on each side of the river, 10,000 people were driven out of their homes, and the problems of sanitation and immunization coupled with the loss of food, clothing and shelter were enormous, Mr. Wormwood reported.

The meeting closed with the serving of punch and cookies by Mrs. Kingman Cass and Mrs. Franklin Lane.

On Wednesday, May 27, Mrs. Don S. Greer, Republican Club president, opened her home for a meeting of the new board members, the finance committee and the nominating committee of the Women's Republican Club of Winchester.

New members were introduced and plans for the year were discussed with the thought in the minds of all that "Politics is Your Business."

Appointment was made of four new members necessary to complete the advisory committee: Mrs. Arthur Rand, Rep. Harrison Chadwick, Mrs. Maxwell McGreevy and Mrs. Charles N. Sweetser. Following adjournment of the meeting a delicious luncheon was enjoyed by the members.

Police, Firemen Join Blood Group Program Today

The Winchester Red Cross is pleased to welcome the Fire and Police Departments as the first signatories in the Group Account Agreement in the local Blood program.

This agreement assures all members and their immediate families of blood coverage through annual participation of 25 per cent of their group and donors from the departments will be among those present at today's Bloodmobile being held at St. Mary's Hall, from 1 to 7 p.m. "It is our hope," stated Henry T. Gerould, blood program chairman, "that other groups such as church, social and business organizations, will find it beneficial to participate in this way. Through the group account agreement," he went on, "and the Good Neighbor blood bank, we hope that all Winchester citizens will be able to receive blood free of charge and without having to race around looking for blood donors."

Anyone interested in finding out more about the Good Neighbor blood bank or the Group Account Agreement is invited to call the Winchester Chapter at PA 9-2300. And anyone interested in donating today may either call or go up to St. Mary's and become a walk-in donor.

Sons Of Italy News

Saturday night of this week is the date for the club's annual Hawaiian Luau and if you don't have your ticket yet, you had better reach for the phone right now! Boss Dattilo, as chairman, has arranged to have plenty of food to be consumed in an Hawaiian atmosphere in addition to much entertainment, dancing and a feature Hula contest for any and all interested in participating. Hawaiian dress is optional and there will be much encouragement and excitement so get your tickets!

Chairman Art Dunbar of the Golf League informs us that the golf matches every Sunday morning at the Unicorn C. C. offer much humor and at the same time some good golfing techniques. Leading the pack in the Class A Division are Chick Vespucci and Moose Bellino followed by Al Piccoli and Andy Buzzotta. George Kelley and John Damore, Chris Feudo and Frank Provinzano, Angelo Costa and Pete Gilberti, and Joe Berardi and Charles Tanzilli.

In top position for the Class B Division is the team made up of Frank Costa and Al Gravalese, then comes Tom Haggerty and Hugo Macchia, Harry Nelson and Carl Bertolucci and finally Jerry Esposito and Sam Corby.

All officers and members of the organization wish to congratulate every member of the graduating class at the Winchester High School and to wish them all the best of everything in whatever their future endeavors may be.

Chairman of the blood program, Richie Penta, was most happy to hear of the several donors who reported to the last Bloodmobile held at St. Mary's Hall last week and wishes to thank them for the most worthwhile project of helping those in need of the life-giving fluid.

Did you hear about Carl Bertolucci's instructing the Boy Scouts in physical fitness? During a period of giving calisthenics, Carl happened to ask Paul Buzzotta if he could stand on his head and Paul said, "No, it is too high." With that Carl decided to go on with his "jumping jacks."

Manager of the softball team, Hokie Procopio and his assistant, Mel Fiore, were quite jubilant over the team's victory over the Elks which marked the first loss for the Elks.

Chick Vespucci happened to be in the lounge and was thinking about his paint jobs he had to do and forgetting the date he asked Michael D. Saraco for the newspaper he had in his pocket and Mike said, "This paper won't help you, Chick, because it is yesterday."

Fire Chief and Mrs. Frank Amico became grandparents for the second time when Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rotondo presented them with a baby girl. Congratulations and best wishes to all.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Provinzano on celebrating their first wedding anniversary. Many, many more from all of us to both of you.

Mrs. Anna D. Hakanson

Mrs. Anna D. Hakanson of 4 Kenilworth Road, widow of Gustav O. Hakanson and a resident of Winchester during much of her lifetime, died suddenly in her sleep Saturday morning, June 6. Her death was wholly unexpected, as she had not been ill, and had attended to her normal duties up to the time she went to bed Friday night.

Mrs. Hakanson was the daughter of Anders and Emma Charlotte (Ransen) Anderson. She was born May 13, 1888, in Karlsborg, Sweden, but came to this country as a girl and grew up in Winchester, attending the Winchester schools.

She married Mr. Hakanson December 5, 1914, and they lived after their marriage on Washington Street, later moving to 44 Lincoln Street, where she made her home for many years. Mr. Hakanson died in 1954, but his widow continued to live in the old homestead on Lincoln Street until three years ago when she went to make her home with her son, and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hakanson, on Kenilworth Road.

Mrs. Hakanson was a member of North Star Lodge, 49, V. O., and had been a member of the Winchester Chapter Eastern Star and of Victoria Rebekah Lodge.

She leaves two sons, G. Warren Hakanson of Kingsport, Tennessee; and Richard A. Hakanson, publisher of the Winchester Star; also five grandchildren.

Christian Science services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Kimball Chapel with Mr. Frederick D. Herberich, first reader of the First Church of Christ Scientist in Winchester, officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Fannie Mae Cromwell

Mrs. Fannie Mae Cromwell of 27 Irving Street, died in the Massachusetts General Hospital on Saturday, June 6, after a long illness.

She was born in Sumpter, South Carolina, on August 9, 1888 and she came to live in Winchester in 1907. The wife of George S. Cromwell, she had lived here in town most of her married life.

Mrs. Cromwell had been a parishioner of the New Hope Baptist Church, serving at one time as its treasurer. She had also been a member of the Flower Circle at the church.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Cromwell leaves two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn Coleman of Cambridge and Mrs. Mabel Reavis of Somerville; three sons, Guy of Lindenhurst, N. Y., and Durant and Douglas of Winchester; a sister, Mrs. Hattie Godden of Newton; eight grandchildren, one great grandson, and many nieces and nephews.

Services for Mrs. Cromwell took place on Tuesday morning at the New Hope Baptist Church, with the Reverend Hill and the Reverend Benjamin Barry, officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Agnes Cecelia Kronquist

Miss Agnes Cecelia Kronquist of 30 Water Street, a native of Winchester and a retired assistant in a Boston dye laboratory, died at her home Thursday morning, June 4, after a long illness at the age of 64.

Miss Kronquist was the daughter of Adolph J. and Henrietta B. (Johnson) Kronquist. She was born April 2, 1900, in Winchester and grew up in the town, attending the Winchester schools and having been a member of the First Congregational Church.

She worked as a laboratory assistant in the Boston dye house of Rosentwist and Gurner on High Street until her retirement in 1951. Miss Kronquist leaves four sisters, Miss Jennie Kronquist, Mrs. Andrew Crawford and Mrs. Stuart Linnell, all of Winchester; Mrs. Arthur E. Blodgett of Moultonboro, New Hampshire; and a brother, Robert E. Kronquist of Charlestown.

Services were held at the Norris Chapel on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Dwight Cart, minister of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

S. Earl Burgoyne

S. Earl Burgoyne of 12 Norwood Street, proprietor of the General Repair Service on Church Street, and a resident of Winchester since 1930, died suddenly Sunday, June 7, at the Winchester Hospital, following a heart attack. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Burgoyne was the son of Stephen C. and Florence R. (Garvey) Burgoyne. He was born January 20, 1902, in Weymouth, and spent his boyhood there, receiving his education in the Weymouth schools.

He came with his parents to Winchester in 1930, and had since made his home here, working as a maintenance man for the Home Ford restaurant until it went out of business. He also operated the General Repair Service, making all sorts of repairs to household appliances and electrical gadgets.

Mr. Burgoyne is survived by his father, who is at the Masonic Home in Charlton; and by a brother, Dr. Roger M. Burgoyne, a practicing physician in Winchester.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, with the pastor, Rev. H. Newton Clay, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Fairmount Cemetery, East Weymouth.

Former Resident Loses Four-Year- Old Daughter

Beverly Ann Baldyga, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. (Cynthia Procopio) Baldyga, of Dorchester, died Saturday afternoon at Boston City Hospital. Mrs. Baldyga is formerly of this town.

The young girl, granddaughter of Mrs. Dorothy Procopio and niece of Frank J. Procopio, both of 65 Holland Street, had been struck by a car while playing on the sidewalk near her home on Friday morning. Struck along with two other children by an automobile which went out of control, she was rushed to the hospital, where a team of eight doctors worked on Friday and 13 on Saturday to save her life. Radio and newspaper appeals for O positive blood were answered by many donors who came to the hospital to offer their help.

Beverly died of multiple injuries including a fractured skull, pelvis, broken legs and severe lacerations.

A Mass of the angels was sung at St. Matthews Church in Dorchester on Tuesday morning and burial was at St. Michael's Cemetery, also in Dorchester.

Besides her mother and father, Beverly leaves a brother, Theodore P., Jr., two great grandmothers, a great grandfather, a grandmother, two grandfathers and many uncles, aunts and cousins.

Reception For Miss Jurgenson This Sunday

Miss Minnetta Jurgenson's friends will gather at the reception in her honor on Sunday, June 14, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Noonan School auditorium.

The Mystic and Noonan parents' groups who are co-sponsoring the affair here, are retelling some of the background of this well-known teacher, who concludes 38 years of teaching in the town at the close of the school next week.

One of four children, she was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Jurgenson. Born in New York City and raised in Great Barrington, her first teaching job was in Stockbridge. She also taught at Longmeadow and then in Walpole, where in 1926 Mr. Quinn interviewed her for the Mystic School.

Miss Jurgenson taught the fourth grade at Mystic until 1953 when she came to the Noonan School as head teacher, under Miss Leonor Rich. She was made remedial consultant to the Noonan and Washington Schools and in 1954 became the principal of the Noonan School.

When the news of her retirement as principal was announced, she was deluged with offers. Finally deciding to return to teaching, Miss Jurgenson chose the Bartlett School in Arlington, where she will teach the sixth grade.

We all wish her well in her new endeavor.

Sincerest Thanks

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to the Winchester Fire and Police Departments for the rapid and efficient manner in which they conducted operations at the recent fire in our house at 50 Highland Avenue. By their efforts the loss was kept to a minimum. Only when faced with an experience of this kind can the tremendous risks be realized. The fortitude and courage of these brave men cannot be overestimated.

Our thanks also go to the generous neighbors and friends who offered help of all kinds.

Lillian and Rony Snyder

Editorials:

Commencement

"To start, to enter upon, to begin," these are the meanings of the word commencement from which we derive the popular usage at this time of year for graduation ceremonies.

We call graduations a commencement because they are not merely the ending of any given number of years of schooling, for informal education through the personal experiences of living, and the reading and listening of what others have to teach, continue right up to the real ending days of one's existence. Instead, commencement is the beginning of something very new in the lives of young people.

Commencement is that point at which the high school or college graduate does two important things: first, he moves into a larger perspective, into a more mature, more responsible and self-reliant order of life; and second, he reaches the point at which the ideals he has lived under and the theories he has learned in school must be applied to the practical concerns of life's everyday living.

At commencement time we say to our graduates: we have given you knowledge in the hope that you will use that knowledge as a tool with which to improve the world. For all human progress consists in sons going a little further and doing a little better than their fathers were able to accomplish.

Graduates, at this time in your lives you are told that "it is your task to rebuild the world." These are not idle or mere euphemistic words, said in a moment of happiness in your lives just to sustain your ephemeral elations. Rather, it is the all too true expression of concern by those generations that have been and are passing before you with what has been and is now the condition of affairs in the world. It is one of those rare moments when an older and more experienced person will admit to a younger person riding the crest of achievement, that what has already been and is now the facts of history, could have been better shaped for the new generation. And what is being said in that often repeated statement are two things: we wish you could be commencing into a better world that we might have achieved and we hope that you will refashion it to be a better world both for yourselves and for your future generations.

So commencement festivities are really ceremonies to honor the graduates in their initiation into the beginning of things to come.

Volpe And The Crime Commission

The contradictory statements issued last week about the Massachusetts Crime Commission by Cardinal Cushing and former Governor John Volpe of Winchester, were in fact, both very important statements of views.

Cardinal Cushing said that he was sorry the Crime Commission had ever been created. Every citizen in the state should be embarrassed and sorry that a crime commission had to be created for it is only through an apathetic and unreacting public that such a state of corruption could exist.

When Cardinal Cushing blames political corruption on a "society where everyone lives on credit," he is partially correct. He is incorrect when he says there should be no charges of a "church of silence which fails to correct evils wherever they exist in public life," for almost all the churches in America are so separated from the state, not only structurally but in apathetic attitudes of leave each other alone, that there does not appear to be any "spiritual assistance" to public life and the codes of its activities. The "silence" is probably due to a lack of confident leadership on the part of churches because, while the enrollments are there in body, they are not always there in spirit and enthusiasm.

The Cardinal said the state had sufficient law enforcement agencies to expose corruption in state and municipal governments without a crime commission. He is correct in that the state has many law enforcement agencies and a lot of manpower, but they are so busy at the overt and violent lower levels of crime that they rarely seem to be able to get to the well organized and highly placed levels of sophisticated crime and corruption. This is why Gov. Volpe said: "All indications compelled me to (create the Crime Commission) . . . (and) subsequent events have not changed my view."

Gov. Volpe calls the Crime Commission an "effective instrument to detect and root out crime and corruption in our state," and he is right. So far, the Crime Commission has uncovered evidence leading to the indictment of 41 persons, many of them prominent state officials, and just last month added another 137 indictments to the list of progress in ridding the Commonwealth of its corruption.

Cloture Vote

For the first time in the history of the United States Senate a debate-limiting cloture has been established, overturning the traditional "unlimited debate" concept that many Senators regarded as the last card that could be invoked to stymie passage of controversial or bitterly opposed bills.

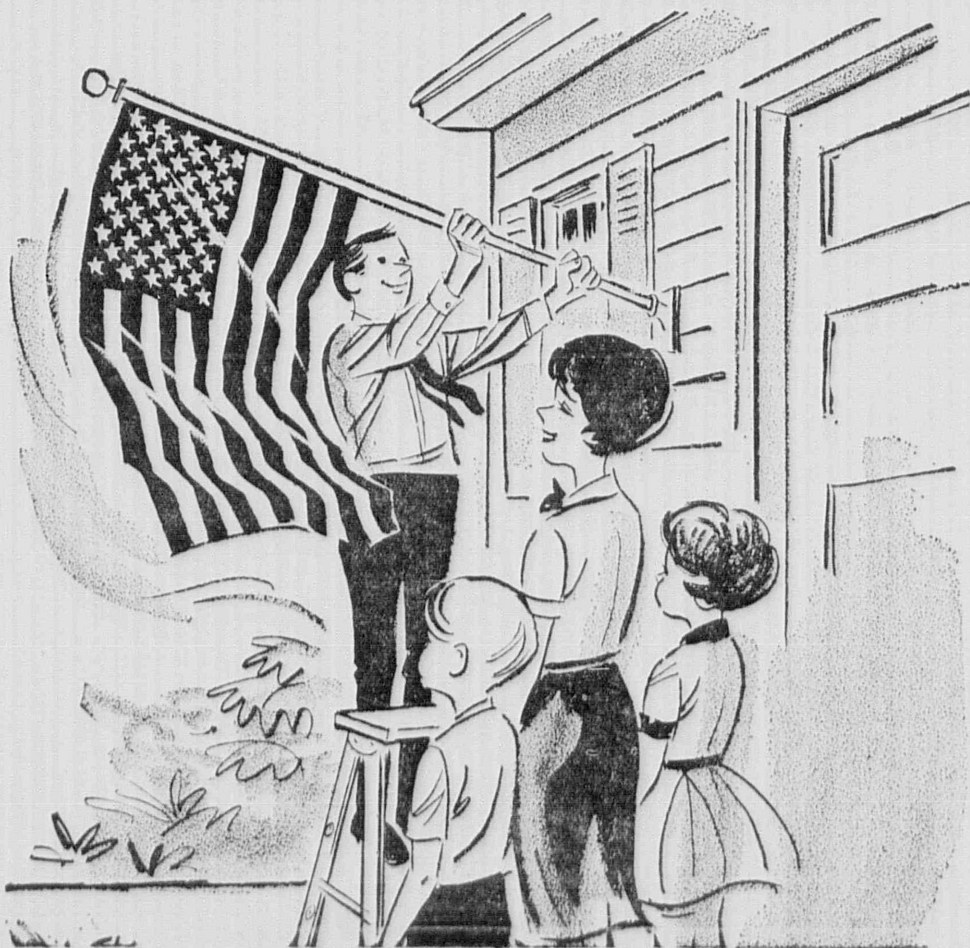

The 15-day long battle waged against the Negro equality proposals bill by die-hard Southern Legislators virtually ended yesterday after a more than 10 million word talkathon with a 71 to 29 vote to initiate cloture rules, which limits each of the 100 Senators to one hour of debate. Final action on the Civil Rights bill should come in about a week.

It is interesting to note in observing the filibuster, that while many times it may be desirable to allow extended debates on issues of grave importance to insure that democratic procedures permit full expression of ideas and opinions; nevertheless, a tradition of not stopping debate when last-ditch fight talkathons ramble into the merits of Florida peaches over California grapes while the nation waits for answers to its problems. It can, as has been the case for much of the last three months in Washington, be a serious obstacle in the course of governmental progress and the resolution of national issues.

The Senate "club" finally had to accept the concept of cloture. Hopefully, its views on other Senatorial matters (such as disclosure of personal holdings and potential conflicts of interest, a code of ethics, and more critical appraising of other Senatorial activities) might also mature.

A Sensitive, Illuminating, Psychological Look At Man's Relation To Man: What Color Is God's Skin?

AN ADDRESS GIVEN IN ATLANTA, GEORGIA, BY PETER HOWARD, AUTHOR, PLAYWRIGHT, POLITICAL ANALYST, WHO IS IN CHARGE OF THE WORLD
PROGRAM OF MORAL RE-ARMAMENT.

One hundred years ago and more, President Lincoln signed his proclamation of emancipation. It was a revolutionary aim. Today our aim is more revolutionary and more far-reaching in fulfillment. It is a revolution for every red-blooded American. And I must remind you that every American's blood is red.

Some people are afraid of the word "revolution." No man of faith should be. "Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven." If that phrase becomes no longer a pious drone but a passionate commitment, it is more revolutionary than the filthy paraphernalia of Fascism or anything Karl Marx concocted.

THE DIFFERENT RACES OF AMERICA ARE HER STRENGTH AND GLORY.
THEY ARE AN ASSET NO OTHER COUNTRY ON EARTH POSSESSES.

I and my friends have just been marching with Rajmohan Gandhi, grandson of the Mahatma, in the heat and dust of India. He has led a peaceful march 4,000 miles in protest against the corruption, hatred, impurity and caste prejudice that is weakening his land.

Gandhi says not everyone who praises his grandfather lives the Mahatma's spirit. He tells the Indians it is exploitation to call on Gandhi's name unless you possess the power to change human nature and turn enemies into friends.

In new patterns of power unfolding across every continent, revolution to change the aim and character of humanity is blazing. Let us ensure that blaze creates more light and less heat. At a time when it is God's will and man's desiring for everybody — black, brown, white, yellow and red — to walk with head upheld in dignity, equality and peace, selfishness alone breaks homes, divides races, multiplies hate, bedevils the hope of a moral maturity to match the technological and industrial opportunity of our times.

Supposing America, with her Negro and Latin American and Caucasian and Indian minorities were able to proclaim in honesty to the listening earth, "Come and see how all men everywhere are meant to live. We need you all in our bid to change world history. In this essential task, black men, white men, all men are needed. Here in this land we live like sons and daughters of the God who created all men equal, planting in each human heart the knowledge of right and wrong that makes man different from a beast."

Africa, emerging into freedom, would leap with joy and clap hands across the ocean. Asia would turn her eyes to the West. Latin America would forget the flattery of Fidel Castro and follow the advances of her comrade in the North. Peking and Moscow would cease to glare, yellow to red eyeball, at each other as they realized their plan to take over Mr. U.S.A. was outmoded.

This brings me to a question no man can answer. What color is God's skin? In fifty years half the earth's population will be Chinese. The South African government seems to think Chinese are black. Contrariwise, because South Africa does much trade with Japan, the same government says Japanese are white.

Laws are essential. I believe legislation must often march ahead of the growth in man's character that makes much legislation unnecessary. But laws — though in South Africa they change the color of a human skin — cannot by themselves alter the character of a human heart.

On the day President Kennedy was assassinated, I talked with two negroes. They agreed a civil rights bill with teeth would probably pass Congress. Then one said, "Whatever laws pass Congress, I can never trust a white man. It is in my bones to hate them all." Unless you've been a white man, you don't know what it means to have that said to you.

I told those Negroes how I, an ordinary Englishman, had made the experiment of listening to the voice of God, the inner voice that speaks to each human heart. I saw it was the selfishness, arrogance and pride of men like myself which had caused untold suffering and injustice.

When I spoke to the Mau Mau, detained in the Athi River Camp in Kenya, they covered their faces. They would not look at a white man. My first words were, "I was born white. I could not help it, could I?" They began to look at me. It began to slide upon their understanding it was as immature and ignorant to hate a man because he was born white, as to hate him because he was born black, brilliant, foolish, ugly, beautiful, big, small, Jew or Arab. When I had finished, their leaders said, "If we had dreamed white men could think as we heard you speak today, there would have been no Mau Mau in Kenya."

Some of these former Mau Mau leaders have become my friends. They save white men change. They learned that black men, too, could change. They changed. They now are fighting with people of all races to bring God's revolution to Africa. They understand that violence, sometimes regarded as a good servant, can swiftly become a bad master, and that history never long remains on the side of hate. Hate knows no color bar. Neither does love. Heart power is America's strength. Hate power is her weakness.

The two Negroes said to me, "Do you think education and environment can change human nature?" I long for every man, woman and child to have the best education and environment civilization can provide, but neither environment nor education changed me. God did.

God made men in different colors. A white man's world — in the sense that a white man because of the color of his skin, is closer to God than his neighbor — affronts the will of the Almighty and the conscience of humanity. So does a black man's world. So does a world of yellow or red domination. We need a world where all men walk the earth with the dignity of brotherhood that should be normal to all who accept the fatherhood of God.

The Negro is neither worse nor better than his neighbor. The same is true of the white man. We all have our loftier side, and our more debased.

America will set the continents free when she experiences lasting freedom — freedom from the immaturity of hate, the underdevelopment of selfishness, and the infatuation of impurity and dirt. We exploit our wife or somebody else's wife, our neighbor, our business rival, and scream out against exploitation.

We white men are prone to tell everybody else what to do. But we are too proud to listen to the voice of God and, in obedience, learn what to do ourselves. We preach unity and call ourselves the United Kingdom or the United States. We transfer idealism to the United Nations but we remain, behind the doors of homes, offices, churches, deeply divided by jealousy, ambition, greed or prejudice. I pray the black man does not fall into the white man's ways in this regard.

Today, the long-awaited tide of history flows toward the non-white races. That tide will lift burdens of centuries and wipe out bloodstains in the sands of time.

Be sure it elevates all humanity. You cannot expect every Negro, any more than every white man, to be a genius of ability, a paragon of virtue, a miracle of grace. But I hope, pray and expect that the Negro people of the United States will have the wisdom and human greatness to avoid mistakes that men like myself have made.

The black man's chance is surely coming. What will he do with it? I do not say, "Be patient." I say, "Be passionate for something far bigger than color. Be passionate for an answer big enough to include everybody, powerful enough to change everybody, fundamental enough to satisfy the longings for bread, work and the hope of a new world that lies in the heart of the earth's teeming millions."

Segregation yesterday. Confrontation today. Transformation tomorrow. Let the hands of the black man stretch out above the heads of governments and nationalities to welcome all people ready with them to remake the modern world.

Unless we accept a world aim, we may be lost in narrow disputations. It is difficult, if not impossible, for others to place confidence in a system of democracy that preaches inalienable rights of the individual with its lips but robs men of their rights with its customs. Yet, nothing would suit the enemies of freedom more than to see this country tear itself apart, preoccupying itself with internal strife, while dictatorship takes over the world. Some demagogues, white and black, inside and outside America, desire to push the problem for the sake of personal power instead of curing it for the sake of all people.

It remains my belief that cross-less Christians do more to camouflage the reality of Christ's revolution from humanity than any Communist or Fascist.

There are sincere men who have no faith in God. To them it can be said, "Accept the challenge of living the way you would wish to see your neighbor live." Absolute moral standards of honesty, purity, unselfishness and love are a yardstick by which all men can measure their conduct. If you have a standard, it must be absolute. Otherwise, it is no standard. And those four standards may prove a ladder that leads a man toward faith.

My faith is in modern America. I believe Americans will arise with a character that convicts, captivates and changes nations. I believe those who have suffered most will show the greatest passion and compassion for long — suffering humanity. I believe those who have been victims of the worst discrimination will be the first to heal the hates and fears of others because they themselves are free from fear and hate. I am convinced men and women who for generations have drunk the water of tears and eaten the bread of bitterness will give living water and the bread of life to millions, trembling, longing, hoping, waiting, praying, for the new type of man and the new type of society that will lead the world into lasting justice, liberty and peace.

Those who have passed through the fires of persecution can hold forth one hand to persecutors and persecuted alike, and with the other uplift a flame of freedom to illuminate the earth.

BOOK REVIEW

THE MOVEABLE FEAST

by Ernest Hemingway

After reading Hemingway's book, its last sentence, "But this is how Paris was in the early days when we were very poor and very happy," can put a lump in your throat. Nostalgic, sentimental, this book of Hemingway's is essentially a love song to his first wife, Hadley, and to Paris.

Paris! With what lyrical charm does Hemingway describe its many features. The cafe where he would order cafe au lait, the long walks through crooked streets, the bakeries and good bread smells, the River Seine, the changing seasons.

"With so many trees in the city, you could see the spring coming each day until a night of warm wind would bring it suddenly in one morning. Sometimes the heavy cold rains would beat it back so that it would seem that it would never come and that you were losing a season out of your life. In those days, though, the spring always came finally but it was frightening that it had nearly failed."

Married in the fall of 1921, the Hemingways sailed for Paris in December. He was a staff correspondent for The Toronto Star until after his son was born. The three of them lived over a sawmill and every day Ernest would go off and spend the day writing, sometimes in cafes or a rented hotel room. He disciplined himself as a writer, knowing when to stop writing for the day so he would be able to begin on the following one. He tried "to make instead of describe." Or, as he put it, "What did I know best that I had not written about and lost? What did I know about truly and care for most?"

Writing short stories, happy with his wife and child, Hemingway was slowly getting published. The temper of their life together haunts him again and again. "But then we did not think ever of ourselves as poor," he writes. "We did not accept it. We thought we were superior people and other people that we looked down on and rightly mistrusted were rich."

Or, as he says again, "But Paris was a very old city and we were young and nothing was simple there, not even poverty, nor sudden money, nor the moonlight, nor right and wrong, nor the breathing of someone who lay beside you in the moonlight."

In between all the fun of gambling at horse racing to augment their income, taking ski trips, going to Spain, the Hemingways met other writers. One of their first contacts was Sylvia Beach and her bookshop, Shakespeare and Co. Sherwood Anderson had written a letter of introduction for them. Hemingway had strong likes (he liked Sylvia and Ezra Pound) and dislikes where people were concerned.

How far this could be carried out is shown after his meeting with Wyndham Lewis. He went home and told his wife, "I met the nastiest man I've ever seen today." Nor did he leave it there. He went around to Gertrude Stein, whom he liked up to a point, and she added to the Lewis image by calling him "The Measuring Worm." Malicious, humorous literary gossip, no doubt. Gertrude herself is finally denigrated along with Ford Madox Ford, Ernest Walsh, et al. Scott Fitzgerald is handled with a certain affection, but he completely levels his wife, Zelda.

Into his book with all the lyrical romance evoked of those Paris days, the youthful and tender beauty of his first marriage, Hemingway added a drop of poison. But as one colleague said, "It didn't spoil the taste for me."

Resident Enjoys Local Beauties; Asks for Signs

Editor of the Star:

The Common is a lovely spot to enjoy in the center of town and great appreciation should go to the people responsible for its beauty.

The setting in front of the Memorial at the Town Hall is a great addition, as well as the garden on the circle under the railroad. Would that we could also see a snowfence put across the corner at the beach, barring off the dangerous hole! We have danger signs all over town at bumps in the road, private ways, construction, new curbs. Why is there such difficulty about putting one at Wedge Pond, which, regardless of whether it is officially closed, is adjacent to a play area and tennis courts?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Robert A. Drake

Bloodmobile Day Failure-Success Is Discussed

Editor of the Star:

Last Thursday the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited Winchester for the purpose of providing those who were so minded an opportunity to contribute blood.

Whether or not it was a success is a matter of relative values.

When one considers the adult population of Winchester, or the overall need for blood of a community this large, or the usual generosity of Winchester residents of their time and financial resources, or the number of pints of blood contributed per capita with towns of like size, then there can be only one conclusion: the results of last Thursday show up as a dismal failure. If, on the other hand, we look at the marvelous turnout of our policemen and firemen, or look at the number of multiple donors on the list again this time, or consider the faithfulness of the numerous volunteers, or the donated time of the very busy doctors of Winchester, we can only draw the conclusion that it couldn't have been a greater success.

The measurement of success or failure is often an intangible, elusive item. When such a poor showing in numbers of donors occurs as it did last week, the many volunteers become disheartened, the regular donors start reflecting about their share of this moral burden and Winchester receives another mark as a low-responsive town.

Five hundred cards were mailed to previous donors prior to the arrival of the Bloodmobile. This group usually responds quite well. It is obvious that there exists a pressing need to increase the total number of givers.

Winchester is fortunate in having so many capable workers in its Red Cross Blood Program. It would be a terrible shame indeed if we failed to recognize the importance of this vital effort, and neglected to support it in the usual Winchester fashion; i.e., with fervency and zeal.

Sincerely,
Henry T. Gerould

Posted Warning Signs at Beaches Urged by Parents

Editor of the Star:

In behalf of the Parents of the Winchester School Children, we strongly urge the Town of Winchester to clearly post signs when the beaches are not open for Public use. We, who have been residents for some time, may know of the unwritten rule; but, is it not our responsibility to think of the new comer to our community? How is he to know if the area is unsafe if the signs are not posted or the area closed by fence or chains?

The new person is not always aware of the hazards that we take for granted. Please, do not let the accident of a few weeks ago happen again.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Henry T. Gerould, president

Citizen Admires Winchester's "Shining Jewel"

Editor of the Star:

It seems that no matter by which route one enters this town, there are beautiful things to see, nice houses, green lawns and colorful gardens; but over all, one is aware of the trees lining the streets. Then at the various rotary circles are the shrubs and plants, adding charm and loveliness to what might otherwise be simply a plot of ground, functional and unadorned. This letter is just to let you and the men who are responsible for all this pleasure, know that one citizen of the town really appreciates it! I am certain others are grateful for your efforts, too; seldom do we take the time to speak of our approval.

Due to generosity and cooperation of individuals and civic groups, the Common has been transformed from a rather shabby, unattractive area into a place of real beauty where one enjoys sitting on a bench to view the flowering bushes, the lovely corner rock garden, the few magnificent trees, and do some "people-watching."

The entire project is worthy of our pride, but it is only due to the constant attention and careful work that the Park Department carries on each day that keeps these places in such fine condition. The pink and white plants against the evergreen shrubs which are under the railroad bridge in the Center are particularly appealing.

To all who have in any way worked or given to make Winchester the shining jewel it is, my thanks.

Most sincerely,
Mrs. Harry L. Benson

Civil Rights Bill Is Not a "Farce" Writer Proposes

Editor of the Star:

Last week, a writer in this column of the Star stated his belief that the Civil Rights Bill would "make a farce" of the United States Constitution. I should like to be included among the chorus of those who are amused at such an opinion. Would it not be more correct to state that the bill will begin to extend constitutional rights to the people for whom, until now, the Constitution itself has been a farce? For instance, the 15th Amendment guarantees voting rights to all regardless of color. Can anyone deny that this right has been a farce in some sections of the country?

For those who would like to see a summary of the entire bill, one appears in the May 29th edition of "Time." President Kennedy, President Johnson, and Congress have worked long and hard to work out a bill which will be fair to all. I urge all Winchester citizens to write both Senator Saltonstall and Senator Kennedy and congratulate them for their efforts. We should also express our indignation that the will of the majority is being thwarted by this filibuster. What respect for the democratic process do these congressional leaders have who use this tactic?

Yours truly,
Emmons S. Ellis

Notes on Awards By Scholarship Foundation in '64

Editor of the Star:

Too often in this busy world of ours we fail to take the time to say "thank you."

It was, in addition to announcing the Winchester Scholarship Foundation awards, the sole purpose of my speech. No thanks to Mother Nature, I fear that the context of my speech was lost in the mad scramble to open umbrellas or flee the scene entirely.

The Foundation did not grow like "Topsy," it was the result of dedicated efforts by parents and teachers to help young people prepare themselves for their life's work. The recipients of this year's awards will be occupying positions as doctors, lawyers, engineers, teachers, nurses, secretaries, etc. a few short years from now. You, the people, have financed this GIVING IT THEIR ALL at the annual Lincoln-Washington School jamboree on Saturday was a group of elementary school athletes. Give them a few years and those muscles will be out in Middlesex League Competition of one kind or another.

Foundation—with a little prodding from our finance committee, headed by Levon Boodakian, and Henry Van Dyke. I might add that organizations such as En Ka, Kiwanis and Rotary have never needed prodding.

The Scholarship Committee, consisting of Mrs. Robert Ingraham, John McElwée, Hartley Rogers and Howard Niblock have processed the applications. We had 40 this year. I thank each and every one for the long but happy hours spent this past winter. I am going to miss them.

In the Guidance office Miss Constance Frickert and Bernard Silva were always ready with advice and counsel. The teachers gave of their time and friendly interest; and Miss Goodrich, head of the art department, has for the past fifteen years or more lettered all of the awards given by the Foundation. To spend many weekends with pen and ink rather than work in one's own garden is true dedication. To boil it all down in one sentence, "We are people helping people."

A new named scholarship this year is to honor two beloved teachers, whom we have lost through death: F. Meredith Cooper and John D. Stevens. I am particularly happy that this first year I had the honor to bestow the Cooper-Stevens Scholarship to the daughter of one of their best friends, Miss Rebecca Fitts.

Sincerely,

Police

Earlier last week, on Tuesday morning, five-year-old Susan Horn of 457 Washington Street was struck by an automobile operated by Paul Ward of Stone Avenue when she ran across the street from Leonard Field toward her house, according to Officer Donald Pigott, who witnessed the accident. The girl was transported to the Winchester Hospital, treated and released.

In other police news this week, several contractors notified police of vandalism incidents over the weekend on Monday. At an Olive Street development, vandals broke windows and tore out thermostats from a house under construction. The damage there was estimated at about $100. On Ridge Street, windows were broken and other malicious damage was reported in a new home being built. Damage was estimated at about $200. And at Assembled Homes, Inc., on Holton Street, the owner informed police that someone broke 75 windows with stones and pop bottles over the weekend.

Saint Mary's Class Day

On Tuesday afternoon, June 9, the graduating class of 1964 of St. Mary's School were guests of honor at the annual Class Day banquet.

Present at the Class Day exercises were the pastor, Monsignor John J. Manion, the parish priests and the faculty. The program commenced with a catered dinner, the gift of the pastor to the graduates.

Desiring that the students actively witness their faith was the exhorting message of the class president, James Hession.

The Class Will and Class Prophecy were delivered by Susan Crimmins and John Sylvester respectively.

"Citation for Courage," the class play expressed many of the sentiments of the graduates. Monsignor Manion then awarded the class pictures and pins to the students.

The thanks and appreciation for the many opportunities and benefits resulting from a Catholic education were expressed by the students and concluded a delightful afternoon.

casts, and various fault surfaces, among many other varied and unusual sights.

Included in Saturday's program was a trip to a limestone cave, which many of the students enjoyed most of all for it went down about 30 feet, and underground for about a quarter of a mile. As could be expected, when they concluded their studies of the limestone formations, they exited wet and covered with mud.

On Sunday, the group traveled to the Callahan quarry to see and collect rich assemblage of brachiopods, trilobites, and other fossil remains.

The entire group, about 60 strong, returned to Winchester around 6 o'clock on Sunday night, laden with collector's items and much the richer experienced on the wonders of earth science.

Benefits

care to self-employed business and professional men, farmers and agricultural workers, and other groups. As a result, several million people whose work was brought under social security are now receiving benefits.

Others qualified through amendments which reduced the amount of work needed to get benefits. One change — lowering the age at which older people can get benefits from 65 to 62—accounts for 1.8 million out of the 19 million people now entitled to benefits. The amendments also introduced a new protection under social security—disability benefits—and 1.5 million disabled workers and their dependents now receive benefits under the disability provisions of the law.

Loan

(1.75 per cent), State Street Bank and Trust Company (1.75 per cent), Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company (1.75 per cent), and the National Shawmut Bank of Boston (1.75 per cent).

The first loan of the year, $40,000 incurred on March 30, matures one day before the second note is due on November 3. The second loan is occasioned mainly by the heavy teacher summer payroll, which is distributed in one lump sum at the conclusion of the school year in June.

Democratic Town Committee

Last evening there was an important meeting in the City Council Chambers, Medford. It was called by the newly-elected chairman of the Medford Ward and City Committee, Daniel G. Harley.

Dan Harley, young and vigorous, and a recent law school graduate, envisions a successful campaign in the Medford area during the upcoming convention, primary, and election.

Invited to last night's meeting were the delegates from the two senatorial districts in Medford and the delegates from Arlington and Winchester.

Tonight, Thursday, there will be a reception at the Commonwealth Motor Inn (Amher Room), 575 Commonwealth Avenue (at Kenmore Square) for Senator Mario Umama. This affair is for the delegates and Senator Umama, who represents the Second Suffolk District, will discuss his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor.

The big pre-convention party in Woburn will take place on Wednesday evening, June 17, at the American Legion Hall at the Four Corners in that city. This is a change in the date and chairman Lawrence Gilman of the Woburn City Committee called our chairman, Elizabeth McDonald, to make sure she and Mr. McDonald would be able to attend on that date.

As soon as the convention has ended on June 20, the local Democratic Committee will swing into action, setting up meetings here in town to which will be invited the several candidates who are not running for constitutional offices. It will be an interesting interim between the June convention and the September primary.

In the meantime, the committee for the cookout will begin the formulation of its plans for our July "big time."

A late invitation has come from Senator Mario Umama, inviting the local Democratic delegates to attend a reception and informal social meeting at Simeone's, White Spot, Four Corners, Woburn, on Friday evening, June 12, at 8 p.m. It is expected that our delegates will attend this meeting.

Think tall.

The Volkswagen Station Wagon is only nine inches longer than the little VW Sedan. Yet it holds more than the biggest conventional wagon.

How? Perhaps this picture explains it. Ideally in a station wagon, you need maximum room and minimum length. The Volkswagen people have answered this with a taller car. (The entire top of the VW wagon is level. There isn't a wasted inch in it.)

This is why things that will not fit in any conventional wagon fit easily inside the VW wagon. An upright piano standing upright. A standard bridge table opened up. Eight adults with all their luggage. (Or, if you open the sun-roof, a huge, old-fashioned wardrobe.)

When you realize that the VW wagon is a good four feet shorter than a conventional wagon, you get the picture. You're "thinking tall." (While you are, why not come in and drive a new VW wagon. And find out for yourself why so many people are "thinking tall," too.)

Baccalaureate Day Observed At Methodist Church

Sunday was observed as Baccalaureate Day at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. The young people being graduated from high school, and preparatory schools were honored and each was presented a gift of a gold lapel cross by the pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay. The Woman's Society of Christian Service also presented a book to each of the young people.

Rev. Mr. Clay preached on the subject, "When Your Ship Comes In." He said, in part, "Many people spend their lives gazing down the harbor of their future watching for some ship to come from afar bringing them a cargo of treasures that will make their life happy, satisfying and complete. But the fact of the matter is that unless we send ships out no ships will come in for us. And if we send out ships of greed, hatred, and the like, these are the ships that will come back to us. If we send out love, understanding and good-will; these are the ships that will return to us. As the old saying put it, 'Give to the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you, and in the long run this is true.'"

The young people of the church honored in this service were Robert Rae, Susan Bassford, Judith Duffee, June Haff, Janet Herrmann, Theodore Longworth, Barbara Monsen, David Needham, Norma Stafford, Robert Emmons, Diane Crawford, Shirley Petersen, John Wile, Karen Klippel, John Perry.

Terence C. Golden Awarded Prize At Governor Dummer

Among the Governor Dummer Academy graduates this year is Terence C. Golden, son of Mrs. J. Laurence Golden, 10 Robinson Park, who was awarded a special prize at the commencement dinner of the school.

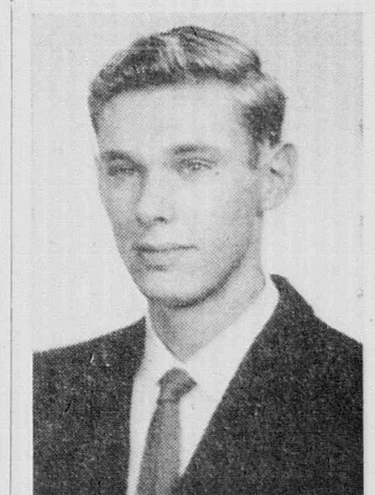

TERENCE C. GOLDEN

In making the presentation Headmaster Valleeau Wilkie, Jr. said: "This prize is awarded to a young man who possesses unusual perseverance and rare loyalty. Through his own efforts, he turned a weak academic performance into a solid position in the upper half of his class; through tremendous will and patience, he pulled himself from physical incapacity to renewed athletic greatness. But perhaps most significantly he has had the desire and courage in a blase and sophisticated age to speak and show his unusual devotion and loyalty to friend and to school."

Terence was president of the glee club, manager of the football team, captain of the winter track team and its most valuable player. He also served as a library proctor.

Patent Awarded To Schmader On Centrifuge Eq.

Richard W. Schmader of 27 Leslie Road and David F. Mitchell of Tewksbury were the recipients on May 19 of U. S. patent no. 3,133,882, entitled "Centrifuges With Retainers, Retainers, And Bottle Stoppers For Use Therewith."

A centrifuge is a device which rotates at very high speed and functions to separate solids from liquids, or liquids from other liquids dispersed therein. It is essential that there should be a difference in the specific gravity of the substances to be separated. As examples of their industrial uses, centrifuges are employed to separate cream from milk and for the clarifying of lacquers.

In a common construction, a centrifuge includes a rotatable head portion with a series of properly arranged and inclined bottle receiving cavities. Although stainless steel bottles are available for this purpose, their cost is such that it is a much wider practice to centrifuge the material in plastic bottles.

However, according to Messrs. Schmader and Mitchell, these plastic bottles, while considerably less expensive than those made of stainless steel, have the disadvantage that, unless suitably confined, they become distorted during use of the centrifuge because of their flexibility and "cold flow" properties. It is the usual practice to have the stoppered ends of the bottles protrude from their cavities in the centrifuge, thereby making such areas very likely to be distorted with consequent rupture of the bottle or a permanent change in its shape.

It is the object of this invention of Messrs. Schmader and Mitchell to overcome this limitation and thus they have devised a centrifuge which, as its advantageous feature, includes a retainer with a number of seats, one for each bottle-receiving cavity of the centrifuge. The seats are of such shape and dimensions, and are so arranged, that they serve effectively as backing members which prevent damaging distortion of the plastic bottles during use of the centrifuge.

As described in detail in the specifications and drawings of the patent, the invention also provides an improved construction of stopper for use with the plastic bottles.

This patent has been assigned to International Equipment Company, Boston.

Gardenesque

By James Batten

Identify That Bug

There's an old saying around sports arenas: "You can't tell the players without a program." One could say the same about all the different bugs which attack garden plants; it's hard to identify them unless you have some sort of chart to go by.

This week I have compiled an alphabetical listing of 19 of New England's most notorious garden pests. A description of the bug, the damage it does, the plants it attacks and control measures are given.

Heading both the alphabetical and "most bothersome" listing is the Aphid. It is a soft, pear-shaped insect found in every conceivable color. The adult's maximum length is one-quarter of an inch; they do damage not only by sucking plant juices but also by carrying bacterial and virus diseases.

They are found in clusters on all parts of just about every plant known. Affected specimens often wilt and have misformed leaves and flowers. Nicotine sulfate or any other of the contact poisons must be applied regularly.

Black vine weevils are hard, black, wingless and three-eighths of an inch long. They make themselves known during mid-May and disappear during late July. They are chewing insects which devour the leaves or broad leaf evergreens. They work at night and hide under the leaves during sunlit hours.

A stomach poison is needed to control these pests; it is obvious that very thorough spraying must be done—that means the underside of each leaf.

Caterpillars are the insects most often found hanging by a single silky thread from a tree branch. Their green bodies are three-quarters of an inch long and are often striped with various colors. Hatching in the fall, the caterpillar will turn into a small moth.

Like most other caterpillars, the caterpillars eat leaves in great profusion. Very lethal lead arsenate is a sure cure, but some gardeners may wish to use DDT.

Chinch bugs are tiny black things with white wings and red legs. They ruin grasses and grain crops by puncturing the stems; in lawns, their presence is argued by an ever increasing area of brown, bordered by yellow.

This tell-tale sign results as the bugs migrate to greener pastures. They are most damaging in hot, dry weather. Keeping the lawn well watered and healthy will get you off to a good start in discouraging these bugs from coming. Once they're in your lawn, chlordane will kill them.

Horn worms are four inch green caterpillars which will turn into those enormous gray moths with the five inch wing spread. The caterpillars devour the leaves of vegetable plants - peppers, potatoes, eggplants, etc.

Since the insect is so large and ostentatious, removing by hand is the most effective cure; stomach poisons also work, but not on such a "got'em for sure" basis.

Japanese beetles are the all too familiar metallic-green and copper color bug found on just about every plant. In case you've noticed, they prefer flowers to foliage. Frequent applications of contact poisons is the only way to keep this pest under control.

Stem borers penetrate the trunks of broadleaf evergreens and such thick stemmed plants as dahlias and some vegetable plants. Their presence is indicated by holes in the stems.

The insect is a white, yellow, pink or brown caterpillar. Getting rid of these pests is a lengthy job, but if they have attacked your prize rhododendron, it's worth the effort.

Carbon bisulphide must be squirted into each hole which must then be plugged with putty. Painting the stems with paradichloro-benzene will ward off the pests.

Tarnish plant bugs are about one-quarter of an inch long, oval shaped, and are yellow, white or black. All have a characteristic yellow triangle of their backs.

They cause leaves to misform, terminal shoots to blacken, fruit to be pitted; they are found on most annuals, perennials and shrubs. Since the adults live over the winter in weeds, cleaning up all debris each fall is a good preventative. A contact poison applied just before the flowers on the plant open is a good cure.

Thrips are small winged flies which have a sucking beak. Their presence causes leaves to be wrinkled and bleached, flowers to be deformed and bulbs to be soft. They are found most often on herbaceous perennials which live from year to year.

A stomach poison will control this pest.

Church of Christ Names Froderman Church President

A call to use "spiritual power" to help solve the world's "thorny problems of human relations and race inequalities" greeted Christian Scientists at their Annual Meeting on June 8.

Leafhoppers are one-half inch long, wedge shaped insects found in green, yellow, grey or white. They suck out cell juices and carry virus diseases.

Infected plants appear stunted and wilted; leaves are often curled. Fruit and ornamental trees are most often attacked; the insects are sometimes found in annuals and perennials as well. A sure cure is the application of a stomach poison at two week intervals.

Leaf miners are small flies which eat tunnels through leaves; they affect ornamental trees and some perennials. A contact poison is necessary but, since it is hard to hit a moving target, or one which is within a leaf, the only sure cure is to cut and burn the infected parts.

Leaf tiers are small green caterpillars which secrete silky threads with which they tie leaves together. The caterpillar is three-quarters of an inch long and will turn into a small brown moth in the fall.

Attacking any kind of plant, these pests are best controlled by any good stomach poison. Applying an insecticide before the infestation gets too bad puts you ahead of the game.

Mealy bugs are tiny oval pests covered with short bristles and granular mealy substance. They move slowly; although they have wings of a sort, mealy bugs seldom fly.

They are found most often on stems rather than on leaves, attacking all greenhouse and garden plants, shrubs and orchards. Contact poisons are effective; if a heavy infestation is noted this summer, apply a dormant oil spray early next spring.

Mexican bean beetles make lace-work out of the leaves of bush and pole bean plants. The beetles are small and a coppery color with 16 black dots on their back. They live over the winter and appear during mid June. They do their harm from the underside of the leaves.

It is easier to prevent the appearance of these beetles than to control them with spray, so be sure to burn all rubbish in the fall. An insecticide in dust form seems to be more effective than a liquid, should the beetles appear.

Spider mites are tiny wingless insects colored black, brown, red, yellow or green. They are most often found in groups of just about every kind of tree, bush, annual or perennial. They gather on the underside of leaves and spin tiny cobwebs.

Any spray with a nicotine compound in it is specially effective in the fight against this pest.

Rose chafers are long narrow bugs, usually brown in color, which chew holes in the leaves of most flowering plants and fruit trees. They appear when roses bloom; the bug has lengthy spider-like legs and moves awkwardly.

A stomach poison applied when the pest first appears will keep you relatively free of them.

Scale - scale insects are, in my opinion, the most unliving-looking insects in existence. The pests are brown, yellow or grey and are found on the trunk and stems of fruit trees and most flowering shrubs. Most scale insects are oval, some have wings.

The only way to rid yourself of them after they have heavily infested a plant is, sorry to say, to burn the plant. An oil spray in the early spring is a good preventative, malathion has some effect on the bugs themselves.

Stem borers penetrate the trunks of broadleaf evergreens and such thick stemmed plants as dahlias and some vegetable plants. Their presence is indicated by holes in the stems.

The insect is a white, yellow, pink or brown caterpillar. Getting rid of these pests is a lengthy job, but if they have attacked your prize rhododendron, it's worth the effort.

168th N. E. Methodist Church Conference

The 168th session of the New England Annual Conference of the Methodist Church is being held this week on the campus of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The Rev. H. Newton Clay and Vincent P. Clarke are representing the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Every church in the New England Conference is entitled to both a ministerial and a lay member.

Bishop James K. Mathews is presiding. The memorial address was given yesterday by the Rev. Arthur Newcomb of Westfield. At tonight's session there will be a dramatic re-enactment of the "Service of Re-union" to celebrate the re-uniting of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Church South and the Methodist Protestant Church into one body to create the present Methodist Church, a church which now numbers nearly 11 million members. The re-union took place just 25 years ago.

It is expected that about twenty-five young men will be ordained at the closing service on Sunday afternoon following which Bishop Mathews will read the appointments for the ensuing year. It is expected that the Rev. H. Newton Clay will be re-appointed to Winchester and will begin his seventh year as pastor of Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday, June 21.

Navy Technical School Equals 2 Years College

The U. S. Navy Recruiting Service last week announced that East Coast Aero Technical School graduates have been fully qualified for entry into the Navy Junior College training program.

This means that the Navy now recognizes Aero Tech training as the equivalent of two years of college. Graduates of the Hanscom Field, Lexington, aeronautical school who enter the Naval service will now be guaranteed assignment to the specialist training program of their choice, and credited with 38 semester hours toward any program of higher education. Further information about this program may be obtained at the local Navy Recruiting Station, City Hall, Medford.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"The School of Experience is the most expensive educational institution in the world," said a Western lumberman, Cy Doherty. "Just one lesson cost me a fortune. But I'm glad to tell people what I learned, free of charge in the hope they may avoid a similar mistake."

"I saved my money and bought a small lumber mill for $55,000. This was the realization of a lifelong dream. The mill made good money. The world looked rosy. But the fire insurance rate on the mill seemed frightfully high. I sincerely felt I couldn't afford much coverage. I took out a fire policy for just the amount I owed on the mill - $3700.

"Then a fire struck. The flames greedily ate up my entire investment - the mill burned to the ground. The shock was so great I don't remember what happened that night; but my wife says I sat with my head in my hands, moaning to myself in disbelief.

"Not buying adequate fire insurance cost me $51,000! But worst of all, since life is too short at best, I figure it set me back SEVEN YEARS, right in the prime of life, towards realizing my goal."

We pass along this true story with the sincere hope that you will profit by Cy's costly lesson. May we review your fire insurance coverage NOW—before it's too late?

HIS THIRD CADILLAC... HIS FIRST NEW ONE

This man is enjoying his first brand-new Cadillac—after becoming acquainted with the car's unsurpassed value by twice buying used Cadillacs.

He learned that a late model used Cadillac gave him more standard equipment and engineering advancements than most new cars.

First of all, while Cadillac's styling was continually refined, it never lost the clean, dignified look that says Cadillac and Cadillac alone. The smooth, quiet performance and complete reliability of his used Cadillac was a constant source of enjoyment. Then, too, he and his family enjoyed luxury and comfort to a degree reserved exclusively for Cadillac owners.

The pride of ownership of so distinctive a car was a never-ending pleasure, for he had the satisfaction—always—of knowing he drove the finest.

When it came time to trade his previously owned Cadillac for a later model, he found its value had held remarkably high... and returned a substantial part of his original investment.

So what could be more natural—or wise—than to make the eventual move to a new Cadillac?

New or used, there is no finer motoring investment than a Cadillac. And new or used, your authorized dealer has one to fit any budget. There's never been a better time to invest in the finest of them all.

Tennis Winners Announced By Association

The outcome in three of the four events was determined on Sunday in the Annual Spring Doubles Draw Tournament. The contests culminated three days of play the previous Memorial Day weekend.

In the men's doubles, the more evenly balanced team of Walter Josephson and his partner, Dwight Bellows, Jr., had an uphill fight against Shep Holt and Ganson Taggart before winning 5-7, 6-3, 6-4. Holt and Taggart came close to upsetting the form charts.

The mixed doubles saw Ted White and Janet Hughes call up their greater experience to defeat two game and talented juniors, Mike Hills and Ann Walsh, 6-1, 6-3.

The women's doubles resulted in a victory for Dorothy Hills and Sue Westwater over the Betty Horton-Diane Kittredge tandem, 6-3, 6-1. Mrs. Hills, who had conducted a tennis clinic the day before for eighty local youngsters, displayed her teaching credentials in leading her team to their triumph.

Bob and Billy Keeton finished up the afternoon by defeating Bob Kittredge and his daughter, Diane, in a semi-finals match of the family doubles event, 7-5, 6-2. The Keetons will now play another father-son team, Arthur and Gerry Hills, who had completed their half of the draw on schedule.

All sixteen finalists are receiving handsome silver Revere bowls, given by the Winchester Tennis Association, which sponsored the popular event.

Hamilton B.A. Is Received By Frederick Marks

Frederick H. Marks, son of Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marks, of 32 Foxcroft Road, received a bachelor of arts degree from Hamilton College on Sunday, June 7.

The commencement speaker was J. Irwin Miller of Columbus, Indiana, an industrialist and immediate past president of the National Council of Churches.

THESE TWO EX-SACHEMS, George Neville (1) and Paul Del Rossi, were primary reasons why Harvard had a successful season this year. Sophomore Neville surprised a lot of observers with his consistency both at bat and field; senior Del Rossi hurled his way to a permanent notch in the Crimson hall of fame by winning more games than any other pitcher in history. A third Winchesterite, who wasn't available when this photograph was taken, was also instrumental in Harvard's success. He is trainer Pete Provinzano.

Town Softball League

Since the last article went to press, the V.F.W. easily defeated the Health Lab last Wednesday 15-5. The winners went into a 2-0 lead in the second inning but in its own half of the frame the Health Lab tied it up on hits by Paul Hahn, John Gagliastro, George Burns and Bob Newcombe. The Vets had a big fifth inning when it scored twelve runs with the following having a big part of the bowling: Mr. Non, Tom and Chug Cogan, Bill Bond, Pat O'Brien, Jim Rae, John Zaffina, Frank Novelli and John Coley. The win was the third for the V.F.W. with one loss while the Health Lab has one victory in five tries.

The most tense and exciting game to date was played between the Elks and S.O.I. on Thursday of a week ago with the S.O.I. getting by 9-5. The game was nip and tuck all the way and could have been anybody's game until the S.O.I. broke loose in the last two stanzas. Both teams got one hit in the first inning then the S.O.I. broke the scoring column when Don Kenton opened with a walk and was advanced on Dave Kline's sacrifice; Haynesworth then singled in Kenton with the first tally in the game. The Elks' Jack Foley and John Mawn connected for singles but were left stranded in the bottom of the second. Joe Tomasi set the S.O.I. down in order to open the third and after Richie Walsh opened with a double for the Elks Dave Kline fanned Kevin Mawn and Tim Walsh and Ed Fitzgerald grounded out.

The S.O.I. tallied once more in the fourth on Jake Garcia's single and an error that pushed Jake to third while Kenton reached and Jake finally came in on Roy Penta's grounder. Not letting up, however, while trailing 2-0, the Elks decided to do something about it and as a result they were in the lead 4-2 at the end of the fourth when they batted around and scored on hits by Richie Casalunovo, Kevin Mawn and Joe Tomasi while walks were issued to Richie Walsh and Jack Foley. An error also brought in the fourth run.

The Sons did not like the idea of trailing 4-2 so in the fifth Bob McNamara opened with a walk, singled Pete Gilberti flied to short and Sam Bellino connected for a double to right to tally McNamara and Woozie Giacalone and Sam then crossed a pop fly to Jake Garcia got his second single. Dave Kline singled to push Jake to third but that is as far as they reached when Haynesworth ended the inning by flying out to center.

The score was tied again at 5-5 in the fifth when Tim Walsh popped to first, Jack Foley singled, was advanced on John Mawn's bunt and came in with the tying run on a passed ball.

Neither team did anything in the sixth but Jake Garcia opened the last inning for the S.O.I. by getting his third base hit, Kenton walked and pitcher Kline helped his own cause by singling in Garcia and with two on Haynesworth bunted and all hands were safe. Joe Flaherty connected for a safety to score Kenton and Kline and with Haynesworth and Flaherty aboard, Woozie Giacalone doubled to bring in two more to put the game on ice. With two out the Elks' Jack Foley doubled and John Mawn singled but the game ended with Frank Novelli striking out.

This marked the first loss for the Elks after winning 4 straight and gave the S.O.I. its third win and one loss.

Monday evening's game between Calidyne and the Shamrocks was postponed because of rain and will be played at a later date.

On Tuesday evening the Sachems shocked the V.F.W. by a close 7-6 score. The Vets were the first to enter the scoring column when they crossed pay dirt twice in the second, one in the third, three in the fourth and one more in the final stanza. The Sachems had one in the second, two in the third, two in the fourth and the last two in the last inning. Charlie Allen pulled the gem of the game when he belted one of Billy Bond's deliveries for a "home" but after crossing the plate, the first baseman called for the ball, tagged first and umpire Mike Saraco called Charlie out for failing to touch the base. Bobby Colby pulled a fast one on a line drive hit down the third base line by John Zaffina. Bobby made a dive toward the bag and caught the ball which otherwise would have gone for extra bases.

W. H. S. Girls' Tennis Team Undeclared

Winchester High School's Girls' Tennis Team was undeclared for the third successive year. Captain Kandy McConnell led her teammates to decisive victories over traditional rivals Belmont, Lexington, Melrose, Concord, Arlington, Lincoln Sudbury, Stoneham, and Newton.

The match with a strong Newton team was the highlight of the season. Winchester prevailed five-1 love. No individual match was lost by a Winchester girl. The season's staggering final tally was forty-nine wins for Winchester, and none for the opponents.

Members of this great team were Kandy McConnell, Ann Walsh, Diane Kittredge, Lynn Anderson, Judy Belliveau, Carolyn Kell, Honey Lynch, Jan Klipple, Dottie Hilliger, Martha Stebbins, Becca Armstrong, and Betsy McCreery, Manager.

The Year In Retrospect

A writer's job is to observe and to write the truth as he sees it. He is not always right but tries to maintain a sincerity of purpose. Since last fall he has made a few friends, a few enemies, and many, many critics. It was a year that wasn't entirely successful, but which was, in retrospect, entirely rewarding. He met people, saw many things, and shared many experiences. He will remember it all.

Last Sunday 320-plus stood on the grass at Manchester Field and bid farewell to WHS. It was the largest graduating class in the school's history. Among them were three of the boys in the photo above, the fourth (second from l.) is sophomore Dave Rowe. The others (l. to r.) are Gerry Hills, Ed Cutting and Barry Johnson. Remember them? Here they are gearing for action in their own zone during the Marblehead game at Boston Arena, a contest they lost 3-2, and which eliminated them from further state competition. But the Sachems had a hockey team last winter that few of us who followed will not easily forget.

The thing you remember most about them is that they never conceded anything, never let you down, even when they lost.

THERE WERE OTHERS who never let you down either. Like runner John Buckley (l.), hurdler Tibor Saddler, and discus thrower Pete Fahey. And there was a gymnastic team that took Middlesex League honors, and a captain named Mike Hammel who, like the others, worked long and hard to develop his particular talent.

Throughout a long football season that featured a lopsided loss to powerhouse Melrose, you reflect with admiration upon the tenacity of quarterback Bob Branley who kept exhorting his team against almost impossible odds, upon the line-play of Al Kimball and Vic Lawson, upon the running of Ed Cutting. You also recall Kimball and John McKenna a little later wrestling in two opposite weight classes, but both making their own marks.

Claire Denton and Carrie Paine led a championship field hockey team to a season which saw only one loss. Judy Belliveau's basketball team went undefeated and became champions in their own right. And Ann Donovan, a three-sport standout, has to be regarded as one of Winchester's best female athletes.

Brand new sports—like soccer and lacrosse—shared the spotlight this year, and gave evidence of making permanent impressions in the future. Among the individuals leaving an impression was soccer captain Randy Randlett, whom opposing coaches considered as good as many college players.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Dr. Robert Blackler edged out a large field of rugged individualists on June 3 to win the Winchester News Challenge Bowl "by the skin of his teeth!" Defending champion Migs Root made a valiant effort to repeat as she finished just two points out of first place and was the only member of the distaff among the top nine scorers.

In all, 84 players completed 21 boards (with a different partner on each board) as they struggled to come out on the plus side of the average score of 63 points.

The field was very tightly bunched at the finish, with half-point margins and dead heats the rule rather than the exception all the way down the line as evidenced by the recap sheet, reproduced below:

Dr. Robert Blackler	80 1/2
Brad Walters	80
Alan Friot	80
Sam Burwen	79

The WDBC is deeply appreciative of the recent donation of over a gross of pencils received recently from the Metropolitan Moving & Storage Company and the Winchester Bowladrome.

We are also pleased to announce that our club has been granted a sanction to participate in the nationwide charity bridge game which will be held to coincide with the summer nationals to be held in Toronto in July. Winchester players will have a chance to play hands identical to those being dealt simultaneously in Toronto. More details later from event chairman Darrell Root.

In the individual event, while others struggled, Don Dalyman simply struggled. He takes over the rest of the column for a post-mortem, below:

There are those who make it a point never to play in an individual bridge tournament. Pressed for reasons they might say, "Tried it once, and didn't like it." Or, "Until you've seen it yourself, you wouldn't believe what things your partner can do to you!"

Judging from some of the "things" seen at the tables on the night of June 3—maybe they know something. Looky, cookie:

Suppose the opposition has run out of steam in the bidding, and hang at a shaky 2 NT. Declarer takes the opening lead, and leads the heart jack toward dummy's A K x x x (with lots of nothing else for entries). You can hold the 10 x x x. Not very prosperous looking unless partner can top the jack on the way through. But with scarcely perceptible hesitation, partner plays low and the jack lives. Comes another heart. This time partner hesitates not at all, and covers the deuce with the queen! (He had a doubleton.) The ace and king clear the suit (killing your 10, of course), so declarer makes 5 NT for a beautiful cold top while others are making two or three hearts. And what goes opposite the top? And who gets it?

And another goody—on the very next hand—with a new partner. Partner (dear partner) opens the bidding with 1 club. Next hand bids a diamond. You look at 4 stinking points and pass. Next player also passes. Now partner (dear partner) has a chance to be a dear hero, with one of the biggest and most neglected bids in bridge—pass! But does she? Not this one. Let's give it another whirl: "One spade." This is known as "re-opening the bidding." It's all the opposition needs for a chance to find a nice spot in hearts, where they make 170 full points. To make as much in diamonds they'd have to take every trick! (Ed.—Easy now, Don, don't let your blood pressure affect your arithmetic.) So who gets another goose egg?

To make a complete column, we should have at least one complete hand. Here, again, the opponents have it their way. After an opening bid of 1 club by West, the dealer, East, has the contract at 4 spades. This time you have a dandy partner—one of the front runners. She's married to some kind of a dentist, who also plays bridge. She wants a quick peek at dummy (Ed.—Rather than a slow pique, we suppose), so makes the opening lead of the diamond ace. Here's what she sees:

♥ Q 10 9 6
♦ K Q
♣ A K Q 10 8

You see it, too. And you also see in your own hand:

♠ J 9 7
♥ A 8 7 5
♦ 8 6
♣ J 9 7 3

Now, which diamond should you play? If you play the 8, will she take it as a come-on-again signal? Or will she figure that diamonds are kaput already, and know that you know it likewise, so you must be trying to show a preference for a shift to the higher of the side suits—namely, hearts? Can you do any better by playing the 7? That, too, might look big enough to be a come-on signal. It certainly wouldn't look very discouraging. The 8 could be the start of high, low and out, and could conceivably lead to over-ruffing dummy on the third round, if partner might just possibly get in on the second round of trumps. But look at those 3 big clubs. Well, we can't spend the next 3 minutes thinking, so let's go. Play the 8 and see what happens. Nothing much. The roof just falls in. Diamonds come again. The dummy is in, and goes bing, bing, bing with clubs. Declarer happily drops 3 heart losers, including the king, and then goes rat-a-tat-tat with the A K Q and 4 more spades, saving the diamond jack for the last trick. You can tuck the heart ace in your pocket—you don't need it any more.

As you look at the traveling score slip you find you have a top. It's a six-way tie for top, which means that the heart ace has been in five other pockets. But it's still a top, good for 3 1/2 points. Of course, if you had somehow managed to take just one more trick, it would be a 6-point top! One during E-W pair had bid 6 and made it, for top way.

Now partner says, "Did you mean the diamond 8 as a signal to shift to hearts?" What do you say next?

I say, "There's always next week!"

Elks Lobster Night

Bob Sullivan of 203 Washington Street was the winner of the six-pound lobster at the lobster night last Friday. Each one served was given a ticket, the lucky number drawn being Bob's. It must have been something to see him struggling with a live lobster and carting him home.

Tomorrow night, June 12, that peer of Italian chefs, Nick DiZio, will prepare a special home-style dinner. Mickey Curtin will do the serving. This should be quite a treat, so drop down tomorrow night to the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue.

Future Olympic Tumblers?

PARKHURST PARENTS and students were treated to an exhibition of tumbling two weeks ago at the school by young gymnasts throughout the grades. Shown above is Marion Cincotta about to go over; left to right, Gail Pheneey, Polly DeConto and Patricia Jewell.

Everyone Enjoys Baptist Church Family Picnic

On Sunday, June 7th the church families gathered and left by cars for Grottonwood for a family picnic from 2:30 to 8:30 p.m. There was swimming in Knopp's Pond supervised by Arthur Cunningham, Jr., life guard. A family supper was enjoyed by all and free tonic and ice cream was provided.

The schedule of games is listed below with winners awarded first, second and third prize ribbons: kindergarten, 25 yard dash, 1st Chip Harbaugh, 2nd, Engchorg McNeill, 3rd, Carol Parker; primary 50 yard dash, 1st, Zane McNeill, 2nd, Richard Allison, 3rd, Janet Noel; Middle, Jr. 75 yard dash: 1st, Frank McNeill, 2nd, Cathy O'Donnell, 3rd, Cindy Allison; youth 100 yard dash, 1st, Laurie Allison, 2nd, Rose Marie McCutcheon, 3rd, Ginger Byrd; kindergarten spoon race, 1st, Engchorg McNeill, 2nd, Carol Parker, 3rd, Billy O'Donnell; primary wheelbarrow race: 1st, Jane McNeill and Ricky Allison, 2nd, Patricia Byrd and Robin Doughty, 3rd, Jody Parker and Cindy Allison.

A softball game was played with the adults against the young people. Due to the variety of ages (some little tots played too) no score was kept but a good time was had by all. The day ended with a short worship service out in the open and all were prepared to leave just minutes before the downpour of rain. The games were supervised by Gary Doughty, superintendent of Church School, assisted by judges Pat Hough, Phil McCutcheon, and Inny Noel. Scorekeeper was Marg Sorenson. And a good time was had by all!

THE REDS

Sponsored by Converse Market. The Reds have played a lot of good baseball but just haven't been chalking up marks in the win column. "We've played some close games and we have had solid pitching," was Manager Joe Julian's comment, "but the decisions have been falling away from us." Coaches Henry Petrillo and Bill Brady agree that the hitting has been good. "We get good wood on the ball and we have had our share of the long smashes but we haven't been launching our hits where they count," was the explanation by the coaching staff.

This does not mean that the Reds have given up the fight. There is a long second half to go and plenty of good baseball will be offered by this club. With an infield composed of John Campbell at first, Sandy Staniewicz as second, Paul Shanley at short and Henry Petrillo at third there is no question of playing ability. These boys can really make the infield play and hum like a well oiled machine. All of them are good stickers and Paul Stanley can be moved to second base or the center field position as necessary.

Richard Hillger does all of the catching for the club and is really a top man in this department. Rich is not any easier on the opposition when he comes to bat either. Jim Ulwick is another member of the Reds who can move from shortstop to an outfield post if there are roster changes along these lines. Jim is another of the Reds long ball hitters.

Joe Julian is the top of the pitching corps and has done his turn in shortstop and outfield positions. A veteran of three years with the Reds, Joe is a stand-out at the bat also. The pitching staff boasts of Steve Everett and John Petrillo along with young Julian. Steve can also handle an outfield post and John has been doing his share of gardening for the Reds. These three fingers have carried most of the load thus far although the team has a couple of younger members that are being readied for a pitching assignment.

Billy Woods is ready for second base duties or an outfield assignment according to the lineup listings and can do a credible job at either position. Chape Whitman has been covering an outfield position. Peter Whitman has been playing the utility role and has seen service at both infield and outfield posts.

The Reds have another trio of outfielders in Charlie Kees, Keith McPhail and Kevin Anderson. These three boys have been seen in the field and their play is improving with each game.

With Campbell, Petrillo, Julian, Hillger, Shanley, Ulwick and Staniewicz belting the ball as they have done in the past, there is no doubt that the Reds will begin to paste up some winning markers in the second half. This team has been quiet in the past couple of weeks but they are ready to explode in the remaining games of the season.

THE LEOPARDS

Sponsored by Bixby & Northrup, Realtors

"We have had a big rebuilding job and we are not through improving ourselves yet," was Manager Jim Stewart's word about the Leopards. "We don't give up easily and before this season is through the Leopards will be tough to handle without a big-game rifle. Every team in the league," Young Bill Haag, who has been coaching for Jim, is equally certain that the club is about due to click. "This team has been learning more and more with each practice session. The lessons are starting to pay off now and the rest of the season will be a far different story," was Coach Haag's appraisal of the group.

The managerial staff may not be far off the mark when you look over the Leopard roster. Paul Petranyi plays second base and can also fill in at an infield position. Paul is a good hitter and has been getting his share of the long ones. Tim Armstrong is one of the best fielding shortstops in the league. Tim's play has been sparking the infield and will add to his team's all-around skill as the season goes on.

Paul Troisi has been doing a first base job and also has been holding down an outfield post. Paul is one of the most improved players on the squad. Andy McLaughlin, Richard Dunn and Victor Romano are an outfield trio that can move around the outer gardens with jet-like speed.

Dave Craven is one of the mainstays on the Leopards. Dave pitches and also takes his turn behind the plate when the manager gives him the sign. Dave and Torrey Wallace have been the big pitchers up to now although the Leopards have been working with some of the other players who may be able to take a turn on the mound.

Mark Lombardi works the initial sack and can be switched to outfield duty when needed. John Kent is a good second baseman and a good hitter who would be an asset to any club. Bill Huff is ready to do infield or outfield duty as the lineup dictates. And Bill does a good job at either assignment.

Torrey Wallace works in the outfield when not pitching and Richard Rowse is another outfielder who can be called upon to do some catching if the need arises. Joe Gardiner holds down the hot corner and alternates with Dave Fixler at the third base job. Dave can also catch and is one of the best ballplayers in the league.

John Sauber rounds out the squad and is an outfielder who is ready to go at all times. This club has been slow in getting started but once they begin to mesh as their manager knows that they can, the rest of the league will be running for cover.

National League

THE YANKEES

Sponsored by the Rotary Club. Manager Hal Lewis shakes his head sadly when he thinks of some of the close ones that have slipped by the Yankees this year. "We are really a good club," says Hal, "but we missed opportunities here and there and there went the ball game." Coaches Arky Amico and Jeff Peckham agree with their team manager. "We don't offer excuses," they both are quick to point out, "but there are a couple of games that we would like to take back if we could."

The Yankees are well able to stand up for themselves in any company, however, for they have the fielders and they have the hitters. Bob Kittredge, who can play at any outfield position is pounding the ball with steady power. Bob is a menace to opposing pitching every time he comes to the plate.

First base is well protected by Bruce Mullen who also takes a turn at doing mound duty. Bruce is a good fielder and his hitting is improving with each game. Second base is no problem with Charlie Lewis on the sack. Charlie can also handle left field when he gets the nod and is showing up well at the plate.

Bill Wolfe is another heavy stickler who can play third and also pitch. Bill was one of the league's best hitters last season and he intends to be right up there when the final marks are in for this season as well.

George Queen is one of the most improved players on the club. George has been doing some good work behind the plate but can also handle about any position on the team. Dick Maggio is a second baseman who can show up with the best of them. Dick usually can be seen at second but his manager has also been calling on him to do an occasional pitching job and he does his usual fine work at that assignment too.

Dick Cantillon is a promising 10-year-old who plays short and pitches. Dick is going to be a hitter to be feared if his present work is any indication of his future in the batting department. Jim Grenier is another 10-year-old and Manager Lewis has high hopes for him also. Jim excels in center field and his bat is getting heavier all the time.

Frank Stitham and Bob Wolfe are two more outfielders who can cover the ground with ease. Both boys have looked better with each appearance and are valuable property to the club.

John Tobey, a good pitcher, will probably not see any action this year. John is out with a shoulder separation and his loss will be keenly felt by the Yanks. Phil Donohoe can catch and also is ready for an outfield nod if needed. Phil is improving fast and Manager Lewis is expecting great things from him.

Eric Strout is a really good 10-year-old player whose work in the outfield has impressed the managerial staff this season. Larry Spang is another good addition to any club as he can pitch and is a utility infielder. Larry is a willing performer at any position.

Steve Desher answers the call for a pitcher or a shortstop, whichever is needed. A 10-year-old stickler, Steve, is the answer to a manager's fondest wish.

Watching this club in action makes the coaching staff scratch their heads and wonder how this outfit could possibly have lost a game. They are fast and loaded with ability but there were "those" games. "That's what makes a baseball game," says Hal sadly.

THE RAMS

Sponsored by Hevey's Pharmacy. "From here on in, we can't go any place but up," Manager Cole Foley smiles. "We are playing hard and trying to improve and everything we do is going to be better than what we have been doing. So we are all set now." Coach Sacca is enthusiastic in his praise of the boys. "They try awfully hard and this sort of effort will pay off in the rest of the games I am sure," was his comment.

Greg Sacca is one of the club's good pitchers and also plays plenty of first base for the Rams. Greg is a heavy stickler and a valuable man on the team. Peter Barry is a good glove and good stick man who handles second base like he owned it. Mike McElhinney is another Rams

National League Moms Sweep Americans 19-5

With powder puffs smoking and hair-dos flying, the National League Mothers smothered the American League Moms by a 19 to 5 score at Ginn Field last Sunday. But the bravest person on the field had to be Babe Olivadoti, who called the balls and strikes with wife Peggy doing the pitching for the Nationals. If ever a man had courage, the honors must go to Babe for his chore.

It was a disastrous first inning for the Americans, who were set down in one-two-three order by Peg Olivadoti. Those that she did not strike out she threw out on some fast fielding and good ball playing. Coming to bat in the half of the first, the Nationals hit with everything but the kitchen sink and vacuumed the bases over and over again as they rolled up 12 big runs.

From there on it was just a long, long game for the Americans. They collected two in the second and one in the fourth. Then they added two in the fifth but the Nationals continued to slip around the bases and had one run in the second, two in the third and four in the fourth.

Besides Peg Olivadoti's fielding gems, there was plenty of shortstop played by Julia Bonasera, with Rene Spencer flashing at first base and Betty Choate holding down the second sack like a veteran. American League hitting did not make for many outfield plays but wait until next year!

Nancy Atkinson took over the American Moms' pitching duties in the second and did not have too bad a time of it. Nancy Haffner's one-of-beauty to watch and Gerry D'Onofrio behind the plate found the hardest part of the game was looking through the right holes in the mask.

All of the mothers appeared to enjoy themselves but it might not be so easy to walk around the house come Monday morning. There may not have been any big league scouts in the stands and it was just as well. It would be tough to find some mother being traded to St. Louis for a third baseman.

The first half ended with the Pirates and Athletics tied for first place with an 8-4 record for each club. Last Saturday, the Pirates swamped the Athletics by a 10 to 2 score to take the first-half championship and install Manager Mal Leslie as manager of the all-star team for the 1964 season.

pitcher who is a tough man for opposing batters to face.

Mike Sacca plays outfield and can hop around at second base as needed. Bob O'Neil, Dick Butterworth and Ray Boesch make up an outfield trio that would be difficult to equal. These boys can travel and their speed cuts down many a hit to hold it to a single.

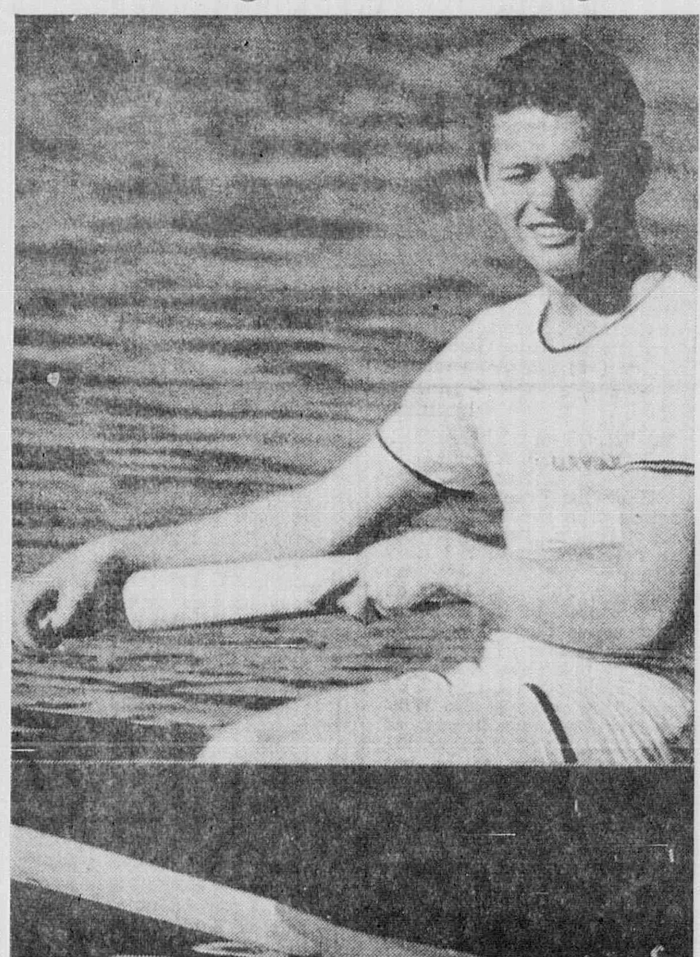

Bill Dobbins handles the catching duties and also handles a good bit of the club's hitting. Guy Ortin plays first when not on the pitching mound and when Guy comes to bat the opposing pitchers are ready to join the Rams.

John Frongillo does everything right at third base and is working out well at the bat also. Steve Batialis is a good second baseman while brother Peter Batialis does his stuff in center field. Both boys are worth having on any team.

Mark DeToss in shortstop is all that any team would want and Ray Camarda at second is up with the best of them. Both boys are good batters also. Neil Callahan plays right field and covers plenty of territory.

The Rams have their heads down and are ready to push through the rest of the season at top speed. They are working hard to win and their efforts will not be denied for long.

The Three U's

By Paul C. Tullier, Senior Editor, World Book Year Book

Dull-eyed and disenchanted, a million youths are without jobs in the United States today. "Social dynamite," erica one authority. "A time bomb we must all take a hand in defusing," says another. Here, in this concluding article, are a few steps that are being taken to help rehabilitate them as useful citizens.

School counseling and guidance services are now trying to keep a finger on the pulses of faltering students. Primarily, counselors help youngsters choose a vocation and work out the high school program that will best prepare them for it. They give them pointers on where to look for a job and how to apply for it.

The trouble is that a gap exists between the ideal ratio of guidance personnel to students. The national average now stands at slightly less than one to 600. But the ideal is considered one to 300. The gap is narrowing. However, largely through funds made available to the state guidance systems via the National Defense Education Act of 1958. More than 7,000 new counselors have been added since the NDEA was passed. Many schools are switching counselors into the lower grades as well as in the usual 11th and 12th grades. Too many students quit in the 10th grade, before the counselors can reach them.

These are not merely holding actions limited to just the nine-month academic term. Many pupils decide during vacation that they will drop out of school. To plug this loophole, school dropout programs are spilling over into the summer months.

In St. Louis, Missouri, a city groups, and the Missouri Employment Service have pooled their knowledge and efforts to obtain school students, who teachers suspect, won't return. The kids get jobs; the jobs raise ambitions; the ambitions send them back to school eager to carry on.

Encouraging Higher Goals

The trade schools are taking a new, more down-to-earth look at the courses they offer and the way they teach them. This is an area that has often been under fire both inside and outside the school system.

"It exists in a kind of fairyland that hasn't much relation to the real world of work," says Mrs. Mary Conway Kohler. Mrs. Kohler, a retired judge from the San Francisco Juvenile Court, recently completed an 18-month study of youth employment for the Taicome Foundation of New York City. "Fortunately," she says, "there is no relation between the skills the trade schools teach, and the actual requirements for job entry."

In answer to such criticisms, many trade schools are overhauling their systems and clearing out the deadwood. Wood High School in Indianapolis, Indiana, for example, pioneered in setting up courses in barbering, dry-cleaning, beauty shop work, and auto-body cleaning; jobs that are realistically geared to the community's job openings. Other schools are now following suit.

"But we are badly mistaken if we think the schools can solve this problem by themselves," says Edwin H. Friedrich, director of curricular services for the public schools in New Orleans. "It's a time bomb we all have to take a hand in defusing, businessmen, union leaders, church leaders, state commissions, federal agencies, parents, teachers, social workers."

In Chicago, an experiment called the Double EE program is under way. The E's stand for Education and Employment. Spurred by Superintendent of Schools Benjamin C. Willis, Carson Pirie Scott & Company, a large department store, agreed to hire "unemployable" dropouts provided they went back to school part time. Selection was made by school guidance people. Two private classrooms were set up near the store and staffed with four full-time teachers. A $50,000 grant from Ford Foundation helped the project along.

And what about those million-dollar unemployed youngsters who have already quit school?

They are no longer being shrugged off. In cities from coast to coast they are being offered a second chance. Millions of dollars are being spent to convert them from useless minuses into social pluses. Dozens of cities have adopted work-study programs. Detroit, Michigan, for example, sponsors a split-shift job upgrading program for 16- to 20-year-olds. Mornings, they attend informal classes with special teachers. Afternoons, they work in community - subsidized jobs. With valuable work experience under their belts, they can be helped to find permanent, full-time jobs.

Lt. (jg) Frank Dattilo Assigned New USN Duties

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dattilo of 11 Park Avenue have been notified that their son Frank has been assigned new duties. Lt. (jg) Dattilo, a graduate of Annapolis, class of '61, has been promoted to executive officer on the Minesweeper U.S.S. Advance, and he expects to start his new duties in the fall.

LT. (jg) FRANK DATTILO

He is presently serving as a gunnery officer aboard the destroyer U.S.S. McKean serving in the Pacific area. Frank is a very active sports participant. While attending the Naval Academy he was a star and a very skillful lacrosse player.

Recently, a press release appeared in the Independent Press Telegram of Long Beach, California. "The Navy answered the S.O.S. in true tradition. In a movement initiated by Lt. (jg) Frank Dattilo and approved by commanding officer D. D. Swift—52 men from the destroyer U.S.S. McKean marched to the Red Cross Bank here and donated blood. That's right—52 men. Frank will be home on leave in August for his brother John's wedding."

News from The Lincoln School

Drumlin Farm, operated by the Massachusetts Audubon Society in Lincoln, was host to sixty-four Lincoln School kindergarten children under the supervision of Miss Winifred Richardson recently.

Producers of the new instructional television series, Sets and Systems, visited Lincoln School to observe children's reactions to a pilot telecast which the Lincoln staff was chosen to evaluate.

Accompanied by John Limongello, science teacher from McCall Junior High School, all fourth graders under the direction of Mrs. Rosalind Spier, participated in a science observation lesson in the Winchester Fells last week.

A very professional performance of Hansel and Gretel, with string puppets, was presented to Lincoln School children by education consultants of the Animal Rescue League to reinforce rules to be observed with respect to care of animals.

At 9:05 this Friday, June 12, Lincoln School children will cooperate with several groups in statewide Flag Day activities. Each child and faculty member will join more than one million pupils and teachers throughout the Commonwealth who will pledge their loyalty to the country's flag at that time.

Local MSPCA Ladies Meet A Baby Armadillo

A delegation from the Winchester Auxiliary of MSPCA recently attended the conference of the Mass. Federation of Humane Societies at Melrose, and the regional convention of the N. E. Federation of Humane Societies held in Manchester, N. H.

Mrs. Crosby Kelley and Mrs. Fred Cardin, along with Mrs. Parker Reist, feature writer for the Boston Herald, were appointed to head the new activities committee of the Mass. Federation of Humane Societies.

"Operation Gwamba" of the International Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was a topic at the Mass. conference. ISPA has been asked to evacuate the animals in an 870 mile area in Dutch Guiana which will soon be entirely under water, due to the closing of a hydro-electric dam.

Highlight of the afternoon was the appearance of "Troopie," a baby armadillo, brought back as a pet and typical of the animals which need help. Troopie not only can't swim, but would sink immediately because of his heavy shell. It was amusing to see such an unusual animal sniffing at shoes and pocket books like anybody's pet poodle!

Guest of honor at the Mass. Federation luncheon was Mrs. Christine Stevens, president of the Animal Welfare Institute of New York, who spoke feelingly of the desperate need for regulation and supervision of the use of animals in research laboratories, now a billion dollar business. Mrs. Stevens urged support of the Clark-Nberger (S. 533) and Ashley (H. R. 5430) bills, which guard against unnecessary cruelty due to careless and thoughtless treatment of laboratory animals, which are giving their lives in the necessary and valuable field of research. The animals must give their lives for the advancement of science, but they should receive decent treatment while doing so.

Local ladies attending the conferences included Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Crosby Kelley, Mrs. David Baal, Mrs. Holbrook Dodge, Mrs. John Clarke, Mrs. George Connor, Mrs. R. J. Kimball, Mrs. Stanley Seaver, Mrs. Fred Cardin, Mrs. Willis Kimball and Mrs. James Russo.

Luncheon Honors Pauline Goodrich

Miss Pauline Goodrich, for 25 years a member of the Winchester High School art department, will be honored this noon on her retirement at a luncheon for faculty and staff members.

Howard Niblock, principal, will address the group and present Miss Goodrich with a gift from her fellow teachers. She will also receive a gift from the Parent Faculty Association which sponsors the annual luncheon. Miss Goodrich plans to retire to New Hampshire where she will pursue her interest in out of doors life and her favorite hobby—jewelry making.

Mrs. Richard Osgood, chairman of the luncheon, is being assisted by the following committee: Mrs. Robert Durfee, Mrs. Arthur Hills, Mrs. Norman Weeks, Mrs. Ernest Sackett, Mrs. Thornton Stearns, Mrs. Warrington Willis, Mrs. John McClelland, Mrs. Robert Keeton, Mrs. James Denton, Mrs. John Van Dyke, and Mrs. Roland Moody.

Library Addition Bldg. Committee Hires Architect

The Library Addition Building Committee of the Permanent Building Committee met Monday night with representative from the architectural firm of Kilham, Hopkins, Greeley, and Brodie of Boston, the firm selected by the committee on June 8 to prepare plans for an addition to the Winchester Public Library, as authorized by the annual Town Meeting, and discussed ideas, arrangements, a time schedule and fees for the job.

The Boston architectural firm finally selected from a wide field of choices reviewed by the committee was the same firm that originally designed the library back in 1930.

In addition, the Library Addition Committee anticipated hearing early this week from the library consultant firm of Humphry and McNiff on a schedule for updating a report that firm made to the library trustees in 1956 when a prior library addition attempt was defeated by the Town Meeting in lieu of school construction. Representatives of the Trustees and the Addition Committee met with a consultant on May 30 to review the previous report and evaluate the need for updating, which was finally approved as a necessity for the architect's use in designing sketches and plans for an ultimate library that would serve the needs of the town's projected 27,000 peak population.

H. Gardner Bradlee, chairman of the Library Addition Committee, said on Tuesday that the architect receives the necessary updated information and recommendations in time to complete preliminary sketches early in September, the committee and trustees of the library will hold a public hearing on the plans soon after school opens in the fall. The committee will welcome constructively critical comments on both suggested and alternative plans at that time, he noted.

The committee hopes to have working drawings at the end of this year, Mr. Bradlee said. He foresaw no chance of these being ready in time for a Special Town Meeting in the fall. (The Selectmen anticipate calling a Special Town Meeting some time around October for School Department construction and sewer line construction at Arlington Street among other issues.) The Addition Committee may have to ask a Special Town Meeting or the Finance Committee for some additional funds beyond the $15,000 granted under approval of Article Thirty of the 1964 Warrant to get the finished plans it will need in order to put the addition out bid by the middle of January, 1965. This it hopes to do in order to be able to present a concrete building figure to either another Special Town Meeting in February, or to the regular annual Town Meeting.

Large Reservoir Water Tanks Are Cleaned, Painted

The large south stand pipe at the Reservoir off South Border Road and near the Whitmore Brook Path was emptied, cleaned and painted with a new type of vinyl paint during the last three weeks of May, and just this week was refilled to go back into service.

The south stand pipe maintenance work was done by George Burgess, Inc., of Hingham, for $7,252. Bids were received from six bidders on March 30, and awarded on April 13 by the Water and Sewer Board. The price includes similar work to be done at the north stand pipe by Hillcrest Parkway, scheduled to begin sometime this week and be finished in a month.

The two water tanks serve as storage facilities, with a 400,000 gallon capacity each, and as water pressure regulating tanks. The south stand pipe, built in 1934, was originally located on Franklin Road and then moved to its present location. It was last cleaned and painted 14 years ago, in 1950. The north stand pipe was last overhauled six years ago, in 1958.

While the maintenance work at the stand pipe was going on, William Conlon, superintendent of the Water Department, had pumps going night and day to maintain the water pressure for the local supply.

The three reservoirs in the Fells had a total of 413,000,000 gallons of water stored on the first of June. This is 86 million gallons less than was on hand last year at that time, when there was 500,000,000 gallons there. Superintendent Conlon said Monday that this is the second dry year the town is experiencing, and that while the drought is not too severe at this time, he cautioned residents to conserve water and not to waste any.

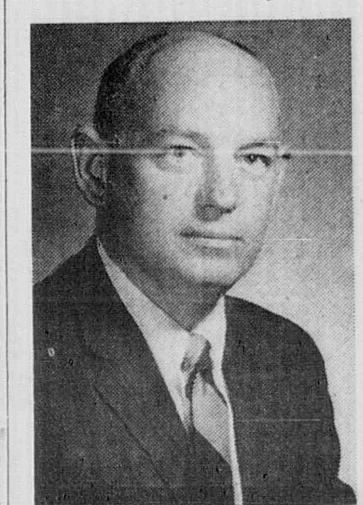

Summer School Will Start On June 29th

Monday, June 29, is opening day for the 1964 session of the Winchester Summer School and next Wednesday, June 24 is the last day for registration for courses this year.

Enrollment is already high, 370 students having signed up for one or more of the 19 courses to be offered for six consecutive weeks at the Lynch Junior High School building. Registrations will be accepted through next Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to noon in addition to the regular hours of 2 to 4 p.m.

Perry Is Named Director Public School Personnel

Henry Barnes Perry of Cohasset, educational placement officer at Boston University, has been named the first director of personnel in the Winchester School Department.

HENRY B. PERRY

The announcement of his appointment, voted by the School Committee at their last meeting, was made today by Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools. Mr. Perry's appointment, which will give him direction of personnel administration for both professional and non-professional employees (roughly 330) of the School Department, has come about to meet a need which has developed with the recent rapid growth of the School Department and which was highlighted in the report made on and to the department by Booz, Allen and Hamilton, management consultants.

The definition of the new job gives to Mr. Perry the responsibility for directing teacher recruitment, for maintaining personnel records and for assuming leadership of the development of systemwide teacher and non-teacher performance evaluation criteria and techniques.

In the opinion of the school administration and of the School Committee, Mr. Perry will come to Winchester highly qualified for the job. In his recent position at Boston University, held for 15 years, he has coordinated all activities

SOUTH RESERVOIR WATER TANK. This 400,000-gallon-capacity stand pipe at the Reservoir was cleaned and painted with a new vinyl paint during May under Water Department direction and has just this week been refilled to continue its storage and pressure regulating tank functions. Work on a similar north stand pipe was scheduled to begin at the end of this week and be finished in a month.

Assessors Set An "Unofficial" $53.60 '64 Town Tax Rate

The Board of Assessors this morning recommended and submitted to the State Director of Accounts for approval an indicated 1964 tax rate of $53.60 for the Town of Winchester.

The Assessors met yesterday morning at the Town Hall to conclude their mathematical accounting and arrive at their "unofficial" setting of the tax rate for this year. The tax rate thus established remains unofficial until the Director of Accounts approves it and it becomes effective.

If the indicated tax rate is approved, it will be the lowest dollar tax rate based on each thousand dollars of valuation since 1956, when the tax rate was $49.60. However, the Assessors announced at the annual Town Meeting in March that they were increasing property assessment by 50 per cent this year. Therefore, the town's total property valuation rose from $55,286,575 in 1963 to $83,020,025 this year; which accounts for the lower tax rate on each thousand dollars of valuation.

Youngster Barely Escapes Death As Neighbors Assist

A nine-year-old girl came close to bleeding to death from a reopened foot wound on Friday, June 5, but with the quick-thinking assistance of neighbors, and the aid of police and doctors at the hospital, she is alive today.

Terry Leah Wimperis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas P. Wimperis of 33 George Road, while at home recuperating from a serious cut on her foot she received at Wedge Pond on Saturday, May 24 (the day a six-year-old girl drowned there), got up to find her foot was bleeding again and the bleeding became out of hand.

She went downstairs and out the door looking for help. Four or five neighbors responded, including John E. Coe of 38 Charles Road, a baseball coach at Tufts University. Mr. Coe's knowledge of first aid saved the young girl's life, according to police and doctors' statements.

While another neighbor called police for help, Mr. Coe found the girl's groin pressure point and reduced to a minimum the quantity of blood loss.

Officer Robert G. Baird arrived at the scene in Patrol 52. He said he saw a tremendous amount of blood on the porch and dashed inside to render aid. He lifted the

Boston Arts Festival Is 8-Week Hub City Cultural, Civic Event

The Boston Public Garden appeared almost like a gypsy encampment or Middle East market place this week with the many tents raised to show off artistic and cultural endeavors to the many hundreds of visitors that walk through the Arts Festival each day and night.

Since the first recorded art exhibition held in America took place in Boston in 1730 with the showing of famed Colonial portrait painter John Smibert's works, it was only appropriate that Boston reclaim its traditional leadership in cultural affairs in the 20th century. Thus, 13 years ago on a shoestring budget of $2500 and a small but dedicated corps of artists and art enthusiasts, the Boston Arts Festival was born. Every year since then it has grown in size and attendance until, this year, it has reached the point where it has a budget of $250,000 and encompasses nearly all the creative and performing arts.

In fact, this year, for the first time, the Arts Festival has grown so big that there will be two distinct and separate shows. Starting on Tuesday and running until July 13, the Festival will contain nearly 300 paintings and sculptures picked by 13 Boston art galleries from among professional artists associated with them. From July 13 to the end of the eight week long Arts Festival, the professionals will be replaced by paintings and sculptures selected by the Festival jury from over 2500 entries in the New England Open Competition.

The Festival art offerings each year are a source of controversy among the various taste groups of professional, amateur and lay critics — and provides both the connoisseurs and the dilettantes with a common meeting ground where they can agree or disagree on artistic and cultural matters in a leisurely manner in an informal atmosphere.

State Auditors Doing Biennial Town Ledger Account Reviewing

AUDITING LOCAL LEDGERS. Michael B. Gormley, municipal examiner for the Massachusetts Department of Corporations and Taxation's Bureau of Accounts, is shown reviewing the town's ledgers and accounts in a temporary office in the Town Hall. Aiding in the biennial auditing are Thomas Finnegan and Joseph LeBlanc.

Three municipal auditors from the Massachusetts Department of Corporations and Taxation's Bureau of Accounts office descended on the Winchester Town Hall on Monday, June 1, for about a two-month stay to review the town's entire ledger account record for the past two years — since the last biennial audit of the town's financial records in 1962.

The three municipal examiners for the state, Michael B. Gormley of Concord, Thomas J. Finnegan of Waltham, and Joseph LeBlanc of Billerica, are actually just making a routine check of the town's accounts as is done every two years by the state at the town's request.

The Commonwealth makes similar audits of nearly every other city and town in the state as a beneficial service to those communities accepting a permissive legislative act adopting the state's auditing system of accounts.

The auditing examiners started in the Town Comptroller's office and went over all the accounting records there. They are reviewing the Treasurer and Tax Collector's ledger books this week, and next week plan to go on to study the Assessors' ledgers. Finally, the examiners will visit each and every town department to check and verify all the town's receipts.

Basically a reportorial unit operation, the examiners prepare a trial balance of all town ledger accounts, with adjustments of accounts where necessary (such as Reserve Fund allocations made by the Finance Committee to various town departments and boards for "unforeseen" occasions). The resulting balance sheet (including ledger accounts, retirement system accounts, trust fund accounts, deferred assessment accounts, and debt accounts) gives the overall financial picture of the town.

The final report is given to the state Director of Accounts for review. Most reports are routine; but they are more than mere mathematical checkups, for if any inadequacies or discrepancies appear that bear attention or investigation the Director of Accounts notifies town boards of selectmen or city mayors and city councils, whichever the case may be, of the existing problem.

It is up to the administrative officials of cities and towns to guide themselves in accordance with the audit report and correct any problems requiring attention.

The bulk of the auditing survey is concerned with accounting receipts, checking that Town Meeting appropriations for expenditures are not exceeded.

Local Youth Force Hit Jobs, College

In Winchester, a great wave of youngsters will be turning 18 soon. Beginning this summer and continuing through June, 1965, there will be a record number of 18th birthdays celebrated locally.

That fact is significant and important. It has a bearing on the labor market, since many of these boys and girls will be finishing high school and be looking for jobs.

It is of concern, also, to college registrars, because the number of 18-year-olds, locally and in most other parts of the country, who will want to go to college will be greater than in any previous year.

The situation is brought to light by the Census Bureau. It states that 3,728,000 boys and girls in the United States will reach 18 in the 12-month period. That is nearly a million more than in the prior year. In Winchester, it shows, there will be 417 attaining that age, 231 boys and 186 girls.

By way of comparison, this is 16 per cent more than in the 1963-64 period, when the total reaching 18 was 359.

The new crop consists of the ones

NEW POWER LINE BEING LAID. Boston Edison Company's new underground 110,000-watt electric power utility line is shown being laid on Wildwood Street. The primary feeder running from Everett to Woburn's sub-station near the Winchester line parallels another main power feeder, and employs a new method of insulation: the cable is immersed in pressurized oil in the pipe to protect the lines.

Boston Edison Co. Lay Underground 110kw Power Line

Boston Edison Company has been installing a large 110,000-watt underground pipe-type electric power cable beneath several streets in Winchester during the past few weeks for a seven-and-one-half-mile primary feeder from the company's Mystic generating station in Everett to a sub-station in Woburn, by Pond Street at Horn Pond.

The new primary feeder runs parallel to an older feeder of similar capacity from Everett through Charlestown, Somerville, Medford and Winchester to Woburn. The new feeder employs a new kind of heat insulation and protection. The three cables making the line are immersed in oil under 200 to 300 pounds of pressure within the six-inch pipe. This insulates the wires from each other and prevents any friction within the pipe. The pipe is buried under sand and gravel beneath the roadways.

Strictly a power transmission line and not a service line, the new unit will be the third feeder to the Woburn sub-station. The other one being an aerial feeder entering Winchester near the Lexington and Woburn lines.

The Woburn sub-station supplies electrical power to Woburn, Burlington, Arlington, Lexington, Bedford, Carlisle, Reading and Wakefield, as well as Winchester.

The underground power line is being installed by Electrical Construction Company, Inc., of Columbus, Ohio. The project was started in the spring and is scheduled for completion in the early fall, although the working crew is far ahead of schedule, according to a company spokesman.

HS Grads: Choose Army Assignment, Then Enlist

The Army has many enlistment programs available to the high school graduate under its "Graduate Specialist Program." Sgt. Fred T. Nixon of the Medford Army Recruiting Station is presently talking to young men and women and stressing the opportunities offered them in the service of their country.

According to Sgt. Nixon, the Graduate Specialist Program is designed to allow a qualified high school graduate to pick a field of training or an actual school of his choice prior to enlistment. Following the selection of the job assignment, a verification call is made to Washington, D. C., and then the applicant receives a guarantee of his choice in writing.

"The Army," said Sgt. Nixon, "is the only service offering a program which guarantees prospective service men and women their choice of job or assignment prior to their enlistment." These men will get valuable training and experience in numerous jobs which are vital to the military and to civilian industry.

All high school graduates interested in more detailed information about the Graduate Specialist Program may obtain it by visiting Sgt. Nixon at the Army Recruiting Station, 49 High Street, Medford, or by phoning him at EX 6-5777.

Crises Breed Solutions To Problems

The long-brewing transportation problem in the Metropolitan Greater Boston area has finally reached the solution stage where action is imminent. Governor Peabody's vast and comprehensive $225 million mass transportation program, passed by the House last week and by the Senate on Tuesday night and due for enactment today, is the first state-wide transit package of its kind in the country.

The bill creating the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority, basically to replace, expand and modernize the Massachusetts Transit Authority and to include commuter traffic now using railroads and even some without public transportation facilities, is nothing new. The "workable" solution stems directly from a study made in 1945—almost 20 years ago—by the Coolidge Commission. Most of the ideas presented in that commission's report have been reaffirmed by every subsequent study group, and many of them are contained in the present bill.

For many years Winchester's representative to the General Court, Harrison Chadwick, has been advocating and working on measures to find a solution to the state's transportation problems. He was one of the few legislators who had the foresight to see that something had to be done about the problems and fast-developing crisis quickly, and he presented many bills toward alleviating solutions. Finally, this year, with the railroads guaranteeing they'll stop commuter service, and with many bus lines travelling a hairline between solvency and bankruptcy, the state's executive and legislative branches realized that something had to be done before proration, and the solution was voted mere days before the session is due to break up.

Winchester will be among the 18 communities benefiting from rapid transit extensions, subsidization of bus lines, and other measures contained in the bill to modernize and improve mass public transportation facilities. Rep. Chadwick told a local organization in a speech a month ago: "We will be a residential community without any public transportation to and from Boston—unless something is done, and we're at that crisis point now."

So something is finally being done, for the Commonwealth, albeit slowly (but with much prodding from Rep. Chadwick, among other informed and concerned public-minded leaders), has now taken decisive action on the vital matter.

Winchester Policemen Value Life

The Winchester Police Department has once again shown its ability to lead in the fight for life. Not one gun was drawn or night stick used in this latest display of courage and community responsibility. With Chief Derro setting a fine example, twelve members of the force contributed blood recently when the Red Cross Bloodmobile was here.

Perhaps this display reflects the constant pressure of danger policemen are under, or perhaps their sharper awareness of the value a pint of blood has following an automobile accident when seconds mean the difference between life and death.

Regardless of the motive, the residents of Winchester have still another reason for thanking Chief Derro and the entire Police Force for setting a magnificent example for the rest of us to follow.

Graduations

Every year at this time the Winchester Star is deluged with hundreds of graduation stories and pictures from all kinds of educational institutions.

Because the Star believes graduations are an important event in the lives of residents, we publish, almost without exception, every single graduation story and picture that we receive. In some instances: the schools, mostly larger universities, send stories without pictures of any of its graduates, merely listing them; the schools, mostly smaller colleges and private schools, send stories of graduates with descriptions of their academic career, sometimes with and sometimes without pictures; and still other schools send details on some graduates and not on others, and pictures of some graduates and not of others.

With these facts in mind, we are sure subscribers will understand the differences between John's and James' graduation stories as they appear in the Star. It would be totally impossible to contact each graduate for an individual story and picture.

And while we're discussing graduations: congratulations are in order to each and every graduate. It seems that each year they grow in number and in the distinctions and excellencies they achieve. In a way, beyond the reflection on themselves, they represent some of the best qualities this community is able to produce.

LOCAL, STATE AND NATIONAL GOVERNMENTS. John H. Lyman, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Winchester's ruling governmental executive body, and Mrs. Lyman stand with Massachusetts' Fifth District Congressman, F. Bradford Morse, on the way over to Senator Leavett Saltonstall's office to get tickets to get into the U. S. Senate Chamber to observe the historic cloture vote on Wednesday, June 10. It was the first successful use of the cloture vote on a civil rights legislative issue in the history of Congress.

Buying A Piece Of Outer Space: Story Behind The Space Communications Stock Sale Comsat On Launching Pad

ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST UNUSUAL BUSINESSES, THE COMMUNICATIONS SATELLITE CORPORATION WORKS TO BUILD THE FIRST SPACE COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM

INFORMATION AND MATERIAL SUPPLIED COURTESY OF NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Someday it will be different, but right now, it's a company with only 50 employees. Its headquarters is a rented 28-room mansion in the northwest section of Washington, D. C.; the chairman's office is in a converted library; the president's office was once the master bedroom; the board of directors meets in a room that was the set for an important scene in the movie "Advise and Consent"; and until recently, scientists and engineers were calculating orbits and trajectories in the attic.

This is the beginning of one of the world's most unusual businesses: The Communications Satellite Corporation, better known as Comsat.

Comsat is an offspring of the space age. Its ancestry can be traced to an idea by the British science writer Arthur C. Clarke, who saw that the high altitudes reached by the German V-2 rockets pointed the way toward the peaceful uses of outer space. He even proposed a system of worldwide communications using radio-relay satellites in orbits high above the earth. It was a pretty far-out idea at the time, but it was refined and given concrete form in 1954 by Dr. John Pierce of Bell Telephone Laboratories. All it lacked was the rocket power that would put the "birds" in orbit. With the dramatic launching of Telstar I two years ago, the dream of a world-wide system became a possibility. Comsat expects to turn that possibility into reality.

Comsat was authorized by the Communications Satellite Act of Congress in 1962 and it was incorporated a year ago.

Comsat issued 10,000,000 shares of common stock for sale on Tuesday, June 2, with five million reserved for subscription by communications common carriers authorized by the Federal Communications Commission, and the other half being offered at a price under the $100 ceiling set by Congress to individual shareholders (growth and institution funds were not permitted to buy at first) "to encourage the widest distribution to the American public."

A big question on everyone's mind was how investors would react to a chance to buy what one newspaperman had called "a piece of outer space," and how stable the transactions and settling of the market would be. Minutes after the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington had approved the sale of the five million shares of Comsat stock to the public at $20 a share, the "making of the market" was established and stock orders flooded into the New York, Midwest and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

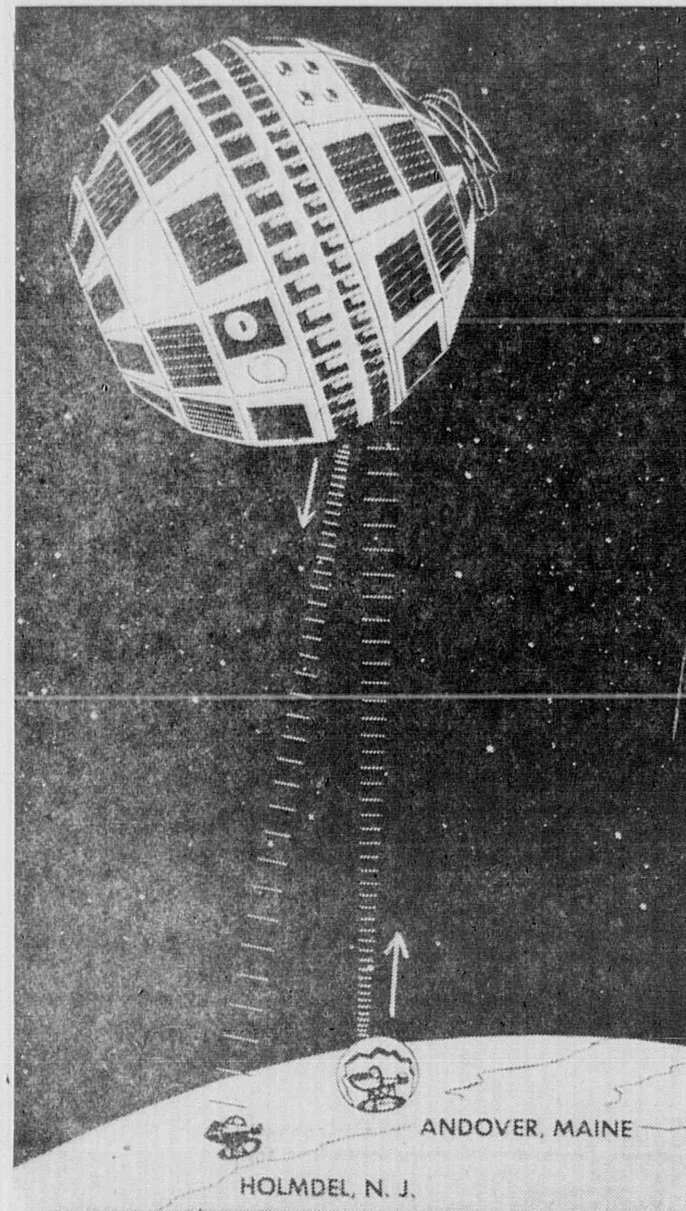

Public demand for Comsat, which will eventually ring the world with satellites to relay telephone calls, data and facsimile reproduction, and television, was so great that individuals were limited to 50 shares or less. An estimated $194 million of Comsat stock was sold on the first day. One local broker said he estimated Winchester residents had purchased approximately 5,000 shares in the last two weeks. He also estimated that there are now better than 450,000 individual shareholders of Comsat stock in the country.

At the close of trading on the first day, the stock was quoted bid at $22.75, with $24.125 asked. The cost per share never dipped below $20, and the highest peak was $27.

More than 150 communications carriers applied to the Federal Communications Commission for authorization to buy Comsat stock. The tally of private corporations' stock ownership: American Telephone and Telegraph Company, 2,855,750 shares (about 28 per cent of that available to carriers); AT&T figures to be one of the major users of the new Communications Satellite Corporation's equipment and services; International Telephone and Telegraph, 1,050,000 shares; General Telephone and Electric, 350,000 shares; Radio Corporation of America Communications, Inc., 250,000 shares; and 450,250 shares split among 159 other authorized carriers.

Later on, Comsat figures to be in the news with the orbiting of its world-wide system, scheduled for 1966 or 1967, and work on it is well under way. Under contract from Comsat, Bell Laboratories has already submitted studies for a "multiple access" system, which would be able to receive and transmit from several ground stations at the same time. RCA and Hughes Aircraft Corporation also received contracts for studies of similar systems.

Meanwhile, Comsat has filed plans with the FCC to put into orbit early next year a satellite which would provide a communications link between North America and Europe. Dubbed the "Early Bird," the satellite would be put into synchronous orbit and would be able to handle up to 240 high quality telephone circuits.

BELL SYSTEM'S TELSTAR experimental communications satellite is capable of functionally receiving, amplifying, and transmitting voice, data, facsimile and television signals.

In another step toward space, Comsat is now evaluating several proposals for the design of communications satellites. AT&T and RCA submitted a joint proposal. Other firms also submitted proposals. On the basis of these proposals, Comsat expects to let contracts for the detailed design and engineering work on alternate types of satellites, with results due six months later. The decision on the type of satellite to be used and the ultimate form of the global system will rest with the permanent board of directors. They will be elected by the stockholders following the stock sale.

How will this new service effect tele-communications networks? AT&T expects to be one of the largest users of communications satellites. In a recent letter to Comsat chairman Leo D. Welch, AT&T executive vice president J. E. Dingman stated that "we see a place, and a need, for both cable and satellite communications. If suitable satellite circuits are available to meet our additional needs at that time (1966) in the North Atlantic section, which is an area where high capacity cables could be attractive, we would prefer, for diversity reasons, to use satellite circuits instead of placing additional cables. As it looks now, this preference would continue in sub-approximately equal numbers of cable and satellite voice channels. By suitable satellite facilities, we mean circuits that are satisfactory in quality and have costs bearing a reasonable relationship to alternative methods of getting the circuits."

As Comsat's "birds" are launched in two or three years, they will help tele-communications systems provide the service customers want. They will also dramatize the giant strides made in communications in the last century.

What's Up In Space These Days?

It will soon be two years since the Bell System's Telstar I soared into the empty reaches of space to usher in a new era of communications.

The communications satellites launched during the past two years still continue to orbit. Here are profiles on them:

Telstar I

Launched July 10, 1962, the satellite was the Bell System's first active communications satellite. Before becoming inoperative in February, 1963, it vividly demonstrated the transmission of multi-channel two-way communication in many forms and provided valuable data on both the performance of ground stations and the reliability of electronic gear in the space environment.

Telstar II

Launched on May 7, 1963, the Bell System's Telstar II continues to perform normally in all respects. Solar power is now down to about 85 per cent efficiency, but it is still showing less radiation damage than was the case for Telstar I. The satellite will achieve maximum visibility during April and May with the usable period extending to the middle of September. Communications experiments with Telstar II are continuing.

Relay I

Launched on December 13, 1962, the NASA satellite was designed

Relay II

Launched on January 21, 1963, Relay II is performing in excellent fashion according to reports from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Syncom II

NASA's Syncom I, launched in February, 1963, was lost to radio contact by Syncom II, launched in July of the same year, successfully climbed to its hanging orbit about 22,000 miles above the earth where it rotates at the same speed as earth. The satellite has successfully relayed telephone calls, teletype and photo facsimiles. It was designed and built by Hughes Aircraft Co.

Echo II

Launched in January, 1963, NASA's Echo II is a continuation of the program begun more than three years ago with Echo I to collect data on the feasibility of a passive communication system. The 135-foot balloon satellite is in a polar orbit about 700 miles above the earth and it can be seen without the aid of a telescope. Its highly reflective mylar skin bounces signals sent up to it from ground stations.

FROM RAGS TO RICHES

Horatio Alger and the American Dream

by John Tebbel

The success of a failure can be pitiful, even if the failure in question is not a lovable character. Very few people today will have read the books by Horatio Alger, Jr., which were once runaway best sellers, but everyone must know the name. "Alger" has become an adjective in our culture to describe any tale of a man's rise from poverty to affluence free from corruption. The qualification is very important; our American robber barons are not Alger heroes and would have come to a bad end in an Alger book. Yet this dean of boys' books wanted to write something quite different. His published works were pot-boilers, written carelessly, in haste, while he awaited the inspiration for the great American novel. Had the inspiration come (as he often thought it had), he would not have been able to use it. Mr. Tebbel gives many painful examples of Horatio's utter inability to write for adults. For him whose name was a household word, his whole life was a quivering frustration.

Alger's stories deal almost exclusively with the careers of penniless waifs — usually newboys or bootblacks — who by "diligence and nobility" rise to success in life. Actually, Mr. Tebbel points out, if the plots are analyzed, it is a lucky chance in each case that sets the boys' feet on the road to fortune. "Ragged Dick," "Phil the Fiddler," "Jed the Poor-house Boy," all were rescued from the lower depths by a coincidence over which Alger's turn of mind allowed him to moralize and preach. The big question is why these books were so popular with the boys of the late 19th century. Mr. Tebbel quotes Frank L. Mott in his survey of best sellers, Golden Multitudes,—"To criticize Alger today is to challenge the widespread and loyal Order of Old Fellows Who Read Alger When They Were Boys. They are apt to forget their author's banality, his typed characters, his bad writing, and his copybook moralities and to remember only their breathless response to his getting-ahead thesis and their breathless interest in his rapid storytelling. Alger's name has become a by-word for the boy's success story and that is no mean fame."

To explain this unhappy, warped man, John Tebbel goes back to the obvious. Horatio Alger, Sr., was, of all things, a Unitarian minister. "Yet not even the Mathers could have surpassed the orthodoxy which Alger forced down the sometimes unwilling throats of those who made up the Unitarian Society of Chelsea, Mass." He planned to become the spiritual leader of America and he intended to have his own gotten son as his helper and heir. Olive Fenno, his wife, was merely an accessory before the fact. Alger, Sr., completely took over Junior's training and turned him into a miserable, maladjusted misfit, called "Holy Horatio" by his classmates. Never sure of himself, by turns rebellious or cowed, Horatio entered the ministry on graduating from Harvard. His desire to write proving stronger than his fear of his father, he fled to Paris. There he actually had an affair (he was not the aggressor). Still seeking his metier, he came back to America.

Unable to identify himself as an adult, Horatio turned to boys. He lived with them on and off for years at the Newsboys Lodging House in New York City. The boys apparently were all fond of him and not just because he was an easy touch. Their own stories made his fame. He was of practical help to them and he was the force which caused legislation against the padrone system to be enacted. But he had no real friends, no real home; no editor or critic admired his literary ability—only his saleability and that was to a juvenile audience. He almost fought in the Civil War, he almost protested the Draft Riots with physical encounter, he did have another affair (with a married woman!), he wandered West, he wandered South, often ill, never happy. The great novel he felt it his destiny to write, glimmered always ahead. On his deathbed he reached out for materials to write the Book.

From Rags to Riches leaves the reader with what must be Mr. Tebbel's own reaction to the paradox of Horatio Alger—much pity but no sympathy; and the suspicion that riches are no better than rags in more than one "success" story.

A Tribute To Miss Phipps

Editor of the Star:

The news that Miss Marian Phipps is resigning from the Winchester schools has come as a shock to many parents and former pupils who have benefitted from her wise guidance over the twenty years that she has been here.

I was fortunate enough to meet her when she first came. My child was going from kindergarten to first grade and was already reading third grade material. I worried as to how she could be kept from being bored. Would she form a contempt for school that could affect her future learning?

It was Miss Phipps who introduced me to the concepts of "ability grouping" and the "enriched program." She explained how readers in a class were divided into groups so that they might proceed at their own speeds. She promised to confer with the teacher to see that my daughter had extra duties and work to keep her interested. (This promise was kept all through her elementary school with periodic testing to keep us informed on the progress she was making.)

Much of my interest in schools was generated by Miss Phipps. She invited me to attend various meetings on educational developments, both in Winchester and other communities. Much that I learned from her helped me when I became a member of the school committee.

Other parents had help in understanding why their children were slow readers and what was being done to help them. How many children in Winchester learned to overcome this handicap and went on to earn honors in the High School? Miss Phipps work with teachers in identifying reading problems and helping to solve them in the first three or four grades has saved children with such problems from becoming "Drop-Outs" in later years.

All of us who have seen her give a reading demonstration have marveled at her way with children. She gains their confidence so quickly and makes them feel secure. She realizes, far more than most parents, the effort that a child puts into such a simple matter as printing C A T. As she explains the muscular coordination needed for this effort, many a parent awakens to the child's need for praise for each achievement, each step of progress in learning.

Winchester has been fortunate in having had for twenty years this humanity and understanding which Marian Phipps has given to thousands, and I am sure these thousands join me in wishing her well in her future career and in paying tribute to a truly dedicated teacher and educator.

A Commemorative
Note on Mr. Fxit:
Earle Burgoyne

Editor of the Star:

In the passing on of Earle "Butch" Burgoyne of 41 Church Street (Mr. Fxit, as he was known to many, as a small appliance repairman) I should like to comment on the kindness, generosity, and brotherly love of this man. Being in close contact with him, and his business dealings with many people for many years, I personally knew of his generosity with his time and labor, of his kindness in helping people, and how he made hundreds of repairs—maybe thousands—with no monetary return to himself.

While associating with him, lunching with him and dealing with him in business, he many times said, "I find joy and satisfaction being able to help people because they need help when they come to me." Many times he worked on a repair job for nothing and the "customer" paid only the cost of parts used, yet the customer did not know it when they paid for the repairs made.

Mr. Earle "Butch" Burgoyne was friend, good neighbor, and a nice guy.

Sincerely,
Roy

Action Is Urged
At Wedge Pond To Prevent Accidents

Editor of the Star:

For the last few weeks I have been reading with interest letters in the Star from persons voicing concern over the safety of Wedge Pond when it is not officially open and not under supervision. I am now aware of what happens when someone attempts to remedy such a situation rather than just talk about it.

On Monday night, June 8, I attended, with Walter J. Farrell and his wife, a meeting of the Park Department. Mr. Farrell presented to the meeting a petition with 120 signatures, including various prominent town residents, requesting action be taken to improve the condition of the town beaches. I left that night with the feeling that the consensus of the meeting was that a proper first step should and would be the immediate fencing of the perimeter of the beach area at Wedge Pond, at a cost of approximately $1,500. This would certainly indicate to residents and non-residents (the latter recently in evidence at Wedge), when the beach was closed and that it was unsafe without adequate lines and supervision. As there was no money in the budget, the members suggested that they would take the matter to the Finance Committee, which apparently had reserve funds that might be used for this purpose. I have now been informed that the Finance Committee has vetoed any such expenditure.

Must we have another accident before something is done?

Sincerely,
Stephen A. Moore

Treed Cat Owner
Grateful for Her Neighbors' Help

Editor of the Star:

May I beg a few inches in your paper to express my sincere appreciation for the kindness of a neighbor auxiliary fireman, who with two of his conferees and another neighbor from the tree department, rescued a treed pussy from a very tall elm in our yard.

This fluffy, black - and - white Persian had been swaying, sleepless and hungry, for more than thirty-six hours, on an exceedingly small limb, high above the ground. However, she refused to co-operate with the rescue effort.

After vainly trying to reach the swaying cat, who had now crawled to the tip end of the branch, disdaining dainty bits of chicken and cat food, the rescue team shook her off into the life net stretched beneath! With one jump she reached terra firma and broke all records as she sailed across Elm Street, up her own lawn and into her own shrubbery, to the cheers and loud applause of some fifty children and adults!

Maybe, because I, at one time, lost a beloved cat, who jumped from a high elm, I appreciate, all the more, the kindness of my neighbors.

Sincerely,
Hazel A. Manson

Democratic
Town Committee

As we write the notes for this week in our 1964 schedule the delegates are quite excited on the eve, practically, of their departure for the convention at Springfield.

Elizabeth McDonald, chairman, Mrs. Mary Sorieka, and William Dailey, treasurer, will represent the local Town Committee and they have a mandate from the local group to vote for our Governor, Endicott Peabody, all the way, although they expect his nomination on the first ballot.

Last Wednesday evening our delegates attended a meeting of the Democratic Ward and City Committee in the City Council chambers in Medford. Several candidates were present and refreshments were enjoyed during the social hour. Medford's newly-elected Democratic chairman, Dan Hurley, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Marilyn Porecka presided.

Last evening several of our members attended the Wolurn Democratic meeting at the American Legion Clubhouse at the Four Corners. Their newly-elected chairman, Lawrence Gilgun, presided and all candidates on the Democratic ticket were present.

Our three delegates have been busy attending pre-convention get-togethers to hear from the large number of candidates who will compete for nomination at the convention.

During the convention at Springfield the delegates will attend a reception in the Emerald Room of the Hotel Charles, on Thursday at 8 p.m. Their host will be Andre Sigridson.

Friday noon they will be guests at the First Lady's Luncheon where Mrs. Endicott Peabody will greet them at 12:30 in The Stagecoach Barn — Old Storowtown Tavern, Storowtown Village, Exposition Park, West Springfield.

Friday evening, at 8, the Democratic State Committee will host the delegates and their friends at the kick-off dinner, "Better Living Center," on the grounds of the Eastern States Exposition Coliseum in West Springfield.

Mrs. Sally Kincaid was instructed at the last meeting of the committee to inform the Selectmen of our interest in the Massachusetts Transportation Bill.

The Board's reply was courteous and expressed its belief that its appointee to the meetings of the Massachusetts Area Planning Commission, Representative Harrison Chadwick, will act for the best interests of the town.

Chairman Elizabeth McDonald and Dr. Franklin Patterson of Herick Street are members of the Governor's Commission on Area Planning also. This group has worked hard for the success of the transportation bill. We understand the bill is on its way to passage and signing by the governor.

Mr. Perry holds a bachelor of arts degree from Clark University, earned in 1939, and a master of education from Boston University. He has completed substantial study toward his doctorate in education at B. U. His major field of graduate study was history with a minor in guidance, educational administration and counseling.

Mr. Perry is married and the father of two boys, Thomas, 19, and Charles, 17. His appointment in Winchester takes effect on August 17.

child up in his arms and took her to the cruiser, while Mr. Coe continued to apply pressure to the artery.

On arriving at the Winchester Hospital, Dr. Donald McLean administered emergency treatment. According to Dr. McLean the girl had lost a great deal of blood, her pulse was very low, and her color was "not good" by the time she got to the hospital, and if she had not received Mr. Coe's and Officer Baird's quick attention she may not have survived.

Terry remained in the hospital for five days, and returned home to continue a quiet recovery. And Mr. Winthrop, in recalling the close call, said yesterday he was very grateful for the aid rendered by his neighbors and police. "I will be in their debt forever," he said.

Edison

The transmission line entered Winchester at the Medford line on Main Street and went down Bacon Street. It is going under the river near Fenwick Road, and will be bored beneath the railroad overpass at Mystic Valley Parkway before continuing up Bacon Street to Fletcher Street and over onto Woodside Road, where work is currently progressing. The line will continue by Winter Pond, through an easement granted by the abuttor, and end up in back of the power sub-station off Pond Street.

An Edison spokesman said that the power transmission line will augment the already existing line and will increase transmission power capacity and thereby improve efficiency of operations to customers in this growing suburban area.

The Rainbow Quest
Of the Modern Minstrel

"Oh, had I a golden thread, and needle so fine.

I'd weave a magic strand, of rainbow design.

"In it I would weave the bravery of women giving birth.

And in it I would weave the innocence of children over all the earth."

The words are Pete Seeger's. Anyone interested in folk music knows who he is, those of you who aren't need only know that Pete is a very honest and sincere individual. Sometimes he sings his songs to entertain people, sometimes he sings them because they are songs that ring with a cause and need to be sung.

"Far over the waters, I'd reach my magic band,

Through foreign cities, to every single land.

"Show my brothers and sisters, my rainbow design.

Bind up this sorry world, with hand and heart and mind.

"Far over the waters, I'd reach my magic band,

To every human being, so they would understand."

In most respects the heart of the minstrel — let's call him that, though you will never hear the word employed in coffee houses—beats with the same emotion and sensitivity as the writer. The purpose and ultimate outlook of both are comparable. It begins with an awareness of "self," moves on to mid-stream and contemplates the essence of life, and is finally absorbed by compassion for the human condition.

That is why artists like Seeger and Joan Baez and Bob Dylan and Pete LaFarge will strike out against racial and social injustice; or why Tom Paxon will compose the likes of "Rambling Boy," a song that "has a lulling, lullaby quality and is meant as nothing more than an expression of human friendship;" or why Woody Guthrie's "This Land Is Your Land" rings out like an anthem of national pride.

On June 8, 1963, Pete Seeger gave a concert at New York's Carnegie Hall to aid the Negro cause that was, and still is, being tested in Mississippi and Alabama and points north, south, east and west. "I can't tell you exactly what songs I'm going to sing," he said in his introduction, "because I won't exactly know myself till I get out on the stage, anymore than a jazz trumpeter could tell you exactly what notes he's going to hit when they let him take his break."

"I have a guess they'll be some old ones—and some new songs I heard around the country this last year. Some are bitter and mad, some are jokey but needing, some are pure sunlight and love—we've sung them before, but they can always stand another singing. Like another sunrise, or another kiss, this is also an act of reaffirmation."

"And a few from other countries—not that we can sing 'em exactly right, but because they're such fine songs they can even survive our singing them. And if you learn another human being's language, you can learn a little of his soul. Furthermore, you and I mostly are descended from a lot of people who spoke many beautiful languages, and there's no reason we should forget them completely."

Folk music has been sung ever since man first discovered he enjoyed the sound of rhythm, and most all music has its roots in this basic precept. A little later words came along, usually words that made a great deal of sense and were topical, and they were

Auditors

Cities and towns wishing to acquire funds through municipal bonds or term note loans are tabbed with a credit rating, much as an ordinary business is by a credit firm, by private evaluating sources that usually place heavy reliance on the state's auditing report.

The municipal examiners expect to conclude their auditing of Winchester's records by the first of August. Winchester's accounts were last audited from March 31 to May 30 during 1962. It has since then been one of few cities and towns to enjoy a triple-A credit rating, according to the Finance Committee report to the town in March.

Two Here Go To Legion Boys'
State Convention

Two high school boys from Winchester have been chosen to attend the 1964 session of the Boys' State Convention, sponsored by the Massachusetts American Legion, Commander Fred J. Cause of Winchester Post No. 97 announced here today.

Named to participate in this annual workshop in the organization and operation of state government are: Richard Wakefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wakefield, Jr., 18 Fells Road, and Russell Osgood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Osgood, 12 Lockland Road. The boys were chosen by the teachers of Winchester High School because of their qualities of leadership and citizenship. They are both in the upper third of their class.

The 1964 Massachusetts Boys' State Convention will be in session from June 19 to June 27 at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Commander Cause said. He pointed out that the Legion will sponsor 50 of these Boys' States this summer, plus a Boys' Nation consisting of two outstanding youths from each of the Boys' States who will study the operation of the federal government in much the same manner as the Boys' States delegates participate in training in state government.

At the 1964 Massachusetts Boys' State, the Winchester High School youths will participate in the organization of political parties, campaigns, elections, and the enactment and enforcement of their laws within a mythical 51st state.

"Boys' State is one of the finest youth training programs sponsored by the American Legion," Commander Cause declared. "The youths learn not only the functions of government but also the role that a good citizen must play to discharge his citizenship responsibility. They learn-by-doing how a good government depends upon the active interest of every citizen."

Warm Goodbyes
To Miss Jurgenson
At Reception

Pleasure in the renewal of friendship was well mixed with nostalgia for two hours on Sunday afternoon, when Miss Minetta Jurgenson was tendered a special retirement reception given in the Noonan auditorium in her honor by the parents of the two schools she has served here, the Mystic and the Noonan.

The occasion was informal and a very warm one, marked by the meeting with many former parents and students who came in and out for the purpose of expressing their appreciation and respect to a teacher who has served the Town for 38 years.

Miss Jurgenson is retiring as principal of the Noonan School. She taught, however, for many years at Mystic. And in some instances generations came together to wish her well, such as Mrs. A. Russell Ellis, a former parent and son Emmons, a former student. Mrs. James Coon was another former parent there whose family of nine is now grown and scattered. Miss Jurgenson was delighted to see one and all.

In the receiving line with the guest of honor were Mrs. Frank Mardulier, chairman of the reception committee, Mrs. F. F. McWilliams, of the Mystic School parents' group and Mrs. Paul McCarthy, president of the Noonan School parents' group. Miss Paula Caffrey, principal-elect for Noonan was among the guests enjoying a chance to meet with Noonan parents.

The board of the Noonan School presented Miss Jurgenson with a handsome piece of luggage and the children had the pleasure of preparing for her a money bouquet. Everything about the occasion was pleasant to remember for all who attended.

We have a complete selection of artists' oil colors in tubes, also jars of linseed oil and turpentine. All at the Winchester Star.

School Fair

Ruth E. Graham and a social science fair prepared by fourth grade students under the direction of Miss Betty Gardner.

This year for the first year in grades four, five and six throughout the seven elementary schools new science texts by Nava and Zaffoni were introduced, bringing the six graders up through basic understanding of the atomic structure and uses of the atom.

The Mystic fair filled the auditorium with every kind of general science project including one on the electro magnet crane, on evolution of light bulbs and on air pressure to name just a few. Parents were pleased and interested and most especially members of the lower grades were thrilled to see what was ahead. They took their turn in asking for the well presented explanations which their schoolmates had prepared and responded with the kind of enthusiasm which made the job of explaining a gratification to the young scientific creators.

At Parkhurst, with two grades participating, the auditorium was alive with science, including displays of those things which are living—a demonstration of the life of bees, of the euglena and amoeba, of Bonsai miniature trees grown in Japan and of the human brain.

The boron and lithium atom were presented, the making of crystals demonstrated, rockets, static electricity, air pockets and heat energy described and presented. An atomic plant model and how it works, a DKW engine and the story of steam engines all had their part. It was impossible to walk down the aisle without some student reciting one in order to tell the story of his project with much the same enthusiasm that he might have in selling wares in an open air marketplace, a place which the Parkhurst auditorium resembled very much on Friday.

The social studies fair was truly an international exposition. And the same enthusiasm of presentation held the floor. Here were to be found a demonstration of an Egyptian shaduf, a water yoke from ancient Holland, a display of how to cook in the Congo, and, backed up with descriptive posters and maps were also to be found products from Switzerland, from Italy and a display of the United States, both old and new.

A sense of accomplishment permeated through all three fairs and teachers, students and parents and friends all felt that the pleasure of learning was the thing perhaps most of all on display.

Graduation At Saint Mary's

"Ask not what God can do for you but what you can do for God," the paraphrased statement of John F. Kennedy, was the appeal of Father Cosmos Paonessa of Christopher Columbus High School, last Wednesday evening, to the 1964 graduating class of St. Mary's School.

Father, in delivering the baccalaureate sermon, stressed the importance of going forth and living the principles learned during their formative years at Saint Mary's. The poised and dignified graduates filed from Saint Mary's Hall led by the class officers, James Hession, president; Joan Wernig, vice president; Glenn Johnson, treasurer; and Ellen O'Grady, secretary and participated in a dialogue Mass, celebrated by Father Paonessa at 7 o'clock.

Present at the graduation ceremony was Susan Zenga, one of the graduates who for the past five months has been confined to bed after a serious operation. During her illness, the Town of Winchester, in cooperation with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company connected an intercom system between St. Mary's and Susan's home. Through this media, Susan was able to participate and continue her studies at the parish school while at home. The continued admiration and concern of her fellow-students toward her has been most noteworthy and her courage was an example to each of them.

Perfect attendance during the past year was achieved by Gerard Conway, Raymond Dantes, James Hession, Kevin McGrath, John Newhall, John Sylvester, Susan Crimmins, Janet Donohoe, Katherine Fiore, Constance Morgan, Ellen O'Grady and Kathleen Sullivan.

Joan Wernig received recognition for being the highest ranking girl in her class. James Hession, winner of a partial scholarship to Boston College High School, was awarded a prize for being the highest ranking boy.

Best Effort award was presented to James O'Donnell, while Janice O'Neil was named the outstanding student in her class.

Seated in the sanctuary during the Mass were Monsignor John M. Manion, pastor of St. Mary's and Rev. Martin Delphin, a curate. Monsignor presented to the 47 graduates their diplomas and special awards.

Our best wishes and congratulations are extended to all the graduates with hopes that their future years may bear the fruits of their training at St. Mary's. They are: Class of '64 - St. Mary's School. James Cosgrove Hession, class president.

Joan Marie Wernig, class vice president. Glenn Thomas Johnson, class treasurer. Ellen Margaret O'Grady, class secretary.

Family Wishes

AT OUR establishment we do not try to follow a rigid pattern in the funeral service. We are well aware that these are times of flux and that dignity and good taste are not necessarily confined to prescribed formal standards of etiquette. We will outline what is usual and customary, but in all details the family has the final word, for we believe that the funeral service should reflect their wishes. As the years roll by, it is they who will remember.

Under the Flag At Washington

On the beautiful June morning of Friday, June 13, the close to 400 children of the Washington School had special Flag Day exercises on the grounds under the school flag and around the flag pole.

With a minimum of ceremony, Miss Leonor Rich led an informal group discussion on the youngsters' ideas of the flag, of patriotism and of freedom. In turn any child who had anything to add to the discussion came to the flagpole and presented his or her ideas, and with feeling and intelligence they discussed what their flag meant to them.

Loyalty, respect and protection were some of the words which came to life in this very alive, impromptu way of highlighting the day set aside to honor the country's emblem.

WVNA Concludes Year of Study In School Nursing

The beautiful home of Mrs. Thornton Stearns, a board member, was the setting for the final meeting of the season for the board of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association on June 12.

Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham opened the meeting at ten o'clock on the terrace. Mrs. Roswell Harding presented the secretary's report, and Mrs. Charles Sweetser the treasurer's report. Mrs. P. S. Cooke reported for the committee to send six local children to camp with money donated by En Ka, and Mrs. Robert Nyere announced the receipt of twenty-five dollars for the prize given at the En Ka parade for the float most applicable to the sponsoring organization.

Miss Rita Plummer, executive director, then introduced all the nurses of the organization, and each detailed to the board a brief description of the schools which she staffed and some pertinent comments concerning them. Mrs. Richard Nielsien, senior staff nurse, spoke of her work at the Lincoln and Wyman Schools. Mrs. Lee Aubrey gave a short history of McColl and the senior high school, which she supervises, stressing the difficulties of scheduling exams in the busy atmosphere there. Mrs. C. Wesley Mason is in charge of the program at Washington, Mystic and St. Mary's Schools, and gave an explanation of the intercom system which helps children who are at home for long periods to participate in class discussions and continue their education.

Miss Margaret Schmidt spoke on the desirable conditions at our newest schools, Parkhurst and Vinson-Owen, where she has a special room next to the principal's office to handle health problems. And Miss M. Gloria Pearson, the most recent addition to the staff, is in charge of nursing at Lynch Junior High, Noonan and the Immaculate Conception Schools. Miss Plummer stated that the nurses are in each school for two hours twice a week and on emergency call in their areas at all times. She showed the visual and audio machines which are used, and pointed out the importance of knowing where to reach someone in the family, as well as the family doctor, in an emergency which might occur during school hours. The school program is a vital part of the W.V.N.A., and the board is certainly more aware of the nurses' duties and problems after this interesting and informative discussion.

Mrs. Kern Folkers introduced the principal speaker of the morning, Dr. Richard Rablen from the Worcester State Hospital. He spoke on "kinds of techniques of talking to patients in after-care problems," and he gave a challenging and informal presentation of the variety of cases handled in the hospital. Dr. Rablen stressed the changes coming about during recent years in the state hospitals, due to the use of drugs which have helped the patient and the personnel in handling them as well.

The average stay of a schizophrenic patient, which is in the majority in these hospitals, has been eleven years; but now the emphasis is on an early release, and after care is much needed in the community life. The visiting nurse is of vital importance here as she has practical knowledge and can help the patient in his home conditions. He used several case histories to emphasize the need for understanding and listening on the part of the average person, rather than attempting suggestions or means of solutions for the problems of the patients.

Volunteers are being trained to be of more value, so that the staff is able to serve those who are in the most vital need at the time. Where the length of stay at the hospital is constantly being shortened, the role of the visiting nurse in the community is constantly being increased.

At noon, the meeting was adjourned, and a delicious dessert and coffee were served by Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson and her hospitality committee.

Wyman 1st Grade Flag Day Program

"The Flag, Friendly Symbol," was the title of a special presentation to schoolmates, parents and friends made on Friday, June 12, by the members of Mrs. Janet Greeno's grade one at the Wyman School.

What the flag means to them, and what the rules for honoring it are came through to the audience in songs and poems, many led or accompanied by Miss Natalie Belows, music supervisor.

The narrator was Peter Ross who first introduced the color bearers, from upper grades: Mark Snellinger, Bruce Clark, Andrew McLaughlin, Robert Herrmann, Caroline Karp and Laura Downes. Then the poem "The Flag on Parade" and the song, "Red, White and Blue" were given.

The committee of color, represented by Jay James, Brian Cosgrove, Ruth Dutting and Nancy Raleigh and the committee of symbols, with John Bennink, Ellen Kermond, David Karp, Jay James and Wendy von Rosenbergs appeared next, followed by the committee of respect and their message: Philip Jackson, Jane Colony, Eva Orman, Dwight Bannister and Terry Senior.

The song, "There Are Many Flags in Many Lands" led off the next part after which the committee of rules to display flag and an acoustic flag day, presented by Martha Abbott, Karen Dolaney, Peter Richmond, William Harvey, Edward Livingstone, Heidi German, Martha Phillips, Wendy von Rosenbergs, and Matthew Camarda. Anne Udall then recited "The Flag Goes By" and a flag drill concluded the successful program with everyone joining in the pledge of allegiance and the singing of "America."

Winchester Jaycee-ettes

On Wednesday June 10, the Winchester Jaycee-ettes held their meeting at the home of Mrs. William Schromm. Mrs. Robert McNamara, president, conducted the meeting.

Final arrangements and committees were organized for aid to the Jaycees in the State Tennis Tournament July 3-4. The Jaycee-ettes will provide 125 box lunches for all contestants in the tournament. We are also operating a refreshment stand in which Pepsi Cola and baked goods will be sold. All proceeds will go to sending the winners to the National Tournament in Minneapolis. Orange slices will be provided for all contestants.

The Jaycee-ettes have completed the 16 foot long sign Welcome Junior Tennis which will be posted at the Palmer courts prior to the tournament. Also a committee has completed smaller signs which will be placed around town directing contestants to the courts. The final design for the program cover was submitted to the Jaycees and accepted. The Jaycee-ettes will assemble the programs to be ready for distribution on July 3.

A revised letter will be sent to the Jaycees suggesting that they establish a liaison officer. With such an officer in each group, better rapport and more Jaycee aid can be established.

The program for next year was discussed briefly. The meeting in the fall will be a buffet dinner at the home of Mrs. John Williams and will include the installation of officers. Various speakers were announced and there will be a least two coffees for prospective Jaycee wives. Suggestions are needed for a major fund raiser in which a fashion show was discussed.

After the meeting had adjourned, there was a White Elephant Sale. Mrs. William Schromm was our successful auctioneer obtaining a total amount of $22.00 for the treasury. It was a very enjoyable and successful sale.

On June 27, there will be a cook-out for all Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNamara.

Methodists To Dedicate Gifford Hall

A special service of multiple significance will take place Sunday morning at eleven o'clock at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. It will be Ministry Sunday, Father's Day and Dedication Sunday, all observed in the one service.

The Reverend Hamilton Gifford, newly appointed superintendent of the Methodist Churches of Boston District, will preach the sermon.

It is anticipated that Mr. Gifford's father, the Reverend Alliston B. Gifford will be in the congregation. The latter Reverend Gifford is now retired and living in Lexington, but at the time the present church was built he was the minister at Crawford Memorial and the son was a student at Winchester High School. It is in honor of the father that Gifford Hall has been named, and the ceremony of dedication will conclude the services of the morning.

Following the service the ladies of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will serve a collation in Gifford Hall. Everyone is invited to the special service and an effort has been made to reach all living persons who joined the church under Reverend Gifford or attended the church or Sunday School during his pastorate here.

Washington School Mothers Meet

The George Washington School Mothers' Association brought its year's activities to a close Tuesday evening, June 10. Prior to the business meeting, the mothers were invited to visit the school rooms to see a sample of their children's work on their desks.

At 8 p.m., Mrs. Samuel E. Perkins, president of the association, called the business meeting to order. After each board member presented a short report to the group, the following recommendations for the appropriations of monetary gifts were voted upon and passed: $25 to be given to the Foreign Student program; $100 to the Scholarship Foundation; and $500 to the Washington School to be used to buy a portable television set, library books for the children, and to refurbish the planter in the main lobby of the school, all subject to the approval of the school committee.

Mrs. Robert A. Gallant, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for 1964-1965: Mrs. Hubert L. Ferber, president; Mrs. Robert T. Grainger, first vice president; Mrs. Nicholas J. Vallas, second vice president; Mrs. Michael W. Penta, secretary; Mrs. Anthony M. Ciampini, treasurer; and Mrs. John C. Severino, auditor. These officers were consequently elected.

Before Mrs. Perkins turned over the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Ferber, Miss Leonore M. Rich, principal of the school, reminisced a bit about the past school year and gave some predictions for the year to come.

After the adjournment of the meeting, delicious refreshments were awaiting the mothers on attractively decorated tables with Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Ferber pouring.

Vinson-Owen Family Frolic Is a Big Event

The last affair of the Vinson-Owen Parents' Association school year was a Family Frolic held Saturday, June 6, on the school grounds. All families living in the Vinson-Owen district were invited and about six hundred persons attended.

The first event of the day was a costume parade on American history theme. The judges, Mrs. Joseph Zrodowski, Mrs. Leonard Canollere and Mrs. Thomas Kuhn had a most difficult decision picking which of the highly original costumes should receive prizes. The costumes ranged from Martha Washington to Jackie Kennedy, from Hawaiian dancers to Columbus' three ships.

The following were winners: Rip Van Winkle, Glenn Olson; Spirit of '76, Chip Vickroy, Drew Buber and Rupi Stanley; Dance Hall Girl, Pam Beck; Pilgrimage, Renee George; Town Criers, Steve and Jody Cicci; Indian, Allen Easterling; Aurora, Ann Louise Puopolo; Revolutionary Bell Ringer, Greg Tardano; 1812 Soldier, Cori Gibbs. The parade was led by the Vinson-Owen Band which performed admirably under the direction of Frederick Murray.

After the parade, all hands enjoyed a picnic lunch. Tonic, ice cream, and cotton candy vanished into juvenile and adult stomachs with great rapidity, to the accompaniment of a concert by the band. In the afternoon, races and games, with plenty of prizes were hotly contested by children of all ages.

Mid-afternoon entertainment was provided by the Belairs, Anthony Buzzotta, Drew Lydotes, Johnny Gentile and Dave Amato, whose imitation of the Beatles was enthusiastically received.

Tired parents and happy children voted the affair a great success with many thanks going to the committee: John Corf, chairman; Duane Belden, tickets; David Votaw, treasurer; Charles Gundersen, games; Herbert Gibbs, refreshments; Mrs. Joseph Cicci, parade; Mrs. A. S. Goldin, publicity and Roger Harsch, clean-up.

Nineteen Receive Harvard Degrees

Approximately 3,000 students received academic degrees at the 313th commencement of Harvard University held Thursday, June 11. Close to 1,000 of these were young men just completing college, who received the bachelor of arts degree.

The others, both men and women, were given advanced degrees from one of the graduate schools, qualifying them for careers as scientists and scholars, ministers, lawyers, doctors, dentists, teachers and school administrators, architects and city planners, businessmen, government officials, and public health officers.

Traditionally held in the tree-shaded yard on a newly-constructed permanent stage adjoining Memorial Church, the ancient ceremony of conferring degrees was followed by a series of small, informal "commencements" in the Harvard Houses and among the graduate schools. Here each student received his degree individually from officials of the school or house with which he was associated.

Ten Winchester students received their bachelor of arts degree: Dennis G. Baker of 7 Grove Street, cum laude; Peter G. Bryant of 20 Lawson Road; Joseph J. Butare, Jr., of 110 Middlesex Street, Ronald W. Chabot of 102 Sylvester Avenue, cum laude; Paul R. Del-Rossi of 14 Linden Street; John E. Donahue of 3 Myopia Hill Road; William T. Haggerty, Jr., of 41 Middlesex Street; Francis W. Lamarche of 97 Highland Avenue; Michael V. Mackenzie, Jr., of 47 Swan Road, cum laude; and William F. Sibley of 15 Cambridge Street, cum laude.

Nine Winchester residents received graduate degrees at Harvard this year: George F. Baker, III, of 10 Pine Street, masters in business administration; Sidney R. Bixler of 31 Fells Road, bachelor of law; William J. Callahan, Jr., of 20 Kendall Street, doctor of philosophy; Royce N. Flippin, Jr., of 5 Charles Road, masters in business administration; Robert P. Gow of 71 Forest Circle, masters in business administration; Harold L. Jones of 59 Middlesex Street, masters in business administration; Dennis M. Keane of 22 Lloyd Street, masters in business administration; Scott Neeley of 10 James Street, masters in business administration; and Richard M. Willis of 27 Cambridge Street, masters in business administration.

Stoneham Zoo Now Open Daily

New facilities at Middlesex Fells Zoo in Stoneham will be open to visitors on a daily basis because of a change in the construction schedule, it was announced Saturday.

Commissioner Robert F. Murphy of the Metropolitan District Commission explained that a delay in starting the second phase of the reconstruction project made it possible to open the Stoneham zoo seven days a week, from 10 to 5 o'clock, rather than on week-ends only.

"With the tremendous interest shown by the appearance of an estimated 12,000 visitors on the first Sunday the new zoo was open on June 7, I am pleased we can make it available to the public on a full schedule for a good part of the summer," said Commissioner Murphy.

The zoo will revert to a week-end schedule when construction begins on the second phase, slated for mid-August. Further work was held up pending completion of final plans and specifications by the architect.

Completed in the first phase were a $425,000 mammal house, an entrance building, 200-car parking lot, utilities, landscaping and razing of 40 old structures.

Hallet Receives M.I.T. Bachelor's

Stanley I. Hallet of 247 High Street received his bachelor of architecture degree at Massachusetts Institute of Technology commencement exercises on Friday, June 12.

Approximately 650 members of the class of 1964 and about 520 graduate students received advanced degrees. Dr. Julius A. Stratton, president of M. I. T., gave the commencement address and personally presented the diplomas to each of the degree recipients. Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., presided over the ceremonies.

Commencement programs this year included the traditional military commissioning exercises and a commencement symposium on "The Graduate's Role in Tomorrow's World." Following the graduation exercises, a luncheon and reception were held on the lawn of the Great Court for the graduates and their parents.

Boston Honors

GREATER BOSTON HONORS RICHIE GREEN—Jeremiah J. Healey, Jr., left, of the Carling Brewing Company and Harry P. Butland, president of the Carling Inter-City Baseball League, pay tribute to 22-year-old Richie Green, right, All-American hockey player at Boston University, who was injured last winter in a trampoline accident. The ceremony took place during "Richie Green Day" Sunday at Victory Field, Watertown, as Watertown officials, representatives of the Carling League, and Richie's friends paid honor to the young man who played for four years with the Watertown Hibos of the league prior to his injury.

Babe Ruth League

With rain playing the teams the past week only four games were played as the teams neared the half-way mark.

On Monday night the Giants scored three times in the fifth inning as they defeated the Cubs 6-4. The Giants scored the runs on a walk, two errors and a single by Dave DeTosco. The Giants scored three runs in the first inning on walks to Mike Murray and John Carroll, a double by John Shanahan, and a single by Dave DeTosco. The Giants scored one run for the Cubs and knocked in another while collecting three of the Cubs' four hits. Bert Arnold picked up the victory for the Giants while Toby Harvey, who pitched well in relief, suffered the loss.

On Friday night the Orioles banged out 12 hits, and with the help of 10 errors trounced the Indians 16-2. Bobby Nuttle was credited with the win, giving up four hits while striking out nine and walking three. Nuttle also had two hits including a home run. Danny Garvey had two hits for the Orioles, while Jimmy Mumma had a pair for the Indians.

In the first game Sunday the Phillies exploded for 19 hits as they defeated the Cubs 18-5. Leading the Phillies' attack was Brian Collins and Jeff Schlener, who had three hits apiece. Schlener, who right now possesses the hottest bat in the league, has 13 for 19 so far this season. Finally breaking out of their slump were the Phillies' "M" boys, Brian McKenna and Tommy Martin, who had two hits apiece and are the table-setters for Collins, Schlener and Bill Brunkhorst. Also having a pair of hits for the Phillies were Bill Brunkhorst, Bobby Hifinger, and Scottie "Moose" Anderson. Ricky Kidder played his first game for the Cubs this year, recovering from a broken bone in his foot. Kenny Cooper picked up his second win of the season.

The second game was all Kevin Barry as the White Sox left hander defeated the Orioles 8-1. Barry struck out 15 and walked only one. He lost his bid for a shutout in the seventh inning on a long home run by Kenny Garvey. The White Sox scored their runs in bunches with four in the third and five more in the sixth. John Gentile had a bases-loaded double for the White Sox. Harry Wood, who is known more for his hockey exploits, was the losing pitcher for the Orioles.

Town Softball League

The Elks and the Health Lab were anxious to play on Wednesday of a week ago, but despite the fact that the heavy rains resulted in the postponement of the game, the boys were happy that the drought situation was relieved somewhat. The game will be played at a later date.

The S.O.I. jumped on Dave Shean for five runs in the first inning on hits by Sam Bellino, Jake Ciarcia, Dave Kline, Bill Haynesworth and Jack Boroian. The Knicks went down in order in its half of the inning.

In the second frame Bellino and Don Kenton walked to open the inning and Kline batted a homer to score the two ahead of him to bring his two times at bat with five r.h.s. The Knicks started a rally in the bottom of the second when Bob McGee and Frank Leverone hit safely and crossed pay dirt on Bob Puzzo's double. Bob then tallied on a single by John Hosmer.

No hits were allowed the S.O.I. in the third while John Hosmer was left on second after his double with one out and the next two batters fanning.

The fourth was another big inning for the victors when Joe Flaherty walked, Jack Boroian reached on an error, Pete Gilberti grounded out, Wozzie Giacalone reached on a fielder's choice, Sam Bellino then connected for his second hit to score Flaherty and Boroian. Don Kenton was walked and with bases loaded Kline belted his second home run and third successive hit, bringing his total of r.h.s. to nine for the game. On Monday night the Sachems won its third game over the Health Lab who now has one victory in six tries. Roger DeMinico was the big gun for the victors by tripling and getting a single while Bob Corby was close behind with two singles. The triple by Roger came in the fourth with two men already up as the Sachems in a 4-2 lead. The last two Sachems' runs came in the fifth and sixth frames with hits by Corby and John Prestidge.

The Health Lab tallied in the second inning when Ken Alperin walked, advanced to third on Larry Bernard's single and scored on a fielder's choice. The inning then ended on a ground out and two fly balls. The Health's second and third runs crossed pay dirt in the fourth on consecutive hits by John Gagliastro, Dan LaGatta and Paul Hahn. Neither team threatened in the final two stanzas and the game ended in semi-darkness with the Sachems ahead 6-3.

TOWN TEAM NEEDS SUPPORT; SERIEKA SIGNS WITH PATRIOTS

Because major league franchises are continually severing their ties with the lower class designations (c.b.a.) of their minor league affiliates, more and more importance is being given to amateur and semi-professional baseball leagues across the country. Greater Boston has three such leagues. They are the Boston Park League, the Suburban Two-League, and the Carling Inter-City League. Winchester, managed by Joel Peckham, has been a member of the latter for the past five years. They have usually been good enough to make the playoffs, and this year the situation is no different. Undeclared in seven games, the Rifles are right in the thick of the Carling competition. Team members include George Neville, who raised a few eyebrows this season at Harvard with a .405 average; Vandy French, who captained the Tufts squad, and teammate Dale Grinnell; Woburn's Ed Foley, rated by many to be Boston College's first-string quarterback this fall; Dan Serieka from the University of New Hampshire, and scheduled to try out with the Boston Patriots in July; John Purcell, a sharp little shortstop from Arlington; and Jack Brenner of Northeastern.

This league plays a good brand of baseball. No fan would waste his time attending. Often you come to realize that you're watching possible major league material. But the league (with the exception of one or two teams) depends upon public support. Through manager Peckham, the Winchester entry has voiced an appeal for financial help. My suggestion is to do nothing . . . until you witness them in action. Then, if you feel that such baseball should stay in existence, make out a check for any amount and mail it in care of the Winchester Town Team, Winchester National Bank.

Dan Serieka, who ran hard at WHS and considerably harder at UNH, has signed a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, and will begin working for a position when the team starts practicing in July. Dan, currently playing with the Winchester Town Team, revealed he also had an offer from the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

"I considered it," Dan admitted, "but reasoned my chance would be better with a local team. Mike Holovak told me he planned to try me at defensive half-back, or possibly at a flanker spot. He didn't rule out running back either."

At 6ft. 1in. and 210lbs., Dan will have good size for professional competition. Both Dick Felt and Bob Suci are smaller. But the AL will offer Dan the stiffest test he's ever had. Can you imagine defending against the LA Charger's Lance Alworth? Still I have the feeling that Dan may surprise a few people, and in a year or two they'll be saying, "Can you imagine trying to stop Dan Serieka?"

Indian Ridge Golf Course In Finest Shape

The championship 18-hole golf course at the Indian Ridge Country Club, located just off Route 93, in Andover, "has weathered the winter snows and the recent dry spell excellently, and the entire course is now in the finest condition ever," Club President Daniel E. Hogan, Jr. has announced. Mr. Hogan attributed the fine condition of the course to the unique, completely automatic sprinkler-irrigation system, which has resulted in velvety greens and handsome fairways.

At Indian Ridge, the sporting and social season is in full swing. A world of activity is available to every member of the family. The days are filled with golf, tennis, and swimming, while the nights are ablaze with social activity. Parties, dances, clam bakes, barbecues, costume affairs, etc. are regular social functions.

Because of the expanded new facilities at Indian Ridge, the club can now accommodate a limited number of additional individual, family, husband - and - wife and corporate memberships. Golfing memberships are as low as $100 for individual women and $200 for individual men, plus tax. Prospective members are invited to see the club and to play a round of golf as guests of the club at the special "guests - with - members" rate: $3.50 daily; $5.00 on weekends and holidays (conditions permitting). Interested parties should call the Pro Shop (Andover 475-5233) to obtain a starting time.

Particularly appealing to the golfer is the fact that the course is never overcrowded with outside leagues and public events. A private club, members always come first and their needs are catered to first and foremost. As a result, there are no long, aggravating delays and endless waiting to tee off.

Designed by nationally famous golf course architect Geoffrey S. Cornish, the course's back nine holes were completed only last spring. Of championship caliber (over 7,000 yards from the championship tees), the course is superbly picturesque with its rolling fairways and fine greens, studied with an excellent array of hazards and ponds. Golf at Indian Ridge is always a challenge, always an experience to both the beginner and those with low handicaps.

Other Golfing Features

There are many other excellent features for the golfer at Indian Ridge. There is a large practice area for irons, an extensive driving range and practice sand traps. The 18-hole putting green is illuminated for night - time play. Gas-operated golf carts are available. The handsome new Pro Shop and Golfing Building has facilities for cart and bag storage and service in addition to men's and ladies' lockers, a rustic refreshment lounge and smart displays of the latest golfing equipment and sportswear.

Golf pro Billy Gilbert, New England's second low qualifier for the National Open, has lined up an extensive tournament schedule for 1964. Some of the major scheduled events are: Jr. Club Champion; Sr. Club Champion; Presidents Cup; Qualifying Club Championship. Billy Gilbert was formerly the head golf pro at the Argyle Country Club, in Silver Springs, Maryland. A former Western Conference Champion, he has built up an enviable record at leading clubs throughout the east and is highly regarded for his teaching ability by both beginners and "experts."

Swimming and Tennis

Swimming facilities abound at Indian Ridge. The large Olympic swimming pool, equipped with high and low diving boards, is illuminated for night time swimming. In addition, there are two pools for children and kiddies, heated for spring and fall enjoyment. Bathhouse facilities include a refreshment stand and bar facilities. Swimming or sunning on lounge chairs at the pool area, members are soothed by soft music wafting through the air. Various pool contests and exhibitions are featured on weekends.

Four championship tennis courts provide another form of major activity at Indian Ridge. Supervised by tennis pro Othmar Mair, winner of over 100 European and American trophies, there is an endless schedule of tennis tournaments, exhibitions for spectators and participant members. Tennis instruction is available.

The heated, air - conditioned Cabana Building, center of social activity at Indian Ridge, has a smart cocktail lounge and snack shop.

Located on Lovejoy Road, just off Route 93 in Andover, the club was built on a historic ridge overlooking the lush Merrimack Valley on the site of an Algonquin Indian Reservation. On 270 acres of gently-rolling New England countryside, a paradise of family recreation has been developed. Prospective members are invited to see the excellent Indian Ridge facilities for themselves.

Indian Ridge was conceived 5 years ago, and the present management and ownership came into the picture in 1960. In 1961, the swimming pools, tennis courts and Cabana Building were erected. In 1962, the first nine holes and the Golf Building were completed. In 1963, the back nine holes were finished.

Today, in the summer of 1964, the course already boasts some of the finest greens and tees in New England, and the fairways are rapidly approaching top condition.

CAP League Notes

Saturday the rain could not daunt 134 of 170 boys who boarded three buses for Fenway Park. The Red Sox did not disappoint them, as they took Baltimore 6-2.

Twenty-one fathers kept the group intact. Cheering and general enthusiasm was at peak, and the boys were a great credit to their parents and our town.

One of our eight-year-old group said he had never ridden on a bus before but he had flown in an airplane!

Sunday, June 14, five diamonds were overflooded as the boys played their final games of the season.

Most of this group will graduate into Little League next year. Two hundred and sixteen units of ice cream were passed out by Anne Wild and Roberta Nowell. Ralph Atkinson and Bob Wild were more than pleased with the development of these eager boys in our fifth season of Cap League.

Playgrounds Open Monday

The summer playground program, sponsored by the Winchester Park Department, gets under way next Monday with Frank Provino as supervisor. The playground instructors are: Leslie Sanger (Jackson), Helen Nash (Lowell Teachers'), Jane Magee (LaSalle), Ronnie Keane (U. of Mass.) and Paul Mulloy (Bowdoin).

As in the past, the playgrounds will be officially supervised on a rotation basis, which means that two play areas will be under supervision with a planned program, while the other two play areas will not be supervised for the day. Only those playgrounds with supervision will have the equipment and facilities available on a given day in order that proper leadership, safety and instruction be maintained.

The playgrounds to be used for the summer program are Ginn Field, West Side Field, Loring Field and Leonard Field. All playgrounds are in excellent condition, are equipped with excellent equipment, materials and leadership and it is urged that all youngsters take advantage of the wonderful opportunity presented to them. It is suggested, however, that girls and boys under eight years of age have an older person with them because it would be highly unfair to the instructors to have to "baby sit" while they are trying to initiate the various forms of recreation to those of ability to participate.

As part of the program during the summer months there are provisions made for baseball, softball, kickball, dodgeball, tag games, quiet games, touch football, basketball, croquet, badminton, volleyball, beach days and Fenway Park days. The equipment is there, so all we ask is that the youngsters come out to enjoy it all.

In the arts and crafts department, Jane Magee will keep the youngsters busy and happy in the making of pot holders, letter holders, napkin holders, change purses, bill folds, key holders, plaster of Paris figurines, painting, lanyards, bracelets, costume jewelry, moccasins and on so many other things.

There will be a weekly column in the Star entitled "Playground Notes," and this column is intended to keep you aware of what has taken place and what will take place on the playgrounds, so we ask that you set the article aside each week to keep up to date with the program.

Next week Ginn and Loring will be supervised on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, while Leonard and West Side Fields will be open on Tuesday and Thursday. The hours of supervision are from 9-12 and 2-5 each day, Monday through Friday.

Arts and crafts will take place in the morning at Leonard and Loring Fields when they are officially open for play, and in the afternoon at Ginn and West Side Fields when these play areas are supervised.

Does all this sound confusing? Not a bit if you refer to "Playground Notes" and the weekly schedule such as found below:

Monday, Wednesday, Friday—Ginn and Loring Fields open. The first week is intended for organization of various teams for girls and boys of all ages. Arts and crafts at Leonard in the morning and in the afternoon at West Side.

The first week, as mentioned above, will be used to organize the various groups, but there will be much time for supervised "free play."

It cannot be expected that the arts and crafts will go at top speed for the first week because of much ordering of materials that is most essential, so your patience in this department will pay off later in the week.

Kolligian Trophy Awarded to Air Force Jet Pilot

The Koren Kolligian, Jr. trophy, established by Mr. and Mrs. Koren Kolligian, of 71 Wedgemere Avenue was awarded recently to Captain Charles W. Broz, Air Force jet pilot of Wagner, South Dakota, who landed his crippled jet safely after a 45 minute battle with the elements.

S. O. I. News

Chairman Boss Dattilo and his committee of Art Dunbar, Randy Kazanian, Tony and John Paonessa and Nick Ronzio must be commended for holding one of the most successful functions in a long time. The diligent committee held its Hawaiian Luau last Saturday night and the 200 in attendance left at closing time with a most satisfactory feeling.

Things got popping at about 8:00 when leis were presented to all upon entering the hall. They immediately got into the atmosphere of the occasion by dancing to the Hawaiian music of George A. Jorjancion and his Hawaiian Band.

A bit after 9:00, it was announced that food would be served and each participant was treated with heaping plates of delicious carved watermelon, fruit cup, turkey, pork, salad, bread and butter, coffee and any fruit you desired.

Many attended in Hawaiian clothing to fit the occasion and at 10:00 awards were presented for the best Hawaiian costume, best dancers, best hunt condition, and twist dancer. All events made a big hit and it must be truthfully mentioned that if you were not present you certainly missed a good time and will want to plan on attending the next one. By popular demand another is wanted soon, so be heads up for the announcement.

Congratulations to Bill Fiore, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fiore, Sr., who has been awarded a scholarship to Boston College for next September.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bertolucci also have a daughter, Charlene, who has achieved a scholarship to attend Fisher Junior College starting next September. Congratulations to you too!

Mrs. Mary Provinzano, mother of Pete, Frank and Dom of our organization, was hospitalized last week but we are happy to announce that she is now home and doing fine. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony (Moore) Bellino celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary, so our best wishes to you! Many more!

The next Social Night is planned for Saturday, June 27, so plan to be there to meet the gang and have an enjoyable evening. There is no charge and coffee and doughnuts will be served.

LT. (JG) Frank Dattilo of Naval Academy fame is expected to spend a month with his parents and will be in town shortly. It will be a pleasant sight to see him since he has been out of the area for the past eight years. He plans to be here to attend his brother John's wedding in August. Come down to the club and see us, Lieutenant!

Did you hear about Mario Buzzotta's bringing home a pup and a guinea pig for his children? The pup has been named "Pilot" and has really taken over. The guinea pig was in the household for a month and finally gave birth to twins. Now, there is "co-pilot," "navigator," and "crew chief."

Ven. Bob Fiore led a group including Bill and Rudy Fiore, Carl Bertolucci, Ted Peluso and Jay Cammaratta to Parker Mt. for last week to assist in adding a room to the Minute Man Boy Scout building. The Minute Man Council has extended its thanks and appreciation for so many of the S.O.I. having an interest in the camp.

During a "break period" Ted decided to go fishing and after being away for a while Bill Fiore went to investigate and approaching Ted, he said, "How's the fishing Ted?"

The latter turned and said, "When I catch the one I'm fooling with now and then catch two more. I'll have three! With that Bill I'll be in the Ladies' Lodge is having a dance Saturday night and it is hoped that there will be a good number in attendance because the proceeds are for the various charities that are the Ladies' Lodge undertakes. As Jim Dooley says, "Come On Down."

There is much talk about bowling for next year and it won't be too long before the committee meets to make arrangements.

Chairman of the golf league, Al Fiorelli, reports that all is going fine and that the standings are as follows:

Class A	Won	Lost
Chick Vespucci and	13 1/2	1 1/2

PLAY AWAY FROM TRAFFIC

WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

AMERICAN LEAGUE THE WHIPPETS

Sponsored by W. Allan Wilde & Son, Insurance

One of the most improved teams in the league is the Whippets. Their manager, Enar Carlson, is loud in his praise of his boys.

These boys have been trying their best to improve with each game and I am certainly proud of the way that they have worked this season. We may not have won many games so far but we have managed to get every boy into the action so that he is learning by actual game play rather than just practice games.

Watching the Whippets do their stuff is ample proof of Manager Carlson's belief in their ability. The roster has some good hitters and some excellent fielders. Bob Gill is an example of the type of player that brings spirit and ability to a club. Bob has done all of the catching this season and is one of the top receivers in the league. Bob's bat is also smoking this season and he is going to try to do even better in the remaining games of this year.

Jim Styles is a fixture at first base and covers the bag with ease and ability. Davis Hall is a specialist at second base and is also ready to take over an outfield spot when he is needed there. John Dugan is another second baseman and between these boys the second sack is well covered. Having two men like these fielders on one team makes a manager's choice easy for they are both top-notch men.

Bob Carlson at the hot corner is all any team could want. His play this season has been outstanding and his batting is as good as any member of the squad. Bob Hunt handles the shortstop position and sweeps up hits like a vacuum cleaner. Bob is another heavy hitter with the Whippets. Bob Verellone does his stint at first base when needed but his main contribution has been on the pitcher's mound.

The Whippets have had some good pitching from a strong throwing staff. Besides Bob Verellone, the strong arm boys are Lee Pollachi, who also doubles as an outfielder. Lee is probably the mainstay of the tossers but he has had plenty of company from the other two boys. Bruce Walz rounds out the pitching corps and, like Lee, is ready to jump out to an outfield spot if the manager has him listed for that position.

Outfielders are no problem for the Whippets' manager. John Bradley, Brian Cullen and Dennis Lawton make up one trio that is hard to equal on any club. These boys are speedsters and are well armed at the plate also. Dave Mucci, Joe Saylor and Dick Phillips make up another outfield combination that can step in and cover the garden like a summer storm. These three are ball hawks of exceptional ability and each of them wield a heavy stick at the plate.

Though their record does not indicate it, the Whippets have been hitting the ball hard and the breaks are bound to come their way soon. With a trio of pitchers like Walz, Pollachi and Verellone turning in performances that they are capable of doing, it is no secret that Manager Carlson's confidence in this team is well founded. These Whippets have the speed and they may be off and running from here on in.

THE WILDCATS

Sponsored by McLaughlin's Shoe Store

"Watch these Wildcats go for the rest of the season," is Manager Hugh Phillips' comment on his club. "These boys are hitting hard and fielding better with each game and they will be tough to beat now." These sentiments are shared by Coach Dan Garvey who says, "We have lost some close ones up to now but with sharper hitting in the rest of the games, we don't intend to be in the same close scoring games."

The Wildcats have plenty of ability in their lineup as evidenced by players like Dan Spezzafano, who is one of the team's veterans. Dan is the number one pitcher on the club and can also handle first base when he is not on the mound. A heavy hitter, Dan swings for the fences all the time and has hit them on occasion too.

John Miller is another pitcher whose arm is getting better with each game. John doubles as a catcher when the lineup lists him in that spot and does a fine job all the time. Jim Blackham plays a lot of centerfield and can jump behind the plate when needed. Jim feels right at home in either spot and is a steady performer for the club.

Carmen Fucillo handles first base like he lived there. His glove work is excellent and he is a threat to opposing pitchers every time he comes to bat. Second base belongs to Bob Thoms. Bob moves around that area with speed and sureness that makes him an asset to any ball club.

Mark Laughlin at third is all that is necessary on that spot. His glove work on the hot corner is a thing of beauty to watch. Peter Wakefield plays plenty of shortstop and also does hitting for the Wildcats. These boys make the left side of the infield as tight as a bank vault.

Doug Leslie is probably the most improved outfielder on the club.

Winchester Little League

By Charlie Lucier

Doug covers plenty of garden and is getting to be one of the best in the business at outfield playing. Along with Doug, the Wildcats have Peter Kent who has speed and ability to spare. Pete is the menace that enemy pitchers have to face at the plate and he hits the ball with authority.

Peter Brownell, Bill Hudson and Peter O'Leary are one of the best outfield combinations that any team could ask for, and they prove it by their play with the Cats. Kerry Brough rounds out the squad and is another outfielder who has been doing some fine defensive playing for his team.

With a group like this the Wildcats are serving notice on the rest of the league that their claws are sharper and their teeth are stronger so beware in the future games.

NATIONAL LEAGUE THE BEAVERS

Sponsored by Winton Hardware

Manager Art Carr is not a worrier. "We have the club that is correctly named," says Art, "and we are working like Beavers to finish on top of the pile this season." Coaches Van Johnson and Bill Wolfe vote along with their manager. "These boys are trying all the time and it is paying off in the win column," is their combined appraisal of the team.

The Beavers sport one of the best fielding outfits in the league. First base is handled by either Chris Parsons or Paul Breedon. Both of these boys are good hitters and Parsons' fielding is about as good as one could desire. Breedon is also ready to do outfield duty and is improving fast in every aspect of the game.

Jim Dobbins is an improved second baseman and is going to be one of the top men in the league as time goes on. Dave Waszak is another second sacker who is a hard man to beat. Dave is one of the club's heavy hitters and can also handle himself on the mound.

Greg Johnson plays shortstop with the best of them and is a man that no team would want to be without. Greg is also a member of the Beaver pitching staff. Cliff Odom is one of the mainstays of the organization. Cliff is the third sacker and one of the best in the business.

Shawn Breen, Steve Polleys, and Steve Boyd make up one of the outfield trios that shine in Beaver skins. These boys are fast and overflowing with ability so that the outer garden is well covered when they are in the lineup. Jim Chute, Bill Blanding and Curt Odom make up another combination of outer gardeners that can handle themselves with plenty of ability. All of these players can be worked into combinations that do not cost one ounce of ability in their efforts.

Dick Bonasera is the man of the hour for the Beavers. He is one of the best catchers in the league and is ready to strive for the batting crown as well. Harry Beard is a new member of the squad and has shown his manager some great work as a pitcher, an infielder and a catcher. Both of these boys are ready to do their best either behind the plate or up at bat and it is paying off in the success of the team as a whole.

Dennis O'Donnell is a manager's dream for a good utility man. Dennis can handle an infield or outfield post and he is showing greater ability every time he gets into a game. With a team like this and pitching from Greg Johnson, Dave Waszak, Chris Parsons and Harry Beard the Beavers don't have to worry about building because they are all built. It is the rest of the league that will have to worry now.

THE TIGERS

Sponsored by The Elks

Manager Tom Mullaney is not in the least concerned about his job with the Tigers. "It's simple," he says, "all you need is a good team like the Tigers and you've got it made." His coach, John Mullaney feels the same as his chief about the club. "This team does not back off an inch for any outfit in the league," was his statement about his team.

Perhaps the managerial staff seems to be kidding a bit but as a matter of fact the Tigers have all of the requisites needed to make top contender in any league. This team has plenty of heavy hitting and more than their share of fine fielding.

Pitching is never a tough spot for this club. Jim Ferguson is the top of the pitching corps and can also do a fine job at first base if needed. Bob Peterson is another pitcher who has been doing a credible job on the mound. Gene Freda is another youngster who is coming along fine in the tossing department. A couple of the crew that does outfield work is also being studied for possible pitching assignments.

When not on the mound, Jim Ferguson can handle the first base chore with ease. Also ready for duty on the initial sack is Jay Vika who can also be called upon to handle an outfield spot. Jay is one of the clubs big stickers also.

Paul Tonello is a really good second baseman who smashes the long ball at most of his appearances at the plate. Bob Pettersen is one of the pitching staff but is probably better known for his work at short. Bob has been asked to take over the second base job on occasions but he would rather handle the shortstop post. No team can boast of a better clean-up hitter than the Tigers have in Pettersen.

Craig West is another sharp shortstop whose fielding and hitting ability is well above par. Ron Allard hops around on the hot corner and two better fielders than West and Allard would be difficult to uncover. Both of these boys have done great work in keeping the Tigers well among the top contenders in the league.

Eric Peterson is one of the excellent center fielders that Manager Mullaney has had over the years. But the manager is more than happy with this one. Eric's fielding and hitting have been well up at the top of the chart this season. Jim Irwin handles an outfield post and can also work second base if needed while Dick Mullaney is another outfielder whose sure hands and feet have made him a mainstay of the club.

Mike Foley and Mark von Rosenberg are two more outfielders that the Tigers would not want to trade off. Both boys are fast and are showing that they can handle their assignment like professionals. Mike Ferrell and Ty Gerould give the Tigers two more top-flight outer gardeners and these boys are not taking second place to any other fielder on the team. Ty is willing and able to handle an infield spot when necessary.

Phil Coss is a 10-year-old catcher who has been handling all of the receiving duties so far this year and doing a fine job of it. Having a catcher like Phil on a club is as good as a U. S. Savings Bond in the bank.

The Tigers are stalking every other team in the league and they have the strength and speed to bring down the toughest opposition. When the Tiger twitches his tail the rest of the league had better start looking for shelter.

Olympic Games For Cub Pack 509

The final meeting for Cub Pack 509 was held Friday, June 12, at the Washington School.

The Cubs engaged in their own Olympic Games. Coming through with a big win in the Javelin was Richard Phillips when he tossed the javelin 51 feet 6 inches; Dennis Hall placed second and Zane McNeil finished third. In the shot-put Johnathan Lawrence heaved the three pound weight 28 feet 3 inches to nose out Frank McNeil whose heave was good for 27 feet 3 inches and one-half inches. Finishing third in the shot-put was Robbie Ungaretti. John O'Donnell got off to a slow start in the marathon but came on strong to take first place in this event. Roger McGrath finished second and Wayne West third.

The forty yard dash was won by Peter Wakefield, Richard Phillips, earned another ribbon for second place and Peter Garchewsky finished third. The obstacle run was won by Robbie Ungaretti whose time over a very tricky course was 15.6 seconds. Second place went to Daniel Harrington and two Cubs tied for third, Anthony Ciampa and Billy Gramzow.

The final event of the evening was the tug-of-war won by Den one, consisting of Peter Wakefield, Sean Flaherty, Anthony Gulliffo, Billy Gramzow, Johnathan Lawrence, Peter O'Leary and Richard Phillips. Den one took first place in team points with 16 points, followed by Den two 8 points, Den three 8 points, Den five 3 points and Den four 1 point. The Cubs had been conditioning themselves for the past four weeks for their Olympics and came through in fine style. High school and college coaches take note; you've got some fine prospects coming along.

String Program For Parents

Sunday, June 14, the pupils of Mrs. Carl E. Thomas gave a program of violin solos in her home on Oxford Street for an audience of parents.

Mrs. Theodore Webb accompanied most of the players who were Kim Adams, Margaret Cormack, Barry Gibson, John M. Harrington, III, Ricky Hillier, Michael Kennedy, Craig Knopf, Larry Rutherford, John Thompson and Noel Webb.

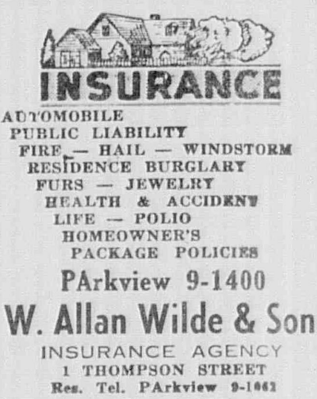

Marina Cinetta had as accompanist her friend Carol Malthaner. Becky Irwin's accompanist was her sister Miss Roxanne Irwin.

Mrs. Frank Bates accompanied Gretchen Bates and the Bates family trio played a delightful Gavotte and Gigue by Corelli for flute, violin and piano.

There was considerable variety in the selections showing progressive dexterity of fingers and bow management. And it was gratifying that so many of the students had memorized their solos.

String Program
For Parents

The Wednesday evening classes of String Ensemble brought their year's work to a satisfactory close on June 10 at the home of Mrs.
Carl E. Thomas on Oxford Street.

The juniors opened the program with an unaccompanied "Violin Duo" by Kalliwoda.

The rounds usually performed on such an occasion were not played.
Instead was a "Canon in A Minor" by Edith Lang, linking the junior part of the program with what was played later by the seniors.

The juniors then played three little classics by Mozart, Handel, and Beethoven, arranged for three violins, viola, cello, and piano. Mrs.
Robert Drake, William Hoyt and Miss Joyce Clark played with the group in these three pieces.

The violin players were Margaret Cormack, Marina Cincotta,
Julie Downes, Martin Erb, Carol
Fitzpatrick, Ellen Fenoglio, John
M. Harrington, III, Michael Kennedy, Martha Livingston, Susan Magee, Jane Thompson and Martha Thompson.

A fugue developed from a well-known canon by Palestrina "non nobis domine" was the first number played by the senior group of string players, thus linking their music with the canon played by the juniors. This is the Presto movement in "Concertino 2" by Ricciotti, a contemporary of Pergolesi and Bach. The Vivace of that Concerto was also played.

Both the "Ricciotti Concertino" and the next number by Vivaldi,
"Concerto 4 opus 3" are scored for four violins, viola, cello and basso continuo (figured bass).

Four separate violin parts make a piece more complicated to "work up" but more fun for fiddlers to play!

Kim Adams played principal violin in the well-known allegro of the "Vivaldi Concerto in A Minor," accompanied by the string group.

The final number was also by Vivaldi, a "Concerto Grosso in D Minor, opus 3 No. 11" for two violins and piano. This, too, was largely in canon form.

The senior players were Kim
Adams, Gretchen Bates, Susan
Beckley, Wallace Blanchard, III,
Barry Gibson, Jean Hoyt, Gail
Lamphier, Paul Martini, Janice O'Connell, Alan Raphael, Larry
Rutherford, Mrs. James Pappadinos, Mrs. James Ryder, Mrs. Lee Wolman (Belmont), violins; Mrs. Robert Drake, viola; Paige Rozelle and William Hoyt, cello; Miss Joyce
Clark, pianist.

For Services Above And Beyond

Miss Kenneally Presented Musical

On Thursday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock, Miss Kenneally gave her third musical of a series of four.

Susan Wheeler was most gracious with her word of welcome and guests were most cordially responsive to the pupils' program. The progress of the season's study was well apparent to regular followers of this teacher's work and there was marked ability unfolded as older pupils rendered their selections.

Cathie Cotter was awarded an honor key in music for her past eight years of talented conscientious study.

Mrs. Alan Simmons and Mrs. Leo Doherty served as the charming hostesses to the guests as light refreshments were served.

Participating in progressive order were: Sylvia Wolf, Wendy McDavitt, Rose Mary Wolf, Emily Kittredge, Cynthia Olive, Michael Simmons, Julie Mitchell, Susan Wheeler, Peter Simmons, David Wright, Leslie Wild, Carol Geroni, Cathy Doherty, Cathie Cotter.

Winchester Day At La Salette Is on Sunday

Next Sunday, June 21st, is Winchester Day at the National Shrine of Our Lady of La Salette in Ipswich.

About thirty miles north of Boston, near the town of Ipswich and close by the Ipswich River, is one of those estates which has been transformed into a most beautiful Shrine dedicated to Our Lady of La Salette. It has been visited by thousands of people weekly during the summer months and many make pilgrimages to this Shrine during the winter time.

There is a cathedral of pines, at the end of the lovely rhododendron drive, is a facsimile of the Apparition of Our Blessed Mother at La Salette in France only one of many statues there. The extensive grounds, the quiet seclusion of the formal gardens and the wooded walks all tend to give a little bit of heavenly peace to the tired soul and wearied body.

Devotions are held each Sunday afternoon, and during the summer months these services are conducted at the outdoor Shrine. Beginning at 3:30 p.m., there is public recitation of the Rosary during which the pilgrims, led by the Cross Bearer, walk in procession through the Italian-style gardens in which flowers and shrubs of nearly every hue and color are charmingly arranged. This is followed by the Stations of the Cross, during which those who are able, walk from one scene of the Passion to another. A short discourse, which is delivered by one of the priests attached to the Shrine, prepares for the blessing of the sick, and the whole ceremony is concluded with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, which takes place on the rough-hewn altar of stone in the center of the Shrine.

The La Salette Fathers are anxious to share the beauties of this Shrine with as many as possible. To that end, they organize pilgrimages from the surrounding communities and extend a cordial invitation to everyone.

Arthur W. P. Hughes of 16 Ginn Road was elected president of the Syracuse University Alumni Association of Greater Boston at a recent annual meeting. General public affairs manager for the New England Telephone Company, he is a member of the Winchester Finance Committee and a director of the Girl Scouts of America for Greater Boston.

Legion Auxiliary Goes All Out At Vets' Barbecue

On Tuesday evening, June 16, the American Legion Home on Vine Street, was the scene of much activity as the auxiliary prepared to greet as their guests the veterans from Bedford Hospital.

These veterans look forward every year to this party, and some forty veterans enjoyed the plentiful barbecue feast with all the trimmings. When all were filled to capacity a bingo game was played by the veterans, and prizes of candy bars and cigars were awarded each happy winner. A most enjoyable evening came to a close with loud and clear thanks from each and every veteran.

Hostesses for the barbecue party were auxiliary members Sally Cause, Connie O'Kane, Elizabeth Nichols, Louise Appleton, Alice Healy, Marjorie Giuliani, Evelyn De Teso, Edith Castignetti, Sally Miraglia, Helen Johnston, Dorothy McCormack and Rita Murch.

The auxiliary extends warm thanks to the following comrades without whose help the party would not have been the huge success it was: Ben Stevenson, John Miraglia, Eddie Quill and Fred Cause.

A big "thank you!" goes to the following merchants whose donations also contributed to the success of this party: Lynch Bros., First National Stores, Cains Potatoes, L. J. Rissman, Inc., and Columbia Meat Products.

Although this party is an annual affair, the auxiliary looks forward to the fall when they will resume their monthly visits to the Bedford Hospital veterans, bringing gifts and goodies to cheer them up.

Each of these Experimenters will live for a month as a member of a foreign family and will spend another month traveling about the country visited.

Experimenters travel in groups of about ten, under the guidance of mature leaders specially selected and trained by The Experiment. Before they are admitted to the program, every effort is made to assure that Experimenters are worthy representatives of the United States.

Members receive special instruction on the language, customs, history and culture of the country they will visit. After the home-stay, they travel as a group, generally in the company of young members of their host families. James Hickey of St. Patrick's Church, Natick, officiated at the 11 o'clock service, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

MRS. THOMAS F. EAGER

Miss Hoare wore a formal gown of silk organza over tulle, fashioned with a scoop neck edged with pearl embroidered peau d'ange lace. The Dior sleeves and the bouffant skirt were adorned with lace appliques, and the Watteau back of lace panels formed a chapel train. She wore a shoulder-length veil caught to a crown of Alcon lace and seed pearls. Her flowers were phalaenopsis orchids and ivy arranged in a cascade bouquet.

Kathryn Dougherty of Winchester was the honor maid. She wore a full-length rayon chiffon sheath of emeraldgreen, trimmed with matching satin and a matching satin bow in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Betsey Wallace of Littleton, Colorado, cousin of the bride; Barbara Jellison and Donna Woodworth of Woburn, Miss Rosemary Glasheen of Belmont and Miss Laraine Geswell of Medford. All wore dresses like that of the maid of honor and they carried colonial bouquets of yellow daisies.

William Eager of Brighton was his brother's best man, and a brother of the bride, Thomas Hoare, Jr., of Arlington, headed the usher corps. The other members were John Murphy of Stoneham, Robert Hamilton of Wilmington, Edward Egan of Brighton and Robert Hand of West Newton. Miss Nancy Lane of Winchester was in charge of the guest book.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the Spray Cliff Inn in Marblehead. Mrs. Hoare, mother of the bride, wore a blue-green silk shantung sheath appliqued with tiny heading. She wore a matching hat and carried an orchid on a beaded bag. Mrs. Eager, mother of the bridegroom, wore a rose crepe sheath with an eyelet bodice. Her accessories were white.

After a wedding journey through the Adirondacks to Vermont, Mr. and Mrs. Eager will make their home at 2 Hawthorne Road in Wilmington.

Mrs. Eager was graduated from Marycliff Academy in 1958 and from Boston College with a bachelor of science in Education in 1962. She is now teaching in the Wilmington schools.

Her husband, who is also a member of the Wilmington teaching staff, was graduated from St. Columbian's College in 1958 and received his master in education degree from Boston State Teachers' College in 1961.

Engaged To Wed

The engagement of Julie Miles Lonerger to Edward Francis Reilly is announced by her mother, Mrs. George E. Lonerger, Sr., of Winchester Arms.

JULIE M. LONERGER

Miss Lonerger, a graduate of The Chandler School for Women, is also the daughter of the late Mr. Lonerger.

Mr. Reilly, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reilly of New York City, is a graduate of Fordham University and is a district manager for Chrysler Motors Corporation.

A September wedding is planned.

Bateman-Wilson

On Saturday morning, June 13, Mercey Jeanne Wilson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William L. Wilson of 8 Oneida Road and Gloucester, became the bride of John Russell Bateman, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Bateman, Jr., of Farmer City, Illinois. The Reverend Dr. John W. Ellison performed the ceremony at 10 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany after she had been given in marriage by her father.

MRS. JOHN R. BATEMAN

The bride wore a full-length bouffant dress of Chantilly lace and tulle, trimmed with sequins. The neckline of the bodice was scalloped and the sleeves long. On the sides of the skirt was an overskirt of lace applique. Her elbow-length silk illusion veil was attached to a cluster of flowers that formed the crown and she carried a white Bible with two white orchids and a cascade of stephanotis.

Miss Joan Wilson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street-length, pink summer brocade dress which had a detachable nylon overskirt. Her hat of small white carnations with its pink maline veil to match her overskirt complemented her bouquet of pink carnations with its cascade of ivy.

Mrs. William F. Wilson of Winchester and Yankton, South Dakota, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress of beige-gold summer brocade was identical to that worn by the maid of honor. She wore a white carnation hat with beige veil to match her beige nylon organza overskirt. Her bouquet was of white carnations with an ivy cascade.

The bridesmaids were gowned in identical green summer brocade dresses with pastel-green organza overskirts of nylon. Their hats were identical to those of the maid and matron of honor except for the veils, which were pale green. They carried white carnations with cascades of ivy. They were: Miss Nancy Watkins of Winchester; Miss Barbara Cartier of Detroit, Michigan; Miss Susan Burgess of Ann Arbor, Michigan; and Miss Louise May Beggle of Wyckoff, New Jersey.

Two flower girls, who wore dresses very similar to that of the maid of honor and who carried small baskets of pink roses, attended the bride. They were Miss Katrina Mercey Wilson, the bride's niece, and Miss Sarah Gail Wilson, cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilson wore a silk sheath of muted yellow and beige flower design with a full-length green tinted beige linen coat, also a light green hat, beige straw shoes, beige purse and gloves. Her corsage was yellow cymbidium orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a mauve-pink linen sheath dress with neckline and hemline applique of white satin and leaf-design cap sleeves. She wore pink shoes and a pink hat, and carried a white satin purse with white gloves. Her corsage was pink cymbidium orchids.

Mr. William F. Wilson, brother of the bride, was best man. Head usher was Robert Wilson, also a brother of the bride, and assisting were: Mr. Robert Leman, cousin of the bride, Mr. Stephen August of Farmington, Michigan, Mr. William Sauman of Stoneham and Mr. George Laban of Winchester.

Preceding the wedding march, Dr. Leo Collins, organist and choir-master for the Church of the Epiphany, accompanied Joan and Robert Wilson, violinists, sister and brother of the bride, as they played Johann Sebastian Bach's "Double Concerto for Two Violins." In bringing a continuity to the mood of the music as it blended with the spirit of the occasion, during the Holy Communion of the bride and groom, Mr. Michael Alaura, professional cellist and teacher, the bride's teacher for many years, played and was accompanied by Dr. Collins at the console.

After the bride had received her guests in the narthex of the church, the relatives of the bride and groom went to the Colonial in Lynnfield for an informal luncheon. The attendant in charge of the guest book was Miss Kathryn Matzon of Homewood, Illinois.

There were four great aunts, three great uncles, three grandparents, and the godparents with their families, representing four generations who attended the ceremony and the luncheon.

The bride will graduate from the University of Michigan School of Music in December. The groom is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a bachelor of science in mathematics. At present he is in graduate school at Eastern Michigan University.

After a wedding trip to New Hampshire, the couple will live in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

S. O. I. News

It has just been learned that Larry D'Onofrio is still having a difficult time with his injured knee of a few weeks ago and has returned to the hospital for an operation. Here's hoping this will do the trick, Larry, so hurry and get back on your feet.

Have you heard about the so-called "bachelors" of the club renting a suite of rooms at Salisbury Beach? Phil Ardagna is the owner and also has a grocery store on the bottom floor. The bachelors renting the rooms for the summer are Woody Giacalone, Richie Panta, Dom Provinzano, Dick Tofuri, Jack Vespucci, Dom Galelo, Sam Tibauda and Nick Zamanakos. It seems they went up last week-end and on Saturday evening Sam Tibauda decided to cook pork for the gang's supper, so he went to Phil's store and asked Phil if he could supply him with a yard of pork. Phil turned to his wife and said, "Give Sam three pig's feet!" and went laughingly to the next customer.

The club's personnel board held a meeting at Randy's home last week while Randy was baby sitting. Those present were chairman Mel Fiore, Mingy Frongillo, Frank Dattilo, Sr., Dom Provinzano and Mike D. Saraco. The board is responsible for setting the pace in reference to the rules and regulations of the club, and during a discussion Mike D. said, "Mr. Chairman, you don't seem to be very thoughtful about the efficiency expert," and Mel replied with, "No, the explanation of the expert of how I could cut the overhead was over my head."

Ven. Bob Fiore has named a new sports committee which now includes chairman Dick Tofuri, secretary John Dattilo and Mel Fiore, Frank Provinzano, Hokie Procopio, Carl Bertolucci, Boss Dattilo, Paul Lentine and Art Dunbar.

Winchester Toastmistresses At Lunch

LUNCH IN CAMBRIDGE preceded installation ceremonies for the Winchester Toastmistress Club Monday. Among those participating were, left to right, Miss Frances Dinneen, incoming president; Mrs. Frederick Harrington, installing officer; Mrs. Walter Sostek, retiring president; Mrs. Francis Staffier, toastmistress; and Mrs. James Papadinis, chairman.

When John Dattilo was nominated as secretary he asked what the duties were and Dunbar chipped in with, "Oh, he reads the hours of the last meeting."

This must be boating season because Mike D. and Tony Melaragni launched theirs this past week. Mike D. thought he would go fishing right away and asked his wife if she packed his lunch box. She said, "Yes, dear, and you will also find a can of sardines there, too, and some crackers and cheese."

Enough said.

A few of the boys decided to take a ride to Rye Beach Saturday and were caught in the heavy rain. Richie Bucci left his car in the club parking lot with his windows open and the keys in his pocket. Some boys who did not take the ride decided to help Richie by closing the windows but were not successful since the keys were necessary. Just then a policeman happened by and produced his notebook and asked for the names. The first one answering said, "Aloysius Alastair - Cyprian." With this the policeman put his book away and said, "Well don't let me catch you here again."

Don't forget Saturday of this week is social night, so come on down and have a good time. You might even walk home with a prize. Coffee and donuts will be served.

Could it be that the mail bags are too heavy for Frank DiMambro? He seems to be leaning forward these days. Congratulations on your new job and best of luck.

Winchester Toastmistresses Are Installed

The Winchester Toastmistress Club began its 17th year Monday evening, June 15, with an installation banquet at the Cambridge House, Cambridge. Installing officer, Mrs. Frederick Harrington, installed in an impressive ceremony the following officers for the 1964-1965 year:

Miss Frances Dinneen, president; Mrs. Francis Staffier, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Dagnese, recording secretary; Mrs. James Papadinis, corresponding secretary; Miss Joan Perry, treasurer; Mrs. Alfred Quimby, club representative.

Honored in a surprise testimonial for service in the Winchester Toastmistress Club were Mrs. Harold Pyne, 10 years, and Miss Hilda Hope, charter member. Charter members present as guests were also honored: Mrs. Rae Bagley, Concord; Mrs. Samuel Schwartz, Natick; and Mrs. Emerson Caldwell, Reading. Miss Mary Membrino was inducted as a new member.

Toastmistress of the evening was Mrs. Francis Staffier, introducing Toastmistress Mrs. Peter Pierson, who gazed into her crystal ball and dispensed two-minute extemporaneous talks on magic to various members. Featured speakers for the evening were Miss Hilda Hope and Mrs. John Ingalls, who recently competed in the Northeast regional Toastmistress speech contest in Detroit, Michigan. Evaluators were: topics, Mrs. Alfred Quimby; speech, Mrs. James Papadinis and general evaluator, Mrs. Harold Pyne.

Guests for the evening were: Mrs. Rae Bagley, Mrs. Kollita Kasper, Mrs. Margaret Quirk, Mrs. Ethel Middlemas, Mrs. Zelman Schwartz, Mrs. Alice Caldwell, Mrs. Lilla Eubanks, Mrs. E. H. Perry and Mrs. J. DeGaudio.

As at all Toastmistress meetings, members endeavored to follow the Toastmistress motto—"Love our language and use it with grace and facility."

Tax Rate

In 1964: A gross amount of $6,416,717 was to be raised for municipal government operations and expenditures, of which $5,620,789 was direct Town Meeting appropriations and expenditures, $189,970 was county tax levy on the town, and $328,917 was state tax levy on the town. Subtracted from this were estimated town receipts of $1,700,514 and $257,329 taken from available funds (including Excess and Deficiency Fund money). These general figures, and other elements, left an actual $4,449,873 to be raised by local taxation.

The Assessor's Office has announced that personal property tax billing will commence in a matter of a few weeks. Real estate property tax billing is due to begin in about a month.

We Don't Need A Gravy Train

An unusually courageous woman who refused as a matter of principle to knuckle under pressure to pay a "gravy" bill she felt her charity group didn't incur, a town department head who disagreed with her grounds for the battle of principle on the basis that "it's a custom," and a town legal document that failed to spell out where discretionary powers began and ended and precisely where financial obligations for those discretions resided; these volatile elements have been combined into a sensitive and potentially explosive issue which has been dropped into the laps of the Board of Selectmen.

These are the facts. The local HOPE group, a charity fund-raising organization designed to further the international medical missionary work of the S.S. Hope hospital ship, sponsored an evening of entertainment at the High School auditorium on the night of April 10. Mrs. Albert Muggio, head of the group, applied and paid $1 for a town "License for Theatrical Exhibition, Public Show, Public Amusement or Exhibition."

The license states: "The licensee shall permit such police officers and members of the fire department as may be detailed for the purpose to be present during the entertainment to preserve order and guard against fire." Since the eruption of the present controversy, the town counsel has inserted and the Selectmen have voted into the license the following addition: "The extent of such detail will be at the discretion of the Chiefs and any charge for their services shall be paid for by the licensee."

In receiving the license for the charity event, Mrs. Muggio decided that with several hundred persons anticipated at the event, it would be advisable for her group to procure the services of a policeman to insure proper order and protection. She arranged with the Police Chief to have an off-duty officer attend the show, at an agreed rate (set by the Personnel Board) of $3 an hour, with a $12 minimum. Mrs. Muggio felt her group had sufficient protection with these arrangements.

As per usual, the Selectmen's office notified both the police and fire chiefs of the public gathering so they would be aware of events in the town. The Fire Chief, unsolicited, detailed one of his best off-duty firefighters to cover the event, "according to custom" as he told the Selectmen on Monday night, and subsequently sent a bill to Mrs. Muggio as an officer of the HOPE group.

The HOPE group ignored the first bill on the grounds that it was not a voluntarily incurred obligation, and nowhere on the license did it say that it should even be an involuntarily incurred obligation, as a close reading clearly shows.

When the second bill arrived, accompanied by several anxious Fire Department calls, the lady inquired of the town counsel exactly what was what. The town counsel agreed with the HOPE leader, and promptly advised the Selectmen to reword the public amusement licenses so no future questions could be raised on the same issue.

Selectman Kimball was partial to the charity group's point of view, saying that just because it may have been custom in the past didn't make it right, and if it were a custom, it never should have been allowed to become a custom—and he praised the woman who had the fortitude to stand her ground, even on a small $12 bill, and say it wasn't right and refuse to pay it.

Some of the dialogue went like this:

Kimball: "I don't think it should be left so absolutely at the discretion of the chiefs if this is what the result is; it should be written out on the license."

Lyman: "This is a donkeybrook."

Kimball: "This whole area is getting to be quite a game. Only the moneymakers are hit, and there's no deductions, federal income tax, etc., on all this gravy."

Hicks: "Alright, maybe this thing has become abused. Let's tell the chiefs to watch that this doesn't become a racket."

The town counsel pointed out to the board the laxity in licensing procedures. He also noted, that in the entertainment licenses, there appeared to him to be a definite discrepancy in this between the sending of protective department personnel to money-making organizations' events and those of other town organizations. The HOPE group leader, the first to emphasize this point, had told the Selectmen that it seemed to her that the gravy train was particularly aimed at groups making money for charity purposes, apparently on the assumption that those that could most afford to pay should.

Lyman: "It should be up to the discretion of the chiefs, because the protection of the public is their responsibility and they should have a free hand in exercising that function; although I agree in this matter it has gone a little far."

Kimball: "Either everybody should pay for particular types of events or nobody should pay. This HOPE group has been unfairly treated, and she's got a good point that the charities have become a pasture ground for moonlighting."

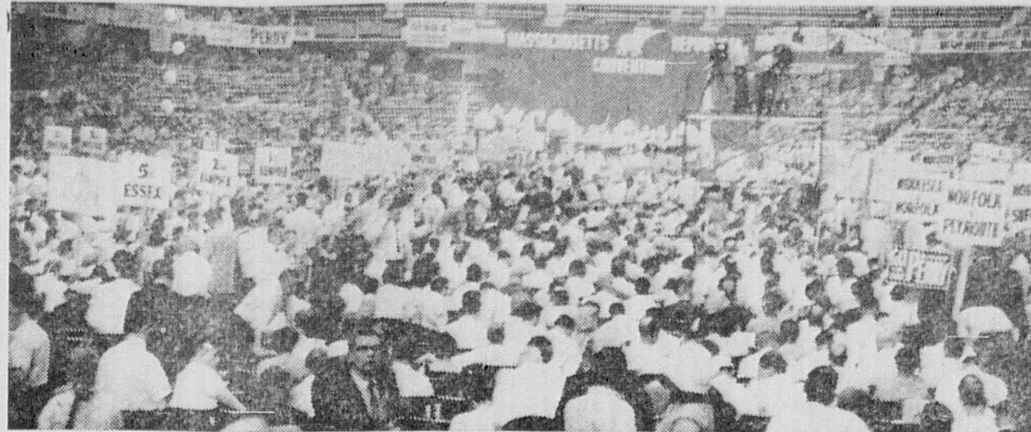

At the Monday night Selectmen's meeting, the police chief said he seriously attempted in every instance to exercise judicious discretion in sending men to public gatherings, and always with an eye not to make the financial burden excessive to the group, even if he had to send a high ranking officer at a patrolman's rate. The fire chief admitted that maybe the customary basis of the sale of public tickets was an inadequate indicator for sending a detail to an event, and the board promptly agreed. He said he would review the matter and try and come up with a better system.

The matter remains under the Selectmen's advisement, but one thing is for sure, a gravy train has been stopped; and it has been stopped by the singular efforts of one principled individual who refused to sit on her hands and chose to stand up and be heard. The Board of Selectmen were responsive to the public's best interest, and theirs and our hats are off to the person who knew that it was right to fight for what was right!

Behind The Political Headlines: Story On Local Delegation's Party Convention Role GOP State Convention

THE PROCEDURAL AND POLITICAL ACTIVITIES OF EACH CITY'S AND TOWN'S REPRESENTATIVE PARTY DELEGATION INTERACT TO PRODUCE STATE PARTY PLATFORMS AND CANDIDATES THROUGH CONVENTIONS THAT CAN ONLY BE DESCRIBED AS PURE "POLITICKING" UPWARD FROM THE GRASS ROOTS LEVEL.

INFORMATION AND MATERIAL COMPILED, WRITTEN, AND PHOTOGRAPHED BY DAVID CAMERON MCLEAN

For some people a political convention is a big, noisy, ballyhoo event with scores upon scores of people crammed into a hot, smoky and trash littered convention hall with balloons, bands, and brightly colored posters bombarding the eye and ear, in short, an unpleasant surfeiting of the senses that many avoid like the plague.

For others a political convention is a necessary evil in the rough and tumble political facts of life, and sometimes even a desirably unpredictable element in the grapple for a party's list of kings in the important two-party chess game for control of governmental power. For these people, political conventions, with all the hoopla, is something to be entered into with gauging eyes open and clear minds thinking to array and ally votes in the political gambles for winners and winners.

Winchester's delegation of nine to the Republican state pre-primary convention in the Boston Arena last Saturday found both of these aspects of convention life aplenty. Their senses were besieged in the hot and humid convention hall atmosphere; but the small vocal unit stayed together and with interest and enthusiasm talked, played and voted politics right up to the end at 8:30 p.m.

The function of the convention delegations is to represent their town or city ward party members in selecting nomination choices for state elective offices, and for setting down platform plank positions on issues that must be faced by the party in an election year.

Winchester's GOP delegates held two meetings prior to the convention. The first was on June 8 at the Town Hall to review and vote on procedural matters. They also decided at that time to support the election of William Barnstead, chairman of the Arlington delegation in Sixth Middlesex Senatorial District (comprised of Winchester, Arlington, and five Medford wards) and a state committeeman, as district monitor for the convention. One factor involved in the local delegation's choice of the district monitor was an effort to elicit his support for the Winchester delegation's gubernatorial choice, Winchester contractor and former Governor, John A. Volpe.

At the second meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday, June 18, Rep. Harrison Chadwick talked to the group about his knowledge and experiences with both the avowed and unannounced candidates for office. The delegation also discussed changes in the convention rules, including the important rules on nominations after first balloting and corollary provisions that the low man out on the third balloting, as in previous years, wouldn't hold. The local delegation decided after much discussion that each member would have to vote individually on the rules at the convention because of their varied views. At the convention, national convention - style rules were adopted, which accomplished a more free and open state convention than had been the case in 1960.

On Friday afternoon, June 19, delegates Smith and Wardwell sat in on the open platform committee meeting at the Hotel Statler.

At around 6 p.m. the rest of the delegates began arriving at the hotel, several with their wives and husbands, to begin the work of meeting and conferring with candidates.

According to Larry Smith, chosen by the delegates as their chairman, the entire Winchester delegation worked its way as a group around the hotel to meet and talk with the candidates. They met all but a few of the announced candidates, and by encountering the aspirants as a united delegation, many times they were given brief private audiences with the political hopefuls. The delegates, in many cases, based their decisions on the candidates from these meetings with them on Friday night.

Dirk A. van Gemen, a local resident but not a delegate, joined with Larry Smith and John Lyman late Friday night in an effort to create a contest for the Secretary of the Commonwealth office. The only announced candidate at the time was Elliott Slade. They sought a stronger candidate and approached Gibbs, Perry, Mary Newman, and others into the wee hours of the morning.

It wasn't until five minutes before the nominations were in order on Saturday morning that Rep. Wallace Crawford of Pittsfield finally agreed to run against Mr. Slade, and he won the convention's endorsement. The Winchester delegation was instrumental in effecting this political equation in the final GOP slate.

On Saturday morning, the delegation had breakfast at the hotel at 8:30, and went to the Arena to prepare for the long day ahead.

The first order of business was the election of district monitor. Largely due to the efforts of the Winchester group, Mr. Barnstead was elected to fill the post.

Rep. John Eaton of Concord met with Mr. Lyman and Mr. Smith to discuss the possibility of nominating Rep. Chadwick as permanent chairman of the convention in place of Buck Dumaine's appointee, Sydney Curtis. Rep. Chadwick said he would be receptive to the idea only if it were shown that a large number of delegates wanted the change. Congressman Brad Morse was also approached on the idea, but he declined it. The whole maneuvering was abandoned shortly before the convention opened at 10 o'clock when it became evident that the only way in which such a change could be effected would be to risk a rules fight on the floor, because the rules called for the convention president to be a delegate, and neither Rep. Chadwick or Congressman Morse were delegates. (At the end of the day, the Winchester delegation joined with the rest of the convention in applauding Rep. Curtis' excellent handling of the convention's business.)

Pennsylvania's Governor and announced presidential candidate

William Seranton spoke to the convention from noon to 12:30. The Winchester delegation mainly concerned itself with the issues of the state convention, however, and did not become sidetracked by the Goldwater-Seranton duel.

Charlotte M. Greer of 82 Arlington Street placed the name of Winchester's John A. Volpe in nomination from the floor and delivered a short speech in his behalf for governor. Winchester's delegation was pledged to Mr. Volpe on the first ballot and supported him wholeheartedly. Gov. Volpe received the necessary 828 delegate votes on the first ballot for an impressive gubernatorial nominee victory.

Later in the day, Larry Smith placed the name of Elwyn J. Miller of Medford in nomination from the platform and delivered a short speech in his behalf for state auditor. Mr. Miller polled a large plurality of delegate votes, and won the party's endorsement handsily.

In the convention's last session, whether to include a sales tax in the party platform, the Winchester delegation was split 5-4 in favor of a limited tax with revenues going to cities and towns for relieving real estate taxes. However, the convention finally voted not to take an election year stand on a sales tax by a 929 to 447 vote.

Throughout the convention, the delegates recorded their votes with chairman Larry Smith, who in turn passed them on to the district monitor, who announced the votes of the Sixth Middlesex District to the convention president.

The tally of local delegate votes for the various candidates were: 9 for Volpe as Governor; 8 for Richardson and 1 for Gibbs as lieutenant governor; 8 for Crawford and 1 for Slade as secretary of the Commonwealth; 9 for Brooke as attorney general; 9 for Silvano as treasurer; 9 for Miller as auditor; and 9 for Whitmore as U. S. Senator.

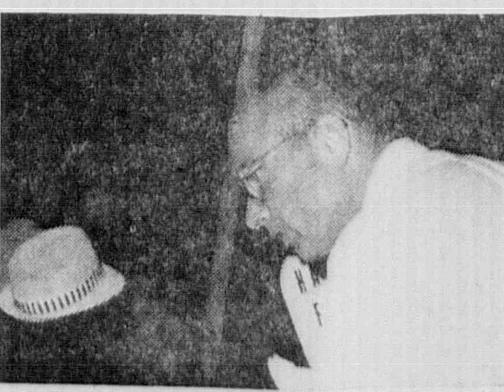

Before the convention concluded, the Winchester delegation joined with other delegations in passing a resolution wishing for a speedy recovery of Sen. Ted Kennedy from injuries he received in a plane crash while enroute to the Democratic state convention in Springfield.

BOOK REVIEW

by Leila-Jane Roberts
Winchester Public Library

DOUBLE VISION

by John Knowles

Recently we have been reading letters written by my great-grandfather to his son, my grandfather, in 1886 when the latter was a freshman at college. As well as revealing much of the relationship between parent and child in Victorian times, some quotations seem pertinent today. One that comes to mind in connection with reviewing this particular book reads as follows: "I don't like envelope letters. They do not afford room enough to write the inner as well as the outer life. I would like your letters to be biographical as well as historical."

It is interesting that when John Knowles looked back on his two years in Europe, his thoughts were more "biographical" than "historical." What his experiences taught him were revelations about America and Americans rather than about the nations or peoples he had visited. The book is subtitled American Thoughts Abroad.

"I had grown tired of useless comfort, I was getting restless in houses so completely furnished and air-conditioned and wired for sound and insulated from the outdoors that the people inside seemed in danger of becoming merchandise too. I have been in too many cars so lavishly sprung that riding in them was like sitting on Jello; I was out of humor with a countryside where driving along you were abruptly confronted by a vast screen occupied by richly colored giants strangely and silently resting at each other. The food I ate was uniformly good and always on time, and always the same. I was enjoying the average American privileges: I was sick of them."

Perhaps it is needless to say that absence made the heart grow fonder.

As he reads on, the reader feels much as if he were involved in a conversation with Knowles. The inner cerebration has more significance than the outer event although one affects the other. The author is a delightful person with whom to get acquainted—such interesting thoughts and reactions are expressed. Those who read his first novel, A Separate Peace, or who have read his columns in Holiday magazine may have begun this companionship of the mind and will be glad to continue it. Interesting personages, some famous and some not, people the pages and stimulate the thinking of both author and reader. The visit with King Hussein and the contrast between the normal Arab woman and the young American girl who climbed from her Volkswagen for a glimpse of the famous leader set him thinking, in particular about the male companion who had let her do it.

"He apparently hadn't thought venturing into this wild scene a very good idea, had tried to dissuade Sally, failed, and let her go, and let her go alone. Amid this crowd of domineering warriors Petie's and of maleness was pathetic in its passivity. . . . The economic higness of the United States, merging into bigger and ever bigger entities, gave American men jobs in organizations of many thousands of other men, where assertiveness, independence and aggressiveness tended to be more liabilities than assets; the assets were cooperativeness, malleability, and guile, all traditionally feminine traits. It wasn't surprising that at home he could not transform himself into a pillar of male authority, but tended to be inactive most of the time, punctuated by occasional violent explosions."

For the armchair traveler, this book is a most enjoyable tour, both of the Middle East by way of Europe and of Mr. Knowles' thought.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Discusses Senator Kennedy's Airplane Crash

Editor of the Star:

Readers included in the Star's circulation must have been startled by news of the tragic airplane crash involving U. S. Senator Kennedy and Bayh and their companions. We may be thankful that three aboard that ill-fated plane survived.

Both senators were enroute to the Massachusetts State Democratic Convention. The crash occurred almost at the hour that a "Peabody handwagon" overwhelmed a bid by popular Lt. Gov. Belotti for the gubernatorial nomination. Peabody's phenomenal majority was unforeseen by Boston's political prognosticators.

News of the tragedy was said to have put the convention in gloom. Accounts of the crash differ. One Boston television station broadcast a report from an eyewitness (and I paraphrase here) that an awful lot of money was scattered in or near the wreckage. This story struck me as curious because the Kennedys, typical of the very rich, are reputed to carry little or no cash with them. I do not know if Sen. Bayh has a private fortune. Televised news clips seemed to indicate that any money must have been taken away even before removal of the dead.

I contacted the television station news department on Saturday afternoon, June 20, to check points of their newscast, and was informed that the account came from an eyewitness, whose name I know Boston newspapers did not print this story.

Boston newspaper accounts also stated that the pilot was killed "in the crash." This version conflicts with the recorded words of an early rescuer, who plainly detected the man's pulse. It seems possible that Mr. Zimny bled to death as passing motorists refused to stop and render aid.

The Star, I know, strives for full reporting on matters of interest to local citizens. The complete story of this plane crash is not available in any single publication, though it is important to us all. One question lingers in my mind: what about that reported money?

Sincerely,
D. E. RUSH

Lynchburg, Virginia, is the nearest his Winchester fans will find him pitching this summer. The Class AA Southern League covers Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and North Carolina too, but he is scheduled for Lynchburg on July 29, 30 and 31.

Paul lived here with his father and mother, and brother Robert, until he moved into Harvard's Eliot House. He took his bachelor's degree last week at Harvard, majoring in American History. He graduated holding the Harvard Club of Boston's largest scholarship, the World War II Memorial gift, as a house committee member at Eliot and as a Hasty Pudding member.

Might he still attend Harvard Business School where he was accepted? Yes, if things don't work out right on the ball field. He has five years in which to pick up the school's option.

Paul is engaged to Nancy Pelletier, of Norwood, a graduate of the Garland School and Mt. Ida College, and if plans hold he and Nancy will marry on September 19.

One of a foursome of Noonian School boys, all of whom began with Mrs. Mary McAuley Baugher, of Rangeley Road, in kindergarten, and went on up through High School with the 1960 class and into Harvard to graduate this year, Paul, and the others (Ronnie Chabot, Billy Haggerty and Joe Butare) are all faithful to their old school.

"Doesn't surprise me a bit" said Leonard Rich, present principal of Washington and former administrator at Noonian, of Paul's signing with the American league champions. "He showed the qualities of real sportsmanship even then—he could take both defeat and victory with ease, and he worked hard when it was time to work, and played hard too."

"Most poised," "most versatile," "done most for school," were a few of the things he was voted at High School where his classmates elected him their president in both junior and senior years. He was also a top basketball player here, and was voted into the National Honor Society in his junior year.

Paul had a 30-3 record in his three years of varsity play at Harvard—and his fort is still the same as it was on Ginn and Manchester fields—a curve ball and great control.

"Paul has it in the tough spots," said Art Johns, repeating the comment of the former principal about his even temperament. "He was singled out back at the Little League Championships in Willsport in '55 as the pitcher down there who really had it. That 'most poised' will hold the Persia. Sei is very loathe to leave. He has at times said he just wouldn't go and at others said he would take everything and everyone with him, according to his mother. His four and a half year old sister joins him in the rebellion against departure. She has offered to stay here alone.

The Nishida's have been renting Mrs. Evander French's home on Westland Avenue, where before them another Japanese and a Korean family have stayed in turn. Because of this the teachers at Parkhurst have become very aware of the needs of foreign youngsters in their classes and the program of the fourth grade group which he entered was quickly adapted to his needs. The speed with which Sei adjusted and learned the language was, however, a surprise and delight to everyone who taught the boy.

In his American language studies class Sei, with the others, studied poetry in the Japanese style. The result follows:

My Loving Grandmother
My loving grandmother suddenly passed away.
In the fine weather of May,
I cannot believe she is no more in this world.
I remember her clear, big eyes, and how very kind and generous she was;
I wanted her to listen to my violin,
And tell her I'm the best pitcher in my baseball team;
I wanted to tell her about my friends and school,
But I cannot tell her any more,
She is far away where I cannot reach her anymore.

choice set. "This model is dressed most appropriately for (a) giving a cake and disc party at your house, (b) going to a Sunday night church social and (c) mother's birthday dinner?" was a sample.

They also put basic separates together in the best combinations and decided whether a model's clothes were best for someone "short and plump," and "tall and queenly" or "a lucky average."

Their teacher, Miss Nelson was highly complimented at the lunch and Mr. Ward of Dupont remarked that he would like himself to go to Winchester High School. He wondered whether the "good old days" had been so good after all.

The trip planned for them to New York, with Miss Nelson, Miss Sue Merton, youth co-ordinator of Jordon, and two Dupont chaperones accompanying them, will include visits to the Museum of Modern Art, the World's Fair, the United Nations, to "Fantasticks," and many fine restaurants.

By pure coincidence their restaurant for lunch, on Tuesday chosen by their Dupont hosts, will be the Sign of the Dove, the popular and chic eating place opened just last year by Dr. Joseph B. Santo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Santo of 10 East Street, himself a graduate of the Winchester High School.

If Dr. Santo (a successful dental surgeon in New York City also), takes time off to lunch with the fashion winners from his home town, he might just by chance meet the first recipient of a scholarship to be donated by him and given to a Winchester High School student in June 1965, in honor of the retired head of the commercial department there, Miss Helen Bronson, a former confidante of Miss Nelson.

Miss Nelson, dressed in a becoming blue sheath and a blue hat for the occasion, expressed the thanks of the school and the students for the honors and awards bestowed, and struck the basic note of her courses when she spoke of the responsibility of leading and guiding the young women "that they may become good homemakers for tomorrow." She was accompanied at the lunch by Thomas A. Morse, assistant principal, as official representative of the High School administration.

The girls who earned this honor and most of whom will be leaving for New York on Sunday are: Diane Stamatas, Jan Gordon, Vicki Englund, Linda Collins, Jane Brassil, Margie Arnold, Cindy Benishol, Diane Clifton, Marilyn Elm, Charlene Wightman, Marita Corcoran, Becky Dattilo, Roberta Lynch, Sandy Lee, Patty Longiro, Teresa Proconio, Kathy Kenny, Denise Doherty, Martha Luongo, Carol Crimmins, Barbara Hancock, Brenda Galuffo, Debbie Steers, Alex Clair, Marie Magee, Janet Butterworth, Andy Sinclair and Jean Peterson.

Selectmen Name Duffy and Morgan To Police Force

At their meeting on Monday night the Board of Selectmen named two local men as permanent patrolmen in the Winchester Police Department.

They were: Albert Joseph Duffy of 20 Fletcher Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Duffy, and Peter Morgan of 34 Westland Avenue, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pazzoli.

Both men are 23 years of age, and are 1959 graduates of the Winchester High School.

Mr. Morgan has lived in town since 1945 and attended St. Mary's School before entering the public schools. He is a member of the Marine Reserves and of the local council of Knights of Columbus. He has served one year as a special officer on the force.

Mr. Duffy moved here from Woburn, where he had been attending high school, in the fall of 1958. At WHS he played football, hockey and track. He has been attending Northwestern night school for the past three and one half years, majoring in law enforcement, and working toward a B.S. degree.

For the past two years he was an active member of the Winchester Auxiliary, acting as patrolman, vice president, and scuba diver. He has served eight months as a special police officer.

Stephen J. Griffin Elected V. P. Of Gillette Co.

Stephen J. Griffin, of 9 Chestnut Street, was one of three elected to be vice presidents of The Gillette Company at the June meeting of the company's board of directors. It was announced by Carl J. Gilbert, chairman.

STEPHEN J. GRIFFIN

Mr. Griffin will join the staff of Vincent C. Ziegler, executive vice president of The Gillette Company in charge of the Gillette Products Group, in merchandising and administration.

He was first employed by Gillette Safety Razor Company in 1941 and after Army service returned to the company in the sales department. In 1954 he was made executive assistant to the vice president of sales and in 1956, Eastern regional sales manager. He became assistant general sales manager in 1957 and the following year was named assistant to the president. He was elected vice president of Gillette Safety Razor Company in 1960.

Bicycle Ring

Officer Donald Pigott went with the youth to Leonard Field to identify the bike, and when it turned out to be the correct frame but another bike altogether, Officer Pigott questioned the boy who returned to it. He said a friend had given him the parts, and after questioning several youths, Officer Pigott came up with three who admitted complicity in nine different thefts.

According to police, the youths would steal bikes, strip them, use whatever parts they could interchange in jacking up their own bikes or could give to friends, and throwing the rest of the parts in the Aberjona River, the water by Ginn Field, or near the town dump.

In recovering a large part of the cache, including 6 frames of both girls and boys English-type bikes, 4 wheels, 8 fenders, 1 carrier, 3 chain guards, 4 sets of handlebars, 2 forks, 2 seats and 1 inner tube, the back of the Police Station is beginning to look like a junk dealer's storehouse, and the police are asking anyone having a bicycle stolen in the past month to go to the station to identify parts.

One youth, the other day, in applying for a new bike license, was advised to get a lock to protect it. When he asked why, an officer showed him the cache, and the officer was promptly asked "How Much?" for the whole lot of parts.

Democratic Town Committee

Our delegates thoroughly enjoyed their three days at the convention in Springfield and more especially pleased with the results of the nominations.

Two of the highlights of the session in West Springfield were the luncheon with Mrs. Toni Peabody Friday noon at the quaint old Storowtown Barn and the official Convention Dinner at 6 p.m. that same evening in the Better Living Auditorium, a part of the Eastern States Exposition grounds complex.

At the luncheon we had our pictures taken with the governor and had the pleasure of meeting his charming mother. We ladies also received lovely favors, made especially for this occasion.

The 6 o'clock dinner, catered by that great Democrat Howard Fitzpatrick of Malden, was the best ever. Lobster newburg and all the fixin's had put us in the right spirits to enjoy Senator Kennedy's message which was conveyed to us by telephone. This was necessary as he and Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana, who was to have been the main speaker at the dinner, were detained in Washington to vote on the passage of the Civil Rights bill. Mrs. Ted Kennedy was at the head-table and spoke to us briefly.

After we had returned to the convention and were back in business only a very short time, former Senator John Powers interrupted proceedings to announce the sad news of the accident. There were no dry eyes as a hush descended on all present. The rest of the proceedings was largely routine. Our delegates sent Ted a telegram from Springfield and a get-well card from the Town Committee.

The next meeting of the Town Committee will take place on Wednesday evening, July 1, at 8 p.m., in the East Room, Town Hall. At this meeting we will lay out the real work of the campaign, work well organized and directed, which will occupy our attention until the November election.

Our chairman has just received word of the painful accident which has befallen one of our finest members, and a great worker, assistant social chairman Helen Nadeau. The injury to her ankle has necessitated a cast which will keep her on crutches for awhile. Her address is 71 Middlesex Street; prayers and cards will be welcome.

Diabetes Group In "Thank You"

Mrs. Howard L. Leary of 48 Westland Avenue, a director of the Greater Boston Diabetes Society, Inc., expressed thanks to fellow citizens for their support in the United Fund Drive on behalf of the Society.

The Society is carrying out its extensive programs to aid diabetes and discover undetected cases with an ample United Fund allocation. It is pointed out that residents of our community can take advantage of their donation and receive a free diabetes test by writing to: Diabetes, 93 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, 02115, or calling Copley 7-8999.

The test is used at home and entails only a few moments of time. Since a portion of the 30,000 undetected cases of Greater Boston are undoubtedly in this area, everyone is encouraged to take advantage of this offer.

Family Wishes

AT OUR establishment we do not try to follow a rigid pattern in the funeral service. We are well aware that these are times of flux and that dignity and good taste are not necessarily confined to prescribed formal standards of etiquette. We will outline what is usual and customary, but in all details the family has the final word, for we believe that the funeral service should reflect their wishes. As the years roll by, it is they who will remember.

Rifles Lose 1st To Wakefield

The Winchester Town Team lost their first game last Thursday to Wakefield by a score of 2-0. It was a pitchers duel from the start with old-timer Charlie Patterson using experience in mixing his speeds to hold the Rifles to 2 hits.

Rifle pitcher John Peckham was the victim of two unearned runs while pitching a fine game and striking out 9 batters.

Wakefield scored their runs in the 1st and 5th innings.

In the first Wakefield scored when after two hits and a fielders choice, a high fast ball got away from the Rifles catcher.

In the 5th inning Wakefield added an insurance run when Warren Bacon reached 1st on an error, stole second, and scored on a Texas leaguer single by Dennis Drinkwater.

Although the loss was the Town Teams 1st, they still remain in 1st place, having a two game edge in the loss column over their nearest opponent.

Dear Striper Fishermen,

We do not have the best striper fishing equipment in the country—ours is even better. For instance, our spin-atoms, striper teasers, striper swipers, baby atoms and the new Shorty Hopkins lures, with mahogany king line, 50-lb dacon. Seven Seas Luxor reels and surf spinning rods, all have Grampa Koch's extra-special blessings on them. So if you want to catch a fish, this is the place to get your equipment. You will even need to buy a baseball bat to keep the fish out of the boat.

P.S. I ain't fishing.

Elementary School Winners Tops In Physical Fitness

Results of the year end physical fitness tests given in the Town's seven elementary schools have turned up 55 sixth graders and 22 from grade five who rated honor achievement scores, according to Gale Montgomery, elementary school physical education supervisor, and Michael Houghton, special teacher in the field.

Vigorous exercises are given in a weekly program throughout the year and the tests are administered in the spring term. The honor scores, who made up 8% of the roughly 720 children tested, rated excellent in each of six tests, satisfactory in each of six, and satisfactory in each of six.

Test norms are high and are based on the program designed by the late President Kennedy. For instance in the category of push-ups the norm runs from 18 up (for aged 10 boys) to 22 up (for aged 13 boys); or, in the modified version asked of girls 20 and up (aged 10) to 25 and up (aged 13).

The standing broad jump asks 5ft.1in. to 5ft.6in. (of aged 10 boys) to 6ft.1in. to 6ft.8in. (of aged 13 boys); the 50 yard dash asks 8ft. 2in. to 7ft.1in. (of aged 10 boys) to 7ft.1in. to 6ft.5in. (of aged 13 boys) for 13 year olds. Other test categories are: sit-ups, shuttle run and squat thrusts.

Although all of them did not make a score of excellent in all six categories, a group of 13 boys and girls are the 1964 separate event record holders for the year. They are: In push-ups, Kathy Gunderson (81 modified), Steve Swanson and Lewis Gentile (tied with 57 each); sit-ups, Robert Fiorenza (24) and Kathy Anderson (20); Shuttle run, Marcella Smith (9.1) and David Scott (9.2); standing broad jump, Dean Hakanson (7ft. 2in.); 50 yard dash, Steve Swanson (6ft.) and Jim Scallans (6ft.) and Marcella Smith (6ft.) and squat thrusts, Sandra Bell (24) and John Richmond (26).

The sixth grade students, all of whom rated excellent in all six tested categories, are:

Playground Notes

This article went to press only two days after the opening of the playground for the summer recreation program but it must be truly said that the attendance at all play areas was extremely encouraging.

Ginn and Loring Fields were supervised on the first day and it was a pleasant sight to see two baseball games being played simultaneously at both areas. Ronnie Keane kept the boys busy and happy at Ginn Field while Paul Mulloy did likewise at Loring.

The girls at Ginn and the younger boys were kept busily engaged by Leslie Sanger in the playing of kickball, softball, crazy ball and rubber horseshoes. Helen Nash had a large gathering at Loring content in participating in such games as badminton, croquet, kickball, dodgeball and quilts.

Jane Magee of the Arts and Crafts department made preparations of materials for each play field and because of this the youngsters were not initiated into the arts and crafts program on opening day.

On Tuesday Leonard and West Side Fields were officially opened and it certainly is a pleasant sight to see so many boys and girls accepting the opportunity presented to them in using the excellent facilities available.

Ronnie Keane had two ball games going on at West Side while Leslie Sanger started the day off with the youngsters on the swings. From there many of the younger girls and boys took part in playing rubber horseshoes, crazy ball and croquet and topped it off with a game of softball. In the afternoon at West Side Jane Magee was surrounded by those interested in making lanyards for the start in arts and crafts.

At Leonard Field on Tuesday, Paul Mulloy arranged for two baseball games while Helen Nash had the smaller tots engaged in kickball, while others tried badminton and croquet. Jane Magee had an interesting group around her in the making of lanyards with pot holders to be made next week.

Next week will be the start of the inter-playground leagues in baseball, kickball and softball as shown on the schedule below. The fields to be supervised on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of next week will be Leonard and West Side, while Ginn and Loring will be open on Tuesday and Thursday.

Arts and crafts will take place in the morning at Loring and Leonard when those fields are supervised and in the afternoon at Ginn and West Side when those fields are officially open.

Next Week's Schedule

THE WOLVES

Sponsored by Winchester Barber Shop

The Wolves are beginning to snarl and are now playing the kind of baseball that their manager knew they were capable of all year long. "We are late in getting started," said Manager Bob Haffner, "but I think that the baseball that we play from here on in will be hard to beat."

Two young coaches, Jay Harrington and Bob McCormack are more than satisfied with the progress of the club. "We realized that our mistakes were costing us games and we worked hard to correct team errors and play smarter ball," was the comment by the coaching staff.

The success of the Wolves in their recent games is due in no small measure to their catcher, Tommy Haffner. Tom is a real sparkplug on this outfit and smashes the long ball when he comes to bat. His enthusiasm is contagious and his handling of pitchers is something to see.

Pitching has been in the capable hands of Dave Miner and Ricky Snell. While a couple of the squad have been working to take a share of the mound duty, Dave and Rick have borne the brunt of the work and have done a remarkable job.

Dave has worked the second base post on occasion and Rick is a good center fielder when not doing mound work. Both boys are hard workers and would be a credit to any team. And both are among the heavy hitters on the Wolves aggregation.

First base is covered by Andy Pichman, who also ranges around the outfield when needed. Charlie Troisi is another first sacker who can do the job as well as any man in the league. These two first basemen have been smashing the ball with authority so far and they expect to collect plenty of base hits in the remaining games.

Shortstop is all Bill Campbell. Bill is fast and a good glove man on any infield grass. The hot corner artist is John O'Donnell and both Bill and John are good hitters. John is probably the heavier hitter of the two but Bill is improving with each game and between them these two will make the right side of the infield really swing.

Bob Cesari, Geoff Crandlemire and Brian Croft make up one of the Wolves' good outfield combinations. These boys have been working hard to develop the speed and ability that will hold down the extra base hits and they are doing just that. Another outfield trio is made up of Marc Harrington, Larry Henry and Jim Lawton. These three boys have been showing up better and better with each succeeding game and are able and willing to give every bit of their ability to the Wolves' cause.

Steve Ruma is a well rounded utility man who can step into any of the infield positions and handle the job with reliability. Carmen Tofuri is one of the most improved nine-year-olds on the club. He is ready to take over at either outfield or infield spots and has shown up well when he has been given the nod by the manager.

Matching this team against any of the other clubs in the league shows that they have been able to do more than hold their own. This outfit is starting to move fast now and they are going to try to prove the story that the Wolves are a well balanced pack from here on in.

THE PONIES

Sponsored by R. D. Whittemore, Real Estate

"I am really proud of the Ponies," was Manager Larry Orsillo's praise of his club. "These boys have been trying their best in every game and you can't ask for more than that from any team." Coach Tom Kennedy agrees with Larry. "The whole team has shown great improvement as the season went along and they are going to be tough to handle for the rest of this season."

The Ponies have a fast and well meshed infield with Tom Quail at first, Dan Martignetti at second, George Barrata at third and Tim Dalton at short. Any team with a quartet like this one is bound to be bad medicine to the opposing outfits.

Dan Martignetti is the clean-up man for this club and is one of the heavy hitters in the lineup. George Barrata is another slugger that can be counted upon for the home run and is also a great man with the glove. Tom Dalton pounces on those sharp grounders like a leopard going after his dinner. Tom's big glove has cut down many a runner in the past games and he will turn a lot more hits into outs with his rifle arm. Tom Quail is a double-duty man and can turn in a real pitching performance for the Ponies. Any team would be proud to have a player of Tom's proven ability.

When Tom Quail is pitching, first base is guarded by John DeVries. John is a welcome member of the Ponies for he is the other big gun on the pitching staff. Both John and Tom have divided their chores this season and have been doing a wonderful job at either post. DeVries is one of the club's better hitters as well.

Carl Fisher has been doing all of the catching so far and the Ponies are well fixed in that position. Carl is a smart backstop and a very necessary part of the Ponies' organization. One of the better fielding catchers in the league, Carl is working hard to improve his hitting and is beginning to get results now.

Noonan School: "That Was The Year That Was"

Even before Paul Del Rossi signed with the Yankees, the Noonan School sixth grade had written him into their own hall of fame as the hero of a scene in an original musical play "That Was The Year That Was."

The play, one of the most meaningful assemblies of the school year, was written and produced by the students in Dr. Marie Fagerland's class and was presented last Wednesday afternoon.

"Take Me Out to the Harvard Game" (Paul, a Noonan alumnus, had visited the school the week prior to the production and to his own Harvard graduation) put Paul up there in pretty high company, for the students, who have sustained a strong current events program in class this year, wrote their show around world and national affairs, demonstrating their understanding of both by interpreting them on the stage in direct (and often ad libbed) scenes.

Jean Cabral wrote the melody and Jean and Kristina Allison the lyrics to the six-stanza theme song which dealt with such things as Africa, Goldwater, China, Del Rossi, poverty and Miss Jurgenson's retirement, among others.

The first scene involved four foremen and a fire chief but dealt with incendiary world events rather than local conflagrations. The participants (played by John Gillette, James Mardulic, David Boyer and Rodney MacCormack) discussed the "fires" on their minds—wars in the Congo, Algeria, Morocco and Zanzibar. Next came a World's Fair visit with the values thereof coming through in a family dialogue played by Ronald Alford, Jo-Ann Roketenetz, Debra Dee, Linda Albritton and David Poole.

Arthur Fisher has done the overall introduction, but announced for the scene on Harvard's playing fields was Helen Baghdoyan, and Paul Stevens played the other Paul to the special lyrics including "We want to see Del Rossi pitch; They tell us you'd think that his ball is bewitched!" Following this announcement Jean Cabral took the audience to the Guantanamo Naval Base where David Wasmak, Robert Fiorenza, Kevin McKenzie and Ronald Fiorilli discussed the history of events when Castro shut off the water supply.

From here they went to De Gaulle's office where he (Paul Stevens again), Mao Tse Tung (Anthony Ganchi) and a reporter (Linda Pink) presented their story with Paulette Hayford announcing. Then to the Kremlin to hear Nikita Khrushchev (Cherry Paquette) and a Chinese ambassador (Richard Cantillon) confer on their problem with a servant (James Mardulic) taking part.

Returning to the United States the plight of the coal miner in Pennsylvania was dramatized with Paulette Hayford announcing and Robert Olivadoti playing the poor miner. And to conclude, a civil rights presentation set in Boston with Marilynne Swenson playing the announcer, Martha Thompson the Channel 2 interviewer, and Kristina Allison, Dianne Luongo, Lois Melaragni, Jane Spencer, Marilyn Shapleigh, Harry Kahnhauser and Rodney MacCormack playing demonstrators. The final presentation address was made by Audrey Elliott.

The information understood and conveyed and the real involvement of the students in their presentations was impressive. So, too, was the work of the two young women who worked together on the original background music and words. A good sample of their work is the song they did about Johnson's poverty program, one of many stanzas created for the play.

Poverty Song
I'm going to lose my job now,
Computers have that old know-how.
Our crop's gone bad,
and our wells are gone dry,
And my children's clothes are so worn I could cry.
Our food ration cards
are about used up,
All our canned milk's gone,
'cept a half-a cup.
Our grown-up sons loaf
day and night;
They can get no work,
so they've lost their fight.
Oh goosh, oh gee, L.B.J., please see
If there's some way out Of our misery.

Lynch Top Students, And Citizens

At a closing assembly held at the Lynch School on the morning of the last day of school awards were given to students for high scholastic achievement, citizenship, non-academic achievement, improvement, perfect attendance and physical fitness.

At the assembly Gardner W. Handy, principal, bid a farewell to the ninth grade students exhorting them to keep a positive outlook regarding their capabilities and future studies and telling them not to be discouraged by the high degree of competition in the academic world of today.

All awards excepting the athletic awards are listed below, the latter appearing elsewhere in the Star.

Governor Peabody Praises Local Law Agencies

Governor Endicott Peabody has announced that the National Safety Council has awarded Outstanding Achievement Certificates for Traffic Engineering and School Traffic Safety Education to Massachusetts.

The awards were based on a traffic inventory taken in the State last year.

"I am very pleased that the Commonwealth has been presented these awards," said the Governor. "They are indicative of the great progress that has been made in traffic safety throughout Massachusetts."

"Much of the credit for these awards should go to our local and state law enforcement agencies. I am proud of them and the people of the Commonwealth share my pride."

Gardenesque

By James Batten

Plant Diseases

Irish leaf spot is a most damaging disease prevalent after periods of heavy rain. It is first identified by small brown spots on the leaves.
These marks later turn reddish-brown and become covered with a fuzzy grey mold.

This fungus disease propagates itself by spores which live over the winter on old leaves, so it is most important to remove any infected leaves as soon as the identifying spots are noticed. Any general-use fungicide will control the disease.

Mildew is a very common disease often neglected by the home gardener. The mildew disease is identified by grey, purple, most often white marks of the leaves. Most commonly found on lilacs, it affects all plants.

As with other diseases, mildew is a fungus caused disease favored by damp weather and poor air circulation.

A general-use fungicide will control mildew; applying a lime-sulphur spray to roses while they are dormant in the spring is a good preventative for this particular plant.

Tomato mosaic is a common disease found on most types of vegetable and tobacco plants. It is identified by mottled foliage and is a virus disease.

The virus is in many types of tobacco leaves; it is in turn in many cigarettes. The virus is transferred to the hands of a smoker and then to the plants.

The virus is highly infectious and diseased plants should be removed and destroyed in any way except by burning. There is no cure for this virus disease.

Azalea petal blight is a fungus disease which affects the flowers of azalea plants. Blooms can have white spots for any length of time up until a period of rain. The spots will then suddenly enlarge and almost the whole flower will turn white.

Shortly after the flower will turn into a slimy glob and a grey mold will form. These infected flowers will hang on the plant for the entire summer if not removed.
The fungus lives over the winter on rubbish which may be near the plant.

Removing and burning infected flowers is the only sure cure.
Spraying may prove effective, but only if started early in the spring.
Dithane Z-78 is one of the few fungicides which has any effect.

Hollyhock rust is a fungus disease which attacks severely or not at all. Infected plants have leaves which appear dry and are covered with red-brown or yellow spots.

The fungus lives over the winter on old leaves, so cleaning up all rubbish is a good idea. Infected plants must be sprayed every other day with a fungicide until the disease has been arrested.

Apply scrub is a fungus disease which effects the leaves of apple and crab-apple trees. Infected foliage have smoky-grey spots on them; these areas may thicken and become hard.

The fungus winters on fallen leaves; it is necessary to use a fungicide which will leave a protective film on the tree.

Witch's broom is a very strange fungus disease; the spores cause a tree to produce a great mass of twigs in a cluster—giving the appearance of the end of a witch's broom. The disease is found on fruit and nut trees.

The spores are carried by grafting tools or aphids. The twig clusters should be removed; fungicides are effective only in the early spring or late fall.

Can you entertain your friends during the summer months and still enjoy carefree summer living?
You can, if your best friend this summer is a new frost-free refrigerator-freezer. No more de-frustrating—ever! Be out in the backyard with your company instead of in your kitchen, chopping away at ice, or mopping up those puddles on the floor.

And meal planning all year round will be simpler, too. Mother can cook an entire dinner the day before and freeze it. You'll discover a combined saving of time and money with a new no-frost refrigerator-freezer. The latest models are roomier, but less bulky.
Food stays fresher, longer—which means fewer trips to the supermarket. And those leftovers will keep fresh and tasty longer, too.

Edison Shops in the Boston area now have special displays of new frost-free refrigerator freezers.
Stop in at the shop nearest you to see the new models. Some have separate freezer and refrigerator sections. Some have changeable front panels that can be matched to your kitchen decor. Others have automatic ice cube makers, or freezer units that roll out for easy access. But all the models will give you many, many years of trouble-free service. Invite a frost-free refrigerator - freezer to stay in your kitchen this summer—and you'll never want this "best" friend to leave.

The Pirates
Are Coming (In December)

A presentation of "The Pirates of Penzance" will be given in Winchester in early December if the enthusiasm generated at a recent meeting is indicative of the town's response to the formation of a Gilbert and Sullivan group.

About 25 people met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. Milne Blanchard on Tuesday evening, June 16, and voted the following officers:
chairman, F. Milne Blanchard; co-chairman, Betty Foskett (Mrs.
Roger D.); Secretary, Enid Houl-ding (Mrs. Norman); treasurer, George Hebb.

Committee chairmen are to be:
music, Frances Cabot (Mrs. Philip); sponsors, Dr. Leslie Curtis; publicity, Leila-Jane Roberts (Mrs.
Russell D.); membership, Bertha Blanchard (Mrs. F. Milne); production, Jack Cornwall; tickets,
Mr. and Mrs. C. Dennis Smith.

Rehearsals will begin in the fall.
All those interested in joining the group either as singers, backstage workers, or sponsors, are urged to call Dr. Blanchard at 729-2413, or Mrs. Houlding at 729-6413, or any of the officers listed above.

Story Hours
At the Library

At 10 o'clock each morning, Monday to Friday, in July and August, stories will be read in the Boys' and Girls' Room of the Winchester Public Library.

School children are welcome and

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"We're planning a long vacation," Mrs. Smyder said on the phone. "My husband asked me to find out if our auto insurance meets the requirements of all states we plan to visit. We may swing up into Canada too."

"Your call is certainly a wise precaution," I replied. "The financial responsibility laws vary considerably from state to state.
Fortunately in your case, you carry ample auto insurance to meet all requirements. But, if you're going to Canada, you should stop by for a special pink card certifying that you do have adequate protection. Otherwise, a motorist involved in an accident risks having his car impounded."

"Thanks," Mrs. Smyder said.
"I'll stop by tomorrow."

In the United States, financial responsibility law liability limits range all the way from a low of $5,000/$10,000/$1,000 on autos, to a high of $15,000/$30,000/
$5,000 in Virginia and a $20,000/$20,000/$1,000 requirement in Connecticut.

Five Canadian provinces are tougher than our own states. In Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec a minimum single limit of $35,- 000 coverage for bodily injury and property damage is required.

We invite any of our auto insurance clients to check with us before leaving on motor trips out of state. And, if you're not a client, we can remedy that too!

Six from McCall Honored for Full Year High Honors

At the concluding awards assembly of the year Joseph Forte, principal and Alfred Meurling, assistant principal, announced the scholastic champions of the school for the 1963-64 year.

These students had earned a high honor standing in all four of the marking periods. The girls received gold keys and chains and the boys the same keys on tie clips as well as a heavy and sustained round of applause from their classmates.

In addition McCall, which holds an assembly after each marking period, announced their fourth quarter honor roll and awarded letters in baseball and track.

The assembly was on the last morning of school, Thursday, June 18, and on the prior evening the school held an evening goodie dance for the ninth grade students which was a well attended and happy affair. 216 from McCall go on to the high school next year.

Below are the honors lists for McCall:

Study Aids—English, American History, Arithmetic, Social Studies, Latin, French, Algebra, English and German. Prepared class notes. Elementary, Junior High and High School. At the Winchester Star.

Attended Wheaton Alumni Reunion

Dr. Victoria Maxwell Cass of 4 Myopia Hill, and Mrs. Carol M. Nickerson of 22 Grove Street, recently attended Wheaton College's annual alumnae reunion weekend. Some 300 alumnae from throughout the country attended the affair. Events included class meetings, faculty-conducted classes on "Election 1964: The Issues," and the annual meeting of the Wheaton College Alumnae Association. This year marks Wheaton's fiftieth year as a liberal arts college for women. One of two Wheaton graduates to receive the college's first A. B. degree in 1914 attended the weekend. Alumnae from Norway and Hawaii came the greatest distance to meet with former classmates and friends.

Steak Cookout At Elks Home This Saturday

This Saturday, June 27, there will be a steak cookout at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue.

Nick DiZio is chairman of the committee for the cookout, with Romeo Lucontoni the chef. Anyone who attended last September's steak cookout knows what a treat is in store for those attending. Romeo did a superb job as chef of that affair, and a grand time was had. The dinner will be served outdoors from seven to nine. Afterwards there will be dancing to 12. Those who do not already have their tickets are out of luck, for they went in a hurry.

The weekly Friday night lobster was once again run by Nick DiZio, who has a fine knack of handling successful affairs. The monster-sized lobster was won by Jack Hogan.

Lobster nights are every Friday. In addition to lobsters, steamed, quahogs, cherrystones and corn on the cob are available.

Come down tomorrow night and give yourself a treat.

Image Makers To Improve N. E. Image?

A Chamber of Commerce official today proposed a New England committee of "Image Makers" be formed to counteract what he called the poor picture of this area being created by the New England pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

"New England is being pictured as dull, lifeless and lacking in fun to the millions of visitors to the World's Fair. A group of image makers, composed of promotional people, is badly needed to show Americans that they can enjoy themselves in New England," said Angus MacDonald, vice president of the Berkshire Hills Conference during an address before the group recently.

"The Image Makers must show the country that it isn't necessary to bring a history book along when visiting New England. We have more to offer vacationers than any other area in America and a way must be found to tell people about it, despite our poor Pavilion," added MacDonald, who is also operator of Jug End resort.

'The Thankful Elf' At Washington

The last assembly of the year which brought all classes together with parents and friends at the Washington School was a presentation of "The Thankful Elf," a delightful play by the third grade class of teacher Barbara Brown.

Its theme came through in the words of the elf, "a thankful heart is bright with cheer, it laughs small cares away. Show thankfulness in word and deed and kindness every day." And highlights of the play were two dances, one a "royalty" dance, very gracefully performed by Susan Hunt, who played the thankful elf and danced to excerpts of Handel's "Water Music" and second a dance in which 15 elves performed a carefree joyous dance to a section of Stravinsky's "Petroushka." Both were choreographed by Miss Brown. In addition to the pure fun of rehearsing for and performing the play, the children appeared to derive real satisfaction in the chance to express themselves through pure movement.

Playing parts in the play were: Susan Hunt, the elf; Paul Troisak, King; Marilyn Church, Queen; Nancy Norton, Princess; Robert McGrath, Chancellor; Michael Farley, Doctor; Mindy Duskan, cook; John Scanlon, tutor; Anthony Galuffo, messenger; Anthony Ciampa and John Fitzgerald, heralds; Mauria Valls, announcer and Lucine Der Gasopian, Elinor Carroll, Judy McDonagh; Nancy Deroo, Lauren Hunt, Paula Giacalone, Jayne Haggerty, Sally Grant, Bobby Ferro, Deborah Loftus, Charlotte Diapella, Corinne Webber and Anthony Ciampa, elves.
